the summer here and the lawn and flowers to be watered.

Sprays should not be left in one spot all day and the water runsing all night, the water runsdown the streets and forms pools which is a breeding place for mosquitoes and is also harmful to the streets. If a tenant works all day it is suggested that they sprinkle on the hours they are home.

CRC Approves Layout of Prices And Lot Lines -- Provide for Expansion

The official plan for Henderson's business center is herewith presented by the NEWS, from information and maps supplied by the Colorado River Commission through its plant manager Julian

In addition to the plan for the future, the layout also shows how much the empty lots will be val-ued at if and when purchases are made by new business firms.

The commission approved both the prices and the zoning suggested and the townsite is now assured of there being both beauty and convenience as the city grows and the business hub of the city revolves around the central area.

You will notice on the attached map that the sections are num bered. Following these, we can herewith present the planning zones suggested: Section four will shops, garages, having frontage on Navy street; section six is be-ing kept for churches and civic administrative buildings; section seven for parking and section eight for small business. Sections one, two and three will be for commercial buildings.

As for the price set for lot values, this is the scale approved by the CRC:

There are eight lots, 57 by 72 in size, in section one. The four corner lots will sell at $2,875 each and the four mid-block lots will sell at $2,300.

In section two, there are four corner lots, all 64 by 72, and the land will sell for $3,225 for each ot, the highest prices of all the lots herein priced.

In section three, the largest section, there are 16 lots, four on corners and 12 between. They will measure 35 by 72. The corbe made available for commercial ner lots will sell at $2,205 each

Water Works Sale Runs Into Snag; Suggest Interim Proposal Be Okayed In Order To Get Vegas Plan Under Way

BY JIM McKAY

The sale of the Henderson water facilities has apparently run into a snag, as far as their aquisition by the Las Vegas Valley Water Districts for th esum of $1.00 is concerned, as evidenced by the interim proposal which they now have made to take 10,000,000 gallons of water per day under a for ty year contract.

Information as to their progress in negotiating this arrange-ment has been dispatched to all of the interested agencies, such as the Colorado River Commission, the City of Las Vegas, the Coun-ty Commissioners and the Gen-eral Services Administration.

Thomas A. Campbell has re-ported that he has received word from Alan Bible, Deputy Attor-ney General in charge of Colorado River Commission affairs, that approval of the interim contract will be forthcoming within the next week.

Campbell informed the press that, in order to facilitate the rapid handling of this project and to secure immediae approval of the Federal Government, he had informed all of the affected parties including the city and county commissioners, CRC, GSA, and Senator Pat McCarran.

Campbell pointed out that the Las Vegas Valley Water District had received repeated assurances from Senator McCarran that the Senator would take immediate steps in Washington upon arrival of the proposal to secure General Services Administration approv-

the gravel claims located in the Henderson area has again intro-duced itself onto the local scene, Art Klinger and his associates have filed an appeal on the ruling handed down by the land management bureau of the Department of Interior which held that the said claims were inva-

The claims in question lie in the southeastern area of the town extending from the region adjacent to the water treatment plant north to Atlantic Avenue and easterly into the housing area of Victory Village. The area in Hen-derson encompasses the land oc-cupied by some forty homes. The estion of ownership of this question of ownership of this land must be determined before the Colorado River Commission can dispose of these properties and give a clear title to them. Dr. Frank Wheelwright, who

IT'S A DOG'S LIFE

By Marwood Doud

There are problems to work out housing, feeding, confinement and general care, but first, what kind of a dog? Then he must have roo mto roam, someone to take him hunting, training, and above all, Love and kindness together with discipline.

For new how about a pet for gether with discipline.

For now, how about a pet for the family and a living lesson in psychology for the children? Perry B. Rice, executive secretary for the American Kennel Club said, "a child is not ready for his own pet until he is 7 or 8 years old." This statement is as flexible as you care to make it but seri-ously, the child should be taught the principles of humanity and ess, care and treatment so that whatever the animal has to offer in the way of psycological education for the child his mind will not be distorted by the urge to torture and abuse.

In the selection of a dog, the child's desires should be considered and any diviation from his choice should be carefully ex-plained and "sold." (There are pianed and "soid." (There are many good dog publications avail able which point up the character istics of the popular breeds.) As soon as type and breed are determined, preparations should be made for housing and fencing. There is no better dog insurance than a good fence. This point has been sharply illustrated many times in Boulder City,—I hope you'll forgive me while I cite recent case involving a dog that had won its way into the hearts of its owners, its neighbors and certainly the heart and admiration of yours truly: Puppy worth (conservatively) $35. Distemper shots and treatment (minimum) $10, Sex operation, $15, food col-lar, leash and miscellaneous supplies (at least) $15. and for burial after being hit by a car, $5. That's a total of $80 which doesn't cover grief and related damages which ordinarily constitute a major por tion of a civil suit in like cases. The fence will protect your pet and preserve the friendship of
