

SECESSION PETITIONS BEING SIGNED IN PITTMAN

By BILL GILLIS

Addition of a reporter to the Henderson Home News and Boulder City News editor's staff has been announced by Editor Bill Gillis.

Gillis immediately issued a statement that the staff expansion has been completed and no more additions are anticipated.

The new member of the editor's staff officially arrived on the scene somewhere between 8 and 9 o'clock Friday morning, Nov. 11. The editor isn't exactly certain of the precise minute, being somewhat excitedly preoccupied waiting the arrival.

For the present, the new reporter will work the night shift but undoubtedly will require considerable assistance from both the editor and his wife, Nancy, at least from the first few months.

The newest Boulder City News and Henderson Home News reporter joins Grant (5) and Brent (3) Gillis who undoubtedly will both offer timely tips periodically.

To introduce our newest reporter, here are the vital statistics:

Name: Sheila Virginia; hair: some; weight: 6 pounds, 6 ounces; disposition: unknown at this writing; healthy: yes!

Mrs. Gillis still is confined to the Rose de Lima Hospital in Henderson but was expected to return home at 732 8th St. in Boulder City, this weekend.

The father will recover.

Theater Group
Meets at 7 p.m.

The Little Theater Group will hold a general meeting at St. Timothy's Episcopal Church tonight at 7 o'clock.

At this time members will be assigned to help with properties, sets, sound effects, costuming, and make up.

The first play, "You Can't Take it With You," which is now in rehearsal, is reported to be progressing well.

The group reports wonderful cooperation from many sources and with rehearsals being held three times weekly promise a good performance when the curtain goes up for their first production sometime early in January.

MEETING CHANGE

The Pittman Women's Club will meet on Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the home of Orrel Lindsey. The date of the meeting was changed because of the Boulder Highway Association meeting on Tuesday.

HIGHWAY GROUP
MEETS TONIGHT
AT ALIBI CLUB

The newly formed Boulder Highway Association will meet tonight at the Alibi Club in Pittman at 7:30 p.m.

The association was inaugurated at a meeting held Friday evening at the Swanky Club with approximately 60 property owners present. N. R. Higgins, elected temporary president of a Pittman group the previous Sunday, conducted the meeting.

An eleven member board of directors was elected to head the new organization, with representatives from all parts of the Highway. Bob Ferguson and Leonard Atkinson were elected Boulder City representatives; Dr. J. H. Coogan and V. L. Peterson, Henderson; N. R. Higgins and Walter Bell, Pittman; Helen Herr and Harry Gunn, Whitney; Lee Glen and Matt Matonovich, Las Vegas; and Henry Bridgeman, representative at large.

Lee Glen and Helen Herr were appointed to start immediately a listing of every property owner on the Highway in order that all may be contacted and invited to join in the protest.

Nov. 17 Is Date
For PTA Meeting

The November meeting of the high school PTA will be held in the high school multipurpose room at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 17.

Frank Plasha, Elementary PTA President, will report briefly on the State White House Conference held recently in Tonopah.

A round table discussion will follow with "Student Safety" as the main topic. The discussion will include student and traffic safety problems which arise from lack of sidewalks, limited ingress roads, and student's cars, scooters, and bicycles.

ANNOUNCE WINNERS

The Women's Auxiliary of the AIME this week announced the winners in their recent turkey contest. L. J. Edwards, 322 Nebraska and W. A. LeFevre, 11 Arkansas held the lucky tickets.

Members of the auxiliary expressed their thanks to all who purchased tickets. Funds raised will be used to aid the Clark County Juvenile Home.

Currently being circulated in Henderson and Pittman are petitions calling for the secession of Pittman from the City of Henderson.

This is not the first secession attempt involving Pittman leaseholders and landowners, but according to Walter Bell and N. R. Higgins, possibly as high as 90 per cent of the Pittman residents and property owners will have signed the petitions when they are presented to the City Council Nov. 21.

Bell said at that time, the council will then set a date for a public hearing and will then approve or disapprove the secession.

Higgins, motel owner, and Bell, owner of the Jackpot Club in Pittman, are president and vice president respectively of the recently formed Pittman Progressive Association.

They reported the petitions will be circulated at an association meeting this evening scheduled to be held at about 9 p.m. at the Alibi Club. The meeting will be preceded by a Boulder Highway Association meeting starting at 7:30 and most Pittman residents probably will attend both.

Whether Bell or Higgins were speaking only as individuals or for the Pittman Progressive Association wasn't quite clear but they said if the city council does not approve the secession they will go to court and argue that Pittman was illegally annexed to Henderson in the first place. Further, they said they will circulate petitions to request a grand jury investigation of the city administration if secession is denied.

"But if the council will release us gracefully from Henderson, we'll forget everything," Bell and Higgins said.

An unnamed individual who has attended the reorganization meetings of the Pittman Progressive Association said the Pittman secession question hasn't even been discussed yet by the group and Bell and Higgins were only speaking as individuals and not the organization.

The secession question undoubtedly will be discussed this evening.

According to Mayor James French, if the majority of Pittman residents want to secede from Henderson, the council will probably go along with the request.

"If they secede, Henderson will save about a quarter of million dollars," the mayor said. He reported that sum would eventually be spent for new sewers and water pipe lines in Pittman but if secession is approved, the project would be abandoned.

Mayor French, a property owner in Pittman himself, said the secession movement was the most ridiculous thing he's ever heard of.

The mayor isn't alone in his line of reasoning. Frank Price, one of the biggest if not biggest landowners in the Pittman area said he didn't intend to sign the secession petition at this time. That's somewhat significant since Price once spearheaded a similar movement, but didn't follow through.

Price quickly added that it was not his intention to throw a "monkey wrench in the secession movement but that he wanted to study all angles more thoroughly before he committed himself." Also aligning himself with the mayor and Price is Bob Pfluger, owner of the Swanky, who said he didn't intend to sign the petition either.

In detailing future plans if the secession is granted, Bell and Higgins said there's a possibility that Pittman and Whitney would incorporate and the two towns called "East Las Vegas." He said the plan had been discussed with Whitney residents, whom he didn't identify.

While Mayor French said that Pittman's secession would save the city money, Bell and Higgins charge that Henderson "is not interested in Pittman and some conditions are worse now than before annexation about 30 months ago." And they add that the city's treasury is enriched considerably by business license fees and revenue collected from the establishments in Pittman.

Bell also reported that he has been instructed to appear at the next council meeting to show cause why his license at the Jackpot should not be revoked.

He branded the show cause action as "politically inspired" and said a registered letter with the order was delivered to him the following day after the Pittman Progressive Association was formed.

Morry's Story

By MORRY ZENOFF

Things are looking up in the business section of the city. Last week the Retail Merchants Association met at the Swanky and had Bob Woodruff, the new chamber of commerce head, give his program for the year.

Bob explained how Doc Coleman, as vice president of the chamber, would head up the chamber's retail merchants committee and would go all out to do a good job.

The Retail association passed a resolution urging its members to become members of the chamber.

The retail association also decided to continue as a separate entity, feeling it could raise funds among its members easier in this separate entity than having to burden the chamber with assessments, etc.

The retail association started working on plans for special value days for the local citizens and for the Xmas period and will meet this week again for further action.

Before adjourning, the group also sent a resolution to the city council urging the appointment of Jim Gunville to the planning board, which now has one vacancy.

And then on Saturday night the chamber held its annual installation banquet at Lake Mead lodge where the merchants gathered to have a gay time whilst saying so-long to its old president, Bus Smith, and saying hello to Bob Woodruff.

Clay Davis, operator of Vegas Wash concessions, spoke on how Henderson could prosper even more by associating itself (Turn to Back Page)

Land Feuding

By 1866 much of the better farming land in Nevada had been claimed by emigrants, miners, and others. So when the Steninger Brothers located two quarter sections of lush wild meadow hay on Misquito Creek one fine summer day, they thought themselves fortunate indeed! The land rolled gently from the Toquima Mountains down to the old stage road in Monitor Valley. The Steningers soon busied themselves putting up stakes and notices to mark the boundaries, and then they rode off to Austin to procure provisions.

They became uneasy in Austin, fearing others might jump their claim, so one brother rode back to the land while the other continued shopping. He was shocked and surprised to find the Andrews Brothers cutting wild hay on the land they had claimed. The Andrews had staked two quarter sections (all they were allowed) and then jumped part of the "Steninger claim" for a friend of theirs. Steninger demanded his land back and the Andrews merely laughed at him!

Bitterly the two Steninger Brothers took up poorer adjoining sagebrush land and worked on it. On January 5, 1867, six months later, they were busy erecting a fence on this poor land, near the Andrews meadow. George Andrews objected to the fence and when his brother arrived, the two knocked it down, and drove off the smaller Steningers. The latter however did not give up, but armed themselves with a pistol and shotgun and returned to the scene. At this George Andrews was afraid and tried to talk Thomas into avoiding a gun fight. Thomas Andrews insisted on going ahead with it so they loaded their guns and walked down to the wrecked fence. As they approached it, the firing started. The shooting increased and the shots came closer, until the "belligerent" Thomas Andrews turned pale and ran for it. As he turned two bullets entered his back and passed up into his head and out. He fell unconscious. George Andrews stood his ground, hastily emptying his gun at the Steningers, and then when it was only clicking, dropped to the ground as he was hit by a load of buckshot. One pellet struck under the eye, went under the brain, and lodged in the back of his head.

The Steningers later said they would have spared George but he persisted in firing at them. Amazingly, George recovered from his dreadful wound, but his brother Thomas died the day after the shooting and lies buried on the ranch. One of the Steninger boys received a flesh wound in the neck.

No arrests were made, the nearby communities regarding the affair as a "free fight" over private matters. In general a man could only farm the land he could hold, and could only fence that land he could defend. Land disputes were common under such lack of law and order, and the original titles to many a modern Nevada ranch were first "insured" years ago by gun smoke and hot lead.

with Lake Mead's rapid growth in reputation throughout the sports world. He felt that Henderson rated "ownership" of Lake Mead as much as Vegas and Boulder—thus a triple-city tieup would be most effective for all.

Businessmen at the meeting all reported that this community is responding well to shop-at-home efforts of the merchants and all expressed appreciation of the cooperation of the people.

Vegas chamber of commerce president, Howard Cannon, told of how it was very possible that some day Vegas would be annexed to Henderson if Henderson continued to grow into a city of industrial might.

Boulder chamber president, Elton Garrett, urged a continued spirit of cooperation and optimism among all southern Nevadans.

Housing Officials Attend Meeting

William M. Brown, Chairman and James Farndale, executive director of the Clark County Housing Authority, returned last week from the National Conference and Redevelopment Officials which they attended in Cleveland.

One of the features of the five day meeting was a visit to all of the housing projects of the City of Cleveland which included a 14 story building which houses aged families, most of whom are pensioners. This building covers half a city block.

Other projects viewed were shown in many varying stages of development. Some were in the stage of removing old slum buildings from sites where low rent dwellings are to be built; others were in the construction stage, but the majority were in operation as dwelling projects for low income families. Many miles of streets were travelled which were solid with old slum-like dwellings which seemed ready to fall apart.

Speakers who addressed the meetings included Government, state and local officials including the United States Housing Commissioner Cole and the Solicitor General of the United States. The major work of the meeting was split into conferences on management, urban renewal, slum clearance, maintenance, and juvenile problems. Experts were on hand to discuss each subject.

A large display of late materials and equipment for housing developments was also shown the 1,200 delegates from the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii, and Canada. A great many resolutions for progress in housing developments were adopted. The present provision in the Government housing program allows only 45,000 public housing units per year.

The two Clark county delegates also spent several days in Chicago.

dress before the group, said it may be a number of years before the contemplated widening and fencing of the freeway is actually started, but the effect on the highway property owners is already evident.

Property values, Mrs. Herr said, have fallen off all along the highway and in view of the 30 and 35 feet setbacks in both the county and City of Henderson, no realtor could, in good faith, even offer this property for sale for future business.

A. E. Cahlan, Las Vegas editor, also spoke and advised those in the county to send a committee to meet with the County Board of Commissioners to protest the setbacks. Property owners in Henderson were advised to contact the City Council to request that no such setback be established.

The group was also advised by Cahlan that in the event the county and City of Henderson pass ordinances requiring the setbacks, they could seek recourse in court and the Highway Department would be forced to acquire additional property along the present right-of-way by condemnation, in defiance of the people.

Following his talk, Cahlan was given a vote of thanks for his recent column "From Where I Sit" in which he pointed out how the eight lanes, proposed on Boulder Highway, could be installed with the addition of only ten feet of property on one side of the highway.

Retrieves Dog For Young Master

Poundmaster Don Stukas proved his prowess with the lariat when he was called on recently to rescue a cocker spaniel from a 20-foot mine shaft on Black Mountain.

The dog had fallen into the abandoned shaft while hiking with his 12-year old master Harry Brown and had been there all night when Stukas was called to the rescue by the boy.

Using a rope and flashlight, the poundmaster lassoed the dog and brought it safely to the surface where it was reunited with its master, cold and frightened, but not seriously injured.

New Store Building To Be Constructed

Paul B. Crum of 125 BMP Road plans to remove the dwelling at 10 Pacific St. within the next ten days to make room for the construction of a multiple store building similar to the LaPorta Building which will probably contain six units.

Several cottonwood trees and two large elms will also have to be removed from the property before the house moving equipment can start work. Anyone wishing to plant these trees in their yard can have them according to Crum. The trees will have to be removed from the property before Tuesday of next week.

Crum, who has been a resident here for the past four years and owns several other pieces of property in the city, plans to move the dwelling from 10 Pacific St. to a new location on Platinum Street near the city hall.

Desert gardening activities are in full swing this month. Use plants which will get good growth before frost.

Be sure to incorporate plenty of peat moss and well rotted manure in planting beds, also the plant hormones assure a good root system.

If your desert home is still rather new, consider fast growing foliage plants — oleander — pampas grass — and castor bean if it can be protected from frost. Plant snaps, stock, daisy, bulbs, etc.

Spray is a must. Scale and red spider cause serious damage and can kill a plant. The most effective spray is a combination oil and metathion.

Remember as a gardener you are an artist — as the artist of oils, etc. must prepare the medium he is using to create a picture, so must you prepare the soil to get top results in your planting.

Henderson and Boulder City are good places to live — there are some beautiful yards. It's a pleasure to drive through the streets and see what can be ac-

Arrives Overseas

Mrs. Armeta Morris has received word that her husband, T/Sgt. Thomas L. Morris, has arrived in England, where he is scheduled for 18 months of duty.

Before his overseas assignment, Morris was stationed at Oxnard, Calif., and his wife and son, Frank Leroy, lived in a house trailer, which the couple bought.

When her husband sailed for England, Mrs. Morris came to Henderson to spend the time he is away at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Dawson at 202 Nebraska Street.

Permission was obtained from the city to park the Morris trailer house in the back yard of the Dawson residence and when Sgt. Morris comes marching home he will find wife, family, and home awaiting him in Henderson.
