

REID— BETWEEN THE LINES

By ED REID

This afternoon I am going out to interview a Henderson water dowser — a chap who can find subterranean water with a willow wand or like equipment. I believe implicitly in dowsing, or water-witching as some people call it, ever since I went out into a field with a dowser named Weld Arnold who also happens to be a Harvard grad and a rocketry pioneer.

Weld and I went out into a field in back of Governor Russell's mansion and his willow wand — he used wire forks also — dipped obediently every time we walked over a buried water pipe. I found that I was not gifted with the talent; the wand refused to dip. Yet when Weld Arnold took hold of one end of it ever so lightly it dipped down as though someone had tied a lead sinker on it and I could not prevent it from so doing.

Once the bark of the wand peeled off in my grip as I tried to counteract whatever force was at work, to no avail. Weld roared with laughter at my startled expression. It is a vibrant, living power you feel in the wand, but only when it is handled by a dowser.

Mebbe Henderson could drill a few wells and become independent of the Colorado River and the people who own it. I am hoping that our local dowser is as good as Weld.

I know one dowser who could find metals with his wand, in this case a long aluminum wire which swayed back and forth in the direction of whatever he was looking for.

This man could find silver dollars hidden out on the desert by putting a dime in a hook on the end of his wand. I have seen him dowse uranium which in one case was under eight feet of sand. All of the stuff he found was low-grade but we had a splendid three months of prospecting during the uranium craze — remember.

This chap once took us on a chase over five miles of desert and then announced that his wand indicated the uranium was 150 feet under the base of a huge volcanic formation. We almost made him dig for it then and there.

Most dowsers are simple people with an implicit faith in their talent and they are capable of great good where they are accepted at face value. Weld Arnold's customers pay him $100 a day for his talents.

Another dowser I knew went to Bermuda and found underground bodies of water which

COUNCIL DENIES BID TO CLOSE OFF ATOMIC ST.

By ED REID

At a tedious session of the City Council last night during which city counsel Harry Claibourne read through a bound volume of an assessment bond ordinance, the most controversial issue to come before the city fathers in a long time was resolved when a petition to vacate Atomic St., was denied without prejudice by a unanimous vote.

The council members gave all interested parties a chance to be heard and many opinions were voiced. Petitioner Art Espinosa said he was willing to give the town $10,000 or a baseball field or something of equal value in return for access to the street, but Councilman Mainor said this was not considered enough. He served on a committee which studied all aspects of the proposition.

Mainor further explained that the deal as outlined in the petition could not be accomplished legally and he was bolstered in this opinion by Claibourne, who had advised the committee.

One resident called Atomic St., an "eyesore" and said "maybe somebody is giving the city something."

In the audience was Assemblyman George Von Tobel and C. D. Brown, an attorney, who, together represented the other owners of property on the street. Brown told this reporter that his clients had been assessed over $2,000 by the assessment district, and Von Tobel said his family had been assessed a similar sum for paving and curbing on Atomic St. Von Tobel pointed out that if what had been paid for was accomplished "no eyesore would exist." Mr. Brown said his clients would never go along with the proposal since "it was not in their best interests."

Other suggestions as to how to use Atomic St., included building a police station on the site or some other city office, and Espinosa pointed out that if the idea was to become controversial to the point that the situation hurt him or his associates "then we want no part of it."

Von Tobel said that he and his brothers own the south corner of Atomic and Water Sts., and "intend to build there for tenants."

Claibourne said that one-half of the street — which the Espinosa interests would have settled for — could not be vacated under the law without abandoning the rest of the street.

The vote of the council, Mainor explained carefully, did not close the door on Mr. Espinosa who indicated that he would try to work something out with

Morry's Story

By MORRY ZENOFF

Well — this time — it's for sure.

Bill Byrne is Mayor.

So — hats off again, good luck do a great job and the people will reward you — do a bad job and the people will shelve you — go to it — Bill — you're the boss and you've got an eager gang of new fellows anxious to do just as good a job — as councilmen.

Don't think that water district vs. Henderson's bid for a lower water rate deal is going to be as easy as some think.

One of the district men indicated no less than four days ago that he thinks the district is going to insist Henderson pays the same rate as the rest of the county.

I know Byrne, Phil Maddex and a few others in local high positions will not go for an equalized rate.

All hope it will be settled afore a fight — but twill be hard.

Graduation this week — boy, do you remember yours? What a thrill to receive that diploma . . . you and I and everyone with one, I bet, has it stuck away in a treasured trophy case. The first real achievement on life's path — high school diploma.

Graduates today have more to look forward to than we had — I would say in answer to those who feel we had it easier.

Today — they look into an atomic world where neutrons, electrons, chemicals will bring about a world of plenty, a world of peace, a world of ease in living. Luxury like we never dreamed of will be everybody's forte in the next 10 to 25 years.

Today's graduates will be tomorrow's operators and consumers of this grand new way of life.

The graduate need only look to his laurels — find the proper path for himself — and all will go so well with him and his — so we hope — and pray.

BURGLARIES

Nine burglaries, committed here during the past year, were cleared up this week when a group of ten juveniles confessed to the crimes. The boys who admitted the burglaries after being questioned by police range in age from 11 to 14 years. Hearings were held in Juvenile Court in Las Vegas yesterday.

Several of the boys involved were used as lookouts, without their knowledge of what was going on. According to their stories told to local officers, they were asked to wait outside various places while the rest of the party went in, presumably to visit an uncle of one of the boys, or on some other such excuse.

In some instances houses were entered, drawers ransacked, and nothing taken. In other instances, radios, knives, money and other items were stolen.

The burglaries occurred at 311 Water St., 327 Nebraska, 58 E. Texas, 23 New Mexico Way, 222 S. Texas, 63 E. Pacific, 218 S. Texas, 22 E. Texas and 70 Oklahoma.

Mail Problems

(Henderson Postmaster Harold S. Baldwin has requested the Home News to print the following communication from the Post Office Department as a service to the people of the city and in an effort to clear up misunderstanding of certain postal rates.)

Many users of the postal service are unaware that post cards containing messages fully or partly in handwriting or typewriting may be mailed at 2c each only if they are approximately the same weight and quality as Government postal cards and if they are not larger than 3-9/16 x 5-9/16 inches nor smaller than 2 3/4 x 4 inches in size. Cards not conforming to these requirements are not classified as post cards by the Post Office Department and are subject to the first-class letter postage rate of 3c per ounce.

Cards containing only printed messages not exceeding 9 inches in width or 12 inches in length, or not less than 2 3/4 inches in width or 4 inches in length, may be mailed at 2c each. At this rate you may make the following additions in handwriting or typewriting: the current date (date card is mailed), the names and addresses of the sender and addressee, and the signature of the sender. If other additions typewriting, the first-class letter rate of 3c per ounce will apply. Also, printed cards smaller or larger than specified above are subject to minimum postage of 3c each.

So send your message in whatever dimensions you prefer, but remember that if your tastes in sizes and shapes are not within the limits prescribed, your individualism will cost you extra postage.

If you have mailing problems call FR 2-4011. The right answers in the beginning will spare you expense and embarrassment in the end.

Mainor's committee in conjunction with the other interested parties.

Other action taken by the council included, besides an o.k. for the assessment bond sale authorization, was approval for a Henderson tie with the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers. Letters from Claibourne and Howard Cannon, Vegas city attorney, urging this action were read to the council. It was also decided to give the Planning Commission the job of exploring the possibility of giving the Girl Scouts property on which to construct new headquarters, the new center being too close to the business area of town.

Believing that a man can find water with a dowsing rod is like believing in flying saucers after you have seen one — this has to happen first. I know five people who have seen flying saucers. I never have so I am a disbeliever, though I can assure you that in my lifetime I have seen more startling things than flying saucers.
