THE WHEEL

FEATURING MODERN DESIGN — BEAUTIFUL DECO

THE MOST JACKPOTS — These slots will pay more jackpots than any place in Nevada, with payoffs ranging from $2.50 to $100. At the present time there are 32 machines on the line with 16 more to be added in the near future. The column on top of each machine will light up when a jackpot is hit, a buzzer inside the rig will take off and a number on the master board will light up. Don Yost, manager and co-owner, said that lights will be flashing all the time and buzzers going like crazy, because "our machines DO pay off more jackpots!"

MODERN WESTERN — These flagstone planters carry out the modern western theme of the Wheel. They divide the restaurant and cocktail lounge from the gaming room. Builders of the Wheel estimated they have an investment of $225,000, including stock and cash on hand, with more features to be added as the business grows.

FREE BINGO
Various Times
During Day and Night

DOUBLE JACKPOT TIME

CASHIER'S BOOTH — This is the hub of activity. The cage on the counter will be used in the free bingo games to be held several times daily. The functional design of the entire building is evident in this beautiful, but convenient booth. The austere glass is set off by the soft, rich, redwood panelling.

COCKTAIL LOUNGE AND BAR as seen over one from the main club. The chandeliers, of brushed the Wheel, as was all the other equipment.

FEATURED in the restaurant is this stainless steel U-shaped service island with built-in pie refrigerator, coffee makers, waffle irons, etc. It was so big that a flagstone planter had to be removed to permit its installation. At the lower right of the photo is the Chuck Wagon Lunch counter where patrons will be able to buy a complete selection of food and all they can eat for a nominal price.

DINING AREA — You will be able to seat anywhere from two to 12 people in booths. All seat coverings are of deep, rich maroon naugehyde with foam rubber padding. The walls and pillars are paneled in redwood.

of the flagstone planters that separate it antique copper, were specially designed for

CENTER OF ACTION — The two 21 tables and the craps table are finished in luxurious black foam rubber with seats to match. The carpet is a tough-woven, bright red with foam cushion.

A REAL BLAST! — That prolonged blast of the fire siren Friday afternoon wasn't a conflagration, it was these Boy Scouts, city officials for a day, taking a free ride in the fire engine. Dick Ruhmau, seated in the front seat, had a whale of a time winding up the siren as the truck made a short tour through town.

IT WAS A BIG DAY for Russell Parisenti, star scout, Troop 37, when he filled in for School Area Administrator, Lyal Burkholder, on Civic Day Friday.

Boy Scout Officials For A Day Call For Building Of City Hall

Boy Scout Mayor David Hickson, City Auditor Dean Schenback and City Administrator Louis Broadway, buckled down to work Friday afternoon and came up with a number of proclamations, aimed at improving "our fair City of Henderson."

Their proclamation:
"Beautification of the City: Grass shall be planted between Boulder Highway, starting from Pittman and continuing to the end of the southern city limits, the same as Major Avenue. All grass areas shall have benches, trees, shrubs and water fountains. Some of the larger soil areas shall be planted in grass.

"Recreational facilities:
"Enlargement of parks, also new ones planned. A new swimming pool shall be provided on the East side of Boulder Highway, at a new park. A new roller skating rink shall be built.

"Sanitation and Health:
"Stop the smell that is caused by the plant effluents. All streets and alleys shall be paved. All dirty areas and old buildings shall be cleaned or removed. The water tanks by the City Hall shall be removed.

"Building Improvements:
"A new City Hall, fire station, police station, theatre and Boys' Club shall be built, all of modern design and materials. There shall be underpasses for the Boulder Highway.

"The street behind the Park Village School shall be named "Scout Street" in honor of all Scouts.

"All the old cement slabs behind Carver Park shall be torn up and removed.

"All telephone, power and light poles constructed of wood shall be torn down and replaced with metal standards.

"There shall be sidewalks everywhere!

"There shall be new cars for City employees."

Tailor-Maids Elect New 4-H Officers

The regular meeting of the Tailor Maids 4-H club was held recently at Mrs. Bernard Phillips' at 128 Elm. New officers were elected. President, Renee Gilliland, 131 Cedar; Vice-president, Charlene Nelson, 121 Dogwood; Secretary, Harriet Barlimus, 128 Fir; Reporter, Virginia Breland, 139 Dogwood. Other regular members are Sharon Hurd, 112 Cholla; and Joanna Ream, 119 Constitution.

The Tailor Maids are learning to use the sewing machine in four new steps. Books are donated by the Home Agent, Mrs. Stanley, in Las Vegas. Each girl goes through the four easy steps on the machine. Then she will start on her first year projects which include a pin cushion, head scarf, apron and other simple projects.

Refreshments were served by Charlene and Virginia.

Virginia Breland, Reporter

The local Elks have invited everyone to attend a Valentine Dance Saturday evening in the lodge hall. Ernie Lomprey and the Twi-Lighters will furnish music for the Sweetheart Ball.

The lodge will be open at 7 dancing will begin around nine and continue onward. No advance ticket sale has been made and tickets will be available at the door for $1 donation. Proceeds will go to the Elks Foundation for their charities.

Department store and Safeways. The sale will feature a wide variety of breads, pastries, fancy rolls, Danish rolls, chili and potato salad, home made candy and popcorn balls.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Majorie Reese Of Brownie Troop 108, 'Wanted To Be A Leader'

When asked, "how did you get to be a Brownie leader?" Marjorie Reese, leader of Troop 108, replied, "I asked to be a leader. I guess I wanted my girl to have what I missed." She served as co-leader last year and took over the reins for the current year. Troop 108 meets Thursdays after school in Valley View school. The 19 girls are second year Brownies and co-leader is Wilma Beadle.

Marjorie's husband, Leonard, is a civilian employee at Nellis, and they have three children. Gary, 16 attends Basic High; Dennis, 11, and Doris, 8, are students at Valley View.

The family has been here for five years, coming from San Diego when Leonard was transferred. Marjorie said that the town had to "grow on me" but they love it now. She feels that the children are healthier, they have gained weight — and the schools are much better here.

She works at Victory Village school preparing food for lunch, and helps to serve it at the Junior High school.

Hobbies are listed as bowling (before she went to work), knitting, square dancing, and sewing for her daughter. On the subject of knitting, she loves to make sweaters, and is currently on a project of making one for each of her sisters for next Christmas.

New officers have recently been chosen for the troop. Taking the helm are Sharon Haley, president; Janice Carter, vice president; and Rebecca Mutoff, secretary-treasurer. Janalee Williams serves as scribe for the entire year. Outgoing officers were Sybil Washum, president; Doris Reese, vice-president; and Marilyn Martin, sec-treas.

Two girls are chosen from the troop membership to bring refreshments each week, and the girls take turns saying grace before they are served.

They love to sing songs, and particular favorites are "Six Little Ducks," "The Brownie Smile Song," and "Hello." They are currently practicing their dance for participation in the Juliette Low program in March. The country chosen for a native dance is America.

A recent project was the fashioning of oatmeal boxes into knitting boxes. They covered the circular box with wallpaper and used crocheted strings for handles.

Their investiture was held for the new members during the Christmas program, and the older girls received their one year pins.

Recently the girls participated in the Girl Scout Cookie sale, concluding with enough money in the treasury for a party or something special. Mrs. Reese had just received the new Brownie catalogues so the girls are each getting something special in the way of scout equipment costing $1.

OLD FRIENDS VISIT WINALLS

Old friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Winall, 310 Nebraska St., who visited with them briefly recently were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seibert of Dayton, Ohio. Seibert was football coach for their sons, Don and Harold when they attended school in West Virginia. The families have been close friends since 1933.

unable to attend due to illness. Next meeting will be a social in the hall on Feb. 27 at 8 p.m.

ISN'T THIS FUN?! is expressed on the faces of Intermediate Girl Scouts during their night of folk dancing recently at Gilbert Hall of the Community Church. Scouts from all of the local Intermediate troops met to work on their badges, get acquainted, and have fun. These girls are shown dancing to "Tip The Glass Over." More of this type evenings are planned. Bernice Roberts taught the dances with Lucille Kubie, Claudia Maguire, Martha McCabe, Virginia McGinty, Viola Humpheries, and Juanita Bair assisting. The Senior Scout behind the girls is Patty Maguire, who came along to assist with registration and instruction.

Candy Strippers Find Useful Jobs As Rose de Lima Hospital Aides

By SHARON DILKES

Those pert girls you've seen in the pink and white striped uniforms at Rose de Lima Hospital are members of the Girl's Auxiliary of Rose de Lima Hospital, but better known as "Candy Strippers."

The active teen age organization consists of girls from the age of 14 up. Their activities range from working in the gift bar; taking a gift cart around to the rooms; working in the lab; and some of the older girls are working in central supply (surgery). The girls wash tubes, and things of that nature, refill water jugs, help on the floor and in the kitchen. In short, they do simple things to free a nurse to do important things. The hours are convenient for them, primarily being on evenings or weekends. A girl is required to put in 20 hours each six months to remain active. In the event a girl is unable to fill her scheduled time, it is her responsibility to find a replacement. Four girls are listed to interchange.

Mrs. John Sturm works as chairman of the girls... she recently replaced Mrs. Madalyn Watson who held the position for several years. Mrs. Sturm and Mrs. Watson agree that working with the "Candy Strippers" is very rewarding, and that the girls are so interesting.

Approximately 40 girls are active at present, and they meet on the third Sunday of each month at 1 p.m. in the Aquinas Hall at the hospital. No dues are asked, but each girl brings a dime for a coke during the meeting.

Pins are awarded to the girls following 50 hours of work and caps after 100 hours. Girls who

HONEY HUG NEW HAIR STYLE

Wondering how to wear your hair in 1961? Listed as the latest trend is the honey hug! Isabelle Pearson and Inez Zantello, of the Nevada State Hair Fashion Committee, recently flew to Reno where they demonstrated the new style.

Isabelle described the honey hug as still short with the top off the face and back into a soft wave, close fitting at the nape of the neck and a soft cushioned top. The hair swirls around the ear in a comma.

received pins recently were Jeanette Cole, Marilyn Mendive, JoAnn Rayborn, Barbara Shearin, Mary Wheatley, Helen Carter, Frances Conger, Patty Higby, Karen Lindblom and Deanna Carter.

Teen-agers in need of something to do will find the association, a learning opportunity as well as a rewarding one.

Scouts Had A Ball Friday

Our boy was among those lucky Boy Scouts who held office last week for Civic Day. He had spent the few days prior to the big occasion in excited expectation . . . in spite of much teasing from the other children. He'd carefully shined his shoes, cleaned his nails, combed his hair (how can you comb a butch?) and made sure mom had his uniform in shape.

He left that morning for school still excited and happy. Mom and Dad were just about ready for work when the back door opened and in he walked . . . accompanied by the family mutt. Seems she had wandered from home and thought school would be a proper place to find someone to play with. The boy didn't agree with her—especially when it was HIS duty to be principal!

That afternoon, strictly in the line of duty, we watched the boys gather at the fire truck. The look on our boy's face when he saw us was terrific. He didn't say anything . . . just nodded his head and turned away. I could just hear him muttering to himself, though, "What's a guy's mother have to show up here for?"

Such a conglomeration of boys! Big ones, little ones, fat ones, skinny ones—they all had two things in common, they were all slicked up, and they were excited. Each boy had a large identification tag pinned to his shirt and things were underway.

A ride on the fire truck was first on the agenda and when those boys were turned loose, they piled on the trunk like a bunch of wild monkeys . . . muttering such complimentary comments as:

"Ya bum, I was there first!"
 "Move over, make room, you dunce."

"Who ya think you are anyway, stupid?"
 And "Yahooooo!"

Dick Ruhnau, who took the place of Fire Chief W. D. Richard, rode in the honor seat beside the chief, and received the grand honor of blowing the siren through town. As the truck, loaded with boys, drove through the streets with the siren blasting, doors opened and heads popped out inquiringly from every direction. (Sounded as tho all of downtown Henderson was aflame!) When they returned to the station, they rounded the corner going at a pretty good clip and most of those scouts were hanging on for all they were worth—but one older boy, sitting in the middle of the truck, was waving both arms in the air and yelling "Yippee!" As they backed into the garage, smiles prevailed with the exception of one boy hanging onto the back end of the truck—he looked just plain squeamish.

When the boys piled down from the truck, they were introduced to "their official" and were escorted to their stations

MEDITORIAL: Anxiety and tensions are an essential part of our life. Our emotions respond to every happening in a different way. When emergencies occur, tenseness can be helpful. As the adrenalin pours out into our system, the heart beats faster, muscles tighten up and we are ready for the occasion.

The ability to become tense is a means of protecting oneself from the hazards around us. Since there are many threats to our well-being, we will have to endure many tensions.

Tensing only when there is adequate reason and to control our emotions before they jump out of hand is not easy to do. In fact there are few of us who can control our emotions to this extent.

Most persons go through many emotional upsets in their lives and have the capacity to bounce back after each one. Several factors influence our ability to recover: past influences (usually childhood experiences), an extreme situation (several tragic deaths in the family, etc.) and extreme fatigue.

Since occasional bouts of anxiety and tension are normal they need not be cause for additional concern.

We asked our boy at lunch-time if he was still excited . . . "No," he said, "I'm just plain scared!"

LDS PANCAKE FEED TOMORROW NIGHT

The Primary organization of the LDS Third Ward has scheduled a Pancake and Scrambled egg feed for tomorrow evening from 5:30 until 7 in the new church building.

Mrs. Lawrence Murphy, president of the Primary group, said that you could have "all you can eat for a dollar."

A parcel post sale for their building fund and a talent show are also on tap for the evening.

THE WORLD OUTDOORS

WHEN the farm pond begins to thaw at the end of an extended freeze, their bellies upward, dead fish begin to pop to the surface. Death from freezing? Starvation? Neither. They were victims of a disaster that frequently occurs beneath the ice of shallow lakes during the "ice" season. It is known as "winterkill." The fish are drowned.

Oxygen, as everyone knows, is one of the two chemical components of water—H<sub>2</sub>O. But, as we also know, fish cannot survive out of water, breathing the same type of oxygen that we do . . . they utilize oxygen in gaseous form, or dissolved in water. This supply is normally obtained from the atmosphere and converted by the plants in the presence of sunlight. A deep lake will "store" a healthy supply of this dissolved oxygen, enough to accommodate its gill-breathing population through periods when the supply is curtailed for one reason or another. A shallow lake can build up only so much of this type of oxygen and when the surface becomes covered with ice, then with snow, production of the necessary oxygen comes to a halt. In a short time, fish deplete the supply of oxygen beneath the ice and snow—and drown.

Although no practical preventive technique has been found, fish and game authorities in areas susceptible to "winterkill" are constantly studying the problem. Snow removal is effective, but costly. Some states are experimenting with air compressors—pumping air beneath the ice to push the warm water at the lake bottom to the top, where it melts the ice allowing the water to absorb oxygen from the atmosphere.

Linda Froom, William Cormier Exchange Wedding Vows In LV

Miss Linda Lucila Froom, daughter of Mrs. Laura L. Smith 135 Cedar St., became the bride of Al c William A. Cormier of Nellis Air Force Base recently in St. Bridget's Catholic Church in Las Vegas. Cormier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Cormier, Jr. of Nashua, New Hampshire.

The Rev. John O'Connor officiated for the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by Ivan Nichols, a friend of the family. She wore a street length gown of powder blue lace with three quarter sleeves, a circular skirt and matching blue shoes. Her harmonizing face length veil was crowned with pearls. She carried white carnations with white roses.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. John (Charlotte) Urbec, wore a royal blue sheath with a matching headband and accessories. Her bouquet consisted of pink carnations and roses.

Best man was S Sgt. George

Curtis, also of Nellis Air Force Base.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Smith, chose blue lace with white accessories for her daughter's wedding.

The reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Nichols, 339 Nebraska in Henderson. Jean Hardy and Lucila Shay presided at the table for fifty guests. Patti Joyner attended the guest book. The white tiered cake was decorated with pink rosebuds and served with champagne punch.

The new Mrs. Cormier was graduated in Jan. of 1958 from Pelletier High School in Los Angeles. She is presently employed by the City of Las Vegas in the license division. The bridegroom was graduated in June of 1956 from Nashua High School in Nashua, New Hampshire. He enlisted in the Air Force the following January and re-enlisted last month.

The young couple is making their home at 212 N. 14th St., Apt B, Las Vegas.

Saddle Association To Honor Bums Club

Members of the Henderson Saddle Association will be honoring the Bums Club and their wives at a get-together Saturday evening in Vickie's Ranch House at 6. The Bums are being thanked for their help in getting the Sunday events off to a good start.

Seven new members were approved at the Sunday Board of Directors meeting.

A huge crowd was on hand for the events last week. Calf roping was won by John Mallory in the third go-round of roping with a time of 24 seconds. Bud Murphy placed second, participating in the second go-round with 26 seconds and came out with a larriat from Conrads Western Store. Burt Farnsworth placed third in the first go-round with 27 seconds.

Barrel racing was won by Marty Eaton who had a time of 19 seconds. Mona Maupin placed second with 20 seconds and Rita Sanderson came in third with 22 seconds.

Bill Sanderson with his wife Rita as a partner the first time out and Christy Killian the second time, tied himself to take both top spots.

Official timer was Cecil Sampson while Mark Cannon served as Judge.

A concession stand is now open for the convenience of spectators wishing a sandwich or

Anyone wishing to join the club is invited to come to the corral on Sunday; obtain an application form from secretary Edith Farnsworth; or by writing the Henderson Saddle Assoc., P. O. Box 82, Henderson, Nev.

Occupational Orientation

On January 30 something new came to Basic High School! A course in Self Appraisal and Careers, under the title of Occupational Orientation, was offered to members of the Junior and Senior Classes as an elective with 1/2 credit being granted.

Self Appraisal is the opening phrase of the Occupational Orientation course. Through the use of psychological tests and the student's own evaluation of his test scores a beginning in understanding how one fits into the world of work develops. In the testing area are tests of mental power, achievement tests, interest inventories, personality studies, and various aptitude evaluations. By analyzing the scores of his own tests, the student is able to see and understand his own strengths and weaknesses.

Following self appraisal and the student's understanding of his place in life, comes the investigation of Careers and what is required to be a success in the working world. Available on campus are various books, pamphlets and career studies.

Thru field trips, and personal investigation, everyday and up-to-the-minute information on industry is made available to the students. Experts in fields of endeavor pertinent to the course will visit and explain to the class requirements of definite careers and the rewards of the success in a chosen career.

To summarize, Occupational Orientation through self appraisal and career studies offers the students an opportunity to first study themselves, objectively and with the findings of this analysis proceed to investigate the world of work. Armed with a solid knowledge of their own potential, a successful study of careers and the working world is forthcoming.

I want to thank Mr. McLaughlin, instructor of this fine class, for briefing "Wolf Howl" on such an interesting class.

Born May 20, 1944, Anne Marie O'Hara spent her first 12 years in Boston, Massachusetts. She moved here in time to attend Basic during her Freshman year. The next year was spent in a girls' boarding school in Salt Lake City, Utah. She entered Gorman High the first semester of her Junior year, "but I missed Basic so much I had to come back."

Anne stands a slim 5' 2" with dark brown hair and eyes.

"Where The Boys Are" is her favorite song. Blue and red favorite colors, and pizza favorite food.

Ice and roller skating, dancing, and collecting records are a few of the ways Anne spends her leisure hours.

Boys, think before speaking around Anne as her pet peeve is "conceited boys!"

Student of The Week

Born December 4, 1943, Sharon Rose Vincent has lived all her 17 years here in Henderson. She is the daughter of Mrs. Mamie Vincent and resides at 34 E. Basic Road.

Sharon is 5' 3 3/4" tall and has light brown hair and brown eyes. She has no definite plans for her future as of now.

"If I Didn't Care" is her favorite song. Her favorite past-times are eating, dancing, and, of course, cheerleading. She's got an expensive appetite—steak is her favorite food!

Sharon says she's not going steady, but Kirby Trumbo is tops on her list of beaux!

Sharon says her pet peeve is simply "Liars"!

Best of luck, Sharon!

Addition Of New Cast Process Seen Big Stride Forward For Titanium Industry

The future of the titanium industry looks bright, much brighter than at any time since the "boom" in the early 1950's. E. V. (Gene) Francy, Director of Industrial Relations at TMCA's local plant, told the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon meeting in the Swanky Club last week.

He said that in the early 1950's there were 25 companies engaged in producing titanium; the "cinderella metal," and today only five firms remain in the field.

The development of a process for producing titanium castings to be announced in the next few weeks, a big step forward in widening the field of use of the metal, he said.

The talk contains much information bearing on the future of titanium, and so on the future of our city, so it is published here in its entirety.

For a long time back in the early and mid-50's nothing could go wrong with titanium. Forecasts were flooding the land saying that titanium would ship at least 200,000 tons by 1960. Wall Street had to turn to such commodities as foam rubber mattresses and vitamin pills to find products which matched titanium's rate of growth. This comparison is just one more irony in the strange history of titanium metal.

The titanium industry could have used both products by 1958—as most of us here only too painfully remember.

The picture is much brighter now—our Henderson Plant is operating at a relatively high production rate. The Department of Commerce predicts an increase of 10 percent in titanium shipments this year. Our markets are expanding, and we are soon going to put on the market a new product which will represent a tremendous stride forward for the titanium industry.

You know TMCA's been here for almost ten years to this date. What a ten years! A tremendous boom! A bust of the same proportion! Full employment! Almost no unemployment! Front page news for six months running! Then obituaries! Like Business Week's "The Bloom is off titanium's rose." Like Barron's "Government and Technology Don't Mix." We've had a war, three administrations, the advent of the space age, the creation of rock-n-roll, even a pennant for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Ten years is pretty darned long.

Since it's some sort of an anniversary, I'd like to avoid diving into an endless line of numbers. I think you know that titanium goes into jet engines, airplane fuselages, missiles, space probes and chemical process equipment. If not, we've been hollering down a barrel for the last decade. All are pretty serious applications; but there's a gold mine of curious information in back of titanium that might make me a little bit more an aid to digestion than a dreary recital of numbers.

For example, do you know that in 1939 titanium was part of Mussolini's excuse for staying out of a war that Hitler was doing his damndest to get started. Strutting, posing, and fighting people armed with bows and arrows all were meat for the Duce. But as Hitler streamrollered to Poland, the noises the British and French began making were a little too much for Benito. He told Hitler he would live up to his alliance—but needed help. His army was weak, his industry anemic, his supplies low.

The help needed was drawn up in a list of requirements that would have killed a bull—if a bull could read—seven million tons of petroleum, two million tons of steel, one million tons of timber, and 400 tons of titanium. That last was a sure bet to stop even a Hitler. Four hundred tons of titanium wouldn't be produced in a single year until the early 1950's. In fact, while Mussolini was looking for 400 tons of titanium, Doctor Kroll — titanium's inventor—had made his first sale of this strange metal.

Westinghouse decided it could use two pounds of the metal a year. That sale, incidentally, was the only commercial action that Dr. Kroll managed to excite on two trips from the Netherlands to the United States specifically for the purpose. What colossal selling expenses!

It was the operations of the Bureau of Mines plant in Boulder City that really showed that titanium could be made. Sponge was produced in batches which outweighed a man. Data on what the metal was worth, what it could do, and who would use it was more than sketchy. But the Bureau of Mines saw in this substance a metal with roughly the strength of steel—and a damned sight lighter. Other bits of information came to light—titanium was immune to corrosion, titanium was non-magnetic, titanium ore was the fourth most abundant metal in the earth's crust.

The nation was still on a science jag—largely as a result of the fantastic success of the Manhattan project. Titanium seemed like a worthy encore to that performance. And by 1948, titanium was hung with a name that was at once its greatest blessing and its blackest curse. The Saturday Evening Post called it the Cinderella of the elements. By 1958, our public relations people were struggling with such sick comments as "So it's half past twelve just be patient."

I dug out that Saturday Evening Post article—dated November 20, 1948. In some respects it was pretty clairvoyant. In others it was drunk with optimism. Here's what the titanium outlook was on that day 13 years ago: "When flame-spraying space ships someday smash through storms of meteors between the planets, their silvery hulls probably will be fabricated of a rustless metal as strong as the best steel, but only half as heavy. When, in the nearer future, atomic furnaces generate power for industry, they will be made according to best prediction of some alloy of the same metal. . . . The Cinderella metal seems a heaven-sent answer to the prayers of gold-braided admirals. . . . there is the prospect for titanium destroyers, and submarines, titanium fighters and bombers, titanium trans-oceanic passenger planes, titanium railroad trains."

Would this were all so. The atomic furnaces have fallen far behind the space ships. And even though these space ships aren't made of titanium, they do rely on titanium—I'm almost inclined to say heavily, but we have rules against that word.

The Mercury Capsule that took Ham for his joyride is indeed made of titanium. The Atlas booster that will propel the manned version of Mercury uses titanium in its auxiliary power units. All the commercial jet airplanes now in the air contain varying amounts of titanium. The B-70 bomber we've all heard so much about—the airplane designed to fly faster than 2,000 miles an hour will be about 15 percent by weight titanium. The X-15 is seventeen percent by weight titanium. The U-2 engines were titanium.

As far as submarines are concerned, the box score is, to date, a titanium snorkel or two, and a lot of development work. The faster the prices of titanium comes down, the quicker will be its entry into this application area. The Navy has always kept its weather eye peeled on titanium.

Even way back in the Cinderella days, the Navy was testing titanium for scads of uses. And the Navy metallurgists—faced with the problem of windy memos to superiors who never heard of titanium—devised a fast way of getting development programs okayed. They came up with an application — titanium floats for a seaplane. Almost every program the Navy started concerning titanium was earmarked for the titanium float. It sped paper work immensely. But, strangely, the float itself was never built.

Designers are a tough lot. Strictly "show-me" guys. The properties of titanium looked pretty good right from the start, but would there be enough of the stuff available should it be designed into an airplane engine or army weapon? To prove that there would be, the industry got busy beating the drums for titanium. Pretty soon the drums almost drowned out the melody. One industry forecast—made in 1956—showed that 200 thousand tons of titanium would be produced in 1960. An Air Force officer testified that year—requirements would be 800,000 tons before then. One company president (not TMCA's) climbed aboard the propaganda streamroller. He foresaw, he said, a titanium industry as big as the stainless steel industry.

The furor over titanium metal reached such proportions that by 1957, only seven years after the first titanium mill product was produced, the line-score read: "25 companies participating in titanium production, seven Government agencies administering the program, 69 aircraft firms using titanium and mapping new applications, two Senate investigations, and an analysis by the Attorney General's office." What a herd of companies! Their very number intrigued the hell out of Wall Street, and the analyses flowed like Niagara out of that particular neighborhood in New York. You could drop a net out of our Woolworth Building offices and haul in at least seven full-fledged titanium experts. Titanium was built into every jet engine, designed into every airframe, lauded by Army Ordnance as the only answer to lightening equipment that had to be airlifted. It got to a point where titanium was actually rationed.

With the cutbacks, stretch-outs and cancellations of manned aircraft programs, the industry literally had no market. Production shivered. Titanium—still a wobbly adolescent—would have to go it on price, would have to prove it gave more bang for the buck.

Development programs — as such — played a major role in keeping titanium alive in those days. You might even say these development programs (you might call them research) served almost like a pulmotor. Amazingly, in every instance, titanium was an unqualified technical success. It was a good metal, but—

Here's how we shape up now in this league. The composite price of titanium mill products is now under $7 per pound. In 1954, it was over $15. General Electric has published the fact that titanium is one of the least expensive metals going into high Mach number jet engines. An aircraft company reports that titanium honeycomb—thin gage metal covered with heavier gage sheets pretty much like an egg crate—costs the same as steel because titanium doesn't need as many furnace treatments. Aerojet-General reports that the difference in price between a steel and a titanium rocket motor casing is now down to 15 percent, with the titanium at least 30 percent lighter. Probably if one single factor had to be isolated as causing titanium's improvement in 1960 over 1959—a 56% improvement, by the way—it would have to be price. It seems strange to be saying this about titanium. But metals being called out in the tough applications are not the metals that go into kids' fire trucks.

No sooner do we get in the same ballpark with steel, though than we find other problems. Japanese imports are going to cause the industry plenty of problems—and we gotta get ready to meet them. For example, our sponge prices are $1.60 per pound. . . . Japan's $1.19. Filament wound glass is another competitor that no one was paying much attention to back in the mid '50's.

We have a process that we feel will produce at least a hundred parts per mold—this is a tremendous step forward. In fact, an editor from Chemical Week magazine was out here from New York just last Friday to gather information on the

FIELD TRIAL FOR RETRIEVERS

The Southern Arizona Retriever Club will hold its annual Field Trials tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at the Willow Valley Rod and Gun Club, 17 miles south of Bullhead City, Arizona. This location is ideal—being right on the Colorado River, just below Davis Dam. The entire 3-day event is open to the public. It offers Retriever fanciers and hunters an opportunity to witness some of the country's finest working dogs in action. It is a state-licensed trial, with approximately 125 dogs entered, including Black Labradors, Yellow Labradors, Chesapeake Bays and Golden Retrievers. The judges are nationally famous: Herbert Fleislaker of San Francisco, Lou Greenleaf of Greenwich Conn; assisted by Budgie Mack and Glenn Bump of San Francisco. The daily events are Friday, AMATEUR STAKE; Saturday, DERBY, and QUALIFIED STAKE and Sunday, OPEN STAKE for all ages.

process. Just last week, titanium made some financial history! For the first time, a titanium company announced a dividend—TMCA. We're working on an employee suggestion plan whereby suggestions that increase our operating efficiency, improve our products, or cut the costs of production will be rewarded with cash bonuses of up to $5,000. We have put into effect a program where we will help pay for college courses that TMCA employees enroll for. In ways such as these we hope to show our employees that they can help make titanium go again.

fashioned for you by Union Pacific

To most women, a trip by Domeliner is a wonderful break from the routine and the ordinary. A time to live a little. To see new and exciting scenes from picture window dome cars. To relax in lovely lounges. To leisurely enjoy delicious meals in Union Pacific's fine dining cars. To travel in the privacy of latest style Pullmans, or modern leg rest seat coaches, in all-weather comfort and serenity. And, of course, dear to the feminine heart is the chance to take plenty of clothes with Union Pacific's queen-size baggage allowance. Little wonder then that women do prefer going Domeliner!

NEVADA LAW
in the news

UPDATING OUR LAWS
In a high ceilinged room of the historic State Capitol at Carson City labors a man whose job it is to make sense of our state laws.

He is the director of the Statute Revision Commission, charged with the task of revising the thousands of acts adopted by the State Legislature since the Territory became a state a hundred years ago.

He is also the official Bill Drafter. Every bill introduced in the Legislature consists of his careful wording. Nor is this all. He is engaged in the years-long task of preparing a 10-volume Annotations to the Revised Statutes and Digest of Court Opinions—a sort of encyclopedia of Nevada Law.

For nearly a hundred years, Nevada's law had to be read backwards. Act was piled on act, often without regard to what had been voted on the same subject before. Such confusion has been true of most states.

ed the Statute Revision Commission, consisting of the three justices of the Supreme Court. The commission appointed as director Russell W. McDonald, a member of the State Bar of Nevada, who for years was a practicing attorney in Reno and served as special deputy to the Reno city attorney.

The job of editing and consolidating all the laws passed since 1861 required more than five years. Some of the 8,423 acts were over 400 pages long. At the same time, McDonald had to revise the revisions, as new laws were adopted by the Legislature. This is a continuing task with him, and the result to date is six fat volumes, with index.

In 1953, to bring even more sense to the legislative process, the director of the Statute Revision Commission was appointed bill drafter. Thus, each bill that a legislator wants to introduce is actually written by him. He does this with a knowledge of what legislation on that subject has been enacted before.

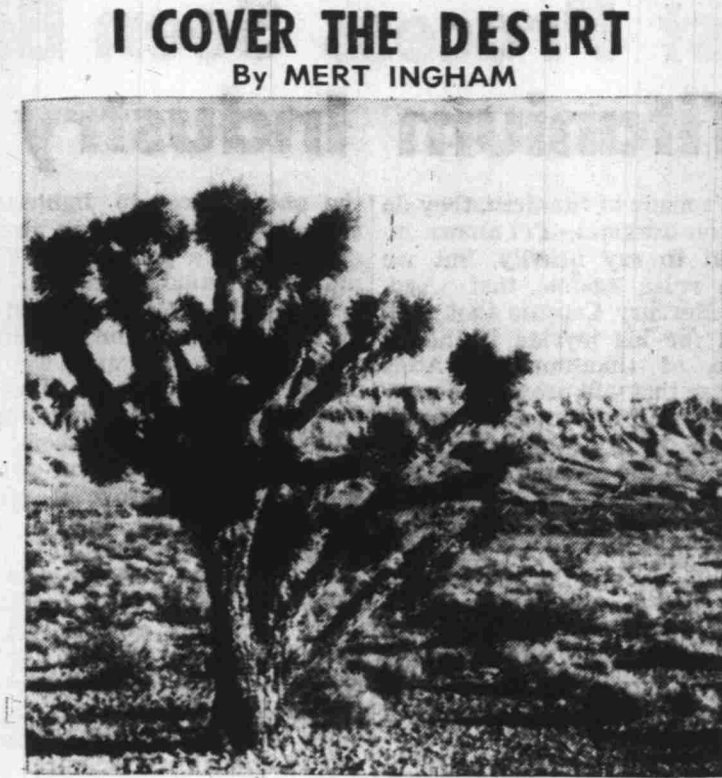

For the 1959 session of the Legislature, the bill drafter prepared 1,700 pieces of legislation. He expects the number this session to be closer to 2,000.

Judges Named For Animal Show
Judges for the Humane Society's spring animal show have been named as Mrs. Ed Flitner, Harv Perry, Jo McBeath, John Farnsworth, Jim Grosscurth, Burt Hoffman, Neal Burt and Judge George O. Treem.

Prizes will be given for first, second, and third place as well as class ribbons and certificates of merit for each division. Best in show winners will take home plaques and animal food. Entrants may pick up tickets at Harv Perry's Men Shop, Pete Mendive's service station, Chamber of Commerce, Earl Turner's service station in Pittman, the Pittman and Townsite fire station, McBeath's Henderson Rexall Drugs, Denton's Pharmacy and Basic and Henderson Junior High school offices.

SCIENCE SERVICES
An effective approach to world problems of disunity and inharmony may be found in the Lesson-Sermon on "Mind" which will be read at Christian Science churches Sunday.

This hopeful promise from 11 Corinthians will be among the Bible citations read (13:11): "Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace; and

LOCAL WEATHER AND THE FLOWERS
Where will I go and when will I see the wildflowers? This is the commonest spring question asked us.

This is a good question but it is impossible to give a concrete answer for much depends on the weather.

This year, we have had little rain during critical periods, and thus it appears we will not have the green hills and mass displays we were fortunate to see in 1959 and to a lesser extent in 1958.

Normally at lower elevations, the wildflower display will reach its peak during mid-February. As a matter of fact, I went to Willow Beach (about thirty miles from Hoover Dam on the Arizona side), Sunday and counted about twenty species in bloom. There were two species of Phacelia, three of Eveningprimrose, (yes, that's all one word), Fremont Pincushion, Rose Mallow, Mimulus, and many others.

Even though we can't have mass displays, if a person will get out of his car and walk a few feet, he will find much of interest. However, nature might still take a hand. If the weather turns unseasonably warm or cold, it could speed up or delay mass blooming for a week or two.

If the temperatures should drop much below freezing for awhile, it could kill the shoots of the wildflowers which are now coming up, and kill the early flowers. A prolonged dry wind could also kill them. Let's hope it doesn't happen and we'll have a display which will equal 1958.

Now—where to go, and when. The entire area around Lakes Mead and Mohave is as fine a desert wildflower area as you will find anywhere.

The elevation of Lake Mohave is about 650 feet above sea level the God of love and peace shall be with you."

A stamp-saving game that American children get paid for playing

Today, thousands of American youngsters are buying U. S. Savings Bonds by saving 10¢ and 25¢ Savings Stamps each week. Stamps are sold at many schools, through the Treasury's School Savings Program and at most Post Offices. And as the stamp books are filled, they can be exchanged for full-fledged Bonds.

Here's how an eight-year school savings program works:

If they save this much each week	Bonds collected	Total Saved	Value of maturity
25¢	4	$75.00	$100.00
50¢	8	$150.00	$200.00

For further information write to your Savings Bonds State Director, or to the Savings Bond Division, U. S. Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C.

... and a special note to grownups about U. S. Savings Bonds:

- You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan.
- You now earn 3 3/4% interest to maturity.
- You invest without risk under a U. S. Government guarantee.
- Your money can't be lost or stolen.
- You can get your money, with interest, anytime you want it.
- You save more than money—you help your Government pay for peace.
- Buy Bonds where you work or bank.

and a Good Reputation Must Be Earned!

Safeway meat buyers are hard to please when it comes to quality. They believe that only the very best is good enough for Safeway customers. These fine meats are tenderly handled every step of the way to the stores to be sure none of this quality is lost. All Safeway meats—Beef, lamb, pork, cured meats, poultry and fish must be top quality. But Safeway's pride and joy is fine beef.

Safeway has a quarter of a century of experience in aging fine beef. Safeway knows how to age beef! Then to quality, correct handling and scientific aging. Safeway Meat Department employees carefully trim off all excess bone and fat that does not belong on the cut. Yes, Safeway's good meat reputation is earned — earned by many years of selling only the best.
