Our People Speak On Soviet Cosmonaut's Flight

This is the question asked this week of four of our business men and women. The answers show the average American is not lacking in knowledge of the events of the world, and is well aware of America's tragic need to get up off its seat and show the world we are not the complacent people we have been trying so successfully to prove we are:

"What do you think of Russia's having shot its fourth cosmonaut into space to encircle the earth, this latest one to sail for possibly three days, while ours made but three trips around the earth?"

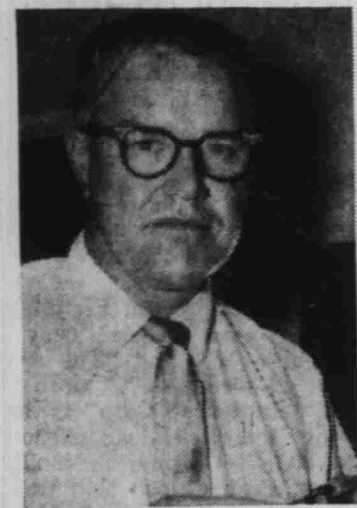

"PEGGY" HUBEL

Margaret "Peggy" Hubel, Victory Village, after being told by your inquiring reporter that the reason no woman would answer it was because the question was over their heads, proved it was not. She said, "I think it a tremendous achievement. I also think it should put across a point to all of us as Americans that there is no room for complacency. Let us hope that we can overcome this and forge on ahead."

WILLIE SCHONEMAN

Willie Schoneman, 33 Laswell St., assistant maintenance superintendent for the city of Henderson, said, "They have their purpose and feel a justification in doing these things. We are working at the same thing, but as President Kennedy said, 'We are away behind Russia in this field.' Lots of this is simply for the psychological effect it will have on the peoples of the earth—a lot of things they do are for that purpose. We do the same as individuals."

DR. MELVIN BAGLEY

Answer by Dr. Melvin J. Bagley, O.D., 61 East Frontier: "Russia graduates three times the number of men and women with engineering degrees as does the United States. Until the United States changes this, or overhauls its education in the college levels, things like this will become more common or Russia will surge farther ahead in all fields including the space race or the race to the moon."

BOB WOODRUFF

Bob Woodruff of the Woodruff Basic Photos, 149 Market St., expressed his opinion with, "This is a marvelous achievement and one that calls all of us to the need for understanding far beyond neighborhood, inter-city, and state differences, as well as making it mandatory that we excel in science"

Shootout At Sunset Sends Three Carver Park Men To Jail On Weapon Charge

Three Carver Park men are in jail charged with assault with a deadly weapon and a fourth is nursing a sore stomach as the result of a shooting affray that took place in front of the Carver Park Administration Building Monday evening.

The battle of Carver Park started over a fight between the children of Pertgen and Davis families. According to police Sgt. Jack Perkins, Connie Pertgen 32, of 5D Washington Street, ordered the children of the Davis family, living at 1B Washington Street to go home and stop fighting with her children.

Ready to defend the good name of the Davis family, Charles Davis, 20, then went to the Pertgen residence and, according to the police reports, called Connie Pertgen and a neighbor woman vile names. Mrs. Pertgen then went to the place other husbands, Michael's employment. He returned home with her and went to the Davis residence with a fire iron and challenged Davis and his friends to come out and do battle. Charles Davis responded with a 22 rifle and, according to reports, threatened Pertgen.

"If that's the way you want to fight," Pertgen said, "I'll go and get my gun."

He returned with his gun, also a 22 rifle, but Davis was gone. Much to Davis consternation, he found he was out of ammunition, so he went to the Carver Park Market and bought a box of shells.

When Pertgen found Davis had fled, he went looking for him. They met in front of the Carver Park Administration Building where they circled around threatening each other until Davis's teenage brother joined the affray with a knife.

Pertgen managed to hold off the younger Davis and not let him get within knife range of him. So the three combatants circled around and around each other and to quote Sgt. Perkins, each of the battles were as scared as he was.

John Smallwood, living with the Davis family, joined the circle and told them to put down their rifles and, if they wanted to fight, to do so and he would referee the battle.

Apparently Pertgen did not think so well of the idea for he fired two shots into the pavement near the feet of the Davis brothers.

The bullets splattered. Two fragments struck Smallwood in the stomach and one in his right arm, inflicting superficial wounds. Other fragments sprayed the Davis brothers legs below the knees.

This brought the battle of Carver Park to an abrupt close with all armies in full retreat. Young Davis ran and hid his knife while his brother Charles, ran with his rifle around the end of the housing unit and hid it. Pertgen took off with his gun.

The police arrived and won the battle.

Young Davis was remanded to the juvenile court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, while Charles Davis, 20, and Michael Pertgen, 40, were booked on a charge of felony assault with a deadly weapon.

No date has been set for their arraignment.

And meanwhile the Pertgen children and the Davis children play peacefully together with the rest of the neighborhood children.

Planning Board Schedules Two Public Hearings

The City Planning Commission has scheduled a public hearing for September 13, to set the minimum site area of one recorded lot or parcel of land having a minimum feet, and in no case having feet, and in no case having minimum net lot area of less than 16,200 square feet.

Gross lot area was defined as the total horizontal area within the defined boundaries of a lot. Net lot area as the total horizontal area, exclusive of future or reserve encumbrances, within the defined boundaries of a lot.

City Engineer Perkins told the commission that City Attorney John Manzonie has given his opinion on Lake Mead Memorial Park, stating that a cemetery is, in fact, a subdivision and is subject to the provisions of the subdivision map act.

Mark Leff, the developer, has been notified that he will have to process this development in accordance with the City's subdivision ordinance.

This item will be on the City Council's agenda for a ruling on the attorney's opinion Monday night.

It was unanimously recommended by the commission that the Council and Mayor appoint a new member to the Planning Commission to replace Henry Jones who is consistently absent from meetings.

The commissioners also set a public hearing for the vacation of eight and a half feet of the utility easement in Manganese Park where a number of residents have requested use permits to build additions to their homes.

The hearing will be held September 13, and will effect lot 6, block 1; lots 23 and 24, block 2; lots 47 and 48, block 3; and lot 71, block 4 of Manganese Park.

An application by Palm Mortuary for a use permit to build and operate a mortuary and Mausoleum on Boulder Highway was approved subject to a time limit of six months for the start of construction.

MORRY ZENOFFS' MORRY'S STORY

At this early date in the political campaign, we can report on a political poll taken by our poll-taker, Peggy Worst, a college girl from back east who has been working her way thru college by spending the summer on our staff.

Peggy confined her questions to the governor's race and she spent an aggregate of 30 hours on the phone over a three week period—calling at random from the Henderson phone book.

Her questions to each adult who answered were these:

If tomorrow were election day, whom would you vote for if these two were the candidates — Sawyer or Greenspun? If tomorrow were election day, whom would you vote for if these two were the candidates — Sawyer or Gragson?

Greenspun and Gragson are running neck and neck with Gragson having the edge with the women polled and Greenspun having the edge with the men polled.

Sawyer ran ahead of both Greenspun and Gragson by a three to one margin. Sawyer was strongest with the men polled.

Another poll will be taken just before the primary to determine the trends and what changes the campaigning may have made.

What strange friendships money make.

We learn now that Real Estating City Commissioner Frank Morrell has leased his acreage on Vegas Wash Road to Harry Polk, the man who recently was both on the receiving and shouting end of conversations at council meetings with Morrell.

Apparently, the lure of the gold the shopping center would bring had quieted both down to a lower falsetto.

Now the two are plugging for an assessment district out in that area to get the various land - owners to sign to help pay the freight for improvements leading over from the apartment area to the shopping area. The Planning Commission looked with favor on the plan — or is it plot?

ELDORADO VALLEY LAND SALE EXTENDED FIVE MORE YEARS

The House today passed and sent back to the Senate a bill introduced by Senator Alan Bible and co-sponsored by Senator Howard Cannon, giving to the Colorado River Commission a five-year extension for the purchase of Federal lands vital to the development of Clark County's Eldorado Valley.

The bill would amend the present law, directing Secretary of the Interior Udall to convey 126,000 acres of Eldorado Valley land to the Nevada Colorado River Commission for industrial development.

House action amends the Senate Bill by requiring that the price be determined on the basis of fair market value as of 1958. The bill now goes back to the Senate for action on the House change and favorable action is anticipated.

When he introduced the bill Bible told the Senate the need for legislation stemmed from the fact that when the Act was first passed in 1958, the State of Nevada was required to select and purchase land within a five-year period. The Act also provided that the land must be appraised and a plan of development be submitted prior to purchase by the state. But, four years have passed since the Act's adoption and the Bureau of Land Management has just completed an appraisal, hence more time is needed for the state to conduct the transaction.

Angelica, used for pastry decoration, is the crystallized stalk of a plant cultivated mainly in Auvergne, France. It grows to a height of about six feet and resembles a giant stalk of celery. Neatly packaged as it comes from France the jewel-green angelica is cut in strips 2 inches wide and 1/8 inch thick. From this all kinds of decorative stems and leaves can be cut.

Tickets Available For Legion Drum And Bugle Corps Contests

Legionnaires who will be wanting to see the Junior Drum and Bugle Corps final and Senior Drum and Bugle Corps final contest (Parade of Champions) during the national convention this October in Las Vegas, Nev. were urged today to place their order for tickets or face the possibility of missing the contest.

Officials of the ticket committee said that there were only 15,000 seats available as opposed to 20,000 seats in Denver last year.

The Junior Drum and Bugle Corps contest will be held Saturday, Oct. 6 at 7 p.m., and the Parade of Champions will be held Sunday, Oct. 7 at 7 p.m. Both contests are scheduled for Cashman Field Stadium.

Officials warned that ticket sales are exceeding the anticipated demand and it is expected that all 15,000 seats will be sold out far in advance of the contests.

They said the seats are being sold on a first come, first served basis. Those wishing to purchase tickets should contact the ticket committee at The American Legion Convention Headquarters office in the Thunderbird Hotel.

A show reservations office will be in operation for convention goers in the Las Vegas Convention Center beginning Sunday, Oct. 7 through Wednesday, Oct. 10 from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A representative from each of the shows will man a booth and take reservations. Reservations prior to or after the convention must be secured through the maitre d'hotel at the hotel where the show is desired.

Try not to keep talking and complaining about the heat. Forget it if you can. Every now and again, run cool water over the inside of your wrists.

Don't over-do; strenuous sports are better left till cooler days. Wear loose-fitting, light colored clothes over absorbent undergarments. Bathe frequently. Some people find that talcum powder or cologne after a shower makes them feel cooler for a longer time. Be careful about your diet. Good nutrition is as important in summer as in the winter but you'll want different foods. Eat more fresh fruits and leafy salads, lighter meals with fewer spicy, heavy or fat foods. Go easy on the iced drinks; often they actually make you feel hotter. For most people, the salt lost through perspiring can be restored by an extra sprinkle of the salt shaker on the table. Salt pills should only be taken at your doctor's suggestion. Persons on a salt-restricted diet, sometimes prescribed for heart disease or other condition, should consult the doctor before adding or subtracting salt.

Chief Geo. Crisler Built The Police Department Into One Of The Best In Nevada

A short stop-over to visit a brother working in a chemical plant in a struggling, dusty desert town in southern Nevada resulted in that little town's getting its first chief of police.

George Crisler, a lieutenant on the St. Paul, Minnesota, police department, was taking a much earned vacation from flying bullets back in 1953. He and his wife, Myrtle, decided to visit George's brother, Fritz Crisler, on their way back home, so they stopped in Henderson to spend a few days with him.

While they were here, Fritz suggested to George that he apply for the newly created job of chief of police of Henderson, so he did.

Councilman Paul Dickover told George Crisler that Bill Parker had been nominated for the job, so St. Paul got its police lieutenant back again. They had hardly returned home and the dust of travel washed off when a long distance call from Henderson told him that he was Chief of Police of Henderson, Nevada. How soon could he get out here?

"I won't come out and play stooge to any bunch of politicians," George told the voice on the other end of the wire.

"That's why we want you," he was told, "We've checked you mighty closely."

So the Grapes of Wrath headed for the wild and woolly west.

George was driving the truck loaded with household goods and Myrtle drove the car. George almost arrived a bachelor. Somewhere in the wide expanses of the Utah deserts, Myrtle took the wrong road and headed for the tall timber.

However, they found each other again before the desert got either one.

Chief George was born in St. Paul in 1904 and made his native city his home until he migrated west in 1953. He got as far as the eighth grade in school, then circumstances forced him out into the working world, but he didn't quit there.

He studied machine shop work at night for two years, then went to work for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad as a machinist apprentice. He stayed with them nine years, nine months, then went to work with the St. Paul police department.

He walked a beat, served as a plain clothes detective, rode a desk, was a dispatcher, rode a squad car, became a sergeant, and finally a lieutenant.

He served the people of St. Paul for 22 years, and on Saturday, August 18, Chief George Crisler will have served the people of Henderson for nine years.

Policing was rough during the war, Chief Crisler recalled. There were 110 men from the St. Paul police force in the armed services, leaving but a skeleton crew to patrol the city.

Crime ran rampant through out all large cities until FBI Chief, J. Edgar Hoover, prevailed upon the armed forces to stop stripping the police and law enforcement organizations of their men.

It was rapidly becoming worse than useless to enlist rookies for the forces, for the physical requirement were the same for both the police force and the army. As soon as a new man would come on the force, he was drafted.

"Have you ever been shot in the course of your duties?" he asked the chief.

"No he replied, "I have never been shot, and I have never shot anybody. But I've taken lots of guns, knives, and other weapons from criminals and murderers."

The nearest to big time excitement Crisler got into was when Dillinger shot his way out of a St. Paul apartment house and escaped.

"We got there five minutes after he was gone," George said.

When Crisler arrived in Henderson to take over his new duties, he was surprised to find five men, dressed as cowboys, comprising the force. He soon modernized them, dressed them in uniforms and, as the need grew, expanded the police force until now there are 15 men and two women on duty.

He said he first met Myrtle at a swimming party at a St.

Paul bathing beach on the Mississippi River. They have one son, George L., a math and electronics teacher at Basic High School.

Chief Crisler is now president of the Nevada Peace Officers Association. Last year he served as their veep. He belongs to many other organizations and is active in all community programs including being treasurer in the Boys Club and a director of the Salvation Army. He is also a Shriner, a 32d Degree Mason and belongs to several law enforcement organizations, both active and honorary.

DUI Driver Fined $250 or 50 Days

Victor B. LaFountain, 39, of 12-C Washington Street, charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicants and resisting arrest on June 9, was fined $200 or serve 50-days in jail in the Henderson municipal court, Tuesday. He was also fined $50 for reckless driving.

LaFountain was charged with running the stop sign on Water Street and Frontier Road, then running a red light on Boulder Highway. When he saw the police car behind him he apparently tried to outrun them, crowded a motorcycle of the road, then skidded into a tree while trying to make a turn onto Carver Street.

In lieu of the $200, Judge O. Treem remanded him to jail for 50 days. The $50 fine for reckless driving stands.

"... a Candidate of Senatorial Calibre"

"As a director of the United States Chamber of Commerce and president of the National Livestock Association, Bill Wright would be no stranger in Washington, D. C.

Wright is a man who has known adversity; he is a man who built himself up from a cowhand to become the owner of one of the finest ranches in Elko County. He is articulate, a graduate of Dartmouth College; a man who has the courage of his convictions and the ability to express them.

Wright can be expected to make a vigorous campaign based on his philosophy that state rights should be dominant and that the Federal Government should govern less, rather than more.

Elko County can be proud to offer a candidate of his ability . . .

ROOKE COP—The latest addition to our police force, Jerrald Nelson, stands beside a patrol car and wonders, perhaps, how fact it will go and what adventures lie ahead for him. Jerry, a reserve officer for a year, takes over officially August 17. He was formerly with the American Potash and Chemical Co., here. His decision to take up law enforcement work stems from his grandfather, Arthur Nelson, who spent 47 years in police work. He was chief of police in Cedar City, Utah, then deputy sheriff and finally sheriff of Iron and Beaver counties, Utah (Home Newsphoto)

Growing Trade Calls For More Room at Dante's

Expanding business and the growing need for more room has resulted in the two story addition to Dante's Cocktail Lounge on Frontier Highway. The lower story will be of cement block construction and the top part will be stucco. The addition, 16 by 36 feet, will house the new office and additional storage space while the top floor will be an apartment for the convenience of business, according to Frank Jansen, one of the three partners in the venture. Jansen, Ruth Jansen, and Dan Furse make up the triumvirate of owners.

EDITORIAL

CITY ATTORNEY MEETS YOUNG PERRY "MASON"

Judge George Treem's Municipal Court took on the aspect of a "Perry Mason" show as defendants in a recent session acted as their own lawyers, presenting witnesses and cross examining the police officers called to testify for the city by attorney John Manzone.

Raymond G. Novelley did a masterful job of presenting his own defense, putting his sister, his brother and a friend on the witness stand, and speaking in his own defense as well as cross question the city's witness, Officer Bobby Harold Taylor.

Young Novelley tried to prove that the patrol car had not clocked his speed within the city limits, and two of the witnesses said they had followed him, watching their own speed and "he did not pull away from them."

Novelley also tried to convince the court that the patrol car is not capable of attaining the 90 mile speed which it took to catch him within the distance of the pursuit before he passed the city limits.

Officer Taylor testified that when he stopped Novelley, near East Las Vegas, the suspect had said he was a personal friend of Sheriff Ralph Lamb and asked to use the radio in the squad car to contact him. The officer said he had no contact with the sheriff's office by radio but asked Novelley to follow him to the station where he could contact the sheriff by telephone. No further mention of the call was made after arrival at the station.

The officer also testified that neither he nor Reserve Officer Halloway, who was in the squad car with him, saw the cars in which Novelley's witnesses said they were following him.

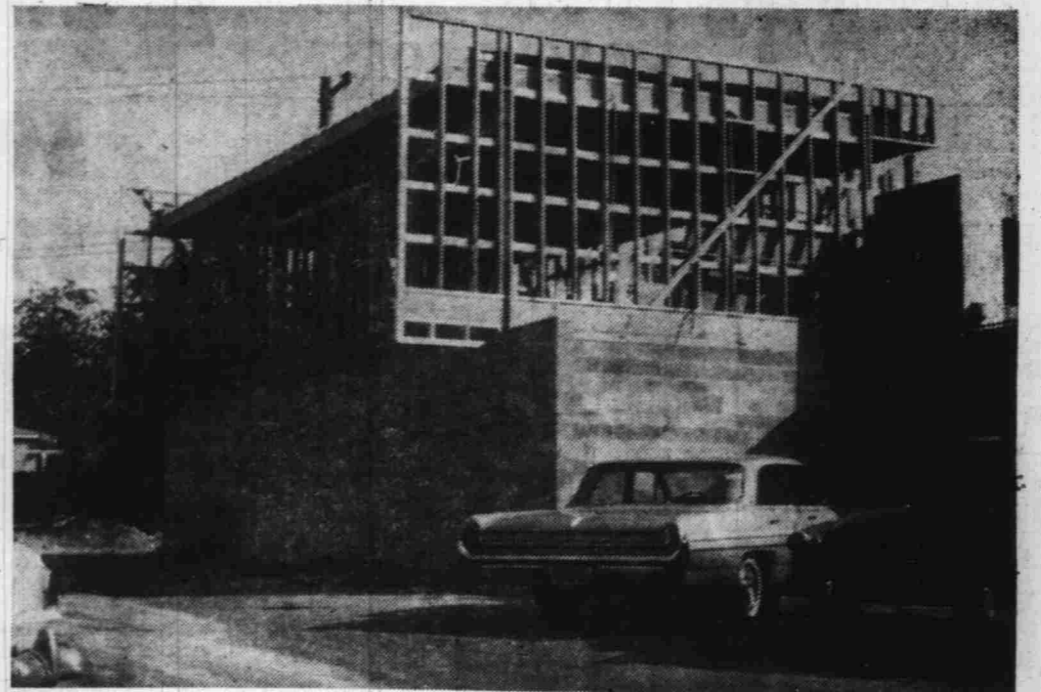

Novelley was found guilty as charged, traveling 65 miles per hour in a 45 mile zone.

The young man asked that sentencing be postponed as he was having a little trouble with the income tax department. Judge Treem complied by delaying sentencing for two weeks but refused to delay payment of a $10 fine for having to bring Novelley into court on a bench warrant, the defendant's only excuse being that he forgot.

Novelley's case was one of four in the same session where defendants served as their own attorneys and argued their cases against the legal officials of our city.

Whether these defendants won or lost or whether the fines paid were large or small is of little importance. Of great importance is the fact that in America the right of the individual to be heard still prevails.

One wonders how a young man would be treated should he try to argue his case against Communist officials. Do you think they might delay his sentencing by request after he had failed to appear in court?

GROWING TRADE and an expanding city calls for this addition to Dante's Cocktail Lounge on Frontier Highway. The low floor of the addition will house the office and extra storage space while the top floor will be an apartment to be used for business conveniences. (HOME NEWSphoto)

Pondering With Pond

With Pond

By Howard C. Pond

As Snuffy Smith used to say, "What's all th' furse about?"

Sometimes, I wonder, too. I left Paradise, California at 5:30 Friday afternoon, drove 657 miles and arrived in Henderson at 6:30 Saturday afternoon. Sure, I wasted a few hours for such things as a little sleep, some eats and even made a phone call or two.

Pretty good going for the old Flivver, towing a trailer loaded like the Grapes of Wrath heading back home. Even left the cotton picking trailer parked on the street in front of the Town House until Sgt. Ben said to get it off the street or else, so I got it off the street.

Ben's a big guy. I guess I'd better introduce myself before I go much farther.

I'm the new reporter - photographer and general all around pest with the Home News.

To do a little boasting, this column, Pondering With Pond, has found its way into the Northwestern Washington Historical Museum in Skagit County (notice, I said "historical" not "hysterical"), which, incidently is my native county.

So, from time to time you will have to put up with a little reminiscing of the old days when I was a spindly-shanked sprout up there.

But, to give a little of my background before coming here, I will boast somewhat and say that while I was farm editor of a California paper, we won three consecutive farm page awards. I have received awards for my photography — and the first roll of film I shot here came out completely blank.

In looking back over the many years that have fled (can't very well look ahead to the years that have fled), another guy and I came over to Las Vegas in 1931 to look over the situation and decide if he wanted to move his dairy over here.

Such a small, dusty desert town could support but one dairy and, when we saw a dairy delivery truck on the street of Las Vegas, I think it boasted but one street at the time, we decided to go look at Boulder Dam and head back to Wasco.

Boulder Dam wasn't much to look at in those days.

Then, another time the photographer in Wasco and I went to Barstow to see about setting up a studio there, but there was one there and the town didn't look too good so we returned home.

That was so long ago I can't remember what the desert looked like, but if it was as rugged and harsh looking then as it was Saturday, I'm sort of glad we went back. I have often wondered why people want to live in these vicious, killing deserts, but here I am, back again.

I was editor of a paper in Yuma, Arizona, but decided I wanted to return to the tree enshrouded mountains of California, so I went to Paradise. It is a beautiful slope almost completely covered with second growth Ponderosa Pines. It lasted one month, and here I am back in the desert.

There is something fascinating about the hot, dry, windy, dusty desert country that calls one back, like, in "The Spell of the Yukon."

"There's a land where the mountains are nameless, Where the rivers all run God knows where, There are lives that are erring and aimless, And deaths that just hang by a hair. There are hardships that nobody reckons, There are valleys unpeopled and still, There's a land, Oh, it beckons and beckons, And I want to go back, and I will."

SUNDAY NIGHT MIXED LEAGUE ORGANIZING FOR FALL SEASON

An organizational meeting of the Sunday Night Mixed Bowling League will be held this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. to set up schedules for the fall season. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Pee Wee League Champion Cubs Go Through Season Undeclared

The Henderson Cubs, champions of the Pee Wee League, went through their season undefeated, taking 12 games and losing none. After mowing down all opposition, they were challenged by an all-star selection from the other teams in the Pee Wee League and treated them with the same lack of respect they have shown all opposition this season.

Playing at the Titanium field, to win two of three games, the Cubs took the opener on August 3 by a score of 12 to 0, then the following day, took the All-Stars again, this time by a little more gentle rubbing in, only 5 to 2.

After this decisive lambasting, coach Jerry Nelson took the Cubs to Cedar City, Utah, for a double-header, the first game with the Cedar City All-Stars.

They probably should have called them "No-Stars" for the Cubs took them by their customary lopsided score of 16 to 2. The second game found the Cubs a little weary as they marched back on to the diamond to face the Parowan (Utah) All-Stars. Here the Cubs lost their first game of the season when they went down to defeat 11 to 14.

The following day, the Cubs went up Cedar Canyon to the Woods Ranch, then took a trip through the Cedar Brakes before returning home -- still champs.

HOW TO ENJOY THE SUN

Wear the badge of summer fun—a coppery tan—and avoid the mark of summer sorrow—a sunburn.

All you need do to wear your burnished badge is heed the advice of Dr. Archie Black, Ph. D., Research Director of the Coppertone Corporation. He offers these timely tips to palefaces basking in the sun:

Decide what area of your body you want to tan—then dress accordingly. Select the place for your sunbaths carefully. For convenience and privacy, try your own backyard. Be aware of the time of day and the weather. The sun's rays are most intense from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and although clouds reduce the amount of burning rays which reach the skin, it's possible to get serious burns on an overcast day.

Use caution in the length of exposure to the sun. Start slowly and increase your time gradually. People with dark complexions are much better able to cope with sunlight than those with fair complexions. Know the difference between tanning and burning. Over exposure to the sun's rays can cause a severe sunburn and blistering. Apply your favorite suntan product generously and evenly. In fact it's wise to give the most vulnerable areas a "double coating."

Rotarians Hear What's Wrong With 'Medicare'

Doctor Robert Taylor, radiologist and X-ray specialist, spoke on "Medicare" at Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary Club, stating that he was expressing his own views and was not representing the American Medical Association.

Dr. Taylor spoke against the King-Anderson bill stating that of the 17 - million persons over 65 years old 53 per cent have the ability to pay their own bills.

The speaker also stated that between three and four million of these older people would not be covered because they have no Social Security.

He stated that Carl Cohen, Assistant Secretary of Education and Welfare, thought the cost of the proposed King-Anderson bill would become about 10 per cent of the first $9000 of an individual's earnings, as well as 10 per cent to be paid by the employer. He said this came to light when Cohen was questioned by Senator Curtis.

The doctor said he felt there is just as much need for taking care of those under 65 who cannot pay for medical care as there is for taking care of those over 65.

Doctor Taylor said he stands for three things: Religious Liberty, Constitutional Government and a Free Enterprise System. Picking a sentence from the pages of the Congressional Record, Page 12,622, he quoted Nikita Khrushchev as saying, "we cannot expect to have communism in a democracy, but we can have socialism, and then the step from socialism to communism is a short one."

The speaker was introduced by Dan Reed, program chairman for the meeting.

Rotary President Bill Imhoff gave a short report on the Institute held by District 530 at Pasadena, California, August 13, and said District Governor Edwin G. Brockman had considerable information that will help the club during the coming year.

Explorer Scout Brent DeMille of Post 33 spoke on the First National Explorer Delegate Conference in Ann Arbor, Michigan. Explorer DeMille is one of six delegates selected to represent the high school students including the

Basic Wolves Have Tough Football Schedule Ahead

With an entirely new lineup, resplendent in shining helmets and clean uniforms -- for the opening game, anyway -- the Basic High School Wolves will snarl across the gridiron over a rough schedule extending from September 14 to November 9, according to Athletic Director Bob Lunt.

They will open the season with a game at Boulder City on September 14. A week later, on September 21, the Wolves will go to Calexico to tackle the border team. Both of these games will be non-league.

The first league game will be October 5 with Bishop Gorman of Las Vegas at the Basic gridiron. On Saturday, October 13, the Carpentaria, California, team will invade the Basic home field for a non-league game.

October 19 will see the Rancho High School of Las Vegas battling the Wolves at the Basic High School. A week later, October 26, Cedar City, Utah, will come down here for a non-league game.

The remaining two games will both be league contests. On November 2, the Basic Wolves will go to Las Vegas to battle the Las Vegas High School, then the Wolves will wind up the season with a game on the Western High School gridiron in Las Vegas on November 9.

Each game will be preceded with a junior varsity game, then the big battle will follow. Joe Cummings, Basic's head football coach, will be assisted by back coach Charles Galloway and line coach John Geyer. Ed Schellinger is the junior varsity coach.

Cheer leaders for the varsity Wolves will be Trudy Rose, head cheer leader, assisted by Marilyn Mendive, Sharon Fisher, and Sue Stephens.

The junior varsity cheerleaders are Judy Plamondon, Tammy Pryor, Donna Sellers, and Gail Dietrich.

In Petrochemical Field

TMCA Reports Largest Use Of Titanium In Industry

A half-acre of titanium will corrosion-proof a new petrochemical plant in the largest industrial use of titanium ever reported in the 12-year history of the titanium industry. Titanium Metals Corporation of America today reported.

The metal is used chiefly to line steel equipment built for the Celanese Corporation's new Bay City, Texas, plant now producing the chemical, acetaldehyde, from ethylene, a petroleum product. Acetaldehyde is used in the manufacture of plastics, alcohols, insecticides, herbicides and similar products.

The application marks titanium's first use in the petrochemical (chemicals from oil) industry, and indicates broad new market areas for the metal's outstanding corrosion-resistant properties. On a tonnage basis, about 35 per cent of all chemicals produced in the United States are derived from petroleum. On a dollar basis, about 50 per cent of the value of all chemicals sold in this country are produced from petroleum.

TITANIUM-LINED STEEL

Development of procedures by Wyatt Industries, Inc. of Houston and Dallas, Texas, fabricator of the Celanese equipment, to attach titanium linings to steel vessels made possible the widespread use of titanium in this application, TMCA reported. These procedures have enabled Celanese to capitalize on the economy of basic steel construction of massive equipment while at the same time guaranteeing corrosion resistance of critically exposed internal surfaces.

Titanium will line a series of vessels, ranging in size up to 32 feet long by 10 feet in diameter, and will be used "solid" for process piping. It will also be used in heat transfer equipment, cast pumps and valves, and wire-mesh eliminators to prevent stack fumes from escaping into the atmosphere.

The job required virtually all titanium mill shapes, TMCA said. More than 6300 lineal feet of weld were used. SAFEGUARDING WELDS

Wyatt Industries, Inc. reported that the titanium portion of the job was completed in about three months. All welding was done manually with standard Heliarc welding guns equipped with trailing shield attachments. Argon gas was used exclusively to protect the top and bottom sides of all welds and to safeguard tling contaminants from the atmosphere during production operations.

Wyatt added that all welding was done in the open air because methods of providing gas protection were proved adequate. To promote cleanliness, Wyatt built a special plywood room inside its Dallas production facility to isolate the titanium work from the rest of the shop's operations in process. This room, 30 feet high, 50 feet wide and 150 feet long, has a removable ceiling and wall section so that large vessels can be moved easily into and out of it.

THE CELANESE PROCESS

Celanese employs the Wacker process for production of acetaldehyde by air oxidation of ethylene in an aqueous solution of chlorides. These metal chlorides inhibit the hydrochloric acid present in the reaction and thus safeguard titanium from attack.

A titanium alloy, developed by the Union Carbide Company, containing 0.15 per cent by weight palladium further improves the corrosion resistance of titanium to acids that are classed reducing — such as hydrochloric and sulfuric. One of the Celanese vessels is lined with this grade of titanium and marks the first major commercial use of the alloy. All other titanium is unalloyed.

Further adding to the desirability of titanium in this process is the fact that the catalyst does not "plate out" on the titanium as it tends to do on stainless steel. This "plating" would foul the entire process.

FIVE SUCH PLANTS IN JAPAN

Celanese is the first American firm to bring on-stream this type plant, but three plants in Germany (Farbwerke-Hoechst, Wacker Chemie and Knapsack-Griesheim) have been in operation for two to three years. Ten other plants are also under construction throughout the world for production of acetaldehyde from ethylene: five in Japan and one each in Italy, France, Mexico, Canada and Spain.

Acetaldehyde is converted into acetic acid, from which is derived a variety of plastics, alcohols, lacquers, and insecticides. Acetaldehyde, in general, is used by firms producing it, although sales on the open market have doubled between 1954 and 1960 to more than 60 million pounds.

Titanium application in the basic chemical industry has grown past the million dollar a year mark, and accounts for about three per cent of total titanium production in the United States. Forecasts indicate consumption increasing to about six per cent of a greatly expanded production by 1965, TMCA reported.

Public Participation Asked In Post Office Safety Campaign

Postmaster Charles Connor today announced a month-long accident-free campaign which is being launched by the San Francisco region of the Post Office Department. The public is invited to assist in reporting incidents which could result in disabling injuries.

The campaign opens Saturday, August 18, and continues through Saturday, September 15. Regional Director Raymond R. Holmquist has appealed to the public and postal employees to observe the period by seeking to prevent on-the-job and postal vehicle accidents which could cause injuries.

The Regional Director listed five points in which the public can participate in the program.

1. Advising the local postmaster of any unsafe conditions or acts pertaining to the post office.
2. Keeping steps and areas about mail boxes clear to help prevent carrier falls.
3. By keeping dogs confined to prevent attacks on mail carriers.
4. Questioning postal employees and encouraging them to think of safety at all times.

Reporting acts of vehicle driving courtesy noted to the postmaster to encourage safe driving.

The postal official pointed out that normally the San Francisco Region registers about 105 disabling injuries and 200 motor vehicle accidents during a month.

The region includes the states of California, Nevada, and Hawaii and the mandate Islands of the Pacific. Approximately 53,000 are employed by the postal system in the region, which operates more than 6000 motor vehicles.

A report of the accident-free campaign will be made late in September, Postmaster Connor said.

Given in marriage by her step father, Edward A. Walker of Winslow, Arizona, the bride was attired in a ball-erina length gown of white organza over taffeta fashioned with V neckline and short sleeves.

A finger-tip length veil flowed from her Juliet cap. She carried a white Bible topped with a large lavender orchid.

Mrs. Darla Jenkins of Las Vegas, a friend of the bride, served as Matron of Honor, wearing a pink cocktail dress and matching accessories complimented by an aqua carnation corsage.

Best Man was Richard Douglas Anderson, brother of the groom.

Miss Wanda Jones, organist played the traditional Wedding March, "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

A pale blue sheath was selected by the bride's mother for the occasion, while the mother of the groom wore a light blue dress of lace over taffeta. Both wore pink carnation corsages.

Fifty guests attended a reception held for the couple in the Benavidez family room immediately following the ceremony. The room was enhanced by bells and bows of assorted sizes, made by Sherrie Benavidez, niece of the groom.

HOME OF THE WEEK

The W. R. Phillips Residence

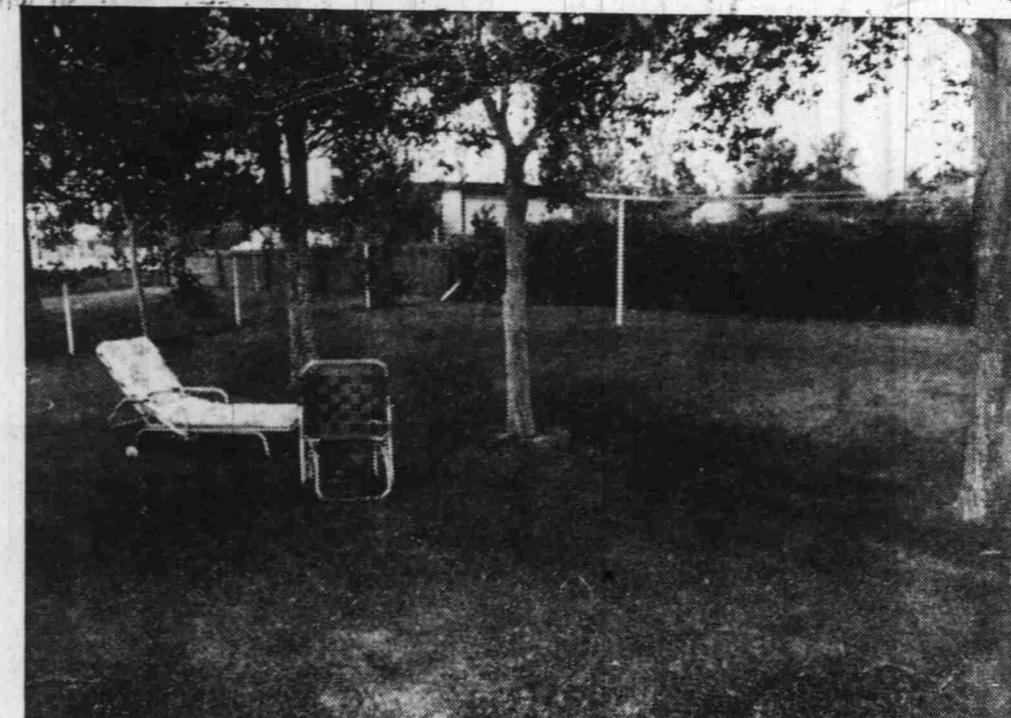

At 124 Frontier Highway

TWIN UMBRELLA TREES stand guard before the W. R. Phillips home at 124 Frontier Highway. The neat white stucco house is trimmed in blue and surrounded by inviting lawn and shade trees.

ROOM TO RELAX — This corner view of the living room gives a hint of the comfort it offers. The plush rosy rust couch, blue walls and gray carpet supply a peaceful feeling, while the little touches—family pictures, green plants, Mrs. Phillips' crocheted doilies—make it home.

LIVING ON THE LAWN is a pleasure enjoyed by the Phillipses. Careful culture of trees and grass is evident in the back yard.

Livability is the theme expressed by the W. R. Phillips home, 124 Frontier Highway. The neat blue-trimmed white stucco house sits smartly upon a fine lawn beneath towering umbrella trees. A tall hedge affords privacy and protection from the street.

The concrete patio before the front door is painted to resemble colorful flagstones.

Blue walls and gray carpet set the scene in the living room. The picture windows are veiled in misty beige drapes. An over-sized rosy rust-colored couch and a brown leather reclining chair are often occupied by the Phillipses as she knits warm clothing for needy children, and he watches T.V. or listens to their collection of sacred records played on the combination T.V.-radio-photograph.

The small kitchen is brightened by yellow walls, rust and amber floor tile and white cabinets. Crisp white nylon curtains with yellow embroidered borders, and white linen table cloths with yellow plaid edging blend nicely in the color scheme. A braided rug before the sink repeats the homey feeling.

Pale green walls and beige carpet blend with honey-beige furniture in the Phillips bedroom. White ceiling, white nylon drapes and bedspread emphasize the cool color scheme. On the dresser, twin lamps hand-carved from black walnut by Phillips are centered on lacy white doilies, crocheted by his wife. The walls are adorned with pictures of the Phillips grandchildren and pretty china plates.

The den serves as an extra bedroom when needed. It contains a hide-a-bed couch and matching chair carry through the "livability" theme. Comfortable desk and chair and handy metal file cabinet are necessities in the den. The walls and carpet and brocaded drapes are blending shades of beige.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips explained that they enjoy staying within the comfortably chilly interior of their home until evening when they live on the lovely lawn surrounding the house.

From their front window and lawn they can view the magnificent desert sunsets; the lights of Las Vegas, and the planes landing at McCarran Field.

They pointed out the Servel all year air conditioning-heating unit which stands beside their house and keeps it so comfortable.

The man of the house has a back yard workshop where he spends many hours of his semi-retirement. Another major portion of his time is spent in caring for the yard, hedges, umbrella trees, and flowers.

The Phillipses moved from Canada to the United States and have lived in the house on Frontier for the past five years.

State Boat Supervisor Warns Against Overloading Of Boats

Boat Supervisor Herb Tasker of the State Department of Motor Vehicles recently spent ten days at Lake Mead, where he worked with the U. S. Coast Guard in conducting safety inspections and patrols. Tasker and the permanent Coast Guard board boarding team stationed at Lake Mead inspected nearly 500 water craft during the ten days and report that the number of citations ran nearly 30 per cent.

There were numerous instances, Tasker said, when he stopped overloaded boats and made the drivers return some of the passengers to shore.

"With the advent of the extremely hot weather in Southern Nevada, Lake Mead was crowded. Overloading a boat is dangerous at any time, but especially when there are so many boats on the water," the state boat supervisor said.

Tasker plans to work at several boating locations during August, including Lake Tahoe, Pyramid Lake and Lahontan Reservoir.

STATE HEALTH DEPT. OFFERS FREE BOOK ON PRENATAL CARE

Nevada lost three young matrons from causes connected with childbirth during the first six months of 1962, compared with not a single death from these causes in the same period a year ago, says the state department of health.

"Compared with our leading causes of death these tragedies may not appear highly significant, but they are, in that they may suggest a lack of good prenatal care, a field in which we owe it to the rising generation to excel," says Dr. B. A. Winne, director of the department's bureau of preventive medical services.

The department has a limited number of a U. S. Children's Bureau manual called "Prenatal Care" which it distributes through its public health nurses, and Nevada women are urged to ask for a copy as early in pregnancy as is feasible.

Tactical Air Command Hosts Fighter Contest At Nellis AFB

William Tell 1962, a keenly competitive contest of tactical fighter aircraft flown by top pilots from around the world, will be hosted by Tactical Air Command's Nellis Air Force Base, September 15 to 22.

Pilots will be flying three types of tactical fighters—the North American F-100 Super Sabre; the Lockheed F-104 Starfighter; and the Republic F-105 Thunderchief. For the first time in the history of tactical fighter weapons contests, jet reconnaissance aircraft will participate in separate competition. Reconnaissance pilots will be flying the McDonnell RF-101 Voodoo.

The F-100 Sabre is designed for maximum climb, maneuverability, altitude, and speed, the versatile backbone of TAC's striking force. The F-104 Starfighter set the world speed record of 1,404.19 mph in May 1958, and during the same period claimed the world's altitude record of 91,249 feet.

The Republic F-105 Thunderchief, a Mach-Two multi-purpose, all-weather fighter-bomber is capable of delivering high explosive as well as nuclear and thermonuclear weapons regardless of weather or visibility conditions.

The USAF's first supersonic photo-reconnaissance aircraft the RF-101, can photograph from 45,000 feet an area 217 miles long and eight miles wide, plus an area mosaic equivalent to 20,000 miles.

Republican Women Want Own Federation

A Republican Ladies luncheon was held at the YKL Ranch in Searchlight July 31, for all Republican women of Searchlight, Nelson, Cottonwood Cove, and Davis Dam. It was unanimously agreed to form a Women's Republican Club and apply for Federation.

The purpose of the club, according to its founders is to promote an informed electorate through political education; to increase the effectiveness of women in the cause of good government, through political participation; to foster loyalty to the Republican Party and promote its ideals; and to train people in active citizenship.

Officers chosen at this meeting were Evelyn Weikel, president; Myrtle Erickson, vice-president; Mary Ann Mulvany, secretary.

The next meeting will be held August 29 in Searchlight. Those interested are asked to contact Mrs. Erickson, Twin Gables Resort in Nelson, or Mrs. Weikel, YKL Ranch, Searchlight.

FHA To Open Local Office In September

Southern Nevada home and apartment construction will get a big boost September 1, with the opening of a Federal Housing Administration service office in Las Vegas staffed by double the present number of staff employees to meet demands of one of the country's top homebuilding sections, Senator Alan Bible announced here today.

Bible, who secured FHA approval in Washington of an upgrading of facilities here, said the new office would have 17 employees, double the former number assigned to the evaluation office which required most of the processing of construction in Reno.

"Southern Nevada deserves these improved facilities considering the continuing tremendous growth in housing demands here over previous years," Bible said, upon his arrival by plane from Northern Nevada.

The Nevada Senator, who noted that the Las Vegas Homebuilders Association had recently commended the Las Vegas staff for improved service, said the new office at 525 South 13th Street would be headed by Harold Warwick and assistants, Leo Anderson, assistant chief underwriter, and Ray Winfrey, deputy chief architect. Parking facilities will be available for the public.

FIRST YEAR NURSE CLASSES TO BE OFFERED

As a part of the horizontal expansion of the Nevada Southern program, a course in Nursing 101, Introduction to Nursing, is being offered this fall for the first time.

The course will be continued as Nursing 102 during the spring semester. Both are required as part of the freshman program and, with their addition, nursing students from the southern Nevada area will be able to complete the full first year of work toward a bachelor's degree in nursing before transferring to the Reno campus.

Class schedules and brochures are available by calling the Las Vegas campus at REgent 3-2222.

Sorrows remembered sweeten present joy.

BIBLE TOURS MINES STATION

Senate approval of a $793,000 work program for the U.S. Bureau of Mines station here for the coming year is expected within the next several weeks, Sen. Alan Bible said while inspecting the station's research facilities.

Bible, a member of the Senate Interior Department handling the money bill, said funds are for continued metallurgical research to be carried on by the 92-man staff here. The House approved the money bill last week and Bible substituted for Committee of Arizona, last Friday in final subcommittee.

The Nevada Senator spent most of that day here viewing work at Hoover Dam, visiting workmen and talking with Reclamation Bureau and National Park Service officials and employees.

Demo Candidate For Governor Favors State Operated Lottery

M. D. (Mel) CLOSE

M. D. (Mel) Close Democratic candidate for Governor of Nevada reveals the major plan in his platform as being the favoring of a lottery owned and operated by the State of Nevada, with proceeds of this lottery used to relieve the already overburdened taxpayer.

A lottery owned and operated by the state would bring several million dollars into the State Treasury, Close says. This money would be set into a special fund which would be used for specific programs such as aid to senior citizens, relief of unemployment, welfare, etc.

There are, at present, at least 45 countries helping their people through national-owned lotteries. "Why not Nevada?" asks Close.

Close's platform also includes: 1-ApPOINTment of a "little" Hoover commission, as was activated by the Federal Government. This commission shall have the power and authority to audit and investigate and transactions of all agencies and departments of the State, and neither the legislature nor the Governor shall have the power to halt the audits or investigations.

This commission would also have the power to examine all the State laws presently on the books and recommend to the legislature a "streamlining" process as well as a method for disposing of the still on the books.

2-State operated summer camps for children. 3-Hospital for unwed mothers. 4-More severe penalty for narcotic "pushers" in order to protect the people of the State of Nevada.

5-Treatment center for narcotic addicts to help in their rehabilitation. 6-The creation of a "Hatch" act similar to our Federal Act, which would prohibit any state employee from taking part in politics or political campaigns.

Close, a 14-year resident of Nevada, is a prominent business man and civic leader. He resides in Las Vegas with his wife, Hope. They have four sons, including Mel, Jr. Assistant United States Attorney for the State of Nevada.

Persons interested in aiding the campaign of Mel Close may visit his headquarters at 1508 Las Vegas Blvd. South or call DU 4-3032. Mail should be addressed to P.O. Box 40, Las Vegas.

Paul Laxalt Is GOP Aspirant For Office Of Lt. Governor

Paul Laxalt made a surprise appearance upon the Nevada political scene when he filed for lieutenant governor as a team with Rex Bell, who was seeking the governorship. Although active in politics as chairman of the Republican policy committee which has guided state party strategy for the past few years, he had previously resisted attempts to make him seek a major state post.

Following Rex Bell's unexpected death in Las Vegas, Laxalt was urged to step up and run for governor. However, he decided to remain in the race for lieutenant governor, saying he could not abandon his law profession altogether. "I wish I could, but I'm just not ready for it," he said at that time.

Paul Laxalt is 40 years old. In his legal career, he has won distinction as an attorney, and is a member of the Nevada Board of Bar Governors. Born in Reno and raised in Carson City, he attended Santa Clara University and graduated from Denver University Law School. He is a combat veteran of World War II. Before entering private practice in Carson City, he served as district attorney of Ormsby county for four years. He is a member of a well known family that was engaged in livestock for many years. Two of his brothers, John and Peter, are also attorneys, and another brother Robert, is director of publications at the University of Nevada and author of the book, Sweet Promised Land. Paul Laxalt is married to daughter of Federal Judge John R. Ross. They and their six children make their home in Carson City.

NURSING COURSE OFFERED AT NSU

As a part of the horizontal expansion of the Nevada Southern program, the course in Nursing 101, Introduction to Nursing, is being offered this fall for the first time.

This course will be continued as Nursing 102 during the spring semester.

Both of these courses are required as part of the freshman program and, with their addition, nursing students from the southern Nevada area will be able to complete the full first year of work toward a Bachelor's Degree in Nursing before transferring to the Reno campus.
