3 HERSH TRUMBO HORSES STEAL THE SHOW IN RACING AT THUNDERBIRD DOWNS

Race horses owned by the Hersh Trumbos of this city stole the show in Las Vegas over the weekend as Joe Wells opened his Thunderbird Downs racing program before record crowds. newly acquired Lady DeMuir, with Jockey John Cantarini in the saddle, aced home far in front of the field to set a track record for five and a half furlongs. The betting windows paid $5.80 for a two dollar ticket and $5 to place and $3 to show. The horse won a purse of $400.

On the same day, the Trumbos saw a second of their new stable to bring home honors, this time a second as Cantarini drove home No Rings for a payoff of $4.20 to place and 3.20 to show. Then, on Sunday, in the first race of the afternoon Trumbo's Lorie's Kid, carrying the 115 pound Cantarini, paced the field for another $400 victory and the betting windows here paid 7.80, 4.00, 3.20. The thrill of having to go down to the winner's circle to accept the laurels came to the Henderson couple who were flabbergasted at their sudden rise to success in a sport they hitherto have known little about other than having ridden horses in their youth back in the Dakotas. They plan to enter the same horses in the races the coming weekend — and possibly bet on them, which they didn't do last weekend because they figured they had little chance in the big time against tried and true owners and trainers of thoroughbreds and sprinters.

WOLVES DROP GAME 20-12 IN CALIFORNIA

Basic's Wolves, trailing thirteen to nothing with just over three minutes left on the clock, made a spurring effort to pull the Carpinteria game out of the fire with two quick touchdowns in a losing cause to the California team 20-12. The Hendersonites outdistanced their foes, but were backed up to their own goal line and trailing by two TD's when Jim Easley got off a screen pass to Bruce Reid that was good for seventy five yards and the Wolves first score of the season. A bad pass from center killed the try for the extra point. Just after the kickoff, Pete Arkell picked up a loose ball and rambled down to the Carpinteria two. Three cracks at the line missed and Easley on a bootleg, rolled out and then tossed a short heave to Bratton Booth for the second six pointer. Easley's placement for the tying tally was wide. The Wolves tried an onside kick to get possession in the last minute but, though recovered by Basic on the Carpinteria 45, it was touched by one of the Blue and White players before it had gone the necessary ten yards and the Californians took over. With an eight man line massed up front, the Carps tossed a long heave to the Basic five and as the gun sounded the host team tallied their superfluous points. Coach Callahan was well pleased with the team's efforts but had hoped to come back with at least a tie after the excellent comeback. Steve Hinkell won the accolades of a good audience with his superlative work on both offense and defense. Easley turned in his best job of the season and Greg Sullivan ground out over a hundred yards in the battle. Pete Arkell, sophomore, played a full game on defense and handled his assignments well. His pickup led to the second Wolves TD. Jim Campbell, also a rearling was in there all the way, and Bratton Booth at end, and Mike Wheat, both juniors, had their first taste of varsity competition and performed creditably. Hansen, Tope, and Downer, the deep men on defense, all juniors, saw plenty of action and this experience should help the team in its remaining three games. The lift team gained may do well for its morale and be an asset in the next game against Rancho at Butcher Field on the 18th. No game is scheduled for this weekend.

BMI, Council To Discuss Gift Money Use

Over objections raised by Mayor Bill Byrne last night, Councilwoman Ida Belle Riggins made a motion to include Basic Management, Inc., officials in a meeting with the Council, Recreation Board members and Dalby Shirley when discussions are held on how to spend $20,000 donated to the City for Recreation capital improvements by BMI. The $20,000 was a part of $25,000 given to the City with a deed for over five acres of land to be used for recreation. A sum of $5,000 was requested by BMI to be used on improving the five acres. Byrne maintained that BMI officials had not meant to imply that they must help select capital improvements on which the City would spend the money. Councilman Dale Roberts read from a letter written by Rex Lloyd, president of BMI, asking that they be included in decisions on what the money would be used for. Mrs. Riggins' motion was amended by Roberts to approve the expenditure of $1500 of the money by the recreation department for presently needed items such as tables and chairs for the arts and crafts program, and the motion carried. The Councilwoman then asked that the meeting with BMI be held in the near future and not be delayed "months and months."

Approval of Council Minutes Delayed by Three Councilmen

Three City Councilmen last night voted to table approval of the minutes of the regular meeting of the City Council held on September 16, in order to have more time to study them. The motion to table the minutes of a meeting in which a motion was made and approved by three councilmen to withhold final approval on trailer estates until a new ordinance is approved, was made by Councilman Paul Marshall, and supported by Councilman Dale Roberts and Ida Belle Riggins. In the previous meeting, Roberts had made a motion to withhold final approval of trailer estates until the new ordinance governing trailer estates is approved. The motion was supported by Riggins and Marshall. The controversial matter was spiked by reports from Plumbing Board Head Dave McGinty that trailer estates had never been approved by the city building department; by Plumbing Inspector Floyd Head who said that the red tags had been removed by Developer Harry Polk, and others. Head was fired the next Monday from city employment. Published reports that Polk was considering legal action, possibly an injunction against the City if the minutes of the meeting were approved possibly caused the Councilmen to fail to approve the minutes.

Councilmen Wilbur Hardy and Lorin Williams voted against the postponement. Marshall said after the meeting that he had not had time to study the minutes and wished to do so before approving them.

No Increase in Water Rates To Pay For Special Elections

Despite rumors to the contrary, water rates in the City will not be raised to pay for any special elections which will be scheduled for the petition for a city charter which is scheduled to be presented at the next meeting of the City Council on October 21. Councilmen unanimously agreed last night. City Auditor Bob Adams asked for the item to be placed on the Council agenda to consider the method of payment for special elections, and Council Woman Ida Belle Riggins said that she and a majority number of the only freedom worth possessing is that which gives enlargement to a people's energy, intellect, and virtues. - William Ellery Channing

Council members had agreed that the water rates would not be raised to pay for the three elections required. Mayor William Byrne said he felt the consideration was premature since the charter had not been presented, however, he said that the Council should be considering it. Councilman Dale Roberts asked that a legal opinion be obtained from the City's Deputy City Attorney William Devlin on where the money could be taken from since it is not in the budget. Adams estimated the cost of the elections at $5,000 each. In announcing the move, James A. Hopson, San Jose, president of the dairy organization, stated that it has been the policy of the group to move the contest location from time to time.

Father Saves Family When Toddler Sets House Afire

The local Fire Department started Fire Prevention Week yesterday by investigating a fire which occurred at 8 o'clock Saturday morning which threatened the lives of a family of six and could have burned out four apartments if not promptly extinguished. The fire occurred in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reavy, 9-C West Washington, Carver Park. Mr. and Mrs. Reavy and their baby were asleep in the bedroom and the three other children, a boy 5, a girl 4 and a boy, 3, were sleeping in the other bedroom. The 3-year-old boy woke up and was playing with a book of safety matches when he set the closet curtain on fire. The smell of smoke awakened the father and he jumped out of bed and evacuated the family. Running back into the apartment, he pulled the burning curtain from the front of the clothes closet and pulled the burning clothes out of the closet, throwing them out the bedroom window. Neighbors took him to Rose de Lima Hospital where he received emergency treatment. He suffered second and third degree burns on his hands, legs and feet. The Fire Department was not called, but learned about the fire and checked it out Monday, according to Fire Chief Don Richard. Richard credited Reavy with doing a fine job and undoubtedly saving the lives of his wife and children; however, he said, the Fire Department should have been called to make a thorough check of the scene and make certain that all sparks or smoldering particles of clothing were completely out. Rekindling of the fire, Richard said, could have threatened the families living in the three other apartments in the four-plex where the blaze occurred. The family will lose more than the clothing that was burned, Chief Richard pointed out, as Mr. Reavy will be required to stay away from his work at Titanium Metals Corp. until his hands heal. Chief Richard urges parents to keep matches of all kinds out of the reach of children. This tragic accident proves that your small children are never safe when matches are within their reach, even when you think they are safe asleep in bed, said the Fire Chief.

Four Year Old Fights For Life After Accident

Little four-year-old Michael Barry of 1537 Palm street, who was struck by a car on Boulder highway. Sunday night at 7:40, was struggling for his life yesterday at Rose de Lima Hospital. The youngster underwent surgery for four hours Sunday night for a blood clot on his brain, and blood was still being administered to him Monday. "They gave us hope this morning," Mrs. Barry said, "but he is still on the critical list." According to Police Michael was struck down when he dashed in front of a car, near Rancho Market, which was driven by Robert DeWitt, 29, of 7 Utah Way. DeWitt told police he was traveling around 35 miles an hour at the time and did not see the child. There were no skid marks. The little boy suffered a skull fracture and lacerations on his forehead and face. He was taken to the hospital by the City ambulance. He is the son of Melvin and Jovita Barry. DeWitt was cited for having no operator's license.

CARNIVAL SETTING UP: OPENS AT 3 TOMORROW AFTERNOON The SJM Carnival, sponsored here each fall by the Chamber of Commerce, started setting up shop on Lake Mead Drive at the end of Water Street yesterday and will be open for business tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Free ride tickets are still available at local stores. Rides at the carnival are available for half price when one of these tickets is presented with the purchase of one ride, giving the purchaser two rides for his free ticket and 25 cents. The ride tickets are not available on the carnival grounds and parents and youngsters are urged to ask for them while shopping in the local stores. "Get your free ride tickets and have twice as much fun for your money," the Chamber of Commerce urges.

Every voter in this city, who has any interest at all in young people, is urged to go to the polls today and vote "Yes" on the $850,000 Juvenile Home bond issue, to provide modern, up-to-date facilities for the Clark County Juvenile Department. The present Juvenile Home was built 16 years ago, mostly by public donations, at a time when the county school population was 8000 as compared to the present 52,000. During the past five years, the case load of the Juvenile Home and Probation Department has increased 100 percent, while the delinquency rate in the county has remained about the same. However, the probation department now has five different departments to aid the county, whereas 16 years ago only the detention and probation departments existed. Almost entirely dependent on public sympathy and contributions for its beginning, the Juvenile Home has had to "make do" with inadequate quarters throughout the years. A report two and a half years ago showed that the present Juvenile Home is unsuited to the purposes for which it was originally designed. With the increase in population during the intervening time, the situation is now much worse than when the report was made. As the work has increased with the expanding population, the staff has also been increased. Less than two years ago, seven probation officers were handling the complete case load. Now there are 13 probation officers. To accommodate the increase, the old engineer's office at the former County yard, has been turned into offices for the probation officers; and for the benefit of people, who are temporarily detained, the former County garage has been converted into a gym. The dining room at the detention home must now serve three purposes: it is used as a dining room, as a school room and as a recreation room. "We are now at a standstill because of our increase in services and lack of facilities," said Peter Urdike, Director of Court Services. "Our office and housing space is filled and in the near future we will have to double up in order to make room." Urdike stated that a 15-acre site is under consideration on East Charleston Blvd,

BMCC, City To Eliminate Road "Death Trap"

Twenty-four property owners at Black Mountain Country Club petitioned the City Council last night to raise the grade of the road at the railroad crossing on Major street to correct what City Administrator described as a "death trap." The petition which was presented by Councilman Lorin Williams said that because of the low dip on both sides of the track, motorists cannot see, and children crossing there have had many "near misses" of being hit. Public Works Director George Perkins said that he was presently establishing grades and designating a proper crossing, and also studying the right of way. Councilman Ida Belle Riggins said she had asked Corbin three months ago about this and he had stated that the street was not dedicated to the City, the City has no right of way, and he felt that the subdivider should get the streets in shape before they became a maintenance problem to the City. Hal Wurzer of the Country Club said he felt that the street had been dedicated and that the right-of-way had been given to the Country Club. A meeting was tentatively set for this week for city officials and Country Club officials to discuss the problem.

All local voters are urged to cast their ballots in the Clark County Bond Election today for a new juvenile home and a new county health center. County Clerk Helen Scott Reed explained that although there are two separate bond elections, the issues will be on the same ballot. One issue involves $850,000 for a new juvenile detention center and the other asks approval of $1.2 million bond for the construction of a county health center. The County Clerk said that there will be no sample ballots for the bond election tomorrow and no absentee ballots will be cast. There will be one ballot for property owners and one for non-property owners, and each issue must pass by a majority on both ballots or it will be considered defeated. The juvenile home, built 16 years ago, has outgrown the present facilities and has no further room for expansion. A site has been selected for a new juvenile home on Charleston Blvd. if the bond issue is approved. The present health center building site is in the proposed freeway construction right of way, and because of the population growth a need has been created for a larger and better staffed Health Department. The county owns a suitable site for this construction at Pinto and Shadow Lane and the site has been approved by the County Commissioners if the bond issue is approved today. All local precincts will vote in their usual polling places. The polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

MORRY'S STORY

by Morry Zenoff

I can't quite agree with Rabbi Harry Sherer when he said that God had pointed his finger at my sister, Anna, and beckoned her to his side. Anna was doing a magnificent job on this earth. We needed her here for far, far into the future. She was serving her family, her five brothers, her friends, her church, her country. She was mother, friend, servant, advisor, companion. She was a bundle of happiness to anyone who visited with her.

Why God should beckon to her rather than any one of her brothers will be a mystery to me until I join her someday in the unknown beyond. Probably God wanted her, more than any of us, because she had so many more of the qualities of fineness and forgiving and purity and strength.

How does one go on, enjoying life after losing a dear, dear only sister?

Time, I suppose, will heal the wounds. Time, I know, has helped us forget the sorrow that came with the deaths of our father and our mother. Time, too, has brought another blessing in this regard. It has refreshed memories of the best days of our lives with Mother and Father. Their words and their deeds come back to us constantly — today — ten years after their passing.

Which leads me to have the same confidence that Anna will live with us until we join her in death. Today's sorrow will pass and tomorrow Anna will join us in our thoughts. Her smile, her warmth, her kind words will be a part of our daily lives.

If that is God's way of doing things — taking a dear one from you and replacing her with a lifetime of companionship thru memories and contemplation, then, I guess, the Rabbi knew what he was saying.

As for me and as for my four brothers — we would rather God had gone the other way — tapped one of us, and left sweet, angelic, wonderful Anna on this earth to serve her devoted husband, Carl, and her two able children — Nata and Elliott; and to serve mankind in her inimitable way.

Rebekahs Plan Banquet To Honor Visiting President

A meeting of the Sunshine Rebekah Lodge 41 was held Tuesday night in the Victory Village Auditorium with eight members present.

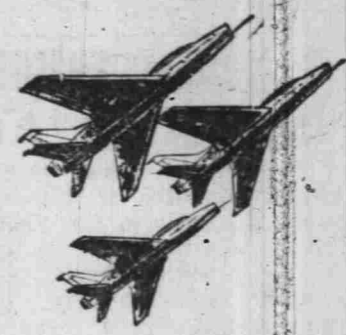

Plans were made for a banquet in honor of the visit of the President of the Rebekah Assembly of Nevada, Judy Clyde of Carson City. It is to be held at the Swanky Club October 15 at 6 p.m.

Penny Love, ways and means committee chairman, reported she had received word from the New York office of the Holland Bulb Co., that the bulbs ordered last spring will be here this week.

Mrs. Love also took orders for lighted plastic stars to be donated to the 100F lodge for their ceremonies. Each member present donated one and all those who were absent were urged to contact Mrs. Love.

Milly Harris reported that the cook books were being delivered but that she still had quite a few left. All those interested in helping the lodge are asked to contact her.

Make Your Own Christmas Gifts At Recreation Ceramics Class

The City Recreation Department is offering a class in ceramics starting Saturday, October 12, from 9 a.m. till noon.

"This is an excellent opportunity for mothers to enjoy a morning out and at the same time create some of their own gifts for the coming Christmas season," said Recreation Director Dalby Shirley.

Mrs. Agnes Morris, who will instruct the class, said that participants will have a wide variety of items to choose from, including glazed ceramic pieces and the new unfired stains which are the latest thing in the ceramic field.

The six-weeks course will cost $5. This does not include materials.

Greenware (unfired ceramic pieces) are priced from 50 cents up, paints are inexpensive. One set of paints will take care of numerous pieces, and there is no additional price for firing.

Mrs. Morris said there are many of the ceramic pieces which can be completely painted in an hour and a half, so the number of gift items which could be completed during the 18-hour course would vary according to the choice of pieces selected by the students. No previous experience is necessary.

Those wishing to register may call the City Recreation Department or may register with Nikki Kinsley, secretary to Mayor W. B. Byrne at City Hall.

Shirley said that if enough of the students are interested, the course may be extended to ten weeks to allow more time for making Christmas gifts.

The Recreation Director also asked that all those interested in taking a course in copper work or leather work, please call the Recreation Center and indicate their desire. If there are enough interested, a course in these arts will also be planned.

All About Dogs

Comrades in Arms
"Now is the time for all good men — and dogs — to come to the aid of their country."

In one form or another this call to arms is a lot older than the first typewriter. Eons before the establishment of political states, cave-broken canines helped primitive man defend his home and family against marauders.

As man's battles grew more organized and complex, so did the role of his war dogs. According to dog authority Clarence C. Fawcett of the Purina Dog Care Center, St. Louis, Mo., "packs of armored dogs studded with spikes and razor-sharp blades were sent rampaging into enemy lines. The Painted Porch of the Acropolis at Athens shows a man and dog who fought side by side at the Battle of Marathon. Caesar, Alexander the Great and Napoleon were all advocates of four-legged fighting forces. In fact, Charles V of Spain was so enthusiastic about his war dogs he held them up to his troops as examples of courage and loyalty.

In 1942, the U. S. Army established the K-9 Corps, which trained more than 15,000 dogs for patrol, guard and medical corp duty. Germany, Russia, England and France also recognized the dog's usefulness in times of strife. All had formidable canine units. Thousands of wounded soldiers were located by Red Cross dogs.

Today, there are 4,000 dogs serving with our Army and Air Force. They are proving to be alert and faithful sentries, especially at missile sites and highly secret bases.

COURT ACTION

Calvin Eugene Hoffa, 18, of Henderson Trailer Haven, pleaded not guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor in municipal court Tuesday morning and trial was set for October 15.

Hoffa also pleaded not guilty to a second charge of resisting arrest and trial will be at the same time. He was placed in custody until the trial with no bail.

Hoffa was arrested when the city's truant officer and a policeman went to an apartment in Victory Village where two minor girls lived. The mother was at work and when the truant officer knocked on the door, the 16-year-old girl told him that her boy friend was not there but had been earlier. Hoffa and a 17-year-old youth and the girl's 10-year-old sister were found hiding in the bath room. The 17-year-old youth was turned over to juvenile authorities. When Lee Lamoreaux, the truant officer, told Hoffa, he was under arrest for contributing, Lamoreaux reported that he used profane language and so the police were called. The girls were turned over to their mother who thought they were in school.

In other court actions, P.E. Cote, 47, failed to appear on a reckless driving charge and a letter will be written to him; Robert T. Ambroziak, 27 and Charles Ciciliano, Jr., 23, forfeited $50 each for reckless driving; James Bolton, pleaded not guilty to reckless driving and trial was set for October 8.

John Caperton, 28, was fined $200 by Judge Earl Davis on two charges of no account checks and was confined to the City jail until the fine is paid.

John Cletus Wirth, 18, pleaded not guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor and trial was set for October 15.

John Wesley Jones, 41, pleaded not guilty to escaping from the City jail and trial was set for October 22. He was placed in custody. Basil E. Fitzpatrick, 52, forfeited $325 bail when he failed to appear on a drunk driving charge and also having no operator's license. A bench warrant was also issued for his arrest.

Trial for Edward Heverly, 27, charged with disorderly conduct and gross intoxication, was postponed until October 8.

From Tub To Touch

Just how good were the "good old days?" Not so good for the homemaker-laundress 75 years ago, when the antique washing machine above was the latest model of the Blackstone Corporation at Jamestown, N.Y., oldest manufacturer of home laundry equipment in the country.

Today's models coming out of Jamestown are sleek and gleaming—beautiful but efficient, too. Today's homemaker does the laundry by loading the washer, pushing a few colorful buttons, and walking away. The other half of the matched pair above—the dryer—"hangs out the wash" automatically, too.

'Yes' Vote Only Answer On Bonds

Clark County voters are perhaps slightly dizzy as the bond issues whiz by, but one is coming up on Oct. 8 that is worthy of support.

The voters will be asked to approve an $850,000 issue for a new juvenile home and $1.2 million for a new health center.

In both instances, these activities have outgrown present facilities, and in the case of the health department, future freeway construction will wipe out the building.

Two years ago, a Clark County Grand Jury found the present juvenile home inadequate. Since the present juvenile home was established 16 years ago, the population of Clark County has increased vastly. Numerous services have also been added to the duties of the juvenile department head.

Health department facilities are grossly inadequate to house the many programs that benefit the general public.

Five years from now, if the present building remains, the health department will be in a hopeless mess.

There isn't room now for the public health nurses and the mothers and children who come to the well-child and crippled children clinics.

As population increases, there will be a need for more sanitarians to guard the public from all kinds of health menaces.

A "yes" vote on the Oct. 8 bond issue is the only thing that can be recommended, under the circumstances.

VOTE

Reprinted from
LAS VEGAS SUN
 Wed., Oct. 2

... is the answer every thinking voter must give in order to solve the problem of increased juvenile services in a community of such phenomenal growth — a problem that faces us NOW, and must be solved NOW!

"The present juvenile building was not designed for utilization for a detention home for delinquent children in the manner presently required... it is inadequate and unsuited in all respects."

This was included in a report prepared by a specially appointed blue ribbon committee to look into the drab conditions at the Clark County juvenile home about two years ago.

Although some of the conditions have since been corrected, the facilities at 645 Shadow Lane remain essentially the same: wholly inadequate to handle the case loads currently confronting juvenile officials.

Statistics-wise, the director of court services said the current facility is 16 years old, and at that time the school population in Clark county was 7,845, compared to today's 52,000 school-age population.

Also, the booking of juveniles has risen from 1,500 to an anticipated excess of 3,000 for the current fiscal year.

CROWDED QUARTERS. Shown is one end of a barracks-like room that crowds juveniles into unhealthy confines.

The Third Stool

First of all I wud like to thank the boss fer pickin' me to cover the President's visit to Las Vegas.

Morry ain't never give me no assignment before but when he did he went right to the top. Now I ain't got no chance left fer advancement. Writin' about the President is jest about as high as you can get.

I'm gonna try real hard not to botch this story all up and maybe he will invite me to attend one of them Donneybrooks that they have been havin' in the council chambers out Henderson way. I hear they have been havin' some real dandies. Even the secret meetin's are confusin'.

Well, let's see, if you're gonna write about somethin', you hafta start somewhere, so I'm gonna start this first assignment jest before I reached Convention Hall.

I ain't seen so many cars on the move since last Hellorado. It seemed that all of the democrats wuz headin' fer the hall to see the President. The republicans wuz makin' extra trips back to their printin' press to get more leaflets to stick on our windshields and the non-partisans already had their seats.

Everybody wuz on the move. I finally made it into the hall and found that jest about every person wuz a FBI agent. Dad Gum, they got cold hands.

I told this one feller that I didn't come in there to get a food handlers permit and examination. I just came there to write about the President and any of his relatives that he might have brung along.

Well, boss, there ain't nothin' cheap about me so fer. I set' at the same table with the White House press.

After settin' there fer a few minutes I think I know how the country mouse felt after he paid a visit to his cousin in the big city. Now, I ain't no cousin to the President but I understand he has quite a few, all Kennedys.

They started the ball rollin' by showin' us a film called White Waters of the Colorado River. I found it very interestin'.

Mr. Arleigh West, Regional Director of the Bureau of Reclamation, introduced the film along with a whole bunch of other stuff he had to do and I'm tellin' you he done the job with dignity as it should have been done in a spot like that.

Our mayor, Albert Franklin, and Charles Richey, superintendent of the Park Service in the area, wuz also on hand to represent us. There wuz mayors, governors and senators scattered all over the place.

Fer this not to be a political tour by the President, the politicians didn't waste no time comin' frum the bushes to get in on the act.

I counted noses pretty careful and found the Henderson mayor missin'. You folks that live there had better check city hall fer foot prints. There cudda been a little meetin' goin' on while you wuz in there to see the President.

There wuz one more feller missin' — Congressman Baring. Oh, well, somebody has to watch the store. It's jest as well they didn't show up — there wuzen't no empty seats left anyway.

When they brung the President out on the speaker's platform I thot the rafters wuz gonna fall down. Everybody stood up except the White House press. I guess it's ole stuff to them, they go where he goes.

He sure did look neat and trim. He looked like he could tackle one of his 50-mile hikes on a minute's notice.

I wuz beginnin' to think he wuzen't ever gonna get a word in edgeways fer them other fellers talkin' so much, but when he did, he said a couple of things that kinda stuck with me.

Now I'm pretty good at spellin', but I ain't gonna try to spell the words the way he sez them, becuz if I do, I would jest get all mixed up. Now, I ain't disputin' his word when he sez he has been in five different states in the last couple of days but I do know one thing, he didn't leave his Mass. accent behind.

One of his subjects wuz about more schools and better education for our kids. Now, as fer as I'm concerned he threw the gate wide open fer you city fathers here in Nevada to buckle down on some of these here big land developers and get 'em to deed back more land to your city fer school sites.

Another thing he mentioned wuz the population of the U. S. He sez at the present we have about 190 million and in the year 2000 we can expect 230 million. That sure does make me feel good becuz if that holds true Boulder City is a cinch to grow.

Well, Morry, that jest about sums up my experience fer the day. I wrote about things the way they appeared to me and I'm sorry if I went and messed things all up fer you.

Good Nite,
Al Langley
