Charter Petition Set to Go To City Council On Monday

The fate of the second petition for a charter convention for Henderson, which underwent scrutiny for a two-week period by the city clerk's office, will probably not be known until the next regular meeting of the City Council to be held Monday, Nov. 18.

After the petition was checked by the Acting City Clerk Genevieve Harper for irregularities, it was handed to City Attorney John Manzonie Saturday for further checking.

The City Attorney said he would have the final check of the charter by Monday. However, he could not be reached at home or at his office. He was quoted as saying that he would work on the check during the long Veterans Day holiday by determining the validity by comparing it with a list from the voter registration cards.

After the attorney's check, it will be given to the City Council for final decision.

It is necessary to have 603 valid signatures to call an election to form a charter committee. The committee is made up of 15 persons who in turn will draft the city charter.

Former Councilman Frank Morrell, who was defeated in his bid for reelection last May, came up with a slate of 12 potential candidates for the charter committee this past week, indicating that they will file for election on one petition.

By group filing it is easier to come up with the required 603 signatures necessary for placing the name on the ballot.

A total of 830 valid signatures are required for placing a name on the ballot to serve on the charter committee.

Meanwhile civic organization and women's organizations are taking increased interest in the progress of the charter petition and in scanning the field for good qualified candidates to serve on the charter committee, with the deep-rooted feeling that good government will come as the result of active participation by everyone.

'Veteran' Day Passes Quietly

It was Veterans' Day yesterday in Henderson, but a very quiet one.

Only a handful of flags were on display throughout the city.

The American Legion post joined in a parade in Las Vegas, Monday morning to mark the only formal observance of the day.

Schools, banks, the post office and the city hall and about one-third of the business establishments were closed.

Local Woman Killed in One Car Accident

A Henderson woman, Mrs. Davis Alger, was killed and three members of her family sustained injuries Saturday when their car left the pavement and rolled over twice about 25 miles south of Wells.

Mrs. Alger was taken to an Elko hospital where she died.

Her husband sustained a broken back and Sanra Alger 3, a broken arm, and Raymond 2, minor injuries.

Passing School Bus Unloading Proves Costly

Alex Leyba forfeited a $50 bail for passing a school bus while unloading in court action before Municipal Judge Earl Davis on Friday.

Fined on speeding counts were Walter George Turner $10, Charles F. Zellner $10, and Betty Palsegrone $10. The two latter drivers forfeited bail in the amount of $10.

Alvin Hurst Lloyd was fined $175 for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquors.

FALSE ID CARD BRINGS $125 FINE

After being involved in a fight outside a Henderson night spot Thursday evening, a young man identified as Robert Randall Jones faked a heart condition at the police department and attempted to escape when he was taken to the Rose de Lime hospital.

His attempted break failed, however, and Jones was returned to a cell.

Friday morning Jones was fined $100 for falsifying a identification card and $25 for a minor being in a bar by Judge Earl Davis.

Self - knowledge, humility, and love are divine strength. - Mary Baker Eddy.

'Door-To-Door' Canvass Falts

The city's Cub Scouts were willing and anxious.

The Chamber of Commerce Christmas decorations committee thought it was a good idea that if each family contributed 50 cents towards Christmas outdoor decorations that they would feel they were a part of the program.

But it was no go! A delegation of scouts started out Friday night to canvass door - to - door for Christmas decoration money seeking 50 cents a family but met with little success.

The drive was called off when the youngsters who had contributed their time and effort found little enthusiasm for the project.

Special Session For School Aid Still Uncertain

State Assemblyman James I. Gibson of Henderson will attend a legislative meeting on revision of the school formula next Tuesday in Carson City.

The Assemblyman said Monday that he had heard nothing further about a special session for early in 1964 to consider the school financial emergency, although most legislators apparently were in favor of it.

CENTENNIAL PLANS PROVIDE PROGRAM FOR CHAMBER MEET

Centennial plans will provide the program for the regular membership meeting Thursday of the Henderson Chamber of Commerce at noon at the Eldorado Club.

Austin Bowler, Clark county Centennial chairman, and Joe Smithers, district representative for the state of Nevada Centennial Commission will both talk on the plans.

Mrs. Mildred Breedlove, Poet Laureate of Nevada, will be present and a copy of her poem commemorating Nevada's 100th anniversary as a state will officially be presented to the Henderson library by Xi Sigma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

The meeting will be filmed by KORK TV.

MORRY'S STORY

by Morry Zenoff

We should bring out the whistles and bells and non and should the praises to the skies of one Mark Leff, first large purchaser of acreage here. He is closing a deal for some of his land to Clark County Housing for a new rental complex.

It's about time. He will learn enough from the comparatively small piece that he's selling to almost pay for the entire 1900 acres he bought.

Within the next five years he'll be a living example of a modern day prospector who made a couple million because of his willingness to grab a piece early when everyone else feared to tread.

Boulder City's land sales policy is to sell only to those who plan development immediately. And Boulder owns 33 square miles of land some 22,000 acres which will be sold for development - not speculation.

Hats off to a grand pack of wolves — the Basic Wolves, that is who batted it out on the football field against larger odds and only to lose on the scoreboard.

But — the home folks are proud of their efforts, nonetheless, and you can bet the scrappiness shown this year will turn into touchdowns and winning numbers on the big board the next few years.

The residents around the golf course got together and contributed toward improvement of the access road to the area. Some of the work has been done but when it is finished, you'll be so proud. Like you are of the streets in Pittman that have been carpeted with asphalt on a pay as we go basis by the residents there.

This, to me, is community effort of the tops category. Most unusual contraption in town is Bob Kesterson's desert buggy. You should see it. Makes you forget about jeeps and the like.

Schools Plan Open House For National Education Week

In conjunction with cities and communities nationally, Mayor William B. Byrne, has proclaimed the week of November 10 through 16 to be American Education Week.

School Open House Programs and business display window Educational Exhibits will feature the observance of American Education Week by local schools.

School Open House schedules were announced by Lylal Burkholder, Director of Area Schools, as follows:

Tuesday, November 12, 7:00 to 9:00 p.m., Basic Elementary School and Park Village Elementary School.

Thursday, November 14, 7:00 to 9:00 p.m., Basic High School, Henderson Junior High School, Townsite Elementary School.

Tuesday, November 19,

7:00 to 9:00 p.m., Valley View Elementary School.

Open House Programs and Educational Exhibits are designed to give parents an opportunity to observe and evaluate the program of educational opportunities provided for our children by the Clark County School District.

Parents are invited and urged to visit schools during the Open House periods and also to view the educational exhibits on display in the business area. A feature of the business area display is a presentation of the 'Traditional Pupil Study Station' and a full scale assembly of the 'Pupil Study Station of the School of the Future'.

Parents, who find it impossible to visit schools during Open House schedules because of employment hours, are cordially invited to visit school during American Education Week at any time in the regular school day.

Clark County Schools are dedicated to providing much better than average quality education for our children.

The sustained, active interest and support of every parent is absolutely essential to the attainment and preservation of this objective.

"Support your children, schools and teachers," said Burkholder, "and plan to visit at least one school and one exhibit during American Education Week."

Frank Rocha Undergoes Delicate Eye Surgery

Frank A. Rocha returned to his desk as counsellor at Basic High School this past week, happy to be back to work after undergoing two extremely delicate eye operations which threatened his vision in both eyes.

Late in September, the counsellor arranged for a routine eye-examination with a Las Vegas specialist who discovered detached retinas in both eyes and told Rocha that he was threatened with the loss of sight within a period of six months to a year.

Immediately arrangements were made by Dr. Jose H. Vidal of Las Vegas for Rocha to consult with Dr. Dohrmann Pischel, one of three eye specialists in the United States who performs the "spot-welding" technique in detached retina surgery.

The operation on the right eye was made on Oct. 6, and four days later the "spot-welding" technique was used on the left eye. His head was immobilized for a period of 10 days with a brace and for another 20 days he wore peepers, or pads moulded to fit over the entire eye surface with small slits.

The retina is known as the mirror of the eye and a detached retina is generally caused by a blow or a force of some kind on the head, although Rocha doesn't remember such an incident.

In spot-welding the detached retina, an intense heat instrument is used about the size of a ball-point pen. This is used to sever the muscles on both sides of the eyes so that they can turn the eye in the socket. Tiny pinchers are used to cause the scar tissue to fuse to the eye ball. The greater amount of scar tissue remaining the greater the chance for success of the operation. Rocha was in total darkness for seven days and when he saw his first gleam of light said, "It was like the best Christmas I ever had."

The spot-welding method was developed by a German physician during World War II, and one other ophthalmologist in San Francisco and one in Chicago in addition to Dr. Pischel use this method for detached retinas.

Rocha describes the operation as being a painful one and because he would not take a general anesthetic, the surgery was performed with novocaine immobilizing the area. Rocha described it as "putting a finger into a lighted match."

The popular Basic high counsellor is still wearing dark glasses and at night pads over his eyes to keep from unconsciously rubbing them and irritating them.

But he says the vision in his right eye is already better than it was when he had his first examination, and the left eye is improving steadily.

"You take your sight for granted," he commented, "until you are deprived of it."

While at the Children's Hospital in San Francisco where the operation was performed, Rocha said there were patients from South Africa, Venezuela, New Zealand and points in U.S. awaiting similar operations. Coincidentally, Ken Brace, a Las Vegas high school student, who suffered a detached retina as the result of boxing was also there for an operation.

Frank Rocha is happy to be back at his desk as are the scores of Basic high students with whom he consults daily.

Thefts Here Range From "Bra", Stretch Pant to Wine And Wheels

Shoplifter and small-time thefts left their mark on the Henderson area over the weekend with the goods stolen ranging from a "bra" to three wheels and tires.

A pair of stretch pants valued at $1.69 was taken from the Vegas Village department store on Nov. 7 and a juvenile was arrested and later released for the theft.

That same day three wheels and tires were removed from a late model vehicle at the Henderson Auto Body from a car belonging to Albert Ullrich of Las Vegas.

However, all was not lost as Martin Maestas of 75 E. Pacific reported that he found an 18 - inch Motorola TV in his pickup truck. A check with the neighbors revealed that none of them had lost a set so it is being held by the police department.

The following day, Nov. 8, three blankets and a shag rug were taken from a clothes line belonging to Mrs.

Loris Westover of 123 Lola; the Vegas Village department store apprehended a Boulder City woman who had stolen a $2 brassiere from their store; and Mrs. Grace McDonald of the Ace Motel told police that someone had entered her trailer and had taken $80 from her coin purse while she was away. But that day had its bright side too as Mr. and Mrs. Horne recovered a portion of the jewelry and lighters taken from their home at 1875 Pacific on Oct. 29 through the efforts of police officers who were successful in getting two juveniles to show where some of the loot was hidden.

To cap an unusual week-end with unusual items, Joyce Crawford of North Las Vegas was the victim of a theft of money in the amount of $7 taken from her purse lying on the car seat, while the owner was sitting on the fender of the vehicle watching the drag races.

FUTURE PLANS for the black mountain estates homes prove interesting to Arthur Espinoza, left, and Mayor William Bryne. The homes will be located adjacent to the golf course and many of them have been completed with construction continuing on others. Espinoza is the sales representative for Security Homes which has also opened a branch office at the Country Club.

TMCA CONTRIBUTES RARE SOUVENIER FOR CENTENNIAL

Among the most priceless souvenirs of the Nevada Centennial Celebration will be the invitations to the Governors of the Fifty United States which will be contrived from the worlds newest metal and the States oldest wood.

The invitations in the form of a titanium plaque, will be made by Titanium Metals Corporation of America as TMCA's contribution to the Centennial from its Henderson plant.

The plaques will be framed in wood taken from the timbers used in the oldest mine at the Comstock Lode in Virginia City, which played a major role in the history of both the Nation and the State of Nevada.

Site, Plans, Curriculum For Vocational School At East Las Vegas Told

The Clark County School district is negotiating to purchase a large acreage on the mesa back of East Las Vegas at $2.50 per acre for the erection of technical-vocational school, Supt. Leland Newcomer told the Home News yesterday afternoon.

The district hopes to purchase the acreage from the federal government. It is located between Desert Hills and the Paradise Valley Golf Club, Nellis Boulevard when extended will go right through the center of the acreage.

An all-day conference has been set for Nov. 22 to discuss the buildings and plans, Newcomer said.

"This will be a prestige school — not a dumping ground for those who fail in other schools," the school administrator commented, "and students must apply for admission and will be carefully screened and tested."

Newcomer estimates that the school may operate on a 24-hour a day schedule which would make it possible for those who have dropped out of school to continue their education while working and to obtain a diploma. Plans call for adult evening classes in various trades and skills.

"The start will be small with possibly 500 to 1000 11th and 12th grade students," Newcomer continued. "The regular high schools will have exploratory classes in industrial arts but will not attempt to train students for trades. Distributive education will be continued at the regular high schools and added courses can be attended in the evening at the vocational - technical school. This should be valuable for those planning to enter college as well as for those who prefer skills and trades."

A county-wide survey has been conducted and it has been found that there is a great demand for electronic technicians. There is also a tremendous demand for chefs.

The district schools head said, "The curriculum would be changed from time to time so that practically all saleable skills could be taught.

It is expected that the school will be completed and ready for occupancy by 1966.

Dr. Harold B. Gores, president of the Ford Foundation's Educational Facilities Laboratory, Inc. was in Las Vegas Tuesday to check on the Foundation's $19,500 study grant for the proposed school and how it was being spent.

It has been suggested that two committees be created to establish the curriculum. One group would be made up of local and out-of-town educators, and the second of labor and industrial leaders.

Las Vegas and Clark county union groups have strongly supported the technical school which eventually would become a junior college.

Meeting the proposal goal of Sept. 1966 for the start of the school operation is judged on the premise that the next spring's anticipated school bond issue passes.

Suggestions For Centennial Year Participation Outlined

Bob Jones, Bank of Nevada assistant cashier, and Halvor Bennion, junior high school principal, are seeking the support of residents and community groups for Centennial ideas for the coming year.

The two men are co-chairmen of the Chamber of Commerce's Centennial committee.

They ask that organizations start working with the events they already have by giving them a new Centennial flavor and then to add all the new events possible.

Other suggestions include: Incorporating centennial themes in all annual events and tournaments; to arrange special exhibits to be featured during the Centennial year as "Nevada Today" as well as "Nevada Yesterday."

To set the Centennial year aside as the year to concentrate on contributions to the improvement of the community; such as, welcome sings city beautification, facilities for city parks and recreational facilities.

To use the Centennial as a vehicle for establishing memorials, scholarship and building funds, or special funds for special projects which will benefit the community.

Wilbur Perkins' Original Songs On Stereo

Det. Sgt. Wilbur Perkins of the Henderson Police Department, was surprised this week to see two of the songs which he wrote in 1950, on a stereo record of Country and Western Stars Music.

The songs, "The Letter You Promised to Write," and "Flowers Speak Louder than Words," were vocalized by Ferlin Husky, with the original background music of when they were first recorded.

Bonanza Applies For Thrift Fare To L.A.

Bonanza Air Lines has applied to the Civil Aeronautics Board for an $11.43 Thrift Fare on its heavy Los Angeles-Las Vegas route. Children's Thrift Fare would be $5.72.

If approved, the new low fare will become effective on December 1st. It will be a one-way fare usable on a designated number of Bonanza's twenty-five daily flights between the two cities. Tentatively, the fare will be applicable on departures at off-peak times.

Larry Decker, Bonanza vice president of traffic; reported that "The $11.43 fare will be the lowest airline fare ever offered between Los Angeles and Las Vegas, a route already carrying a half million air passengers annually."

"Our $13 each way Excursion Fare which has been so widely used is still good on any of our twelve daily round trips on the six days it applies," Decker said. "All Bonanza flights, including the proposed Thrift Fare flights, use 40-passenger F-27A jetprop planes."

Stage Crew Adds Finishing Touches To Setting For Play

The stage crew for the Senior Class Play, "Death Takes A Holiday," under the direction of Jessie Valdez, has been busy this past week working with the stage props and making final touches to the set in preparation for the November 18 and 19, presentation of the production on the stage of the Basic High School gymnasium.

The students have completely refinished the furniture for the play. It has all been repainted and upholstery materials have been dyed to provide highlights of red throughout the setting.

Lamp shades have been painted and pillows covered to compliment the dark blue walls of Count Lambert's living room in his spacious castle in Italy. The entire action takes place in this room over a three day period.

The technical staff, under the direction of stage manager Mike Bergemeyer, has been working with special lighting and sound effects during past weeks.

The members of the cast have continued with rehearsals each evening and are concentrating on individual character interpretation. They will begin costume rehearsals this week, with full make-up and costume rehearsals scheduled.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Senior class. The play will be presented next Monday and Tuesday. Curtain time will be at 8 p.m.

Leads Workshop George Perkins At State Meet

George Perkins, Henderson's Director of Public Works, will be a workshop leader on public works during the 1963 fall conference of the Nevada Municipal association which will be held Nov. 15, 16 and 17 at the Flamingo hotel in Las Vegas.

Featured speaker at the meeting will be Mayor John Collins of Boston who will speak on "Improving the Municipal Image" at the annual banquet to be held in the Comstock room Friday night, Nov. 15 at 8 p.m.

The public works workshops will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. and again at 1:30 p.m. The two subjects to be discussed include "Special assessments and subdivision development" and "The Do's and Don'ts of public works."

Special Class At Jr. High Needs Motor

Victor Hall, assistant principal at Henderson Junior High School, has announced the need of an old gasoline motor for use in a special interest class at the school.

The motor need not be in good condition and Hall said a small motor, such as a scooter motor, would be preferable to a larger one; however, if small motor cannot be found a regular automobile engine could be used by the class.

The class is instructed by Pick Piggot, special education teacher at the junior high school.

It is hoped that some resident, who has an old motor, will donate it to the school for this special class. The donor may call Victor Hall at the school (565-9211) and it will be picked up.

Highway Department Resumes Winter Road Reports

Residents traveling in the northern portions of Nevada after November 13, will be able to determine the condition of the roads through the Nevada Highway Department's annual winter road report service.

Road information is available by dialing RO 1-2345. This is a 24 - hour service and according to Deputy Highway Engineer R.E. Eldredge, it is being improved again this year with additional lines being used to meet the increased demand.

Eldredge noted that Bell Telephone Company reports show that over 400 calls have been received in a single 24 - hour period. Now in its fifth year, the taped telephone reports provide motorists with the latest driving conditions on all major highways in Nevada and the Sierra Nevada region of California.

Two minute messages are prerecorded at regular intervals, or as changing highway conditions demand, and electronically fed into the telephone system when RO - 1-2345 is dialed.

Travelers, who wish to check road conditions before leaving this area, may do so by calling the Nevada Highway Patrol office in Las Vegas.

On Sports

by Burt Hoffman

Those of us who might as an individual. Even Tony Galento whom Louis kayoed in a replica of a pier six brawl spoke highly of his conqueror as did Max Baer and Billy Conn and Jersey Joe Walcott.

From his humble beginnings as one of sixteen children of a sharecropper family desiding in Alabama throughout his long reign as undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world, Louis conducted himself with a quiet dignity that earned him the unqualified respect of both his fans and his opponents.

Though unwise financial ventures and his open handedness made him a prime target for hangers-on and similar parasites plus his troubles with the income tax people, Louis does not have an unkind word about anyone.

The only individual whom he faced in the ring and wanted to decapitate was the former champion, Max Schmeling who knocked out the Brown Bomber in their first battle in 1936. But he undoubtedly hated the symbol that Schmeling represented rather than the man

Rocky Marciano paid tribute to the ex-champ when queried some ten years after he defeated Louis in the ring and finally made the Bomber hang up his gloves for good.

Those who were in close contact with him during his floruous reign prior and just after World War II, Nat Fleisher, famed boxing authority, Manny Seaman, his trainer, and Ruby Goldstein, referee, added their quiet tributes and their analyses of the man.

Now more than fifteen years after he relinquished the title, Louis remains one of the most popular figures in athletic history and a familiar figure in the Las Vegas area where he is always pleasant to those who say "Hi Joe," and he is always the recipient of a tumultuous reception whenever he is introduced at one of the convention hall's boxing shows. Our only comment is . . . he deserves it.

Deer Hunters Running Behind 1962's Success

Nevada's 1963 deer kill, to date, based on compilation of deer hunter return report cards received by the Nevada Fish and Game Commission, is running slightly behind the take as of the same time last year. Figures on this year's deer harvest to the present were released recently by the Commission.

In total deer reported taken as of October 25, there were 453 less animals talled than at the same time last year, or 6,536 for this season as compared to 6,989 for 1962. Total antlerless is running behind by 197 deer, or 3,139 compared to 3,336, and total bucks by 256, or 3,397 compared to 3,653.

Upon a further look at the harvest figures, to date, residents are bagging deer at a better clip than last year. So far, the resident hunters have reported taking 56 more deer this year than last year at the same time, or 2,563 to 2,507. This is somewhat unusual, in that a lagging harvest is usually reflected in a drop in the resident take. This year, however, the nonresidents have fallen behind last year's figure by a total of 265 deer.

As has been customary for years, the Owyhee District, or Elko County, is the leading deer producing country, to date. Some 3,725 of the total 6,536 have come out of that area. Harvest, however, is somewhat behind the 1962 figure for Elko County. The Wheeler District, including White Pine and parts of Eureka, Lincoln and Nye Counties, follows with 1,586 deer which is about on par with the previous year. Resident take is running ahead in both areas but nonresident harvest is down.

As to whether or not the present trend may continue, that is, the harvest continues to be lower than last year, it is still too early to tell, points out the Commission. The right break in the weather can party. It's doubtful, though, that Rocky will be able to do so to save his soul.

Pheasant Hunts Show Promise For This Fall

It's a burst of blurred magnificent color against a background of fall-tinted fields when the Chinese pheasant cock flushes before the oncoming hunter. Exciting for the hunter, to say the least, and last Sunday, Nevada pheasant shooters swung into action since the ringneck season opened in all portions of the state holding hunts except in Clark and part of Lincoln County.

Outlook for pheasant hunting this year is good, say

Nevada Fish and Game Commission officials. Wild populations of the birds are up and, in addition, the Commission has been stocking some 5,000 mature cock ringnecks into the popular hunting areas in the state.

The birds have been released during the week in Carson, Smith and Mason Valleys, and in the Fallon, Fernley, and Lovelock areas. Also 1,000 of the 5,000 birds were planted at the Overton and Key Pittman Wildlife Management Areas in southern Nevada. In continuing with its pheasant stocking program of the last few years, the Commission has released the birds on lands where the landowners agree to allow public hunting.

Prospective nimrods should note, however, that only limited amounts of hunters based on land and birds available will be allowed on the properties at any one time. Prior to venturing on private land, all hunters should ask permission of the landowner. Pheasant seekers, desiring names of cooperating ranchers, may obtain them by contacting the Nevada Fish and Game Commission office in Reno.

Once again, as in the past, 8:00 A.M. to sunset daily shooting hours will be observed on pheasant in all areas holding hunts except in Clark and Lincoln Counties where shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset.

Along with pheasant, quail hunting will open in those areas having ringneck hunts.

Already turning various colors are leaves and certain exposed portions of women reluctant to discontinue wearing slacks.

Basic, Boulder Bands On Nat'l TV Sports Show

High school bands from Boulder City and Basic along with Las Vegas Western and the LVHS Rhythmets will be seen locally on the nationally-advertised "Wide World of Sports" next month.

The three bands and the Rhythmets are included in the pageantry accompanying the 1963 World Invitation Amateur Roller Skating championships at the Las Vegas Convention Center Wednesday and Thursday nights.

The ABC network will film the spectacle for release Dec. 14 which will be seen by a viewing audience of 30 million in this country plus Eravision and New Zealand hookups.

The Basic band under the baton of Duane Fuller will have 65 musicians and will enter the Rotunda area playing "Bravura."

Playing "Manhattan Beach" will be the Boulder City high school musicians under the direction of Mrs. Carol Johnson. The Boulder City band has 60 members. Fuller will also lead the combined bands in the national anthem saluting the host country just prior to the start of actual competition opening night.

HUNTERS HAVE BAGGED ELK IN NEVADA'S LONE WAPITI HUNT

One-third of Nevada's 1963 elk hunters have already reported success, according to the Nevada Fish and Game Commission.

Five return hunter report cards have been mailed back into the Commission reporting success. Of this number, three reported taking six-point bulls, and two smaller bulls in the three-point category. One of the successful hunters came from Reno, one from Gardnerville, one from Elko, and two from Las Vegas. A total of 15 tags were allotted on a drawing basis for the state's lone 1963 elk hunt in the Spring Mountain range area of Clark and Nye Counties.

The elk season for the single hunt will continue until November 17. It is possible that some more kills may be recorded by the time the season ends.

Sen. Javits (R-NY) says Rockefeller is fighting to save the soul of the Republic party. It's doubtful, though, that Rocky will be able to do so to save his soul.

Twins Of Our Town

SHARING—from left, Jim and Mike, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cavalieri, Jr., are shown sharing a lesson in the same book. The two boys attend Basic Elementary School. Both are in fifth grade but Jim is in Mr. Bingham's room and Mike's teacher is Mr. Throckmorton. They choose their own clothes, have their own friends and do not always like the same things. Their father is an electrician and part-time real estate salesman.

FINISHING TOUCHES—Jim and Mike Cavalieri, from left, decided to dress alike for their date with our photographer but slipped up on the socks. The twins were born Dec. 20, 1953 at So. Nev. Memorial Hospital. Jim weighed 4 pounds 4 ounces and Mike, 4 pounds 15 ounces. They still weigh within two pounds of each other. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cavalieri, jr. have lived here 11 years and reside at 265 Major Ave.

GETTING SET—Mike Cavalieri, front, centers the ball as he and his twin brother, Jim, prepare for a game of touch football. Their younger brother, David, 5, is sometimes allowed in the game with the 10-year-old twins. Jim and Mike do not usually dress alike and are easy to identify as Mike is shorter and has dark hair while Jim's hair is light.

'Mousey' Returns To Old Home After Being Lost Two Months

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hardtner and family lost their pet cat "Mousey" two months ago when they moved from 11 Wyoming Street to 49 Laswell.

The cat, about five years ago, escaped after being taken to her new home when she was frightened by a strange Tom cat.

The Hardtners had given their pet up as lost and were greatly surprised when she turned up at their former residence a few days ago.

Mrs. Hardtner went to the house on Wyoming Street and was very warmly greeted by the missing "Mousey." The cat appeared in good health although she is reportedly very streamlined in appearance as she weighs only half as much as when she disappeared.

She was taken to her new home for a second time and is expected to stay. She was extremely hungry and when fed actually ate so much that Mrs. Hardtner was afraid she would become ill. The meal, however, only made her sleepy and being at home she stretched out happily for a long nap.

"Gov. Wallace of Alabama will go down in history," says an outstanding segregationist. Yes, of course, but how far down is a matter of opinion.

BULLDOZING AWAY!—Clouds of dust and great activity west of Henderson these days marks the leveling of land, the laying of sewer and water pipes and the building of commercial enterprises in Henderson Industrial Park to greatly benefit the economy of our community!

Photography by Jay Florian Mitchell

Henderson's destiny to become a great city of homes and industry is rapidly taking place through the efforts of far-sighted leaders of the community.

In cooperation with these leaders, Henderson Industrial Park has taken the initiative to bring this destiny to early fulfillment.

On 1,040 acres of onetime desert wasteland, a large area is currently under development.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent to date by Henderson Industrial Park. Within one year the figure should total one million dollars!

The employment level in Henderson Industrial Park along Sunset Road has exceeded 250 and should expand considerably in a few months.

Henderson Industrial Park—now bringing industry and creating beautiful residential areas for the dynamic future of our City!

My Two Cents Worth

There seems to be a great deal of confusion about the Charter Committee. We are frequently asked the question: "Who is going to appoint the charter committee?" Answer: "No one is going to appoint the committee. . . the individuals who serve on this committee are elected by the people."
Who can file? Anyone who is a registered voter and has been a resident of Henderson for two years.

What constitutes the necessary ability to be an effective member of the committee?

This question is a little more difficult to answer; however, it is not necessary for the members of the committee to have profound knowledge of the city ordinances or the complete operation of the municipal government.

The municipal governing body operates the city as persons or companies in private life operate businesses. Let us assume that this committee is going to operate a business rather than a City. Let us also assume that this business is a restaurant and casino, with which most of us are familiar.

You will immediately agree that it would be foolish to insist that the head chef be someone who understood gambling or that he be able to work as a bartender, cashier, waiter or bookkeeper.

He should, however, have an understanding of how to purchase supplies for the kitchen and how to furnish a varied menu. He would need to know how many workers would be needed for adequate operation and be able to select the type of workers necessary.

His knowledge of the overall operation, while limited to his special field, would be invaluable in preliminary planning.

Those with specific knowledge or ideas for other departments would aid the planning and perhaps a specialist would be called in to coordinate the plans for a smooth working business.

What has this to do with the Charter Committee? First, let's remember that the committee member is only a "chef" in this planning operation, then let's discuss some of the people suggested by this Newspaper and see what they have to offer.

Let's start with Les DePeal. If you were one of the hundreds of people who attended the public hearing against the installation of a rendering plant in the Industrial Park, you will remember that Les was one of the outstanding spokesmen at the hearing.

It is doubtful that the prevailing winds would have taken the smell of this plant to Manganese Park where Les lives; however, he felt that what is bad for any part of the city is bad for all of the city. He feels that no use permit should ever be issued for an installation which harms any portion of the city.

We believe he would like to see some teeth in the zoning ordinance. He works as a maintenance engineer and his knowledge proper plumbing and electrical installations would also be useful. Les is also interested in youth and the moral and spiritual aspects of life.

George Monahan, Clark County Engineer, would understand the installation of streets, sewers, water lines, power lines, in fact everything which concerns the department of public works.

Hershel Trumbo and Ronald Langford are completely familiar with both installations and business management. Jacqueline Williamson, who worked as secretary to Mayor James French, and Cecile Becker, assistant to our first City Clerk, Harry Parson, have a knowledge of most of the inner workings of City Hall.

Selma Bartlett is an expert in the field of finances; Ralph Cramer understands accounting from "A" to "Z" and Art Hebert has a wide experience in both accounting and credit.

Barney Cannon is a journeyman plumber and has had experience in the administration of the County Hospital as a member of the Hospital Board; Chapman Wooten has personally headed the only subdivision developed here by individual citizens and home owners.

Don Richard is experienced in water distribution as it affects fire prevention and Floyd Osborn and Joy Frank are familiar with the needs of the Police Department.

All of this knowledge, plus the knowledge of others who might offer their services to help write the charter, would be working for the betterment of our city. . . not just today or during this administration but as long as this city exists.

Dr. Lorne Phillips, or any medical doctor here, would have great knowledge of what makes for good sanitation and public health.

Russ McDonald, bill drafter for the Nevada State Legislature, has already been contacted and has accepted the assignment to work as the expert who will coordinate the plans to make this city a smooth working business under the new charter.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK proclamation was officially made Wednesday afternoon by Mayor William Byrne seated as Henderson area school supervisor Lyl Burkholder looks on. Open house on Tuesday and Thursday at the various schools in the city will highlight the annual observe.

American Education Week

The week of Nov. 10-16 has been officially proclaimed American Education week with the local observance highlighted by open houses on Tuesday and Thursday.

Setting up an open house is one way to get the parents inside the school buildings and to make them aware of what their children and what the teachers are doing.

Everyday should be open house in our schools. We feel the schools would welcome that policy.

Many of the problems facing education today are due to the lack of understanding by the parents. Many dropouts could be prevented if the parents consulted with the teachers of those who would leave early. Many of the school crises and financial plights could be avoided if the adults were aware of what the schools were doing or attempting to do.

Schools are by no means perfect. There was a period when the faddists took over "socialize" the children at the expense of the learning processes. There are those who don't belong in the profession despite the clamor "that they are in teaching because they love it" not for the financial return. It took a Russian satellite to wake up the profession to the realization that at least a portion of its income

Chamber Approve Contract

The Highway Sign committee, under the direction of Ronald Langford, announced Thursday that it had let a contract to the Donrey Outdoor Advertising company to install and construct a new 42 foot by 14 foot billboard highway sign announcing "Henderson Welcomes You."

The sign will be placed on the Boulder highway west of Pittman in the near future.

The Third Stool

I don't think all this bulb burnin' bizness wuz figured in on the budget. We have been havin' meetin's left'n right, day n' nite, even Saturdays n' Sundays.

An FHA feller wuz invited to come to one of these meetin's an' I'm tellin' you he made a house builder's ears hotter than a sick goat in a pepper patch.

He brung out the fact that this builders had just dug one lil' ole soil test hole where a whole bunch of houses wuz to be built.

The more the FHA man talked, the more this builder was wishin' he had the hole to crawl into. An' I don't think the vice president of his outfit wud be very fer behind him.

Before final approval by FHA, his land looked like a gopher convention had just left.

At this meetin' folks kept bringin' up our housin' shortage. They talked so strong on the subject I'm thinkin' about cleanin' out my shed house an' fixin' up a couple of them horse houses at the ole' corral or rentin' them.

A couple of weeks ago I said I write mostly about city hall, land developers and police. I've covered the first two items jest a little bit an' if you think I'm gonna say anything about our new policeman gettin' a snoot full the other day you have another thot comin'. The last time I mited booze with our police department a few folks looked at me like I wuz lower than that stuff on the bottom.

Anyway the chief slapped his wrists a little an' told him to get back to work.

Somebody asked me the other day wot's happened to the Miles home; things sure have been quiet about it lately. I dunno, but frum the looks of the house things had better stay that way. We left early for the football game last Friday an' it's a good thing we did. They start their games jest as soon as they get thru with the milkin'.

We couldn't buy no koffee at the game an' their players cudden't make no score, so I figured we come out about even on that deal.

I don't know who told them fellers in the pajama tops an' golf pants about this game, but somehow they found it out and wuz in there messin' things up jest like the last one.

I've got more different kinda stuff to write about this week then Central Market has dry cereal.

We got our 4th annual Halloween party fer kiddies of the Elks behind us an' I'm already lookin' forward to the next one. I know this kid hadda good time an' I think the rest of 'em did too.

We still seem to be havin' a little trouble gettin' the fruit punch outta them big milk cans, don't we Max? It wuz jest like last year -- the kids that it wuz part of the show.

I ain't never been to a style show before but I'm gonna go to this one Saturday. It's hard to believe the shapes of dresses can change so often. Right now Mama is bringin' up a five course dinner, includin' homemade biscuits, an' she has one of them "A Frame" dresses on. So fer, that thing ain't moved an inch.

We have a development commission set fer Nov. 13 at 8 p. m. in the council chambers an' we wud like to see a whole bunch of you folks there. If you can make it, bring along an idea that you think wud help develop our town a little faster.

Good Nite,
Al Langley

MORRY'S STORY

By MORRY ZENOFF

A few months ago we met with several Boulder merchants and interested townsmen and explained the details of a new policy of development of this newspaper.

We agreed that the editorial staff had to be expanded to keep pace with the growing community.

We promised to spend every cent taken in Boulder City on additional personnel, pictures and freelance writers.

We promised to absorb our production costs thru income outside Boulder City.

Tomorrow starts another big step forward in the life of the Boulder City News.

Tomorrow a brilliant young journalist—Allen Reeves—takes over as managing editor. He along with Virginia Morrison, Esther Shipp, Al Langley and several freelance writers will mirror to you each week the life, the tempo, the events and incidents that makeup Boulder City.

In order to hire Reeves, I had to spend considerable time urging his former employer, Bob Brown, managing editor of the Review Journal, that I needed him more than he did. He had great plans for Allen. Luckily, Allen himself helped sway the matter when he decided this city was for him and his family.

For a long time we have sought a qualified reporter-photographer-editor type of journalist. Many have come along but none, in our mind, fit the Boulder picture in so many ways—as Allen Reeves.

I wish him luck. I beg your patience until he gets his feet on the ground. The city will find him, his wife and child fine additions to the fine people that make Boulder one of the nation's best small communities.

He, like myself, is looking for the day when we can serve the community with a daily newspaper.

Drop in and say hello—or stop and chat with him if you see him around.

And you will be seeing him around.

Homespun In Henderson

By BILL MASON

In our rounds Monday, we stopped by at the Valley View elementary school where a perk first-grader was about ready to return home.

The youngster looked up at her teacher at the doorway and asked, "Miss Smith, what did I learn in school today?"

"Why?" asked the astonished teacher.
"Well, every night when Daddy comes home from work he asks me what I learned today and I never know what to tell him," replied the little girl complacently.

Just in case your finances aren't in good shape, you had better get busy at once to beef them up if you wish to observe "National Prosperity Week," Nov. 25-30.

Wonder if the Los Angeles Smog Control Commission would loan us some of their detection squad cars?

In the morning hours, tourists passing through Henderson are so concerned with peering through the smoke that they can't see our town.

Guess there's no use in saying "There oughta be a law."

Dribbling over from the industrial area is this bit of information about a new receptionist who answered the phone Friday to hear this inquiry: "Do you have a Sexhauer there?"

"Gosh no," replied the harried new employe, "we're lucky to get a coffee break."

On the serious side, the question of a charter for Henderson is not one belonging to the city council, nor to its legal representative nor to any other small band.

It is an instrument to be advanced by a civic-minded organization for the benefit of all the people.

We have a score of such organizations in our community without apparent objectives and little justification for their existence. The charter represents a true challenge for someone to pick up the ball and carry it across the goal line.

Maybe life is easier for the computers, but not for us human beings.

The post office has given us a zip number to remember in addition to a zone number. The phone company makes you remember seven numerals in dialing a call. Then, of course you have a social security number which you long have forgotten to remember.

Your insurance company assigns you a policy number and the bank donates another for your checking account.

We haven't checked the hospitals but we have a sneaking suspicion that the babies are tagged with numbers.

Comes the eventful day when you no longer have a number to remember and the headstone will probably read: Here lies 7765-32-9878. May you rest in peace by Order No. 344-10-4566.

We have been watching with eager eye for some California hunter to drive through town with a mule atop his hood in the mistaken belief that he had a deer.

It happened twice in the area of Colorado we came from, and only a check at the spotting station kept a Californian from bringing home some tasty mule-meat for the family.

It got to the point back there that the ranchers started hanging signs on their milk cows announcing "I'm not a deer."

Letter To The Editor

Dear Friends:

Our 99th anniversary has become history and as we look with great anticipation toward our Centennial we cannot but glance back and view with satisfaction, pride and much thanks to the many persons and organizations that contributed time, money and effort in making this birthday one to be remembered.

Oftimes those who had, a small part are overlooked, but to all—townspeople, merchants, advertisers, students, committeemen, civic officials and our visitors, without whom our efforts would be lost, we extend our grateful thanks and appreciation.

As our Centennial approaches we will be seeking your assistance once again to mark this milestone in the history of Nevada, truly the "Silver Gateway to the Golden West". We sincerely trust that you will enter into this effort with the same pride, determination and spirit as that which prompts our asking.

Once again, may we offer our most sincere thanks to each and everyone who took part or visited with us on Nevada Day 1963.

Most cordially,

MIXING BOWL—Four road graders are shown mixing the blacktop on Corn Street. The oil and gravel is turned over and over then left in a row down the center of the street to soak for remixing.

MARCHING MACHINES—Like precision marchers the graders promenade down Moser and Corn street as they turn this long heap of oil and gravel to the left then to the right for thorough mixing.

DO SI DO—Moving as adroitly as a square of dancers the four road graders turn around on Boulder Highway so quickly they cause no block to traffic. Each maintains his position in line for the return trip down the street.

Paving Project Is Graphic Proof Of What Citizens Can Accomplish

By Rae Von Dornum

The street paving, just completed, in Pittman is graphic proof of what people can do if they want to, and the Boulder Highway Association, sponsor of the project, is justly proud of its accomplishment.

The Association, now just nine months old, is an organization made up of businessmen and residents of Pittman, dedicated to "Civic Betterment and Community Improvement."

Discussion of the street paving was started in March but the project was not started until July when the group learned that it was possible to have the streets black topped by the Clark County Road Department, inasmuch as the area did not have sufficient tax valuation for an Assessment District. The Association assumed the responsibility of setting up a voluntary assessment plan, whereby the residents would pay for materials used on the streets and the County Road Department would do the work.

The County Commission and George Monahan, County Engineer were contacted and workers from the Road Department were sent out to look over the streets and determine the amount and type of material needed for the job.

Additional members of the Association were appointed to the street committee, headed by Dale Roberts, to contact residents of the area, explain the project and collect the assessments.

County Commission Chairman Lou F. La Porta and Monahan visited the August 6, meeting of the Association and said the County could do the paving mapped out by the group for $20,000. They stated that the work would have to be done before cold weather set in as the cold rolled blacktop should only be applied in warm weather.

Meetings were held once a week at the Community Center to report the progress of the project and aid the committee with collections.

The first check for $16,000 was presented to Commissioner La Porta at a meeting held September 17, and he promised that the work would be completed before the first of November.

The paving was started October 15, and the remaining $4000 was paid to the County Commission on October 23.

The County Road Department, having been delayed a week because of rain, lost no time once the work was started.

First came the big gravel trucks which placed a huge row of gravel down the middle of each street to be paved.

The trucks were followed by half a dozen big road graders and two oil trucks to pour oil on the gravel, mix it, pour on more oil and mix again until every particle of gravel was oil soaked.

This equipment was followed by the big rollers which also worked in conjunction with graders, scraping and rolling until the streets were smooth and hard.

Throughout the entire operation, all residents of Pittman were able to get in and out of the area and park their cars in their own yards at night.

Threats of rain caused some concern and the road

Not Much Water During October

A shortage of rain and snow on the watershed during October launched the 1963-64 water supply year in the Colorado River basin, Regional Director A.B. West of the Bureau of Reclamation's Region 3 announced today.

Measurements at 13 index stations in the Rocky Mountain area indicated that rain and snowfall on the watershed was only 88 percent of normal during October, the first month of the water year.

The Reclamation official pointed out that it is too early to forecast next spring and summer's runoff on the Colorado River and its tributaries.

The Bureau of Reclamation will issue its first runoff forecast for the 1964 April-July inflow to Reclamation reservoirs on the Colorado River and its tributaries next January, he said.

The April-July runoff this year of 3 million acre-feet, exclusive of water that went into bank storage in the newly completed Colorado River Storage Project reservoirs, was the second worst of record. The lowest was 2.2 million acre-feet in 1934. This year's April-July runoff was 5.3 million acre-feet below average and nearly 11 million acre-feet below the highest which was recorded in 1952.

Runoff from the Colorado River basin during October, exclusive of quantities going into bank storage in Colorado River Storage Project reservoirs, was 229,500 acre-feet as compared to the 40-year average runoff of 537,200 acre-feet. Colorado River Storage Project reservoirs, including Lake Powell, gained 152,200 acre-feet in storage during October. Lake Powell contained about 2.6 million acre-feet at the end of the month. Water releases at Glen Canyon Dam averaged about 1,000 cubic feet per second and amounted to 61,270 acre-feet during the month. Releases will continue at a restricted rate until the minimum power pool storage of a little over 6 million acre-feet is reached in Lake Powell preparatory to beginning of power generation at Glen Canyon Dam next summer, Director West said.

The Colorado River flow at Grand Canyon during October amounted to 77,260 acre-feet, 16,000 acre-feet of which was gained in runoff from the Paria, Little Colorado River and smaller tributaries between Glen Canyon Dam and Lake Mead.

Lake Mead's storage dropped 461,000 acre-feet and its level fell over 4 feet during October, changing from a water level elevation of 1149.03 to 1144.99 feet above mean sea level. At the end of October, the reservoir above Hoover Dam contained 16,910,000 acre-feet, or 10,297,000 acre-feet less than the lake's capacity at the top of the spillway gates in raised position. The lake's level at this elevation was 76.4 feet below the capacity level. A year ago, the reservoir contained 23,487,000 acre-feet or 6,577,000 acre-feet more and was 51.7 feet higher.

Delivery of electric energy to Hoover Dam allottees will total approximately 88.5 percent of the defined firm energy which for this year is 4.102 billion kilowatt-hours. To effect this delivery a total of about 8½ million acre-feet of water—sufficient to meet downstream requirements—will be released to the Colorado River below Hoover Dam during the year.

Water releases during October through the Hoover hydroelectric turbines amounted to 527,400 acre-feet, or department Entry to the home was gained through a bedroom window which was not locked. About $50 in damage to clothing inside the home was reported.

The Sprouse Reitz store at 120 Ocotillo reported that two transistor radios and an electric shaving were taken sometime this week from a display counter.

450,100 acre-feet more than flowed into Lake Mead. Water releases to the Colorado River below Hoover Dam averaged 8,600 cubic feet per second more than the average inflow to Lake Mead.

The water supply on the Colorado River is adequate to meet all downstream irrigation, municipal and industrial needs for the next year, Director West said. However, he again called upon water users to practice water economy to conserve the limited storage. He said most of the irrigation districts and other water users on the lower Colorado River are responding to his plea of last August or greater frugality in water usage.

"Plants enjoy music and thrive on it," says an experimenter. Maybe so, if care is exercised in selecting the music. It might cause a plant to suffer mental trauma and possibly give it the heebie-jeebies, for example, to play and sing to it, "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More."

AMONG THE MISSING

Mrs. Jean Spear of 327 Kansas returned home from a vacation Monday to find a $300 accordion and a $22.50 steam iron missing, she reported. Entry to the home was gained through a bedroom window which was not locked. About $50 in damage to clothing inside the home was reported.

The Sprouse Reitz store at 120 Ocotillo reported that two transistor radios and an electric shaving were taken sometime this week from a display counter.

Just In Case You Wondered, It's Increasing

Notice more cars on a road from work?

You're right — there are more, according to a recent traffic tabulation compiled by W. O. Wright, state highway engineer.

The count reveals that total traffic for the test period (mid-July) is up 5.8 percent over 1962. Commercial traffic is up 12.7 per cent; foreign passenger cars 4.6 per cent and Nevada registered cars 4.3 per cent.

Indicative of the traffic is the load on State Route 5C, Charleston Boulevard to and from Henderson.

During the checking period in 1963 a total of 22551 cars was the daily average as compared to 17926 in 1962 — a gain of 25.8 per cent.

A breakdown of that total shows that in 1963 3572 were commercial vehicles, 5962 were out-of-state cars and 13017 were Nevada registered cars. Percentage wise local cars accounted for the greatest increase.

BPW WILL TOUR C-D SHELTERS

A tour of Henderson's Civil Defense shelters and an explanation of the CD program in this area will be given to members of the Henderson's Business and Professional Women's Club members, Wednesday night by Robert Lund, CD director for the city.

The members will meet at 7:15 p.m. at the Henderson Lumber company for the tour. Following the tour a business meeting will be held at the home of Ines Jennings, 331 Tungsten at which time Christmas plans and the peacetime sale will be discussed.

PLANS FOR SAFETY—Jack Vaughan, planner at American Potash and Chemical Corp. is shown distributing various forms for plant workers. Interested in keeping the safety image before people all the time, he places eye-catching safety forms and slogans at the corner or top of many of his forms.

Am-Pot Planner Keeps Safety Image Always Before Workers

J. H. (Jack) Vaughan, Planner at American Potash & Chemical Corporation, Henderson, for the past nine years has some very definite ideas about safety. He believes that the safety image should be before the people all the time. In fact he has come up with the unique idea of putting a picture with a safety quotation in the corner or on top of many of his forms which are distributed throughout the plant. It is very eye-catching and effective.
