HOW TO RUN CITY—

Grand Jury Makes Recommendations

(Excerpt from Grand Jury 39 page report)

The Grand Jury makes the following recommendations relevant to the administration of the city of Henderson:

1. The city council institute its outside auditor's recommendations regarding the financial administration of the city.

2. The city council use every possible avenue to acquire funds to purchase land in Section 33 and grant deeds where applicable in the shortest time possible.

3. The city council fix responsibility to "watchdog" the Reserve section of the Land Sales Fund.

4. The city council use every possible avenue to replace monies collected for improvements.

5. In future, the city council should not extend delinquent land accounts while borrowing monies on which to operate the city.

6. The city council should guard against favoritism to special groups and assure that all land applications will be handled on an equal, non-preferential basis.

7. The city council should review the Land Fund section of the City Charter immediately, and if changes need to be made, be prepared to request such changes from the 1967 Legislature.

8. The city council should guard against needless and unjustifiable use of "emergency" powers and procedures.

9. The city council should follow statutory bid procedures as a rule, rather than as an exception.

10. The city council should establish a written policy governing future land sales and then adhere to it. If necessary, the city council should obtain consultant advice in establishing this policy.

Future councils should review this policy and re-adopt or amend it to ensure a continuous policy. This policy should follow the intent of the federal government which is to allow the orderly growth and development of the city, and not to put the city into the land speculation business.

This policy should establish acreage prices and clearly state reasons for the prices established.

Wallace Hopkins Assigned To Paratroops School In Georgia

Pvt. Wallace W. (Sonny) Hopkins, Jr. has completed eight weeks basic infantry training at Fort Ord, Calif.

At boot camp, Pvt. Hopkins was made Platoon leader and received an expert rifleman award. Upon graduation, he received a promotion to E-2.

After a short leave with his family in Henderson and his grandparents in St. Louis, Mo. he will be at Fort Gordon, near Augusta, Ga. for advanced individual training and then to Jump School where he hopes to earn the Silver Wings of a paratrooper.

Pvt. Hopkins attended Basic High School and graduated with the class of 1966. He played football and received the most inspirational Player Award.

Pvt. Hopkins is the son of Mrs. Edwina Hopkins and the late Wallace Hopkins.

"In outer space there is no up or down, north, south, east or west," says a rocketeer. And, according to Einstein, there is no hitching post there. To most of us, outer space sounds like a good place to avoid.

The Clark County Grand Jury was disbanded Tuesday by District Judge John Mowbray after submitting a report of its Henderson land deals investigation. There were no indictments but the report severely criticized former Mayor W. B. Byrne and members of the City Council.

No criminal charges should be brought against anyone as a result of the Grand Jury's investigation, the 39-page report said.

The original letter of complaint was written May 22, 1963, addressed to the foreman of the Grand Jury then empaneled, and signed by Robert E. Kesterson, Jack MacDonald, Ragnald Fyhen, Robert L. Tahyer and the late Dr. Earl Gould.

Charges contained in this letter included: possible conflict of interest (concerning Byrne specifically); use of city equipment on private property; failure of H. W. Polk to adhere to city ordinances; land trade deals with H. W. Polk with no bids let; purchase of furniture and a public address system for the new city hall without bids being let.

Since the date of the first letter of complaint, certain local newspapers also have made accusations against W. Byrne, and during the course of the present investigation, additional areas of concern were raised and investigated, the report states.

In its findings, the Grand Jury states that it wishes to make it abundantly clear that if Mr. Byrne were in office to day and still an employee of Henderson Land and Development Company, it would demand that he resign one position or the other, or face possible charges of official misconduct for conflict of interest.

The Grand Jury approached this investigation with two basic premises:

1. William Byrne, no longer Mayor of Henderson and no longer associated with any Harry Polk enterprise, has carried the charges of conflict of interest in office for more than two years.

2. Although the allegations concerning the land transactions named William Byrne, the city council had to approve each individual land transaction at a regular or special council meeting and upon council approval, Mayor Byrne affixed his signature to the necessary paper work. Therefore, council action also must be taken into consideration by the jury, the report states.

Thus, the investigation has not concentrated on Byrne alone, but has included actions of the various city councils and city officials and the relationship of certain private individuals with the city government.

We were concerned, says the report, with those statutes which govern the conduct of public officers, including misconduct, misfeasance, malfeasance and conflict of interest.

The Grand Jury has looked into various aspects of the governmental administration of the City of Henderson since its incorporation in 1953 to the present.

It is the purpose of this report to set forth the allegations investigated and relevant evidence and testimony to substantiate or discount the allegations, and to make recommendations.

FINDINGS

2. The facts show that statutory bid procedures were circumvented on several occasions by city councils who:

a. Approved construction of $140,000 sewer line under emergency council action; portions of this line are still not in use (action initiated December 12, 1960; see Appendix D)

b. Approved purchase of about $19,000 worth of furniture for the new city hall upon a favorable written opinion of the City Attorney (March, 1963; see Appendix G)

c. Approved $4,931.75 worth of vouchers for an intercom system in the new city hall with no record of bids being discussed (June-August 1963; see Appendix H)

d. With the exception of Councilman Roberts who fairly consistently voted "nay", approved and the city ultimately spent $65,429.05 for a water control system (August 1964-March 1965; see Appendix I)

Approximately $230,000 was spent in these four transactions without bids being let.

3. The jury found that between June 1960 and June 1965, the Land Sales Fund specifically was badly mismanaged (other city funds were not investigated):

a. Land Fund records were improperly managed and responsibility for record-keeping was not clearly defined (see page 20).

b. There was total disregard of recommendations of both the 1960 City Attorney and independent auditing firms from 1960-1965 (see page 21)

c. The Land Sales Fund was a revenue source freely tapped for general administrative purposes and in fact was depleted when Mr. Byrne left office (see pages 22, 23)

d. There was a flagrant breach of public trust by the mayor and members of the 1963-65 city council in the mishandling of monies accepted for Section 33 and advance payments for installation of water lines (see pages 13, 22, & 23)

4. The jury cannot absolve the present city council in toto because three members (Riggins, Marshall, Roberts) were elected in 1963 and served on the council during the last two years of Mayor Byrne's term. It was during these two years that the land fund negotiable asset were depleted.

5. We believe that in their desire to ensure sale and development of the federal land conveyance, the councils between June 1961 and June 1965 made unwise decisions which, at least on the surface, imply favoritism. We further feel that there definitely was special treatment afforded Harry W. Polk.

6. At no time has the Grand Jury been able to substantiate any charges or found any evidence that any city official received any personal profit from any questionable transaction with the exception of Mr. Byrne's salary from Henderson Land and Development Company.

7. Present and future city councils must be exceptionally careful with regard to land sale procedures, revenues and expenditures. Henderson can come out of its straitened financial position by careful and prudent management.

However, the Grand Jury feels strongly that unless the past record of improper handling of land sales is corrected immediately it may:

a. cause the withdrawal of the unsold land by the federal government

b. jeopardize future federal land releases within Clark County, Nevada.

Make Someone Happy On 'Sweetest Day'

Sweetest Day, a day to make someone happy, will be sponsored by Henderson merchants, Saturday, Oct. 15, it was announced by Paula Saragoza, chairman of the Sweetest Day Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

This occasion was first introduced to the West Coast three years ago when more than a dozen community mayors issued proclamations endorsing the idea. Sweetest Day has long been established in the East and Midwest, Mrs. Saragoza said.

Many local retail stores will participate and special events will be held during the week of Oct. 10-15. These will be announced shortly.

Sweetest Day originated with a storekeeper in Cleveland, Ohio more than 40 years ago, when he began distributing small gifts to deserving youngsters on the third Saturday in October. Today people use the occasion to say, "thank you," or "thinking of you" to their friends, business associates, to invalids and shut-ins and distant relatives or just about anyone who has ever performed an act of kindness toward his fellow man.

CLEAN OVERCOATS FOR WINTER SEASON

IF YOU DIDN'T HAVE YOUR OVERCOAT CLEANED LAST SPRING AND STORED DURING THE SUMMER IN A DUST-PROOF WRAPPING, YOU OUGHT TO HAVE IT CLEANED NOW.

First thing you know, there will be some cool weather and you'll start wearing it again. Then you'll feel like you shouldn't let it go to the cleaners because you might need it.

Well, there's a lot of "human nature" in this kind of behavior. But the fact is that few of us buy overcoats yearly — overcoats being made to last . . . and last.

Bearing that fact in mind, remember that a garment which is cleaned often will outwear one that isn't, by a wide margin.

Your freshly cleaned overcoat will not only look better and feel better, it will wear better. Think of last year's grime still in the fabric, and all of last summer's dust added to that. Now you have an idea how many "miles" or "hours" of reduced wear it's threatened with.

And, if it's absolutely necessary that you have the overcoat back the same day — or in a few hours, we can arrange that too. We don't have "loaners" but ask for special service and we'll get it out as fast as human hands and (almost) super-human machines can do it.

So gather up last winter's duds, and any other clothes or household items that need cleaning and

Sunday Festival Largest To Date

BOULDER CITY—
For the fourth year Southern Nevada residents will have an opportunity to view and purchase original paintings by outstanding professional and amateur artists when the Boulder City Hospital Auxiliary stages its annual Art Festival Sunday at the government park.
Among the many exhibitors will be Boulder City artist Cliff Segerblom whose watercolors have won him acclaim throughout the state. In this show he will have watercolors and mixed media.
Segerblom first came to Boulder City as a photographer for the Bureau of Reclamation. Leaving the Bureau in 1941, he went to Panama returning in 1946. While here with the Bureau, he did much documentary photography and, during the war, made motion pictures for the air force in Central and South America.
Besides exhibiting in this area, his work was in the third annual exhibit of American Art at the Metropolitan Museum in New York and in the "Road to Victory" exhibit in the Museum of Modern Art, New York.
Segerblom attended the Los Angeles Art Center on an art scholarship, studied at the University of Nevada, majoring in art. He had studied with such eminent water colorists as Eliot O'chara.
At present Segerblom is a watercolor and photography instructor at Nevada Southern University.
Leslie B. DeMille, Canadian born artist, who said "Portrait painting is my first and greatest love" is the feature artist this year. Portraits will be done during the Art Festival.
DeMille, a third cousin of the late Cecil B. DeMille, won a third prize, in open competition at the age of eight. Before he was 16 he had three first prizes and two grand awards in city-wide competitions in Canada, the country of his birth.
Encouraged by his parents, he spent four years studying art, then attended the Art Students League in New York City. While he was still in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, he became a commercial artist in the use of silk screen and color lithography.
DeMille and his family now reside in Costa Mesa, Calif. where he maintains a studio.
He took class and private lessons from Leon Franks and has since taught privately and in groups in his studio and nearby cities and has given demonstrations for adult education and other art groups.
He has displayed his work both in group shows and one man shows in the Southern California area, and is a member of the Orange County Art Association and the Anaheim Art Association.
He has painted many prominent people, both in pastel and oil. In 1965 DeMille was among the seven or eight finalists in the John F. Stacey award scholarship, which is open to all professional artists in the United States.

Gold Mine In The Sky

Throughout the history of the West, thousands of men have dreamed of some day owning a little gold mine where they could work a few months out of the year and make a nice living. Not a million dollars, but enough for comfort with time for leisure and money enough to enjoy it. The following story from toys. He added, "The amount of enthusiasm and the number of participants in 1965 were beyond our expectations and from the nearly response this year the interest will be even greater."

Sketches should be sent to the Toy Tinkers, 807 Greenwood St., Evanston, Illinois 60204.

Health Officer To Address Area Chemists

The first meeting of the year of the Boulder Dam Section of the American Chemical Society will be held to night at 8 o'clock in Room 202 in the Social Science Building at Nevada Southern University.

The Section will be addressed by Dr. V. H. Ueckert, assistant health officer of Clark County.

All interested persons are invited.

Newsweek tells how one man worked to make this dream come true and also provides at least a partial answer to why there are no small gold mines operating in this nation.

With his Lincolnshire whiskers sprouting under a shiny, bald pate and his wiry body nut-brown from the sun, chipper little Earl L. Francis, 35, looked for all the world like the last of the old-time sourdoughs — and in a strange sort of way, he was.

One mile high on a grass-covered ridge on a slope of the Catalina Mountains overlooking a vast stretch of Arizona desert, Francis two years old staked a gold-mine claim not far from the spot where Buffalo Bill Cody once lost a fortune trying to mine one of his.

Francis had quit his job in the small town of San Manuel, Ariz., to climb the pine-covered mountains that soar up from the desert floor.

But it wasn't really gold Francis was looking for. It was freedom. "A man can be free in the mountains," he liked to say. "He doesn't have to punch a clock or take orders from a boss."

Francis mined his claim the old-fashioned way, digging an 8-foot-deep shaft, smashing the rock with a hammer, sifting it, carrying the pieces on his back down the mountain-side, making a few dollars a month from the scanty gleanings of gold.

There was no road up the mountain. But on each of his trips back from San Manuel, Francis would tote an item for the home he was building with granite from his mine shaft.

He carried up a refrigerator, a 21-inch TV set, a bed, a divan, easy chairs, and glass panes for picture windows — quite a feat for a man weighing 125 pounds.

But then as Francis admitted with an elfin grin, he enjoyed the luxuries of life. He built a modern kitchen with hot water heater, a shower bath supplied by a tank of rain water on the roof, a fireplace with embedded gem rock over the mantle, and built-in tables and bookshelves.

He also taught himself how to brew up a passably palatable alcoholic concoction whose basic ingredient was cactus.

A gasoline-powered generator supplied electric light, an desert flowers and animal skins added a decorative touch. Finally, there were his own paintings. Earl Francis was a dedicated amateur artist, and his canvases, almost always of sunsets, hung on every wall.

It took him a year to finish the house and add a porch and a front yard of rock-bordered walks. And then the government struck.

A National Forestry Service ranger politely suggested that Francis was trespassing on public land. Just as politely, Francis pointed out that Federal law allows a home to be built on a mining claim. But the ranger countered that while this was true enough the practice was permitted only if the mine was a profitable venture.

Francis made no bones about the fact that there wasn't much gold in his mine.

"There's a few dollars worth I can scratch out. But I like it better that way than if there was enough to make me rich. At least I don't owe nobody and nobody owes me."

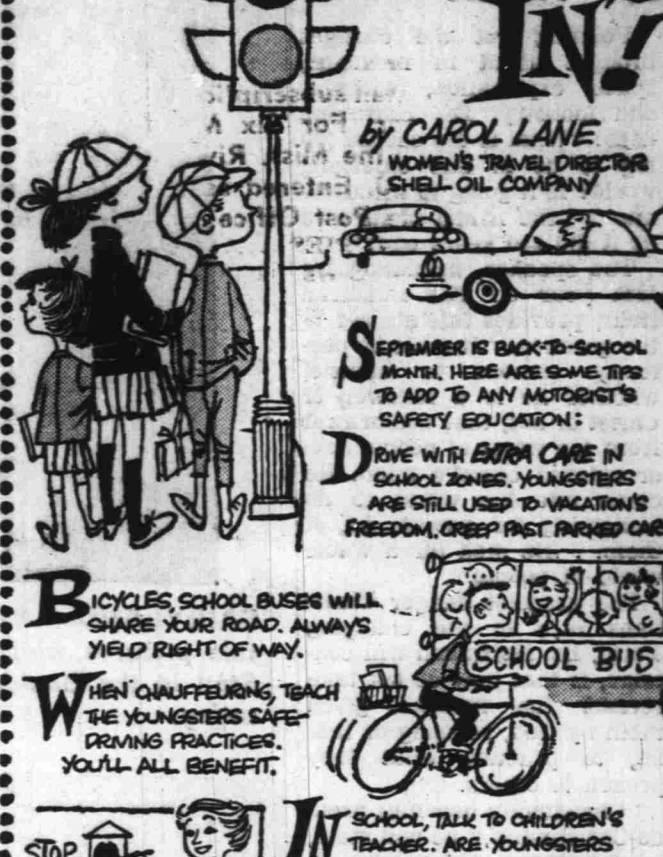

But that wasn't a good enough defense. And after a year and a half of hearings, pages of reports and hours of expert mining testimony, his claim was finally declared null and void, his appeal denied and Earl Francis was ordered, once and for all, to abandon his gold mine and tear down his home.

One afternoon last week, Francis walked his shaggy haired dog to the house of a friend.

Then he trudged back up the mountain. At 5:25 p.m., just

Vets Pension Act

Congressman Walter S. Baring announced House passage of the Veterans Pension Act. The following is Congressman Baring's statement before the House of Representatives:

"Mr. Speaker, I stand in support of H.R. 17488 the Veterans Pension Act of 1966 being considered here today.

"Although I introduced identical legislation and I urge passage of this measure, I am fully aware that this bill does not meet the needs of many Veterans and their dependents, nor does it fulfill the wishes of the several Veterans Organizations.

"The bill does provide a cost-of-living increase to nearly all of those on the pension rolls at the present time, but the provisions of the bill were kept within certain guidelines laid down by the Administration in connection with pay raises and I would say it is a moderate bill providing an overall increase of approximately 5.4 per cent.

"In the light of the tremendous commitments this country has both in Vietnam and on the domestic scene I would at sunset, he sat methodically on a keg of dynamite a few yards from his mine, his home and his artist's easel—and lighted the fuse. They never found very much of Earl Francis, but they did find his easel and his last painting; this consisted of the word LIFE and a large, carefully painted question mark.

'You Can Do Something About It' Is Lutheran Hour Theme

The Lutheran Hour, termed the world's most widespread non-government broadcasting operation, begins its 34th season on radio Sunday, Sept. 25, as Dr. Oswald Hoffmann emphasizes the theme, "You Can Do Something About It!"

The Lutheran Hour is the global radio ministry of Our Savior's Lutheran Church, 59 Lynn Lane, Henderson, Christ Lutheran Church, Boulder City and associated congregations. It is heard locally every Sunday at 10:30 a.m. p.m. over station KRAM, announced the Rev. Trenton R. Ferro, pastor of Our Savior's.

Pointing out the changes brought about in medicine, space exploration, warfare, and industry, Dr. Hoffmann asks: "What is the church going to do in this emerging world? Is it going to withdraw into a little island of its own as it did 200 years ago?"

The speaker, beginning his 12th year on The Lutheran Hour, provides this answer to the question: "It must be perfectly obvious to anyone, whether he is a follower of Christ or not, that withdrawal from the world of people never entered Christ's mind. He came into the world to do something for people, all of them. . . He died for a whole world of people."

The greatest danger Christians face in the changing world, Dr. Hoffmann will continue, is that they do not take serious the mission given them by God, refusing or failing to practice what they preach to others.

"Christianity becomes pseudo-Christianity," he will state, "when those who claim to represent Christ say all the right things but refuse to do the right things, showing no sympathy at all for their fellow men, uninterested in correcting the wrongs of the modern world, and making it quite clear that they have no intention of following Christ but rather propose to go their own little way in spite of everything good they may have to say about Him."

The Lutheran Hour each week broadcasts in 40 languages, reaching an estimated 30,000,000 listeners in more than 120 lands. The program is produced by the Lutheran Laymen's League, 140,000-member auxiliary organization of The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

Dr. Hoffmann has served the church for 30 years as parish pastor, college professor, film production adviser, public relations executive and worldwide radio speaker.

He was appointed Lutheran Hour speaker in 1955. For the first eight years he served on a part-time basis, also continuing his service as director of public relations for the Missouri Synod with his office in New York City. In the summer of 1963 he resigned the public relations post to assume the Lutheran Hour speakership on a full-time basis and moved to St. Louis where the broadcast headquarters are located.

"The same spiritual blessings provided by the Lutheran Hour are offered Sunday at our Savior's Lutheran Church," Pastor Ferro said. Services are held at 11 a.m. with Sunday School and Bible class at 9:45 a.m.

Frontiers of Liberal Religion Theme of Unitarian Guest Pastor

The issues implicit in the triple revolution in technology, sex and civil rights will be confirmed by Rev. Philip Ashley Smith, minister of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Riverside, Calif., in a talk "Frontiers of Liberal Religion."

It is Rev. Smith's contention that religion is still primarily oriented toward the 19th century and we must learn to live deeply and relevantly in the 20th century.

The talk will be presented by the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship, Las Vegas, at the Mesquite Club, 702 E. St. Louis Ave., Sunday, Oct. 2, at 4 p.m. The public is invited.

This is the first of a series of monthly programs to be presented by the local Fellowship featuring noted Unitarian Universalist ministers speaking on the theme "Emerging Trends in Liberal Religion."

Rev. Smith received BA and BD degrees at Tufts University with a year of study toward these degrees at Oxford in England. He was ordained a Unitarian minister in 1957, after which he served at the Unitarian Church in Marlboro, Mass.

His background includes considerable experience in social problems. He took courses at Boston University and clinical training at Boston State Mental Hospital. He was also Associate Protestant Chaplain at Norfolk State Prison in Massachusetts.

In 1960, while minister of the First Church, Louisville, Ky., he founded the Kentucky Chapter to Abolish Capital Punishment, was adult advisor to CORE, and a Board member of the Kentucky State Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

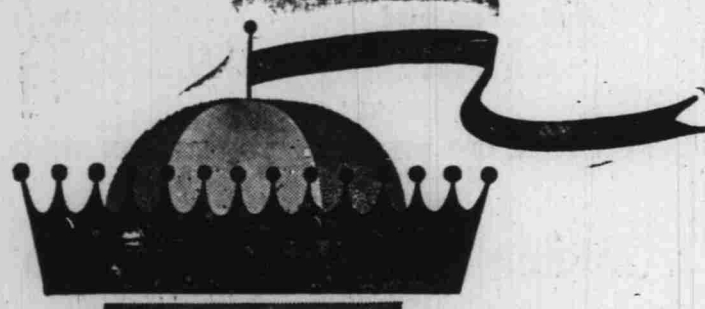

Rev. Smith has been serving the Riverside Unitarian Universalist Church since 1963, is president of the Riverside Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union and is on the Board of the Riverside Mental Health Association.

Baring Asks Tax Deduction For Teachers

U.S. Congressman Walter S. Baring introduced legislation to allow teachers to deduct from gross income the expenses incurred in pursuing courses for academic credit and degrees at institutions of higher learning and including some travel.

Congressman Baring joined his colleagues in introduction of this legislation due to the proposed changes in educational expense deductions as proposed by the Internal Revenue.

Baring said: "The teaching profession is already ridiculously underpaid. Nearly all other professions have tax write off provisions, conditions or other activities directly connected with the individual's business responsibilities. Added tax obligations might seriously and adversely affect the teaching profession."

WALTER MAGELSENS NOW BONAFIDE DESERT RATS

"I'd forgotten how beautiful the mountains are," said Glennis Magelsen last week after she and her husband, Walter, and their five children returned from a sojourn in Missouri and Tennessee, "and you'll never know how good the Henderson plants smelled when we got back here."

The Magelsens left Southern Nevada just after school closed last spring. The desert had lost its lure and they decided to return to Missouri.

After living there for a short time, they went to Tennessee thinking they might like life in the deep south. But they hadn't really reckoned with the lure of the desert. . . like the proverbial water in the well, it is taken for granted as long as it remains available.

When it isn't there, you miss it.

Missouri no longer seemed like the ideal place to live, and after a short while the Magelsens also tired of Tennessee.

Last week found them hurrying "home" to get the children in school.

They feel very fortunate as they were able to find a house in the neighborhood they left last spring and the telephone company restored their former telephone number. The entire family is delighted to be back and they are sure that this time it is for keeps.

This is the test for a "bonafide desert rat."

When the Magelsens came here more than two years ago, they had decided to move west, but had no real destination. Glennis and Walter decided to close their eyes, place a pencil on a map and select the place where it pointed as their next home.

Installment Now Due On Property Tax

W. W. Galloway, Clark County treasurer and tax receiver, wishes to remind all property owners that the second installment of property taxes for the fiscal year 1965-66 will become delinquent after Oct. 3.

He said penalties will be collected on the second installment after that date, and additional penalties will be collected on the first installment, which is already delinquent.

Galloway said the third installment of 1965-66 taxes becomes delinquent after the first Monday in January of next year, and the fourth and final installment will become delinquent after the first Monday in March, 1967.

"It is advisable for the taxpayer to be certain that all installments are paid as the tax year progresses, and not wait until next March," the Treasurer advised. "Penalties are higher at that time on all delinquent installments," he added.

Cannon Calls For Support Of Southern Nevada Water Project

Nevada Sen. Howard W. Cannon called on the Bureau of the Budget today for support of an appropriation to finance advance planning and initial construction of the Southern Nevada Water Project.

Cannon said he was "disappointed" that funds for the water supply project are not included in the Public Works Appropriations Bill approved by the House Appropriations Committee.

The bill is scheduled for House action this week, after which it will be sent to the Senate.

Cannon said today that "every effort will be made" to add about $1 million to the bill for initial work on the pumping and pipeline project which will bring Lake Mead water to municipal and industrial centers in Clark County.

He noted, however, that even if the funds are added to the Public Works Appropriations Bill by the Senate, the measure would have to be submitted to a Senate-House conference committee to resolve differences.

In correspondence today with Charles Schultze, director of the Bureau of the Budget, Cannon said construction of the $81 million project "is mandatory if Southern Nevada is to continue its orderly growth and development and its present prosperity."

He said the area to be served is one of the fastest growing in the United States, but faces a problem of water depletion.

"This project was considered to be so urgent and so economically and engineeringly feasible that it was authorized by Congress last year at a time when a regional water plan was under study and consideration," Cannon said.

He noted that all costs of the project are reimbursable over a 50-year period and described the amount requested this year as "small in comparison with other new public works projects."

CAPITOL BRIEFING — Assemblyman Art Olsen of Las Vegas, center, confers with Senators Howard Cannon, left, and Alan Bible on the status of Southern Nevada Water Project appropriations. Bible and Cannon both expressed "reasonable optimism" that funds to start the pumping and pipeline project could be secured this year despite House failure to approve any money.

American Potash Introduces New Titanium Dioxide Pigment

A new grade of chloride process titanium dioxide pigment, CR-800, has been introduced to the market by American Potash & Chemical Corporation. It was announced by Peter Colefax, chairman of the board.

The new grade, which supplements AP&CC's CR-801 general purpose grade pigment introduced to the market last November, is used in industrial lacquers and enamels, architectural gloss and semi-gloss coatings and maintenance paints.

Colefax said laboratory tests show that the CR-800 grade, like the CR-801 grade, meets or exceeds in quality any other comparable titanium dioxide pigment available.

The CR-800 grade, which is one of the large volume grades used by the paint industry, is available for evaluation and in commercial volume.

AP&CC produces the pigments at its new plant in

The Donald Roberts Home

542 Country Club Dr.

The hutch provides room for some of Mrs. Robert's antiques that she has setting around the house.

The outside of the home is hidden from the view of passersby by the decorative brick facade. The Roberts home is at 542 Country Club Drive.

By PAMELA LOVE
You enter the Donald Roberts home at 542 Country Club Drive through double doors. The front hall has quarry tile on the floor and a decorative brick wall which holds some of Mrs. Roberts' (Ginny) oriental antiques.

The Roberts home was furnished with the money Ginny won on Password when they lived in New Jersey.

The living room is to the left of the door, the bedrooms are to the right, and the dining room is directly behind the decorative wall.

The living room has traditional furnishings with an oriental touch throughout.

On each side of the cocoa-colored couch stands a large square end-table with standing Buddha lamp. The sofa sets in front of large windows which are on the carport side of the house.

On the coffee table in front of the sofa is an abacus and a replica of an old oriental iron, which resembles a scoop used in candy stores.

A divider cabinet sits between the two full length front windows with a surrealist painting of a ming tree as an attractive backdrop.

On the living room side of the three-sided fireplace sits a green chair which is next to a hexagonal table that has a drawer at the bottom and holds a teakwood Gishia girl and a bowl of blue artificial fruit.

An oriental figurine in an early American clock bell rests on the brick hearth seat.

A large burlap and felt wall decoration hangs above the fireplace. The 'Partridge in a Pear Tree' was made by Mrs.

Roberts and a friend for Christmas, but was never taken down.

The dining room is to the side of the living room. An orange floral arrangement adorns the large maple dining set. A hutch sits against the wall at the end of the room. Six lights in a spiral arrangement light the dining area.

You can enter the kitchen and the bedroom hall from the dining room.

The kitchen is in browns and greens. The counter tops are green formica, while the large appliances are brown. The indoor barbecue pit, which is in the side of the fireplace, can be moved outside if desired. Next to the pit is a small writing desk.

The family room, which is an extension of the living room and the kitchen, is being used as a breakfast room until benches are obtained for the breakfast bar. It contains a stereo and a television set. Above the stereo are two oriental wall plaques made of stone, rope and glass.

The Roberts have three children, Scott, 14, Dean, 12, and Maria, 9.

Scott, a sophomore tuba player at Basic High School, has his room in blues and white, with blond furniture.

Dean, who is in the seventh grade at junior high, has his room in a western motif, with bunkbeds and a chair with cow-hide patterned covering. An orange studio couch sits beneath the windows.

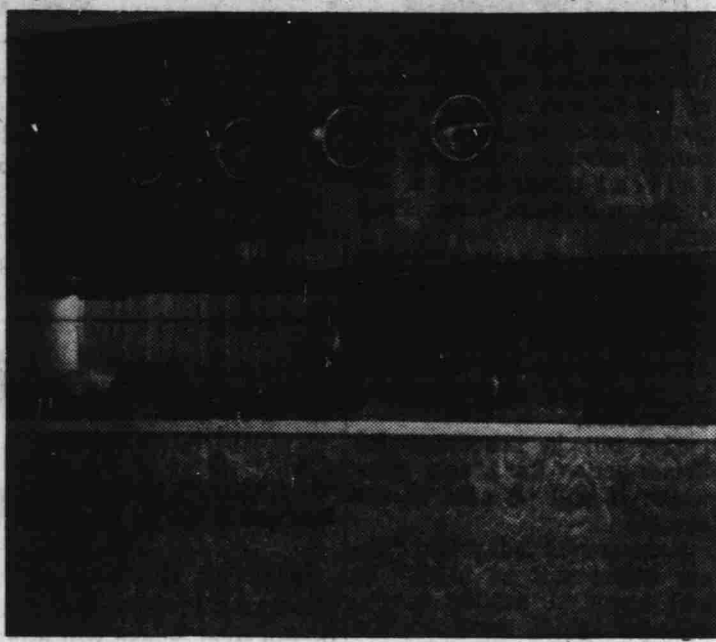

Maria is a fourth grader at Basic Elementary School. She has a large collection of horses (figurines) in her room of blue, gold and white.

A dark wood, double sinked, pullman bath is across from Dean's bedroom. A Mondrian styled throw rug in orange and brown covers the floor.

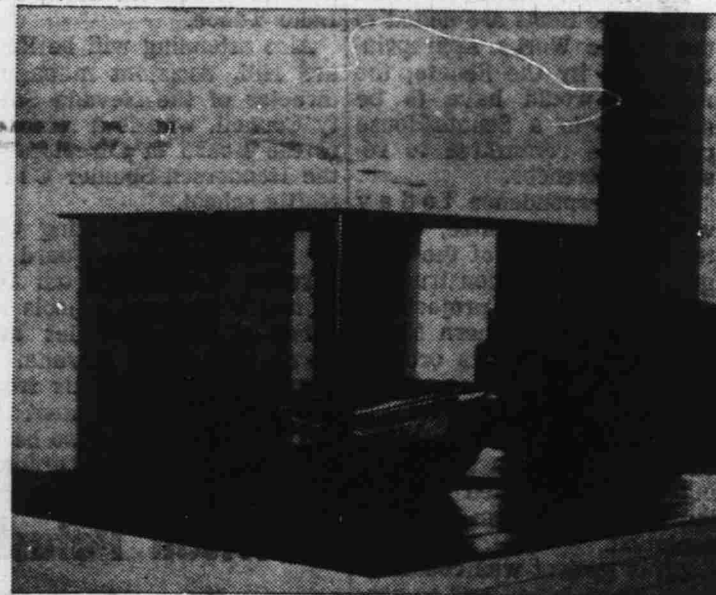

The laundry area is at the end of the hall on the left, hidden in what looks like a large closet. Sliding glass doors lead outside to the patio.

The masterbedroom, across the hall, has an avocado green carpet with a king size bed which has a light gold quilt on it and green back pillows at the head.

The room also has a bathroom, sewing nook, and a television set.

The four painted plates on the backside of the kitchen cabinets, above the bar, were painted by Mrs. Roberts before she was married.

The three-sided fireplace is used to store magazines in the hot summer weather. The BBQ pit can be seen to the left side.

Basic High Offers Well Rounded Curriculum

By KAY HAVENS
Basic High School has grown a lot since the early days when it occupied a prominent place in town on Water street, as part of the original 12 grade Townsite school.

The high school of today is no longer on Water street, but occupies a broad expanse of land adjacent to the base of Black Mountain. It is a far cry from the utilitarian building erected during the war days to house the pupils whose parents worked at the plant, and like other structures in Basic Townsite it was considered expendable.

Basic is now a modern glass and concrete structure and has the first stressed concrete roofing in the area. Architects looked to the future in its planning. And they did their job well.

The original school building in town is now a seat of learning for junior high school students.

Long-time residents still remember its auditorium being the hub of community activity during the evenings.

There were countless meetings of citizens who gathered together seeking ways and means to preserve Basic townsite and make it a bona-fide city of Nevada, when the federal government no longer had any need for the townsite or the products made at the plant.

That little band of resolute people also did their job well. The City of Henderson is a living testament to their efforts.

As the city grew, the need for more educational buildings grew with it. Basic was among the first to feel the impact of progress. It literally outgrew the old building as more and more students enrolled.

Today the local high school offers the latest and most advanced methods of study. Its phase continua program is an educational program designed to permit selective adaptation of the best features found in modern innovations, experimental procedures and traditional methods, according to a brochure issued by the school.

John A. Dooley, principal of Basic, pointed out that the framework of the program's organization is derived by extending the educational principles which are necessary to the development of comprehension. Like comprehension, the phase continua proceeds from a vague, elementary understanding toward an elaborated and refined understanding of the subject content which is taught at the school.

This sounds like an ambitious program, and it is. Major educational objectives and sub-objectives for each area of instruction (English, mathematics, science, social studies, etc.) are arranged in progressive order of development from simple elementary to advanced complex. The types of knowledge, concepts, attitudes, skills and processes necessary to achieve these objectives are consecutive and concurrent or concurrent order. These consecutive and concurrent arrangements of subject matter constitute the continua.

Each continua is organized according to each of the four courses of study offered; college preparatory, vocational training, business education and general education.

Dooley said there were four sections of study, the accelerated or superior group, being the first; followed by sections two and three, which constitute the normal groups, and section four, for those whose progress is slower. He emphasized that this is not a remedial section.

On the subject of drop-outs, Dooley remarked that up to this time there were none. He also said that the enrollment of 1168 students is about the same as last year.

The operation of Basic is a varied and complex thing. Many hours of work by the principal and staff go into its make-up. For them, the school day is not over when the final bell rings.

Conferences and reports and evaluation of methods are an integral part of the agenda. The bridge between a vague awareness and productive understanding is one which all personnel of the school dedicate themselves to strengthening so that students going on from there will have a firmer foundation and a clearer concept of educational values.

Some of the modern innovations which have been adapted wholly or in part to the phase continua program are: team-teaching, co-teaching, concept oriented curriculum, continuous progress, modern courses of study, programmed studies, and unification of related subjects. A book library containing over 10,000 volumes is at the disposal of students, also an audio-visual library which includes maps, globes, charts, specimens, films, prepared and blank tapes, reading cartidges, slides and recordings.

The phase of continua program also provides for individual differences. Some of the component activities of this program are counseling, an extensive curriculum which provides 86 different subjects from which students may select a program best suited to their individual interests, aptitudes and abilities. These include a remedial program for students who are two or more standard deviations below the normal for their age group in reading and/or mathematics.

A vocational preparatory program for vocational and business education students who will transfer to the district vocational school, a music program, a student government program, and a distributive educational program which provides on-the-job training for students interested in distributive occupations.

These are, in brief, some of the many opportunities for study offered at Basic. There is little doubt that the training is comparable with any high school in the country, and that its graduates receive an education in depth.

Queried on the impact of the new Southern Nevada Vocational Technical Center (SNVTC) has made on Basic registration, Dooley said that about 32 students have gone over to SNVTC. These students were not included in the present enrollment figure.

When asked for an opinion on the value of a vocational school separate from a high school, Dooley agreed that such a training center had merit, since high schools do not necessarily have the extensive equipment available to them that a vocational and technical school offers. He also said there are certain groups of students who wish to learn a trade and the usual academic educational programs do not fit into their plans.

How important education is today is evidenced all around us. Without it our youth cannot progress. The space age, automation, and the like, are here NOW, and they must be dealt with in

Jessie K. Alger Completes Combat Training

Marine Private Jesse K. Alger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Alger of Price Ryan Trailer Park, has completed four weeks of individual combat training at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

During the training period, he received more than 200 hours of instruction in guerrilla warfare, the use of infantry weapons, combat patrols, and squad tactics.

His next assignment is four weeks of basic specialist training to prepare him for a specific job in the Marine Corps. Marines to be assigned to infantry units will be taught sub-specialties such as the technical operation of the machine gun, grenade launcher, or mortar. Those entering highly skilled occupational fields will receive advanced training at resident technical school.

terms of better and higher learning.

Also, students must become more aware of the importance of the groundwork the high school can give them. This is a two-way street; the high school can give them. This is depth but, in return, must have the cooperation of the student to accomplish its prime objective. One cannot succeed without the other.

Basic High School graduates go out into the world in an ever-increasing flow; each year the graduating class grows larger. After college, many of them become teachers, lawyers, physicists, therapists, musicians. The list is endless. Whatever their calling, their alma mater, Basic High School, provided the foundation.

In the final analysis, the important thing is what these graduates do with what they have learned.

is a crewmember of the First Fleet unit participating in exercise "Eager Angler".

The mine exercise, the third conducted this year, involves 29 ships ranging in size from attack aircraft carrier to minesweeper, commenced Sept. 13. "Eager Angler" is designed to ready ships for combat roles in the Western Pacific. Vice Admiral Bernard F. Roeder, USN, Commander First Fleet, is in overall command.

Among the phases of naval warfare to be stressed are air and anti-air operations, including aerial strikes with live ordnance in the bombing ranges of the Chocolate Mountains and San Clemente Island; close air support and aerial reconnaissance.

There will also be training in shore bombardment by cruisers and destroyers, anti-air operations, communications techniques, simulated

Happy Birthday

Some of those who celebrate their birthdays this week are:
Sept. 29 — Jim Bequette.
Oct. 5 — Carol Jean Bequette.

"Food Prices Tumble at Wholesale." — Headline. Retail grocers will learn about this belatedly, if at all, but when prices rise at the wholesale level, the news promptly reaches them or, it seems at times, it reaches them instantly by telepathy.

Henderson Artist To Show Oils In Boulder City Art Festival

Five oil paintings by Henderson artist Lenna Stoll will be exhibited in the Boulder City Art Festival this Sunday. Painting and sketching are life-long interests with Mrs. Hampton of Henderson and Stoll and she has worked with water color, oil, ink, charcoal, pastel and tempera. Two of her most recent works are ink drawings of Mayor Bob Morry Zenoff, NEWS publisher. Last year she designed Christmas cards for the Henderson Chamber of Commerce. The cards carried the message "I Already Gave," and were mailed to those who donated to the Chamber's "Christmas Stocking" fund.

Mrs. Stoll has completed a three-year fine arts course and was graduated last year from the "Famous Artists' School."

The oil paintings to be exhibited Sunday are titled, Chinese Fairy Tales Number One, Number Two and Number Three; Cathedral Gorge, Nevada and Yosemite Park. She is a member of the Painters and Potters and has served as president and vice president of this group.

Mrs. Stoll's work has previously been exhibited at the Boulder City Art Festival, Painters and Potters Art Shows, Industrial Days Art Exhibits, Bank of Nevada, Henderson branch, Dr. Lindblom's office and in Henderson schools. Presently on display in Mrs. Eleanor Walker's fourth grade room at Townsite Elementary School are two large paintings, one of a butterfly and the other a moth.

Fleischmann Grant Pays Scout Center Mortgage

One of the highlights of the dedication ceremonies at the new Scout Service Center of the Boulder Dam Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, was an announcement by Zelvin D. Lowman, president. "On Saturday, Aug. 27," said

Lowman, "word was received from the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation of Nevada, that a grant had been made, in an amount equal to the mortgage incurred on the new Scout Service Center."

"Therefore," Lowman added delightedly, "Scouting's new facility has been paid for totally, and was debt free, prior to its dedication."

A symbolic mortgage burning was held. Fire (by friction, of course) was furnished, courtesy of Todd Shimoda of Troop 104, sponsored by Robert E. Lake P.T.A. Other joyful participants at the mortgage burning were Edward B. Hendricks and Fred L. Kennedy, the building architects, M. Edward Fike, dedication chairman, Maxwell Kelch, honorary president, and Zelvin D. Lowman, Council president.

Southern Nevada contributed generously in "donated labor," this being the only cost to the community. "In fact," Lowman stated, "Scouting has spent $130,000 in the Las Vegas area."

"No sustaining membership money, Scout or Scouter fees, building site by Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Kaltenborn, and the income from the sale of the old office building. All costs over and above the grant received were paid through a special contribution from Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Kelch of Las Vegas.

Due to the closeness of the race for Lt. Governor, I could not, in fairness to my opponents, claim victory until the certification of the results. Now that this has been accomplished, I wish to express my appreciation to the people of Nevada for the confidence they placed in me in the recent primary election. I wish, also at this time, to express my admiration for my opponents for the progressive, clean campaign they conducted.

The Henderson Home News, Henderson, Nev. Thursday, August 29, 1966

nor United Fund allocations have been used for capital purposes," Lowman continued, in assuring the public that Scouting's facility was not built with contributor income. This was possible through the Fleischmann Foundation Grant, the gift of the building site by Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Kaltenborn, and the income from the sale of the old office building. All costs over and above the grant received were paid through a special contribution from Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Kelch of Las Vegas.

Sawyer Appoints New Committee

An awards committee of four members has been appointed by Governor Grant Sawyer to screen state nominees for the national Young American Medals and to select Nevada award winners for bravery and service.

The governor's awards for this year have been designated as the "Mike Ingersoll Medals" in honor of the late University of Nevada student body president who was killed while making a parachute jump last December.

Named to the Nevada awards committee are: Rulon A. Earl, Las Vegas, chairman; Margaret Simmons, North Las Vegas; Abraham Feroah, Reno and Robert (Buddy) Sampson, McGill. The "Mike Ingersoll Medals" are patterned after the Young American Awards for Bravery and Service given annually by the Department of Justice. The national winners are selected from nominees made by the 50 state governors.

Governor Sawyer explained, however, that the state nominees have received very little recognition. The two national winners are announced in Washington, but usually very little is reported or done for those Nevadans whose heroism and devotion to others deserve the widest recognition.

"I want to give public recognition personally to those young people who are nominated for the national awards from Nevada," Governor Sawyer said.

CANNON AMENDMENT TO EASE MORTGAGE CREDIT SQUEEZE

An amendment by Nevada Sen. Howard W. Cannon to stimulate the flow for home mortgage credit in Nevada and other high cost areas has been accepted by a Senate-House conference committee.

Cannon's amendment was approved by the Senate two weeks ago during debate on legislation to ease the tight money squeeze on home financing by increasing the mortgage purchasing authority of the Federal National Mortgage Association.

The amendment increases the $15,000 limit on FHA and Veterans Administration mortgages which could be purchased by the FNMA under its special assistance fund. Cannon had termed the $15,000 limit "unrealistic" and said the ceiling must be raised "if efforts to stimulate the flow of mortgage credit were to be meaningful."

When the House considered the FNMA bill last week, it substituted the language of a House bill for the Senate-passed measure. The House bill did not include provisions for raising the $15,000 limit.

Senate-House conferees met to iron out differences and voted to include the Cannon amendment in the compromise bill which will be presented to both houses later this week.

Cannon said he was "very gratified" about the action of the conferees. He said the amendment and the bill to increase home mortgage purchasing authority of the FNMA "will head off the severe recessionary trends in the housing industry by making financing available for thousands of persons who want to buy houses but who have been unable to do so because of the mortgage credit squeeze."

SCIENCE SERVICE

"The things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal." This well-known verse from II Corinthians will be the Golden Text of the Lesson-Sermon titled "Unreality," to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

"What is de Gaulle Up To?"—Title of magazine article. With reference to the United States, he's up to no good.

Either the picture of the earth which Luna Orbiter transmitted was a poor picture or, in this case, distance certainly lent no enchantment to the view.
