FRANCY TELLS BANKERS Expanding Market Seen For Titanium

The market for titanium metal is expected to almost triple by 1970, according to Eugene V. Francy, assistant plant manager of Titanium Metals Corporation of America, who addressed the joint dinner meeting of the National Association of Bank Women and the National Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers on "Titanium and the Aerospace Age," last week at the Black Mountain Country Club.

Selma Bartlett, manager of the local Bank of Nevada and program and arrangements chairman for the meeting, introduced the speaker.

Dignitaries attending the meeting were introduced by C. Jane Whetzel, cashier of Bank of Nevada and president of both organizations.

Present from Nevada State Bank were Harley Harmon, president; Francis VanCleve and Robert Collett. From First National Bank of Nevada were D. O. Raggio, manager of Las Vegas main office; James Binnof, auditor of Reno main office; and Charles Sieffert.

Bank of Nevada was represented by John Sievers, vice-president in charge of operations; Warren Gee, comptroller and Don Yanar, assistant vice-president and manager of data processing. Others attending were Mel Paul, vice-president and manager of Las Vegas branch of Nevada Bank of Commerce and Joe Marelli, auditor of Bank of Las Vegas.

Francy told the banking group that in 1964 TMCA shipped over 16 million pounds of titanium and it is anticipated that by 1970 the market for this metal will reach 45 million pounds.

Because of the expanding market, Titanium Metals is expanding its facilities. The construction program involves $20 million and will take three years to complete.

Approximately 75 construction workers are now employed at the local Titanium plant and at peak of construction 300 workers will be employed. One new building is being constructed and facilities in the present building will be changed.

At the completion of the expansion program there will be an increase in personnel of about 20 percent or 225 persons, and it is possible that this increase will reach 40 percent, Francy said.

Approximately 60 members and guests attended the meeting. Wilma Buck served with Mrs. Bartlett as co-chairman of arrangements.

$275 Damage Reported At City Park

Approximately $275 worth of damage to the rest rooms at the city's park was done on Halloween night, according to George Charachlis, city manager.

He hesitated to release the information on the vandalism, however, he said he felt the people of the city should be entitled to know what their money is being used for.

The Poll Tax Question On Your Ballot

There is one question on the General Election ballot which concerns an amendment to the State Constitution to repeal the poll tax.

The question reads: SHALL — Assembly joint Resolution proposing to repeal Section 7 of Article 2 of the Constitution of Nevada relating to poll taxes, and reading as follows:

"Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of Nevada, jointly, that section 7 of article 2 of the constitution of the State of Nevada be repealed." — be approved

EXPLANATION OF QUESTION
The purpose of this proposed Amendment is to repeal the poll tax which has been a part of our Constitution for almost 60 years. The tax applies only to male residents of this State between the ages of 21 and 60. Women and uncivilized American Indians were exempted.

A majority YES vote would result in repeal of Section 7 of Article 2 of the Nevada Constitution and thus eliminate the poll tax.

ELECTION WORKERS SCHOOL TODAY

A school for all election board officers and poll guards will be held in the Gold Room of Convention Center today. There will be an afternoon session at 2:30 p.m. and an evening session at 7:30 p.m.

Attendance is required at either of the two sessions. Tom Mulroy, registrar of voters, will preside.

Council To Study Liquor Ordinance Amendment

A discussion on a liquor license for the new Stop and Go market, located at Pacific and Atlantic streets, was postponed by the City Council Tuesday night when Councilman Dale Roberts made a motion to draw up an emergency ordinance amending a previous ordinance which does not allow the sale of liquor within 300 feet of a school or church. The market is located within 300 feet of the Episcopal Church.

The district manager of the market explained that the market is expected to open around Nov. 21, and they would like to have a license to sell package beverages.

City Attorney Harry Reid said he would check with other cities in the county to determine what ordinances they have concerning the sale of beverages, prior to when he draws up a proposed ordinance concerning the selling of beer and wine where it is not consumed on the premises.

The Council made an agreement six months ago with the County to allow the service in the city hall for a period of six months as a service to the people here. At the end of six months the Council decided it would reconsider the agreement.

City Manager George Charachlis told the Council that the county operation will continue to get larger instead of smaller.

"We can't afford to continue to make space available and pay the maintenance of the building," he said, "however, we may be able to make an exchange with the county for services if they assist us with some of our paving projects."

It was brought out that the city hall operation needs more space so at the end of December, the City Council will again review the request by the county for space in the building.

Council Sets
Land Sale
For Dec. 6

In a special City Council session held Tuesday night, the Council voted unanimously to adopt a resolution to sell approximately ten acres of land on top of Black Mountain.

A notice of sale of the land appears in this newspaper today, and the sale of the land will take place on Dec. 6, at the regular Council meeting.

The land was applied for by Charles Vanda for a television transmitter. George Charachlis, city manager, told Councilmen that Vanda had offered to allow a police and civil defense transmitter also on the mountain. The agreement for sale will probably stipulate that if Vanda does not build the transmitter, the land will return to the city.

The cost of the land was not discussed.

Fire Origin
At Elliott
Not Determined

Acting Fire Chief Dale Starr said yesterday that investigation is continuing into the cause of the fire which demolished the store house at the Elliott Roofing Company Monday night.

No estimate as to the amount of damage has yet been obtained, although it is expected to be extensive.

The fire was reported at 8:40 p.m. by a passing motorist and fire units from Townsite and Pittman answered the call.

On the other hand, Paul Laxalt is a gem of a man, handsome, brilliant, anxious to serve, and strong in his judgements on problems of state.

He is untried, of course, thus no one can tell how well he could serve. He is kindly, has an excellent sense of humor, and has patience with people. He is knowledgeable of state problems from his position as a lieutenant governor and as a candidate.

We had hoped Laxalt would file against Walter Baring for Congress back in the filing

Assessor's Office Will Remain At City Hall

The County Assessor's office, located at city hall, will continue to operate there free of rent for another two months, it was decided by the City Council Tuesday night.

The Council made an agreement six months ago with the County to allow the service in the city hall for a period of six months as a service to the people here. At the end of six months the Council decided it would reconsider the agreement.

City Manager George Charachlis told the Council that the county operation will continue to get larger instead of smaller.

"We can't afford to continue to make space available and pay the maintenance of the building," he said, "however, we may be able to make an exchange with the county for services if they assist us with some of our paving projects."

It was brought out that the city hall operation needs more space so at the end of December, the City Council will again review the request by the county for space in the building.

Karl Leavitt Promoted To Fire Engineer

Karl E. Leavitt, was elevated to the position of engineer from a fireman in the city fire department, according to City Manager George Charachlis.

The inter-office promotion, which was made as specified in the civil service rules, was effective Oct. 31, Janice Wiese, city personnel director reported.

He and his wife Suzanne and two children live at 249 Hillcrest.

Atkin will be confined to his bed at his home, 35 West Basic Road, for at least two more weeks and is not allowed to receive company at this time.

He expressed his appreciation to the many friends who sent cards and good wishes to him at the hospital. Atkin said he feels certain that the prayers and good wishes of his friends have aided in his recovery.

Art Espinoza is as able as his opponents, an engineer by education, and can draw from experience on several local and regional boards. His advice on land matters would be of great value to the legislature. In this three man battle — any two you select fits our way of thinking.

Morry's Story

...BY MORRY ZENOFF

We Like Sawyer

" " Gibson

" " Hafen

---Hal, Art & Lorin

Voters next week will be taxed to their very best judgment in deciding who should be running the county, state and federal elective offices.

The talent this time is so much better than previous elections for just about every office to be filled. There are some exceptions and the voters by now must be aware of them.

Of primary interest, of course, is the governor's chair. Two fine candidates seek it — one, the governor himself, Grant Sawyer, and the other, the lieutenant-governor — Paul Laxalt.

In our opinion, Sawyer has done a commendable job the two terms he has been in. He has proven to be a hard worker, an honest man, strong in the face of local, state or national criticism.

The fact he is seeking an unprecedented third term — does not shake us up. It should not be a deterrent from office if the voters feel he has done an acceptable job.

If we were called to find criticism of his regime, we would have to point to his failure to select the very top men possible as assistants, as department heads, as executives on commissions. Each department of the state has been run well — but I believe in some cases much more could have been done had administrators been selected by education and experience rather than by reputation.

Sawyer has given his executives a free hand in their administration of their departments. Some have turned in good records, others fair, others bad, others excellent.

We would rather have seen the state's business run by men selected by test — written and oral. Tests given by a board of experts trained to hire trained men... and women.

But, Sawyer himself is straight as a die, loaded with good thinking processes, and fearless in the face of troubles.

On the other hand, Paul Laxalt is a gem of a man, handsome, brilliant, anxious to serve, and strong in his judgements on problems of state.

He is untried, of course, thus no one can tell how well he could serve. He is kindly, has an excellent sense of humor, and has patience with people. He is knowledgeable of state problems from his position as a lieutenant governor and as a candidate.

We had hoped Laxalt would file against Walter Baring for Congress back in the filing days — because he would have been a natural on the floors of the national Congress. There is no test of executive ability or administrative ability in Congress. There you are counted upon to come forth with judgements on laws being studied of import to the state and nation and world.

However, he's in this race with Sawyer — for Governor — where you must weigh one's experience at being an administrator against one's willingness to be an administrator, but not experienced.

Sawyer's way of handling a fastest growing state during the past eight years — has been just too good to not want more of it. And since you can't have two governors at the same time, therefore must vote for one — our vote has to go for...

Sawyer.

Most important office to be filled locally is that of state senator where the race is between Assemblyman Jim Gibson and Frank Morrell.

Gibson's services as an assemblyman have won praise like no other legislator in the 20 years we've been in Nevada.

His brilliance of mind, his tenacity to work long hours and with committees that others feared to work on brought laws and budgets and buildings and tax reforms and no end of good legislation necessary to keep up with a state growing so fast.

His shyness and preference to stay out of the spotlight no doubt stood in his way of becoming governor of this state. A man with Gibson's ability, and experience as a legislator, rates advancement to higher office.

The battle for the lower house seats from the Henderson and Boulder area shows Bryan Hafen running against Tom Godbey in Boulder and Hal Smith, Lorin Williams and Art Espinoza in Henderson, with two spots to be filled in the latter field.

Godbey has been popular as Walter Baring was an officeholder, but he has won despite this many times. This year Hafen's fine ability and open-mindedness and eagerness to serve could bring enough votes to allow Godbey to give way to Youth.

We hope so.

Hal Smith was a captain in the navy before he became a merchant. No one gets that far up the navy ladder without some heft in the brain department.

Hal served Henderson as one of the drafters of the city charter. Williams served on a

James A. Blink Recipient Of 4-Year ROTC Scholarship

Freshmen James A. Blink of Henderson and Larry L. Sankovich of McGill have received four year Army ROTC scholarships to the University of Nevada.

The scholarships are awarded to outstanding young men who desire careers as Regular Army officers. These awards are made annually, and for the school year 1966-67 the second year of the program, 400 such scholarships have been awarded.

These scholarships will pay all tuition, fees, books and laboratory expenses incurred by the cadets. In addition, each cadet will receive $50 per month for the duration of the scholarship. During the advanced summer incampment this figure is increased to $151.95 per month.

Total estimate of the scholarship is $3600.

The military obligation for the two students will be four years of active duty in the Army and an additional six months of every year of graduate work if the cadets so desire.

Blink, an 18 year old from Henderson, is majoring in engineering science. He said that the scholarship would accomplish a two-fold purpose for him.

There would first be the obvious fact of financing his college education. Secondly, with the preparation by the Army in the four years he will serve, the practical experience in the field of engineering science would be invaluable.

Sankovich, from McGill, said that after graduation the many Army schools will help him train for a career in mathematics. He also said that it would be hard to estimate the full value of such a scholarship in regards to education and job experience.

Individuals desiring to compete for Army ROTC scholarships beginning with the 1967-68 school year must apply between Dec. 1, 1966 and Jan. 15, 1967.

Walking

How often have you heard someone say that dogs should have a large amount of exercise, or that the city is no place for a dog because they need a lot of space to roam in? If you don't live in the wide open spaces, but still want to own a dog, stop worrying. Dogs don't need a lot of exercise, it is not necessary for them to be outdoors all day, nor do they want to be. Man's best friend is just that—your dog likes to be with you. If you want to walk, he will go along joyously, but if you prefer to sit Rover will be happy to lie beside you.

When you do take your pup for his walk there are some simple rules to follow which will quickly become good habits. If you live in the city the first thing to remember, according to the experts at the Purina Pet Care Center in St. Louis, is to curb your dog. It's an easy matter to draw your dog to the curb when he is about to relieve himself. It is much more neighborly to teach your pet this rule than allowing him to soil the walk or someone's lawn.

Mrs. Bea Campbell Entertains General M. M. Moezzi of Iran

Mrs. Bea Campbell of 52 Lynn Lane entertained General M. M. Moezzi of Iran at her home on Friday, Oct. 28.

General Moezzi is the top general of Iran and military advisor to the Shah. At present he has 50,000 men under his command, patrolling the borders of Iran and, according to the interpreter who accompanied him, General Moezzi is responsible for the safety of his country.

For the past three weeks, General Moezzi and his entourage of six other generals and a colonel have been guests of the Pentagon making military inspections throughout the nation. The General is now enjoying a personal holiday of one month in the U.S. before returning to Iran.

General Moezzi made the trip here to meet Mrs. Campbell, the mother of his first born son's wife. Enroute, he stopped in Phoenix, Ariz. where he was entertained at a cocktail party held in his honor at the home of Mrs. Campbell's sister, Mrs. Charles G. Pllacek, who also entertained the General and his entourage at a dinner held at the Phoenix Country Club.

Mrs. Campbell was greatly impressed with the General and said she had no adequate words to describe his elegance, his friendliness and his regal bearing as he was unlike anyone she had ever met.

He brought her a gift of a huge bowl, approximately two feet in diameter, and beautifully decorated with inlaid pictures of pheasants in full plumage.

The General flew to Reno Reno Saturday morning and was met by his son, Massoud "Mac" Moezzi and his wife, the former Penny Kreuger. He planned to visit with his son and daughter-in-law in Lovelock for a week and will continue his holiday in California where he will visit a number of other relatives before returning to Iran.

Other guests at Mrs. Campbell's home during General Moezzi's visit were her niece, Carol Kennerley, and friend, Jean Arata, from Chicago, Ill.

Traffic Director Invites Judge Davis to Speak at Seminar

A director of the Standing Committee on the Traffic Court program of the American Bar Association has invited Judge Earl Davis to participate as a speaker or panel participant in the fourth annual Advanced Traffic Court Seminar to be held in Honolulu, Hawaii, Aug. 3, 4, and 5.

A letter written to Judge Davis Sept. 23 by James P. Economos, director of the Traffic Court program, brought the invitation. Judge Davis met Economos at the traffic court seminar in Montreal, Canada this year, and he later visited Judge Davis in Henderson.

In his letter, Economos said, "This seminar is intended to be the best ever held on the subject of traffic court procedure and administration." He said that if the Judge accepted the invitation he would be advised as to what his topic will be.

Judge Davis accepted the invitation stating, "If elected and if health permits as it does at the present time, I will see you in Honolulu. Thank you very much for the honor of being invited."

VERNAY'S FASHION CHATTER

HELLO THERE,

Here it is Thursday again! Does time go as fast for you as it does for me? Seems like the weeks just sail by.

The new Pantsuits are beginning to come in. Boy, are they bright, but so smart and so convenient. Susan Laurie has out-done her usual chic image and the suits are fabulous!

The Holiday Robes are arriving in fleeces, quilted and brushed nylon — all in beautiful shades—from pastels to the earthy fall greens and golds.

This is the year for Coat Sweaters. They are so versatile and can be worn everywhere. They go over suits, dresses or capris — casual or dressy as your mood demands. Just right for our climate, they really fit the need and the pocketbook.

I've been moving this week so — haven't been in the store as much as usual. If I missed you, do come back. I really appreciate the support Henderson people give their town.

Will Close for now,
See You Next Week—

Heart Complications May Follow Chest Radiation for Cancer

Physicians were warned today to be on the lookout for the development of certain forms of heart disease following radiation treatment of the chest for cancer.

Dr. Keith E. Cohn, spokesman for a team of researchers from Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., said at the Scientific Sessions of the American Heart Association that radiation-induced heart disease is more frequent and more severe than is general-ty realized. It can usually be treated successfully, once physicians are alerted to watch for the complication.

Dr. Cohn based his report on a study of 21 patients who were apparently cured of their cancer by the radiation delivered to the chest, only to have heart disease develop later. In a total of six cases, Dr. Cohn said, the heart complications proved fatal.

In all but two patients, according to Dr. Cohn, the damage to the heart involved the pericardium, the heart's enclosing sac. Among the conditions found were acute inflammation of the pericardium, accumulation of fluids within it, and severe scarring.

Dr. Cohn emphasized that the heart complications may develop months or even years after the radiation therapy has been completed; hence doctors may not immediately recognize the nature of the underlying problem.

Educational TV Won't Cut Down On Teachers

Educational television will not cut back on the number of teachers now being used in the classrooms according to Harold R. Hickman, Project Manager of INNOVATE, the ETV program now being developed here.

ETV is a modern teaching tool, which properly administered, will make for better teaching and learning activities. Nevada is one of the last states to inaugurate instructional television, and is therefore in a position to profit from research and development which have gone on in other areas through the years. Additional studies are currently under way in Clark County. Their purposes are to determine the best methods of making ETV available to educators and the public in all sections of the state.

Teaching guides will be available to teachers for pre-planning of the ETV lessons and follow-up work with students after the broadcast. This will make for a complete classroom experience.

The development of Project INNOVATE is being financed by federal funds under authority of Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

just hope everyone appreciates the effort you make for all of us.

Thank you again not just for your help during the show but for making it possible throughout the year to interpret the activities of our organization to the community.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Morry and Virginia:

Well, there's no question in our minds that it's great to have a community paper that doesn't have to be asked to "go all out" to put over a project but just goes ahead full steam and does so.

We're referring, of course, to last month's Salute to Nevada Horseshow and thanks to you fine people we had a show that surpassed our greatest hopes. Even a great big "Thank You" seems inadequate.

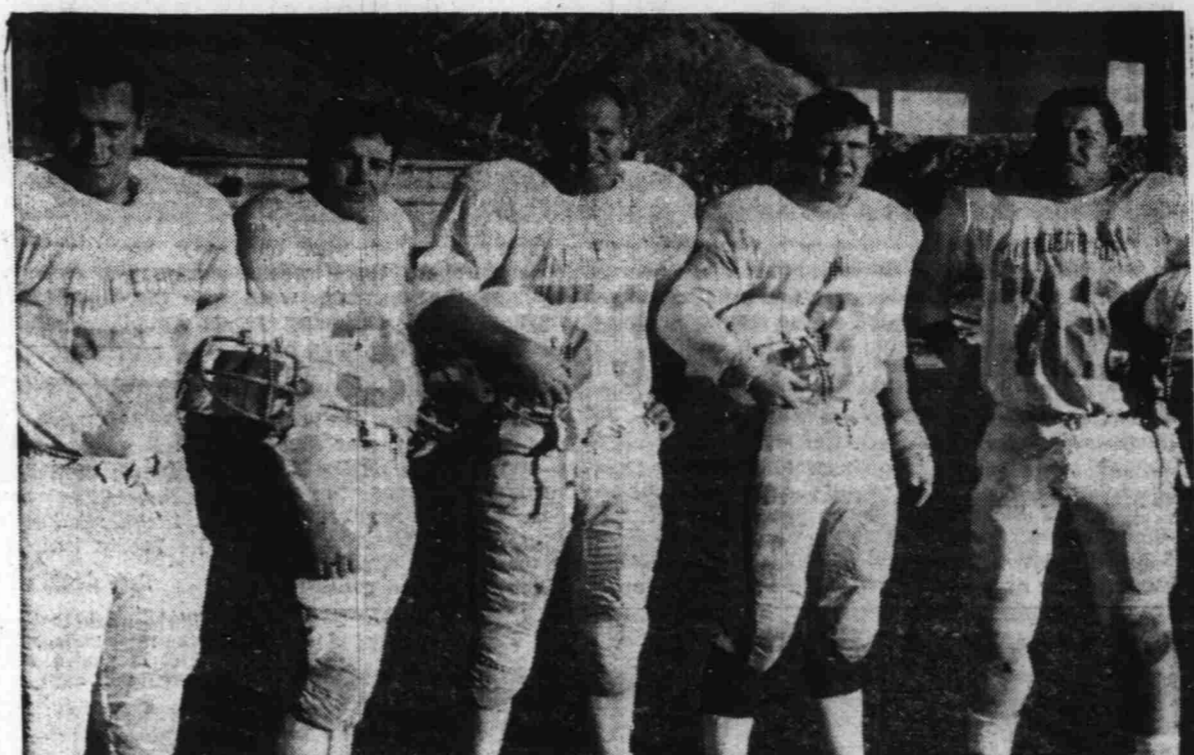

We're willing to wager that matching any other weekly publications item for item throughout the country on the handling of just one community project that none of the others would hold a candle to what you'll give in the way of space to the community. We

Text of the article urges visitors to see other Nevada wonders, including Lake Mead and Hoover Dam, the State Parks in Eastern Nevada, Old Fort Churchill, and many other areas.

Local Grads Help Power CSU Thunderbirds on The Gridiron

They came from the southern part of Nevada and Bill Reeske, College of Southern Utah football coach, and all CSU fans rejoiced. We make reference to five members of the Thunderbird football team that hail from Clark County, Nevada.

Legrande Jones, 22 year old sophomore fullback cut his teeth on the goal post at Basic

High School in Henderson. Jones, at 210 lbs., is a real asset to the Thunderbird offense. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Jones, live at 107 Fir St., Henderson. His wife, the former Arden L. Lee, is a native of Pioche.

Lanny Littlefield, 20, is a freshman tackle. He came to CSU on a football scholarship. At 6'2" and 230 lbs. he will play an important roll in the overall success of the team. Mr. and Mrs. Norm Littlefield, parents of Lanny, live in Alamo. Littlefield lettered in football for three years at Basic High School. He is married and the father of a son. His wife, Gloria, is also from Henderson.

Ed Bourque is no newcomer to the fans in and around Cedar City. This 6'1" 250 lb. tackle is a familiar sight on the CSU gridiron. A product of Las Vegas High School, Ed came to CSU by way of Trinidad Junior College in Colorado. The son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Bourque of 1168 Audrey, Las Vegas, he was twice named to the Nevada All-State team and was an honorable mention All-American in high school. Ed and his wife Gail have two sons, Tony, 3, and Marty, 5 months. They live in Hawthorn Hall on the CSU campus.

Reginald D. Sanford was the recipient of a cash award in recognition of his recent safety suggestion which contributed to improved traffic control in the Boulder Beach area, Supt. Charles A. Richey reveals. Before becoming a member of the Maintenance Division of Lake Mead National Recreation Area in 1963, Sanford worked in California and Las Vegas. He is a native of South Dakota.

President Johnson should have felt "at home" in his visits abroad, as everywhere he went there were beatniks and others of the ilk who demonstrated against U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Steve Cole, a 6 foot, 190 lb. sophomore guard played ball for the Boulder City High School. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Elmer Cole, live at 525 Utah St., Boulder City.

Cardon Dalley, 25, and a senior is 6'1" and weighs 220 lbs. He plays center. Cardon preceded Jones and Littlefield at Basic High School where he was All-State his junior and senior years. He was selected on the Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Team, and played in the All-Star Game. His wife is the former Jacqueline Gaskin of Douglas, Ga. Cardon is a mainstay Thunderbird veteran and figures big in the success of the team.

Smaller Harvest Expected As Nevada Chukar Season Opens

Spokesman for the Fish and Game department announced that chukar and hungarian partridge season got underway Oct. 22, with a daily bag and possession limit of five birds daily and 10 in possession after the first day.

Reports from throughout the state indicate that some areas are up in chukar populations, while others are down considerably from what they were during the 1965 chukar and "Hum" season.

It is the feeling of the department that the late season and lesser bag limit will result in a much lesser harvest of chukar during the 1966 season. The intent of the Commission when it set these late seasons, was to allow the chukar in areas of low production to disperse themselves over a wider area and not be concentrated on the few water holes treated on the few water holes good supply of water was in existence during the 1965 chukar season.

Fair Waterfowl Opening

Northern and western waterfowl areas produced fair on the opening weekend of the 1966 season said Gene McDowell, Public Information Officer for the Fish and Game department. Waterfowl populations were down on the opening weekend which followed a cold snap of a few days earlier. Duck and goose numbers three weeks prior to the opening, were much greater, according to pre-season surveys, than were present for the first days of the 1966 season.

Most areas, with the exceptions of the Stillwater Marshes, had fair numbers of birds. Checking stations in some areas revealed an average of about three ducks per hunter for the two day opening. Local duck and goose populations will be supplemented with migrants as the season progresses and shooting should continue to be fair in most areas. The 1966 duck season will close on Dec. 28 with the goose season closing on Jan. 8.

Safe Child's Play

It's been said that a child's play is the most serious thing in the world. If you've watched your youngster's expression as he walked along a narrow fence or climbed a tree to examine a robin's nest, you know how earnest he is—oblivious to everything—even to danger! So when good weather comes in, women in the know extend their accident-proofing practices beyond the house.

If you are going to leave your toddler unattended, be sure to provide an enclosed play area for him, which does not include pools of any kind. Within this area, double-check for broken glass, nails or other sharp-edged objects. Fill in or cover all holes. Check play apparatus for loose connections, rust, splinters, or rickety moorings. For older children, check any climbing trees for dead or weak branches. Make sure they know which tree, rock or other place marks the point beyond which is "Off Limits."

Children, whether playing at home or seeking greener pastures outside of their own yards, should be well versed in safety practices. Travelers safety experts recommend that parents take a positive approach in teaching their youngsters the essentials of safety, and encourage them to 1) learn the safe way to enjoy the activities their particular environment offers (whether swimming, bicycling, boating, or just walking), 2) play in supervised areas, and 3) know some simple first aid.

With all precautions taken, accidents still seem to happen. Now is the time to be sure your accident and homeowners policies provide proper insurance protection in case of injury to your own child or to one of his little friends.

The movement for a 13-month calendar should be vigorously opposed, as it's bad enough for our mailboxes to be cluttered up 12 times a year with bills.

Supplemental Medical Insurance

Not Connected With 'Medicare'

With the advent of the Federal program of health care for the aged, popularly known as "Medicare", the insurance industry, recognizing its limitations, has developed programs to supplement the benefits under "Medicare" in order to provide more complete coverage for those eligible, it was announced today by Commissioner of Insurance, Louis T. Mastos.

Because of numerous inquiries being received, it was emphasized by Commissioner Mastos that these supplemental benefit programs issued through insurance companies, were in no way connected with the Federal program and insurance company representatives proposing such supplemental coverages are not connected with the Federal Government.

Any person representing himself as an "agent" of "medicare" should be required to show credentials issued by the Federal Government.

As these private insurance programs are regulated under the laws of the State of Nevada, it was pointed out that purchasers of accident and health insurance have ten

House Approves Bible's Geothermal Steam Bill

Senator Alan Bible said final Congressional approval today of his geothermal steam bill "knocks down the barriers to an important resource and may well be the groundbreaking for an important new industry in the West."

The measure, creates the machinery to lease federal lands for exploration and development of geothermal steam, the natural underground steam-energy deposits prevalent in the West.

It cleared Congress when the House agreed to several last-minute modifications by the Senate dealing with priorities on leases.

"Again I wish to commend the House Interior Committee for its cooperation and prompt action in getting this bill through before the 89th Congress adjourns," Bible said. "This has avoided another difficult delay."

Bible noted the legislation is a product of more than five years of studies, hearings and refinement.

"It is important for the United States to move forward aggressively in this field," he declared. "Many other nations, including the Soviet Union, have taken a commanding lead in harnessing this natural underground energy for power generation and mineral production."

Bible's bill establishes authority for the Secretary of Interior to lease Federal lands specifically for geothermal steam development. The only previous access to the resource was through oil and gas leases or mining claims, a questionable procedure that discouraged any serious investments and exploration efforts.

Bible has long maintained that geothermal steam can provide low-cost electric power generation for the many small and isolated communities in the Far West. Because the steam is often rich in mineral content it can also create profitable new mineral production industries.

"It seems Nature has provided a resource ideally suited to benefit the economy of the West," he said. "The Federal Government should do everything it can to encourage its development."

The bill fixes the limits of geothermal steam leases and prescribes rentals and production royalties. Claims under oil and gas or mining laws existing when the bill first passed the Senate Sept. 7, 1965, will have preference in converting to geothermal steam leases under the bill's final language.

George McElroy and Howard Hill of the Nevada Safety Council joined with Safety Council staff workers from all parts of the nation in attending the annual National Safety Council congress and managers meeting in Chicago, October 16-26.

Pediatrician/Father's Child-Care Book

A pediatrician/father recently discovered that child-care books were not covering the more vital subjects as well as he expected, and so he decided to write a book giving details of the more common aspects of child care. "Letters To Tricia" was the result, by Dr. Carl A. Holmes, a Phoenix, Arizona doctor, whose unique book incorporates a series of highly informative letters to his own daughter.

Just published by Sherbourne Press, 1640 S. La Cienega, Los Angeles, California, "Letters To Tricia" concentrates primarily on the care of the well baby. Warm and reassuring, this delightful book explores every major area of baby care including a few seldom covered elsewhere. Dr. Holmes writes with personal concern, authority, and affection while presenting his advice in clear-cut concise language free of confusing medical terms.

For convenience, each chapter is summarized and a subject index makes a handy reference aid.

A must for the new or expectant mother, "Letters To Tricia" is a marvelously different book that should soon find its way into every home library.

SCIENCE SERVICE

Isaiah's prophecy concerning the mission of Christ Jesus is a part of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon on "Ad-a-me Fdallen Man" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday: "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound."

JAMES I. GIBSON

GIBSON BELIEVES EDUCATION IS FOR EVERYONE

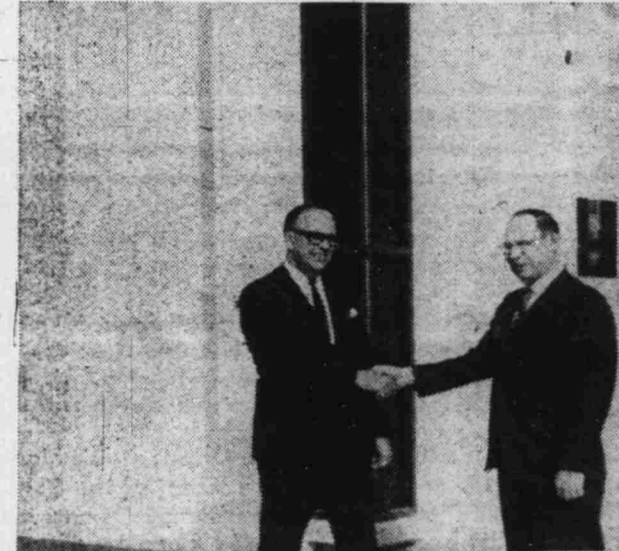

PROGRESS — Two years ago Assemblyman James I. Gibson pointed to a rocky plateau where a new $4,500,000 trade and technical school would be located.

AT NEVADA SOUTHERN — A new $2 million radiological laboratory is now in use at Nevada Southern, and Gibson's efforts aided in obtaining funds for this important facility.

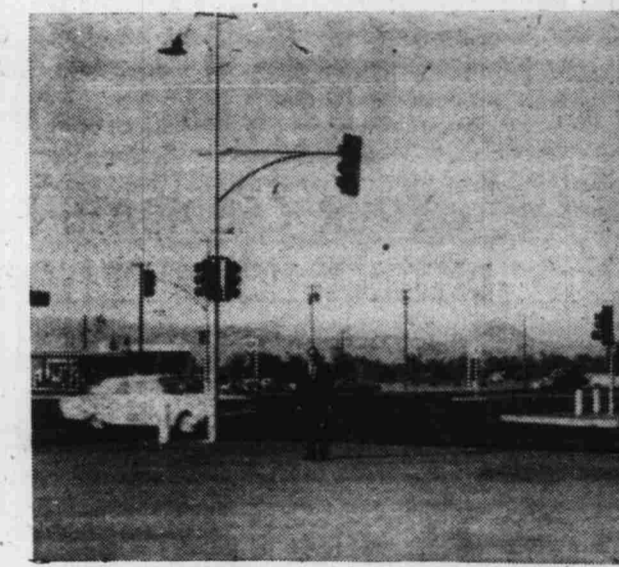

NOT ATTRACTIVE — Two years ago with the prodding of Assemblyman Gibson, work was started on a four-lane highway through Henderson toward Lake Mead.

NOW — Just two years later through efforts by Gibson who served as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, everyone has an opportunity for an education at the beautiful new school located near the steam plant adjacent to Henderson's boundaries. Gibson is shown here with school principal Clayton Farnsworth.

DORMITORY — and dining hall at Nevada Southern is now in use. Gibson is known throughout the state for his progressive fight for better educational facilities for our young people. This building cost $817,000.

GATEWAY TO LAKE — Now the Henderson Lake Mead Drive is an attractive gateway to the Lake Mead Recreational area. This modern intersection shows the improvement.

The election of an EXPERIENCED MAN to the Senate is important! The election of an inexperienced legislator would lose the influence which Gibson has developed over the past eight years as an assemblyman.

Gibson has been instrumental in bringing benefits to his district and to Clark County—as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee for six years. He enjoys the respect of his colleagues.

Awards Given To Cub Scouts Of Pack 11

Cub Scouts Pack 11 met Oct. 28 at the Ocean Street LDS Chapel. Bobcat pins were presented to Joey Sadovich, Jimmy Riggs, Ronnie Stirling, and Robbie Watts.

A "spook alley" and penny arcade were enjoyed after the program.

Scouts receiving awards at the September meeting included Tony Hair, bobcat pin; Fred Johnson, bear badge; Hokie Turnbeaugh, silver arrow. Awards at both meetings were made by Cubmaster Ron Nelson.

One of the boys lost a pair of prescription sun glasses at the last meeting, possibly in the car he rode home in. The finder is asked to contact Mrs. Dale Blanchard at 565-8511.

Lions Open Light Bulb Sale For Sight Conservation Fund

The Lions Club will open its annual light bulb sale tonight, according to light bulb chairman, Gail Armstrong. Purpose of the sale is to raise money for the club's sight conservation fund.

Henderson Lions Club is a member of the Lions Eye Club Bank in San Francisco, Calif., which allows the club to utilize the world famous San Francisco Eye Hospital in connection with needy patients, at no cost to the patient.

The Lions Club each year purchases many pairs of glasses for needy families here.

Members of the club will go door to door selling bags of GE light bulbs of different wattage. As in the past, each bag of eight bulbs will be sold for $2.

During the sale, Lions will also be selling cookbooks with the proceeds going into the sight conservation fund.

The book contains recipes donated by Lions throughout the world, two of which were donated by a member of the Henderson club. The cookbook also contains information on how to prepare fish and game and is priced at $2, Armstrong said.

Radio TV Doctor Teaching At New Vocational Center

By KAY HAVENS
Dan Drew, owner-operator of Radio and TV Doctors on Water street, is a busy man. He not only operates a business in town, he also teaches for four hours a day at Southern Nevada Vocational and Technical Center (SNVTC), the new school which opened on Whitney Mesa last August.

When asked if any girls had applied for admission to his class, Drew replied that none had, but he felt it would be to the advantage of any girl who planned on employment as a bookkeeper in that field, since she would acquire a working knowledge of the subjects which would be of great help to her.

The course runs for two years, and carries credits toward a diploma in conjunction with the usual subjects required.

Queried if this was his first teaching job, Drew said it was, and the circumstances which led to his applying for a Nevada teaching certificate were unusual.

He said he was approached by Clayton Farnsworth, principal of SNVTC, during the time he was searching for qualified instructors.

However, Farnsworth did not ask him to teach at that time, but to serve on the Advisory Committee and to recommend someone for the position.

Drew was unable to come up with the name of anyone available who could instruct, and Farnsworth then asked him why he couldn't take over the class. It developed that the only thing standing in Drew's way was a Nevada teaching certificate. That was soon remedied.

So, the owner of Radio and TV Doctors, the only Henderson resident in a teaching ca-capacity at SNVTC, tucked his manuals under his arm, and went off to school to share his knowledge.

That was six weeks ago, and Dan Drew is still impressed with the reception he received from his new class.

From the youngest to the men in their 30's, the students made it plain they were there to learn, and the cooperation Drew has received is even greater than he anticipated.

According to Instructor Drew, in the short time the class has been in existence, the progress made by the students has been outstanding. He said that by next summer, half of the class will be competent to work during vacation and that he is already making arrangements for those who want jobs at that time.

Drew has nothing but praise for SNVTC; he said that every instructor there has met with the same response he received. He feels the Center is the greatest thing that ever happened to Southern Nevada, and was emphatic in his statement that no one need be without an adequate education with the scholastic opportunities which abound in this area.

An easy conversationalist, Dan Drew is enthusiastic about his new career. He said it is a great satisfaction to witness the genuine interest displayed by his students; and that he, himself, has a feeling of fulfillment in being instrumental to that end.

The Drews came to Henderson from Massachusetts 16 years ago, and have been in business here for the past 15 years.

Dan and his wife, Anne, are the parents of three children, Michele, Vicki, and Kenneth.

Dan Drew has crowded a lot of living into his 41 years and expects to accomplish even more with his new teaching career.

★ WOLVES HOWL

Tomorrow night will draw to a close one of the busiest weeks in the school year.

Along with taking phase exams everyone has been eagerly preparing for homecoming festivities.

This year's homecoming queen is Cathy McGinty. Cathy's attendants are Torrie Clow, senior; Marilyn Pihl, junior; Chris Englestead, sophomore; Jania Lee Williams, frosh.

The queen will be crowned on the field at half time and escorted to the throne by the varsity football captain.

The B.H.S. band, under the direction of Duane Fuller, will combine talents with the Desertaires to perform for the royalty.

Following the game the annual homecoming dance will be held in the MP room.

Of you're planning on attending the game you'd better get there early. The bleachers are going to be jam-packed with students, alumni, and residents, all backing up our team when they meet Gorman High School for the last game of the season.

FRENCH CLUB
Election of club officers and planning for the year's activities were the main business of the first French Club meeting of the year.

The members voted in an all-girl slate of officers. President Kerrie Sullivan, will be working with Vice

TMCA Women's League Bowls In Costume

Wednesday night, in keeping with the Halloween spirit, all members of the TMCA Women's Bowling League came in costume. There was quite a variety of spooks, witches and even a Dr. Zhivago and Charlie Chaplin! This didn't seem to interfere with bowling as both M. Tennant (234) and C. Jensen (211) managed to rack up 200 games.

Pheasant Season Fraught With Sportsmen-Land-Owner Conflicts

Pheasant hunting is a wonderful sport and one of the most popular with Nevada shotguns, but the pheasant season also results in more conflicts than any other hunting, sportsmen-land-owner according to Joe Greenley, game chief for the Nevada Fish and Game Department.

This is the time when ten thousand plus hunters converge on the state's limited agricultural lands in pursuit of the ringneck. It is the only Nevada game bird entirely dependent upon high quality farm lands to survive which means the 90 percent of its habitat is on private lands intensively farmed.

If all hunters secured permission of the landowner before hunting on his land and did not shoot indiscriminately or leave gates open or litter or abuse fences, and if all landowners allowed their land to be hunted to its full capacity, there would be no problem for the 10,000 plus hunters or the landowners. Perhaps sometime in the past, this optimum condition existed. If it did, it wasn't recorded. The earliest records of sportsmen-landowner relations indicate conflict, not harmony.

Somewhere along the line a hunter did not ask permission, or left a gate open, or sprayed the farmers house with shot or did one of the other things hunters shouldn't do when on someone else's property; or it could have been that a landowner closed his property to pheasant hunting for some reason of his own.

Whichever occurred first is not important, but the fact that it did occur is. Since that day there has been more land closed to the unattached hun-

The EXPERIENCE that the people of Henderson have suffered with Mr. Gibson's representation in the legislature is an EXPERIENCE District 1 can no longer afford.

★ As chairman of the Ways & Means Committee, he is personally responsible for failure to get adequate money for our schools to operate on.

The last 2 special sessions of the legislature have had to appropriate more money for schools to meet their financial crisis.

★ Most recently we EXPERIENCED, through Mr. Gibson's representation, the loss of $600,000 to our Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Gibson attempts to fool you with complimentary quotes from the SUN and the REVIEW JOURNAL: THEY WERE WRITTEN TWO YEARS AGO.

Here's What They Say Now—

8 JUNE, 1966
THE L.V. SUN SAID:

QUOTE:
PLUG PULLED ON FUNDS
"Despite the fact that Staggs and Cahill had 25 assemblymen lined up to introduce the enabling act, Gibson would not let it out of Committee. It would have taken only 19 votes for passage on the floor."

"Three million dollars for hospitals in this state is gone and can never be recovered," Staggs groaned. "You'll have to ask Mr. Gibson why he wouldn't let it out of Committee."

End Quote

9 June, 1966
THE R.J. SAID:

QUOTE:
REFUSAL OF MEDICAL FUNDS
DISSERVICE TO NEVADANS
"James Gibson, Henderson Democrat and chairman of the Ways & Means Committee, successfully bottled up the bill in Committee, despite the overwhelming sponsorship. . . . An estimated $3 million in federal aid for Nevada under this program would have been an extreme benefit to all the counties. Gibson's stand on the issue is too much like the Ostrich sticking his head in the sand to avoid realities. Aside from the economic benefits to be derived from the program, there is the moral obligation to provide adequate medical care for any person. . . . Gibson's political stature and the county treasury—have taken a dip — — ."

TEE TALK

A large crowd turned out for the Halloween party at the Black Mountain Country Club last Saturday night. All those present agreed it was one of the best parties held at the club this year. Ethel Jilbert and her combo provided excellent music and the dance floor was crowded all evening.

The guests went all out on costumes and it added to the fun trying to figure out who was who. When we finally learned which characters were Elaine Raney and Barbara Bagley, they exchanged costumes and had us all confused again. It was no easy matter for the judges to decide the winners for the best men's and ladies costumes. Winning gift certificates at the pro-shop, were Paula Saragosa as Mrs. Munster and Larry Behunan as Batman. Larry Behunan, who has a very fine voice, entertained the group by singing several songs with the musical combo.

There is a sharp new look at the Black Mountain Club these days. The members have an "Angel" in their midst and thanks to him there is a new black topping job in front and to the sides of the club house. Members and guests alike are grateful for this big improvement.

There were 16 entrants in the Easter Seal Tournament on Ladies Day here last week. Mary Meyers and Barbara Bagley tied with net 72. This is two under par for ladies.

They will play 18 holes to decide the winner. Next week we will have the name of the winner for you. At the same time they tied for the monthly Medal of Golf. Whoever wins the play-off will win in both tournaments.

The Ladies Association held their monthly golf meeting last week and winners were announced. The A.B.C.D. team coming out on top was composed of Laura Carrado, Dorothy Wade, Betty Vordahl and Sunny Stanfill. In first place for the String Tournament was Fuzzy Wengert. In the second spot was Evelyn Morrell.

The Black Mountain Men's Association, the group which put on the successful Halloween party, will have their monthly meeting at the clubhouse tonight. The dinner will be at 7 and the meeting will start at 8. Don Dawson, president, will conduct the meeting and introduce our new golf professional, Bill Farkas.

All of you golfers who have been lamenting the trend of your game, now is the time to do something about it. Come to the pro-shop, make an appointment with Bill Farkas for the needed lessons and get your game back in the groove.

More of our lady golfers have played themselves out of our continuing tournament. They are Barbara Lauer, Faye Scott, Viv Phillips, Laura Carrado, Sandra McNair and Betty Zahn. They will be contacted personally by the Committee to see if they will join the others in this special consolation flight who plan to play off for a seal skin parka in Alaska. Women from all clubs in the valley were invited to take part in the Annual Invitational on Tuesday of this week. Several gals from our club have entered. We hope to be able to announce next week that some have come home winners. The women golfers always look forward to taking part in the invitational held at the various clubs during the year. Especially enjoyable is renewing our acquaintances among the members of other ladies associations.

In the recently completed second session of the Bureau of Reclamation Twi-light League the winner for low net, with a 29, was Skogle Lenon and the low gross winner was again, Jack Shankland.

We extend a special welcome to another family who have recently moved into a home on the golf course. It is the family of Jerry and Jackie Woodridge and their young daughter, June. Jerry works for E. G. and G., in Las Vegas. Black Mountain again draws new residents to Henderson! The Men's and Ladies Associations hope to have new members from this family and the younger set a new friend around the pool next summer.

We are proud of one of our members who is doing something a little out of the ordinary. She is Jan Holmes, wife of Dr. John L. Holmes, and daughter of Van and Marion Van Valey. This year, on top of managing the care of five children and her home, she tours to Nevada Southern three times a week for classes. We salute you, Jan!

Today is the deadline for entering the Dick Stewart Annual Fun Festival Tournament. You men who have hesitated before about entering a big two day tournament, consider this. There will be a special Calloway Flight for those without established handicaps and prizes for the longest and shortest drives, most out of bounds, most putts and for the most lost balls. On top of all this, a hole-in-one on any three par hole on either day will win for you a new Dodge Dart. Every entrant can be assured of the good fellowship of golf.

Plants Spend Millions On Air Pollution

HIGH SCHOOL BAND CONCERT SET NOV. 11

While American Potash and Chemical Corporation is busy manufacturing sodium chlorate for bleaching paper and ammonium perchlorate for oxidizer in solid rocket propellants they also make chlorine as a waste product from the electrolytic cells.

Henry Curtis, plant manager, says this chlorine may be troublesome enough in the operating area for the employees to sometimes wear masks but it does not get outside the plant.

The company has already spent $50,000 on a sealed system for the production of sodium chlorate. They added a new enclosed cell top to the electrolytic cells which has enabled them to devise a sealed header to collect gases.

This is presently working on a test group of cells and when perfected will be used throughout the plant. This will completely capture the chlorine and hydrogen gases escaping from the cells and allow them to be used by the company. In the manufacture of ammonium perchlorate a water and lime scrubber is used to clean the waste air of noxious fumes.

This plant's biggest source of pollution comes in the form of black smoke rising out of the exhaust stacks over the manganese ore building. This ore is roasted, ground, given an acid bath, and put through electrolytic cells to make manganese dioxide, used for high quality batteries. The black particles in the smoke are manganese ore which the company now practical collects with a dust collector.

The company has spent $15,000 towards a more complete dust collecting system which should be in operation by January. This system will give off only water vapor and will meet the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District's standards.

Unloading the ore is a dusty job. This will be made less dusty by using cars which can be unloaded by dropping out the bottom. The present method of transferring the ore by shovel creates extra dust pollution.

Henry Curtis tells us that although American Potash's efforts at pollution control are not of the magnitude of the other plants, their problem is not of their magnitude either. Curtis says, of the industrial complex as a whole "Our plants are studying and will continue to study and install improved ways to control air pollution as witness the expenditures already committed to this purpose."

"However, it is possible to set a standard of control higher than current technology can economically achieve."

U.S. Lime Products Division of Flinkote Company at Henderson is the leading producer of hydrated lime for the building industry in the Western United States. The white lime dust emitted from this plant can be seen coating it's buildings. It should be pointed out that this lime is non-toxic, odorless, and is not harmful to vegetation or animal life.

Since studying this operation in 1948 U.S. Lime has continually installed, replaced, and modernized equipment for dust controls. Such items as covered conveyor systems, bag type collectors, and water spray towers were installed early in the plant's operation.

Other equipment has been installed and modernized since then. In 1965 the plant installed a modern efficient mechanical piece of air pollution control equipment in the kiln department. This addition met all the current air pollution control regulations.

U.S. Lime has for some years retained and still retains a prominent West Coast consulting firm to advise on the most efficient means of maintaining an operation that meets air pollution requirements.

Walter Taschek, plant manager, says, "The company is working closely with the Air Pollution Control Board in an effort to determine what further steps can be taken to reduce emissions of lime dust."

Veteran's Day (Nov. 11) will be observed in Boulder City with a concert of appropriate music by the Boulder High School band, under guidance of the director of music, James Sherman, according to Legionnaire Warren Turner.

Turner and Sherman are also preparing a program featuring a speaker from Nellis Air Force Base. The event is being sponsored by the Boulder City Post No. 31 of the American Legion.

Clayton Glenn, commander of Post No. 31, states that the Legionnaires will appreciate participation by all other veteran's organizations and their auxiliaries.

Women are more Sensitive than Men Here's Proof!

NEW YORK — Are women more sensitive than men? The answer is yes, two to one—at least so far as their teeth are concerned.

That is a finding revealed in a new booklet about sensitive teeth, a problem that bothers more than 15 million Americans. Twice as many women are affected as men. A major reason may be that women brush more vigorously and oftener than the lazier male, but tend to brush the wrong way.

There Are Symptoms
Sudden sharp pain and discomfort can come from tasting hot coffee, or cold ice cream, or anything sweet or sour, or from biting an apple, or even touching teeth with a fork.

Be sure to see your dentist, and also get a toothpaste called Thermo-dent, made specifically to help relieve sensitivity.

Young and Old
A free booklet about sensitive teeth, explaining the phenomenon that attacks young and old, is just published. Write to Thermo-dent, Leeming Division of Chas. Pfizer & Co., 235 E. 42nd St., New York 10017.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR ACES AND PAINS

Aches aren't a matter of age! Young women often suffer muscular aches and pains from housework, child care, sports and outdoor activities. To ease them, here are a few suggestions . . .

1. Muscles always protest after prolonged or unusual strain. So vary daily chores to give yourself brief rest periods between active jobs.
2. Whenever you lift anything heavy, don't let your back do all the work. Use leg and thigh muscles to help support the weight.
3. When aches occur, relieve the pain as soon as you can by hopping into a hot tub for a good long soak, followed by a brisk toweling.
4. After the bath, apply a penetrating ointment or lotion to the affected areas. You can get hours of relief from new Ben-Gay lotion, a soothing, greaseless remedy that helps into the aches.

GIRL SCOUTS LEARN VOTING

Lorraine Kautz, city clerk, discussed election procedures at the October Girl Scout Neighborhood Service meeting. Using precinct maps, sample ballots, an election outline, and list of election terms definitions, Mrs. Kautz covered procedures from voter registration through demand for recount.

This week leaders are passing on this information to their Scout troops. A small demonstration voting machine, obtained by Anne Stebbins, is in use for these girls who are not yet of age to pull a real voting lever.

Love of country is an important aspect of Scouting.

UNIFORMS NEEDED

Girl Scout and Brownie uniforms, hats, belts and ties are needed for upcoming investiture ceremonies. Anyone with a uniform she would like to contribute, please contact Mrs. Jan Sardinia 293-2087 or Mrs. Irene Hammore 293-1258.

If you were so careless as to have let October 2-8, National Save the Horse Week, slip by without your having saved a single horse, shame on you!

Passage by the Senate of the nation's first comprehensive Weather Modification program was announced by Nevada Senators, Alan Bible and Howard W. Cannon.

Approval of the bill which now goes to the House of Representatives would delineate the authority of various government departments in the Weather Modification program, including Commerce, Interior, Agriculture, Health, Education and Welfare and the Federal Aviation Agency. It authorized studies in the economic, legal and ecological effects of weather modification.

A new School of Practical Nursing will officially open on Jan. 9, 1967 at the Carson-Tahoe Hospital, Carson City. The course of study will be specifically designed to qualify men and women to work under the supervision of a licensed Physician or Registered Nurse and give nursing care to all patients from the convalescent to the acutely ill.

The Clark County District Health Department will be well represented at the 94th annual meeting of the American Public Health Association in San Francisco, Oct. 31 through Nov. 4. The department has prepared an exhibit, Lifeband Population Studies, showing population dynamics in three dimensions, which will be on view throughout the five days of the meeting. Such studies, complex and difficult to understand when presented in the conventional manner, are easily communicated when demonstrated by these graphic, three dimensional models. This system of analysis of populations and their particular problems was developed by Dr. Otto Ravenholt, Chief Health Officer, and Patrick Scanland, researcher, when it became apparent that traditional methods of demonstration were too involved and complicated to give many persons a needed grasp of these concepts. The development of this unique system has brought nationwide recognition to the Clark County District Health Department for its pioneering work in this field of public health.

Nevada Sen. Howard W. Cannon was on record before the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee again in denunciation of government snooping into the private lives of its own citizens.

Offering testimony in support of his sponsorship of legislation to halt violation of the constitutional rights of U.S. workers by federal snoopers, Cannon said the time had come "to protect all Americans, whether they work for private industry or government, from unwarranted invasion of their privacy and constitutional rights."

A New York chemist has reported a new process that may be significant in the control of air pollution. Dr. Arthur M. Squires, a process consultant, told the American Chemical Society last month that a cheap powdered rock called dolomite can readily remove sulfur from gasified coal or gasified residual oil. Coal and residual oil are two of the principal fuels used in power plants and factories.

When coal and residual oil are burned, the sulfur in them is converted into sulfur dioxide gas, which is the suffocating odor you smell in smokestack fumes. It irritates the nasal passages and, in combination with soot and other contaminants, can be seriously injurious to health.

Of course, coal and residual oil are generally burned directly, without heating them first to gasify them. While there is no good technical reason why these fuels couldn't be gasified before use, improvements would have to be made in the process before Dr. Squires' sulfur removal technique could be used, he warned.

The Senate has adopted an amendment by Senator Alan Bible to remove population limitations on Federal assistance to Indian communities under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965. The revision, co-sponsored by Senators Howard Cannon and Paul Fannin of Arizona, was approved during debate on the Economic Opportunity Act Amendments.

Senator Alan Bible, a member of the Senate Small Business Committee, has co-sponsored an amendment providing a small business exemption in the pending bill to suspend the 7 percent investment tax credit.

"The tax credit suspension is aimed primarily at slowing big business growth in an effort to curb inflation trends," Bible said, "yet, without an exemption, it would cause a severe problem for the 94 percent of the firms in this nation that are small business."

Nevada has been allocated $649,000 for its Agricultural Conservation Program. Senators Alan Bible, and Howard W. Cannon announced yesterday. The state will evaluate funds needed for special projects, beautification, conservation and new participants.

A nuclear scientist says another world war would destroy civilization. Some differ with him, on the ground that peoples who destroy one another aren't civilized.

At the direction and speed at which man is going now, it seems he will make the return trip to savagery in far less time than he made the outward trip.

The Las Vegas Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA) will present its annual show "Harmony for Freedom" Nov. 12, at the Las Vegas High School Auditorium. Tickets are now on sale at $2.50 and $2. The major portion of the proceeds will go to the Institute of Logopedics for Children in Wichita, Kansas, a foundation for children with speech defects. Slogan of the SPEBSQSA is, "We sing that they shall speak."

Senator Howard Cannon has urged the Department of Agriculture to examine very carefully and use the utmost restraint in its reported plan to increase beef imports.

The Senator advised Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman that Nevada ranchers and cattlemen from other western states were encouraged by recent improvements in the domestic markets and cautiously hope that the gradual recovery of the industry will continue.

economy is overheating, and downtrodden old Ultimate Consumer knows the hot water he has been in for, lo, these many years, is overheating.

A survey shows that only 10 per cent of coffee drunk in the U.S. is drunk during coffee breaks. Probably as much time is spent, though, in drinking this 10 per cent as in drinking the other 90.

THEY SAY WE HAVE THE BIGGEST HEARTS IN THE WORLD

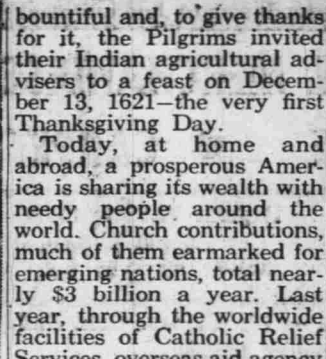

A knee poking through your shirt-tail is no laughing matter for this youngster and his mother in Rwanda, who have heard that Americans have the biggest hearts in the world, but are waiting to see—and wear—proof. Such proof came to a little Vietnamese girl in the form of a reconditioned frock—the first real dress the child ever owned.

Columbia

When the Pilgrims first settled in America, friendly Indians helped them to survive by introducing such new crops as corn and the pumpkin and by teaching the settlers effective methods of cultivation. The first harvest was bountiful and, to give thanks for it, the Pilgrims invited their Indian agricultural advisers to a feast on December 13, 1621—the very first Thanksgiving Day. Today, at home and abroad, a prosperous America is sharing its wealth with needy people around the world. Church contributions, much of them earmarked for emerging nations, total nearly $3 billion a year. Last year, through the worldwide facilities of Catholic Relief Services, overseas aid agency of American Catholics, over $131 million of relief supplies was distributed to needy men, women and children overseas.

Keyed specifically to that 1621 harvest feast is the Catholic Bishops' 1966 Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign. During November, Americans are asked to clear their closets of old but serviceable clothing, shoes and bedding and take them to their local Catholic churches for distribution by Catholic Relief Services to destitute people in 80 countries, without regard to race or creed.

SENATOR WILSON MCGOWAN FOR STATE CONTROLLER

"The growth of Nevada has emphasized the need for sound fiscal judgment by the State Controller. I feel that the experience that I have gathered over the past ten years in the Senate can be used best in this office. Having served as chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance as well as a Senate member of the Nevada Legislative Commission, I have become aware of the drastic need for increased attention to pre-audit control of the expenditure of state money in the Controller's office.

"Of equal importance, the Controller serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the Department of Highways, which controls the state's largest department. Also, he is a member of the State Board of Finance. These administrative responsibilities directly affect the value Nevadans receive for their tax dollars."

The Third Stool

... by AL LANGLEY

At the last council meetin' I lost two things — a city manager to jump on an the two bucks I won on the World Series.

I bet a dollar the city attorney wudden't be present, an he wuz, an I bet the other buck our city manager an't round out our budget is gonna be about as short as a mami skirt, an he did.

Before the meetin' Dr. Gray asked our city fathers 'n motner fer a couple of hours time to explain our 1966-67 budget as to why it ain't gonna come out even.

The longer he talked the shorter the budget got an I'm glad he didn't use up all his time.

I'll tell you this feller don't only explain a budget, he shows the riggers to you. He had big pieces of paper strung plum across the council chambers.

There ain't been that much paper used in city hall since Bill Cottrell quit writin' memoes to the city employees.

It didn't make no difference how long Dr. Gray talked or wot he said, the papers still nung there an' the riggers didn't go away either; he wuz stui nigh unto $30,000 in the red.

Jes like I said in my column a spell back, me an you is the only bank city hall's got an $30,000 ain't exactly petty 'ash, but that's wot they need to break even.

If you city fathers n' motner duz decide to raise our lite n' water bills, I'm gonna be the last one to put up a fuss becu' them great society fellers back in Washington is always remindin' us that we ain't never had it so good.

When they talk like that it makes me feel so good, I know I can't afford an increase in anything else but to remain a member of the society I pay it n' hush up. Them fellers back in Washington figger one way an' I figger another.

I don't figger we got it so good over here when they are payin' nigh onto half million of our soldiers off in phoney quarters over there.

One of these days this great society us folks are livin' in, but can't afford, is gonna take a tail spin an' when it duz, all we got left to do is sit around and watch Lady Bird's flowers 'n trees grow.

Well, so much fer this subject, let's get back in city hall an' this lite bill raisin'. Like I said before, the city manager explained our budget mess in complete detail at the Oct. 25 meetin' but still wound up in the red.

At the time of this writin' the council ain't put the bite on us town folks yet but they hafta do sumpin' an' when they do, they ain't gonna like it any more then me 'n you.

Sometimes I think I'll jest git me a wood burnin' stove an' a bunch of candies, move in my shed house an' stay there.

Me 'n Zeke Guber wuz doin' a little curb stone talkin' an' Zeke figgered if we brung in booze, gamblin' 'n wild wimmin their taxes wud keep the budget on a more even keel.

Then, he re-figgered 'n said — since they wuz so much moonlightin' goin' on, in one out of the three, he didn't think it wud pay off.

My goodness, here it is fashion show time agin an' I ain't even thanked them wimmin club gals fer the nice letter they sent me frum last year.

I jest done a little dab of work fer 'em an' I didn't expect anything at all, especially a letter so nice as the one they sent.

Speakin' of letters, I got another one frum the Horsemen outfit fer appearin' in their show a spell back. All the fun I had I shudda sent 'em a letter of thanks.

Anyway, the Wimmin's Club an' the Horsemen's outfit is a real credit to our community.

Speakin' of a credit to the community — King's Flowers ain't to be overlooked. Their flowers are purty an' their service jest can't be beat.

Good Nite,
Al Langley

CITIZENS CAN STUDY QUALITY OF SCHOOLS DURING EDUCATION WEEK

The Clark County Board of School Trustees last Thursday officially proclaimed the week of Nov. 6-12 as American Education Week in honor of 45th national observance.

Founded in 1921 AEW is co-sponsored by the National Education Association, The American Legion, U.S. Office of Education and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. It is designed to focus attention on the fact that the problems and achievements of the local public school system are, to a large extent, the personal responsibility of each citizen.

Theme of this year's observance is "Education Adds Up." A high percentage of District schools will hold some type of activity around these dates to demonstrate vividly to parents the quality of education schools are providing their children and what these public institutions are doing in relation to community investments in time, money and talent.

Sample activities include back-to-school nights for parents where they can follow the course schedules of their children, P-TA meetings, open houses and tours of school buildings, displays of work done by students, and parent-teacher conferences on how students are progressing.

The Board of Trustees proclamation as signed by Dr. C. W. Woodbury, president, and Mrs. Eloise Blue, clerk, reads as follows:

WHEREAS, The Strength of a democracy is no greater than the strength of the individuals who form that democracy; and

Whereas, The schools touch the lives of all citizens at that period when they are mceptive to ideas and capable of forming attitudes; and

WHEREAS, The public schools not only impart knowledge and the skills to acquire, organize, and use knowledge, but also encourage the development of rational judgment, high standards of behavior, creative abilities, and the capacity of productive thought; and WHEREAS, The consequent importance of the schools to the future of America and of her individual citizens means that no citizen of these times can afford indifference to or ignorance of the condition and quality of education in the nation or in the local community.

NOW, THEREFORE, We do hereby designate Nov. 6-12, 1966, to be American Education Week and urge all citizens to take this opportunity to inform themselves about the achievements, programs, and goals of our schools and to rededicate themselves to the provision of the best possible education for every citizen.

WIDOWS MAY NOW COLLECT SS BEFORE AGE OF 62

Many widows may be unaware of a change in the social security law and still think they have to wait until they become 62 to collect social security widow's benefits. This is the concern of Ed Cocks, District Manager of Social Security in Las Vegas.

Until the change in the law, effective September 1965, the widow of a man who had worked under social security could not qualify for monthly widow's benefits until she reached 62. Now, she can elect to have her payments start as early as her 60th birthday.

Do You Know.....

BY JUANITA DOUGLAS

BOULDER CITY — How to cook on an old wood burning stove? Would you want to if you could? Marie Palmira does and likes it. She says it's easy once you convert it to electric and gas. And that's just what the ingenious Palmiras, Chuck and Marie, have done with their find.

After searching for two years for the right stove they found this one in an abandoned miner's cabin in Goldfield, Nevada. They talked the owner, Mrs. Bremmer, who runs the Santa Fe Club in Goldfield, into selling it to them.

When they got their prize home, Chuck took it apart and numbered the pieces for easy reassembly and Marie set about cleaning off the rust, shining up the nickel plating, and applying a new coat of stove black. Then Chuck converted the four outside burners to gas, put the controls in one of the middle burners and left one burner in its original state.

The small oven was converted to electric power.

Once the appliance men hooked up the outside utility lines and the city inspected the job it was ready for use. Marie says it cooks beautifully. It takes five minutes to heat the oven and it bakes like a dream!

The stove manufacturer still operates in San Francisco under the name of Wedgewood-Holly. Parts are hard to come by but with much perseverance may be had.

The Palmira family has an intense interest in old Americana. They have collected many objects common to family life around the turn of the century and updated them for their own use.

One interesting piece they are discussing converting into the heating unit for their living room is an old pot belly stove. This black cast iron common heater is very pretty with a well shined nickel plated skirt and crown.

Organ Project
 Another nearly finished piece is a Kimball reed pump organ approximately 90 years old. This can be dated by the style of the organ pulls.

Marie sanded the organ down and refinished it with a cherry stain, then worked decorative needlepoint panels to fit on either side of the top. A mirror will go in the center panel. Marie says she has been informed this type organ was used mostly in churches and always had a mirror for the organist to look into and see when the congregation was seated.

Chuck took the organ apart, refelted it and cleaned the actions so it would work better.

Sample Trunk
 The most recently finished addition to the collection is an old salesman's sample trunk found at the city dump. It still contains the manufacturer's label, C. A. Taylor Trunk Works of Chicago, Inc. This has been converted to a living room bar. Marie covered the wooden ties and hinges with stove black and then burnished the metal parts with gold leaf paste. The main body of the trunk is antiqued in Turkish red. She papered the inside with old newsprint and Chuck built shelves for bar accessories and glassware.

Sock Tray

To go with her new bar, Marie converted an old sock display tray from The Men's Store to a serving tray. This was antiqued Turkish red and the edges burnished with gold leaf paste. She drew an eagle design, stenciled it on the tray center, colored it with metallic powders and then varnished it all. When this is not in use it makes a very attractive wall hanging.

The Palmira house at 501 Utah is undergoing extensive remodeling by family members. Due to their determination to find authentic materials and styles and the time-consuming process of doing it themselves this has turned into a six-year project.

Made Beds

When Bob Georgeson remodeled his Men's Store he salvaged all the old beautiful paneling and woodwork for Chuck and Marie. The display cases were converted to built-in beds with drawers underneath and seats at the end. The younger children, Paul and Patricia, have these in their bedroom. Matching paneling partially divides the room, covers the door and one wall to make a six-foot headboard for both beds.

The bathroom, at present the only finished room in the house, is a work of art. The wainscoting on the walls is 1 by 8 boards of knotty pine, nailed into place by Chuck, then stained and covered with beeswax by Marie. Chuck built a knotty pine cabinet around the sink and toilet tank and made a built in linen closet out of the same material.

The cleverly designed sliding door is knotty pine with large decorative strap hinges of black hammered aluminum.

The Palmiras moved to Boulder City in 1963 from Cleveland, Ohio. Chuck is our Avenue B Barber, Mike, 16, is a junior at Boulder High and a newsboy for the Boulder News. Paul, 9, and Patricia, 7, both attend the elementary school. All the family are natives of Cleveland.

The attraction which brought them here was Lake

Mead and the desert. All are boating and desert enthusiasts.

This family is very home-centered and hobby conscious. Mike helps with the house remodeling by doing much of the heavy work. He dug out the yard for the front steps for the new entrance; This keeps him in condition for the football team.

Paul is in the fourth grade and a Little League footballer. Patricia, although only in the second grade, is already learning to bake.

home of the week...

By LEONARD DE JORIA
As you enter the Joe Ream home you find a comfortable lived-in atmosphere. The stairway to the upstairs is right in the entry way along with closet space. This main entry gives access to the dining area on one side and the living room on the other. The stairway is white, carpeted in avocado green.

The living room is done primarily in gold, orange and green, accented by a pecan wood piano, holding two gold candles, and pecan end tables with tall gold and white lamps.

The fireplace, which covers three-fourths of one end wall, is constructed of golden pales verdes rock. Next to it is the stereo above which is a hanging chain lamp. Two gold brocade and two floral chairs, complimented by a white brocade sofa, enhance the beauty of the room.

The dining room, done in Italian and Spanish, continues the gold and white theme in the gold carpet and matching drapes with white curtains. The pecan wood oval dining table has highbacked chairs. To the left of the table stands a hutch with floral wall planters on each side. A crystal chandelier above the table completes the room.

The game room is done in tile with cherry paneling. It contains a tennis table and cabinets used for buffets and storage.

In the den we see a sofa, built-in television set, two step tables with large pebble lamps and a low rectangular table in front of the sofa. The gold is continued here in the rug.

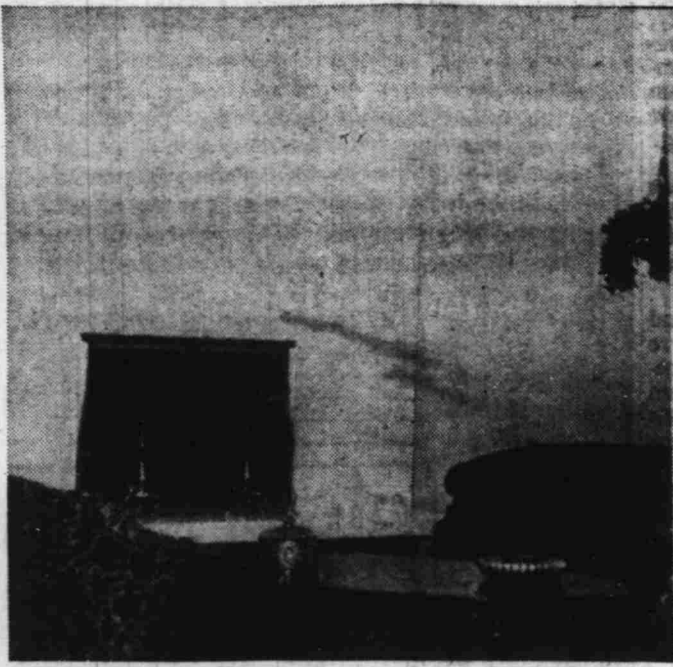

Down the hall are the bedrooms belonging to Trudy, a music major at Cal Western in San Diego, and Mary, a sophomore at Basic High. Trudy's room is furnished with a green wooden rocker and dresser, brightened by an orange and green floral quilt on her twin bed. Mary's room is done in blue and green with turquoise curtains and topped off by gold carpeting.

The master bedroom which covers the entire second story is done in avocado green and raspberry red with a large fireplace of white brick.

The kingsize bed accented by a gold wall plaque is flanked by green night stands above which hang gold lamps. The his and her's walk-in closets and catch all are cleverly hidden by sliding mirrors.

The room is completed by

This is Cleaner Air Week, proclaimed by Mayor Bob Hampton who urges everybody to join in the observance, as air pollution is everybody's business.

The capricious weather, which always blows up a gale to welcome Industrial Days and the fall carnival, must have read the proclamation and declared itself a "People for a Day" as it heralded the advent of Cleaner Air Week with the first inversion (a fancy name for smog) of the season.

I noticed there was at least one joker in Las Vegas who gave forth with a gust of adjectives and phrases on the old subject of "something has to be done about the Henderson plants."

This sort of thing always brings me to a quick boiling point but we must consider

Eastern Star Officers to Be Installed Sat. November 5

A recent meeting held by Sunrise Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, and presided by Worthy Matron Gertrude Perry and Worthy Patron Frank Perry, completed the year for the retiring officers.

Seated in the East and introduced were: Iva MacDonald of Park Chapter as Grand associate conductress; Madge Ryan of Sunrise Chapter as Grand Martha; Grace Brown as Park Chapter, grand representative to Wyoming; and Polly Norton and Elmer Byrge, the worthy matron and worthy patron of Southgate Chapter.

Others introduced were: Tabitha McCabe, mother advisor of Henderson Rainbow Assembly; Beverly Price, junior past matron of Daylite Chapter; Diane Bergmeyer, junior past matron of Desert Chapter; and Mamie Newman of Adarel Chapter, Jacksonville, Ore.

During a brief skit, gifts from the Chapter were presented to the worthy matron and also a gift to the worthy patron, the presentation being made by the Star points and the associate matron and associate patron. Lucille Kubic, junior past matron, presented the worthy matron, Gertrude Perry, with a past matron's jewel; Walter Kubic, past patron, presented the the source. Right along with the criticism of Henderson's atmosphere one can read how the cut and fill operation of the Las Vegas Sanitation Company is always burning, reportedly because people go out there and throw burning cigarettes into the inflammable trash and garbage... which usually makes a nice black cloud over our city.

We should consider the jibes against our City as advertising. Henderson will soon be as widely known as Las Vegas and Cucamonga.

Visitors from all parts of the world hear about Cucamonga and Henderson as they are the favorite spots mentioned by every comedian who makes a wisecrack about the Los Angeles or Las Vegas areas respectively.

No one ever makes a wisecrack about Overton or Moapa or Blue Diamond. Just Henderson. Maybe that's good.

Observe Cleaner Air Week this morning. Inversion or not. Go outside and enjoy our desert air. What does it smell like to you? The smell of a city, completely independent, which could make it without the influx of tourism which keeps the wheels of our neighboring city spinning? That's what it is!

If the breadwinner in your family works in one of the industrial plants, it's the smell of your daily bread... home, happiness and security.

To an escapee from behind the iron curtain it would have the smell of the air of freedom and to a refugee from Cuba, the smell of tomorrow's hope of home. To someone from Viet Nam, it would have the scent of peace, free from the taint of explosives and the sound of gunfire.

This column, written last week, lost its place in the paper at the last minute to make room for something more important. However, air is a year around commodity and we invite you to enjoy it this week. The weather got the jump on us during cleaner air week anyway and sort of fouled it up.

All right now... outside with you and decide for yourself as you join Mayor Hampton and me in observing Cleaner Air Week... and enjoy this mornin' on the desert.

From day to day you don't realize how fast your children are growing and changing. How can you keep track of this growth? Pencil marks on the kitchen door are one way. Clothes Care News

You might think that this is a peculiar subject to concern ourselves with when talking about cleaning, garment preservation, stain removal and the like.

Not at all. Innerlinings, being hidden, are one of those little things that some unscrupulous manufacturers use as an excuse for making petty economies. The innerlining is dyed, and then used without removing the excess dye.

Such "fugitive dye" innerlinings occur in both men's and women's clothing at the following places: Collar, cuff, facing, waist band, pocket stay, belts, lapels and even shoulder pads. When the garment becomes moist, either from rain, spilling or perspiration, the innerlining bleeds off some of the excess dye and it travels either into the body of the fabric or the lining of the garment. Try to remove such a spot and you get further "bleeding". Then the garment, more often than not, is damaged beyond repair.

Your best bet in avoiding this is to ASK THE MERCHANT IF THE INNERLINING IS FAST DYED. If it isn't, why not look a little longer?

And if the garment should become stained without your noticing it—call it to our attention as soon as you do see the stain. That way we may be able to remedy it.

Whatever the cleaning problem, you'll like the results when you

New Nevada Voter's Handbook Ready for Distribution

The Bureau of Governmental Research of the University of Nevada is pleased to announce the publication of the first edition of the "Nevada Voter's Handbook". The Handbook has been produced in cooperation with the League of Women Voters of Nevada. It is designed to provide information on voting and politics in the state, to enable voters to cast their ballots more intelligently and to participate more actively in the political life of the state.

The Handbook consists of two parts. The first part contains several chapters describing voter qualifications, registration, the mechanics of voting, political parties, and apportionment. This information is primarily intended to inform voters about the political process and should be useful in future years as a basic aid to education of citizens about politics.

The second part gives information directly relevant to the 1966 election. In this part are the Republican and Democratic state platforms for 1966, current lists of party and election officials, information on the proposition which will be on the ballot in November, and statements by candidates for state offices (Governor, United States Representative, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Supreme Court, and Regent of the University of Nevada); These statements were received in response to questionnaires sent the candidates by the League of Women Voters. The replies are printed exactly as they were received from the candidates; no editorial changes have been made and, of course, neither the League nor the Bureau endorses any candidates.

Copies of the Handbook may be obtained free from the Bureau of Governmental Research, University of Nevada Reno. Members of the League of Women Voters will also distribute the publication. Inquiries about bulk orders should be made to the Bureau.

RENO EVENING GAZETTE Editorial

Time for a Change

EIGHT YEARS AGO, Grant Sawyer, district attorney of Elko County, was the Democratic candidate for governor, running against incumbent Gov. Charles H. Russell, who was seeking reelection to a third term.

Sawyer's principal campaign argument was "No third term." No state official was indispensable, he argued, and it would not be a healthy thing for the state to have a chief executive remain in office term after term. The argument was effective, for Sawyer was elected, and in the opinion of political observers at the time, on that third-term issue.

Now, two terms later, Governor Sawyer is bidding for a third term. He prefers to forget the claims and charges he made in 1958. His publicity department broadcasts continually that he is indeed the indispensable man, and insists that the future prosperity of Nevada depends entirely on his leadership.

Challenging these claims, and seeking the Governor's office as the Republican candidate is Paul A. Laxalt, a Carson City attorney, and Lieutenant Governor of Nevada for the last four years. Two years ago he was the Republican candidate against incumbent U.S. Sen. Howard Cannon, and he lost the election by 48 votes—a result only determined after a recount. The 67,288 votes cast for Laxalt attested to his popularity with Nevada voters.

Although Governor Sawyer and his spokesmen deal in superlatives when they describe the administration's accomplishments in the last eight years, their claims are not entirely accurate.

A long overdue shakeup in the Nevada Highway Department didn't come about until outraged public opinion forced the Governor and his highway board to act.

The Nevada State Hospital administration was reorganized—but not until the Sawyer administration's cries of "smear" were shown to be a smokescreen for inefficiency and careless operation.

The Nevada State Prison was in the same condition as the hospital, and the same routine was followed—vain charges of "politics," followed by slow admission that the criticism was on solid ground.

Governor Sawyer's "tough" policy of regulating gambling wasn't tough enough, in the opinion of the U.S. Department of Justice and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The governor's accusation of "Nazism" against these federal agencies hasn't convinced the federal officials, and a good many Nevadans, that the gambling business in Nevada is simon-pure.

While many of these shortcomings were developing in the important agencies of Nevada government, Governor Sawyer appeared preoccupied with public appearances at all sorts of functions, official and unofficial all over the state, and absent a good many times on junkets that took him to several parts of the world. This indifferent attitude toward close attention to the responsibilities of office was shared by some of the other elective officials in Carson City.

With experience in legal, business and public affairs, Paul A. Laxalt has promised that he will devote all of his talents and efforts to the constant duties required of a chief executive of a growing and prosperous state. He does not intend to build up a machine to enhance his ambitions for other political offices. As Lieutenant Governor of Nevada, he has had the opportunity to study the processes of government, and has seen the opportunities to improve them for the benefit of the state and its people.

As the incumbent governor pointed out in 1958, "It's time for a change."

In 1966 the voters should bring about that change with the election of Paul A. Laxalt as Governor of Nevada.

The next scheduled High Power Rifle Tournament will be held on Nov. 19 and 20 at the Boulder Rifle and Pistol Range in Boulder City.

Purple Sage Unit Gardeniers Discuss Fall Flower Show Plans

Purple Sage Unit of Desert Gardeniers met recently at the Bank of Las Vegas to make plans for the fall flower show and assign duties for this event to volunteers.

The annual Fall Flower Show attracts many visitors and is open to the residents of Henderson in both the artistic and horticultural sections. The show will be held Nov. 12 and 13, at St. Peter's Hall on Boulder Highway.

An interesting program was presented by Joe Mast, who demonstrated several different types of Japanese floral arrangements.

It was voted that the club would donate several books on gardening to the local library and in addition, several members planned to make individual book donations.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 14, at the Bank of Las Vegas Lounge. Anyone interested in joining the group is welcome and further information is available from Mrs. Oldfield, 765-7344 or Mrs. Hummer, president at 878-9078.

Lester DePeals Host Visitors From Michigan

Mr. and Mrs. Lester De Peal 117 Joshua, recently entertained visitors from Detroit and Bay City, Mich.

The guests were Mr. De Peal's brother, Mike, and wife Mary De Peal, and sister, Mrs. Iris Gregoire.

Their trip was delayed because of an automobile accident which occurred in Moline, Mich., in which their new car was completely destroyed. The car was badly twisted and the passengers had to be pried loose from the wreckage, although no one was injured except for some bruises.

Since Mrs. Gregoire had never been to the West, they determined to continue the journey. Another car was obtained and they arrived shaken up but ready to see all the sights.

Possible Dog Poisoning Under Study

A possible dog poisoning incident is being investigated by police because of the large number of children that reside in the area.

Perry A. Parrish of 431 Ilmenite Way, told police his dog seemed perfectly fine when he came home at around 3:20 p.m. A little after 3 p.m., the dog was laying in the driveway dead.

He requested that police check into the incident because of the large number of children that reside in the area.

The Administration should take a cue from the television commercials and add a little dash of something or other to its Vietnam policy and tell dissenters that it's "New and Improved."
