

Leroy Zike Appointed Mayor Pro-Tem

LEROY ZIKE

Monday night Councilman Leroy Zike was elected Mayor Pro-tem for the coming year by the City Council. Zike will replace Councilman Gary Price who has served in that position for the past year.

Zike has lived in Henderson for the past 35 years, 21 years of which he has been in business for himself. Elected to the city council from Ward Four in June 1979, Zike is serving his first term in public office.

He represents the city on the Regional Transportation Commission and the Henderson Planning Commission and is an alternate to the Regional Planning Commission and to the Nevada League of Cities.

He is a charter member of the Henderson Elk's Club and the Henderson Jaycees, is second vice president of the Henderson Boys' Club, a member of the Board of Directors of the Henderson Chamber of Commerce and a past president and member of the Henderson Rotary Club.

City Sells $1.5 Million in Bonds

Three bids were received Monday for the sale of the city's $1.5 million water bond issue and on the recommendation of Henry Chanin of Burrows Smith and Co., municipal financial consultants, the bonds will be sold to Boetcher & Co. of Denver, Colorado for 8.8139 percent interest.

Chanin told the council that it is because of the way the city has kept its rating good that they were able to sell the bonds.

"These are the highest rates ever in history," he said "but the best we could expect from the market today."

It was also recommended that the council not vote on the ordinance providing for the issuance by the city until all members of the council could be present.

Councilmen Gary Price and Lorna Resterson were absent from the meeting.

Union-Timet Talks Resume!

Morry Story

By Morry Zanoff

A strike right here in our own hometown.

We go along day to day, minute to minute, month to month, year to year, and often hear or read about a strike elsewhere. We understand them and we know that some of the strikes, like recently in Poland, affect a whole country, and some like in a nationwide industry, we learn the effects right away with shortages of supplies and effects upon the economy.

But somehow those strikes are different. They don't hit as hard as when one occurs in your own hometown.

It is not within my ability or this newspaper's rights to take sides in a local situation where industry and working people are so vitally a part of our daily life.

One can only hope and pray that both sides keep the doors open to each other and both sides spread their feelings out on the table and that both sides will be considerate of the other sides' demands.

We, as ordinary citizens of the community, must sweat it out, hopeful that fair play and justice prevails.

All of us have neighbors and friends and families involved either among the striking group or the executive group.

It hurts deeply to know this can happen in Henderson and we develop a hatred toward the media that portrays the inch by inch, second by second detail that goes on at the scene of the strike. Yet it is their job to cover the news and we must understand that too.

We hope that the management side reaching all the way back to the offices in the East knows and is as concerned about the local problem. We hope that the big bosses take part in the decisions and the negotiations. We assume they call in experts to advise them, but the big bosses are usually people of big minds

FIRE DAMAGE — Home at 234 Tungsten which was destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning.

Early Morning Fire Guts Home

A home at 234 Tungsten was totally gutted by fire early Wednesday morning with an estimated loss of more than $40,000, according to fire chief Dale Starr.

Starr said the interior of the structure probably burned for quite a while before breaking to the outside where neighbors saw the flames and called police.

The home was unoccupied, but the owners,

Dana and Hall Wurzer were preparing to move in. The interior had been remodeled.

Starr said the fire was caused by a gas heater that had been turned on Tuesday. He said the unit may not have been properly cleaned before being put to use.

There were no injuries, according to reports. The fire equipment was on the scene for nearly two hours.

Still time to make reservations

It's Happening In Henderson...Today

There is still time to jump on the wagon and join in the informative tour of What's Happening in Henderson. If you haven't participated in past tours, you don't want to miss out on this one, and if you have taken a tour then you know it's a fun as well as an informative event.

Jointly sponsored by the City of Henderson and the Chamber of Commerce, each tour gets better as the city grows.

The plan is to meet in the large parking lot at Old Vegas where comfortable Gray Line buses will be waiting to have you come aboard. Departure time is 3:15 p.m. Then begins the tour throughout Henderson's 70 square miles with a visit to the New Hesse Corporation and at Ethel M Chocolates. During the tour city staff hosts and hostesses will explain the new growth and development as you pass by.

That's the informative part of the tour. Around dusk the buses will return to Old Vegas and then the fun begins. A Happy Time will be hosted by our major developers and

Would Raise Rates By 20%

Gas Company Wants Rate Increase

CP National Corp. today announced that it filed a proposed general rate increase with the Nevada Public Service Commission for the Henderson gas operation. The proposed increase would raise rates by an average of 20%.

The requested change in rates will enable CP National to recover the increased costs of capital, wages, materials and supplies. It will also compensate for the increased costs of gas plant facilities.

According to president and chief executive officer, Ben W. Agee, "CP National is seeking this adjustment in rates to enable the company to continue to provide quality service to its customers."

Copies of the application and related exhibits may be examined at the office of the Nevada Public Service Commission, Kinkead Building, 505 E. King St., Carson City, Nevada 89710 or CP National's Business Office, 108 Market St., Henderson, Nevada 89015.

there will be lots of snacks, hors d'oeuvres, and even some special entertainment will be provided just for the enjoyment of those taking the tour.

But first, call the Chamber of Commerce and make your reservations. There is a charge of just $8 per person... a small fee to pay for a unique afternoon and evening of What's Happening in Henderson.

Officials of Titanium Metals Corporation and Steelworkers Local 4856 met yesterday morning in Las Vegas to resume contract negotiations in an effort to end the eight-day old strike.

About 800 members of Local 4856 went on strike at 12:01 Wednesday, October 1 after rejecting a three-year contract proposal. Union members were reportedly unhappy with the new wage proposal.

J.W. Walters, manager of TIMET, had originally said the plant would be closed down with complete closure expected to take from 7 to 10 days.

However, because the effect of a complete shutdown and the long time requirement necessary to achieve full production after a settlement has been reached could be a disaster for the nation's defense aerospace industry, TIMET decided to maintain a minimum production level to facilitate a more rapid return to full production when a settlement is reached. This would allow them to fill the most critical defense orders.

TIMET is the largest domestic producer of titanium and a major source of premium quality titanium used in military aircraft engines now under production for the U.S. and NATO defense forces.

Late last Monday, District Judge J. Charles Thompson issued a court order limiting strike activity at the plant.

The temporary restraining order limits to two the number of pickets at each entrance to the plant. It further prohibits threats, violence and intimidation on the part of strikers and prohibits the blocking of any entrance.

Striking steelworkers on Monday blocked a Union Pacific train from crossing Pacific Road into the BMI complex for about four hours.

Union members blocked the train because it contained one car carrying supplies for Timet and members of the union did not want union members working for the railroad to take it in or unload it.

The standoff was resolved when supervisory officials from Union Pacific brought the train across the picket line and unloaded the supplies for Timet.

At presstime talks between the company and union were still in progress.

Do you think the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department should be broken up or do you think other towns in Clark County should become part of it?

The question of the week was asked of shoppers at Safeway's shopping center.

Barry Hunt - "I think they do much better as Metro. Protection in Vegas is much better now that Metro has taken over."

Phil Pearson - "I think the whole business should be Metro. It would make matters a lot easier."

Jim Campman - "I think they all should become part of Metro."

Chester McCrouch - "I think in the long run, Metro as a whole would be a better department if they all combined."

Cheree Pursefull - "I could work two ways. Every little town needs their own police so they could have more protection. I really think we should have our own police."

As LVCVA Board Member

Mayor Williams to Visit Orient this Month

Mayor Lorin Williams along with other members of the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority plus a group of Las Vegas involved in tourism, will attend the 50th annual World Travel Congress of the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA), to be held in Manila, the Philippines, October 19 through 22.

This convention is an annual event on the travel schedule of the LVCVA. This year it will give the Southern Nevadans the occasion to meet with 7500 members of ASTA expected to be present.

Attending with Williams will be Rossi Ralenkotter, LVCVA director of marketing and tourism, and board member Jack Libby as well as Las Vegas Mayor William Briare, members of the hotel and tourism industry in Las Vegas and two other marketing and tourism staff members.

The LVCVA will participate with a booth in the ASTA trade show and this opportunity will be used also to solicit the ASTA convention for Las Vegas in the near future.

At the close of the ASTA Congress, the Southern Nevada contingent will extend their trip, with stops in Hong Kong, Tokyo and Osaka, in a continuing policy of attracting more international visitors to Las Vegas.

Oriental emphasis on protocol makes the presence of the board members, staff and others important, as it gives Oriental government representatives and business men the opportunity to relate to their American peers.

The LVCVA marketing and tourism department, in cooperation with the U.S. Travel Service, has made every effort to make sure this visit will have a favorable impact upon the Oriental market.

Following a presentation in Hong Kong, the group will meet with top Japanese travel agents, tour wholesalers and corporate representatives in Tokyo. There will be a breakfast meeting Oct. 30 at the U.S. Embassy. The chief commercial counselor of Japan will brief the group on the economy of Japan, and a travel service representative will discuss Tokyo tourism. Japan's principal hotelier will tell the group what services and amenities Japanese people seek in hotels when they travel.

The minister-counselor of the U.S. Embassy will address the visitors at another meeting and the first vice governor of Tokyo will discuss Tokyo Metropolitan government.

The LVCVA will hold a press conference followed by a reception and presentation at the Tokyo Hilton Hotel. On Nov. 4, the group will give a similar reception and sales presentation at the Osaka Plaza Hotel and Mayors Williams and Briare will meet with the mayor of Osaka.

The objective of all these meetings will be to persuade the Japanese travel agents to arrange trips to Las Vegas for their clients so they can experience the many attractions of the area, including the Grand Canyon, which is a destination of particular interest to Oriental visitors.

Brochures and films to be used in the Tokyo and Osaka presentations have been translated into Japanese.

Local hotels which will send representatives on the trip include the Hilton, Maxim, California, Sam's Town and Imperial Palace.

and big views and they are often more able to see the human side of issues than professional negotiators.

At the same time, we hope that the workers have their side presented with a local feeling. All the labor leaders in the area seem qualified to best present their side of the story. They too may need expert help but they also have the compassion and the top level thinking ability that I mentioned as being an asset that the big bosses have.

So again, both sides need to keep their doors open to each other and need to come to a final agreement as soon as possible.

This community has thrived through struggling years and now is the time when everyone should profit from the struggle that all have made to keep our center of the state's industry riding high.

This much we all know - the community lives off its industry and off its men of industry.

Both sides should see eye to eye, for, Henderson's present and future is at stake.

Returning from the Caribbean, we stopped off in Wichita, Kansas to visit June Richie who is seriously ill. Doctors discovered a brain tumor that is inoperable and she is presently taking cobalt treatments. The prognosis is not good. She is in Wesley Hospital and can be written to. When she lived in Southern Nevada, she was an outstanding golfer and her name is still on the walls of the Black Mountain Country Club as a club champion.

Everyone who knew her from here and who knows her in her home area, agrees she is and has been an outstanding woman.

Today in Henderson is a big day on the calendar because it is the day the city and the Chamber of Commerce combine to sponsor the "It's Happening In Henderson" Tour. Some 400 people will be given a conducted bus ride to and through the exciting growth areas that have made Henderson the talk of the West. Would you believe that the tour will go throughout the 70 square miles that make up the city. The buses will be talking guides so that everyone will be well backgrounded on what makes us tick. The tour ends at Old Vegas around dusk. A free "Happy Time", hosted by major area developers here, will then happen.

What a great event that we can be proud of as against the sorry story one gets in reading about the rest of the world. The city and the Chamber are to be congratulated for sponsoring the informational feature.

Air Extravaganza Set For Oct. 25 and 26

"It's been a dream of mine for a long time," Arby Alper told city councilmen during a public hearing requesting permission to hold an air show at his Sky Harbor Airport.

Alper said he now had someone to sponsor the show. "Most shows have one or two stars...we have them all!"

He said the sponsor, Toni Fowler, had posted a $50,000 insurance bond and the city is on that policy.

The five-hour air extravaganza will be held October 25 and 26 and features the world's greatest aerobatic aces and shows "the birth pains of aviation."

Public safety director Bob Anselmo said Alper and Fowler had arranged for off duty officers for security and also for off duty paramedics. The Sertoma Club will be in charge of concessions, Alper said.

The council also approved a business license for a Kiddie Musical Show to be held at Sky Harbor on October 18 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. This will be for children aged 5 to 12 and several high school bands will entertain throughout the six hours.

In other action the council: - Approved a variance to allow roofing exceeding the 40 percent maximum limitation as required in single family residence district for Nathan Stout of 111 Cedar Street.

- Approved a use permit to allow for the operation of a secondhand store at 27 Army Street in a commercial area at the request of Richard Thurmond of Las Vegas.

- Approved a request for Paul Kellogg of Las Vegas for the annexation of 20 acres off Eastern Avenue and Wigwam Street with the following stipulations; the owner must agree to join the assessment district being formed for the extension of utilities, sewer and water; the proposed development is to be compatible with the surrounding properties; and flood control is to be considered for future right-of-way dedications if needed.

The revelation that Ali, the fighter, was taking thyroid pills and thus weakened him prompts this reaction from my pen.

The promoters ought to give the money back to all those who paid some 50 million dollars to see the fight on TV or live. Of course, this is impossible but it is logical, I believe, when one realizes what a travesty of justice was perpetrated on the American public.

The sports public went for this fight against Holmes hook, line, and sinker. Most people in the know felt it was a sorry but sure fire effort to make some money. The American public bought the hoopla created by the promoters and by Ali himself. Many of us didn't buy it and felt Ali had no chance and he knew it. Many of us felt Holmes went for a deal because of the three million dollars that he would not be able to get ever again. Ali made 8 million.

We don't say the fight was crooked, but after reading many of the accounts of the fight itself, we could detect points where Holmes could have put Ali away easily, why didn't he?

Now with the new information that Ali came to the fight knowing he had been taking pills and had weakened himself, it seems natural to believe if he were the true patriot and honorable gentleman, he would have asked that the fight be postponed until such time as he felt physically right. He would have then been considered a champion. Now he is a lost article, faded and, as far as I am concerned, a cheater.

The American public can be fooled some of the time but not all of the time. What do you think?

Identity of Body Baffles Police

Henderson Police are asking for the public's help in identifying the body of a young murder victim found in the desert Sunday.

She is described as a white woman between the ages of 16 and 22, 5 feet 2, 103 pounds, with brown hair and blue eyes.

Police said she had a small, possibly homemade, tattoo of the letter "s" on the inside of her right forearm below the elbow.

Lt. Kip Bodkin, of the Henderson Police, said the body was seen by passersby who notified police. It was laying about 20 feet from Lake Mead Drive.

She sustained four severe blows to the head and seven stab wounds in the back, according to autopsy reports.

Bodkin said her description has been given to every police department west of the Mississippi. She was not listed as a missing person.

This was the first homicide reported within Henderson city limits this year.

Accident Brings Reckless Driving Charge

A driver was cited for reckless driving following an accident on Burkholder north of Collins last weekend.

According to police, Micah Jefferson Kittell, 16, of 132 Dogwood was northbound on Burkholder when his vehicle veered across a double line and passed two cars at a high rate of speed. He lost control and slide 164 feet to the edge of the pavement.

Phantom Vehicles

Two separate accidents were reported by drivers who had to swerve to avoid unknown vehicles.

In one, Susan Annette Reed, 31, of Glenwood Lane said she was westbound on Palo Verde when she had to veer off of the road to avoid an oncoming car. She could not identify the vehicle.

Rear End Collision

A driver was cited for failure to pay full time and attention following a two car accident on Rt. 146 near Hillcrest.

The driver was identified as Nikki Lea Spence, 19, of 258 Tungsten who struck a vehicle driven by Daniel Robert Owsley of 99 Constitution.

Owsley was eastbound on 146 and had stopped to turn into a driveway.

Henderson Happenings

By Mary Stafford

There have been some Henderson Happenings in the past few days that aren't the type we really want to write about but nevertheless they happen. In this case I'm referring to acts of vandalism to private and public property.

The other night a group of "kids" (don't really know their ages) found throwing rocks at the lights located in the Youth Center park great sport...at least until the police arrived. Cheering followed the breaking of one light so I guess that makes it a sporting event. I just hope they are made to pay, out of their own pockets, for the broken lights and will then find something more constructive to do with their spare time.

Not only are rocks a weapon in the wrong hands but cans of spray paint can be also. The Home News truck received a splash of yellow and blue recently and Olsen Realty had a bit of graffiti on their back wall.

I asked public safety director Bob Anselmo if vandalism is on the increase and he said, no, not any more than usual. I'm either getting more observant in my old age or the scene for vandalism is changing...Bob says it's the latter.

Romance at Old Vegas...Alma Wortman, the switchboard receptionist at Old Vegas, and Bob Pate, head of security there, were married at a candlelight ceremony last Friday evening, Oct. 3, at the Little Church of the West.

The couple met at work and the romance blossomed and they are now making their home in Henderson. Alma's daughter, Teena Burke, was maid of honor and Herbert Hardesty was best man.

The fourth annual It's Happening in Henderson tour is scheduled for today, and it brings back remembrances of the first tour. We assembled in the council chambers at city hall late in the afternoon on a hot, summer day, and following a briefing by city manager Bob Campbell, we loaded up in two parks and recreation department buses...which are not air conditioned. Then we were off on the tour.

It was fun, there weren't many people attending so we just about had an entire bus seat individually, and we wound up at Paradise Valley Country Club for refreshments.

Now the tour has become a real big happening, not just attracting local residents, but people from outside the city who are impressed with our growth and interested in what's happening to Henderson.

It's still not too late to get tickets...just call the chamber at 565-8951.

Since most band concerts are for teenagers and there is very little in the way of musical entertainment for the small fry, a Kiddie Musical Show is being staged at Sky Harbor Airport on Saturday, October 18 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The kids must be between the ages of five and 12 and there will be five different high school bands to entertain the kids plus some of the disc jockeys from various local radio stations have promised to stop by and talk with the kids.

Ben DePue said he didn't have anything to do the other day so decided it would be fun to do something probably no one else has ever done. First he put the toe of his right boot in the Atlantic Ocean, then he flew over to California and put the toe of his left boot in the Pacific Ocean...all within a 12 hour period.

He said the reason no one else has probably done this is because no one else has been crazy enough to think of it.

Herb Steege, manager of the local Valley Bank office, and his wife returned recently from a tour of Europe. He reported a great time. And in the process of taking an 80 day trip around the world are Dr. and Mrs. Lorne Phillips. He has to get all his traveling for the next couple of years done in the next months as he is president elect of the Henderson Rotary Club and once installed as president, he isn't going to be able to go galavanting around quite so much.

When asked to describe her administration, she answered, "Order with freedom." Her primary duties as assistant principal include supervising student activities, initiating and enforcing the new attendance policy and, of course, student discipline. 'Sexual Abuse' (The Juvenile)

by
Officer Robert Lindsey
Crime Prevention Unit
Henderson Police Department

Perhaps the most universally condemned behavior of a parent or other family member toward a child involves sexual abuse of the child. Although studies of the negative impact of such sexual behavior have rendered diverse findings, at least three factors unique to cases of this nature impel the conclusion that intervention on this basis should clearly be authorized.

First, a number of studies have demonstrated that sexual abuse is usually only one of several negative factors operative in families where this conduct occurs. The studies report that the father or mother often have also physically beaten or terrorized the child. Even though the home situation might not justify intervention if there were no sexual misconduct, the added problems caused by the charges of sexual abuse justify singling these families out for special attention. Because reported cases of sexual misconduct among family members are relatively rare, this would not open the door to extensive state intrusion.

Second, although the behavior may have been condoned by both parents and the child prior to the time it became public knowledge, the fact that the sexual conduct has been reported undoubtedly drastically alters the situation. The child is now likely to feel guilt or shame. Therefore, it may be essential to intervene in order to assess the impact of the discovery on the child and to insure that the conduct is discontinued.

Finally, sexual abuse cases involve a factor not generally prevalent in other situations: The likelihood of a criminal prosecution against the parent. Such proceedings can be extremely harmful to the child. Filing charges means that the child will have to undergo the trauma of interviews and testifying. In many cases, additional pressure is created by the parents who encourage the child not to cooperate with the prosecuting authorities. Furthermore, criminal prosecution will often result in the parent's imprisonment. This may simply add to the child's problems. Such imprisonment may create serious guilt feelings for the child. Moreover, several recent studies indicate that such action may preclude effective treatment because meaningful therapy often must involve the entire family.

It is intended that intervention be authorized whenever the subject action would constitute a violation of the relevant sections of the state law. Although it is true that it may sometimes be difficult to distinguish between appropriate displays of affection and fondling or other behavior possibly disturbing or damaging to the child, reliance on the definition of state laws should suffice because only the most severe types of behavior are ordinarily reported.

If you know of a possible case of sexual abuse of a child, please call the Confidential Hotline at 564-5646 to report whatever information you may have. This line is entirely confidential, and no attempt will be made to ascertain your identity.

AGAIN THIS YEAR the Henderson Rotary Club is sponsoring the Rotary Biddy Basketball League at the Henderson Boys' Club. This program will be available to all members of the club, girls too, between the ages of 7 to 12. There will be three age divisions: 7-8, 9-10, and 11 to 12. The Rotary Club is supplying all necessary equipment and shirts for the league which will start in November. Trophies will be provided by Rotary and presented at the end of the program in February. Acting Boys' Club director, Clyde Caldwell, said he anticipated a total of 16 teams. Rotary Club president Bill Kirkman, left, presented the check to Caldwell and Boys' Club president Larry Tabony, right.

'A Country Fair' Bazaar Oct. 17

The Henderson 1st Ward of the LDS Church wishes to invite you to "A Country Fair". "A Country Fair" is the theme for this year's fall bazaar, and there will be something to please everyone. Games, food, and a bake sale are just a few of the things that will be enjoyed by those who attend.

There will be clowns, balloons, homemade root beer, and of course, all of these things will be highlighted by the sale of bazaar items. Come and do your Christmas shopping early. Surprise those on your gift list with handmade crafts, toys, quilts, and much much, much more.

"A Country Fair" will be held on Friday, October 17, beginning at 5 p.m. in the recreation hall of the LDS Church on Ocean Street. Bring the whole family and have an evening of fun together.

Beginning To End

Little one! Little one! Get up, get up!
There's cereal in your bowl, hot chocolate in your cup.

Shoes on the floor, clothes beside your bed,
Wash your face, come and be fed.
All is still-the room is bare.
Where is the little one that used to be there?

Little toy soldiers standing in a line,
Bright and shiny and looking so fine.
Waiting to begin a day of fun,
Marching on parade one by one.

The drums are silent-the room is bare.
Where's the little boy that used to be there?

Rise and shine and off to school,
To learn how not to be anybody's fool.
Hurry now, don't be late,
The sun is up, the day is great.
But all is quiet-the room is bare.

What happened to the young man that used to be there?

College is done, he's coming home with his bride,
All is well, I'm filled with pride.
There's food to eat and songs to sing,
Soon there will be children to make my heart ring.

Gee it's quiet-the room is bare.
Where's the man that used to live there?

I pick up my razor and start to shave,
A face stares back as if from out of the grave.
Deep-deep lines in a pale old face,
Signs of age all over the place.
The time has come-the room is bare.
I know why the old man is not there!

Seniors for Seniors Plan Bazaar

Seniors for Seniors met Wed., Oct. 1st to discuss plans for the Senior Bazaar Room during the Henderson Expo Oct. 17, 18 and 19th.

This is the time for all of our Henderson Seniors to show off and sell their crafts etc., that they have been working on during the past year. Also it is an ideal place to shop for hand-made items for the holidays, that are rushing toward all of us.

Any Senior interested in selling their wares may contact Edna Deardoff at 565-6990 or Mable Heenan at 565-0669 between the hours of 9 and 5 any week day prior to Friday, October 17th. Registration and assigning a spot in the Senior Room will take place 10 a.m. till 4 p.m. Friday, October 17 in room 4A just off the old gym upon the hill in the Civic Center Complex.

Volunteers are badly needed for the hours the Senior Bazaar Room are open during the Expo.

There will be a drawing during which a radio, a handmade macrame glass top table, complete with ceramic pot and plant and a handmade ceramic Christmas tree will be given away. Tickets on this drawing may be obtained from many of our Senior Citizens or at the RSVP Rooms or the Senior Center. Tickets will also be sold during the Bazaar.

Yeager Practices Art of Apothecary in Henderson

JACK YEAGER

By Lois J. Cherry

When walking into today's average "drug store", the shopper needs directions to find the department involved mainly with dispensing drugs.

While getting to the prescriptions area or the pharmaceutical section, the shopper walks through aisles of shelves offered home decorating merchandise, pet supplies, garden furniture, hardware, auto accessories and supplies, snack food, occasionally even canned meats and fish, television sets, jewelry, cameras and camping supplies.

It would seem the traditional drug store with its mortar and pestle is now simply allowed space in a section of a department store and the mortar and pestle, so long the main tool of the pharmacist's trade, has become mostly a "logo" or conversation piece on an otherwise cluttered counter.

But, in a small store in the Medical Arts Complex near St. Rose de Lima Hospital, the art of apothecary is alive.

Apothecary means pharmacy and to Jack Yeager, owner of Medical Arts Pharmacy it means more than just pouring out a specific count of pills from a big bottle into a little bottle.

Yeager specializes in making things, much as the pharmacist did before the coming of large pharmaceutical manufacturing companies. Not that he doesn't pour out specifically ordered medicines according to doctor's prescriptions, but frequently he is called on by other pharmacists who know he stocks the many herbs and ingredients for special medications, frequently not produced by the manufacturing plants.

He has machines for making capsules and tablets by hand and a complete collection of antique mortars and pestle. Medical doctors know of his capabilities and special equipment and call on Yeager when they need a tablet or medication that cannot be ordered from pharmaceutical houses.

"I'm more interested in using something I learned in school instead of just counting all day," says Yeager. "When I first got out of school, I wasn't interested in compounding anymore. When someone came in with a prescription that had to be compounded I'd think, 'Oh! Not another one of these things and try sending the customer elsewhere.'"

Then he became interested in compounding again and began to stock the rare and seldom found ingredients. The reputation of his pharmacy had traveled throughout the valley and he often gets calls from his fellow professionals.

He carries a complete stock of herbs and even spices such as oregano and garlic powder. Many items that are available from the manufacturers in bulk, are stocked by Yeager such as citronella oil, used to discourage insect bites and he sells it in a special formula to some consumers who use the compound to dispell odors.

He also has a special anti-perspirant, "for people who perspire a lot more heavily and you can't use half a bottle of roll-on and that's what they need to stop odors."

How did he find some of the formulas he has on file?

"From old books that I have collected through the years and many from doctors. When they write down the formula, I add it to my files."

He notes that many "old time remedies" have not disappeared in favor of the bottles cure from pharmaceutical firms.

"Everyone has at least one old time remedy and that adds up to a lot being around, but the problem is frequently that they can't find the ingredients."

When Yeager first got started on herbs and almost forgotten materials for compounds, the Edgar Casey books were popular.

"They'd come to me and ask where they could get some ingredients like atomidine - its a type of iodine that doesn't even sound like it's chemically possible, but the books tells everybody it's ideal to grow hair and clear the phlegm in the throat. It is used for a number of things." -- Yeager compounded atomidine for those clients.

There are many people who have their own home grown formulas that mix it themselves and for those customers, Yeager simply supplies the ingredients.

"I have one woman who makes her own face cream, I stock the ingredients for her," said Yeager.

"I could make it for her, but I would have to charge her for the time. This way it's cheaper for her."

But regardless of the home grown formula or the do-it-yourself mixture, if the material needed for the formula is outlawed or a prescription is required, Yeager informs the customer.

But, what about the public's new fascination with exotic herbs? Yeager says it may be fairly new to modern day American thought, but the Chinese for thousands of years, have been compounding mixtures made of such things as ground rhinoceros horns, gin seng root, powdered dragon flies - "but they get results."

He notes that for years, we in America didn't think much of the Oriental method of sticking pins in people, now acupuncture treatment is becoming widely accepted.

"We can't say the old things are bad, they just get pushed out of the way by modern things, but they don't go away."

Henderson Volunteers for Health Fair '80

Henderson medical professionals and civic group members have volunteered their time to bring Health Fair '80 to Henderson. Health Fair '80 is a community service project created to provide a group of multiple screening tests given at one time and place for early detection of potential health problems.

The Fair will be located at the Henderson

Civic Center Auditorium during Expo '80. Volunteers including the Basic High School Marine Junior ROTC, St. Rose de Lima Hospital Nurses, St. Rose de Lima Hospital

Auxiliary, the Levi Strauss Community Involvement Team, and the Boy Scouts Explorer Post I will be available Saturday, October 18, 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. and Sunday, October 19, 12 noon - 6 p.m. to offer free health screening tests to adults. Optional blood testing will be available for $7 to test for health hazards such as diabetes, syphilis, and kidney disease. Screening will also be offered to children and youth ages 7-17 who are accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

Health Fair '80 is a non-profit community project sponsored by KTNV-TV Channel 13, the Holiday Casino, and the Clark County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

7-11 Store Holds Grand Opening Saturday

7-11 EMPLOYEES -- These are some of the people who will wait on you at the new 7-11. Front row are Shirley Bearden, Nellie Egan, Sandra Witte, and Mary Greenhalgh. Back row, Owner Jack Edwards, Sandra Edwards and Gordon Hamel.

A grand opening for the new 7-11 store at 870 East Lake Mead Drive, (Lake Mead and Center St.) will be held Oct. 11 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Among the festivities will be a beauty contest for those between 7 and 11 years. There will also be a drawing of $7.11 worth of groceries.

An additional $20 worth of gas will be given away. Clowns will entertain and a remote radio broadcaster will be present. The store owners, The Edwards Family, invite you to stop by and have a good time and "have a slurpee on us."

Jack and Sandy Edwards and their six children have lived in the area for four years. Jack recently retired from the air force and Sandy has been a nurse in the Clark County School District.

Their oldest daughter, Lisa, attends the University of Nevada in Reno where she is studying special education. The next four children, Michael Ann, William, Joan and Mary, attend Boulder City high school where they are active in athletics. Sean attends elementary school in Boulder.

Although Jack spends most of his time at the store, the rest of the family works primarily on weekends except Lisa who has taken a four year vacation at Reno.

During the week some local people man the registers, pump the gas, stock the shelves and swab the decks. This large group includes the night crew, Jerry Harris and Eugene (Gene) Nickerson. These people missed the early morning picture taking. Jerry is a recent arrival in Henderson and has a large family. Gene, a local senior, came to Henderson after an air force career and a second career in the Oklahoma oil business. He and his wife live near the store as do the rest of the workers.

Sandy Witte, Nellie Egan, Shirley Bearden, Mary Greenhalgh, Gordon Hamel and Debbie Simmons, all live near the store. Sandy and sisters Nellie and Shirley have young families and hold down two jobs, "homemaker" and "storemaker." Mary, a long-time Hendersonite, enjoys camping, fishing and reading. Gordon Hamel is a student, having completed his army stint he now attends UNLV. Gordon lists "goofin' off" as his favorite leisure activity. The store's newest employee Debbie Simmons is also a local gal and interested in skating.

Diverse backgrounds of each person shares in the 7-11 fever. Stop by for the grand opening and let them serve you.

Extraction method restores pile and speeds drying time

The secret to carpet restoration is "Power Cleaning." HydrMaster's patented mobile plant generates 10-20 times more cleaning power than conventional portable units operating from household current. All noise and heavy equipment remain outside... only the cleaning wand and vacuum hose enter your home. Extracted dirt and soil are retained in the mobile unit, not dumped into your tub or toilet.

Shampoo -- Original surface cleaning method. Soil and shampoo residue not totally extracted.

Portable Steam -- Rinses and removes soil within the capabilities of household current. Extraction power seldom reaches 2 horsepower.

HydrMaster Mobile Plant -- Thorough extraction of abrasive soil and residue. 20 horsepower mobile plant cleans deeper, leaves carpet dryer and extends carpet life.

The weather is still beautiful, this is nice sleeping weather. Well, today was Pot Luck and we had some wonderful dishes. Everything was different, and Ruby Hampton furnished fried chicken. Everyone ate so much. It's wonderful to see all enjoying themselves.

29 Seniors turned out for the social day. Then played 10 games of Bingo. Thanks to Peggy Vliet for calling and Judy Brennan for assisting. Winners were Helen Martin, Jess Spencer, Ethel Wells, Ann Ahrens, Billie Somerton, Ann Fletcher, Catherine Fields, and Virginia Rose won the Coverall. Door prize was won by Ann Ahrens. Then there were 4 tables of Canasta. Everyone had a good time as I would say all the smiling faces. Sorry Floyd, maybe next time.

We hope to see all of you next week on Social Day, Oct. 14, so see you all then.

Letter to the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to talk to Basic's football team. I'm speaking on behalf of a large group of alumni, parents, and other Basic supporters. We want those courageous, young men who are facing a difficult situation to know that we are proud of them. We are all aware that the new coach didn't have 80 to 90 kids to pick from for a varsity team of 35. We also know that most of you are outweighed as much as 100 lbs. many times. Many of you have to play both defense and offense without rest. But we also notice the new respect the Vegas teams have for you.

Your new coach and his staff took on an almost unbelievable task; that of trying to mold a team out of a bunch of kids that had their pants beat off of them for quite awhile. And because of our unenviable record, many stout, able bodied young men refuse the "call to arms". Shame on them!

They are the ones that lost out. Anyone can walk away from a challenge. It takes a lot of intestinal fortitude to sign up with a team knowing it's going to be all uphill.

The new principal Mr. Lund openly and wholeheartedly supports your efforts. He started the season off on the right foot by managing to locate a coach who motivates and believes in the team.

So look up in the stands before your next game, it's filled to capacity with alumni, parents, friends and people that believe in you.

You guys may have lost some games, but we have never seen you beaten!

Ness, Phillips Head Henderson 'Young Nevadans for Laxalt'

Basic High School graduates Jim Ness and Andy Phillips have been named co-chairmen of the Henderson Young Nevadans for Laxalt, according to Ron Tiberti, general chairman of the Clark County Young Nevadans for Laxalt Organization.

The group has sponsored several activities on behalf of Senator Laxalt's re-election effort in Henderson and have several more planned before November 4. They have also joined other chapters in precinct walking, tailgate parties at Rebel football games, and in promoting the Wayne Newton Benefit Concert for the Senator's campaign.

Ness served as student body president at Basic in 1975. He was also involved in music and managed his own country rock band while in his teens. He traveled Europe with a symphonic wind band and played with The Valley Symphonic Orchestra during his freshman year at Brigham Young University.

He also graduated with honors from Basic and earned the Eagle Scout rank in Boy Scouts.

Phillips was active in soccer, diving and dramatics at Basic. Before that he attended Burkholder Junior High and St. Peters Elementary School. He is presently employed by Nevada Power Company.

He served on the Republican Central Committee for Clark county and was a delegate to the 1980 Nevada Republican Convention.

Ness is the son of Howard and Letty Ness, while Phillips is the son of Joe and Shirley Phillips. Both families have been long-time Henderson residents.

Nat'l President of VFW Visits Nevada

Mrs. William (Jeannette) Frank, Two Rivers, Wisconsin, National President of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, made her official visit to the State of Nevada in Reno, September 28-30, according to an announcement made by Rosemary Dehls, State President.

Mrs. Frank was accorded the Isle of Honor upon her arrival in Reno on Sunday, September 28 at Cannon International Airport on Hughes Airwest Flight No. 757 at 5:40 p.m. She was guest of honor and principle speaker at a banquet on Monday evening and at a luncheon on Tuesday. Both affairs were held at the VFW Post Home on Burris-Baker Lanes in Reno.

Mrs. Frank discussed the programs sponsored by the ladies auxiliary; the auxiliary's concern for the nation's servicemen and women; the veterans, their families, the community and the nation. Other plans included a motorcade to Virginia City, Carson City and Lake Tahoe. Phyllis Zander, National Council Member for District No. 17, Nev. Oregon, and Utah, from Henderson, attended the visit together with other members from throughout the State of Nevada.

Mrs. Frank was elected president at the 67th national convention just concluded in Chicago. She will direct patriotic and service programs of the over 626,000 member organization throughout the United States and overseas. Mrs. Frank, a charter member of Anderson-Murphy Auxiliary in Burlington, Wisc. joined the organization in 1948 on the eligibility of her brother, Kenneth Murphy. She later transferred her membership to Otto Oas Auxiliary in Manitowoc, Wisc.

She was honored as President of the Year for outstanding programs and achievements as Wisconsin State President and has served the national organization in varying capacities during the last 15 years.

Knott's Berry Farm Trip Planned

For just $35, which covers transportation, admission and unlimited use of rides, shows and attractions except for shooting gallery, rowboats, pan for gold and arcade games, you can take a trip to Knott's Berry Farm.

Sponsored by the Henderson Parks and Recreation Dept., the trip will take place Saturday, October 25. Buses will leave the youth center at 4:30 a.m. and are expected to return at approximately 12:30 a.m. Sunday morning.

Participants are responsible for their own meals. Fast food service and full service restaurants are available in the park. However, due to the length of travel time involved, a sack lunch should be brought.

The department will furnish a cooler to keep items fresh and will provide fruit along the way. Chaperones will be provided by the department and there will be at least one adult for every eight children.

All registration will take place at the Youth Center office from 2 to 8 p.m. daily. Seats will be reserved on a first-come, first-served basis. Children nine years and under wishing to participate must be accompanied on the trip by a paid adult. Deadline for registering for the trip is Oct. 23 by 5 p.m.

American War Mothers Meet

Thirteen members met at the home of Tina and Hal Smith Oct. 6 at 6:30 p.m. with president Evalyn Mazrimas presiding. She welcomed our visitor Mae Wirth, president of the Golden Poppy Chapter of the American War Mothers-San Diego, California. She was a former resident of Henderson. Also Juanita Scruggs, sister of Doris Pritchard a frequent visitor.

Hospitalization chairperson, Smiles Cunningham, read a letter from David Murry, Chief of recreation services at Veterans Hospital Prescott, Arizona. The mothers will not be making their annual trip due to lack of transportation, cost of gasoline and some just not able. Mr. Murry stated they will miss us as the Veterans always looked forward to our visit. However, $50 in coupons for Bingo will be purchased. Cookies to be sent U.P.S. for their entertainment later. So mothers, please have 6 dozen or more cookies ready on or before Thursday, Oct. 30th, delivered to the home of Doris Pritchard. The Womens Association of the Community Church have lap robes made as their Missionary project to send also.

State president Rhea Johnson announced a mid-term conference will be held at the Masonic Temple Monday, Oct. 27th, 10 a.m. Registration $1 and lunch $3.

Evelyn Mazrimas thanked all her officers and mothers for their support during the two years as president. She gave each one a gift.

Sgt.-at-Arms Frances Kisan escorted the State President Rhea Johnson to the Altar as installing officer. Olive Melton stood in for Mary Ellen Stycks, Historian, and Smiles Cunningham for Helen Bratton, Recording secretary. Officers installed were: Lorraine Danielson, president; Lois Hancock, vice president; Mabel Newton, corresponding secretary; Helen Richard, treasurer; Helen Bratton, recording secretary; Doris Pritchard, chaplain; Mary Ellen Stycks, historian; and Kathy Weese appointed Sgt.-at-Arms. Each was given a carnation.

The incoming president was honored, being presented the gavel by State President Rhea Johnson. The sash was placed on her by outgoing president Evelyn Mazrimas. Mabel Newton presented the Past Chapter President Pin to Evelyn, all mothers praising Evelyn for a job well done.

President Lorraine Danielson presented State President and outgoing president her personal gift. The following chairpersons installed by the new president were: Evelyn Mazrimas, Carnation and Memory Memorial; Irene Leavitt, Civil Defense; Kathy Weese, Gold Silver; Olive Melton, Hospitalization; Smiles Cunningham, Legislature; Norma Perkins, Sunshine; Virginia Weast, Membership & Rehabilitation Welfare, Frances Kisan and Lorraine Danielson. Frances Kisan, Ways and Means also.

No further business - meeting adjourned. Evelyn Mazrimas and President Lorraine Danielson served refreshments. Pictures were taken. The evening was enjoyed by all in this spacious home. Next meeting at the home of Evelyn Mazrimas, Monday, Nov. 3, at 6:30 p.m.

Community Church News

The Community Church of Henderson, a liberal Protestant church, is located at 27 E. Texas Avenue and Army Street, one block North of the Rainbow Club, and would like to invite you to join our Sunday worship service which begins at 10:30 a.m. This Sunday, October 12th is Laity Sunday. Meditations will be given by members of the congregation.

Sunday School is from 9 to 10 a.m. We have classes for three-year-olds through adults. Presently we are using the Joy Curriculum from the Winston Press.

The Women's Association meets the third Wednesday of each month at 1 p.m. in Gilbert Hall. The Women's Association is a very active group which lends itself to Christian living and service.

For the ladies who work during the day, we have an evening Christian fellowship for women, the Joy Fellowship. The Joy Fellowship meets the fourth Thursday of each month in members' homes.

If you have any questions about the Community Church, please feel free to call our Office at 565-8563. Our office is open Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Come join us; we would love to have you worship with us. Anyone needing a ride to worship service should call the Church Office.

Xi Sigma News

On October 3 Xi Sigma held a meeting at the home of Lavina Doddridge.

Torrie Anderson, President, announced that Patti Hester will represent our chapter as Valentine Queen. The Valentine Ball will be held in February.

After recent surgery, Mari Ann Blockovich is now at home and doing fine.

Social Chairman, Pam Olson, mentioned that seventeen girls attended "Hot Ginger & Dynamite" at the Meadows Playhouse. A good time was had by all at the Musical Revue.

Pam reminded the girls about the "Speak Easy" Social to be held Oct. 25th. Attire for the occasion will be something from the 1920, 1930, or 1940 era.

Jerry Lomprey, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, announced plans for a Bazaar. It will take place at the Nov. 20th meeting. Each member was asked to make something to be donated. Guests of members will be welcome to attend the Bazaar.

Our Publicity Chairman, Kathy Cardwell, has asked for a leave of absence due to illness. We will all miss her.

The cultural program for the evening was presented by Pat Rawson. "Our Grand Tour", which left us in Australia several weeks ago, was continued by Pat, taking us on a journey through Australia. We visited Melbourne and Sidney. We discovered things about the Koala Bear, Kangaroo, and people called aborigines. Escape Travel service provided pictures and travel information. Sidney, Australia looked like a great place to visit.

In attendance were: Torrie Anderson, Jacque Dillard, Wanda Johnson, Jerry Lomprey, Pat Rawson, Lavina Doddridge, Terry Lange, Gina Shroyer and Pam Olson.

Women of the Moose

Christmas in October was celebrated at the Moose Lodge on Oct. 2, chairman Betty Norman's Chapter night. Many beautiful gifts were given for the children at Mooseheart and the elderly at Moosehaven.

Two new co-workers were enrolled, Fran Johnson was sponsored by Mary Ann Busch and Shirley Horner was sponsored by Betty Farbus. Both co-workers were pro-temed by Nadine Close.

Ruth Ison was ill and Barbara Bracken pro-temed treasury and Barbara Nay pro-temed junior graduate for Marylou Bracken.

Nadine Close was guest speaker and gave a brief talk on her visit to Mooseheart.

Academy of Friendship will meet at Wanda Hamby's home on Monday, Oct. 13 at 7 p.m.

On October 23, Billy and Nadine Close will show a film on Mooseheart. We hope everyone will attend as it will answer a lot of questions about Mooseheart and its purpose.

Don't forget breakfast every Sunday morning. It is served from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and bring a friend.

Thanks to all the co-workers for the fine turnout last Sunday.

Church of Christ News

There are many problems facing our world. The problems will never cease, as long as we live in a world that allows Satan to be ruler and prince of the air.

The apostle Paul taught that man could overcome Satan by being translated into the Kingdom of Christ (Colossians 1:13)

WHAT IS THE KINGDOM? It's amazing how people twist and misuse the Bible. But we know that the word of God is truth (John 17:17). Man must use the word of God correctly (II Timothy 2:15).

The Bible is very plain about the kingdom. When Jesus told Peter and also the other apostles, that He would give them the keys to the kingdom in Matthew 16:19, 18:18 and John 20:33, he was talking about a people who would accept Jesus as the Savior (Mark 16:16).

When people accept Jesus as their Savior, then they are added to the church by the Lord (READ ACTS 2:41-47). Jesus used two terms to describe the same people--CHURCH and KINGDOM -- Matthew 16:18-19.

The Bible speaks in spiritual terms, not physical terms, when the kingdom is discussed. Salvation, Kingdom, Church--are all terms that describe the spiritual. There is no "future church" ("kingdom"). The kingdom has already come--it came on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2). If one would read Daniel 2:44, Acts 2, Colossians 1:13 and Matt. 16:8, they would see what the kingdom of God really is.

Wolves Take On Gaels In Silver Bowl

Basic's football action moves into the Silver Bowl Friday night where the Wolves take on the Gorman Gaels with kickoff time scheduled for 7:30.

The Gaels, Class AAA high school football champions come fresh from a 21-20 victory over Valley while the Wolves have yet to taste victory this year.

BMCC PAST PRESIDENT'S tournament winners last week at Black Mountain Country Club, pose with their trophy. Rosemary Chandler, left, and Helen Chauncey were winners of the 36-hole best ball tournament. They were 28 under par with a new 120.

"We are going to play the best team in the state," observed coach Rich Trautwein Tuesday. "They beat Valley by a point and they are looking for a continuation of that winning streak."

"We have to be on top of everything Friday. We have to go in and do the best we can."

Trautwein noted that he is fielding the eleven best players the Wolves have at this time and he's hoping his Wolves will be able to tighten up both offense and defense to keep the Gaels in line.

Despite their win over Valley last week, the Gaels didn't get it all together until the second half. During the first two quarters of the game, they were plagued with fumbles, interceptions and penalties and should they repeat that performance in the Silver Bowl Friday, the Wolves may take advantage of the situation.

Trautwein said he will start again with quarterback Billy Bly, who seemed to find the right combination late in the game against the Sundevils Friday when he connected with Bob Scucci who ran the distance to the goal line behind a screen of blue uniforms.

The coach said he hasn't changed his main plays and strategy, maintaining the Wolves can pull off a victory against Gorman with the right combination.

POP WARNER FOOTBALL

Huskies Tie With T-Birds; Cowboys Tie With Bulls

In the Pop Warner league, the BMI Huskies battled the T-Birds to a 13-13 tie last Saturday and the Henderson Cowboys, taking on the Las Vegas Bulls at Basic, also came up with a tie, this one 7-7.

The first Husky score came from a pass by quarterback Todd Christensen to Scott Swartzenberg and the extra point was made by David Butler.

The score was tied 7-7 by the T-Birds shortly after that action despite the fact that Terry Spikes and Earl Lee made fumble recoveries.

The T-Birds got out in front in the second quarter, but it was Spikes and Chad Evans that prevented the extra point and all through the third quarter the score stood at 13-7 favoring the T-Birds.

But in the fourth quarter, a hand off pass from Brandon Telman to David Butler brought another touchdown to the Huskies. The effort at an extra point failed and the score stood at 13-13 for the rest of the game.

Late in the fourth quarter, an interception by Walter Viera on a defense play gave the ball back to the Huskies when a tackle by Earl Lee turned the ball loose.

In the game between the Cowboys and the Bulls, John Biddinger of the Cowboys dashed 60 yards for a touchdown on the first Cowboy play. Later in the second quarter, the Cowboy offense drove deep into Bull territory threatening another touchdown, but were stopped by the Bull defense inches from a first down on their own ten yard line.

The Cowboy defense held the Bulls off until a strong Bulls' offensive move sent Page Benway in for a touchdown from the 40 yardline.

A fumble recovery by Bryan Finchem gave Cowboy fans hope late in the third quarter, but two plays later, the ball was fumbled again and the Bulls recovered.

Tyrone Brewer saved another Bull TD seconds before the end of the game by sacking the quarterback for a ten yard loss.

The Cowboys now stand 0-1-1 for the season and meet the Boulder City Bullets Saturday at 8 a.m. at Boulder City.

Player of the Week

Chris Heintz

Chris Heintz has been named player of the week for his exceptional defensive efforts during the last two games. Heintz is a junior, 6'1", 170 pounds and offensively plays end as well as a defensive linebacker.

POP WARNER FOOTBALL--The BMI Huskies line up for a play during a recent game. Pop Warner football season is now well underway.

Valley Buries Lady Wolves

With Jackie Holliday out for a week with a knee injury, Basic's lady Wolves were handicapped in the game against Valley Tuesday night, losing by a lopsided 88-22, but coach Diane Hernandez said several of the girls on the team began gaining more confidence in their scoring ability.

Until Tuesday, Holliday had been the mainstay in scoring and Hernandez said she thought the younger players were leaving it up to her.

A newcomer to the team, Jennette Hunt, accounted for five points in the game, landing two field goals and 1-2 in free throws. Debbie Becknell, Julie Richards and Marena Clark each scored four points during the game coming from two field goals each. Bobbie McKee accounted for three points which took in her 3-4 in free throws. Terri Williams scored two points but was 2-2 in free throws.

The lady Wolves take on Western at Western tonight with tipoff set for 3 p.m.

BOWLING

J&K Drops 2 1/2 Games

J&K Pharmacy broke its winning streak last week by losing 2 1/2 games.

The team now has 13 1/2 wins for the 2 1/2 losses and is followed closely by El Torito Cafe with 12 1/2 wins and 3 1/2 losses.

In third spot is Shanty Bar with a record of 11-5; Mack's Masonry is in fourth position with 9-7. Nick's Supper Club stands fifth with 8-8.

The Ding Bats, with 8-8 are even with Nick's and the Townhouse Motel with 6-10 is ninth. Gil's Saw Service, with 5-11 is tenth

• When Terry Bradshaw, the quarterback of the Pittsburgh Steelers, has been hit by big linemen several times in a game he has trouble passing to his right. At least that is what Dr. Edgar Gording, an optometrist at Windber, Pa., says. He contends that Bradshaw's passes to his left are truer than tosses to his right in the second half because his eyes get tired along with the rest of his body. Gording did not sell his theory to the Steelers. But the Pittsburgh Pirates bought it. They made Gording their vision director, believed to be the first in professional sports.

• Blind golfer Joe Lazaro told me his favorite golf story the other day: "I met Sam Snead at a golf writers' dinner," he recalled, "and we started talking about getting together for a round. Finally, I convinced him to play me for $5 a hole. Sam said, 'Great, when do you want to play?' I said, 'Midnight would be fine, Sam.'"

• In the 14 years that Carl Furillo patrolled right field for the Brooklyn Dodgers, few baserunners dared to challenge his strong throwing arm. During the last four years Furillo has been coping with the challenge of battling leukemia — and he's winning that one, too. "I think I got it beat," said Furillo, 58, of Stony Creek Mills, Pa., in revealing his bout with the dread blood disease to me for the first time. Furillo, the 1953 National League batting champion with a .344 average, kept his illness a secret from everyone except his family and closest friends until now.

• Tennis champion John McEnroe's lawyer-daddy, John, Sr., says his son does not deserve the "super brat" moniker reporters have pinned on him. McEnroe, Sr., told me that the press offers no perspective when it reports on his son's histrionics. "The things they write about involve 3 minutes out of a 4-hour match," he said. "They ought to be talking about his tennis, his tenacity, his courage — the things that make him a champion." Okay, guys, edit out the temper tantrums.

• Howard Cosell's chatter nearly knocked him off "Monday Night Football" after the first broadcast back in 1970, according to Leonard Goldenson, chairman of ABC television. Henry Ford, II, of the Ford Motor Co., a major sponsor, wanted Cosell removed. But Roone Arledge, then executive producer of the program, asked for an extension of Cosell's trial period. "In four weeks," Goldenson said, "Henry called me back and said he made a big mistake."

• Oakland A's manager Billy Martin has seen a lot of the Kansas City Royals this year, and everyone knows he's seen a lot of the New York Yankees. New York and Kansas City were destined to meet for a fourth time in the American League playoffs. Martin did not, however, hesitate to pick the AL winner for 1981: "We'll win it next year."

• The next move is up to Cincinnati Reds catcher Johnny Bench, 32, who wants to get out from behind home plate next season. Reds president Dick Wagner said the Reds would "do our best" to limit Bench's catching to two games a week.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
It is my deepest regret to leave Henderson, Nevada a few weeks ago and moved back to Denver, Colo. I was very happy to live here after I moved out of L.V. six months ago.

My biggest ambition is to provide the people of Henderson a real good, wholesome baking product at a price they can afford to pay. I had forty years experience as a scratch baking and also hand craft man too.

I have nothing against my employer to discharge me in favor of a young man who lack knowledge and experience. If my employer were very wise in the bakery business, she would fire the young man and keep me working for six days. Who can live on four days wages? I'm a senior citizen and for the employment everywhere I go I get the door close in front of my face or they say, don't call us, we'll call you. Well, the phone don't ring at all. The Nevada power firm and the landlord come with their hands open to receive the payment.

If I have a chance to open up a business in Henderson with a benefactor, believe me, I can make money and a steady job at my age. I'm not ready for a rocking chair and too young to receive a pension.

Here in Denver, the price of material is the same and yet donuts sell for $2.00 doz., coffee 25 cents, cookies $1.50 doz., bread 50 cents a loaf. No wonder the senior citizens in Henderson are starving with a little check their getting.

The only place where senior citizen cooks or bakers are hired is at the casino and not in a retail place of business. I would never move back to Denver if my boss would make a deal with me and let me run the place as I see fit and get rid of young girls and young helpers who sit around and wait to be told at a wage of $3.10 hr. or read books when no customer comes in. I'm so mad at all these bosses who push old people around.

Church of God of Prophecy

(SPECIAL)

1st Corinthians 12:4, 5, 6, "Now there are diversities of gifts but the same spirit. And there are differences of administrations, but the same Lord. And there are diversities of operations, but it is the same God which worketh in all."

The local Church of God of Prophecy takes this opportunity to welcome the town of Henderson to be ministered unto by Dan Kurbis, a navy chaplain from Cleveland, Tennessee. Brother Kurbis will be delivering God's message Sunday evening at 7 p.m. at the local church and will follow this with a week of spirit filled scripture studies at 7 p.m. and continuing until Saturday evening.

Chaplain Kurbis is a Holy Ghost filled man of God who is able to relate to military personnel and civilians alike. We do not yet know the topic of the Bible studies, but we can be assured that, as always, The Church of God of Prophecy will preach and teach only God's word. This would be a wonderful opportunity to come and see for yourselves what The Church of God of Prophecy has to offer. Come this week that Brother Kurbis and the local congregation might serve you.

Sunday School 10-11 a.m., Morning Worship, 11-12 a.m.; Children's Church, 11-12 a.m.; Evening evangelistic service, 7 p.m.; Phone: 565-7379.

ROTARIANS AND FAMILIES ENJOY PICNIC IN THE PARK

Bartender for the afternoon was Roy Phillips, second from the right. Peg Hubel and Debra Phillips watch Roy serve Leroy Zike a refreshing drink.

Little Hillary Trumbo, daughter of Sandy and Kirby Trumbo, enjoyed the afternoon watching everyone.

What do you do when there is a ballgame at the same time as the picnic? Take a TV with you, of course.

Earl Floyd, Phil Hubel and Alan Simpson watch as Leroy Zike and Roy Campbell cook the steaks and hot dogs.

Ron Langford was in charge of this year's annual Rotary picnic and had lots of good things for everyone to help themselves to.

Enjoying steak, baked potatoes and salad were Rotary president Bill Kirkman with wife Caroline and on the right, Dallas Bossard and Diana Kovak.

What do law enforcement officers do at a picnic? Talk about law enforcement. Above are Clark County Under Sheriff Don Dennison and Henderson public safety director Bob Anselmo.

Alan Simpson and wife Linda stand by as Peg Hubel converses with Alta and Roy Campbell.

The kids enjoyed games such as egg toss. Clyde Caldwell, guest of Earl and Wilma Floyd, organized games for the kids and even had prizes for the winners.

Flight For Life Delivers Patient Here

Thanks to the miracle of flight, a 69 year old man was whisked from Bullhead City to St. Rose de Lima Hospital in Henderson Tuesday in the swift interval of 46 minutes.

The feat was accomplished by the Flight For Life helicopter crew based at Valley Hospital in Las Vegas.

The patient was being treated at the emergency room at the Bullhead Clinic when the decision to move him was made. Flight

For Life was summoned and accomplished the task without incident.

The 'copter touched down at the Rose de Lima helipad at approximately 6:30 p.m. Dr. Finelli was the local physician in charge of the case.

The transfer was a "first" for the hospital and the flying rescue service; it is the first time Flight For Life has brought a patient to the Henderson facility.

QUICK TRIP - The Flight For Life helicopter made short, swift work of a patient transfer from Bullhead City to St.

Rose de Lima Hospital on Tuesday evening. The trip was accomplished in 46 minutes.

Desert Dawn Chapter ABWA To Participate In Expo '80 For Scholarship Fund

The Desert Dawn Chapter of The American Business Women's Association will be participants in the Henderson Expo '80 on October 16, 17, and 18, 1980. Chairperson for this Ways and Means project is Diane Hubel; co-chairperson Nona Perryman.

When attending the Expo look for the booth serving the "zesty and tangy" Mexican food plus the delicious "soothing" wine coolers. Proceeds from this endeavor will be used by the Desert Dawn Chapter ABWA to expand our Scholarship Fund.

Seniors Hold Bazaar

You are cordially invited to participate in the Third Annual Seniors for Seniors Bazaar at Expo '80, October 17, 18, 19, 1980.

Bring your homemade baked goods, canned goods, arts, crafts, knitting, crochet and macrame.

All Seniors, 55 years young and up may participate. All items must be brought to the Seniors Room at the Civic Center between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., Friday, October 17.

Come join us for the Seniors Bazaar at Henderson Expo '80.

Flood Damage Claims Against The City Continue

Three more claims against the city for damages caused by the July 1 flood were referred to the city's insurance carrier during Monday night's city council meeting.

One was in the amount of $37,880 brought by Ms. Frances Spickelmeier of 287 W. Basic Road, one was for $16,153 brought by Wehart K. Hosea of 653 Glenwood Lane and the third was for $7406.15 brought by Hesse Corporation at 2101 Moser Drive.

In other actions the council: - Ratified administrative action permitting the Rotary Club to serve alcoholic beverages on city property Oct. 5 and for permitting FNB to serve alcoholic beverages at their staff picnic Oct. 4 at O'Callaghan Park. - Approved a special events permit for the American Business Women's Association to sell wine coolers at Expo and gave permission to the Henderson Kiwanis Club to operate a beer booth at the Expo celebration.

- Approved signs for the Branding Iron Bar at 1120 N. Boulder Highway, Associates Financial Service at 135 Water Street and for C.P. National at 108 Market Street.

- Approved an architectural review for Valley Bank's new Green Valley branch office subject to the off-site improvements required by public works.

- Approved an architectural review for Valley Bank's new 24 hour teller building at the downtown Water Street office.

- Approved an architectural review for two additional buildings at Sunset Service Center, 745 Sunset Road, at the request of Robert McMackin.

- Approved an architectural review for the proposed expansion of the Eagles Hall at 310 W. Pacific Avenue with the stipulations that all work be done by a licensed contractor, that the off-sites on Pacific be completed and that the handicapped parking be redefined.

- Approved an architectural review for Monte Carlo Apartments at 802 Center Street subject to the parking being adjusted to staff's satisfaction and a reversionary map being filed to create one lot from the two that the structure is straddling. Off-site improvements will be required to public works specifications.

Guiding Truck Brings Injury

A man suffered a broken leg early this week when he was pinned to a garbage disposal unit by a car he was guiding.

The victim was identified as Everett Ikuma, who was standing in back of the vehicle which was driven by Jean Ikuma.

According to police, the driver could not see Ikuma as the vehicle backed up to the disposal unit and Ikuma was pinned between the rear bumper and the disposal unit.

He was transported to St. Rose de Lima Hospital for treatment.

Price of Paving Getting Higher

The city council was presented with a cost estimate for the race track road Monday night...$44,045. This would include two travel lanes, each direction.

In September David Funk of Las Vegas Downs and his consultant, Don Dawson, appeared before the council requesting the city provide the access road to the race track, at a cost estimate to be around $25,000.

According to the race track people, the city had agreed at a staff meeting in 1976 to develop the ingress and egress off of the Boulder Highway with its own forces.

The council voted to refer the item to Regional Streets and Highways for funding and Councilman Leroy Zike was to ask to have the item put on that agenda as an emergency item.

In another action the council voted to make improvements to the drainage ditch in Darwish Paradise Estates in the Green Valley area of Henderson. Estimate for the job is $34,730.

Last month several residents in the area complained that the ditch was very dangerous and children could very easily get hurt.

Entertainment Showcase

One highlight of the Henderson Expo '80 that is always a favorite with the people is the amateur entertainment showcase. Local performers volunteer their time and talent to enertain the several thousand people who attend the Expo.

Dancers, singers, magicians, and comedians are scheduled to participate in the Expo '80 talent showcase, on stage at the Henderson Civic Center.

Come join us for lots of entertainment at the Henderson Expo '80 starting on Friday, October 17, 1980 at 8:30 p.m. See you there.

Palmer Loses Again

Defeat came again Tuesday to Jim L. Palmer, Democratic candidate for a seat on the Board of County Commissioners. Defeated in the primary election by only 18 votes, he was also defeated in his District Court attempt to force the registrar of voters to put him on the general election ballot as an Independent.

District Court Judge Paul Goldman rejected Palmer's petition for a writ of mandamus after brief arguments by Palmer and Deputy District Attorney Scott Doyle.

Palmer said in his lawsuit that John Anderson's name was put on the Nevada ballot as a presidential candidate after he switched from Republican to Independent.

Goldman told the unhappy candidate that federal rules differ from state rules, and he had not met the state requirements.

Palmer noted that though he lost in the primary by only 18 votes, he still received more votes than the incumbent.

Palmer was trying for the commission seat now occupied by Commissioner Bob Broadbent.

UNLV-TV Forum

A pilot television program will be launched by the University of Nevada, Las Vegas Oct. 7 on KLVX-TV, Channel 10, according to Dr. Leonard Goodall, president.

Entitled UNLV Forum, the 30-minute program will be aired on alternate Tuesdays at 7 p.m. and will highlight activities and delve into programs, issues and research at UNLV.

"The format of the programs will consist of university news and interviews with faculty and staff," said Goodall.

The first program is scheduled to be aired Tuesday (Oct. 7) at 7 p.m. and will consist of an historical update on the university, current news and an interview with President Goodall.

Other programs scheduled are:

Oct. 21--1980 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION, a view of Dr. Andrew Tuttle, chairman of the political science department, and Dr. Ralph Roske, professor of history.

Nov. 4--FLOOD HAZARDS OF LAS VEGAS, a documentary film recently completed by Dr. William Fiero, professor of geology. Also on the program will be Ken Knight, management planning coordinator with the county manager's office.

Nov. 18--A PHYSICAL EXERCISE UPDATE, featuring Dr. Lawrence Golding, UNLV's director of exercise physiology.

Dec. 2--UNLV'S LEGISLATIVE CONCERNS, an interview with the chairman of the Board of Regents and two state legislators.

Dec. 16--A MUSICAL SHOWCASE of UNLV's Music Department.

Dec. 30--A LOOK INTO UNLV'S FUTURE with President Goodall, Vice President for Academic Affairs Dr. Dale Nitzschke, and Dean of the Graduate School, Dr. James Adams.

The programs will be coordinated by the Office of Information Services at UNLV.

EMT Refresher Course Offered

The Clark County Health District would like to announce a State-funded EMT refresher course, available at no cost, to currently certified Nevada Emergency Medical Technicians whose certification expires on or before April 25, 1981.

The 20 hour training will be held from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. in Room 1068 at the Clark County Community College on October 25 and 26, 1980. All candidates must pre-register for the course no later than Friday, October 17, contacting Norma Cleveland, R.N., Course Coordinator, at 643-8060.

Persons with an out-of-state or an expired certificate will not be admitted to the course without a letter of authorization from the Nevada Health Division. Persons with a current Nevada certificate will not be admitted without evidence of certification.

The next State-funded EMT refresher course at the college is scheduled for April 1981.

Cannon Co-Sponsors Illegal Alien Crackdown

WASHINGTON -- Nevada Sen. Howard Cannon has lent his support to legislation that would impose strict penalties on persons hiring illegal aliens.

"At a time when the unemployment rate is inching towards eight percent it just does not make sense to give illegal aliens carte blanche to compete for jobs," Cannon said.

"Immigration officials admit that there are millions of illegal aliens living in the U.S. today and that they come here for just one reason--jobs. Their influx cannot be effectively controlled until they are denied those jobs," he stated. The legislation Cannon has co-sponsored would make it unlawful for any employer to knowingly hire an illegal alien, carrying a penalty of a $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment per violation. This prohibition already exists for farm labor contractors and has been successfully enforced by the Department of Labor for the past six years.

Cannon said the bill would be offered as an amendment to a measure dealing with immigration policy which is expected to come to the Senate floor.

Clara's Cookbook Cooking For Two

By Clara Bressell Cook

Cooking for two - after you have had a larger number to feed, takes some learning and adjustment. But there is a greater awareness of the needs of this "two family" - food and equipment manufacturers are coming out with mini deep-fryers, skillets, slow cookers, coffee makers and toaster ovens, which are not new but very effective.

And you know that your shopping isn't all that easy - that amounts become over - whelming. Just use your refrigerator to store the extra amounts. For example, whole grain cereals, dried fruits, olive oil and other foods that lose their freshness quickly at room temperature can be kept for months.

Here are two recipes to try in a toaster oven or the small oven of an eye - level range.

CURRIED PORK CHOP CASSEROLE

- 2 pork chops, about 1/4 inch thick, boned and trimmed
- 1/4 cup raw, converted rice
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 1/4 cup chopped carrots
- 1/2 cup minced apple
- 1 tsp. curry powder
- 1 Tbsp. raisins
- 1 tsp lemon juice
- 1 chicken bouillon cube dissolved in 1/4 cup hot water

Brown chops on both sides in skillet. Sprinkle rice in bottom of a 1-quart casserole. Place chops on rice. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over chops. Cover with lid or foil. Bake in 375 degree toaster oven for 1 hour. Makes 2 servings.

- 1 1/2 Tbsp. olive oil
- 1/4 tsp. salt

Freshly ground pepper
Wash and drain spinach. Coarsely tear into salad bowl. Add apple, sunflower seeds, and green onions. Blend lemon juice, oil and salt; toss with salad. Sprinkle with pepper. Makes 2 servings.

Andy Devine Days Oct 11&12

Kingman has a fun-filled weekend planned for the whole family this October 11 and 12. It's their annual Andy Devine Days celebrating with this year's activities to include a greased pig chase, greased pole climb, silver dollar hunt, wheelbarrow and bicycle races, baby crawling contest, and much, much more.

The highlight of the celebration is a 10,000 M run starting Saturday evening at 5 p.m. George Young, 4-time Olympic competitor, will be competing along with top runners in the Arizona/Nevada/Utah area. Last year, Tom Wysocki, who finished sixth in the Olympic trials, took home top honors. T-shirts will be given to the first 500 finishers, with Boston Beef Stew and appropriate refreshments available afterward. Trophies will be awarded to the top runner in each of the six age group divisions, and medals given to second through fifth place winners. Early registration is $5 and $7 on the day of the race.

Also, a two-mile fun race will be held with certificates for all participants. For further details contact Peter Howley, 757-4051.

The Mohave Gemstoners are hosting a gemstone and mineral show at the Mohave County Fairgrounds. Twenty dealers from as far away as Ohio will participate in this colorful and informative show. Also at the Fairgrounds will be an old car show of Model T's, Corvettes, classic and antique cars.

Works of local and visiting artists and craftsmen will be displayed in downtown Kingman. Registration and admission are free!

ZUCCHINI BOATS

- 2 zucchini, about 6 or 7 inches long
- 1/4 pound bulk sausage or lean ground beef
- 1 slice whole grain bread, crumbled
- 1 tsp. instant onion
- 2 tsp. parsley flakes
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/4 tsp. red hot pepper sauce
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese, divided
- 3 Tbsp. parmesan cheese, divided

Wash and trim ends of zucchini. Cut in half lengthwise. With a 1/4 teaspoon measure, scoop out center of zucchini; save pulp. Cook meat until lightly browned, breaking it up as it cooks. Drain off any excess fat. In a bowl, combine meat, zucchini pulp, bread crumbs, onion, seasonings, egg, 1/2 cup cheddar cheese and 2 tablespoons parmesan cheese. Toss to mix. Fill each zucchini half with meat - bread mixture. Bake in 350 degree toaster oven for about 40 minutes. Sprinkle remaining cheeses over top and bake about 5 minutes longer, or until desired doneness.

CRUNCHY SPINACH SALAD

- 1/2 pound fresh spinach
- 1/4 thinly sliced red or golden Delicious apple
- 1/4 cup shelled sunflower seeds
- 2 sliced green onions
- 1 Tbsp. lemon juice

The Way It Was In 1936

A Chronicle Of 44 Years Ago

by Lois J. Cherry

It was a record 109 mph and the winner was the first driver ever to win the Indianapolis 500 for the third time.

In a story datelined Peiping, the headlines screamed in alarm--"JAPAN'S DRIVE TO TAKE ALL NORTH CHINA AT BAYONET'S POINT REPORTED UNDER WAY."

And San Francisco was paying homage to the war dead in "impressive ceremonies at the Presidio."

The stories came from the yellowing and very brittle pages of the May 31, 1936 San Francisco Examiner.

The newspaper sold for five cents daily and ten cents Sunday.

The almost intact newspaper was found recently by Jack Yeager of the Medical Arts Pharmacy in Henderson and the HENDERSON HOME NEWS borrowed the copy to look back 44 years in history.

In one major story prominently placed on page one, a Congressman and his wife had apparently ousted a woman from an apartment they subleased. The woman, Mrs. Benjamin Scott Young, was hospitalized with what may be a broken hip and she was the owner of the apartment. This was the sixth time she had attempted to evict the couple and Mrs. Young complained bitterly about the attitude of the police. "The police wouldn't arrest him because he was a Congressman. The time has come when we've got to see whether this country is going to be run by Bolshevism or Americanism."

A "crackup" in Golden Gate Field park, also got page one treatment. It seems that two Army reserve officers had problems with their airplane and, failing in efforts to land the craft in the green stretches of the "old park stadium", it hit a grove of trees "crashing them down."

Auto accidents were considered page one news at the time. Two pedestrians had died and the drivers of the vehicles involved were charged with negligent homicide.

It was Memorial Day Weekend, and inside there was another prominent story with a photo of General John J. Pershing who had addressed the ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery. He warned the American people that they must "Safeguard their constitutional rights and liberties against the dangers of dictatorship."

President Roosevelt and the official family were present to hear-Pershing warn that it was "time to put our house in order."

And, in another Memorial Day celebration, a 92-year-old veteran of the Grand Army of the Republic chastized Americans for "Despoiling Memorial Day with exhibitions and contests of sport."

The Morgan Jewelry Company on Market Street was advertising a ring with "17 sparkling diamonds for $89.50."

The Owl Drug Co. had a full page ad selling an Agfa Cadet camera for $1.48. Coty face powder went for $1-a box and the drug store bragged that it was "the first in San Francisco to show the New Gillette Razor Set." The price was .89.

Hiram Walker Rye-was advertised for $2.10 a quart and directly above the ad was an offer of Mineral Oil for .89 a gallon. Women's dresses were on sale for $1 and men's overalls also $1.

On another back page, a correspondent from Germany alleged that a "New Death Gas" had been invented by "the Reich".

In Glasgow, there had been another sighting of the Loch Ness monster. A motorist driving near the Loch saw a creature at least 30 feet long emerge from the water.

Then there was the Paris Air Chief who wanted the aviation powers of Europe to make a deal with the United States for a single transatlantic air line to avert costly competition.

In a story datelined Toledo, Ohio, the city manager had announced that the city garbage collection department was being completely motorized and the police department may take some of the horses because it was thinking of creating a small downtown mounted squad for traffic duty.

Diesel powered automobiles were called a thing of the distant future. An article went into detail over how much time and energy American auto manufacturers expended on engine research and it concluded by saying "At present, quantity production of a Diesel passenger car appears to be still somewhat distant. Many of the engineers who originally scoffed at its possibilities however, are now among those giving more serious attention to its development."

And in a large ad, the Ford Company urged "Get that Ford V-8 Feeling--Now."

Then there is a small paragraph datelined Burnsville, W. VA. in which the mayor, C.E. Whysel, warned residents that swearing on the streets must stop "to make Burnsville a decent and respectable town in which to live."

Whistling kettles-were being sold for .89. Four piece twin bed sets for $69.95 and a brand new Zenith Model 51 radio for $28.95.

A new car was announced. The Willys 77 was expected to become one of America's favorites because of its fuel economy.

In the sports section, 65,000 people had attended the Yankees game in New York to watch Lou Gehrig hit his seventh homer of the season and Joe DeMaggio connect for a single in four tries.

A 3-year-old thoroughbred named Omaha had traveled to England to win the Queen's plate by a neck

DO YOU KNOW?

-That chocolate, one of America's most popular flavors, was once considered a powerful aphrodisiac by the Aztecs and was reserved for rulers and warriors?

-That U.S. chocolate manufacturers use approximately 3.5 million pounds of whole milk daily to make milk chocolate?

-That chocolate contains an ingredient that seems to inhibit tooth decay?

-That recent scientific studies show chocolate does not cause acne?

-That in one year M&M/MARS makes about 70 billion pieces of "M&M's" Chocolate Candies, America's most popular candy? Laid end-to-end at the equator, they would reach around the world 26 times.

All Day Hike

The hiking season is here once again. This season's first hike is to Lovall Wash, an area rich in a variety of rocks and minerals as well as scenery.

Join a Park Naturalist for this hike on Saturday, October 11, 1980, at 9 a.m. The hike will be 5 to 7 miles round trip on rocky, must mostly level terrain so comfortable and sturdy shoes are recommended. Dress for the hike should be based on the weather conditions. Remember the sun is still hot so wear a hat and bring some sun protection. You should bring at least one quart of water and your lunch.

Hikers should meet at 8:45 a.m. at the Alan Bible Visitor Center, four miles east of Boulder City. A drive of 25 miles will be necessary to reach the starting point for the hike. We will return to the Visitor Center by mid-afternoon.

If you want to take a closer look at the minerals and rocks or the plants along the way, bring a small magnifying glass. There will be some interesting areas so photographers bring your cameras. A day pack is an easy way to carry your food, water and any extras you bring.

Reservations are required. They can be made starting Sunday, October 5, 1980. For additional information and reservations, contact the Alan Bible Visitor Center at 293-4041, extension 16.

Do You Qualify For WIC?

One of the Economic Opportunity Board of Clark County's outstanding programs is the WIC Program which is a supplementary food program for pregnant and nursing mothers, infants and children up to age 5. The program is designed to add protein to eligible enrollees.

To be eligible you must:

- (1) Be found to be a nutritional risk,
- (2) Be within income guidelines, and
- (3) Reside in Clark County

The Economic Opportunity Board (EOB) of Clark County and Operation Life operate WIC Programs. EOB is located on 2222 Comstock Dr., Las Vegas; 940-A West Owens Ave., West Las Vegas; and 750 Major St., Henderson. Operation Life is located on 400 D St., West Las Vegas. Hours of operation are Mon-Fri - 8:30-11 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m.

To find out if you are eligible, visit one of the clinics listed. At that time, you or your infant or child will be given a mini-physical, and a financial statement will be taken from you.

If you qualify, checks will be issued monthly redeemable at local food stores. Items that you could purchase include eggs, cheese, milk, formula, cereal (hot and cold) and fruit juice. This can be substantial savings to your monthly food bill.

CC To Conduct Survey

A grant to develop a course in typing for those with limited English speaking ability has been awarded to the Office Administration Department of Clark County Community College.

In compliance with stipulations of the grant, a survey of schools, agencies and local businesses will be made to determine the needs of the community in relationship to entry level job skills.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

The Public Service Commission .. What's Involved?

The Public Service Commission is comprised of three Commissioners appointed to staggered four year terms by the Governor, and a supporting staff that includes administrative and legal sections and the auditing, consumer, engineering, tariff and rates and transportation divisions. Under Nevada law, the Public Service Commission is responsible to:

1. Ensure that each utility customer receives safe and adequate utility service at fair and reasonable rates; and
2. Provide each company under its jurisdiction an opportunity to earn a fair and reasonable return on its investment.

The Commission has no control over how often a utility attempts to raise its rates. The decision to change its rates and to ask the PSC for approval of the new rates is made by the utility company's management.

A utility is a business. Capital resources, human resources and materials are combined to produce and supply the public with utility services. The majority of the capital resources are supplied by owner - stockholders who invest their money in the business and by lender - bondholders who lend money to the utility.

The stockholders consist of thousands of individuals from all walks of life, who are fully entitled to a return on their investment. As an alternative to placing their funds in a savings account, they have provided the utility with the money necessary to build facilities to produce and distribute utility services.

The human resources are the people who work for the utility. The efforts of accountants, attorneys, construction workers, engineers, secretaries and technicians are necessary for providing the service that we as consumers expect and demand.

Material resources include the goods and services that the utility must purchase from other companies. The largest cash outlay is for the fuel needed to produce electricity and to purchase natural gas in the case of gas utilities.

Although utilities are a business, they differ from other businesses in that they are monopolies. Past experience has shown that the existence of competing utilities in the same area results in excessive investment in utility plant equipment and distribution systems.

Acting in the interest of public convenience and necessity, the Legislature enacted laws allowing utilities to serve only in certain designated areas. This provision limits competition from other utilities providing the same type of service and sets a firm obligation to provide service at the lowest possible rates. The Legislature delegated this special regulatory power to the PSC to protect the public interest, and among other things, to act as a substitute for competition.

In a utility rate case proceeding, Nevada law requires that a utility company prove to the PSC that higher rates are necessary and reasonable before utility rates can be increased.

The PSC does not automatically grant utility rate increases or use "rubber stamp" procedures when considering rate increases. In fact, before the PSC reaches its final decision, each rate case is very carefully investigated by the PSC staff.

When a utility company regulated by the Public Service Commission wishes to raise its rates, it must file a request for a rate increase. Under law, if the PSC does not act within thirty days after a rate case is filed, the proposed rate increase will go into effect on the date specified in the tariff filed by the company.

The PSC has the authority to suspend the application for up to 150 additional days by issuing a "Suspension Order".

During this six - month period, the Public Service Commission staff audits and analyzes the rate change request together with the utility's books and records. Following staff's investigation, public hearings are scheduled for the purpose of receiving evidence and testimony from the general public, the company, the staff and any other interested parties.

Individuals or groups who wish to have their views considered in the case may do so by either testifying at the hearings, or writing to the Commission in Carson City.

Scheduled hearing dates are announced to the public through the local news media at least ten days prior to the hearing.

The purpose of the hearing is to establish a base of evidence because, by law, all Commission decisions or determinations must be based upon or justified by supporting evidence. These technical hearings are conducted much like a regular court case and the proceedings are transcribed by a court reporter. Before a final order is issued, the Commission must consider all facets of the case.

The PSC's final decision, called an "Opinion and Order", is then issued. The PSC may deny the company's requested rate increase, grant a portion of it, or approve the entire request, if justified.

The Opinion and Order sets forth the amount of the rate increase, if any; contains a summary of the issues and evidence presented in the case; and explains the reasons for the PSC's decision.

The Nevada Revised Statutes require that final decisions of the PSC be lawful, reasonable and based upon competent and substantial evidence on the whole record. Therefore, all final decisions of the PSC are subject to appeal in Nevada courts of law. Problems associated with rising utility bills, energy shortages and high interest rates affect all consumers, including the Public Service Commission and their staff.

ROCK TRACKS

The ticket crunch for Led Zeppelin's first American tour in years will be horrendous. Local dates won't be announced until the tickets are available for sale but we can tip you off that the tour begins Oct. 19 at the Capitol Centre in Landover, Maryland... Diana Ross is one happy lady with "Upside Down" topping the charts and Gene Simmons of Kiss proposing marriage... Mac Davis co-hosts the Annual Country Music Awards TVer Oct. 13... Despite the nifty soundtrack, "Xanadu" is one awful movie. A friend of Olivia Newton-John reportedly quipped, "If you're thinking of seeing 'Xanadu,' xanadu't..." The new Bruce Springsteen album, scheduled for release (finally) this month, is a double with 21 songs...

SPLITTING HAIRS - To keep those fine sweaters as soft and fluffy as the day they came from the store, add a dab of hair creme rinse to the final rinse water as you hand wash them.

CRACKLING CRISP - Improperly wrapped lettuce that has become limp needs rejuvenation. Let it soak in ice water and a little lemon juice in the refrigerator for an hour or so. Shake out water and towel blot before using.

FALL-FLING - A great child-pleasing concoction for open fire roasting - jelly sticks. Take one biscuit from a can of refrigerated biscuits and flatten. Wrap around the end of a long stick and cook over open fire until golden brown. Slip off the stick and fill cavity with jelly.

HOT STUFF - When is the waffle iron or pancake griddle hot enough for your batter? When you can toss a few drops of water and they skip merrily across the hot surface.

SWEET SMELL OF SUCCESS - Want to create a soft mood? Splash a little of your favorite cologne or perfume on light bulbs before switching on and let the heat do its magic.

DO YOUR PART - To conserve kitchen energy, cook with the minimum amount of water and use tight-fitting lids.

SOUTHERN FRIED - For really great-tasting fried chicken, render out several slices of bacon. Add shortening to the bacon grease and fry flour-drenched chicken as you normally do. Delicious!

SHOP AND COMPARE - Supermarket prices on non-food items, such as beauty and health aids, usually have a higher markup than at a discount store. Do a little comparison shopping before you buy.

FIRST LADIES

By Clara Creek & Roberta Twoby

Roberta Twoby

Clara Creek

Clara: I read that First Ladies live longer than other women.

Roberta: Do you suppose it is because they are just basically tougher?

Clara: Could be. But there must be other factors. With First Ladies being a high priority in our interests with the upcoming election, let's talk about the qualities we would want in our next First Lady if we could wave the magic wand.

Roberta: I like the idea of an activist First Lady, because I believe there is really no choice in today's world. To be a gracious hostess, non-political stay-at-home, is to be an anachronism.

Clara: How far would you go with activism, Roberta? For example, would you support a First Lady who was part of the Cabinet with voice, no vote, but much influence?

Roberta: I believe I would. Because, one, she

Senior Day Care Program

The Economic Opportunity Board of Clark County will offer the first Senior Day Care Center in Southern Nevada.

Daytime care to Seniors will be provided in an effort to prevent or delay institutionalization. Seniors will receive social, nutritional, and recreational activities of therapeutic value. The center will be open five days a week, providing care to Seniors ten hours a day, from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., serving approximately 20 Seniors daily. Nutritional needs of participants will be met with balanced lunches and snacks, beverages will be provided throughout the day including milk and vitamin fortified juices. Social activities will be encouraged by the staff.

The Center will be located at the First Christian Church, Rancho Road and West Mesquite. Applications will be accepted from October 15, through November 15, 1980, at 330 West Washington Ave., Suite 9. For more information call 646-1220 might be as astute as her husband or his cabinet members. Two, again, today's world is moving so swiftly and today's woman is determined to move with it. So, whatever one's present tastes or preferences, I believe the woman of influence and power is here to stay. So better get used to her in the presidential picture.

Clara: Don't agree. If she's as able and astute, why isn't she a presidential candidate or cabinet member? I want my First Lady to be extraordinarily well informed and knowledgeable and articulate, but stay in the background. We elected Jimmy Carter, not his wife.

Roberta: That's a beautiful description and definition. But like definitions, it has limitations. Human beings tend to spill over into individual excesses or improvements. I think we have to take the risk - the sweet with the bitter - and be ready for a powerful and forceful first lady.

Clara: I too would want my First Lady to be forceful. As a matter of fact, I would like her to be a person in her own right - supporting her husband's positions, but relaying a feeling of self strength and conviction. Now do you suppose that best describes Roslyn Carter, Nancy Reagan or Keke Anderson?

Roberta: Roslyn has developed interestingly during the last three and a half years. The iron fist under the Southern lady's velvet glove is showing. Nancy Reagan has her own style, and I'm sure, self strength, but she is still a mystery to me. What about Keke Anderson?

Clara: As you would suspect, Roberta, I like Ms. Anderson's stand in keeping her gray hair and not dying it to look younger. As for Nancy Reagan, she impresses me as the power behind the throne person.

Roberta: Does that go along with your model First Lady?

Clara: I find that a good way to be in power. But when it spills over like it does with Roslyn Carter, and she acts as though she is numero uno, it is a no-no for me.

Roberta: In other words, Clara, First Lady - yes, Numero Uno, no.

Clara: And this is tough for me to admit. Since for more years than I want to remember, I have been fighting for female recognition. So what I am saying is that Roslyn Carter has abilities and brains - but she is not my choice for President. For First Lady - I still have a few weeks to go.

Attorney General Hosts Law Enforcement Officials 'Assembling Together'

CARSON CITY-- Attorney General Richard Bryan hosted local district attorneys, sheriffs and police chiefs from throughout the State last Friday (Oct. 3) at the Attorney General's Office in Carson City.

Bryan said this was the second in a series of meetings he is holding to prepare a united legislative law enforcement package next session. The meetings are being coordinated by Bryan's Chief Criminal Deputy Attorney General Robert Manley.

Bryan noted with the recent announcements of Nevada's increasing crime rate... "it becomes even more important for all of us in the law enforcement field to work together in a combined effort to develop effective legislation and programs."

Each of the law enforcement agencies has developed legislation in those areas where they have a primary responsibility or interest.

Bryan said one of his top priorities in the legislative session will be in the area of victim assistance for victims of violent crimes whom Bryan says are... "the most neglected and forgotten members of our criminal justice system."

Under the program, the Legislature would establish a special fund to assist Nevadans who are victims of a violent crime to help allay medical costs. The program, according to Bryan, would be similar to the State's "Good Samaritan" law which provides up to $5000 for persons who come to the aid of a victim involved in a crime.

Bryan said another important area of legislation for his office involves the right of the Attorney General to prosecute state officials and employees for offenses arising out of their employment with the State.

At present, the Attorney General's office has no authority to prosecute such crimes unless the District Attorney of the county where the offense occurred makes an official request of the Attorney General supported by a majority of the county commission or, unless there is an impaneled grand jury operating within the county which requests the assistance of the Attorney General.

"It is only logical that any crime committed by a state official or employee arising out of their employment with the State, should be automatically handled by the Attorney General's office. No county should have to bear the expense and time to prosecute cases which are essentially state matters," said Bryan.

Nevada Retail Assoc. to Meet

Topics ranging from proposed unemployment compensation reform to current U.S. foreign policy position will be discussed October 16-17 during a two day meeting in Las Vegas of the Nevada Retail Association.

Annual reception - banquet will be held the evening of October 16 at the Las Vegas Country Club. Speaker will be Paul H. Kreisberg, a senior career foreign service officer with the U.S. Department of State. He joined the foreign service in September of 1962 and has served in India, Hong Kong, Karachi, Pakistan and Tanzania.

Business session begins at 9 a.m. October 17 with a discussion of proposed remedial unemployment compensation legislation during the 1981 legislative session. Speaker will be Samuel Dyer of Federated Stores, Cincinnati, chairman of a retailers task force on UC put together by the American Retail Federation, Washington, D.C.

Other topics on the Friday agenda include a presentation on "How to Stop Forged Checks"; reports on NRA-sponsored group health and debt collection plans; a debate on Question 6 featuring Ernest Newton of the Nevada Taxpayers Association and Joe Matthews, Question 6 leader; and a discussion of "Taxes and the 1981 Legislature" by Clark County assemblyman Bob Price.

Luncheon speaker Friday will be Jerry Udell of Washington, D.C., vice-president of the American Retail Association. He will detail retail activities as they are occurring on the national level.

Ms. Carole Vilardo of the Fashion Gallery, Las Vegas, will preside over business sessions as president of NRA. Convention chairman is Ms. Bertha Beggs of Bertha's in Las Vegas.

"Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together..." Hebrews 10:25 Do you have a regular place to come and worship God and draw strength and encouragement from other Christians?

Belonging to a local church body; teaching Sunday School or being Baptized will not save you; only the blood of Jesus Christ, God's Son can do that.

But one way to be clearly labeled as a Christian is by your regular, faithful support of one church, that God has called you out to serve Him in.

A mature believer in Christ understands dedication and can be counted upon to get involved not only in the workings of the church, but to be a part of one another's lives on a daily basis.

Only immature Christians are church hoppers and not willing to make a commitment to any group of people, little lone become active in the lives of those in a church body.

Dinner Dance for Single Adults

Parents Without Partners will be hosting a dinner dance for all single adults and their married friends in the Henderson-Boulder City area on Saturday, October 11, beginning at 8:30 p.m. It will be held at 2140 Boulder Highway (formerly Farian Family Restaurant).

Hostess Val Kelly (565-6344) encourages everyone interested in a delicious spaghetti dinner and an evening of dancing to attend. The cost will be $5.

The Farina Music Machine will furnish music from 9 to 1 a.m.

While most Parents Without Partners are limited to members only this one isn't according to New Member Director Georgia Mitchell (565-9171). Many single parents need not only the encouragement but physical support of married friends and family to go out to meet others. This evening their married friends are encouraged to accompany (bring) them.

Anyone wishing more information about Parents Without Partners may call Darlene Fortney at 565-1415 or 382-0485.

Study Recommends Detailed Investigation of Solar Energy Potential Near Yuma, Arizona

The concept of tying a large solar powerplant to an existing Federal hydro-electric system in the Southwest shows sufficient potential to warrant further investigation, according to a joint study by the Department of Energy and the Department of the Interior's Water and Power Resources Service.

A 46 page report, Solar - Hydro Integration, on the study's findings has been transmitted to the Congress by Commissioner of Water and Power Resources R. Keith Higginson. Authorizing legislation for further investigation has passed both houses of Congress and is awaiting the signature of the President. If authorized, the Congress would have to provide funds before more detailed investigations could begin.

Higginson said the report recommends further study of a potential 100 megawatt solar power-tower to be located near Yuma, Ariz., which would be tied to the Colorado River hydroelectric powerplants at Hoover, Parker, and Davis Dams. When the powertower is operating and putting electric energy on the line, Hoover Dam would "save" water otherwise needed to operate its generators and those downstream at Parker and Davis. When there is no sun - as with cloudcover or at night - Hoover's powerplants would even out the generation needed by the system.

Since the water released from Hoover, Parker, and Davis Dams is released for the purpose of meeting downstream needs, any adjustments in water releases must be made in such a way that water users will not be adversely affected. The studies indicate that the 100 megawatt solar powerplant could be integrated with the Colorado River hydroelectric powerplants without adversely affecting downstream water users.

A 100 megawatt solar powerplant would be capable of generating more than 325,000 megawatt-hours of electric energy a year. It would take over 450,000 barrels of oil to produce that much energy in a thermal plant.

Development of renewable energy resources to save oil is a priority of this Administration.

The report details the site - selection process and the solar conditions involved. It analyzes the integration process and explains how the extra power could be marketed. Environmental, social, and other factors are discussed.

Primary recommendation of the study, conducted jointly by the two agencies, is that a 2½ year feasibility investigation be conducted to develop detailed engineering, economic, and environmental data. These data could then be used to determine whether a project should be recommended to Congress for construction.

To help cope with the energy problem, the Water and Power Resources Service proposes to use its hydroelectric generation capacity as a storage and backup system for both solar and wind energy.

The type of solar powerplant that will be evaluated is known as an advanced central receiver. In this system, a large circular field of mirrors tracks the sun and reflects its energy onto a fluid-filled receiver situated at or near the top of a high tower in the center of the circle. The heated fluid drives a steam turbine at the base of the tower to produce electricity.

Power from the solar facility would be distributed to users throughout the Southwest on existing transmission lines managed by the Department of Energy's Western Area Power Administration.

The Department of Energy has been conducting research and development work on these and other types of solar central receivers since the early 1970's. Plans for their use, in addition to integration with hydroelectric systems, include possible installation at large factories for industrial process heat and as supplemental units at oil and gas-fired utility plants.

A 100 megawatt capacity solar powerplant would allow 100 percent backup by the Colorado River hydroelectric plants, and would not create undue stress on the hydrologic, environmental, water supply or power aspects of the existing system. Hoover Powerplant would be the main hydroelectric facility involved in this plan.

Laxalt & Kennedy Will Receive Award

Nevada Sen. Paul Laxalt and Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts have been named to receive a public policy award from the National Organization of Victims Assistance.

The NOVA award will be presented on Friday in Portland, Oregon. Laxalt's daughter, Mrs. Sheila Lokan, will accept the award in his behalf.

NOVA Administrator John Stine said Laxalt was being cited for his efforts on behalf of legislation improving aid to victims of crimes.

"The Senator's initiative was a major factor in securing a louder voice for crime victims in the Law Enforcement Administration," Stine said.

"I'm proud to have been named a recipient of this award," said Laxalt. "I feel very strongly that crime victims too often are neglected in our administration of justice."

Laxalt was instrumental in arranging hearings on legislation which led to improved programs for aiding victims of crimes at the federal level, Stine noted.

National School Lunch Week

National School Lunch Week will be observed across our nation during the week of October 12-18, 1980.

Nevada schools and schools throughout the nation will serve the suggested lunch consisting of: Ground Beef Taco, Lettuce and Tomatoes, Spanish Rice, Mexicali Corn, Pineapple Wedges and Milk.

Governor List stated that this is an appropriate time for the citizens of Nevada to participate in activities designed to increase understanding and awareness of the significance of the National School Lunch Program.

In its thirty-fourth year in Nevada, the National School Lunch program remains an effective example of how federal, state and local agencies can work together to make nutrition a vital building block in our children's growth and development. Good nutrition is an integral part of the educational process.

This year's slogan, according to Special Services Director, Roberta Dowell of the Nevada Department of Education is "Eat to Learn...Learn to Eat!" She stated that National School Lunch Week is traditionally a time for making students, teachers, parents, and others more aware of nutrition and the benefits of eating a well balanced lunch at school.

Backdating Property Appraisals Improper

Attorney General Richard Bryan today (Fri.) said the practice by county assessors of backdating property appraisals on new construction is improper.

Bryan said the practice of backdating is not consistent with Nevada's Constitution and statutes which require all properties to be appraised at full cash values on a five-year cycle... "thus, ensuring equity in the treatment of similarly situated taxpayers."

"The key issue is our statutory requirement that all property be assessed at its full cash or fair market value at the time of appraisal. Backdating new construction properties violates Nevada law in that the new construction property is not being appraised at its current full cash value," said Bryan.

The Attorney General noted the practice of back dating became a focal point during the recent grand jury probe of the Washoe County Assessor's office when it was found that some new construction properties in the county had been backdated eight years or more.

Bryan said the concept of backdating could only be legal if Nevada's tax laws are changed next session to allow the assessors to use the practice in Nevada if they felt it necessary.

WICHE Deadline Oct. 30

Application deadline for the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE) Student Exchange Program is October 30, 1980, for entry in the 1981-82 academic year.

The Nevada WICHE program is designed for Nevada residents interested in professional study in dentistry, law, optometry, physical therapy, and veterinary medicine.

Application and information are available by contacting Susan K. Atchison, certifying officer, 405 Marsh Avenue, Reno, Nevada 89509, or calling (702) 784-4900.

It's good to shop in a well-run store.

This reproduction of an early train on the San Pedro-Los Angeles-Salt Lake railroad is heading for the watering stop that created Las Vegas.

Visitors can experience those early desert train rides at Old Vegas on the Boulder Highway during its grand opening October 18-19.

The very young learn about the very old as a father explains how it used to be before airplanes and "bullet" trains. At Old Vegas, which has its grand opening October 18-19, visitors can step into the past and ride a reproduction of the trains that built Las Vegas.

Authenticity is the word at Old Vegas. The stage coach, which will take you past buildings recreated as authentic replicas of those in the city's past, is itself authentic and will be accepting passengers at the grand opening of this new tourist attraction on October 18-19.

This Mexican style trading post is one of the various styles of buildings that form our heritage and can be found at Old Vegas on the Boulder Highway. Inside you can shop for imports at the grand opening, October 18-19.

Lewis Homes Offers 10 Different Plans at Henderson

Lewis Homes boasts that it has a home for everyone. And nowhere does that boast ring truer than in its New Horizons and Foothill Estates communities.

For in those two communities, both in scenic areas of the Henderson countryside, home ownership is brought within the price range of virtually all categories of home seekers -- young marrieds, families with school children, singles and retirees.

"We've noticed that all buyers at New Horizons and Foothill Estates seem to have one interest in common," observed Lewis Homes' president Robert E. Lewis. "They love the surrounding picturesque terrain, its peacefulness and its nearness to Lake Mead and Las Vegas.

The close proximity of the two developments to each other affords the home seeker a convenient opportunity to choose from a total of 10 different floor plans measuring from somewhat more than 1,200 to 2,085 square feet of livable area.

New Horizons, located west of Boulder Highway on Horizon Drive, displays one-story and two-story plans priced from the mid $60,000s to the low $70,000s. The homes are designed with three or four bedrooms and two or 2½ baths and oversized garages.

Lewis Homes' other Henderson development, Foothill Estates, is reached by turning east from Boulder Highway at Equestrian Drive. It also offers three and four-bedroom plans as well as a two-bedroom styling for buyers not requiring more sleeping quarters.

Homes in the Foothill Estates community measure up to 1,759 square feet and feature two bathrooms. Among them is a two-story plan which displays a powder room as well. Purchase price starts in the low $60,000s. Low VA and FHA financing is available at both developments.

Most homes in the two communities feature wood-burning fireplaces and family rooms. Other appointments shown in various plans include cathedral ceilings, inside laundry rooms, luminous kitchen ceilings and overhead bedroom lighting.

Front and rear lawn seeding is included in the purchase price, as are wall-to-wall carpeting and various kitchen appliances.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE -- Lewis Homes offers two Henderson developments with 10 different floor plans to choose from ranging up to over 2000 sq. ft. Plan pictured is in Foothill Estates, east of Boulder Hwy. New Horizons is west of Boulder Hwy.

Parson Jones
 I fell down and hurt my knee and had to go to the doctor. He gave me some pills to take, which I did, and they made me hallucinate. I didn't see the warning on the label until later, "Do not take with air." In my hallucination I saw a hen house.
 The hens and a few roosters lived in one part of the house which they called home. Every day they went to work in a place called "Hens' Nests, Inc." They manufactured eggs. Business was good and the hens loved their work. Then, one day, the roosters started complaining that the hens were not getting paid enough. "Mere chicken feed," they said. After much persuasion, the hens went on strike and stopped their egg production. After weeks of being out on strike, the farmers agreed to shorter hours and better pay. The chickens went back to work, but they found that their laying apparatus had been damaged. Even though they ate better and slept on more straw, their eggs didn't show it. They had gotten so used to doing nothing around the hen house that they grew impatient sitting on the nests, and watched the clock a lot. Their laying muscles were too relaxed and the eggs didn't come out right.

 The shells were of inferior quality, cracking at the slightest touch. Some were lopsided, because of too many chicken-feed breaks. The eggs were runny, making it difficult to tell which was the white and which was the yolk. Pretty soon people stopped buying the eggs and imported from other chicken houses. Business fell sharply. Pretty soon the hens confronted the roosters, who were looking after their interest. The roosters said, "The problem is unfair competition from the other hen houses."
 My hallucination ended at that point. Boy! Am I glad that's over.

SAFEWAY GUARANTEED LOW PRICE PROTECTION!

DOUBLE CASH REBATE

HOW THE DOUBLE CASH REBATE WORKS:

Buy 1 each of at least 25 different items totaling $20.00 or more at Safeway. Save your cash register tape. Then check the total against the prices you would pay for the same items during the same week at any other local conventional supermarket.* If the other store's total is lower, make a list of each item and its price. Then return with the price list and your register tape to the Safeway store where you made your purchase. We'll rebate to you, in cash, DOUBLE THE DIFFERENCE. That's Safeway's Double Cash Rebate. With confidence we say...shop Safeway for a whole lot more for your shopping dollar!

ELLA LUNN

Ella Lunn has returned from a marvelous, restful vacation in Wisconsin, visiting members of her family. She went by plane to Minneapolis, Minn. where she was met by brother Joe Johnson of Hayward, Wis. She saw her nephew Harold Johnson, his wife Peggy and their children in Hayward. She spent a week with nephew Joe Menter and family in Knapp, Wis., George Menter in Wilson, Wis., and other relatives. One day, she was taken over to a rest home in Eau Claire, to call on Verna Van Nostrand, a close friend of Ella's late sister, Anne. Ella did get a different kind of exercise, while away--picking apples, grapes and raspberries!

ROLLING BOULDERS

The Rolling Boulders Chapter of the Good Sam Club will go to Temple Bar for their October outing, Friday the 10th, through Sunday. Those attending should bring their own table service, and food to share for the pot-luck suppers on Friday and Saturday evenings.

Games will be available. Guests are welcome. Anyone needing further information may phone Pres. Lola Kaiser (293-1361), the secretary Mac Strong (293-3103), or John Shipp (293-1706).

MACIE FELTS

Macie Felts answered my query. Country Store started in October, 1946, when Macie was president of the Ladies Aid of Grace Community Church. It seems that in previous years, the Ladies Aid earned money by cooking dinners, but most of the work was done by the late Alma Dunbar. So-the women decided to try something that would involve more of the members. Evelyn Grau was the first chairman.

The Rev. Winston Trever and family lived in the manse attached to the church complex. There was no Fox Hall, Sunday School rooms, or Chapel, so everything was held in the church basement and back yard. The workers dressed in old fashioned clothes, which most of us soon outgrew, and atmosphere was provided by a pot-bellied stove, cracker barrel, and old time songs on the piano. The publicity was written by someone who called herself "Minnie Pearl", and one year the real Minnie Pearl came to be a guest speaker at Ladies Aid (now the Women's Association). The giant "rummage sale" was so successful that it is still being copied by other groups. That's because everyone likes a good bargain!

Macie has been to New York City, to meet her third great-grandchild--Elizabeth Ames Lowry, born July 1, 1980 to Aril and Dr. David Lowry. David is a clinical psychologist, and Aril teaches in a private school. Macie's tickets were bought before the church announced the luncheon to honor charter members, so she had to miss the celebration. (Of course Verloree Bader is the proud grandmother!)

THE ROHLS

Ethel and Robert Rohl live near Lake Mead for a good reason--the family keeps busy with water sports such as boating, fishing and water skiing. Old friends Rae and Rich Llewellyn of Lomita, Calif., have been visiting them, spending most of the time on the lake. They camped three days in Box Car Canyon, 8 miles over on Northshore Road. Arriving by plane on the 10th will be daughter Patricia Hornung, of Vancouver, B.C. She also likes to water ski, and hopes to enjoy the water many times before going home on the 21st.

Automobile Rustproofing

As inflation increases the cost of automobiles, more and more people are looking at the purchase of a car as a long term investment. Rather than trading in their vehicles after three years, 54 percent of new car buyers are arranging four-year financing, according to a 1979 survey. The longer they keep a car, however, the more attention they need to pay to rust, the biggest enemy of long automotive life.

Many consumers look upon a rusting vehicle from the standpoint of diminished resale or trade-in value, not realizing that rust can present serious safety problems as well, particularly hazards caused by corroded frames, steering linkages and brake lines. Cars rust because of the persistent contact of iron alloys with water and oxygen, a process hastened by the presence of acids in air pollution, road salt and other chemicals used to fight snow and ice, and salty air and water in coastal areas. Most rust corrosion damage to cars is insidious, attacking from the inside out: headlight areas, behind chrome, inside doors, around windows, inside rocker panels, along door posts, inside the trunk and trunk lid, grille areas and grille mounts, fenders, springs, the hood crown, and even interior door hardware. Visible rust to the underbody and frame accounts for only about 12 percent of corrosive damage.

Too many automobile owners, cautions the Better Business Bureau, confuse undercoating a car with rustproofing it. The undercoating process, originally designed as a sound-deadening measure, employs an asphalt-like coating which tends to lose adhesion as it hardens, forming pockets and cracks that trap moisture. Government studies indicate that such undercoatings may actually accelerate corrosion instead of preventing it.

A recent proliferation of rustproofing techniques give the car owner a bewildering array of options, including buying a new automobile from a manufacturer offering a no-rust-through warranty, adding rustproofing to the dealer preparation process before taking delivery of the car, or having a vehicle treated by an independent or franchised rustproofing company. Significant differences among methods of application, types of sealants used, and terms of warranties make it important for the consumer to investigate thoroughly before making a decision. The Better Business Bureau can provide reliability reports on companies offering rustproofing services.

A good non-corrosion treatment involves drilling inconspicuous access holes into all boxed-in areas of the car and then spraying in a rustproofing sealant, not only to completely cover the metal with a protective coating but also to penetrate into corrosion-prone seams. If rustproofing is to be added to a car after it leaves the factory, ask the prospective dealer for permission to view the rustproofing area in his service garage while applications are in progress. Note whether or not technicians are careful to avoid spraying exhaust systems, catalytic converters and brakes, and whether they skillfully plug all holes drilled into the body of the vehicle. Above all, become familiar with the terms of the warranty:

- Does it cover the entire car or only the parts sprayed? What is the extent of any exclusions?
- Does it spell out clearly the responsibilities of both the rust protection dealer and the car owner in any maintenance program? If the car must be brought back for periodic inspections, what happens if an inspection is late or missed?
- Is the warranty valid nationwide or just at the shop where the rustproofing compound was applied?
- If rust does occur, does the company repair all damages regardless of cost, or just refund the price of the rustproofing application?
- Is the warranty valid for the life of the car, or is it limited to a specified number of years?

TROUT WITH OLIVE SAUCE

Our sauce goes especially well with trout but you can substitute almost any fish your family prefers. To serve 4 you'll need:
4 rainbow trout (5 oz. ea.)
1/4 cup butter
Salt and pepper

Preheat broiler to hot. Butterfly each trout by cutting down center until trout lies flat. Wash thoroughly with cold water and pat dry with paper towels. Dot with butter and season to taste. Place skin side down on greased broiler pan. Broil 5 minutes, or until fish flakes easily with a fork. While fish is broiling, prepare the olive sauce. You'll need:
3 tbs. butter
2 tbs. sherry
1/4 cup sliced green onions
1/4 cup sliced mushrooms
1 cup sliced ripe black olives
1 cup sour cream
1/2 tsp. garlic powder

Heat butter and sherry until bubbly. Add onions and mushrooms to pan and saute one minute. Stir in olives, sour cream and seasonings. Heat just until hot. Arrange trout on platter and pour sauce over it or serve sauce on the side. For a delicious textural contrast try a side dish of whole cooked stringbeans tossed with butter and sliced water chestnuts.

Old Prospectors Burro Run; A Major Highlight of Calico Days

The 13th annual Calico Days Celebration held over Columbus Day weekend (October 11 & 12) at Calico Ghost Town wouldn't be complete without its famous Old Prospectors Burro Run.

The burro run pits the endurance and daring of man against the stubborn nature of the burro. Ten individuals are chosen by lots, who then choose their teammate, a burro. After paying a $10 registration fee, the select 10 will race through the streets of Calico in a bizarre obstacle course trying for the glory of first place.

The run begins on Sunday, the 12th, at 11 a.m. and along the way, contestants will pass through mud holes, be ambushed by gunfighters, even bed down for a moment's rest while pushing, pulling, and trying to coax their burro through this madcap adventure.

The rewards for this wild & woolly race are ribbons and $50 for first place, $30 for second, and $20 for third. Both men and women are welcome to enter.

The 1980 Calico Days Celebration will also feature a giant equestrian parade and West Coast Gunfighters Stunt Championship on Saturday plus other wild contests such as egg tossin', greased pole climbing and a great campfire program.

Calico was home to the largest silver mining strike in the United States, but by the turn of the century the silver was too expensive to dig out and Calico became a ghost town. Today Main Street is full of quaint shops and restaurants and around town many ruins and buildings from the 1880's still stand.

Calico Ghost Town is located 10 miles northeast of Barstow via I-15 to Ghost Town Road exit. For more information concerning Calico Days or the Old Prospectors Burro Run contact the Regional Parks Department at (714) 383-1912.

All together now ... PULL! Calico Ghost Town's Old Prospectors Burro Run will highlight Calico Days Sunday activities. Also on tap for the 13th annual weekend celebration is a giant equestrian parade, gunfighters stunt championship plus old fashioned contests and family fun. For more information call (714) 383-1912.

The subject of the annual photo contest is the 110,540 square miles of Nevada, said Caroline Hadley, the magazine's publisher. "We want to show the state for what it is. The Real West - desolate, lovely, peculiar, inspirational. A state of cowboys, Indians, Basques and strong women. A state of rotting mining camps and glittering casinos. A state soaked in history and one that offers the most in recreation."

Photographers who best capture the state's contrasts or beauty will share over $1,000 in prizes and have their photos published in a future issue of the magazine. And if the overall winner can get to Carson City to receive the first prize - a Pentax MX camera - he or she will be treated to a fabulous lunch, said Hadley. A winner living outside the Carson area will be feted on an editor's visit to the photographer's home town.

The contest is open to amateur photographers only. (Amateurs are defined as those who make less than 50 percent of their livelihood as photographers.) Professionals are encouraged to submit photos for use in the LENS section and other regular features in the magazine, said Hadley.

Deadline is October 31, 1980. Rules and entry blanks are in the September - October issue of the magazine or at Boulevard Camera Exchange in Las Vegas.

Consumer Product Safety Advisory Board Being Formed

A volunteer and broadly-based community advisory board is being formed to guide the Nevada Department of Commerce in educating the public on product safety, according to Nancy Sprague, Deputy Director of the Department and Nevada's representative to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC).

CPSC, formed in 1972, regulates almost every non-food and non-drug product that a consumer would buy or use in homes, schools and recreation.

"This is quite a task," says State Project Director, Sally McManaway, "when you consider that this covers about 15,000 separate types of products. The purpose of the Nevada branch will be to direct and promote consumer education and information programs related to unsafe products and the safe use of products, to institute systems for gathering and compiling data product related injuries and deaths and to seek the voluntary assistance of merchants in cooperating with the commission's rulings regarding the recall of unsafe products."

Those participating in the initial meeting to be held October 9th at 3 p.m. in the Governor's office at 2501 East Sahara are: Kate Butler, Pate Church, Dorothy Denman, Charles Fleming, Phil Hevener, Lillian Luhan, Bob MacCackren, Martha Matthews, Ken Presser, Bob Ramos, Susan Reese, Peggy White, Ray Wills, Nancy Cramer, Viki Newell, Janet Line and Rick Jackson.

"Product safety is no accident," says Sprague who is appalled by the estimated 36 million Americans injured and 30,000 killed each year in product related accidents as well as the 9.5 billion dollars annually that these accidents total. She is enthusiastic about the opportunity for saving lives, injuries and dollars.

CPSC is excited about her unique approach to the problem and she plans to go to the Spring Conference and present Nevada's plan as a successful model for other states to follow.

CHANGING TO A VEGETARIAN DIET

Dear Dr. Esse: I'm 42 and I've made a decision to become a vegetarian.

I'd appreciate anything you can tell me about any hazards such a diet may hold out for me at my age.

I've been a meat-eater all my life and enjoyed the best. But I can't afford to pay even for cheap cuts of meat at today's prices. I understand vegetarians can live on less expensive diets and still be healthy. - Mr. J.

Dear Mr. J.: Your reason for changing to a vegetarian diet is a common one lately. Inflationary prices for meat is the reason. But the approximately seven million vegetarians in the U.S. offer other reasons, too.

Many believe it is wrong to kill animals. Others quit for religious reasons. Some, simply because they believe it is a healthier diet - less likely to produce heart attacks, stroke or other serious consequences.

To play safe while making your diet change, Mr. J., I suggest you consult with your doctor. The two of you will decide whether or not you should become a "vegan" - a total vegetarian - or a lacto-vegetarian (including milk and milk products in the diet) or an ovo-lacto-vegetarian (including egg products).

You should have your doctor oversee the change in diet because it's important that the new regime offer sufficient amounts of vitamin B12, iron and protein (with its essential amino acids). Dry peas and beans contain a lower quality of proteins than found in meats, milk and eggs.

Follow these suggestions and the transition will not be painful or harmful.

The Issue Is Leadership

Jack Jeffrey has represented the people of Henderson, Boulder City and the outlying valleys since 1974.

In 1979 he teamed with Henderson and Boulder representatives and Father Caesar Caviglia to secure $1.9 million for the Henderson Community College.

He is chairman of the powerful Commerce Committee which is responsible for legislation involving banking, savings and loan associations, insurance, real estate, regulatory boards, most health care legislation and NIC widow benefits.

He voted for tough new criminal laws, backed the largest tax reduction package in Nevada history, supported bail bond reform and generic drug legislation, fought for increased benefits for working people killed or injured on the job and voted for revenue bonds for veterans' housing.

He opposes a state income tax and will continue to fight consolidation of governments without a vote of the people affected.

He's compiled a 100 per cent voting and attendance record during the last two sessions of the Nevada legislature. He takes a stand and doesn't duck the tough issues.

That's the Jeffrey record...leadership and accomplishment.

Jack Turner

Jack Turner Named State ESD Freeway Job Service Supervisor

A 34 year veteran of the U.S. Marine Corps who had an entire day dedicated in his honor by the Clark County Commission earlier this year has been named supervisor of the Nevada Employment Security Department's (ESD) Freeway Job Service office.

ESD Director Larry McCracken today announced the appointment of Jack W. Turner to head the ESD office at Washington and "A" Streets which specializes in jobs for industrial and short-term workers and domestics.

Turner has been with ESD since 1977 when he was hired as a coordinator in a special disabled veterans outreach program (DVOP). He later was appointed a veterans employment representative and has received local, state and national recognition for his success in finding jobs for veterans.

In addition to the Clark County Commission's proclamation of last Jan. 4 as "Jack Turner Day," Turner twice was named DVOP of the Year by the Disabled American Veterans, was named 1979 Veterans Representative of the Year by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and received recognition for "Outstanding Achievement - A Vietnam Vet," signed by President Carter.

The new Freeway office supervisor was born in Canada at Windsor, Ontario and attended high school in Dearborn, Michigan. He served in three wars, was wounded in Korea and again in Vietnam, and has received the Bronze Star, two Purple Hearts and two Navy Achievement Medals. Turner and his wife Bessie have lived in Las Vegas since he retired from the service in 1976.

School Bus Safety Week

Governor Robert List has proclaimed the week of October 12-18 as "School Bus Safety Week in Nevada."

That week has been set aside to recognize the outstanding safety record maintained by Nevada school bus drivers who transport 56,000 students nearly 10 1/2 million miles per year in 867 yellow school buses.

Governor List stated in his proclamation that School Bus Safety Week is an ideal time for drivers to "re-dedicate themselves to promote safety on our roads by exercising patience, caution and courtesy in driving."

Drivers of vehicles are required by law to stop for school buses whenever the alternately flashing red lights are in operation unless they are traveling in the opposite direction on a divided highway.

During this School Bus Safety Week, Nevada school bus drivers are being asked to operate vehicles with headlights on to remind the motoring public of "NATIONAL SCHOOL BUS SAFETY WEEK".

Pastor Rivers at Vegas Valley Christian Church

"The Goal of the Teacher" is the subject Pastor Joel Rivers will be speaking on at the 10 a.m. Worship Service at Vegas Valley Christian Church. Pat Simons will have the special music accompanied by Vicky Onyett at the piano. Pastor Rivers will again be speaking at the evening fellowship hour.

October 19th will be the beginning of duplicate worship services at Vegas Valley Christian Church. First morning worship begins at 8 a.m., Bible school at 9 a.m., second morning worship and Children's church at 10 a.m. A new Bible School class on the Book of Genesis is being taught by Barbara Cook.

Following the 6 p.m. evening fellowship hour, we will be having a Pie Social. On behalf of the congregation, Pastor Rivers invites you to join us at our services - all are welcome!

Vegas Valley Christian Church is located at the corner of Rawhide and Mountain Vista between Tropicana and Russell Road.

S.N. Musical Arts Society

New members are being accepted by the Southern Nevada Musical Arts Chorus (formerly Musical Arts Workshop) now rehearsing Vaughan-Williams' Sea Symphony for chorus and orchestra.

Rehearsals are held each Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the UNLV Wright Auditorium (adjacent to the Wright Social Science Building).

Villa Del Prado Luxury and Leisure in Boulder City

---The little city where we always wanted to live - just down the hill to Lake Mead and all the recreational facilities - close enough to Las Vegas but somehow, it seems more than 20 miles away.

There's a unique type of lifestyle waiting for the resident who chooses to buy at Villa Del Prado by Durable Developers. The word is luxurious, and the living is easy to take. Offering three and four bedroom homes in single or two story floor plans, the buyer at Villa Del Prado has a wide variety of lifestyles from which to choose.

Every Villa Del Prado floor plan features standards that appear as options on other builders' homes in the area. Two full baths, complete with vanities, walk-in closets in the master bedrooms, raised entry foyers with decorative hard surfaced tile, fireplaces, oversized two car garages, complete kitchens with countertop range, continuous cleaning oven, dishwasher, and disposal units. Decorative floorcoverings by Armstrong in a variety of designs and colors help create color excitement coordinations in the kitchen and baths. Upgraded carpeting covers the remainder of the homes with a variety of color choices. Some plans feature front courtyards and some others even have bars for entertaining. Outside the home, Villa Del Prado features Genuine Stucco exteriors with rough timbers and ornamental iron decor. The large lots are terraced with rear block wall (retaining walls where necessary) on pool sized lots, with space for RV parking.

The homes at Villa Del Prado are spacious throughout, and solid from the solid core entry door to the maximum insulation features included in Durable Developer's exclusive Energy-Endurance conservation feature.

With FHA, VA, and Conventional financing available to the buyer, Villa Del Prado in Boulder City stands as an excellent value on today's market. Furnished models are located on Del Prado Drive, off Utah Street, and are open every day from 11 a.m.

Rainbow Company To Present Cinderella

Draped in lush velvet and glittering jewelry fit for royalty, Rainbow Company members will fill the Charleston Heights Library stage with dance, song and fantasy when they perform Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Cinderella" weekends Oct. 10-26.

Choreographed by Debbie Sankuer and directed by David Sankuer, "Cinderella" promises to be a production of beauty. Coordinating the effort of set designer Len Paul, Costumer Karen McKenney, Producer Brian Strom, Technical Director Michael Dorough, Special Effects Artist William Schultz Pianist Karen Jensen and Musical Director Cindy Neal with the

City of Las Vegas' children's performing ensemble has been the most rewarding aspect of preparing the productions, according to Sankuer.

This little envelope can make your life a little easier.

If you're still making a special trip to one of our business offices to pay your monthly phone bill, here's a little something that can help. It's the handy return envelope that comes with your telephone bill each month. Use it to pay your phone bills by mail, instead of paying in person. That could mean one less monthly trip for your car. And the less you drive, the more gas - and money - you'll save!

That's not all. As another new service to our customers, you can now take care of your monthly phone bill payments at any First National Bank office in the Las Vegas area. Just remember to bring along your current bill and payment card. It's just another way we're working to make your life a little easier... once a month.

Ralph Trethaway demonstrates Bird Carving to Brownie Troop 8 and staring with fascinated wonder at the Saw-Whet owl he carved is Brownie Scout Peggy Ballard age 7. She is the daughter of Lynn and Hirschi Ballard. The Brownie troop is led by Diane Brumberg and Debbie Strit. There are 20 members in the troop. They were very quiet and well behaved all through the wood-carving demonstration. Bird-carver Ralph Trethaway is a 10 month resident of Boulder City. See story.

Brownies of Troop 8 Learn About Bird-Carving

Teddy Fenton

A new kind of molding the young minds of the bright Brownies of Troop 8 has been initiated by Brownie leaders Diane Brumberg and Debbie Strit. Knowing that Boulder City is the stimulating art center of Clark County they decided to have the children exposed to art in every medium.

Their first artist was bird-carver Ralph Trethaway, who is a 10 month resident of Boulder City. His work is displayed at the B.C. Library in glass cases. If anyone has read the current Yankee magazine it is plain to see that Ralph, who has carved at least 1500 birds in his career, is on to something rare and wonderful, for Yankee has a feature story on a couple whose skill in bird-carving, which Ralph fully expects to attain, but they have reached such a pinnacle that their rare pieces are valued at $10,000.

Brownie Troop 8 was so well behaved that they set a record for being interested, yes even almost motionless as they attached themselves to the delight of watching as Ralph explained every miniature knife thrust. Sure enough, small feathers rose from the untouched wood. One the long table stood examples of his finished work. When the demonstration had ended small hands touched each piece of art. Ralph does not command $10,000 at this period of time, as he explained, one must first make a living, for he depends entirely on his bird-carving, but later, as do the couple in Yankee Magazine, one can retire and spend endless hours carving just one piece and it is then they become collectors items.

This will be a two part story, the NEWS will have (next week) a picture that will tickle the youngsters of Brownie Troop 8. We imagine parents will find it hard to believe that their lively little tykes are the same ones pictured watching Ralph Trethaway carve a life-like bird.

Troop members are Beth Bennett, Vicky Brumberg, Tina Carson, Joanna Jacobson, Misty Porter, Emily Baer, Peggy Ballard, Ruthie Bennett, Denise Bolen, Heather Breit, Jenny Brumberg, Suzanne Lund, Nicole Madrigal, Julie Jacobson, Marcie Scott, Mindy Waters and Neivea Scott.

Guests were Mark Snyder who photographed his friend, Ralph, surrounded by Brownies, and Pat Jacobson, who led the group in a song with lots of body movements.

Knowing how hard it is to find volunteers to lead the various Scout groups the NEWS congratulates the mothers and fathers who assist with the scout work at every age level.

Donald Jacobson (husband of Pat) and father of Jonna and Julie Jacobson, was there in his faithful role of helping wherever he is needed. Perhaps he will instruct the troop in German dances! Everyone had a wonderful time!

ENERGY BRIEFS

Tips on saving fuel and money from experts at Mobil 1, a motor oil that saves gasoline.

Idle Gossip

Turn off the ignition if you expect to be idling for more than one minute. Restarting the engine wastes less gasoline than idling for a minute or more.

An idling engine can use anywhere from one pint to one quart of gasoline every 15 minutes, depending on the size of the engine. In cold weather, start the engine and drive away—slowly. Don't idle the engine to let it warm up. An engine will warm up more quickly while driving than by idling.

There's one fact you can't escape: cold-engine starts tend to use more gasoline than starting in warm weather or after the engine is already warm. A car that gives you 13 1/2 miles per gallon in 70° F weather may give you only 3 miles per gallon when it is first started cold. In 10° F weather, the fuel loss is even greater.

And never fill your gasoline tank to the brim. Overfilling causes spillage, and leaves no room for expansion when the car warms up. So stop pumping gasoline when the automatic nozzle valve closes.

THERE'S SOME GREAT SITE-SEEING RIGHT OUTSIDE LAS VEGAS.

Just three minutes from all the hustle and bustle of Las Vegas, there's a brand new community growing day by day.

It's called Green Valley, and it's the largest master-planned community in Nevada.

The plan includes 12 square miles of property zoned for a variety of home developments, shopping, recreation and business.

And probably the most prestigious location in the state.

Paradise Valley. You know the area...home to many of the city's top executives and entertainers.

No wonder Green Valley has attracted some of the top builders in the country.

Spend a little time with us.

Why not come out and see Green Valley firsthand? Just take Sunset Road to Green Valley Parkway (two miles east of Eastern) and turn right at the entrance.

Take a leisurely ride around the area and stop in at our 22 furnished models. We've got over 800 homes completed and occupied, 300 currently under construction and more to come. Not to mention some brand-new townhomes and custom home sites that may be just what you had in mind.

But no matter what you see at Green Valley, it's bound to be love at first site.

Barquentine 'POLYNESIA'

THIS SHIP DIDN'T BURN -OR DID IT? CARTER RUNS 3RD IN CARIBBEAN

By Merry Zenoff

This newspaper goes a long way to try to find answers that may or may not be important to our readers. Take, for instance, this past week when we wandered down to the Caribbean, climbed aboard the Barquentine named 'Polynesia' and set sail for five days among the leeward islands of the West Indies.

We sought, besides adventure and rest, the opinions of the 90 passengers as to how they will vote for president come November 4.

Before giving you the answers, which I assume you are breathlessly awaiting, let me explain that the good ship 'Polynesia' is some 50 years old, is the last of the great schooners from Portugal that has four masts and a half dozen gigantic sails and is now a pleasure craft. It is 248 feet long, has a beam of 36 feet. Its masts rise 192 feet above the ocean, and it weighs 1400 tons. It is as old as sin, has a captain named John Carroll, a handsome bird right off the QE II's top level staff, and has a 35-man all black crew recruited from the nearby islands of the West Indies. It isn't too comfortable and it was hot as Hades whenever we were not under sail and were then anchored off shore of some small island, there to snorkel or swizzle or island tour until nighttime when the winds came up and the oceans jumped and sailing was our way of life.

We stail a little bit more before giving election results to tell you that this was a grand group of passengers from across America, actually numbering from 18 states and 6 foreign countries, all dressed in cutoff levis, all barefoot and the women with halters for you know where. They were a fine cross section of from 20 to 50 years old and included retired bankers to airline hostesses to two women oil engineers for Mobil to accountants, lawyers, stenographers, radio announcers, other newspaper people, half men, half women, not all married, some married, some living as married experimentally, and no questions asked period. Being a veteran of previous cruises, the owning company of this voyage, the Windjammer Company of Miami, Florida, granted me use of one of the deck cabins, its main feature being a flow of cold air coming through a pipe through a hole in the ceiling. I had my own john, where you could shower by turning a knob while also sitting on the toilet. Of course, there was no hot water, but who argues when you are 2,000 miles away from civilization bumming it on the high seas. Who can argue against a 24 hour bar, 5 meals a day, served by smiling natives who offer up highly spiced preparations from the local fields and seas. The little islands that the ship visited included Saba, St. Kitts, St. Barts and the starting and returning point, St. Martin. Each island is a joy in itself, usually too small for the big ships to visit because there are no docks. I imagine the reasons for the company's selection of these small communities is that it flies a British flag mainly because it does not pass inspection demanded by the larger ports.

This is not to criticize the Windjammer people but it is to tell you that we were not the fancy ship like the one that caught fire and burned off Alaska at the same time we were sailing the Caribbean. I am not an inspector of construction but I did notice many open wires on this old ship and detected spots where fires could break out and give one a hard time. You don't think of these things, or you shouldn't, if you are barefoot cruising in the Caribbean. You trust to luck and the skill of the Captain and the great knowledge of the early day building of sailing ships. After all, this ship once had fished for cod and was in the 1950's written up in the National Geographic Magazine as a fantastic Portuguese sailing ship.

The islands visited were stories in themselves, Saba being a pinnacle of rock rising 3900 feet out of the sea, having two towns at the top at the edge of an extinct volcano. It is a Dutch island and is magnificent in beauty. St. Barts is really St. Barthelemy and was once a smugglers' paradise. It is basically French and has Swedish influences and the young people aboard who snorkled and spearfished had a great day. St. Kitts slopes gently 4314 feet to the sea and features old sugar cane estates, salt ponds, lagoons, and endless beaches.

St. Kitts is a Dutch island which claims its fame for being our ally in the American Revolution.

St. Martins is half French half Dutch and is a tourists' paradise for those who like low cost living and good scenery.

All the while we were there last week, we were told a hurricane was forming within a couple hundred miles from us and we shouldn't worry because the good ship could ride out any storm.

What does one do aboard with such an atmosphere, especially if one is of an advanced age. One just goes with the crowd, either observing or taking part in the revelry that these 90 passengers, who were all strangers to each other at the start, can contrive. Steel bands from the islands were brought on board each night and if one cared to dance up a storm, you could or your could watch. I was especially fascinated with the dancing of the native crew members who proved to be entertainers when they weren't running the ship. One steel band brought aboard from St. Kitts could bring down the roof at any Vegas showhall. The dozen natives hauled aboard old oil drums with homemade soldered tops. They had drum sticks, the ends of which were wrapped in native towels and when they beat their tunes on these old barrels you thought you were hearing a symphony of tympanies. I bought one of their records which I hope many of you will want to record because the sound is rare and beautiful.

Observing young people enjoy today is a treat. No one went completely nuts but I would say most of the people went far out in enjoying this vacation. The very fact that the top deck at night became the bedroom for most of the people fits well with the nickname that deck has, which is sex deck. The moon was out and the breeze was cooling and the music was right and gaiety was rampant. You had to be careful where you walked, how you stepped, but otherwise it was a do-your-own-thing routine.

Everyone made new life-long friends and there may even have been ultimate marriages develop. Might even have been some business deals aboard. Certainly there was enough to warrant this column and my final big moment aboard when I polled the people to determine how one group of Americans would vote one month before election.

Here are the election results:
35% for Reagan.
18% for Anderson.
11% for Carter.
One vote for Libertarian.
One vote for Mickey Mouse.
10% undecided.
3% for none of the above.
10 not voting.

We recommend the Windjammer trips that prow the waters of the Atlantic and the Caribbean: down in the West Indies and the Virgin Islands. The price is right and if it is complete removal from today's world that you seek, try this barefoot adventure.

Oktoberfest Starts

Roll out the barrel and wrap a lip around a steaming German bratwurst at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas' fourth annual Oktoberfest, Thursday through Saturday (Oct. 9-11).

Opening festivities begin at 10:30 a.m. Thursday (Oct. 9). By noon, revelers should be hungry enough to start stuffing down sausages (German style, of course) in the bratwurst-eating contest.

Other Oktoberfest activities include several men's and women's chugging contests, and a return engagement on Friday (Oct. 10) by "The Fox," a Santa Monica tavern owner who holds the Guinness Record for speedy beer chugging. The Fox appeared last year at Oktoberfest and was also recently featured on the NBC television hit "Real People." His specialty is glugging down a mug of beer faster than most people can take a single sip. He even does it standing on his head. Food and spirits continue Friday evening at the first of two Oktoberfest dances in the Student Union ballroom. Festivities culminate Saturday night at 9 p.m. with more sausages, beverages and even a little German oom-pah-pah! In German tradition, Oktoberfest is celebrated at the end of each harvest season.

No "Bail Out" Money Available In Nevada

By ERNEST L. NEWTON
Executive Vice President
Nevada Taxpayers Association

few new positions will be necessary in a few other departments. In most departments, however, there will have to be some reductions in personnel.

The principal problem is two-fold. (1) State tax revenues from sales tax and gaming taxes have not come up to forecasts. (2) The forces of inflation have forced upward the costs of personnel and materials purchased by government in much the same way that inflation has affected every consumer. The estimate is that inflation-induced increases will be 15% in fiscal-1982 and an additional 10% in fiscal-1983.

The up-shot of these estimates is that state government will have to reduce the level of its present expenditures to keep them within the available income. There just won't be any money for additional transfers of funds to cities, counties and school districts.

All of which does NOT mean that local governments will go out of business. Question 6 if approved, will curtail the availability of property tax income to those levels of government. But the door is left wide open for the imposition of all manner of other charges, fees, permits, etc., to make up the necessary revenue. It's probably futile to suggest a list of possible charges and fees; but local governments in other states have been able to levy charges for fire calls; have been able to impose "occupancy charges"; have been able to impose "security" charges based on square footage of premises; have imposed "stand-by" charges for municipal utility facilities. Schools have discontinued furnishing "supplies and books" without charge; have discontinued support of sports and recreation programs; have imposed "loss and breakage" charges; and in a few cases have levied a flat tuition charge.

No one should underestimate the inventive genius of governmental agencies and people as they seek to fund their necessary functions.

A dream was shattered last month. The dream was that the state legislature would be able to "bail out" cities, counties and school districts in the event that Question 6 is approved by the voters Nov. 4. The fact is that the transfer of additional state funds to local entities will be impossible. State Government will be hard pressed to continue its presently funded activities. Already state departments and agencies have been alerted to the need for a 10% reduction in their costs.

Next biennium (July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1983) the state will be faced with the obligation to staff a new prison facility at Indian Springs. That, alone, will require the creation of several hundred new positions. Additional staffing is going to be required at mental health centers. A

Las Vegas Joins First Western As Vice President

First Western Savings Association has announced the appointment of its new Vice President, Consumer Lending.

Tom Powers, a Las Vegas resident for the past 10 years, was appointed to the position recently by the First Western Savings Board of Directors. He brings 25 years of banking experience to the position, most recently as Vice President/Installment Loan Administrator for Pioneer Citizens Bank.

Powers studied at La Salle Military Academy, Seton Hall University and other banking and lending schools. He served in the Infantry during the Korean War.

For the past four years he has taught a course in Installment Credit at Clark County Community College. He is a member of the American Institute of Banking and a charter member of the Latin Chamber of Commerce.

Powers moved with his family to Las Vegas from New York City. He and his wife, Barbara, have six daughters, four of whom live in Las Vegas. Their two eldest daughters now reside in New York.

Dental Hygiene Aptitude Test Deadline Set

Application deadline for the Dental Hygiene Aptitude Test to be given at Clark County Community College in November, is October 24.

Applications may be picked up at the Office of Admissions at CCCC or apply by writing to Testing, American Dental Hygienists' Association, Suite 3400, 44 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

All applications must reach Chicago by October 24.

Students wishing to apply for the Dental Hygiene Program at CCCC are required to take the aptitude test.

The two-year program at the college is in the top four percent nationally, ranking number seven of all Dental Hygiene programs in the country.

Free Solar Energy Seminar Scheduled

Solar water heating workshop participants insulate solar collectors as part of the assembly process. The collectors were designed under a Federal grant and meet strict Government standards.

"The age of solar energy is here." That is the message that will be made loud and clear in an hour-long seminar scheduled for October 30. Presenting the seminar is well-known alternative energy advocate Dave Comarow who will be describing a new national program designed to make the most basic uses of solar energy affordable.

"The U.S. Department of Energy originally funded the development of the solar water heating workshop program with an $11,000 grant," says Comarow. "It has been so successful that now D.O.E. is going to spend one million expanding it around the Country," he continued.

The solar water heating program which Comarow will be describing at the free seminar is a chance for the do-it-yourselfer to construct a quality solar water heating system in a supervised environment. The system is designed to provide between 70% and 90% of a family's hot water needs, depending of the size of the family and personal use habits.

"We find that people who go through the workshop tend to get more energy from the solar system than the computer says they should, says Comarow. "I think that is because the workshop gives everyone an awareness of their personal energy use patterns and thus results in increased energy conservation in the home," he continued.

Currently the solar water heating workshop program is held in over 60 locations throughout the Country, including at least 5 in Southern Nevada.

"We are actively recruiting new sponsors including schools, Government agencies, public service organizations, clubs and other outreach agencies. As a result, we hope to have at least one solar workshop going each month in Southern Nevada," says Comarow.

The solar water heating workshops in Boulder City will be sponsored by Desert Research Institute and will be held at the DRI facility on Buchanan Boulevard on the evening of December 12 and all day on December 13, 1980.

Koinonia Konzerts

Randy Richardson and Koinonia will be presenting a concert at the Christian Center on Sunday, Oct. 12 at 6 p.m. Koinonia has performed on T.V. and radio. The group has also presented their versatile and contemporary music in many churches, Knott's Berry Farm, as well as prisons, high schools and colleges. For two years in a row the group took first place honors in Gospel music competition at Cal Expo in Sacramento.

Randy plays the guitar and sings lead vocal. Don Allen on the base guitar, and Lisa Smimmick, female voice, forms a vocal contribution to the program, and plays percussion and piano. Mike Abeg plays the drums, and Shelly Richardson controls the P.A. sound. The group has been playing together for several years and their contemporary sound has been well received at every performance.

Koinonia has recorded several albums, 8-track, and cassette. Many of their songs are written by Randy and members of the group. You will enjoy their ministry in spiritual song as the word "koinonia" implies.

Oct. 20 Federal Survey Time at Schools

It's approaching federal survey time once again in the Clark County School District when the United States officially pays its local property taxes to the school district.

As part of the requirements, on Monday, October 20, each of the 88,000 students enrolled in the Clark County Public Schools will take home a federal survey card to be filled out by their parents or guardians and returned. The survey will determine school district eligibility under the impacted aid program, and could bring in well over $2.3 million with no strings attached, to go into the school district's general operating budget.

The 32 year old program is designed to supplement local school district budgets in areas like Clark County where there is a large concentration of federal workers and government owned property. The school district will receive one sum for students from families living and working on federal property, such as an airman living on Nellis Air Force Base, and a lesser sum for students from families where breadwinners work on federal property, but where the family lives in a private home or apartment.

The program is designed to replace revenue lost because federal property cannot be taxed. Unlike other types of federal funds, which are earmarked for specific use, federal survey money comes to the school district without specific use requirements.

Started during World War II, the impacted air program was devised to provide operating revenue for school districts with sudden enrollment growth brought about by the establishment of federal, military and war-related facilities.

The program continues as an integral source of funding to school districts like Clark County's that have military and government installations.

Absentee Voting to begin Oct. 14

Absentee voting for the November 4th General Election will start on Tuesday, October 14th, at the office of the Clark County Election Department, 400 Las Vegas Boulevard South. This means of in office absentee voting is made available for those people who will not be in town on Election Day and will not be at any permanent address sufficiently long enough to receive an absentee ballot by mail.

Requests for mail-out absentee ballots are currently being accepted at the Clark County Election Department and will be accepted through October 28th, one week prior to election day. After October 28th, absentee voting will be restricted, by law, to those people who, due to some emergency, are either confined to their homes or suddenly called out-of-town.

It is important that all absentee voters be aware that their voted ballots must be returned to the Clark County Election Department on or before 7 p.m. on election day for them to be counted. Ballots received after that time, cannot, by law, be counted.

B.C. Library Open Oct. 13, Columbus Day

The Boulder City Library will be open as usual Monday, Oct. 13, from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. The library will not be observing the Columbus Day holiday.

Monday Bridge

High scorers were Jessie Mayo and Pearl Jones.

Any lady wishing to play bridge Co-sponsored by the Community Club and the Recreation Dept. is invited to attend at 1 p.m. They play in the Recreation room at the rear of the First Western Savings building.

NARFE

Guess What? At our one o'clock, Monday, October 13 meeting we are going to have an Oktoberfest. It will take place in the Women's Club House.

Gwen Dunbar, one of the most active and attractive women in Boulder City is going to bring a lot of old wagons (slides that is). She will present a slide lecture of the old wagons that Schlitz Brewery bought from the shows in the U.S., England and France. The wagons are beautifully decorated with fairy tales and colorful scenes. The wagons are now in a museum in Baraboo, Wisconsin.

The fest (very German) or feast will be peanuts and popcorn. No beer as the Women's Club has just had their carpet cleaned. BRING SOME EXTRA GELD(money) so you can buy and munch.

Clark County Means More Than Las Vegas

Hats off to Bob Broadbent.

Of the seven Clark County commissioners, he is foremost in wanting to hold commission meetings in Boulder City, Henderson and other outlying areas of our county.

To do this would bring the forum of government to people who could not otherwise attend. That is the highest form of democracy. It is public participation in the purest sense.

Of course, it is Broadbent's constituency that lives far out in Clark County, from Mesquite, Bunkerville and Overton in the very north to Nelson, Searchlight and the Colorado riverfront down to the extreme southern tip of the state.

Still, the idea of holding county commission meetings in those areas at least once a year gives the voting public there a chance to buttonhole their commissioners and talk face to face with the representatives they elected.

To do less is to deny the full democratic process.

HELPING THE NEEDY

HURRICANE'S HAVOC

Her home destroyed, her meager possessions scattered to the four winds by Hurricane Allen, Tituba despairs of starting all over again. Hurricanes are almost annual events in her native Haiti, but seldom are they of such destructive force. The last one that wreaked total havoc on her village was two decades ago. Then, as now, help was nearby. Catholic Relief Services (CRS), the overseas aid and development agency of American Catholics, responded quickly to Tituba's plight, with urgently needed shelter materials, cooking utensils and clothing. When the emergency had passed, CRS stayed to help rebuild for the future. Both the immediate response and the longterm development aid were possible because CRS maintains an office and staff in Haiti. Haiti is one of 75 countries of the developing world where CRS helps touch the lives of the poor. Jim and Linda Lockie Moving From Boulder City

A crazy thing happened on the afternoon of Oct. 5 at the Boulder City Hospital Auxiliary Art Festival. One winner, one name, was called for three of the top prizes donated by the five Featured Artists. It was a one in a million chance that out of 130 tickets purchased by Teddy Fenton that three of the top prizes were hers after the drawing with another prize also being hers when her name was called for the fourth time. To top off this crazy happening the name of Lynel (Mrs. Richard) Fenton was called for a Kathy Miller donation.

So it was that Fentons drew 5 of the 14 prizes. All but the Mrs. Richard Fenton prizes were donated back to the Boulder Dam Hotel Art Gallery. What Paul Wolfram will do with them now is a matter of anticipation by the B.C. Hospital Aux. committee as well as the pleased artists.

The artists commented, these being Walter Shull, Rachel Cherry, Chris Nield and Darey Coon, that they were tickled that the historical Boulder Dam Hotel had come into the art work. The Boulder Dam Hotel had itself purchased 300 tickets. But ironic fate decided to mystify all who were at that drawing Oct. 5 by having the name Teddy Fenton called as said before, a total of four times.

One Auxiliary committee member had her name taken from the list to give another person a chance at a prize. This was Nancy Quinn.

Marge Swallow, a worker and the originator of the Art Festival won the original craft work of Ken Ford (Cheryl's brother-in-law) and we were all so pleased. Marge has worked for 18 years for the Art Festival. We know of no other volunteer to break that record.

The remaining prizes were won by these lucky people. Donna Bell from Henderson, this was the Bread pot, board and apron by Judy Kowski.

The Doug Taylor etching was won by J. Knight, from Las Vegas. The lithograph by Lee Jayred was won by Joan Steinke from Boulder City. Margaret Peele from Nelson, Nevada won the Flowered Rolling Pin by Lynnae Fradella.

Ed Hinds, who has given a donation to the Raffle every year since he entered the show gave a lovely oil painting and it was won by Betty Hammer of Boulder City.

The last of the 3 oil paintings on wood, given by Kathleen Miller, was by Alic Eubank of Henderson. Kathleen is from Laguna Beach, California, and she touts our show to one and all every year throughout the art circuit. She has given 3 donations every single year to the raffle table. Her parents are Ed and Julie Hinds of Boulder City.

The butter churn, a painting on a crock, the exclusive creation of Maxine Pierce, was won by Libby Bargiel from Las Vegas.

In all there were 14 prizes and we thank all the talented artists who made our raffle the success it always is. WE HAD FUN.

Featured Artists Work Donated to Boulder Dam Hotel

Jim and Linda Lockie and their son, Adam, 6 years old, are moving from Boulder City to Victorville, Cal. The moving van is coming next Wednesday and Linda is appealing to her friends to help her pack!

Linda Lockie holds a unique place in the annals of the B.C. Hospital Aux. Art Festival. There is a reason for this.

Although she had worked with the art festival in prior years, for instance, she headed up the craft section last year, she had not been with the show long enough to know the terrifying responsibility of being named chairlady of the annual fund-raising event.

The plot goes like this. One day you are free! The next you are not! The reason being that at a meeting of the B.C. Hospital Auxiliary the name of Linda Lockie was mentioned as a possible leader of the 1980 show. "Of course, she would be perfect," was the overall opinion of those present. She accepted ... and for that she deserves so much praise. She accepted under the conditions that were staggering.

Jim and Linda Lockie believe in investing their money in real estate. They have one rental running as smooth as glass. Another, however, vacated, rent was due, the utilities unknown to them had not been turned on by the tenant, the so-called security deposit was of no value for the damage far exceeded it. This event happened during the last hectic weeks of the pre-festival, and somehow the place was returned to a renting condition. But, the other far more time consuming event was right at her heels. Jim was transferred to Victorville (he is employed by the Dept. of Water and Power) and so this too had to be resolved. A new house was located, at one point the young couple were told the deal had fallen through. All is well that ends well. The house is waiting. Linda is packing. Jim is on the job already! Her son surely will not like being taken from this school and off to another! But Linda can cope. This she has proven.

Coped with not having time to call volunteers to help mail out contracts. Cope during the art festival when trusted volunteers did not appear! Coped with the Boy Scouts not coming to take the hundreds of aluminum cans and also making sure the grounds were kept neat and tidy (four appeared but not for long periods) and yet one would never guess how tired Linda was, how helpless when faced with an event the Auxiliary describes as "having a tiger by the tail." Somehow Oct. 4 and 5 ended ... and life is back to normal for most of the volunteers who placed it there for the public to enjoy and the artists to exhibit.

Jim and Linda have been in our town since 1973. Linda taught crafts at the Recreation Center. She is the bookkeeper for the Boulder Dam hotel. She also taught plant care at the Rec. Center.

The family hobby is boating and mopeds and they regret very deeply this move away from their favorite town.

They will be back. They are retaining one rental. Just when the Art Festival gang came to know Linda and to enjoy working with her, she regrettably is leaving us.

Thank you to the Lockie's et-al for your contribution to our town. We will miss you.

CAMPING ALL YEAR ROUND

BY BOB NESOFF

Mild Winter Ahead

If this past summer and the early fall are any example, most of the country can expect a fairly mild winter in 1980-81. Of course, there will be the problem areas, most likely in the Midwest and Northwest, especially in the mountainous areas.

But for the rest of us, there should be a wonderfully extended camping and outdoor season with the weather mild enough right on through next spring.

Caution, however, must be the password. Some years back on a hunting trip under similar weather conditions, we almost ran into a serious problem.

On the ground. Small animals that should have disappeared from the scene months ago were still scampering through the trees and providing considerable visual entertainment.

During the night a sudden and unexpected shift of weather conditions brought the temperatures tumbling faster than a log flume ride at the top of a chute. By early morning there was a good carpet of snow on the ground and a lot more on the way.

Fortunately, we were able to get the cars out to the main road before they were snowed-in until the spring. Back at camp we had the foresight to stock up on a supply of wood for heat and cooking and we were in pretty good shape.

We had also taken the precaution before we left of letting people know precisely where we would be and when we were expected to return. We also made a point of getting in contact with the outside world every day or two.

If we weren't back by the prearranged time (or within a reasonable time thereof), we left instructions so that the local authorities would be notified.

We also always carry CB radio equipment, both mobile units in the cars and walkie talkies for field use. Home base knows what channel we monitor and this information could be passed on to the authorities should it become necessary.

The point of all this — even though we got out without any problem — is that even with the mild winter coming, don't take any unnecessary chances. By following proper procedure you can avoid any tragic accidents and extend your outdoor activities right on through the winter — whether it's mild or severe.

INSIDE TV JOEY SASSO

INSIDE TV — Wonder why "General Hospital," ABC's extremely popular daytime drama, has a closed set lately? Producer Gloria Monty denies it, but I know the big clampdown is for one reason and one reason only — Luke (Tony Geary) will be lured out of hiding by a transsexual character. And get this, soap fans: The character will be played by a real-life transsexual ... Comedian

Sid Caesar, who made America laugh in the fifties, hates TV: "There's nothing to be excited about," he says. "I don't know who they're writing for because I don't think anybody over 16 watches television." Asked which comedian he likes on the box, he couldn't name one ... There are more problems between Robin "Mork" Williams and his wife, Valerie. Williams has moved out of the couple's Los Angeles home and insiders are predicting divorce this time around.

TV HOTLINE — Alan Beam did not shoot JR. But the actor who plays the young lawyer in the hit series "Dallas," is getting the bullet. In episode four, Randy Powell is being written out ... Heartbreak has been following former "One Day at a Time" star MacKenzie

Phillips for over a year now and there seems to be no end in sight. Her latest problem is rock musician hubby Jeff Sessler, who is suing her for $2,000 a month in alimony. Phillips filed for divorce from Sessler March 28 and cited "irreconcilable differences," but later told friends she was "hiding out" from Sessler "because I am afraid of him." Now, says MacKenzie: "I'll fight him every inch of the way."

TV CLOSE-UP — James Garner has been secretly dating Sally Field, the 33-year-old actress who left live-in love Burt Reynolds last April. Disguised under a blonde wig, Oscar-winning Sally recently flew to Denver, Colorado, to see 52-year-old Garner make his singing debut at the Red Rocks amphitheatre. Hero of "The Rockford Files," Garner was warbling country and western songs. It was only a year ago that he split from his wife, Lois, after 23 years of marriage. Their breakup stunned Hollywood friends. Although they still dine out together and Garner claims he's not interested in other women, he and Lois live apart ... Reports that Dinah Shore and former Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano are very affectionate toward each other were greeted by the old-fashioned, "they're just friends" reply from Dinah's publicity man, Charles Pomerantz, who told me: "Califano was on Dinah's show seven months ago, but they are not meeting; they are 3000 miles apart. I can't think where the rumors started."
