

HPD, SWAT Talk Potential Suicide From Green Valley Home

By Lois J. Cherry
A tense four and a half hour series of telephone conversations between a gun-wielding burglary suspect and police ended shortly before 8:30 Tuesday night when the man quietly walked out of a home in Green Valley and placed his hands on his head.

The suspect, David Davison, approximately 35, had held Henderson police and the Metro SWAT team at bay with threats of suicide saying he was on cocaine and heroin and nothing mattered.

The seige began at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon when Dorothy Detzer returned to her home at 3148 Belvedere and found herself confronted by a man holding one of her own hunting rifles.

She said he ordered her out of the house saying he didn't want to do her any harm. She left and walked to a neighbor's home where she called police.

She identified the suspect as Davison who is related to her husband through a former marriage. She said Davison knew the home contained hunting rifles, shotguns and a heavy caliber handgun and she told police the suspect had a history of mental problems.

In their initial contact with Davison, he told officers if he were approached he would shoot himself. In his mental state, they feared he would start shooting wildly and immediately blocked off the entire area of Belvedere from Viewcrest to Aqua Vista. They then went from house to house within the perimeter warning residents. They called for Metro's special SWAT team which arrived at about 4:30 p.m. and a police command post was established near the Detzer home where they began talking to Davison by phone.

At one point police convinced the suspect to lay down the rifle, but shortly afterward he broke off communication and refused

School District Officials Plead for Bond Issue

Clark County School District officials project that by the 1985-86 academic year the district will enroll approximately 100,000 students, 10,000 more than presently enrolled and a 10 percent increase within a short three to four-year period.

That is the reason the Clark County School Board of Trustees and school district officials are pressing for the $69.5 million bond issue election March 16. Passage of the issue would be one of the first steps to begin a new 100 million-dollar capital construction program.

If school officials had waited to bring the bond vote to the public in this fall's elections the building program would not finish in time for occupation of new schools in the 1983-84 year and the plan would cost $500,000 more.

With $6.5 million from dedicated motor vehicle tax revenues and passage by the Nevada Legislature of laws allowing a "pay-as-you-go" system school district officials hope to complete needed present and projected new school construction and capital renovation through 1990.

Then the district would ask, with all bonds retired, the school system be allowed to go to the "pay-as-you-go" system for any needed school construction or improvements. If granted, taxes would be levied as needed with no tax being asked for when school construction doesn't demand it.

The advantage to the system is that the district saves millions of dollars that would have gone to pay interest on bonds.

For now, however, the school district and the school board trustees are occupied with the task of promoting the bond issue's passage. In an interview with HOME NEWS staff Tuesday morning acting superintendent of school Charles Silvestri said that statements by Governor Robert List and the furor they created spurred district officials to agree an increased promotion effort was needed.

For Henderson approximately $330,000 will be provided, if the bond issue passes, for capital improvement to existing schools, while three new elementary schools, one for the city's Green Valley area and two more for the eastern portion of the city, will be constructed by 1986.

Burkholder Junior High School will receive the majority of the money as they are budgeted for $127,000. Basic will receive $76,000 for primarily renovations of the cooling system. The city's older elementary school will also receive significant sums from $30,000 to $50,000 for improvement of C.T. Sewell, Robert Taylor and Gordon McCaw.

According to Silvestri, "Failure of the bond issue would have a devastating effect on our community's children."

The school district would not be able to construct new schools or make needed improvements in existing school buildings should voters reject the bond issue.

School district officials announced five options that would be examined to help the district accommodate the fast growing student population. They include the following.

First, some schools could be placed on a double (half-day) session schedule. "We have had split sessions before," says Ralph Cadwal-

One Man's VIEW

By MIKE O'CALLAGHAN

Today's NEWS contains information showing the importance of the school bond issue we vote on next Tuesday, March 16. The new schools are necessary and they should have been started last year.

Former School Superintendent Claude Perkins delayed the bond issue rather than face up to the need in late 1980 and early 1981. His delaying tactics have resulted in the road and flood bonds for Clark County passing first, making school bonds now more difficult to sell. Nevertheless, the need for schools is even more important today than it was last year.

All of our children are now out of the Clark County School District. Timmy, the youngest, graduated last year. Still there are present and future generations to educate and it's our responsibility to make the best possible educational system available for their use. The success of our youngsters will determine the kind of world they will make available for us as we leave the world of work.

Good schools are a necessity for a wholesome and healthy society. Anything less is unacceptable to Nevadans.

Get out and vote next Tuesday. The future we will be brightening will be our own.

The money crunch is hitting the local governments in Nevada. All outward appearances make this writer believe the 1981 tax shift is causing many unforeseen problems. Any tightening up causes discomfort in government.

When city, county or township governments cut back they should do their utmost to continue fire and police protective services. Fire and police protection is essentially a local matter which higher government does not provide.

31st Industrial Days Celebration Plans Underway Now

The thirty-first annual Henderson Industrial Days celebration, sponsored by the Henderson Chamber of Commerce, will begin Wednesday, April 21 with the beauty pageant, and the celebration will continue throughout the week with the parade on Saturday, April 24.

Applications are now available for the beauty pageant which is open to unmarried girls 15-18 years old, who are residents of Henderson or who are attending a Henderson school.

The girls cannot be professional dancers or models. Contestants may choose a sponsor from the business community. Applications may be picked up at the Chamber office and Basic High School and must be returned to the Chamber office by April 2.

The parade will feature the theme of "Henderson Salutes Education," and will be held at 11:45 a.m. on April 24.

The celebrations will also feature a softball tournament co-sponsored by the Henderson Parks and Recreation Department on April 22-25. There will be a 16-team double elimination and the price is $100 per team. Individual awards for first and second place will be presented as well as sponsor trophies for first, second and third place.

Games will be played at Wells Park, Morrell Park and Titanium Field. For further information contact the Henderson Parks and Recreation Department or the Chamber of Commerce.

The celebration includes a carnival, talent show, bowling and golf. Tryouts for the talent show will be held April 20 and trophies will be

State Board Approves $2.5 Million For Wastewater Project

By Lorna Kesterson

The Nevada State Board of Examiners Wednesday approved a Henderson bond issue for $2.5 million as the city's share of a $10 million wastewater treatment plant.

Richard Bryan, Attorney General, who sits with Governor Bob List and the Secretary of State on the board, unanimously approved the bonds for the city. With the approval of the state the city can expect to receive a lower bond rating. The bonds are expected to be sold in May.

Meantime, City Manager Bob Anselmo said plans are progressing on the wastewater plant. Several contracts have already been let out to bid. The remainder of the plan is being funded by the federal government under the department of housing and urban development.

A person's castle is his or her most valuable asset which holds society's most precious unit -- the family. The biggest physical threats to a home, other than family discord, are fire and the entry of an enemy. The enemy usually comes in the form of a burglar, rapist, robber or some other type of thug.

Our homes are only as safe as our police and firemen are efficient. The numbers and training of these men and women reflect on the safety record of any community.

Today Henderson and Boulder City have excellent police and fire units. If cuts in government must be made, the knife should not be used in these two most important departments. They are basic services local government is required to provide all citizens.

One of the Republican primary candidates for U.S. Senate is Rick Fore. Rick has put together an expensive campaign with the goal of establishing name identification because he has only lived in Nevada for a short period of time. His expensive public relations firm from California has already spent over $200,000 on radio and television to help him gain name recognition in Nevada.

Rick, who runs on his closeness to Sen. Paul Laxalt and President Ronald Reagan, may have to get some name identification in Washington where he claims government service. The most recent edition of the Congressional Quarterly refers to him as Tom Fore.

The week has been a good sports time for this writer.

Tuesday it was my privilege to attend the luncheon honoring the Reno Padre manager Harry Platt. Harry, a college buddy, was honored as the Manager of the Year for the professional Class A California League. His team drew over 100,000 fans last year.

Returned from Reno in time for the Showboat fights. Wednesday night was spent in Los Angeles to see Wayne Gretsky, the greatest hockey player in history, in action against the Kings.

Thursday night is UNLV-Murray State tangling at the convention center in the first round of the NIT.

Friday, my friend Gene Fullmer will be in Las Vegas for the Old Timers night at the Frontier Hotel. We first met in 1950 in an AAU boxing tournament in Salt Lake City. Thank heavens we were different weights because Gene, a welterweight, never stopped throwing leather.

Gene in 1950 was a gentleman and today he is still one of the nicest men around.

Saturday there is a UNLV-Oklahoma baseball game and that night the big guys battle at the Sands.

Sunday will be my day to rest.

lader, Associate Superintendent for Secondary Education. "Our data from that time indicates such sessions have a negative effect on our students and our instructional program.

Parents dislike the split sessions because it disrupts their family and leaves many students on the street during long hours of the day."

Second class size could be further increased beyond that caused by the overcrowding already existing in some Clark County schools.

Third, some special programs could be eliminated. "The Reading Improvement Program (R.I.P.) and Academically Talented (A.T.) programs would both be hurt badly by such program cuts," says Dr. Theron Swainston, associate superintendent for elementary education. "Yet, these programs are widely recognized as having a tremendous impact on our students."

Fourth, increases in student busing could occur. "Students from the most over-crowded schools may have to be bused out of their local neighborhoods to less crowded schools," according to Dr. Thurman White, associate superintendent for school facilities. "In addition there is a possibility we would have to increase the walking distance for students from two miles to three miles to make busing resources available for these new transportation needs."

Finally, operating some schools on a 12-month schedule may be implemented.

In addition to these possible changes, district officials indicate that the rehabilitation of existing buildings and grounds can not be accomplished as needed. "The Catch-22 here is the longer we go without making these improvements, the more they will cost in the long run," says White. "And frankly, we owe it to the taxpayers to protect their investment by properly maintaining these facilities. We just can't afford to let the district get run down."

"I have faith in the voters of Clark County" says Silvestri. "Given all the facts, they will make the right decision for our community and our children on March 16."

When he finally answered the phone again, the SWAT team was replaced by a regular Metro team which Davison walked out of the house without a shot being fired.

He was quickly placed in a car and rushed to headquarters as Belevedere returned to a normal routine.

Valley Bank Donates Mardi Gras Grand Prize to St. Rose de Lima

A $9,000 BONUS GIFT—Was given to St. Rose de Lima Hospital by Valley Bank President Dick Etter, who presented the keys to Sister Maureen Comer, administrator of the hospital, recently. The car had been won by Valley Bank at the hospital's 25th Annual Mardi Gras Ball held in February.

Valley Bank of Nevada has presented St. Rose de Lima Hospital with a bonus gift worth nearly $9,000 from the 25th Annual Mardi Gras Ball sponsored by the hospital Auxiliary.

The gift was possible because one of Valley Bank's tickets was drawn for the grand prize, a 1982 Ford Fairmont, which was then presented to the hospital by Valley Bank President Dick Etter.

"It's like a gift from heaven," said Sister Maureen Comer, administrator at St. Rose de Lima. "Our old car was about to give out, and we were wondering what to do then. Now we have transportation for some of our patients when needed, and a courier car to travel to and from Las Vegas on the many errands necessary every day. We're very grateful," she said.

The car was originally donated as a grand prize by Barbara and Hank Greenspun, who have been donating a car each year for the past several years.

According to Sister Maureen, this year's Mardi Gras was the most successful ever, raising nearly $50,000 to benefit the hospital.

School Bond Facts Distorted

"The facts about our school bond issue have been badly distorted," says Charles Silvestri, acting superintendent of schools.

"Let's separate the wheat from the chaff here: the school bond issue will not raise the district's property tax rate by one single dime.

And that is a fact. "Property taxes will go up next year," Silvestri says, "but the increase is caused by the county's bonds for streets and flood control. The county clearly stated these bonds would raise taxes."

The school bond election is scheduled for Tuesday,

March 16, and will be voted on by voters in Clark County. The school district is proposing a $69.5 million bond issue. "The tax rate was 68 cents before this bond issue, and it will be 68 cents after the bond issue passes," says Silvestri. "That is not an increase.

PAL at Fay Galloway Objects to Sixth Grade Transfers

Parents of Fay Galloway Elementary School students do not want their sixth graders attending a junior high school next year, according to some of the parents speaking before the Clark County School Board Feb. 25.

Although no recommendation has been made to the Board by the School District's Planning Commission concerning the transfer of Fay Galloway sixth graders to junior high, a number of parents attending the meeting voiced disapproval over the very consideration.

Barbara Speck of the Clark County School District's Planning Commission said that the commission has considered transferring sixth graders to the new Mahlon Brown Junior High in Henderson, but will not present a final recommendation to the School Board before March 24, and that date is "not definite."

Speck said the Planning Commission would wait to finalize zoning until the $69.5 million school bond was voted on Tuesday.

The final decision for approving or disapproving the Planning Commission's recommendation will come on April 21 by the School Board, Speck explained.

"All parents will receive letters if their child is to be rezoned," Speck said, adding that letters would be sent after the final recommendation is presented to the School Board.

Patty Giles, president of the Parents Action Leadership at Fay Galloway, told the Trustees at their Feb. 25 meeting that sixth graders were not "mentally or physically prepared to go to junior high."

Robert Rollow, also speaking before the board, said "a lot of these kids aren't ready for a lot of things," citing especially that sixth graders "were not ready for the peer pressure that is there (at junior high)."

A fifth grade teacher at Fay Galloway also spoke on behalf of concerned parents and students. Lois Shaver told the Board that with the most recent statistics from the education office, "we can't see more than one more portable needed" if overcrowding was the issue.

"Fay Galloway can very easily handle the sixth grade next year," Shaver said.

Terry Smith, another concerned parent, asked the School Board Trustees why elementary schools had to change from Kindergarten through sixth grade. "Why can't our schools be the way they used to be?" Smith asked.

Original Albertson's Construction Makes Low-Cost Expansion Possible

By John Dailey

The original construction design of Henderson's Albertson's supermarket made a 12,000 square foot expansion project as much as 50 percent cheaper to complete according to new store manager Gary Zimmerman and Sletten Construction superintendent Virgil Clark.

The store was constructed in 1971 and 1972 with concrete 20-ton panels for walls and connected and supported by similar concrete posts. The then Albertson's corporate management decided to try the innovative construction with undetermined plans for store expansion in the distant future. Since then the store remains as the sole example of concrete panel construction, according to Clark, a 40-year, world-wide veteran of the construction industry.

With six new panels constructed to extend present east and west-facing side walls, the old panels are now in the process of being switched from their original location to their new anchorings.

With the moving walls the store will expand to a 34,000 square foot facility. Plans for a hot deli and a donut shop are set along with expansion of the liquor and other departments.

Clark said that about 30 construction trades workers would be involved with the expansion project and added that he could see unlimited possibilities for concrete panel construction in the future. He said initial cost are inexpensive compared to other types of construction and the flexibility and low-cost expansion options concrete panel construction offer make it a desirable alternative for a growing business. He added that the method could be applied to any size building. Zimmerman said the construction began just before the new year and should be completed in time for a new grand opening at the end of May or early June.

$1000.00 AND UP

Vote Yes On School Bond

Considerable confusion concerning the $69.5 million school bond issue may leave some voters Tuesday with a question on how to vote.

We feel that the bond issue has much promise for Henderson. Since this city is one of the fastest growing areas of the county it finds itself in one of the greatest needs for the new schools and for improvements to other existing schools.

Charles Silvestri, acting superintendent of schools, pointed out that the anticipated student population in the next few years will be 100,000 students, 10,000 more than there are now. It is anticipated that the county will need 17 new schools to take care of this growth, 15 elementary schools and two junior high schools.

The schools have a three-phase program they are trying to promote to help the school district get on a "pay-as-you-go" basis. First will be the passage of the bond issue in Tuesday's election; the second will be the use of $6.5 million which will come to the district from the motor vehicle tax, and the third will be to get the legislature to enact legislation which will provide for the pay and go financing. The later type financing would cut down on millions of dollars spent in long-range financing.

What Henderson Will Get

The bond issue provides for two (or three) elementary schools for Henderson. The need for them is here now. For example, the Fay Galloway Elementary school, which got into use three years ago, has six temporary classrooms in use.

Henderson will also receive $43,000 for improvements to the Robert Taylor Elementary school; $127,000 for improvements to Burkholder Junior High school; $50,000 for C. T. Sewell Elementary school improvements; $76,000 for improvements to Basic High school; $2,700 to Galloway; $30,550 to McCaw Elementary school, and of course the Mahlon Brown Junior High school is expected to be in use by next fall. Vocational education will also get a boost in the bond issue.

No Raise In Taxes

Property taxes in the county and Henderson will go up next year but it will not be due to the school bond issue.

The property tax increase is caused by the county's bonds for streets and flood control which were approved by the voters last year. The county at that time clearly stated these bonds would raise taxes.

The tax rate for the schools before the bond issue is 68 cents and it will be 68 cents after the bond issue passes.

If Bond Issue Fails

Should the bond issue fail there are five options the school district would have to consider.

(1) Some schools could be placed on a double (half-day) session schedule, however, most district officials feel this would have a negative effect on students and the instructional program.

(2) Class size could be further increased beyond that caused by the overcrowding already existing in some Clark County schools, including Henderson.

(3) Some special programs would be eliminated such as the reading improvement program and academically talented program.

(4) Increases in student busing could occur. Students from the most overcrowded schools may have to be bussed out of their local neighborhoods to less crowded schools, and the walking distance might have to be increased from two miles to three miles.

(5) Operate the schools on a 12-month basis.

We feel after considering all of the facts that the voters of Henderson should approve the school bond issue on March 16 and urge you to go to the polls and express your opinions.

WASHINGTON - My watch is a wondrous thing. It tells the time and the date and the day of the week. It has a stop-watch, also an alarm to wake me in the morning and it sounds the hour with a beep-beep. It cost something like $19.95, but then it does lose 5 seconds a year.

I bought my watch about three months ago. Up to then I had not paid much attention to watches -- digital or otherwise -- and I assumed, because this is the way it is with most things in life, that the more you paid for a watch, the better the watch you got. This is no longer the case.

The plain fact is that a watch that costs $20 will keep time as well as -- or better than -- a watch that costs $1,500. For this reason, it makes no sense to buy the Piaget Polo at $11,900 or the Longine Conquest at $595 or the Girard Perregaux Sea Hawk III at $2,750 for him or $2,450 for her -- all watches advertised recently in the newspaper.

Obviously, these are very expensive watches and the people who wear them are trying to tell you that. But even more moderately priced watches also have become statements about affluence since they, too, will not keep time any better (or even as well as) my $19.95 cheapie. In fact, wristwatches have now become articles of conspicuous consumption. More than almost any other item you can think of, except for plain old jewelry, the watch has become a way to show off wealth.

It will be interesting to see what will happen to the watch industry once it is generally understood that paying more for a watch gets you nothing more than a bigger bill. Will it mean that the manufacturers of expensive watches go out of business? Will it mean that everyone takes to wearing cheapies on the wrists -- or, just for variety, the somewhat more expensive models with built-in calculators.

Richard Cohen

The answer, probably, is no. Americans, not to mention Europeans, have already shown a terrific talent to rise above technological innovations that have made things both cheaper and better. As Alison Lurie points out in her book, "The Language of Clothes," conspicuous consumers faced a real crisis a while back when synthetic materials and new technology made it possible to manufacture cheap replicas of expensive clothes. It became hard to tell who was wearing what -- what was wool and what was not and what was expensive and what was cheap.

This predicament, Lurie writes, was solved when the label was moved from the inside of the garment where it could not be seen, to the outside, where it could. It was not enough to have an expensive Gucci handbag if no one knew it was a Gucci and, ergo, expensive. So the Gucci monogram was put on the bag. Similarly, manufacturers put their monograms or little animals (alligators, polo ponies, hedgehogs) on their goods, alerting everyone to the probable cost.

This insanity has even changed the concept of a bargain. Where once a bargain was getting something for less than it was worth, now it is getting something for less that should have been cheap in the first place. For instance, people in New York go down to the Lower East Side to buy clothes with designer labels for less -- sometimes much less -- than they would pay uptown. They could, of course, have the same item or even a better item for less if they were willing to do without the label. You think Gloria Vanderbilt makes better jeans than Sears?

The same thing probably is going to happen to watches. What's the good of having a Rolex that is not going to keep time any better than a $19 cheapie? The apparent answer is that the name means it cost a lot.

The upshot is that the watch has become a way to make a statement. An expensive watch used to mean that you had money -- maybe a lot of money, maybe not, but at least enough to buy a good timepiece. What it means now, though, is only that you are willing to spend a lot to make people think you have a lot. For this, though, there is nothing like a really cheap watch. People know you can afford better, but not how much more. These watches are more subtle.

Also they go beep-beep in the night.

Who Knows?

What's Watt Up To On Wilderness?

Has Interior Secretary James Watt discovered the wilderness religion?

Or is he concocting some subtle scheme to wipe out wilderness regions forever?

Is he seeking a compromise on the mining and drilling of public lands, or is he involved in the "duplicious hoax" suspected by the Wilderness Society?

Your guess is as good as ours -- and that is not nearly good enough.

For the past 13 months, Interior Department policies have been a muddle. Offshore drilling is just one good example. At various times the policy appears to have been to drill everywhere as soon as possible, then to drill only in selected areas over a matter of years; to ignore the scenic value of such places as the Mendocino coast, and then to take it into account. To lease or not to lease? That is the question that refuses to be answered.

And now with the wilderness lands comes the same sleight of foot. Once Watt appeared determined to permit drilling and mining in every section of the country. Then, like Jupiter tossing a lightning bolt from Olympus, Watt announced on national TV that he wants a moratorium on wilderness drilling and mining until 2003. But when the stunned nation struggled groggily to its feet, we heard the Wilderness Society claim it had a leaked copy of an Interior proposal to totally eliminate wilderness areas after 2003.

An Interior spokesman says the society, at best, has seen only an early draft. But the "early draft" is one of the main dodges of government. The dodge works this way: Everything in the innards of government is a draft and therefore not subject to investigation or criticism or speculation -- until we find ourselves up to our necks in legal cement.

We do not know if the Wilderness Society has an actual draft, or if the paper represents current thinking of Interior. But, on the other hand, we are not at all clear about what Watt is proposing, either.

If Watt has any intention to eliminate wilderness areas, the nation should oppose and defeat him. There is room for wilderness areas in this country -- there must be room. Something of the great natural heritage has to be preserved.

It is also true, however, that our needs for minerals and oil are great, and we cannot afford to be held hostage by other nations through a failure to seek and utilize our own resources. Nevertheless, reasonable compromises can be made. We cannot afford to declare all public lands off limits to miners and oilmen, but neither can we eliminate the wilderness preservation concept.

Basically, what we ask of Interior is this: First, make your intentions plain, so the nation can discuss them intelligently. Then, develop a consistent policy.

The continual shifting of the past 13 months must end. Government by incessant trial balloon, without decision, is useless and harmful.

Naughty, Naughty, IRS

Line 26 Interest Penalty on Early Withdrawal of Savings
The Form 1099-INT or 1099-ASC given to you by your bank or savings and loan association will show the amount of any interest penalty you were charged because you withdrew funds from your time savings deposit before its maturity. Enter this amount on line 26. (Be sure to include the interest income on Form 1040, line 8a.)

The little guy gets steam-rolled by the IRS again. Line 26 on page 11 of the tax instruction pamphlet permits deduction from total income of the interest penalty on early close - outs of time - savings deposits. This takes in certificates of deposit, small - savers certificates, T-Bill deposits, etc. These notes come in amounts of $1,000.00 and higher and are limited to the domain of those who are financially well-heeled.

All well and good. Penalties for early withdrawals should be subtracted from interest earned ... But where does that leave the huge majority of tax - payers who can only afford ordinary pass - book savings accounts?

What about their losses when they make early withdrawals?

The interest on pass - book accounts is credited quarterly on the last days of Dec., March, June and Sept., and is duly noted on quarterly statements. If one takes out money during the 91 days between quarters, then some of the interest is lost on that amount. Call it early withdrawal. It bears every resemblance to the early cash - in of time certificates.

For those who may be interested in knowing how to calculate such pass - book interest losses, here is one simple way to do it. A pocket calculator will help.

1. Let's assume a 6% annual pass - book rate of interest. In one year every dollar on deposit will earn $0.06

2. Dividing $0.06 by 365 gives us $0.0001643 which equals the one day earnings on each dollar.

3. EXAMPLE: If you withdraw $100.00 after 30 days of any quarter has elapsed, then multiply 100 by 30 by .0001643 and you come up with .49 or forty - nine cents which is the interest lost on that one transaction. Take out $100.00 after 60 days and you suffer a $0.99 loss. Withdraw the same on the day before interest is credited and you're out $1.48. (Allow about 1% error).

4. For other withdrawals, substitute the dollar amount in place of the 100, and the number of days elapsed in place of the 30 in the above example. Also use your own interest rate in place of the 6% shown in step one.

Depending on one's financial life style, these losses can really add up. And keep in mind that the bank may have been earning some taxable income on this money before it was extracted.

Pass - book holders are also charged a fee for withdrawals in excess of a certain minimum number within a quarter. This should also be a deductible.

If this line 26 rule is ever changed to take this into account, then everyone will benefit.

MY FEE: LEAVE IT UP TO YOU AND YOUR UN-QUESTIONED HONESTY.

Tax Plan Criticism Hits Boiling Point In Nevada

Things don't seem to be going to well for the grandiose tax plan adopted last year by the Nevada Legislature.

Criticism has been percolating in various parts of the state since the plan was enacted late last spring; and as more people are gaining a greater awareness of the details of the new tax program and the complaints are bubbling ever more briskly. Evidence that the disappointment with what has been described as the "tax shaft program" is nearing a rolling boil came this week when members of the state board of tax equalization publicly declared that members of the legislature had thrown the concept of equalization out the window as the solons shuffled the state's various tax levies.

There is a good reason why the loudly touted tax plan is encountering a growing attitude of disappointment. The reason is that members of the legislature and Gov. Bob List cooked up a complicated tax shuffle when the people were asking for a general reduction in taxes. The complex tax scheme implemented at the 1981 session of the legislature was orchestrated to head off final adoption by the voters of Question 6, advanced as an initiative petition to reduce taxes in Nevada by amending the state constitution.

The political maneuver was successful to the extent that it accomplished its primary motive, which was to cause defeat of the constitutional amendment aimed at tax reduction. But it was doomed to failure as legitimate tax reform because it was designed from the start to bamboozle the taxpayers rather than to give them genuine relief. There was never any intention on the part of advocates of the plan to reduce taxes, they intended instead to confuse voters and taxpayers with their fancy shuffling as they shifted things about with the ultimate aim of keeping taxes and government spending on an escalating scale.

Thus it was entirely predictable that taxpayers would be disappointed to learn that their overall tax burden was to continue escalating under the razzle - dazzle new tax program although that outcome has been moderated by the failure of the tax shufflers to anticipate a decline in the growth of sales tax revenues. This unexpected turn has resulted in some unintended relief for the taxpayers and great cries of anguish from the tax eaters, who had been promised they would not be expected to curtail their ever - growing appetite for spending other people's money.

Members of the state board of tax equalization are exactly correct in their charge that the concept of tax equalization has been abandoned in Nevada; and there are other serious shortcomings in the present tax program. Among these is an insidious transfer of authority from city and county levels to the state level. This centralization of authority for decision making in Carson City could be the most damaging aspect of the tax program as it now exists. County commissioners and city councilmen are cast in the role of mere functionaries, expected to do what state agents tell them, when state agents tell them and how state agents tell them. We believe the people of Nevada would be better served by elected officials at city and county levels who are responsible to their constituents rather than to state bureaucrats.

We see many shortcomings in the 1981 tax plan, and we hope the people of Nevada recognize the need to elect representatives to the 1983 session of the legislature who will be committed to adopting genuine tax relief, which necessarily would be coupled with reduced government spending, and who will correct the errors inherent in the program which was intended to sustain escalating taxes, centralize authority in Carson City and confuse the electorate.

Hand-Wringers All

"Hand - wringers" and "sob sisters" is the way President Reagan describes the critics of his budget.

But if Republicans in Congress are wringing their hands - and they are - it is for good reason. The White House is asking them to approve a budget that promises years of continued high federal deficits, the same kind of deficits that they have campaigned so hard against in the past.

The figures in the White House budget submitted last month were frightening enough to congressional Republicans.

The Reagan plan projects four years of deficits larger in dollar amounts than any in the history of the republic. As a percentage of gross national product, the deficits for this fiscal year and the next will rank as the second and fifth largest of the postwar era.

But as the Congressional Budget Office revealed last week in its analysis of the budget, the news is even worse. The CBO, whose budget projections have historically been more accurate than those of either Democratic or Republican administrations, estimated that the White House budget would yield deficits of $121 billion, $129 billion and $140 billion in the next three fiscal years, even if Congress agreed to all of the cuts in domestic spending the president has proposed.

And there is little chance that will happen.

Yesterday, Republicans on the House Education and Labor Committee balked at the deep cuts in education programs for the handicapped and needy requested by the White House.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, the Oregon Republican who chairs the Senate Appropriation Committee, said there is "no chance" the Republican Senate will go along with the president's domestic spending cuts.

A preliminary survey of Senate committees indicates a desire to spend on domestic programs $10 billion more than Reagan has proposed.

As long as the president refuses to reconsider his budget, the task of redrawing it falls to the Congress.

Some of the alternatives presented by members of the Senate, including the proposals of Sen. Pete V. Dominici, R-N.M., and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-SC., to defer increases in military spending and cost-of-living adjustments for welfare programs and Social Security, deserve close scrutiny. So do proposals to increase shrunken federal revenues through taxes on imported oil and by closing income tax loopholes.

But in these perilous economic times, it is essential that the budget deficit be addressed rationally, in a bipartisan compromise, not by collision between the White House and Congress.

For until the economy shows signs of recovery, all Americans will be hand-wringers.

President Revokes Toxicant Ban

President Reagan has revoked a 1972 Executive Order which prohibited the use of most toxicants for predator control on public land, according to the Wildlife Management Institute. The original EO outlawed all poisons, but it was amended to permit the restricted use of cyanide devices (M-44) after the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) registered the device for use.

EPA is required to review all toxic substances that anyone wants to use for predator control. The agency can OK, restrict or prohibit such use. The only predicide registered for use other than the M-44 by EPA is carbon monoxide fumigant (November 1981) which is effective in killing coyotes in their dens.

The immediate effect of the President's action is to permit the use of the carbon monoxide cartridge on federal lands by U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) professionals. FWS director Robert A. Jantzen reports that Service policy will limit use of the cartridge to areas where depredation occurs.

In a related action, EPA is gathering evidence to decide whether to permit the use of Compound 1080 as a predicide. That chemical was banned by EPA several years ago because it is highly toxic, had been misused and had killed a lot of nontarget wildlife. Whether the President's revoking the ban on toxicant use on public lands is good or bad depends on if, and to what extent, EPA allows 1080 or some similar chemical to be used.

Experts believe that 1080 could be a safe and efficient predicide if its use is restricted to proven methods and applied by trained professionals in FWS. Should, however, EPA release the chemical for broader use by untrained people, the results could be disastrous to nontarget wildlife in many areas of the West that have coyote depredation problems. Conservationists are urging EPA to put such restrictions on the use of 1080, if it is permitted to be used at all.

BLM Advisory Council Stacked:

Any advice that the Bureau of Land Management may get from its National Public Lands Advisory Council likely will be slanted in favor of development interests, the Wildlife Management Institute reports. None of the new 21-member council represents fish and wildlife management concerns.

The Council gives advice and counsel on policies and procedures governing management of more than 328 million acres of BLM land. It reports to Interior Secretary James Watt through BLM Director Robert F. Burford.

The public land interests with members on the new Council include: mining 2; ranching 5; lawyers 2; construction 1; logging 1; real estate 2; newspaper 1; county official 1; animal, dairy and veterinary science 1; Alaska Resource Development Council 1; oil and gas 3; and Outdoors Unlimited 1.

The Council's charter states that BLM's authority to have and use the Council is the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976. That statute requires that BLM lands be managed for multiple - use purposes. Legislative history on that law also shows that Congress intended that membership on advisory boards and committees would be "representative of a cross section of groups interested in the use and management of the national resource lands." That intent appears to have been violated in the appointment of the current Council.

WHILE WALKING ALONE ONE DAY

I went walking alone one day
Just to see what I could see
Stopped to watch two awkward colts at play
Ant they were just as curious over me
I lingered to watch and wonder
Then went further on my way
To watch a swarm of ants with their plunder
Then moved on as the silence was broken by the screech of a jay.

I went walking alone one day
Just to hear what I could hear
And heard the wail of a kitten gone astray
And heard, too, mama's reassuring answer loud and clear

I paused then, to listen to a coaxing Bluebird
Leading, guiding an over anxious off-spring
The swish-whirr of her beating wings I heard
As I bent to hear the gurgling brooklet sing.

I went walking alone one day
Just to think and look and ponder
And wondered at life and it's way
And decided that to understand, I must live a little longer

An infinitely broader sight must I have to see all
Far better to live and let live in God's own way
To labor for my own rise or fall
All of this as I went walking alone one day

(J. Bennett)

Well, I didn't see many of those things while walking early Monday morning by the Elks Club on Lake Mead Drive, but I did see an "airplane" take off right over my head. It was a one-man plane with bright orange and brown wings - looked much like a glider with a motor. The pilot and plane disappeared over Henderson but in about a half hour he landed in old Carver Park area and taxied to the Elks Lodge building again. What a wonderful way to start the week. I'll bet he felt good after that flight.

Henderson Community Church United Church of Christ

Reverend Robert W. Richards, Minister

(A Nationwide Brotherhood)

SECURITY AND GROWTH

The members began to feel a sense of security again with the arrival of Rev. George Patterson and his family.

Rev. Patterson had come directly from an Indian Mission in Arizona, and he soon made us very aware of their needs. For many years the Mission remained our top priority for our home mission funding.

Both of the Pattersons were active in reaching out into the community. He led church members in active participation against liquor and gambling, but since the government no longer had ties on the community, it was a losing battle.

He was given use of KENO radio station (then in Henderson) to present Sunday School lessons, and the following year KRAM allowed him usage to air Lenten Services and to moderate programs under the title of "The Family Lived Today".

Mrs. Barbara Patterson organized neighborhood groups of women, with the women of the church as key workers. Interest grew in these groups, and they soon became church circles: Abigail, Dorcas, Elizabeth, Esther, Mary Magdelene, and Lydia (an evening circle for the working women). Four of these circles remained active for at least twenty years, others disbanded only to be replaced by new ones.

She reorganized the PTA and chartered a chapter of the American Association of University Women, and was popular as a speaker with her expression and keen analysis of current events. (Next week: Joint Services - New Organ)

50 Apply For Convention Center Manager

Approximately 50 applications for the position of convention center director for the $1 million Henderson convention center now under construction, will be studied by a blue-ribbon citizen committee today.

City Manager Bob Anselmo said that at least 15 or 17 of the applications come from well qualified people, some of them women.

"We hope to have a person on board by mid-April," An-selmo said, "because the convention center is expected to be completed by the latter part of April and occupancy could take place in May. "The contractor, Post Construction Co., is right on schedule with the building," Anselmo said.

The new convention center is located at the corner of Water and Atlantic Streets and makes an impressive addition to the civic center area of the city. Anselmo said the city has already received inquiries about the use of the building and he feels it is important to get a qualified director on board as soon as possible to start promoting the use of the building. The city council had appropriated money in advance for the operation of the convention center.

Those on the committee are Father Caesar Caviglia, chairman, and Selma Bartlett, Bob Swadell and Jess Bachman.

GRADING AT ANIMAL HAVEN—Kay Nielson of Henderson, who has been doing the grading at Sky Harbor Airport, switched his blade to Betty Honn's Animal Shelter last week and cleaned off the land for her expected buildings.

Jews for Jesus Missionary to Speak

Is it possible to be Jewish and believe that Jesus is the Messiah? Many Jews don't think so, but Efraim Goldstein, one of the senior missionaries with Jews for Jesus, says he is both a Jew and a Christian. To hear why, the public is invited to Faith Baptist Church, 421 S. Pacific on March 23 at 7 p.m.

Goldstein has been a believer in Jesus since October of 1970. He received his undergraduate training at Florida International University and his training for the ministry at Talbot Theological Seminary in La Mirada, California and at Capitol Bible Seminary in Washington, D.C. Mr. Goldstein is fluent in Hebrew, having lived and studied in served with Jews for Jesus in many capacities since joining the Jews for Jesus staff: first as a worker in Los Angeles, then leading an outpost in the Washington, D.C. - Baltimore area. From May 1980, to December 1981, he led the New Jerusalem Players, a mobile evangelistic team of the organization which uses drama as a means of spreading their message of "the Messiah" of Jesus. During this time the team traveled across the U.S. and Canada, presenting their drama on college campuses, in retirement homes and in a number of different churches around the United States.

In December of 1981, Goldstein was put in charge of the San Fran-

Efraim Goldstein

Jerusalem, Israel for two years. His interest in Bible history and archaeology brought him there, and upon returning to the United States, he joined the staff of Jews for Jesus.

Jews for Jesus, under the leadership of Moishe Rosen, has grown to be the largest mission organization of its kind in the United States. Incorporated under Heineni Ministries, Inc. in 1973, they have established branch offices in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, and Toronto, in addition to their headquarters in the San Francisco Bay area. Their original staff of eight has expanded to include over 100 full-time field workers.

Efraim Goldstein has cisco Bay Area branch of Jews for Jesus. Says Goldstein, "So much by way of new ideas seems to germinate in the Bay area. Yet, what we have to say is a very old concept. For almost 2,000 years Jews have been believing in Jesus. We are eager to reclaim and restore Jesus to His rightful place among our Jewish people." He resides in San Francisco with his wife Jeannie, also a Jewish believer in Jesus.

Goldstein welcomes Jewish people who want to know more to come to his presentation on March 23, 1982, 7 p.m. He will be available to answer questions at the close of the service.

Basic Track Hopes to Sprint by Mental Barriers

By John Dailey

Since men's track coach Larry Burgess and women's track coach Kermit Bayless came to Basic the Wolves' track program has been improving steadily.

This season may be the year when Basic's men establish the school as a competitive track power and when the Lady Wolves break through the mental barriers to become a future force in women's track.

For the men, four-year coach Burgess welcomes back a group of lettermen that have their strongest showings in the sprints and sprint relays.

Brothers Jeff and Rich Newton and Robert Hines lead a fast and well-balanced sprinting squad. Although the Newton brothers were one of the zone's top cross-country duos they have always made track their first sport and the sprints their top events. "They're such talented kids, they could probably run anything. When they came out for cross country they immediately became the team's best runners and did very well in zone," Burgess said. "But track has always been their first sport."

Senior Robert Hines might be the team's fastest man. Currently hampered by a leg injury, Hines said he would be ready for the second meet of the season scheduled for Tuesday. As a junior Hines ran a 9.9 100, second only to Western's Mike Dexter, last year's zone and state champ in the event. Hines failed to make zone because of injuries.

Other top sprinters include senior Donny Ivy, junior Warner Heath and sophomores Scotty Derrick and Randy Venerable. From these athletes Burgess hopes to force one of the zone's top relay teams and keep the relay team good with sprinters competing for a place among the fast four.

Junior Richie Newton and Russell Herman will be the team's leading hurdlers with Newton competing in both the high and the intermediate and Herman concentrating on the high hurdles. Junior Paul Saunders and freshmen, John Thayer and Alex Cotton will also compete in the intermediate hurdles.

Basic sprinters split up the responsibility in the jumping events with sophomore Scotty Derrick being the most impressive leaper thus far. Derrick has already set ninth and tenth grade school records with a 39'9" triple jump. He also will be competitive in the high jump according to Burgess.

Richie Newton also high jumps and other sprinters Jeff Newton, Hines and Venerable will compete in the long jump. Joining the sprinters in the jumping events will be junior Pat McComb, Clay Cook, Greg Holmen, Rodney Ford and Nick Hoakley.

In the distance events Burgess has transferred most of his cross-country runners to the track team to compete in the shorter distance events.

Cross-country veteran Lance Lompfrey and junior Jerry Goodman are the elder members of the distance squad. Freshmen David Hall and Chris Tuma along with Jimmy Miller should also add strength for Basic in the distance running.

In the field throwing event sprinter Warner Heath leads the Wolves in discus and the shotput. Heath has thrown the discus as far as 150 feet in practice but usually throws in the 130-140 foot range. Senior Mitch Steinberg and Johnnie Albert join Heath on the weight men's squad.

As far as zone competition is concerned Burgess feels this might be the year Basic could emerge from the middle of the pack and place as high as fourth on a team basis. As individuals go Burgess said the sprinters, Hines, the Newton brothers, Ivy, Venerable and Derrick have the best chance to do well. Heath also offers a unique combination of strength and speed and should do well in both areas according to Burgess.

On the women's side coach Kermit Bayless wants the Basic women to realize they can beat the Las Vegas schools if they only decide that they can.

"They think that because they're from Basic they can't win," Bayless said. "And the kids from the other schools try that much harder because they don't want to lose to 'Basic'."

A sibling pair also leads the women runners as sisters Irma and Mercy Hernandez returns from last year's team.

Senior Irma Hernandez has lettered every season she has competed on the cinders and last year placed third in zone in the 880 and eighth in state. Sister Mercy Hernandez also placed in zone last year taking fourth in the 440.

Sophomore Uvette Gonzague and Yolanda Thomas are also returning letters with zone experience. Gonzague will anchor the women's distance running and Thomas will lead in the short sprints and the intermediate hurdles.

Newcomers Debra Turner and Tracy Golaszewski should also add to the team's strength. Turner will help out in the sprints and the six-foot Golaszewski will be competitive in the high jump.

The tracksters begin their season Friday competing against Western, Valley and Bonanza. The men will run their meet at Valley's meter track while the women will meet cross-town at Bonanza. Both meets start at 3 p.m.

Jeff Newton (foreground) and Rich Newton (background) sprint toward the finish line in a Tuesday afternoon practice.

Potter Blazes at Black Mountain with 34 Basic Beats Bonanza

Basic senior golfer Casey Potter shot the zone's lowest score in the young 1982 season with a two-under-par 34 on Black Mountain Golf Course Tuesday afternoon and led the Wolves to their third straight victory, beating Bonanza 193-208.

The Wolves team score of 193 was the second lowest tallied this season. In the season's opening day Western scored 192 to beat Chaparral.

Western and Basic remain the only two undefeated teams in the southern zone at 3-0. One of the two best teams in southern Nevada may be precluded from the state tournament. Only division champions travel to state as a team and both the Warriors and the Wolves are in the Sunrise Division.

Completing the final cut for the Wolves Tuesday were senior Ray Cummins with his third straight 39, sophomore Greg Smith and senior Chris Baker shot personal top season scores of 39 and 40, respectively and sophomore Mark Yelenich carded a 41.

Today Basic golfers travel to Tropicana Country Club to play Valley. The Vikings lost by one stroke to previously winless Eldorado Tuesday but have shot as low as a team score of 208 this season.

Bowlers Strike Down Lung Disease

Bowlers at Henderson Bowl in the Southern Nevada Junior Bowling Association and in the Lyle Burkeholder Junior High School bowling league are doing their best to fight lung disease in Southern Nevada.

They're all bowling in the American Lung Association of Nevada (ALAN) Bowl-A-Thon. Each bowler is eligible for the grand prize of a new bowling ball and bag sponsored by Henderson Bowl. The event is being held with the help of Henderson Bowl proprietor Nick Musolino. Various other trophies will be given for the most sponsors and the best scores in each division.

Honorary chairman, Don Johnson, will be on hand at the awards banquet to be held in May at Victoria's Restaurant & Night Club. Other bowling centers participating include College Park Bowl, Nellis 300 lanes, and Charleston Heights Bowl.

FROM CURTIS'S CORNER

BY JOEY CURTIS

Forget all that talk about the Holmes-Cooney fight being delayed one more week to the 18th of June because of difficulty getting satellite space for the foreign telecasts. The fight will be on June 11. That is, unless Gerry Cooney comes down with yet another mystery ailment. With Don King on one side, Caesars Palace (fight site) on the other, and their payday of $10,000,000 in the middle, it seems like Cooney's managers, Mike Jones and Dennis Rappaport, are finally getting some smarts when it comes to this fight.

Speaking of Holmes-Cooney on the 11th of June, has anyone really thought about how hot it could be that late afternoon-early evening. It's not unusual for daytime temperatures to reach 115 degrees. Add to that the fact that the location of the arena is smack in the middle of an asphalt parking lot, and it could be very, very warm in the ring the 11th. As for Holmes-Cooney, the bout will be held in the early evening, but with all those highpowered television lights around, it could be even hotter. Maybe Larry and Gerry should start training in a sauna!

Back to King again. It seems like he and Bob Arun are bringing a lot of shows into Atlantic City, particularly in March when the town has 12 -- count them -- twelve important fight cards scheduled.

Just a sample of King's fights includes Aaron Pryor defending his WBA junior welterweight championship against Miguel Montilla on the 21st. Underneath that will be former WBA light Heavyweight king, Eddie Mustafa Muhammad against James Williams, Renaldo Snipes against Scott Frank, and George Champlin against Lynn Ball.

The day before on the 20th, also at the Playboy Club, will be Michael Dokes against Franco Thomas. The undercard here is Larry Frazier against Jumbo Cummings, and Robby Epps against Teddy Mann. And finally at Playboy on the 27th it'll be Wilfredo Gomez defending his WBC super bantamweight crown against Juan "Kid" Mesa.

All of which makes one wonder what happened to Leroy Haley's title shot against WBC junior welter weight champ Saul Mamby? Well, the Las Vegas favorite should fight sometime in mid-April.

Closer to home the Sands has its first pro fight card ever in Las Vegas on Saturday the 13th of March, and it promises to be a good one with James "Quick" Tillis against Dino Denis. Also on that card will be undefeated Young Joe Louis. The bout at the Sands is an evening affair.

Meanwhile the Showboat is getting ready to present former WBA heavyweight champion John Tate against Las Vegas' favorite Leroy Caldwell on Thursday the 25th. That card will start later than usual. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. and the first fight doesn't go off until 7 p.m. Ticket prices are only $15 and $10.

I must congratulate Ash Resnick for bringing boxing back to the Aladdin. He had a good crowd in the Theatre for Thomas Hearn-Marcos Geraldo, and it looks like enough people showed to keep the Aladdin in the boxing business. Next up is WBC lightweight champion Alexis Arguello against Andrew Ganigan on April 3. It's getting bigger and better all the time. Ash!

Last week I talked about a "Special Report" concerning Bruce Finch's bid for Sugar Ray Leonard's world welterweight crown. It focuses on Tony Trudnich, for without him Finch never would have gotten the shot and the payday or probably, even world ranked.

It started when "Mr. T" was going to book NABF welterweight champ Pepe Dominguez against Zeffie Gonzalez on his February, 1981, card at the Showboat. But Pepe suffered a muscle pull, and Finch went against Zeffie in a title-elimination bout, the winner to meet Pepe. Well, TKO in the 10th scored by Finch, so in June he takes on Pepe for the title and wins by another TKO 10.

So, through three fights with Trudnich, Finch had won a championship and earned a world ranking which qualified him to fight Leonard. Without "Mr. T's" willingness to take a chance on Bruce in the title-elimination bout and then in the actual title fight Bruce would have been a club fighter all his life.

Sometimes it pays to look past what is known and learn about the men behind the scenes. Tony Trudnich certainly is one to Bruce Finch.

Backlash

By Bob Glassburn

In last week's column I wrote how great bass fishing was and how excited I was about it. I hurried my column, left out many items concerning other species of fish, ran down to the newspaper office. Dropped off the hastily hand written article sped back to the store breaking all speeding laws, hooked up my boat threw rods, tackle boxes and other gear all over the boat. Excitement still running high took off for Callville Bay.

Dolph Bowman, my fishing partner for the day was wild with anticipation. Neither of us had as yet caught a single largemouth bass in 1982. There was no question we would slaughter them today. Wasn't it true a group of amateur fishermen from Nellis Air Force Base had caught over 100 bass only a few days before? We knew for certain these Jet Jockeys normally couldn't hook a fish in a bath tub. As great as bass fishermen as Dolph and I are we would without question land at least 200 bass.

Reaching Callville Bay in record time we launched the boat and run over to the general store to obtain a fishing license. While writing our licenses Barbara the store clerk inquired if we would like to know where to catch some fish. With sly smiles and a little snicker we politely answered no. Undoub-

As a footnote to this story the Jet Jockeys again this week caught over 50 bass, Gary Wright and Debbie Macon caught 30 in Iceberg Canyon. Master guide Al Cieri hooked and landed 25 bass on Lake Mohave including a 9 lber. which is in the Freezer at the store and which he daily takes out to show me. He doesn't say anything he just walks around the store with it under his arm. I haven't seen my exfriend Dolph Bowman for a week but I hear he's found another partner to fish with and is doing well. As for me, guess I'll stick to writing about fishing. tedly she did not know who we were. Finally we were on our way, wide open we sped to Boulder Canyon pulled into a great bass cove shut off the big engine and put down the electric trolling motor. We began casting boogie tail plastic worms to the walls expecting each cast to produce a strike.

After 30 or 40 minutes we figured we had simply started in the wrong place. We took off at high speed for the little gyps then the big gyps then the haystacks. After six hours of hard fishing we were barely speaking to each other. Running back to Callville we put the boat on the trailer and headed for the store not speaking at all. Pulling up in front of the store we noticed at least eight other fishermen and friends waiting for us to show them our 200 bass.

HWBA Annual Meeting & Tournament Awards

The Henderson Women's Bowling Association will hold their Annual Meeting in the Eldorado Casino meeting room (Balboa-Aztec) at 7:30 on March 30, 1982. Trophies won in the city tournament will be presented to the first place winners. Officers up for election are the presidency and sgt.-arms. All women bowlers should attend and have a voice in the future activities of your local association. With the WIBC Tournament in Las Vegas next year there are some exciting plans to be made. Bring your whole team and share your ideas to help our association grow.

Big Battlers at Sands, Locals On Undercard

A pair of world - ranked big men -- heavyweight James "Quick" Tillis and No. 1 cruiserweight Young Joe Louis -- are the featured attractions in a double main event card on Saturday, March 13, that ushers in the Sands Hotel & Casino to professional boxing in Las Vegas. Tillis meets John "Dino"

Denis while Louis faces Dale Grant in a pair of 10-round co-main events. A third 10 - rounder features local heavyweight favorites Anthony Davis and Jeff Podgurski.

Two other bouts will be on the card which is promoted by the Sands in association with Bob Arum's Top Rank, Inc.

The card, which will be held in the Sands Convention Area, will be an evening affair and telecast live nationally in prime time over an independent network. The Las Vegas area will be blacked out.

Tillis, ranked No. 4 by the World Boxing Association, has a 20-1 record with 16 knockouts. The Chicago's slugger's last fight was at home on Oct. 3 when he dropped a 15-round decision to WBA heavyweight champion Vike Weaver in a title bout. His only other fight in 1981 was on March 9 when he decided Tom "Roughhouse" Fischer.

Denis, who fights out of Boston, has a fine 42-3-1 record with 19 knockouts since turning pro almost 10 years ago. His biggest win is a 10-round decision over Scott LeDoux. His losses are no disgrace; they've come against some of the best in the sport, including former world heavyweight champion George Foreman and the current No. 1 heavyweight contender Gerry Cooney.

Denis has won seven straight dating back to 1979. His latest win was on Dec. 23 when he stopped Arab Green in the first.

Louis also has impressive credentials. He's undefeated with a 23-0 record with 15 knockouts and is ranked No. 1 by the WBA and No. 2 by the World Boxing Council. The Chicago fighter used his real name, Eddie Taylor, at the start of his pro career.

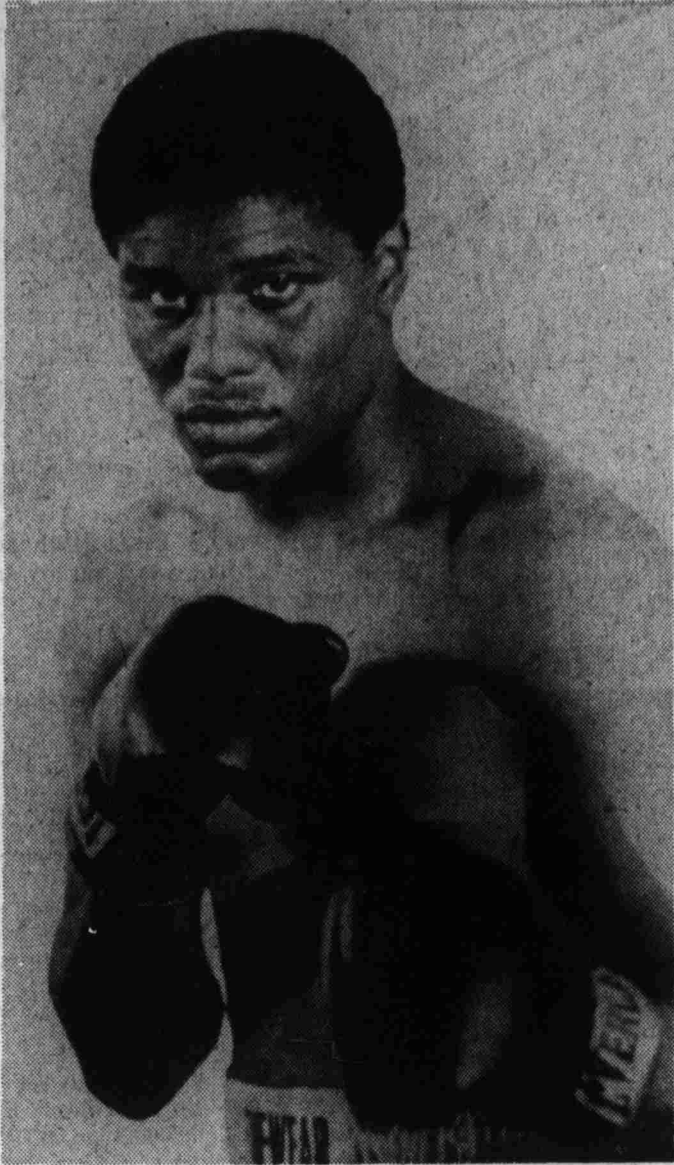

Louis has stopped his last two opponents, Joe Garcia in the third on Oct. 22 in Las Vegas and Lee Royster in the eighth on Dec. 2 in Atlantic City.

Grant, fighting out of Portland, Ore., has a 19-8-1 record with 11 knockouts. Included in that record is a 10-round draw with Marvin Camel, the former WBC cruiserweight champion.

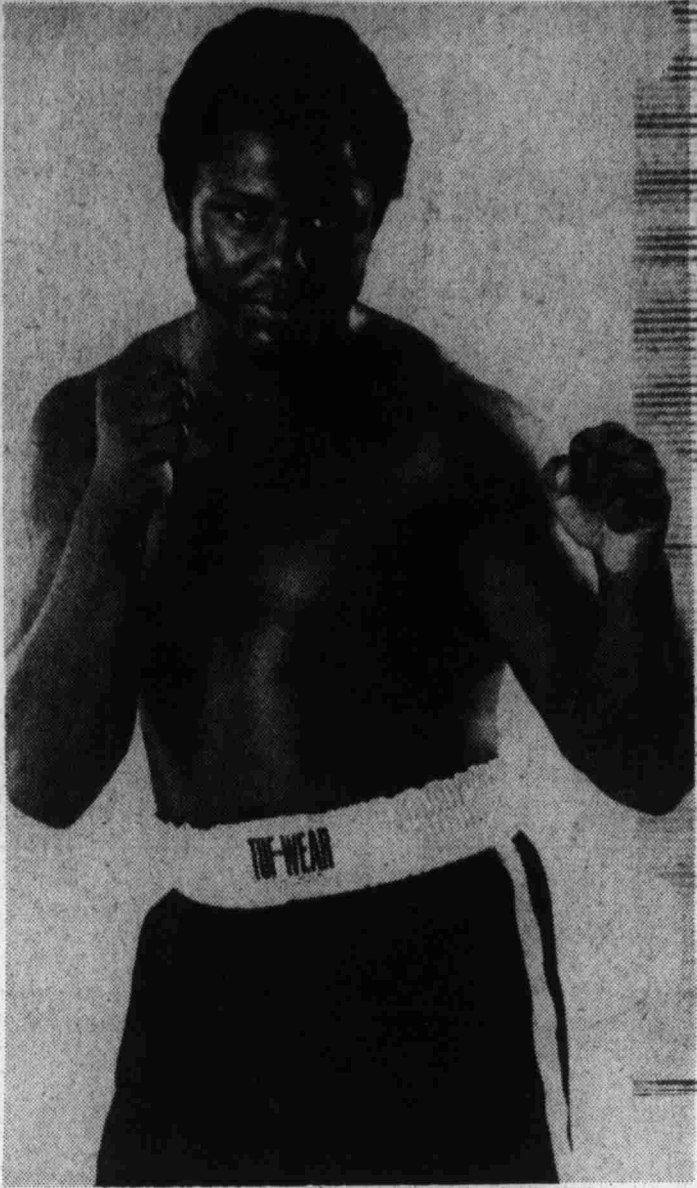

Both Las Vegas fighters enter with fine records. Davis is 13-1 with 13 straight wins while Podgurski is 11-2-1 with nine knockouts. Davis' most recent win was in December when he took a 10-round decision over highly touted John "The White Tornado" Ellis. Podgurski has scored knockouts in his last two outings, dispatching both Leonard Santana and then Zack Ferguson in the second round.

Preliminary action includes two six-rounders: Las Vegas Gilbert Maldonado in his pro debut against Rigoberto Lopez of Hawthorne, Calif., in a junior middleweight battle and Las Vegas' Bobby Rizzo, 0-0-1, against local Juan Carlos Barbosa in a junior lightweight clash.

The money these bowlers raise will be utilized in the many public health service programs that your local Lung Association offers in Southern Nevada. Among the programs is a summer camp for asthmatic children (a lung problem over 2,000,000 children under the age of 17 are afflicted with) called Camp Wheez. This medically supervised camp will help children to learn their capabilities when undergoing different types of physical exertion, such as swimming. For more information, call 454-2500.

Methodist Church
Continues Lenten
Studies

United Methodists have faith in the scripture when it says that God made us in His own image. What does the Bible mean when it makes this statement? The Bible would lose most of its glory if in life man has no special value. God's redemptive love in Jesus Christ would mean nothing if man were considered worthless. Where is the victory of the empty tomb if man is only a passing entity?

But if our Christian doctrine that God made us after his own likeness is lifted up, then we Methodists can speak of every man as one "for whom Christ died" (I Corinthians 8:11) We can then look at our great belief about man in the light of our modern setting as well as scripture.

First, this is where Methodists stop thinking about man's body and start showing concern for his soul. Our body is physical. But our soul is spiritual. Regardless of what some people believe, man is a living spirit. The Bible teaches us that God is the infinite Spirit. He created man after His likeness in that God made man a spiritual being. A congregation or assembly of people is also a group of visible spirits. They have bodies, but their real selves, their souls are spirits. So man is a creature of dignity because God made him a living spirit. Methodists take the position that man was given the power of growing and living with God's help, utilizing the very qualities which belong to God Himself. God is the ultimate Spirit. Man is the finite spirit. God is infinite goodness. Man shares in that goodness. God is absolute beauty. Man longs for beauty in his life. God is Holiness. Man is made for holy living. Of such qualities is woven the fabric of Christian life.

Henderson United Methodists will continue their Lenten studies of Jesus and His Galilean ministry this Sunday. Scripture lessons will include: Exodus 20:1-17; I Corinthians 1:22-25, and John 2:13-25. Pastor George Bondley will speak on "Our Personal Gift."

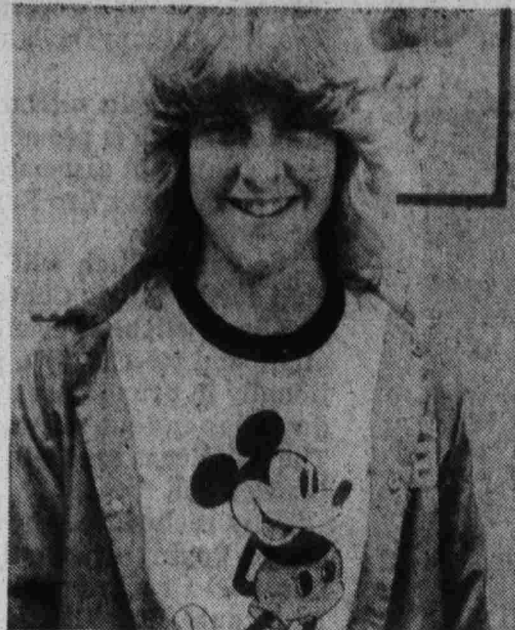

Newcomers to Henderson and those without a church are invited to worship with Henderson's newest congregation. Sunday School is 9:30 and worship is 10:30 a.m. Services are currently held in the temporary quarters located in rooms 14 and 15 of St. Peter's Square, 120 Boulder Highway, Henderson, Nevada. All people are welcome. For information you may call 293-4700.

Thought for the week: "This is the day the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it." Proverbs 118:24.

Long-Time Amateur Boxing Promoter Hal Miller Realizes Dream

When it comes to amateur boxing, there is so little that Hal Miller hasn't seen. But, only now, is he starting to live his dream of a strong Las Vegas amateur program that some day may be nationally recognized.

Miller, in 28 years, has done just about everything in amateur boxing with both the Golden Gloves and the AAU, which is now called the American Boxing Federation.

But, with all of the titles he has held and with all of the work he has done, nothing pleases the 56-year old, 29-year veteran of the Metro Police Department more than his boxing baby -- the Golden Gloves Gym of Las Vegas.

For it is that year-old facility which could produce the best local amateur Golden Gloves team ever this March 18-20 at the Budweiser Western Regionals at the Showboat Hotel sports pavilion.

The tournament, which begins each night at 7:30, will feature more than 30 bouts a session for only $10 ringside and $5 general admission per evening. Boxers from Arizona, Washington, Oregon, Northern California and Northern Nevada will test their skills against the squad from the Golden Gloves gym.

This will be the 29th straight Golden Gloves Regional of which Miller will be the tournament director. The last 26 have been in Las Vegas.

"Because of the success of the gym which opened in January of last year, the local kids have their best shot ever," said Miller, who has led the Las Vegas Regional team to five national titles and a better than sixth place finish every year. This year's nationals are set for March 27-April 4 at Kansas City.

"Last year only one local boxer, Jimmy Jackson, made it to the nationals," said Miller. "He has since turned pro, but, because of Las Vegas' depth and good training under coach Doc Broadus, I feel the team has a chance to qualify maybe two or three boxers this year."

Miller, whose wife Faye is the registration chairman and secretary-treasurer of the Nevada ABF and Golden Gloves, has donated a lot of time to his love for amateur boxing.

In all of his years on the police force he has never used anything but vacation time for trips to boxing conventions or meets. He has been a volunteer to the program since he first got involved in the mid-50s.

He has served as team manager for the national squad. Miller is the president of the Golden Gloves of Nevada and the ABF in this state. He is the ABF Region 16 chairman. He is the immediate past president of the Golden Gloves of America.

In his younger days, Miller was a good amateur boxer. While in the Canadian army, he won the 178-pound championship. He decided not to turn pro when some promoters in New York tried to match him with a heavyweight in his debut. Because of that, Miller has worked to prevent such things from happening to other young men who wish to go into the fight game.

"Matchmaking is the hardest part of the job," said Miller. "I hate to see young kids mismatched. I've worked hard to see that kids are matched properly in meets I've directed. I'm proud to say that I've never had a serious injury in any match I've helped put together."

Miller came to Las Vegas on Jan. 19, 1953. The next day he went into the police station to borrow money from a friend. Instead, he was given a job, which he has held ever since.

It was also during that year that Miller began his work with amateur boxers, a job he also has held ever since. Miller also has served the Nevada State Athletic Commission as a pro boxing judge.

But for Miller the story is far from over. He has one more year to go with the police department, then amateur boxing will become his full-time job. And with it will come the challenge of putting the so-called pro boxing capital of the world on the map as an amateur boxing capital as well.

But Miller is way ahead on that too. Twelve years ago he began U.S. vs international team matches in this country when he brought the U.S. vs USSR dual meet to Caesars Palace. Now, there are 12 of those ABF events a year on ABC-TV. This year, the Golden Gloves champions will take on international competition. And who is handling it? None other than Hal Miller who, along with Tom Elgas, has negotiated with the Showboat for several top fights this year.

But, what's on Miller's mind right now is the Western Regionals at the Showboat. Tickets for that event are on sale in the sports pavilion ticket office.

Park Service Schedules Crane's Nest Rapids Hike

Crane's Nest Rapids in Black Canyon will be the destination of a hike on Saturday, March 20, led by a National Park Service Ranger. From milepost 8 on U.S. Highway 93, in Arizona, the hikers will travel down a large wash, passing a striking basalt formation. The wash will narrow and become quite interesting as the half-way point at the river gets closer. Topics to be discussed on this 10-mile hike will include wildflowers, geology, burros, history, and river recreation.

Because this is a long hike, you should be in good condition. Bring at least one quart of water, snacks, and a good lunch. Sturdy shoes are recommended. Total driving distance is 25 miles.

To make reservations, call the Alan Bible-Visitor Center at 293-4041, extension 16. Hikers will meet at 8:45 a.m. in the Visitor Center lobby, and should return by 4:30 p.m.

GuideLines

By Al Cieri

First things first. To paraphrase Mac Davis the singer, "Oh Lord, its hard to be humble." Most anglers often say they would rather be lucky than good. I'm greedy and want to be both but right now I'll settle for lucky. Just last Friday while guiding some anglers from Calif. on Lake Mojave, luck dropped on me in excess of what I deserve. About noon after a slow morning I decided to fish. My clients had not been very successful, although both were excellent bass fishermen. I began throwing a smoke boogie tail on a quarter ounce jig head up against a sheer wall.

Within about five minutes of working this lure which meant letting it fall vertically for about 20 feet it happened. Every angler dreams about tying on to one great fish and not making any mistakes and finally landing it. When my line twitched and I set the hook it was obvious this was the fish of my dreams. Most experienced anglers will tell you that when you set the hook the size of the fish is instantly felt in the hands of the angler. I believe it's true. Anyway, the fish was only about three feet deep when hooked and it exploded right out of the water, danced across the water for ten feet and then took a deep dive into about 40 feet of water. Like I said luck was smiling on me and after what seemed an eternity (really only a few minutes) the fish was along side the boat and quickly netted. Well it tipped the scales that I had on the boat at about nine pounds. Later, on more accurate scales it weighed an official eight pounds and four ounces. My alltime largest largemouth bass. Not bit by some standards but truly a fine fish for these desert lakes. You're right I'm very proud of that fish and quite likely I won't top it for a long time. The rest of the day went quite well, by five o'clock I had taken a four and one half pounder and six three pounders and several smaller "dinks." Obviously I had some very happy clients.

Why did this happen and how? The bass were moving up into shallow water and they were holding very tight against the walls. At least 90 percent of the fish were taken in the shadows or shady areas. The depth ranged from three feet to 20 feet with most coming within ten feet. All were taken on outside walls and points.

When fish are in this pattern boogie tails seem to be an extremely effective lure. Boogie tails are probably the easiest lure to fish with but for some reason they are difficult for anglers to get the hang of.

Let's try and explain.

First most fish will be caught on the drop, so a long cast is not necessary about twenty five to thirty feet is about maximum. After you make a cast take the slack out of your line and keep your reel in gear. Now the hard part. As your lure descends watch the line where it enters the water, if the line stops, moves, left or right, vibrates or does anything that seems unusual, set the hook and I mean set it hard. Do not wait until you feel the fish hit, almost all fish caught will be hooked by simply watching the line. Bass will suck the lure in and then almost always spit it out. At the point in time that the fish sucks it is and starts to spit it out is when your line is doing the unusual movement. That's as simple as I can make it. What color and weight can be at times a frustrating puzzle. It doesn't have to be. If the fish are deep such as in the winter use a three eights or half ounce jig head. When the fish come up such as now through the summer and fall then a quarter ounce and eighth ounce jig head will work. Color, right now smoke or purple works well. My alltime best color is purple and it probably is for a lot of other anglers also. There are colors of every conceivable hue with combinations of metal flake, sparkle, cream, and even fluorescent tails. They all work but stick to a few and keep working them and you will catch fish!

Celebrate the good times right here at home!

Personal Improvement Seminar

Visiting Housework Expert Shares His Tips

Are you tired of the same old housecleaning tricks? Would you like to cut cleaning supplies and equipment costs up to 50 percent? Have freedom from junk? Wash entire house with one unchanged bucket of solution? All of these questions will be answered in a fun, fast-moving, 3-hour seminar scheduled on March 18, 1982 at 6 p.m. at the LDS Church on Cholla Street in Henderson. The seminar is conducted by Don Aslett and his staff. Mr. Aslett is one of the country's most noted figures in the cleaning field. He has conducted more than 100 like seminars throughout the United States. He has twenty-five years experience as a professional "House Cleaner" and is owner of a nation-wide maintenance firm. Mr. Aslett, called the "Billy Graham of the Pine-Sol set," is a self-proclaimed Mr. Clean who carries a briefcase shaped like a toilet bowl, a pen that looks like a squeegee and his eraser is a terry-cloth dust rag. Originally a farm boy from Pocatello, Idaho, Aslett began cleaning houses to earn his way through college. He learned the business through trial and error and by the time he graduated from college he was employing 100 fellow students to clean homes and businesses. At the present time Aslett owns a successful business, Varsity Contractors, Inc., and is located in 14 states. It is listed among the top three percent, in terms of size, of the nation's cleaning businesses. In addition he regularly gives lectures to housewives (and husbands) describing how to clean house with 75 percent less time and effort. He says "very little is done to save women time in cleaning house, yet that's what they spend more time doing than anything else, except sleeping. In 1980 there were 14,000 new books displayed at the National Booksellers Convention and not one of them was about doing housework." Aslett is convinced that clean homes are the foundation of a good society and he believes that, "your time is your most precious thing." So he takes his successful cleaning methods to the housewives all over the country. The women of Henderson can share his secrets by attending a three-hour seminar on Thursday, March 18, 1982 starting at 6 p.m. The program, sponsored by the Henderson Nevada Stake Relief Society, is free of charge. Mr. Aslett's book, "Is There Life After Housework," which dispells old wives' tales and outlines his own efficient cleaning methods will be available for purchase for anyone interested. The public is invited to attend.

Cannon Stands Up Against Sec. Lewis

Washington -- A plan by Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis to lay-off personnel and temporarily close some flight service stations has drawn the wrath of Sen. Howard Cannon. Cannon said that the proposal, which would save an estimated $20 million, "would endanger pilots and passengers." The Senator said that the plan by Lewis was to furlough Federal Aviation Administration personnel occasionally for one-day periods, starting Apr. 4, to keep the budget in line. In a letter to Lewis, Cannon said, "This drastic action is not necessitated by the fiscal 1982 appropriation (for the FAA)." "The budget includes an additional $57 million for controller pay increases which have not yet been approved. The House Appropriations Committee has already indicated that it would not object to using part of that $57 million for general FAA salaries." Cannon also said that Lewis could seek a supplemental appropriation from Congress to cover full salaries for FAA employees. The safety problem was highlighted by an incident in Nevada last weekend, even before the furlough policy was put into effect, Cannon said. A private pilot, disoriented and low on fuel, had to make a forced landing on a country road because the flight service station in Tonopah was closed due to a personnel shortage. Cannon said he has also been advised that the Flight Service Station at Elko will soon switch to part-time operation because of a personnel shortage.

Clark County Community College - Henderson Campus

Educated Guest

By Judy Ferraro Visiting Firemen (and Women) The Henderson Campus of the Clark County Community College opened its doors in September, and we are now introducing the new facility to the community. In an effort to serve the current and future needs of the Henderson and Boulder City and South Eastern Las Vegas area, Dr. Judith Eaton, Dr. Mary Burnett and Judy Ferraro have made a number of visits in both communities. These visits were to members of the special Henderson Campus committee, as well as business, industry, and government leaders. We discussed everything from a need for classes in estate planning to the need for remedial education. We have not only spent time in board rooms but have also toured many businesses and industrial plants. One product of our visits may be a new style innovation, "Industrial Chic." Industrial Chic is a business suit or dress, high heels, a hard hat and safety glasses. Look for it this spring. GET ORGANIZED!!! If your club or organization would like a tour of the Henderson Campus or could use a program speaker, please call Judy Ferraro at the Henderson Campus, 565-7484. WATCH IT... The summer semester schedule will be out some time in early May, watch for it! IN THE DIRT... Because of the large demand for evening classes, parking has become a problem. Students are now parking in the dirt lot to the north of the building. An enlarged lot is a priority for the campus. INITIAL INVESTMENT... Janette Toohey, the director of the L.R.C. (Library), says that there has been an increase in the use of the L.R.C. because the instructors have begun testing. With the continued acquisition of new material, students have additional resources to supplement their studies and these resources have been enthusiastically received. TAKE A VACA-TION... Students from Pahrump High School visited the Henderson Campus last week. They toured the various vocational areas. Instructors explained our programs and gave some suggestions to students wishing to continue their education after high school. It was a good experience for everyone involved.

Wildlife Week Poster Contest Underway

By David K. Rice

With the theme "We Care About Eagles" directing their creative and artistic endeavors, thousands of Nevada school children have begun work on wildlife week posters for entry into the Nevada Wildlife Federation's annual poster contest.

Cash prizes will be awarded to state winners in three divisions: Primary, grades first and second; Junior, grades third, fourth and fifth; Senior, grades seventh and eighth. First place winners in each division will receive $20, second place $15, third $10 and fourth $5. County Winners in each division will receive rosette ribbons first through fourth place, with their winning artwork then judged on the state competition level. Individual school and/or class winners will receive ribbons.

"We Care About Eagles" was chosen as the theme of National Wildlife Week for 1982, to be observed March 14-20, and according to Nevada Wildlife Week Poster Chairperson, Camille Monday, Reno, "The 45th annual observance of the 'week' will help commemorate 1982 as the 'Year of the Eagle', the bicentennial of the selection of the bald eagle as America's national symbol, and will call attention to the fact that many wildlife species, including the bald eagle, are now endangered in the U.S."

She said that acting on a resolution passed by Congress late in December of last year, President Ronald Reagan proclaimed 1982 as the Bicentennial Year of the American Bald Eagle. Reagan's action culminated an eight-month campaign by the National Wildlife Federation to obtain official recognition of the bald eagle's role in U.S. history.

"The National Wildlife Federation is the nation's largest citizens conservation organization of which the Nevada Federation is an affiliate," according to Dr. John 'Andy' Leitch, Las Vegas, recently elected president of the Nevada Wildlife Federation.

"Throughout the U.S., many of our wildlife species are in grave danger due to the continual loss of their vital habitats: prairies, marshes, forests and the like, as well as degradation of streams, rivers and oceans. Much has and is being done to protect our wildlife; however, much more needs doing and the Wildlife Federation, on both the state and national levels, believe the poster art contest creates interest has well as an awareness of the problems facing wildlife today on the part of the children, their parents and teachers."

"Wildlife Week poster kits have been delivered to all Nevada schools. Special teacher kits, which were also included again this year, are filled with many wonderful ideas to help instructors stimulate interest and awareness of wildlife needs, necessary for the survival of these vital resources," Dr. Leitch commented.

Starr Merkle Exhibit at Burk Gal'ry

The traditional art of Starr Merkle, an award-winning artist whose works have been the subject of many publications will be exhibited in a one woman show at The Burk Gal'ry in Boulder City beginning March 12, with a reception open to the public from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

The artist has sold her paintings since she was 12. She began exhibiting her work seriously in 1965 in Las Vegas where her in-depth understanding of art in the tradition of the old masters and her special talent captured the attention of the collectors of fine art as well as the media. Her personal achievement and background have been the subject of profiles and feature stories.

She is a descendent of three generations of artists and was exposed to all forms of art throughout her childhood. For her, drawing and painting was an acceptable way of life.

Her grandfather, S.C. Pietro, was known as the "Society Sculptor" in New York in the early 1900s and his commissions included those from county officials, movie stars and an equestrian monument of Benito Mussolini.

Another uncle, S.C. Pietro, Jr., is known for his sculpture exhibited in numerous movies as well as public places including Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

As a child, Starr was taken to Italy where she viewed and absorbed the works of the masters and the magnificent buildings and scenery. When she returned to America, she was stricken with polio which left her entombed in a body cast from neck to hips. During this time of confinement, she became completely preoccupied with drawing and painting.

She attended a school for the disabled and was awarded a scholarship to Chouinard's Art School in Los Angeles. Within a short time, she sold her first painting. She was tutored by Emile Nezet, a gifted artist who taught her the styles of the old masters.

After she and her mother moved to Las Vegas, she studied in Steve Lesnick's Art School where she learned more about portrait painting and attaining the finishing touches to her work.

She now alternates her life between Las Vegas and Beryl, Utah with her husband and daughter. Art is her way of life and she teaches classes at the high school and Dixie College in St. George, Utah and paints.

She says, "I feel that I have now achieved maturity in my work and that my style is affirmed. I wish to broaden subject matter and to paint on a basis of new and more extensive themes."

She is sculpting also and hope to pursue a direction that will encompass exposure of all of her skills.

Her many awards and special recognition include Best Traditional Oil in the Minnie Price Memorial Awards, best Traditional Oil in the Las Vegas Art League 16th Annual Spring Art Roundup, numerous awards in southern Utah and she was one of 18 finalists in a field of 100 who participated in the competition with a portrait of Governor Grant Sawyer.

The exhibit at The Burk Gal'ry will include still life, portraits, drawing and landscapes and will hang through April 4. For further information, call 293-3958.

VA Upgrades Health Care

San Francisco -- Administrator of Veterans Affairs Robert P. Nimmo ordered much-needed changes today in the use of computers and automated data processing (ADP) technology concerning VA health care operations.

In order to promote increased effectiveness and efficiency in the VA's nationwide medical care system, Administrator Nimmo has directed decentralization of computer and ADP resources to the local hospital level.

Through the use of distributed data processing, each VA medical center, Nimmo said, will install its own on-board computer capability using mini or micro computers and appropriate subsystems.

"This new thrust of decentralization will provide much better service in VA medical centers by improving administration and patient scheduling. In addition, it should speed things up in pharmacy and laboratory processes," Nimmo said.

The changes were ordered effective today in a detailed executive order which was dispatched to all VA field stations. The main thrust of the VA executive order is to make the computer available as a 'tool' in the 'tool kit' of our medical center directors and professional staff.

Shortly after President Reagan appointed him to head the 25 billion dollar per year agency, Nimmo ordered a 'hold' on all ADP activities and directed the VA's Deputy Administrator, Charles T. Hagel, to undertake a thorough reassessment and review of agency-wide ADP programs and operations.

Hagel formed an ADP review group to carry out the task and make recommendations to the Administrator. The new VA executive order addresses the highest priority set of recommendations made by Hagel's review group -- that of getting the VA 'up to speed' in using computer technology in medical center operations.

Previous to Nimmo's appointment, criticism of VA computer programs and their cost had been leveled by Congressional oversight committees, General Accounting Office, General Services Administration, and Office of Management and Budget.

"Because of this past history of problems and fragmentation, I knew that addressing this issue of computers was one of our highest management priorities. I am pleased that we have been able to step-up to this problem and set in motion a new policy to improve VA medical center operations," Nimmo said.

"We are making a serious and important decision that will have a major impact on future agency operations," Nimmo said.

"In addition, this decision will help provide more cost-effective medical care to those who have served our country in its time of need," he concluded.

Roy Purcell Show a Fund Raiser for the Boulder City Museum

By Teddy Fenton
Roy has invited Boulder City, Henderson and all of Las Vegas to the "Grand Opening" of the Purcell Gallery on Twain and Maryland Parkway. The Gallery is located just across the fountain that bubbles in the mall behind Mervins. Easy to find and wonderful to behold.

As admirers of Roy Purcell since Bill Harbour and I met him in 1972, it has been an education to watch his progress. He began a career in art by painting the famous murals in Chloride, Arizona. His followers will eventually extend around the world for at this writing he is in Israel looking for a background to capture the journey of the Biblical figure, the Great Moses. Roy will drop into Egypt and if all goes well that work will become a part of the pattern of his art. In the meantime he will return in time for the March 26, 1982 "Grand Opening." It is in the able hands of his committee headed up by Jan Lang who is known in Boulder City because she has worked closely with Darlene Burk in presenting the works of Purcell in past B.C. Art Festivals. Roy has books and etchings always exhibited at the Burk Gal'ry. Roy's talents are known in Boulder City. The Gal'ry has been proud of the young people who have collected his etchings. Because he likes to share his work with all people he is generous with etchings placed in his books. Priced at $4.95, they are available at The Gal'ry. His books are collector's items. The new work of Roy

Purcell is merged with the history of the dam and the city of Boulder City. The old photographs in a local collection is being used extensively. If Roy works fast enough there should be a wide range of Hoover Dam etchings for a large show at The Burk Gal'ry later this year. Pioneers this show is a Thank You for your work. Roy lives in Henderson. He knows full well how desperate the conditions were when the work force on Hoover arrived as early as 1929. He told Jan Lang, chairwoman of the show. "This is for them" and we ask the entire county to come to do honor to them at our show. It will begin at 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. Music out by the fountain, refreshments, surrounded by exciting art lovers. Watch for your invitations next week. Watch the NEWS for more "scoops" about the Grand Opening.

Heart Association Fund Raising Events

Whether you enjoy the active sport of rope jumping or prefer a less strenuous game of bridge, the American Heart Association invites you to participate in one of two major fund-raising events -- Jump Rope for Heart and Play Cards for Your Heart -- during the month of March.

Local bridge and pinocle enthusiasts are encouraged to deal some cards for the Heart Association during the annual Play Cards for Your Heart fund-raising drive on Friday, March 19, 1982 from noon to 3 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. Games will be played at the Senior Citizens Center,

450 East Bonanza Road, and at the Bridge Club on Main Street. Players may also play in their own homes. Donation is $4 per person or $16 per table. For those willing to support the event but who don't have time to shuffle the deck, a table may be bought at half price to give senior citizens an opportunity to play. Trophies will be awarded to the winners and quality door prizes donated by local merchants will be given to players. Jump Rope for Heart will be held on Saturday, March 20, 1982 from 9 a.m. to noon at various schools, health clubs and the YMCA.

Participants jump in teams of six, with each person jumping one minute before passing the rope on to the next team member. Before the event, jumpers solicit pledges from friends, family and neighbors for the number of minutes the team jumps. Heart Association warm up suits, t-shirts, gym bags and patches will be awarded to those who turn in the most money in pledges. For sponsor sheets and more information regarding these two fund-raising events, contact the American Heart Association at 385-1178. All proceeds will go to benefit the very rewarding work of the American Heart Association. 75 percent of all donations received in Las Vegas stay in this community to aid the local fight against America's number one killer -- heart disease.

St. Andrew's Parish Renewal March 14th-19th

Each year St. Andrew's has a parish renewal - a time when we sincerely try to zero in our spiritual life and our relationship with God, Church and self in a very special way. Many beautiful and meaningful graces happen during parish renewals, but one must be present for them to happen to him or her. The "Renewal" begins with this weekend's liturgies. We will then have talks each day from Monday, March 15th to Friday, March 19th. The talks will be at 9 a.m. and 7 p.m.

who will be conducting the "Renewal" is Fr. Rich Ling. He comes to us from Lakewood, Colorado. He is pastor of "Christ on the Mountain." He earned a scholarship to Theological College, Washington, D.C., 1955. He graduated from Catholic University in 1958, M.A. in philosophy. He then returned to St. Thomas Seminary in Denver, ordained in 1962 with an S.T.L. degree, which allows him to teach scripture in a seminary. He also earned a M.A. in religious education. He is now working on a M.A. in liturgical research at the University of Notre Dame. He is at present writing an 8-volume set of "Themelines for Daily Mass", 5 volumes have already been completed. Outline of our "Renewal Week" Sunday, March 13-14: "Privatized to Communal Christianity". The first and third readings of the Mass give communal images of the Church (people bound by law, the temple image of John.) The purpose of this talk will be to set the major theme for the week: how did we get into a privatized faith, what effects this has on our concept of ministry, and how the church is correcting its path today toward shared ministry. Monday, March 15: "The Dissolution of Community in Christianity". The basic purpose of this talk is to help the people get in touch with their own sense of community in the Church. This talk will focus on the scriptural liturgical, and ecclesiological reasons why community got lost through history and how this began to have impact on our sense of ministry. Tuesday, March 16: "The Meaning of Ministry Today". How has Catholic Christianity regained a sense of community and shared ministry? What did Vatican II say? What images lead us closer to or further away from community and ministry? Why all the discussion today over the word "ministry" itself and what ramifications flow from our understanding of the term? Wednesday, March 17: "Parish Dynamics That Foster Community - Shared Ministry". Today's focus will be on practical dynamics for fostering community - shared ministry. We will look at the model of authority in parish life, the vision and role of the parish council and committees, the interrelationship between staff and parishioners, and the need to view carefully the structure of the parish itself. Thursday, March 18: "The Sacramental Life of the Parish as it Affects Community - Shared Ministry". How is the Catholic Church changing in our approach to the sacraments of initiation: baptism, confirmation, eucharist? What impact do these significant changes have on a parish's approach to these crucial sacraments and its understanding of community - shared ministry? Friday, March 19: "Closing Liturgy". Pot luck supper at 6 p.m. Liturgy at 7:30 p.m. All are welcome. Fr. Joe Annese.

Beautiful Brunch Enjoyed At Segerbloms

By Teddy
At our house we can only speak for Bill and Teddy as far as the brunch is concerned that was held at Cliff and Gene Segerblom "View of the Lake" house at 1302 Mountain View. What a perfect setting for those two successful and civic minded friends.

Cliff has perhaps enjoyed her good cooking for he is a size larger... but so distinguished in appearance that we like this Cliff better than the dashing bridegroom of 42 years ago. Thank you both for serving our town. Gene was a volunteer Red Cross swimming instructor when we first met her in 1953. The B.C.M.H.A. Board of Directors and all guests say thank you both for that delicious brunch. Served as usual, with perfect grace.

B.C. Shrine Club To Host Dinner

Bill and I agreed it was a perfect way to begin a beautiful day. We have been at the Segerbloms for two weddings, and for two social occasions. Each time we are impressed anew with the exquisite taste the couple show in interior decoration. With the Segerblom water colors gracing the walls, one sees other artists work, it is all a blend of perfect understanding of what they both like. Cliff's art gallery is on the lower level. In 1941, while looking through a paper (micro-film) we found their wedding. Gene has basically changed very little. She still carries herself like a girl.

Saturday March 13th, the Boulder City Shrine Club will hold their annual St. Patty's Day Corn Beef and Cabbage dinner at the Masonic Temple on Arizona St. This is the annual fund raiser for the Shrine Club, which makes contributions to the Shriners Crippled Children's Hospitals in St. Louis, Mexico City and Los Angeles. Dinner will be served at 7:30 P.M. with an Oasis starting at 6 P.M.

Joe and Taffy Koterba will head a committee in charge of preparing the food. Tom Gailey, President of the Shrine Club, announces that only 200 tickets are available for sale. A.A.R.P. meet The regular meeting of the Boulder City Chapter of the A.A.R.P. No. 809 will be held on Thursday March 18. After the meeting the group is going on a tour of Ethel M candy factory.

Musical at Las Vegas Little Theatre

Everybody has hopes and dreams and children in the ghetto are no exception, as they prove in the musical "The Me Nobody Knows," now appearing at the Las Vegas Little Theatre on Spring Mountain Road. This musical combines the written words of students from New York City high schools with songs that match, and the result is a lively and informative look at their world.

Not all of the feelings this play deals with are cheerful, but they aren't all sad, either, and the total impression is one of hope. The cast of twelve which Jack Bell, the director, has assembled gives a spirited performance, and their dedication and hard work shows. This is a youthful cast, ranging in age from 8 to 18, and most of them have never been on stage before.

One of the unusual features of this cast is that it includes three members of the same family -- Henry Shead, Jr., Lori Shead, and Rohn Shead. All three of them have appeared on local stages before in various productions, and just before the play opened Rohn (the youngest cast member) did a television commercial which has been showing on local stations. Henry is a Sophomore at Valley High School. He has studied piano and dance, and future plans include maybe being an entertainment director somewhere. Lori is a sixth grader at Kit Carson, and has also studied dance. She agreed with the rest of the cast that it was a lot of work, but she also looks forward to doing more plays, especially musicals.

Another member of Rainbow Company appearing in this production is Lisa Picotte, who is in the eighth grade at Our Lady of Las Vegas. In addition to appearances with the Rainbow Company, Lisa has done shows with TASI and other local groups. Some of the shows she has appeared in are "Sound of Music," "Carousel," and "Wizard of Oz." She prefers musicals, although they're a strain on the voice, because "they're more expressive."

"The Me Nobody Knows" will be on stage at 8:30 p.m. every Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening through the 20th of March, with a Sunday Matinee at 3 p.m. March 14. Reservations can be made by calling the Las Vegas Little Theatre at 735-0167, and seats are usually available at performance time for people without reservations. The theatre is located at 2228 Spring Mountain Road, west of the "Strip" behind the Fashion Show Mall.

Fund Raisers for Heart

The American Heart Association invites participants in one of two major fundraising events - Jump Rope For Heart and Play Cards For Your Heart - during the month of March.

Local bridge and pinocle enthusiasts are encouraged to deal some cards for the Heart Association drive on Friday, March 19, 1982, from noon to 3 p.m. and from 7 until 10 p.m. Games will be played at the Senior Citizen's Center, 450 East Bonanza Road from Noon to 3 and at the Bridge Club on Main Street from 7 until 10. Players may also play in their own homes. Donation is $4 per person or $16 per table. For those willing to support the event but who don't have time to shuffle the deck, a table may be bought at half price to give senior citizens an opportunity to play. Trophies will be awarded to the winners and quality door prizes donated by local merchants will be given to players.

Jump Rope For Heart will be held on Saturday, March 20, 1982, from 9 a.m. until Noon at various schools, health clubs and the YMCA. Participants jump in teams of six, with each person jumping one minute before passing the rope on to the next team member. Before the event, jumpers solicit pledges from friends, family and neighbors for the number of minutes the team jumps. Heart Association warm up suits, t-shirts, gym bags and patches will be awarded to those who turn in the most money in pledges. For sponsor sheets and more information regarding these two fundraising events, contact the American Heart Association at 385-1178.

All proceeds will go to benefit the very rewarding work of the Heart Association. Seventy-five percent of all donations received in Clark County stays in this community to aid the local fight against America's number one killer, heart disease.

Census Survey Here On Employment

The U.S. Bureau of the Census will conduct a regular survey on employment and unemployment in this area during the week of March 15 - 20, 1982 according to John E. Reeder, Jr., Acting Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Los Angeles.

In addition to the usual questions on current employment, the March survey will include others concerning the work experience, income, and place of residence of household members last year and whether they have moved since March 1981.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 71,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

The monthly survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor and provides a continuous record of activity in the labor force. The January survey indicated that of the 108.9 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 99.6 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 8.5 percent, down from 8.8 percent in December.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Art Museum Display at Lorenzi Park

The Las Vegas Art Museum has been serving the communities of Southern Nevada with an ever-changing display of art work from the headquarters at Lorenzi Park.

It all began in 1950 with the organization of the Las Vegas Art League. There has never been any regular funding the volunteers must continually work at meeting daily expenses. Now is the time to establish an Endowment Fund. The Friends will conduct an auction of Art and Other Things at the Holiday Inn Hotel Casino (center strip) on Sunday, March 21, at 1 p.m. The bid card and a chance on an original etching will be $1. Everyone is invited.

Contemporary Dance Theatre Due at UNLV

Solaris: A Company of Dancers is a new company formed at UNLV to work in tandem with the already-established Contemporary Dance Theatre. Solaris will premiere in concert with Contemporary Dance Theatre March 26 at 8 p.m. and March 27 and 28 at 2 p.m. at Judy Bayley Theatre, UNLV. The concert will also feature very special guest artists.

Contemporary Dance Theatre was formed by Dr. Carol Rae six years ago to give students and faculty an opportunity for choreography and performance embracing all dance idioms - modern, jazz, ballet, tap, ballroom, musical theater, ethnic. The slogan of the company has been "everything for everyone," and it has been open to all dance students with as many as eighty performing in one concert. Concerts have been held throughout Southern Nevada and on a regular schedule in Clark County schools in addition to the two formal concerts each year at both Charleston Heights Arts Center and Judy Bayley Theatre.

With the inception of the new UNLV School of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance, a bona fide baccalaureate degree will be given in dance. As a result of the demands of dance majors, the new company has been formed. It will concern itself primarily with modern and jazz, will limit the number in the company, and offer a greater challenge to the dancers. Ten have already been selected. A number of guest choreographers will work with the new company, including Jim Keller, internationally known dancer and choreographer who is presently artistic director for the Las Vegas Civic Ballet. Lloyd Pause, formerly of the Houston Ballet, one of Los Angeles' foremost choreographers in the TV field, will create special material for the new company. Marcia Quigly, principal dancer for Ballet West and Minnesota Dance Theatre, will join in giving versatility to the choreography presented. Eliane Vivance of the UNLV dance faculty is creating a piece which will be accompanied by Las Vegas' most outstanding jazz musicians. For further information, call 739-3291.

UNLV's Contemporary Dance Theatre will appear in concert with a new dance company, Solaris, March 26-28.

Insurance Compensation Meetings

Senator Richard E. Blakemore (D), Tonopah, has announced the schedule for the initial meeting of the legislature's study of whether to allow private insurance companies to write workmen's compensation insurance in Nevada. The meeting will be held on Friday, March 12, 1982, in room 213 of the Legislative Building in Carson City. It will begin at 9 a.m. and continue through the afternoon.

Senator Blakemore explained, "presently, the Nevada Industrial Commission is the only writer of workmen's compensation insurance in Nevada. A few large companies are self-insured, but the bulk of the state's workforce is covered by the NIC. Rates for premiums have been increasing all across the nation, and we are no exception. Some of our middle-sized industries are paying very high premiums."

"However," Senator Blakemore continued, "we cannot forget the other side of the coin. Statistics show that premiums for workmen's compensation in Nevada are among the lowest in the country, and our benefits for injured workers are among the best."

The purpose of the meeting is to obtain a clear understanding of the advantages and disadvantages of allowing private insurance companies to write workmen's compensation insurance in Nevada. The morning and early afternoon sessions will include presentations of prepared materials. A public hearing is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. All interested people are invited to attend the meeting and express their views during the public hearing.

Members of the Legislative Study Committee include Senator Blakemore, chairman; Assemblyman Robert E. Robinson (D), Las Vegas, vice chairman; Senator William H. Hernstadt (D), Las Vegas; and Assemblymen James J. Banner (D), Las Vegas; Helen A. Foley (D), Las Vegas; Alan H. Glover (D), Carson City; John E. (Jack) Jeffrey (D), Henderson; Edward J. Kovacs (D), Las Vegas; and Ira V. Rackley (R), Lovelock.

Hunts Over - Store Firearms Safely

By Charles Crunden

The last of Nevada's major hunting seasons ended on February 28 and sportsmen should now turn their attention to the proper care and storage of those firearms which will not be used again until the upcoming Fall hunts.

Every gun in the house should be checked again to insure that it is unloaded. This may seem to be a very obvious step but more than one veteran shooter has experienced the disturbing realization of a shell in the chamber of a gun that was assumed to be unloaded.

Even if you have checked the firearm before putting it away and are sure it is unloaded, it should not be handled again or shown to a friend without first opening the action and checking again. This is a ritual that all experienced shooters and hunters repeat each and every time a weapon is handled.

PROVISIONS SHOULD BE MADE TO SAFELY STORE FIREARMS IN THE HOME. Rifles and shotguns should be secured in a locked rack or cabinet with handguns in a locked cabinet or drawer. Locked storage is particularly important if there are children in the home.

Standing a shotgun or rifle in a closet or keeping a pistol in a desk drawer is not an advisable practice. Those who do not have locked storage available should purchase trigger or breech locks for each firearm. These devices will render firearms unusable. The keys to such devices should be kept out of the reach of curious children.

For an extra measure of safety, all ammunition should be kept under lock and key and in a location separate from the firearms, preferably in a separate room or on a different floor level. The object is to create a situation in which a conscious effort is required to bring firearms and ammunition together.

Young Volunteers In Action Program Praised

By Thomas W. Pauken
Director of ACTION

They say Christmas comes but once a year, but this is the kind of Christmas story you can tell any day. It's about seven teenagers, ages 15 to 19, five young men and two young women. They came from different neighborhoods and different backgrounds, but they had two things in common: They wanted to help those in need, and they were the first contingent of volunteers in Los Angeles County to join the new Young Volunteers in Action Program.

The purpose of the YVA Program is to enlist students between the ages of 14 and 22 for necessary community services. In this case, the seven had offered to bring gifts and carols to elderly shut-ins at Christmas-time.

When 15-year old Allen Shepherd, dressed as Santa, led his fellow volunteers into the Sophia-Lyn Convalescent Hospital, his knees were knocking. He'd never done anything like this before and neither had his companions. In all, they were scheduled to visit 20 hospitals in a two-day period.

Although, through their project director, they had received what might be called basic training, they knew when they entered that first hospital they were really on their own, and it was up to them as young strangers to bridge the gap of years, to reach out and with the enthusiasm of youth, light a small candle that would outlast the season. This they did, not with gifts and slightly off-key carols alone, but more importantly, in a one-on-one getting-to-know you approach. Where there had been silence, there was conversation. Where there had been a feeling of emptiness, there was a sense of fullness. Where there had been vacant stares, there was animation and laughter. Tears, too, for when time came for the seven to say farewell, one old man, voice quavering, tears in his eyes asked, "Can I come, too?" And Allen's reply that brought a smile was, "You won't have to. We'll come back and see you." If anybody ever needed proof of the mutual relationship between the young and the old, Allen Shepherd and his six friends are a wonderful example at any time of the year.

The plan this year in Los Angeles County is to increase the number of Young Volunteers in Action to 250. Each volunteer will offer ten hours or more of his or her time a month engaged in non-paying services of his/her own choice, ranging over a wide area of needs such as companionship to the elderly, illiteracy, drug abuse, run-away youth, park beautification and similar endeavors. The benefits are obvious to everyone volunteers and those they serve. Twelve YVA chapters are already established in 10 states and will be operating in all 50 soon. And that's good news everywhere.

Tourism Nosediving Because of Airline Price Discrimination

Citing a decline of more than eight percent in 1981 airline passenger volume to and from Las Vegas, Congressman Jim Santini (D-Nevada) today scored the airline industry for "taking unfair advantage of deregulation by establishing discriminatory pricing policies which hurt Las Vegas and Reno."

"It is simply inequitable," said the four-term Congressman, that it can be cheaper to fly from New York to Hawaii than it is to travel from New York to Las Vegas. A large part of the decline in Nevada's number one industry may be attributed directly to such unfair pricing policies."

At a speech before the Las Vegas Business and Professional Association, Santini said he recently co-sponsored and testified for a bill (H.R. 4147) which will allow Reno, Las Vegas and other cities -- as well as consumers -- to petition the Federal Department of Transportation (DOT) to investigate claims of rate structure inequity by the airlines. "This bill, if passed, will also allow those who are suffering the abuse of the airlines to go to court to obtain equity if necessary," Santini said.

Santini said that, according to figures provided by the Las Vegas Convention - Visitors Authority, the number of airline passengers coming and going from Las Vegas declined by 1,104,000 in 1981 compared to 1979. 1981 airline traffic fell by 8.1 percent in Las Vegas while nationwide the decline was less than 4 percent. The airlines were deregulated in 1978.

"When it's cheaper to fly first class from Los Angeles to New York than it is to fly coach from Las Vegas to New York, something is terribly wrong," Santini said. "When tourism declines, Nevada's economy suffers and jobs are lost."

Estimated Tax Payment Due April 15th

The first installment of estimated 1982 federal income tax payments by individuals is due by April 15, 1982, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Generally, taxpayers having estimated tax of $200 or more and estimated gross income not subject to withholding exceeding $500 must file a Form 1040-ES, "Declaration of Estimated Tax for Individuals", according to the IRS.

Those taxpayers who filed estimated income tax last year should receive the Form 1040-ES by mail. The 1040-ES forms are also stocked at both the Reno and Las Vegas IRS offices.

Information about estimating taxes appears in the free IRS publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax", and can be ordered by calling the IRS.

Trophy Big Game Seasons to be Established by Wildlife Commission

By David K. Rice

Season dates and tag quotas for Nevada's 1982 antelope, bighorn sheep, elk and mountain lion hunting seasons will be set by the Board of Wildlife Commissioners during a meeting to be held Saturday, March 13 in Las Vegas.

The seven - member board will consider season recommendations for the four trophy hunts as developed and proposed by the Department of Wildlife, along with those submitted by each of the 17 County Game Management Boards, sportsmen's clubs and other groups or individuals.

The Department is proposing to increase the number of antelope and elk tags over last year, but is recommending the same number for sheep and mountain lion.

If adopted by the Commission, there would be 609 regular antelope tags, 64 more than last year, along with an additional 200 for archers. The issuance of eighty resident and nine nonresident bighorn sheep tags is being requested along with one additional tag which will be offered through a sealed bid process authorized by the 1981 Legislature. A total of 15 elk tags, one more than last year, are also being advised.

Although there will be no restrictions on the number of mountain lion tags issued for this season, NDOW is proposing a maximum number of lions allowed to be harvested, known as a harvest objective, from each of the 24 management areas.

The mountain lion harvest in each area is regulated through issuance of hunting permits (in addition to the tag) which are valid for only the area specified. In the past, the permits were only valid for a 15 day period but the Department is proposing these to be valid until the harvest objective, in the area issued for, is reached or until the season closes, whichever is first.

Retailer Disqualified From Food Stamp Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has barred a Las Vegas retailer from accepting food stamps from customers for violations of federal food stamp regulations.

Stop N Go Market No. 152, at 1401 W. Lake Mead Blvd., owned by Stop N Go Markets of Nevada, was disqualified February 17, for six months following a Department investigation which disclosed that store personnel had accepted food stamps for such ineligible items as beer, cigarettes, steel wool, a scrub brush, cleanser, soap and paper products. Personnel also violated the program's change making rules.

Robert Delany, USDA Food and Nutrition Service Officer In Charge of the Sacramento, California Field Office that also serves Nevada explained that the individual retailer plays an important part in insuring that the program operates according to federal regulations. Under an agreement with the Department of Agriculture, allowing the store to accept food stamps from customers, the retailer agrees to accept food coupons according to the rules. "That is," Delany explained, "selling only food for human consumption and seeds for the production of food for the household for food stamps. The sale of non-food items obviously is in violation of the program rules."

Under recently implemented federal regulations, the Department of Agriculture may disqualify a retailer from participating in the program for up to three years, or may levy a monetary penalty against the retailer, if disqualification action would seriously affect food stamp shoppers in the retailer's community.

During the disqualification period, Stop N Go Market No. 152 may not accept food stamps from its customers. To resume participation in the food stamp program after the disqualification period, Stop N Go Markets of Nevada must apply to the U.S. Department of Agriculture for reinstatement.

Humm May Fill Colts QB Vacancy

Reports that Baltimore Colts quarterback Bert Jones may be on his way to the Los Angeles Rams have increased the chances of Las Vegas' David Humm as a starter for the Colts next year.

In a telephone radio interview with KORK's Jack London last Thursday morning, Colt coach Frank Kush said Humm "is a fine quarterback and we have been going over films of his performances."

Kush also said that if Jones does leave the Colts, the organization's thinking on next month's college draft will lean to the drafting of a quarterback.

"I think David has an exceptional opportunity (to be the Colt's No. 1 quarterback), and he definitely would have the inside track," said Kush.

Humm responded to London saying, "That's great news. It's something I've always wanted -- an opportunity."

Of course, a lot could happen between now and the opening of training camp, but for David Humm the outlook for a shot as an NFL starting quarterback is rosier than it has ever been.

Humm, reserve quarterback for the Colts, has been named ticket chairman for the $200,000 J&B Scotch Pro - Am at the Desert Inn Country Club March 18 - 21.

The tournament, one of the most popular stops on the LPGA tour, benefits Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Southern Nevada, and all ticket proceeds go to the organization's charitable program.

"I consider it an honor to be asked to help in this very worthwhile cause," said Humm, a native of Las Vegas.

The Bishop Gorman

High School graduate went on to win All-American honors at the University of Nebraska and played for five years with the Oakland Raiders, including the 1976 Super Bowl championship team, before being traded to the Buffalo Bills where he played for a year prior to his release at the close of training camp.

Humm signed a three year contract with the Colts in November and started against Dallas before the largest crowd of the year in Baltimore. Late in the game, he sustained a broken finger and bone chips in his left (throwing) hand.

The six - foot - one - inch, 202 - pound Humm said he will be calling on local businesses in the coming week to drum up support for what Desert Inn president Burton Cohen calls "a community happening."

Nellis Wins Award

Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., was recently recognized by the Boy Scouts of America for the support the base has provided to Western Region scouting programs. Major General Jack I. Gregory, Tactical Fighter Weapons Center commander, accepted the award for the base which was presented by Robert Lamm, Boy Scouts of America Western Region program director. Nellis was selected as the base which contributed the most support to the program within the region.

Bill Foxworth says half his business comes from his Yellow Pages ad.

Does the biggest body shop in town need to advertise in the Yellow Pages?

Bill Foxworth thinks so. In fact, he mailed a questionnaire to customers of his Commerce Body Shop to find out.

"...an overwhelming 80% said they used the Yellow Pages to find us. More important to me, 90% of these said they were directly influenced by our large display ad.

"I get at least 50% of my business from the Yellow Pages..."

So why don't you, too, take a nice, big ad in the Yellow Pages...

And watch your business grow!

Transfer Agreement For University System Approved

RENO -- An agreement to facilitate the transfer of student credits from community colleges to universities within the state, and to strengthen present requirements in English, reading and mathematics, was approved Friday by the University of Nevada Board of Regents. The agreement, the result of an extensive study by campus representatives and the office of Chancellor Robert M. Bersi, is also designed to improve relationships among all state campuses.

To receive a degree, the agreement requires that students on all campuses complete a common core of courses that will transfer automatically to any other campus. At the same time, a committee answerable to the Regents will see that existing requirements in English, reading and mathematics are strengthened.

The agreement also provides for easier transfer of credits taken toward a degree at any campus. All such courses will transfer, at the very least, as general elective credit.

And for the first time in Nevada, Regents will review proposals for specialized four-year degree programs based on two years of training at a community college and two years of more general education at one of the universities, leading to specialized bachelor's degrees. These "capstone" programs better prepare students for employment and increase use of campus resources.

Additionally, each campus will establish an "Office of University (or Community College) Relations" to provide information and help with problems in transferring credits.

A master course file and transfer guide will also be published annually to show which courses have been judged by the universities and community colleges as degree level courses. Included will be a guide to assist students in selecting courses for the first two years of study.

Wine Tasting Event

The Winter Wine Extravaganza at Caesar's Palace was a huge success. The event was a combination wine tasting and fund raising function with proceeds going to Planned Parenthood of Southern Nevada. Many of California's premiere wineries donated their time, hospitality, and products.

More Nevadans Riding Rails

WASHINGTON - Nevada ridership on Amtrak passenger trains increased significantly enough to assure their continued operation, Sen. Howard Cannon said today.

The Desert Wind, which stops at Caliente and Las Vegas on its trip from Ogden, Utah, to Los Angeles carried 152,000 passengers and accumulated $7.9 million in revenue in 1981. This was almost a ten percent passenger increase over 1980 when the train carried 138,700 and had revenue of $3.7 million.

In Northern Nevada, the Zephyr had about a five percent passenger increase in 1981 over the prior year, Cannon said. In 1981 the Zephyr carried 391,000 persons for $23.9 million in revenue, compared to 372,400 persons and $19.4 million in revenue in 1980. The Zephyr stops at Elko, Winnemucca and Reno enroute from Chicago to Oakland.

Service is slated to continue for two experimental stops. Ridership at Winnemucca increased from 1045 in 1980 to 1375 last year, assuring continued service, Cannon said. Caliente service was inaugurated last year.

"The administration has sought only $600 million for Amtrak next year, despite the fact that Congress authorized $788 million for it," Cannon said.

"We faced this same reluctance to provide adequate funding last year and prevailed, so I am hopeful of continued Congressional support for the coming year."

Cannon pledged continued support to provide the money to keep Amtrak operating nationwide in the 1982 fiscal year.

State Allocated Funds For Highway

Nevada has been allocated $140,697 in federal funds designated for public transportation in rural areas, it was announced today by Transportation Director Al Stone.

Eligible applicants may include state agencies, local public bodies, non-profit organizations and operators of public transportation services. Grants for capital and administrative expenses will not exceed 80 percent of the net cost, Stone said. For project operating expenses, the federal share cannot exceed 50 percent of the cost.

Additionally, some matching monies may become available from special funds established by legislation passed last year in which interest from state highway funds can be set aside for non-highway projects in the public interest. Allocations from that fund have already been committed in amounts totalling $22,655 to match federal grants for elderly and handicapped transportation.

The rural transportation program has already aided two county projects, two Indian reservations and two private operators with federal funds totalling $145,836 for vehicles either presently in operation or on order.

Additional information and applications for the program can be obtained from Nevada Department of Transportation, Attn: Dennis O. Barry, 1263 S. Stewart St., Carson City, NV., 89712; or by phoning (702) 885-5440.

During 'Festival Nights,' public television stations will offer a galaxy of special presentations, with a focus on American talent and institutions. In addition, the very best of public television's reg-

Profiles of beloved American talents will also be part of 'Festival Nights,' with "The Marx Brothers in a Nutshell," "Norman Rockwell's World: An American Dream" and "Starring Katharine Hepburn." A behind-the-scenes look at a uniquely American institution is the focus of "Lights! Camera! Annie! The Making of a Major Hollywood Musical."

"River of Sand" and "Vanishing Giants" looks at significant threats -- manmade and natural -- that wildlife must face; while "The Neuron Suite" takes the viewer on a unique

Glaucoma Screening Clinic March 12

Glaucoma is an insidious disease that accounts for one out of seven cases of blindness in this country.

An estimated two million Americans have the disease and one-half of them do not know it. Glaucoma nibbles away at vision without pain or noticeable symptoms and has often been called the 'sneak thief of sight.'

But glaucoma is one thief that can be arrested with medication or surgery -- if it is discovered early enough. Glaucoma cannot be prevented. Any vision lost to glaucoma cannot be restored, but the sight-destroying process can be halted.

Elevated pressure in the eye is an early indication of the disease. A simple, painless test called tonometry is used to measure pressure and detect those suspect of the disease.

Increased pressure damages the millions of nerve cells in the eye that transmit the 'picture' to the brain. Gradually, and without pain, the field of vision narrows bit by bit, so slowly that the victim is often unaware of the change. If not controlled, all vision may eventually be lost.

Most people at risk include the elderly, persons with a family history of glaucoma and those with diabetes and cardiovascular diseases.

All persons over 35 are advised to have an eye examination every other year -- the best defense against glaucoma. The disease can strike younger people also, particularly if there is glaucoma in the family. Those at greatest risk should be checked annually for the disease.

The first glaucoma screening clinic at the Main Health Center of the Clark County Health District will be held March 12 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Appointments can be made by calling 383-1354. Glaucoma screening will be held regularly at the Main Health Center, 625 Shadow Lane, on the second and fourth Fridays of each month, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

According to Evelyn McColl, R.N., director of clinics and nursing services, the glaucoma screening clinic was possible through the donation of a tonometer by the Executive Lions Club of Las Vegas. A formal presentation of the tonometer was made last night at the Health District, Thursday, February 25.

Leonard Wilson, Past King Lion, made the presentation to the Health District and Dr. Maurice Pearlman, chairman of the project, commented on glaucoma and the significance of the tonometer in detecting the disease.

Dr. Pearlman said that approximately 5,000 people in Las Vegas have glaucoma and do not know it. If the disease is detected, it can be controlled. Without detection glaucoma will progress like a 'robber,' slowly, without pain, destroying nerve cells in the eye.

The Executive Lions Club purchased and donated the tonometer to speed glaucoma detection in Southern Nevada. Their efforts are part of a nationwide program to alert and identify victims of the disease. The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness is leading the national campaign, called the Glaucoma Alert Program. The program has been developed to accelerate local education and detection activities.

THALIA DONDERO, chairperson of the District Board of Health, thanks Leonard Wilson, Past King Lion, for a glaucoma screening tonometer donated by the Executive Lions Club of Las Vegas. Kennie Hoyer, nurse practitioner at the Health District, performed glaucoma screening tests following the presentation of the tonometer Thursday evening.

1982-83 Concert Season Announced

New memberships in Community Concerts are now available in the membership drive which is now underway. Community Concerts is a national organization which operates to bring internationally recognized artists and performing groups to its membership audiences throughout America. Admission to concerts is by membership ticket, and admissions to individual concerts are not sold at the door.

The Southern Nevada Community Concerts Association, now in its 46th year, is pleased to announce that concerts for next year are scheduled in the Artemus Ham Concert Hall at UNLV. They will include the celebrated Scandiafestival, a company of 50 young folk dancers, singers, and musicians, and the spectacular Ballet Folclorica Nacional de Mexico. The brilliant duo-harpists Escosa and Pinkerton, the handsome and electrifying tenor Jack Trussel, and the Western Opera Company presenting "Barber of Seville" in English will round out a great season of five unforgettable concerts.

The Community Concert Association is able to schedule these remarkable offerings by functioning as a volunteer non profit organization and by operating on memberships only. Present members are reminded to make sure their renewal is processed by their worker.

Those interested in membership can get further information by contacting either the Boulder City chairman, Rita Lyons, 293-1092; Henderson chairman, Val Potter, 564-5973; or workers listed below. Boulder City and Henderson workers are Nadean Voss, 293-2231.

Health Fair Week Set For April

April 12-18 are the confirmed dates for the third annual Health Fair Week Program in Southern Nevada.

Health Fairs will provide a wide variety of free health screenings and preventative health education services at various site locations throughout our area. This event is co-sponsored by several community based organizations in association with KTNV-Channel 13, Caesars Palace, Centel, American Borate, Southwest Gas, and the National Health Screening Council for Volunteer Organizations, (NHSCVO).

The goal of the Health Fair Week Program according to NHSCVO Project Director, Curt Fenske, is to "provide a centralized location where area residents can take advantage of free health screenings and preventative health education services; while at the same time acquiring information about the various health services offered throughout Clark County." "Health Fairs do not replace a physical examination by a physician," stated Mr. Fenske, "but it does serve the purpose of informing individuals about the ways in which they can have a positive effect upon their own health status and life expectancy.

Nellis People Win Awards

Two people from Nellis Air Force Base were recently recognized by the United States Air Force for their excellence in aircraft maintenance.

Master Sergeant Oliver E. Barthel, III, was named the Aircraft Maintenance Supervisor-manager for 1981. He is the Aerospace Ground Equipment Branch Superintendent for the 474th Tactical Fighter Wing, the only combat-ready F-16 wing in the Air Force.

Sergeant Barthel, who hails from Redford Township, Mich., and supervises 70 people, said, "These men and women are the best I've seen since I've been in the service." "Any person could have this honor if they had these people working under them."

Harold L. Hayes, a weapons system technician for the 57th Fighter Weapons Wing, was named the Air Force's outstanding civilian technician in the munitions maintenance category.

Hayes, who has worked at the base since 1956, said, "I've always enjoyed my work because there's always something different to do; it's not just a one-thing job." The Rapid City, S.D., native also feels that it's always a challenge repairing aircraft equipment.

Laxalt's Wild Horse Bill

Washington—Nevada Senator Paul Laxalt has announced that he will co-sponsor a bill to amend the Wild Free-Roaming Horse and Burro Act of 1971. The legislation authorizes direct sale of excess wild horses and burros not placed in private maintenance.

The Bureau of Land Management, under current law, is required to destroy these animals without the option of selling them.

"Giving the BLM the option of selling the excess horses and burros rather than relying solely on adoption before destroying them, I think, is a humane and realistic approach," Laxalt said.

Other features of the amendment include:

Maintaining a population base of wild horses and burros consistent with the principle of multiple use.

Reducing the possibility of individuals adopting excess animals for the purpose of commercial gain.

Contact IRS on Refunds

Taxpayers filing their 1981 federal income tax returns and claiming a refund should wait at least 10 weeks to contact the Internal Revenue Service about a delayed refund, the IRS says.

Generally, taxpayers who file returns early in the year should receive refunds in less than two months, unless their return was incorrect in some way, according to the IRS.

Those taxpayers filing returns after April 1 should wait until after June 15 to contact the IRS about a refund.

Some of Our Favorite Recipes

This week's recipe contributor is Marilyn Earl, a resident of Green Valley for almost a year. Earl and husband, Gerald, a dentist, and children Julie, 5, Kristin, 3, and Samuel, 2, moved to Green Valley from Oregon.

Earl said her recipe for Puffed Apple Pancake looks harder to prepare than it really is, adding that "people think you've gone to a lot of work and you really haven't."

PUFFED APPLE PANCAKE
6 eggs
1½ cups milk
1 cup whole wheat pastry flour
¼ cup honey
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

¼ lb. butter
4 apples, peeled and thinly sliced
3 Tablespoons honey

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. In a blender or large bowl, mix eggs, milk, flour, honey, vanilla, salt and cinnamon until blended. Melt butter in a 12-inch fluted porcelain quiche dish or a 13x9 baking dish in oven. Add apple slices to baking dish. Return to oven until butter sizzles. Do not let it brown. Remove dish from oven and immediately pour batter over apples. Drizzle remaining honey on top. Bake in middle of oven 20 minutes, or until puffed and brown. Serve immediately, serves 6-8.

History of Egg Decoration

Traditions of egg decorating have enriched the myths and legends of many cultures, and have delighted people of all ages around Eastertime for centuries.

Popular beliefs, imagination and craftsmanship have turned egg decorating into a highly developed and diversified folk art. The egg itself possesses the secret of life; it symbolizes a "rebirth" and is often associated with Easter, Spring, dawn and creation. All involve a beginning, and in one form or another, almost every living thing comes from or can be traced back to an egg of some sort.

Many years before the birth of Christ, the Persians and Egyptians were coloring eggs. And while the Jews do not celebrate Easter, they too colored eggs at approximately the same time of the year, during their Passover season. In some parts of the world, Jews still use colored eggs for Passover and other religious celebrations. Because of the coincidental nearness of Passover and Easter, Christians may have gotten the idea for colored eggs from the Jews and incorporated it into their Easter celebration.

In many European countries, it was the custom on Easter day to have a "tapping" contest where children would knock the ends of eggs together to see who could keep his egg unbroken the longest. Egg-tossing and egg-rolling games were brought to the United States by German settlers, as was the concept of the "Easter Bunny." Because rabbits multiply quickly and are a symbol of fertility, they became associated with the celebration of Easter. According to legend, the Pagan goddess of Spring, Eostre, turned a bird into a rabbit. This may explain why, in some areas, the Easter Bunny delivers baskets full of colored eggs to children on Easter morning.

Some of the early German and Pennsylvania Dutch traditions and customs are still in existence today. The most common tradition, still practiced, is hiding eggs for children to find on Easter morning. Both parents and children color them during Easter week, leaving the eggs for the Easter Bunny to hide on Easter Eve. If an egg is particularly beautiful, it may be kept to treasure as a work of art or given as a gift to a special friend.

The various methods of decorating eggs have also become tradition. Today, a few people still color their eggs by boiling them in natural materials such as onion skins or flowers, but a more universal method of applying color is to use commercial dyes made especially for that purpose. With paint-on egg dyes, colors can easily be applied with cotton swabs or brushes to create virtually any original design.

Stripes, floral and geometric designs, and dot patterns are most common. A slightly more difficult method involves coloring the egg and scratching off portions of the color to expose the shell, creating a "reverse" color effect. Probably the most sophisticated method is "pysanky," a "resist-dyeing" egg craft which produces intricate designs by using wax.

He was a freelance illustrator for many widely circulated periodicals including Life, Outdoor Life, True, Argosy, Popular Science, Cosmopolitan, Motor Trends, etc., from 1946 to 1950.

From 1950 to 1976, he served as an instructor of head and figure painting, still life and illustration at the Art Center of Design at Pasadena.

More than twenty artists from Nevada and surrounding western states will exhibit oils, acrylics, sculpture, watercolors and drawings at the exhibit in the Boulder City

Municipal building, which opens to the public at 10 a.m. April 3.

Gold, Silver and Bronze medallions plus cash prizes will be awarded to first, second and third place winners in each category with a $350 cash award and medallion to the Best of Show as judged by Reynold Brown.

Awards will be presented Saturday evening following an artists and collectors barbecue with an auction scheduled for 8 p.m.

The art show is being held in conjunction with the Fifth Annual Boulder City Spring Jamboree and many other events and entertainment are scheduled including a print sale, special art exhibits at other galleries, sports events, and refreshments.

Local Government Budgets Due for Review

By Ernest L. Newton

Next Monday (March 15) Nevada citizens will have an opportunity to learn what their elected local officials plan to do during the fiscal year beginning next July 1; and also what actions are planned for the financing of those activities. Citizens will have an opportunity to study the budgets and to voice proposals for changes prior to, or at, the public hearings on the proposed programs the third week in April.

Hearings on county budgets are to be held April 19; on city budgets April 20; and on school district budgets on April 21. Special district budgets will be considered either with the county budgets on April 19, or separately on April 15.

It is almost a sure thing that no local government will have LESS money to spend in 1982-83 than it had in 1981-82. The taxation program is designed to provide increased revenues to partially offset the effects of inflation. Many local governments will have the taxes generated by new valuations of previously assessed properties. The valuations have increased by about 6 percent statewide. There is also a permitted increase in some non-property-tax revenues and fees.

It is probable that the permitted increases will not wholly offset the ravages of inflation. Some desired increases in wages and fringe benefits may have to be foregone. Or, if that is impossible, a reduction in personnel may have to offset increased payroll costs.

There is sure to be a determined drive to obtain substantial compensation increases for school personnel; and preliminary figures indicate that such may be possible. Enrollments have stabilized and in some districts declined. The budgets being prepared for next year can tailor staffing patterns to student needs and excess staff can be terminated.

Generally the teachers' union has urged a continuing reduction in class size and has depended upon the general public's lack of definitive data to avoid a critical analysis of that demand. Dr. Roger Freeman of the Hoover Institute at Stanford has revised the data he compiled some 15 years ago. He has found that there is still no correlation between class size (within limits of course) and the excellence of instruction in primary and secondary schools. (The "limits" are 12 at the bottom and 36 at the top.) Most Nevada schools provide a teacher for each 25 or less students. In some districts the ratio is as low as one to 19. Of course in some very small districts, such a low ratio is inevitable just because there are so few students and a minimum staff is required.

Kosinski Demands Health Care Changes

"It is time for the government of the state of Nevada to resolve the crisis developing in the health care system in our state," said Senator Jim Kosinski (D) Washoe County. The Senator, a member of the Legislative Commission, said he has written a letter to the Chairman of the Commission suggesting that a Legislative Subcommittee be appointed to develop recommendations for the 1983 Legislative Session concerning numerous health care issues, before these issues become crises. He said some of the issues which need attention by the Legislative Subcommittee are:

1. Developing alternatives to long-term care facilities for our older citizens and our handicapped citizens.
2. Developing a process to replace the "certificate of need" program which regulates capital expenditures for health care facilities to slow the rapid increases in health care costs.
3. Determining how the state of Nevada will insure adequate medical care for Nevadans on low incomes.

Chest X-Ray Schedule

Mobile Chest X-Ray Unit will be in Las Vegas at following locations: Sav-On Drugstore, 1360 E. Flamingo Rd., March 11 through 16. Also Sav-On Drugstore, 4014 S. Rainbow Blvd., March 18 through 23. Daily (both locations) 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Also Sat. and Sun.

Your X-Ray is viewed and diagnosed for any abnormality of the chest and lungs by a Board Certified Radiologist. This is a full and complete service to you for a nominal fee of $10 which includes radiologist, processing of tests and mailing results.

must provide programs which will assist our older residents to stay in their homes or in the homes of relatives.

Adult day-care centers, senior companions and financial assistance are examples of programs needed in this area.

Senator Kosinski went on to explain that the "certificate of need" (CON) process imposed on the states by the federal government to provide government control over the construction of new health care facilities and the purchase of new health care equipment will probably be repealed or substantially weakened by Congress. There is considerable controversy as to whether the CON process has accomplished its stated goal of holding down health care costs for the consumer. He said "the Legislative Subcommittee should determine whether Nevadans could benefit from a regulatory process to control health care costs. And, if so, what kind of program should we implement."

Kosinski explained that health care costs for the medically indigent is a rapidly growing problem for federal, state and local governments. He said, "our Medicaid budget exceeds $70 million this year in addition to the growing burden on county government and county taxpayers for indigent medical care. We must provide medical care for these Nevadans without imposing an unfair tax burden on the rest of our citizens."

Senator Kosinski said, "It is an absolute necessity that we develop a long-range plan for meeting the health care needs of Nevadans. It is through planning that the citizens of our state can set health care priorities and plan for needed facilities and services."

Study of Chinese History

One of the most popular of the dozen history courses being taught at Clark County Community College is the Introduction to Chinese Civilization, and no small reason is due to the fact that the course's instructor, Jack Ringler, not only teaches here but in China.

"What I teach at Sichuan Teacher's College in China," explained Ringler, "is United States History, but what it becomes is a cultural exchange of thoughts and ideologies. I learn a great deal, as I hope my students there do."

China claims the longest continuous civilization on earth. It is immense in size and culture, and today 900 million people live on its rich agricultural lands, vast deserts and plateaus, and along two of the world's largest rivers.

"China's people," Ringler continued, "are friendly to me, and very curious about our ways. It is my hope, of course, that students here will become as curious about them."

The increased enrollment in my course seems to indicate that this curiosity is growing rapidly."

Even though Ringler admits that he does not know the Chinese language as well as he'd like, he is a graduate of the Naval War College and Language School, as preparatory to his assignment as Naval Attaché in Korea. Jack is a retired Major of the United States Marine Corps.

Before coming to Clark County Community College in 1973, Jack Ringler took degrees at the University of Utah (B.S.), George Washington University (M.S.), and at American University (M.A.).

Today's student, Ringler feels, is different from those he taught just nine years ago. "The students," he said, "are less provincial, and more practical. They constantly ask what a particular fact or trend of history means to them in their present situation. The study of history is nothing remote in character and content, not any longer."

In May of this year, Ringler is leading a tour to China for his students and others from the community. In the 17 - days, they will tour Peking, Chengdu, and Xian to see the newly discovered tombs.

"Our tour," Ringler added, "will focus on the old, that is, the Great Wall and the ancient tombs, but the students will become acutely aware, as have I, of how a more modern China is pushing through all kinds of traditions."

Ringler, like others who have toured or worked in China, feels that a mutually keen curiosity persists between Americans and Chinese, and, as he concludes, "The more we take the time to study China and its people, the better equipped we Americans will be to cope with our rapidly changing world."

Boulder theatre Rolls Back Prices

In these days of tight money ... with people trying to stretch a dollar ... there's good news coming from the Boulder Theatre at 1225 Arizona Street in Boulder City. Prices have been reduced for everyone. Adults may now enjoy an evening at the theatre for just $2.50 ... while kids under 12 now pass the turnstyle for one dollar. And on Saturday ... a FREE matinee each week. That's right, free ... no cost. The new policy is designed to make movie entertainment more affordable for people on tight budgets ... especially in these days of tight money. Managers Art and Shirley Schruhl invite everyone to take advantage of catching their favorite movie at the Boulder Theatre now that such a treat is more reasonable.

HELP NEEDED

June Emberton, who taught the Sign Language Class which recently closed, has moved back to Twin Falls, Idaho. The class had a "good-bye party" for her at Harry's Cafe, and nobody was allowed to talk aloud! But now, the Recreation Department needs another teacher for this class, which was a "first" in Boulder City. Remember, not only deaf persons, but family members and friends need to be conversant if there is to be communication. The group will continue meeting with Coleen Jarecki. If you can teach, or want to be in the class, contact Roger Hall at the City Recreation Department (293-2956) or chairman Jody Tilman (293-4937).

THE DOYLES

Julie and Paul Martin and their three children are enjoying the visit of her parents, Betty and John Doyse. They arrived Sunday from Eugene, Oregon, and will be here a week. Mrs. Doyle had already endeared herself to the school's Santa's Workshop, when she mailed two boxes of dried flowers, which were greatly appreciated. Friends say that they hope the Doyles "have a super time and will visit Boulder City again, real soon."

FRANCES KNIGHTON

Frances Knighton is always happy when her shut-in days are brightened by the visit of friends. Last week, she had three guests. Gertrude "Gertie" Priddy of Sacramento, California, stayed two days and two nights. She rented a car at the airport in Las Vegas, so that she could visit friends in Boulder City, including former fellow worker, Evelyn Finigan, former neighbor Harold Lampsa, and Lena Mae Porter. She also went to the cemetery to pay respects to many old friends, and her late husband Earl Merritt. She looked at the changes at Gold Strike, and Lake Mead where she and Earl were baptised. Just as Gertrude was getting ready to return to her job in a department store, she was followed by Irene and Ed Lloyd of Eureka, California, who also were with Frances for two days.

MORE MEMORIES

There wasn't room, last week, for all of the memories brought back by the box of papers being sorted, so here are some more.

Joint Symposium Set On 'Man In The Desert'

Scientists and scholars from the University of Nevada System and the Hebrew University of Jerusalem will hold a joint symposium in Las Vegas on the general theme of man's adaptation and survival in desert climates.

Dr. Clifford J. Murino, president of the Desert Research Institute of the University of Nevada System, said up to forty experts in the field of water resource, atmospheric sciences, biology and agriculture will participate in the symposium's workshops at the Hacienda Hotel & Casino, which will be held during the next fifty years.

"It is hoped that the meeting of scientists from the two arid regions will result in significant new proposals for collaborative research on the various problems facing modern desert cultures.

"Although some of the forces for development of the State of Nevada and those involved in the development of the Middle East are different, there are many similarities in the underlying scientific, technical and social problems to be overcome in both cases," Dr. Murino said.

He said the concept of the symposium, which it is hoped will develop into a significant program of scientific cooperation between the two University systems, came about as a result of discussions among representatives of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, the Desert Research Institute, the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, and the University of Nevada, Reno, with the help of the American Friends of the Hebrew University and the Jewish Federation of Las Vegas.

Handicapped Eligible for Tax Advantages

Reno -- Handicapped and disabled persons and their families should be aware of a special publication that highlights how they can reduce their taxes, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The IRS has a free booklet, Publication 907, "Tax Information for Handicapped and Disabled Individuals," which covers subjects of particular interest to the disabled or handicapped and their families.

This publication, for example, explains how individuals can:

- exclude certain disability payments for income;
- claim a $1,000 exemption for blindness;
- deduct medical expenses;

--claim a credit for disabled dependent care expenses; and how a business can:

- claim a credit for hiring handicapped employees, and
- take a business deduction for the cost of removing architectural and transportation barriers for easier access by the handicapped.

In addition, the publication gives general tax information on such topics as what kind of income is taxable, and certain additional exemptions, deductions and credits and how to claim them.

To get a copy of this publication, call the IRS at 784-5521, in Reno; 385-6291, in Las Vegas; or (800) 491-6552, toll free from other areas of Nevada.

DOWNTOWN HENDERSON

Green Valley Highlands To Begin Construction On Second Phase

More than ever before people are selecting townhomes as their living arrangement. Green Valley Highlands townhomes, located in Nevada's largest master-planned community, are proving to be a very popular selection.

Green Valley Highlands townhomes, a joint venture of American Nevada Corporation, overall developer of Green Valley, and Metropolitan Development Corporation, became available to the public over a year ago, said Eve Ferrand, salesperson for Green Valley Highlands.

Only two of the 39 units in phase one are still available, and concrete slabs for the 39 units in phase two of the complex have already been poured. Construction is scheduled to begin in mid March.

According to Ferrand, townhome living's popularity stems from the fact that many people prefer an alternative to owning and maintaining a house.

"You can close the door and travel and come back and everything has been taken care of," Ferrand said of townhomes.

Green Valley Highlands is ambient with a convenient luxurious lifestyle highlighted with activity. Amenities include a swimming pool, jacuzzi, cabana, night lighted tennis courts and spacious green areas for residents to amble through.

Green Valley Highlands townhomes can only be described as "elegant." Four different designs range from 1,188 to 2,005 square feet and prices in phase two range from $90,950 to $123,950, Ferrand noted.

Two-car garages with automatic garage-door openers are available, and each townhome is designed with energy conservation in mind, utilizing dual pane insulated glass, a kitchen range hood with positive automatic damper and fully insulated ceilings and exterior walls.

Located on Highview Drive, the Highlands are a half mile from the Showboat Country Club and overlook much of Green Valley's 8,400 acres.

The Highlands' design was created to make the complex "one of the most prestigious in the Las Vegas area," Ferrand said, explaining the difference between the Highlands and other townhome complexes.

"These units are terraced, or built on different levels," she noted, adding that "the Complex also has curved streets, eliminating a row house appearance. The clusters (of units) almost appear to be Mediterranean villas."

Green Valley Highlands location adds even more to its Mediterranean appearance. "It's quiet and peaceful here. The entire atmosphere is almost like a resort," Ferrand said.

Green Valley's ultimate goal is to provide residents with a quality lifestyle and environment, and in doing so has presented prospective purchasers with a wide complement of housing from which to select. Green Valley Highlands offers not just townhome living, but an environment second to none.

GREEN VALLEY

A TOWN WITH A PLAN.

Think Small - But Build Big!

By Bill Harbour

"Think small" is the current motto for Howard and Jackie Koviak who live in Gingerwood Trailer Park in Boulder City.

But "small" is not a proper word to describe the "huge" undertaking the retired couple just completed. Tremendous ... time consuming ... and requiring the patience of Job ... all more aptly describe the magnificent doll house built and furnished in exquisite detail by the couple.

Resplendent on a three foot by six foot base, the imposing two story miniature home is complete in every way ... and in fact would be the envy of those who are house hunting if it were only full size.

The attention to detail is almost unbelievable. A tiny diaper pail in the home's bathroom contains a tiny diaper inside with ... yes, a still more miniscule soiled spot.

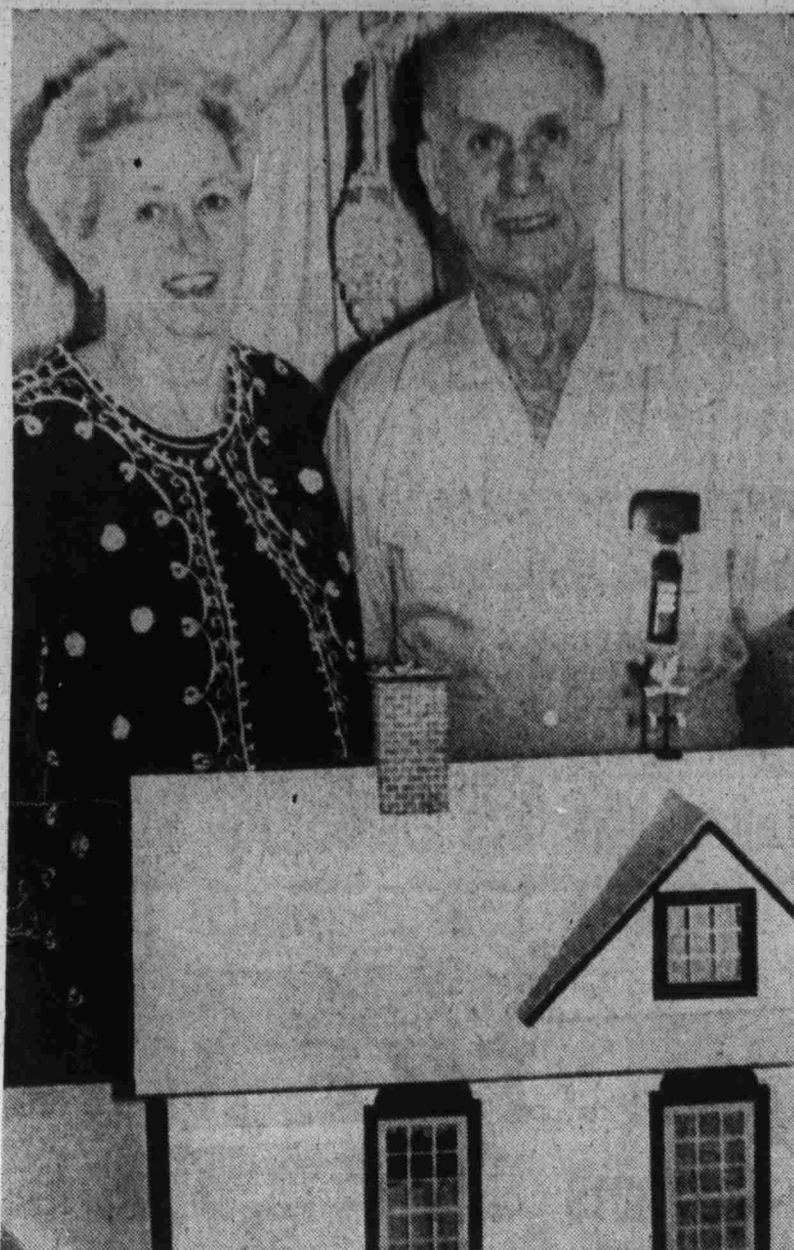

A miniature bed with a miniature crocheted bedspread containing 109 perfectly executed squares ... and a delicate crocheted edging applied to sheets and pillowcases.

Speaking of pillows, they're filled with lint taken from a clothes dryer screen.

It would require pages of descriptions to tell of all of the appointments to be found everywhere throughout the home ... such as a miniature family album with perfectly scaled photos of actual members of the Koviak family.

In every way, a labor of love that has consumed hours beyond counting ... and one that began back at Christmas of 1980 when the couple's kids presented Jackie with the basic structure ... in kit form.

She recalls the event with a smile. "Howard wasn't too pleased," she remembers. "The kit was nothing more than stacks of miniature lumber. He'd make negative references to the idea at first ... but once we tackled the actual construction, it wasn't very long before he was referring to it as his house."

Howard and Jackie Koviak and their pride and joy.

Howard readily concurs. Once "hooked" on the project, the couple's creativity sought ways to further improve on the basic design.

Not happy with the room allowed for a kitchen, a wing was designed ... with another on the opposite end of the house for balance. Howard wrote the kit's manufacturer to see if he could purchase additional "lumber" to match that of the basic home. Although the factory had never received such a request, they went along reluctantly. Later, they too would become caught up in the excitement and request pictures of the project in progress.

A New World

At first completely unfamiliar with this hobby, the Koviaks quickly became educated in sources of supply for materials, furnishings, catalogues, etc.

They also became pack rats ... and saw possibilities in all kinds of throw-away items such as bottle caps ... (used for stool tops) ... glue bottle covers which converted to miniature milk bottles.

Speaking of glue, the project consumed many, many bottles of same. It was the principal construction tool ... although tiny nails were used in some areas.

With a sideways span of five feet, the home rose up on the kitchen table, moving to other locations before finally coming to rest on the coffee table in the couple's living room.

As it grew, so did the interest of neighbors ... and many of the Gingerwood Park residents contributed to the furnishings. The Koviak's children and grandchildren also made items for the new home.

The work went on ... and the couple would often become so engrossed in a particular portion of the project that the time would slip by unnoticed ... and they'd stay up until the wee hours of the morning. Eyebrow tweezers are a major tool for the delicate assembly of lilliputian parts. At a scale of one inch to one foot, you can envision the problems ... and steady hand required.

Howard lost the sight in one eye last year ... but it didn't stop his enthusiasm or his participation. A magnifying glass and perserver-

At last it was done. But it won't stay on the coffee table in Gingerwood. It's to be carefully crated and taken to the couple's granddaughter, Linda Olson, 7, in La Jolla, California. A deed of trust in her name will accompany the home.

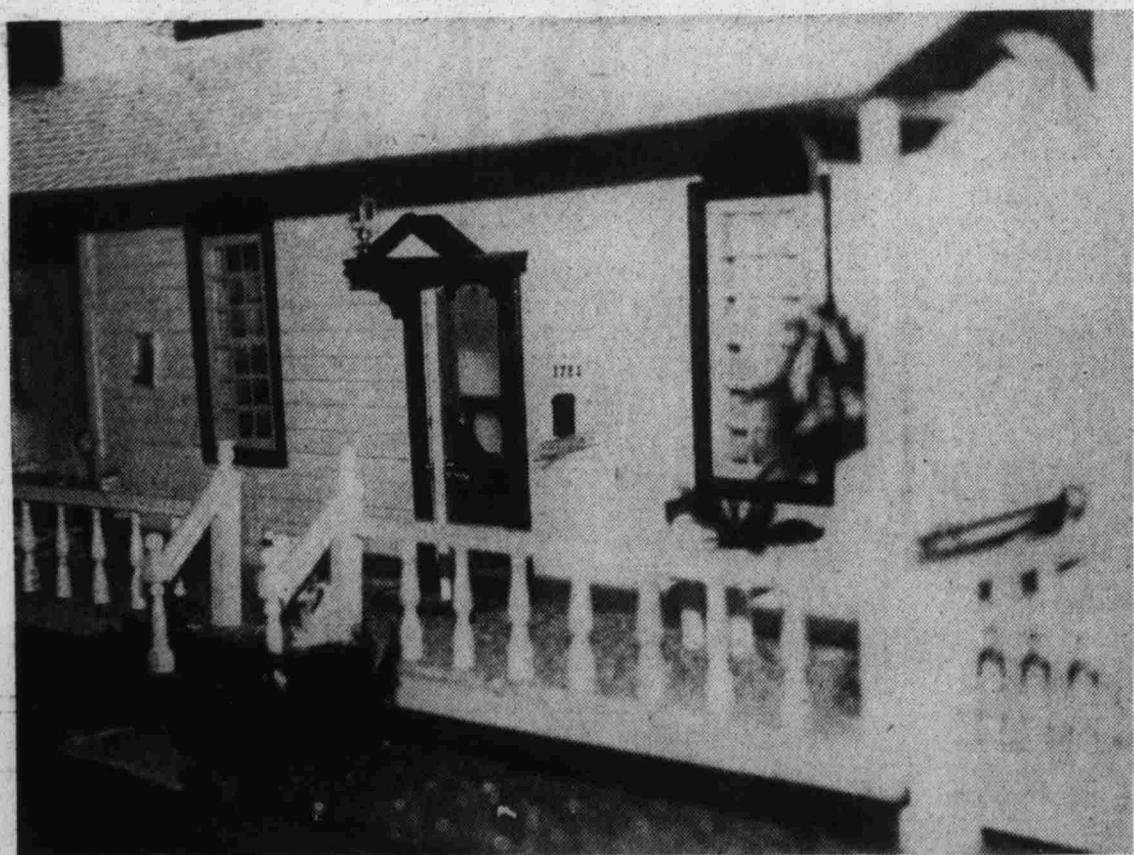

Is it all over? Not on your life. The bug has bitten both Koviaks ... and a still grander home is rising from a table in the dining area ... this one with a widow's walk and complete with stairs from one floor to the other.

Howard and Jackie radiate pleasure at what they have created. Both highly recommend such projects as a most rewarding hobby for seniors. It challenges the mind ... and the dexterity of the builder ... and allows for all kinds of individual creative applications.

Think small? Only in the size of the individual items involved. The Koviaks thought big ... and their completed efforts clearly show the devotion included in every corner ... every nook and cranny ... of the miniature house which has been valued at nearly $4,000.

Rabbit Hunting Season Ends

By Charles Crunden

Nevada's 1981-82 hunting season for cottontail, pygmy and white-tailed rabbits ended Sunday, February 28, bringing about the close of most of the hunts which began last fall.

Also closing on the same date was the special falconry season that allows the use of birds of prey as a means of taking the various upland game species. Those who participate in this hunt are required to possess a special falconry license, in addition to the hunting license, and were restricted to a limit of no more than two upland game birds daily and in possession.

The only seasons remaining open are mountain lion, with a closing date of April 30, and the trapping season for beaver, otter, muskrat and mink. This season will remain open through April 4.

According to Nevada Department of Wildlife, the statewide harvest of rabbits is expected to drop this year in spite of fairly good populations in certain northern areas of the state. Rabbits are usually taken incidental to other upland game species and because of low to fair populations of quail and chukar in most locations, combined with the increased price of gasoline, hunter interest has been low and the number of hunting trips made are expected to be lower this year.

HDOW is currently assessing hunter effort and success during the recent upland game hunts. This information is derived each year from questionnaires sent to a stratified sample of all licensed Nevada hunters.

Quail Ridge Estates' Homesites Selling Quickly

Spring is just around the corner as can be seen by the many flowers and trees beginning to bloom. Quail Ridge Estates in Green Valley is also blooming as more and more houses are in various stages of building.

Quail Ridge Estates, 105 custom homesite lots located in Nevada's largest master-planned community, has been acclaimed as one of the finest master-planned developments in the country. Since becoming available to the public in the fall of 1981, more and more visitors to Quail Ridge are becoming permanent residents.

One satisfied lot purchaser has just begun construction on his lot, which will soon be filled with a one story, four bedroom, 3,800 square foot house. He said the master planning of the development makes Quail Ridge an exceptional area to live.

"Quail Ridge is a beautiful area and is a good investment," he explained. "The covenants, conditions and restrictions will improve the value of the property in the future."

Included as part of the covenants, conditions and restrictions are that the minimum number of off-street parking be for three autos, all recreational vehicles must be screened from view and housing design is architecturally controlled.

"It's the best planned community in Las Vegas as far as I'm concerned," the lot owner said.

Many feel the same way as this lot purchaser. Construction has begun in phase three of Quail Ridge, as grading and off-site improvements are underway. The 23 units in phase one have all been sold, according to Leslie Bausher, marketing director for American Nevada Corporation, developer of Quail Ridge Estates and overall developer of Green Valley, and homesites in phase two of the development (25 units) moved so quickly phase three was prepared for purchasing.

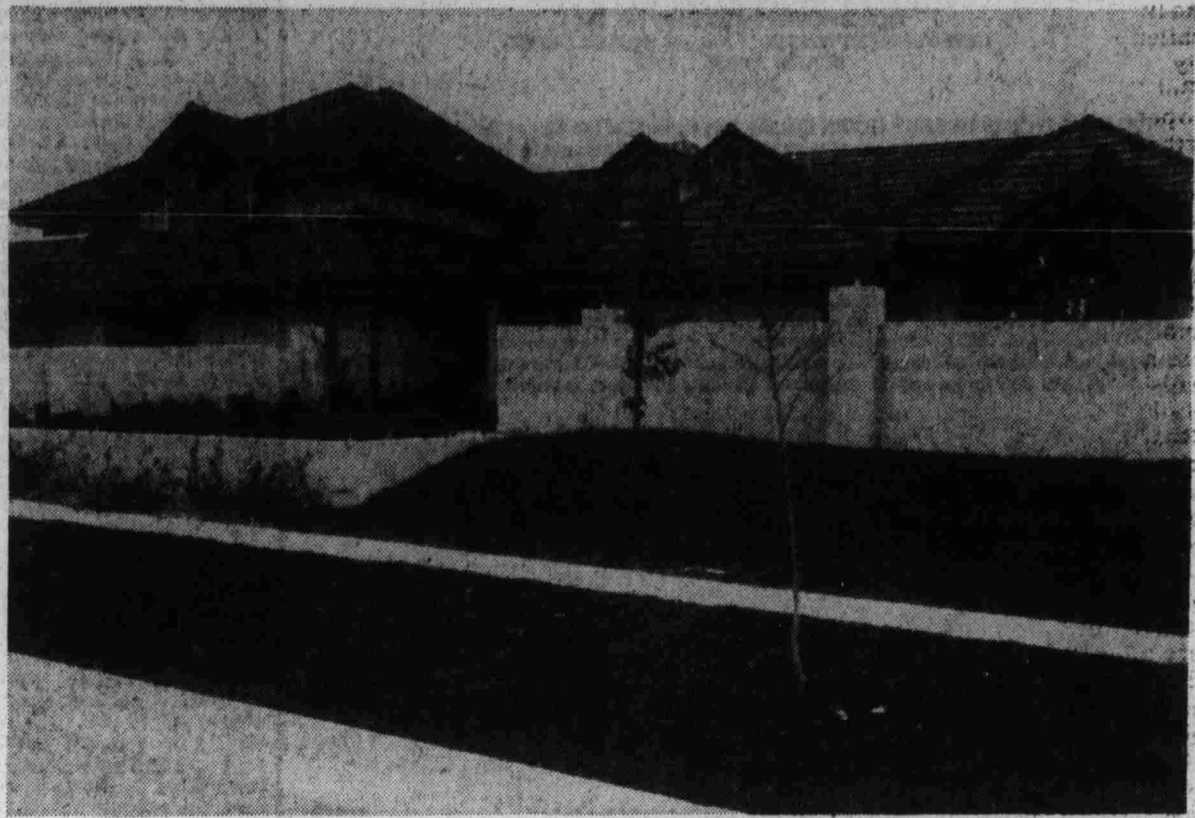

Quail Ridge Estates will also feature a tennis club for its residents to enjoy, and Bausher said that construction should be completed during 1982. Lot purchasers will have automatic membership in the southwestern designed club, which will have recessed tennis courts with amphitheatre seating and night lighting.

Quail Ridge not only offers elegant homesites and beautiful landscaping, but has the added comfort of security.

When complete, Quail Ridge will be fully walled and gate guarded, with a computerized security system located in the guardhouse for available connection to each lot. The surrounding wall should be finished by the end of 1982, Bausher explained, as well as construction of electronic gates at the entry to the development. The gates will be operated on a card key system.

The sights and sounds of spring are everywhere, including Quail Ridge Estates, the ultimate in custom homesite developments.

in Green Valley. Three of the four phases in the development will soon be ready for prospective purchasers.

Reclamation Awards Contract For Wells and Windmills Along Canal

Award of a $244,229 contract for construction of eight wells and windmills and other associated facilities to provide watering areas for deer and other wildlife along a 49-mile-long section of relocated and concrete-lined Coachella Canal in Imperial County, California, was announced today by Bill Plummer, Director of the Bureau of Reclamation's Lower Colorado Region.

Plummer said the award went to Water Well Services of Las Vegas, Nevada.

Major work to be performed under the contract includes drilling and developing eight wells, furnishing and erecting eight 27-foot-high windmills, constructing eight reinforced concrete water storage tanks, and furnishing and installing 13 reinforced concrete watering devices. The contractor will also construct overflow dispersion areas near the watering devices.

Four of the wells will be located approximately 6 miles east of Niland, California, and the other four will be located about 20 miles east of Brawley, California.

This is the second group of wells and windmills to be constructed as partial mitigation for fish and wildlife problems resulting from the Coachella Canal relocation, a Title I Colorado River Basin Salinity Control Project activity designed to salvage 132,000 acre-feet of water per year previously lost to seepage through the unlined canal section.

The initial group of 10 windmills and wells, 11 storage tanks, and 13 watering devices was constructed along the canal northwest of Glamis, California, under a $329,597 contract awarded in April 1981.

"Our monitoring studies show that the watering sites provided by the wells and windmills are working--the facilities are being used by wildlife," says Plummer. "This summer we plan to begin an evaluation program to determine just how effective these facilities are."

Touch For Health Course Explores Home Health Care

How you can bring about more creative results in your own abilities as an effective home health care enthusiast will be demonstrated and taught Saturday March 20th, at the Boulder City Women's Club at 504 7th street. Techniques that reactivate the body's own recuperative energies through relaxation, acupressure and applied kinesiology, color and music have been found to be very effective in assisting people in caring for themselves, reducing stress and helping reduce medical expenses. Presenting how to do these techniques is LeeAnn Washburn, a certified Touch For Health instructor. She also holds a degree in education from Black Hills State in South Dakota.

The workshop will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 4 p.m. with a break for lunch. For many it will serve as an introduction to holistic health care. Some of the concepts taught are very new and different to many, but she finds that almost everyone benefits in some way from knowing how to apply the various modalities to themselves or others. LeeAnn has conducted seminars locally for the past several years at various hospitals in Las Vegas and Henderson. She has also given her workshops at UNLV, the Community College, businesses, churches and personal growth groups. She has seen many individuals and families experience exciting changes in their lives as a result of applying these simple self-help ideas. The State Board of Nurses has approved her more extensive courses for continuing education credit for nurses. Participating health professionals and coaches have found the skills and knowledge they learn to be very helpful in the prevention of illness and injury. Advanced registration forms for the course can be obtained at the Herb Patch and the Pack Rat antique shop. For more information call 731-5464.

National Forest Planning Regulations Available

Copies of proposed changes in regulations to streamline the planning process for the National Forest System are available for public review at Forest Supervisor Offices throughout the Intermountain Region and at the Regional Office in Ogden, Utah.

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block said the regulations were selected in March by the Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Relief for reassessment because of their length and complexity.

The proposed changes, Block said, will clarify and simplify the planning process, and improve the process for analyzing and evaluating resource management alternatives and their economic effects. "This will allow for more efficient management of the National Forests and result in increased benefits to the public," Block said.

The public has until April 23 to send written comments on the proposed regulation changes to R. Max Peterson, Chief of the Forest Service, in Washington, D.C. Richard K. Griswold, Director of Planning and Budget for the Intermountain Region, said he does not believe the regulation changes will cause any significant delays in development of plans for the 18 National Forests in the Region. Most National Forest plans are not in the final stage of development, and any changes in the national regulations can be incorporated into schedules that call for completion of all plans in 1983.

Griswold said, however, that the final Regional plan will probably be issued in the fall. The Regional plan, which was circulated for public comment on June 30, 1981, was scheduled to be completed this spring.
