Police pounce on pushers

One Man's VIEW

By MIKE O'CALLAGHAN

Evidently Gary Bloomquist doesn't like cold weather. The new Henderson city manager only lasted a year in his job as an administrator in Alaska.

We hope Bloomquist is the answer to present city problems and he will spend more than a year with us before heading for Arizona and warmer weather.

Good luck, Gary.

By Katherine E. Scott

About 30 law enforcement officers, including four from State of Nevada Division of Investigation and Narcotics, yesterday conducted the largest coordinated arrest effort in the 32-year history of Henderson.

The raids on a dozen residences were the culmination of a six-month joint investigation, according to Henderson police sergeant Ed Echols, field supervisor. He noted two strike teams participated in picking up people who have allegedly dealt in drugs such as heroin, cocaine and "crank", a type of amphetamine.

"We have a tremendous problem with drugs and we want to make an impression," Echols mentioned yesterday afternoon before the approximately five-hour effort began.

Henderson police lieutenant Walt Zawrotny stated warrants were still being served at press time yesterday. However, the following suspects have already been arrested:

Epifinia Duran, 28, one

UNDER ARREST — Henderson police officers arrest two suspects during yesterday's drug raids. Charles Tucker, being handcuffed near the hood of the police car, was charged with two counts of sale of controlled substances.

Robin Hartman, 20, second from left, was charged with being a minor in possession of alcohol. Officers noted she had been drinking beer in Tucker's car. See page 2 for photo of drugs.

count of sale of controlled substances; Charles Tucker, 26, two counts of sale of controlled substances; Willie Edwards, 28, two counts of sale of controlled substances; Beverly Renshaw, 35, two counts of sale of controlled substances and one count of conspiracy to sell controlled substances; Scott Thomas, 19, one count of sale of controlled substances; and Larry Lester, 26, one count of sale of controlled substances.

Robin Hartman, 20, passenger of the vehicle driven by Tucker when he was taken into custody, was arrested for being a minor in possession of alcohol. Tucker's car was impounded, as were the vehicles of many of the others, for which warrants were issued.

The two teams of Henderson police officers and state investigators were continuing their raids as the NEWS went to press yesterday. Zawrotny noted, "Large quantities of narcotics are being confiscated at this time."

Memorial fund established for Urbantke family

URBANTKE FAMILY BEFORE MONDAY'S ACCIDENT— This recent photo shows Police Officer Gary Urbantke's family. On Monday, in an accident with an alleged drunk driver, Mrs. Terry Urbantke and their son Greg, 5, were killed. They are survived by the officer and a daughter Terry, who was in school at the time.

Members of the Henderson Police Department and the Henderson Police Officers Association have established an Urbantke family memorial fund.

Persons wishing to donate to the Terry and Greg Urbantke Memorial Fund may do so at any First Interstate Bank branch location in the Las Vegas valley.

Both 29-year-old mother Terry and six-year-old son Gregory died as a result of injuries received in a 1:45 p.m. head-on traffic accident Monday afternoon in the southbound lanes of Boulder Highway near Blakes Holiday Marine.

Father and husband 30-year-old Gary Urbantke was also injured but will recover, according to local police.

Donald Hanes of Flagstaff, Arizona, has been charged with two felony counts of driving under the influence and is held in the Clark County Jail.

According to local police, reports had been received from the Nevada Highway Patrol several minutes before the fatal accident that a vehicle was traveling the wrong way on Boulder Highway.

Police related Urbantke's

description of the accident. The family was returning from Las Vegas and while following another car, saw the car ahead of them veer sharply before the accident.

Once the car ahead of them veered to avoid Hanes' van, the accident was immediate with Urbantke having no time to also veer from the road. Urbantke was driving a late-model compact car.

Terry was killed instantly according to police reports while both Greg and Gary were transported to Humana Hospital Sunrise. Greg died during late afternoon surgery and Gary was treated and is scheduled for release soon, according to Police.

Police added they were unable to determine at what point Hanes entered the wrong way on the southbound lanes.

Law enforcement agencies throughout Clark County, along with the Henderson Firefighters Association, have joined in the memorial effort for the Urbantke family.

Gary is employed as an animal control officer for the local department.

Al Cieri, NEWS outdoors writer, recently received feature story recognition in the Los Angeles Times. Nobody knows more about fishing bass in Lake Mead than Cieri and writer Earl Gustkey makes this clear in the feature headlined "Veteran Guide Al Cieri Knows All The Tricks of Landing Largemouth Bass in the Many Canyons of Lake Mead."

Gustkey writes an excellent story about one of Nevada's finest fishermen. The NEWS is proud of columnist Al Cieri's fishing and writing skills.

Smith served this area in the Nevada Assembly for many years. His abilities as legislator were recognized by members of both political parties. It was the work of Smith and now Secretary of State Bill Swackhammer who helped bring the federal slot tax money back to Nevada for educational projects. Both men worked closely with Senators Alan Bible and Howard Cannon. Then U.S. Representative Walter Baring carried the load in the House with powerful Congressman Wilbur Mills.

Hal Smith's public service has been of the highest quality without a blemish of any kind.

Friday, July 20, 1984, has been designated by President Reagan as National Recognition Day for POW/MIA's.

In his proclamation President Reagan made clear that the POW/MIA issue will remain a matter of highest national priority until it is resolved. He said, "Our POWs and MIAs have earned a very special place in the hearts of all Americans because of their selfless devotion to duty and unflinching courage."

"We must not forget or fail to honor those who have served their country so faithfully.

"Our nation deeply appreciates the acute suffering and pain experienced by the families of our servicemen held captive or missing in action," he continued.

"The loss of a loved one is a tragic situation under any circumstance, but that burden is magnified when the fate of the loved one is unknown.

"All Americans fully support the efforts to end the uncertainties with which they continue to live."

So, Mr. President, what is your next move!

Boulder City's Bob Broadbent was lauded by Arizona's Sen. Dennis DeConcini in a report from the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee. Here's what the Democrat from Arizona told the U.S. Senate:

"Mr. President, the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee favorably reported the nomination of Robert N. Broadbent to be Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Water and Science. Bob Broadbent served as Commissioner of Reclamation from 1980 to 1983 and throughout that period demonstrated to all Westerners that he clearly understood the value of reclamation projects and the important role reclamation programs play in the lives of all citizens in western States. Mr. President, water is perhaps the single-most important natural resource in this country. In States like Arizona, where there is always a threatened shortage of this precious resource, reclamation has become the only method of insuring a sufficient supply of water to meet the needs of our State's inhabitants and providing a quality lifestyle. As a result, the State has a great deal of interaction with the Bureau of Reclamation in particular. As Commissioner of Reclamation, Bob Broadbent proved himself to be a fair and bipartisan individual who worked well with Arizonans and attempted to be responsive to our diverse needs. He is indeed a professional who has a firm grasp on water issues and would, in my view, make an excellent Assistant Secretary for Water and Science."

Lake project presentation at Chamber today

The topic of the Henderson Chamber of Commerce luncheon today will be a presentation of "The Lake" project which has been proposed in the northeastern section of Henderson.

The presentation will be made by Barry Silverton, Project Director for the Pacific Malibu Development Company.

"The Lake" project is to be developed as a first class planned resort community in Henderson, Nevada. The 2150 acre site will feature a 324 acre lake and 66,000 feet of shoreline combined with a full range of real estate products (resort beach hotels, townhouses, patio homes, condominiums and single family residential lots) and amenities such as boating, complete water sports, fishing, golf, tennis, horseback riding, marina shopping and a convention center. The site itself offers majestic desert views and vivid colors, providing a magnificent setting for a truly unique resort.

Annual growth in the number of tourist visits to Southern Nevada has increased by an average of four percent over the last ten years.

While market studies reflect that the rate of growth will slow between 1984 and 2000 the number of tourist visits is nevertheless expected to double during that period. Further, there are a number of encouraging signs for "The Lake" project in particular.

First, the slight slowdown in the rate of increase in tourists traveling to Las Vegas has been more than offset by an increase in the length of the stay.

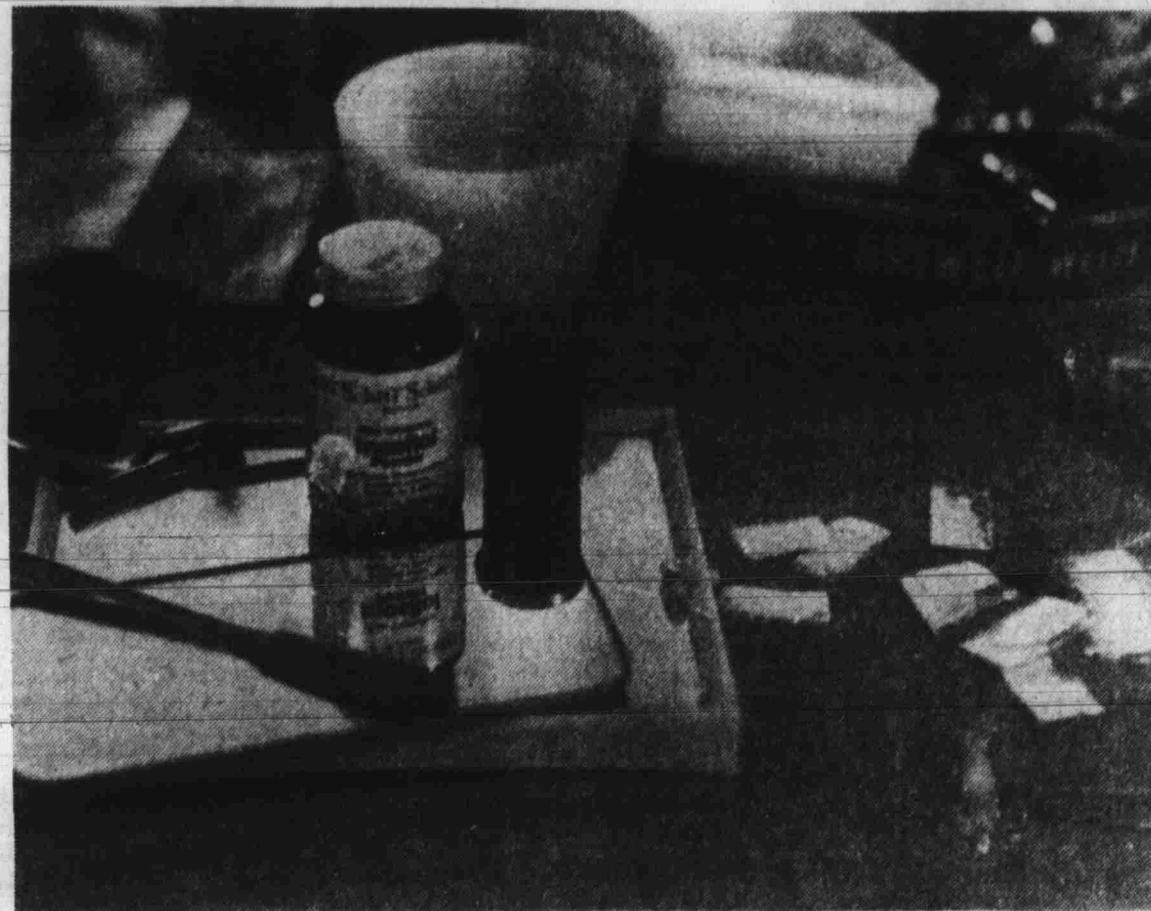

Second, there are no true planned resort communities in Southern Nevada.

Third, planned resort communities invariably out-perform the surrounding market, which does not offer the amenities included in a planned community.

Finally, even under the most conservative assumptions, the increase in demand for hotel rooms is projected to be approximately 20,800 rooms over the next fifteen years. Preliminary feasibility studies reflect that "The Lake" project will be able to capture a substantial proportion, up to 60 or 70 percent, of the net new potential for hotel rooms, or 12,500 to 14,500 rooms during the 1985 to 2000 time-frame.

Marketing experts are convinced of the economic viability of the project given the projections of economic trends and given that the concept and execution of the project conforms to the rough guidelines currently proposed.

Drugs from police raid yesterday

Two-year cop pact ratified

A two-year contract with the Henderson police officers' association was approved Monday night by the Henderson city council. It was previously ratified by police personnel.

The contract calls for a four percent increase for the current year and a six percent wage increase for the 1985-86 year. In money the contract has a fiscal impact of $40,000 for the first year and $67,000 for the second year.

Police officers agreed to the removal of a longevity clause which Personnel Director Janice Bush said will have a savings to the city over a long period but will not show an immediate effect. She said that through attrition and increase in manpower it will definitely be a savings to the city.

Insurance for the police officers will be increased from $146.26 to $155. There will be no increase the second year. Much of the contract resulted in just language change.

The officer's pay for appearing in court on a day off was raised from $17.50 to $25, however, Bush said the court cooperates in scheduling officer appearances on working days for officers not only to save the city money but also for the convenience of the officers.

"I believe it is a fair contract for both the city and the employees," Bush said.

She said a two-year contract will save the city money and time in annual negotiations.

The contract contains an article on maternity leave. Full-time employees who have completed at least one year's service at the date of confinement is entitled to maternity leave not to exceed three months. However, absence will be covered by sick leave to the extent it is available. Time not covered by sick leave will be charged to annual leave to the extent it is available.

A total of 11 days are listed as legal holidays for all members included in the police contract. The contract covers approximately 40 of the police employees.

Planners recommendations referred to council's consent agenda

In order to speed meetings and avoid long waits for land owners, developers and residents, the Henderson City Council granted a request that all city Planning Commission recommendations be listed as items on the council's consent agenda.

Planning Department director Richard Heckendorf requested the change, he stated, given the fact that most commission recommendations required only perfunctory approval by council and no discussion.

Heckendorf said placing all recommendations on the council's consent agenda would clear up routine items at the beginning of the meeting, allowing those involved to leave. Controversial items could easily be pulled, discussed and resolved, again at the beginning of the meeting, with either option allowing those involved to leave the meeting once their business is concluded, he added.

Currently, only final maps, land dedications and time extensions are listed on the council's consent agenda. All other Planning Commission recommendations are listed under new business, last in order on any council agenda, according to Heckendorf.

In other related Planning council votes, a church of the Latter Day Saints was granted a use permit to construct and maintain a church at 401 North Palo Verde Drive, located adjacent to a residential neighborhood and across from Basic High School.

A second use permit was granted for outdoor storage of freeway construction materials at 1400 Bermuda Road and CDS Development of San Diego had planned unit residential development, tentative and final maps approval for a 212-unit, 11.25 acre apartment development bordering the Showboat Country Club in the Green Valley neighborhood.

On the CDS' "Greenspointe" apartment development, the council refused to mandate that CDS pay the entire cost of construction for a protective screen that would shield the apartments from errant balls from the Showboat

Golf Course. Council agreed, however, the matter was one of concern for both the developers and the golf course and should be resolved mutually.

Extensions of time were granted to Highland Hills units 13 through 18, American Nevada's Villa Roma, Dr. Melvin J. Bagley for land north of East Lake Mead Drive and for the Community Church of Henderson.

Green Valley zone change, two others before planners tonight

Three zone changes, including one in a ranch estates area in the Green Valley neighborhood, are before the Henderson Planning Commission tonight for recommendation to the city council.

Collins Brothers Corporation of Las Vegas has requested a zone change for the 11-acre site north of Wigwam Parkway and east of Eastern Avenue. The change would be from R-R (rural residence district) and R-A (single-family residence district) to R-3 (limited multi-residence district).

Collins is also submitting to Planned Unit Residential Development (PURD) and tentative map reviews for the 124-unit condominium project called Oak Forest Villas.

Planning staff lists the project's density at 12.4 units per acre and note an R-3 zone change would allow up to 25 units per acre.

Requests from Vegas Pueblo and James Bilbray, and a proposal from Collins Brothers Corporation, all of Las Vegas, are asking for zone changes that would increase residential densities in certain portions of the city.

Vegas Pueblo and Bilbray are requesting a zone change from R-R (Rural Residence District) to R-3 (Limited Multi-Residence District) for 36 acres at Russell Road and the proposed I-95 expressway.

The square 36-acre site is divided from its northwest corner to its southeast corner by the proposed freeway route, according to maps published July 10 by the Planning department.

The site is located to the northeast of the Hacienda del Sol mobile home park located south of Russell Road and the Nevada Power plant.

The third zone change sought is from M-P (Industrial District) to M (Industrial District) by owners Blackburn and Associates and developers Hoe and Hammer Excavating for a five-acre site north of East Lake Mead Drive and east of Duncan Way in the northeast section of Henderson.

According to Planning staff, requested change comes from the developers, in order they might store construction equipment and materials outdoors, a land usage prohibited in an M-P zone.

Pardee Construction Company again has submitted PURD and tentative map reviews for a 165-acre, 1,052-unit project, Pardee Green Valley South, located southeast of the intersection of Pecos Road and the Union Pacific Railroad in the Green Valley neighborhood.

Nearly half of the project would be compact-lot homes with 231 standard-lot homes planned with 298 townhome units slated for future development.

The plan would bring density on the R-1 (One-Family Residential District) zoned land to 6.38 units-per-acre, one, one-hundredth less than the maximum 6.39 units-per-acre allowed for R-1 PURD development.

PURD and tentative map reviews for another project of equal density are scheduled for Consolidated Realty Management Company's 36.5-acre "Silver Ridge" site. The plan would build 212 compact-lot homes on the site located between Warm Springs and Sunset Roads on Bluffs Drive in the Green Valley neighborhood. Pardee has also requested a variance to allow 20-foot setback's in Pardee Green Valley units three and four located north of Warm Springs Road and west of Green Valley Parkway.

Dale Engstrom has requested a use permit to operate a welding and automotive repair shop at 745 Sunset Road. Cable television company Misco Inc., has requested extension of a use permit that allows usage of a downlink receiving station at 2120 South Boulder Highway.

The commission makes recommendations only that are submitted to the Henderson City Council for final approval. The commission meeting begins at 7:30 p.m.

A refreshing change - people helping themselves

There was a refreshing change at the city council meeting Monday night.

A group of people wanted something done, and they actually wanted to pay for it themselves. They think the wheels of government move too slowly so they want get it going themselves.

Led by Janet Ford, the group asked to install street lights on Copper Street in the Townsite area of the city. There are very few street lights in that area. That part of the city was built during World War II when it was fashionable to have things blacked out because of fear of bombings. Since the area was considered temporary it was no big deal. The temporary housing has lasted for over 40 years and there are still few street lights.

The Copper Street people have obtained lights at a minimum and have people who will help install them.

In newer areas of the city the developer installs the street lights and residents pay for them when they purchase their home. In assessment districts such as Mission Hills where streets have been installed, there are still no lights because of the cost. Someday they too might wish to have street lights and they will be obligated to have another assessment district, according to Jeff Billingsley, public works director.

City's best interest

Billingsley said it is in the city's best interest to install street lights and to possibly buy out the old systems in some areas of town and modernize the lights which in the long run will be a savings to the people of the community.

Because street lights have never been installed in the Townsite, when they are, there will probably have to be an assessment district, or perhaps funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development can be obtained.

A street light costs about $1500, according to Billingsley and the lights are usually placed 180 feet apart. That means the Copper Street lights could cost up to $12,000, unless as the residents say, they can do it cheaper. Billingsley said it could probably be done cheaper than having an assessment district.

At any rate, it is a refreshing change to have residents come to the council and ask to do something for themselves. We hope they get what they want with the community effort they anticipate.

By Richard Cohen

SAN FRANCISCO -- It's the morning after. It's the morning after Walter Mondale's selection of Geraldine Ferraro, after the enthusiasm, the incredible emotion, the outright shock. The person who comes to mind is not the mythical Archie Bunker who lives in her Queens congressional district, but a quite real man who grew up just the other side of the East River in Manhattan -- Al Smith. He lost in a landslide.

Smith was the first Roman Catholic to run for the presidency. His defeat by Herbert Hoover in 1928 was due to a number of factors, not the least his being a Democrat in a Republican era. But he was also a Catholic, a New Yorker who spoke the strange language of that strange city, and a living, breathing, bowler-topped stereotype of the big-city ward heeler. America rejected him like a transplant from another species. It was a graft that would not take.

History is too fickle to repeat itself precisely and, besides, Ferraro is a vice-presidential, not presidential, candidate. But in her own way Ferraro is also a stereotype -- a New Yorker (complete with accent), a feminist, a clubhouse Democrat, a liberal, a Catholic and (you might have noticed) a woman. If that were not enough, she has already managed to do the politically unpardonable -- take the spotlight away from Walter Mondale. If that continues, and it certainly will for a while, the Democratic ticket will be sunk.

But that's just for starters. Where Ferraro is most like Smith is that she reinforces a stereotype. His was ethnic; hers is sex. Increasingly, pollsters and political analysts are beginning to use a term when it comes to the Democratic Party -- feminization. If there is anything to it, Geraldine Ferraro has to personify it.

The so-called feminization theory is based on the numbers. Most of the recent polls show Ronald Reagan running anywhere from 30 to 40 points ahead of Mondale with white, male voters. (He also leads with women.) Reagan is even ahead by whopping margins with young male voters -- the ones who traditionally have cast their first vote for a Democrat. A whole lot of political analysts will tell you that these males are simply voting their pocket books. Life has been good to them under Reagan and their memory is not of the Depression, but of economic stagnation and inflation under Jimmy Carter.

But an increasing number of other analysts, while conceding the importance of economics, say the gender gap is based on just that -- gender. Reagan is a man's man, a wood-chopping, horseback-riding President with a macho style and foreign policy to boot. For three and a half years, he has been telling the Soviets where to get off, building up the military and, if need be, invading Caribbean islands to make the world safe for medical students. Men, in particular, seem to like that sort of thing.

The Democratic Party, on the other hand, projects a different image -- one solidified by Carter. It has seemed weak, indecisive, concerned with image -- a nag who seems to be saying over and over again, "Now boys, don't fight." The candidates who have espoused that view, George McGovern and Carter in 1980, were defeated. The Democratic candidates who bristled militarism -- John Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson -- won. And the winningest Democrat of his century, Franklin Roosevelt, demolished his party's stereotype. His accent was from Groton, his wealth and social standing downright Republican.

Just to reinforce the Democratic stereotype, the party has traditionally played the role of nurturer, taking in group after group and saying it will provide for them. But having nurtured the poor of all kinds and having seen many of them rise in the middle class and upper-middle class, it has, like a mother, been ignored. In the political version of not even bothering to call, its children vote Republican.

Mondale's selection of Ferraro was a bold stroke, as gutsy and as macho a move as a man can make, and also a wonderful statement. But the harsh sun of the morning after brings with it some questions. Geraldine Ferraro represents Archie Bunker's district, but Bunker doesn't exist. And if he did, he probably would vote for Ronald Reagan. Stereotypes prefer their own.

Immigration bill approved; but no real problems solved

Roll Call Report describes the final vote on the immigration bill adopted in the U.S. House of Representatives.

This is the bill, in House version, that proposes to penalize employers for hiring illegal aliens and grants amnesty to aliens who entered this country illegally before 1982. It has several other provisions, none of which is expected to be particularly helpful in dealing with the problem with illegal aliens in the United States.

It is a poor piece of legislation, in virtually all respects, and we were disappointed to learn Representative Barbara Vucanovich of northern Nevada voted in favor of the error. It was a pleasant surprise, on the other hand, to discover Representative Harry Reid of southern Nevada voted against the bill. Since Vucanovich and Reid went to Congress from the 1982 elections, they have taken opposite sides on nearly every issue; and we generally have agreed with the Vucanovich positions. This time, however, we believe Reid was right and Vucanovich was wrong.

We think the attempt to make scapegoats out of employers is a fundamental error. This misguided scheme seeks to place the burden of enforcement of immigration law -- a burden that federal agents find too difficult to bear -- on the backs of American businessmen. It inevitably will involve regulations and paperwork that will lead toward a circumstance under which the federal government will aim its prosecution against American businessmen, instead of wetbacks, because the businessmen will be easier to catch. Businessmen will be plagued by more forms to be filled out, American citizens will be forced to produce the kinds of papers required of subjects of totalitarian states, and the illegal aliens that are supposed to be the reason for this crackdown by Big Brother will become bait for catching "bigger fish," as identified by the federal agents who organize the fishing expeditions.

This idea of using wetbacks as an excuse to heap new forms of abuse on much-abused American businessmen appears to be the greatest shortcoming of the new immigration bill, but the amnesty aspect is nearly as bad.

By granting amnesty to aliens who are in this country illegally, the new legislation serves to reward those who have violated the law of this land to sneak into the country illegally and to penalize those who have waited in line to comply with the law. It is as misguided as the attempt to penalize the businesses of America for a problem that really is not of their doing.

And because these provisions offer nothing that has much prospect for dealing with real immigration problems, we can expect more immigration bills to surface in future sessions of Congress. We hope those future sessions do a better job of coping with the real problem.

Small-business Angle

Deficit big concern of small business

By John Sloan

On a hot, humid weekend in June, 110 representatives of the nation's small-business community met in Washington to draw up an agenda of the issues most affecting small business and the recommended solutions. Topping the list of small-business concerns was the federal deficit.

The delegates to the Small Business National Issues Conference declared that "spending by the federal government is out of control." They warned that reckless spending is jeopardizing "our families and could lead to the economic and social collapse of our country and its institutions."

They believe that the huge and growing deficit will cause the return of high interest rates, inflation, higher unemployment and a decreasing standard of living for all Americans. The small-business people with whom I met those four days in June were angry and worried.

Five of us carried the concerns of the delegates to the people who can do something about the deficit: We met with White House Chief of Staff James Baker; Mayor Margaret Hance, vice chairperson of the Reagan-Bush Committee; and Charles Manatt, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. We also testified before the Democratic Party platform committee.

We delivered the strong message of the conference delegates: "The 'down-payment' proposals now before Congress are woefully inadequate. We must have dramatic action this year, not promises for the next year."

Concern over the deficit is not new to small business. When the National Federation of Independent Business polled its half a million members on the deficit in 1982, 70 percent of those responding favored a freeze on increases in federal spending to reduce the deficit.

One of the short-term actions called for by the conference delegates is an immediate one-year freeze of all Fiscal 1985 spending at fiscal 1984 levels. The delegates also want future cost of living increases to be less than the increases in the Consumer Price Index.

Our long-term recommendations for reducing the deficit include passing a balanced-budget amendment, limiting federal spending to a lower percentage of the Gross National Product, giving the president more flexibility in his veto power (line-item veto) and adopting the Grace Commission recommendations for business-like management of the federal government.

The Small Business National Issues Conference was important for many reasons, but most important was the opportunity to present a united front on the matter of government red ink. Political leaders in Washington got the message from small business owners that we are worried about deficits and we want action now to reduce them.

Support Councilmen

The reason I vote in elections is to hire someone into a public office to try and run things so that I can enjoy my back yard. However, I do take exception when I see headlines such as "Henderson Recall Officially Under Way." These things get my dander up when someone takes a swing at public officials that I voted for and makes me obligated to help in any way I can.

For your information it is we taxpayers that are going to pay the bill for these kind of proceedings. So, I think it's about time we all started looking into an organization that attacks our officials without stating any real issues and who would be investing pennies to stir the muck in comparison to the thousands of dollars a recall proceeding is going to cost Henderson taxpayers.

It seems that we now have a group of folks called the "Concerned Citizens Group" here in Henderson, Nevada. This group appears to want three of our city council members thrown out of office, but, fail to list any specific issues except that all the woes and troubles in this town are due to three city councilmen that have been in office for some seven months. This group has produced only generalities that make me ponder if they have a legitimate gripe or if they are just trying to compete with the cicadas din in my backyard? First of all, this group makes the statement, "The wide variety of problems which have surfaced over the past several months ...

have given the people no choice but to exercise their constitutional right." There seems to be two distinct irregularities:

1. Their reference to the people sure doesn't mean ME. Does it mean you?

2. As for the wide variety of problems, this seems to sound like some kid banging his spoon on his high chair. Councilmen Yakubik, Lawrence and Hubel -- keep up the good work and let me go back to fighting the real bugs in my back yard.

Reviewing how Nevada taxes have escalated since '81

State officials and members of the school teacher union continue to voice loud objection to the tax-limiting petition that will be Question 12 on the Nov. 6 ballot. Some of them are claiming there is no good reason to limit taxes in Nevada.

But Ralph T. Heller of Reno, writing to Nevada Business Outlook in Carson City, tells a different story. Heller provided that publication with a list of tax increases and newly created taxes imposed by the state legislature since 1981. The list helps to explain why the tax-limiting petition has struck such a popular chord with Nevada residents.

In his presentation, Heller listed five new taxes conjured up by our legislators since 1981. They include a new five percent tax on soft drinks at the wholesale level, a whopping 30 percent levy applied at the wholesale level on all tobacco products except cigarettes, a $10 fee imposed as an add-on to court fines (which served to triple the $5 fee for being caught driving between 55 and 70 miles per hour), a new fee schedule for "auto emissions testing" and a one-cent tax on jet fuel.

On top of these newly created taxes and fees, the last two sessions of the legislature also increased many existing levies. Heller detailed 15 escalations, ranging from a 118 percent jump in the automobile registration fee to 16 percent increases in the liquor tax and the room tax.

Other boosted tax bites on the list included gasoline tax, up 75 percent; driver's license fee, up 66 percent; general sales tax, up 64 percent; tax on insurance premiums, up 50 percent; beer tax, up 50 percent; wine tax, up 33 percent; fishing license fee, up 40 percent; hunting license fee, up 30 percent; marriage license fee, up 25 percent; cigarette tax, up 50 percent to 15 cents per pack; and a dozen different increased fees collected by the secretary of state, some souped-up by as much as 100 percent.

Heller also reported he had identified 74 taxes and fees increased at city and county levels since 1981, with the biggest jump among these calculated at 132 percent.

The list compiled by Heller demonstrates Nevadans have been hit by heavy increases in taxes during the past three years, despite claims to the contrary, by Carson City officials. This rapid escalation across a broad spectrum of taxes and fees indicates our government officials are not representing us as they should, and that we must take steps to protect ourselves from the tax collectors.

The initiative petition that now has qualified to appear as Question 12 on the November ballot is the legal vehicle designed to afford this obviously needed protection. Under its provisions, tax increases greater than the five percent growth factor programmed for property tax revenue to government would be effectively blocked unless approved by a majority of the voters.

This seems to us a reasonable approach to an obvious and serious problem. The people of Nevada considered a tax-limiting amendment to the state constitution several years ago, and relented after government officials pleaded, "Trust us." When we trusted them to control taxes, they betrayed their constituents by imposing the outrageous round of tax boosts outlined by Heller.

This time, we expect, the people of Nevada have learned their lesson, and are not about to trust the politicians again. The tax-limiting proposition will accommodate moderate and healthy government, as it blocks profligacy in government, and it deserves to be adopted as an amendment to our state constitution. When it has been ratified, we won't have to trust our government officials in the tax category, at least, because their tax rampage will have been effectively squelched.

What you should know about shoplifting

From the Crime Prevention Unit
HENDERSON POLICE DEPARTMENT
By Officer Robert Lindsey

What is shoplifting?

"Ripping off," "pinching," "liberating," "hooking," "snitching," "borrowing" -- by any other name, it's still stealing.

The dictionary says shoplifting is stealing goods from shelves or displays of a retail store while posing as a customer.

The law says shoplifting is larceny, taking property with intent to deprive the rightful owner. Conviction means jail, a fine, or both.

"What's it to me?" It cost you money! Out of every dollar you spend in a store, 5 or 10 cents goes to pay for the things shoplifters take and to pay for security measures to fight shoplifting.

Shoplifting is a national epidemic of theft, and it's getting worse. $3.5 billion in merchandise is stolen from stores every year.

One person in ten is a shoplifter. Losses are 2 to 4% of total sales, enough to cancel out profits for many stores.

Who shoplifts? All kinds of people, young and old, businessmen and students, blacks and white, men and women.

Young people (under 18) make up more than half of all shoplifters. Girls greatly outnumber boys. Most come from middle income, suburban homes.

Average shoppers, people from all economic, educational and family background, most don't steal because of need. Many have better - than - average jobs and incomes. Young women frequently "stretch" their budgets by shoplifting luxuries and extras.

Drug addicts often become shoplifters in order to support their habits.

Addicts usually sell what they steal at a small fraction of the real value of the items.

Store employees, from clerks to top executives, steal. The employee theft is a major problem for retail stores, especially those with a high job turnover and many temporary personnel.

Professionals steal "on order," shoplifting goods that they sell to their own "customers" at bargain prices. This group is a small percentage of shoplifters, but they take expensive items.

Kleptomaniacs are compulsive stealers who are unable to stop themselves from theft. These people, who urgently need psychiatric treatment, make up less than 1% of all shoplifters.

Shoplifting hurts small merchants, for they can't afford the extra manpower and equipment to discourage shoplifting.

They lose money if they take time off to prosecute shoplifters. They find it hard to pass the costs on to customers.

Shoplifting raises food prices; supermarkets have a profit margin of as little as 1%, so they cannot afford the high cost of shoplifting. That is part of the reason food costs keep rising.

Shoplifting means higher taxes, police costs increase, court costs increase, community loses business and tax revenue when stores close. So our taxes go up.

Shoplifting creates mistrust. Stores are forced to become suspicious of everyone. Surveillance is increased and strict security measures are taken.

Today, stores have elaborate surveillance systems, more guards, some hidden behind one-way mirrors, plainclothes detectives, older men, average looking housewives, teenagers etc., television scanners, walkie-talkies, electronic tags that set off a loud alarm if an item is taken from a store without being paid for.

Some stores are starting large-scale public education campaigns, advertising brochures and posters, radio and television talks, and school discussions to alert people to the seriousness of shoplifting.

Stores used to let shoplifters off with just a lecture, but now the shoplifting problem is so serious that stores are prosecuting.

1. Laws are getting tougher, so stores in many states can now apprehend shoplifters before they leave the store.

2. Juvenile shoplifters are being brought to court. First offenders are usually put on probation. Many youngsters say, "But I didn't know that shoplifting was a criminal offense."

The shoplifter creates problems for everyone; for himself the risk of arrest, punishment and public disgrace; for his family, the shame, tension and mistrust that are the consequences of shoplifting; for the community, loss of business, tax revenues and jobs if stores are forced to close; for the stores more people, new equipment that are needed for security and prevention plus a loss of merchandise; for the courts the burden of time consuming headlines and trials; for the police, time, money and manpower used pursuing shoplifting cases.

With all of this I'm sure you are asking, "What can one person do?" It is going to take individual and community concern to put an end to shoplifting.

1. If you see it, report it. You and other shoppers end up paying for what the shoplifter takes, so if you see someone shoplifting, let store authorities know about it.

2. Work with concerned groups such as civic, business, schools, law enforcement and religious groups, to increase public awareness. Few people are really aware of how serious the problem is.

3. Encourage honesty. Be proud of being honest. Let people know how you feel.

There is too much apathy as far as crime is concerned.

Defense Report

Tinkering with Military Retired Pay—

It costs more in the end and saves the taxpayer nothing

Once again the House of Representatives, has reverted to use of the budget reconciliation process to make ill-advised, piecemeal changes to the retired military pay system that will have a severe and lasting adverse impact on the Army. The House included a provision in its 1985 Budget Reconciliation Bill that would extend the cap on cost of living adjustments (COLA) for military and federal civilian retirees through fiscal 1987. If it becomes the law, this provision would cap COLA adjustments for nondisabled retirees under age 62 at half the annual inflation rate in fiscal years 1986 and 1987, thus extending the temporary COLA cap passed by Congress in 1982 for an additional two years. Worse still, is the perception by many that this is a step toward making the half-COLA feature a permanent one.

In writing to House and Senate committee chairmen, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has asked that the two-year extension be killed. "We know that making this permanent would reduce the lifetime value of retired pay by 33 to 36 percent for most retirees," he said. "Correspondingly, we would lose about 20,000 career enlisted members by the end of fiscal year 1988. This, in turn, increases the number of new accessions we must attract in a declining youth market. As a result, recruiting and training costs would increase, while overall readiness of the armed forces would decline," the secretary warned.

Congressmen favoring the reduction in retired pay adjustments attribute their motives to a desire to reduce the federal spending deficit. But, as the defense secretary indicated, changes in the retiree COLA can have a significant effect on reenlistments and force readiness. So the dollars saved by limiting retirees to less than a full cost of living increase will have to be repaid many times over in recruiting, training and reenlistment incentive costs. The Senate understands and has voted to rescind the half COLA provision completely.

The mechanism used for adjusting retired pay for changes in the cost of living worked very well before Congress started tampering with it. Maybe the legislators should heed the old saw: "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

Government classes at Basic feature speakers

By Rufus Hearn

The summer school government classes at Basic High School are having guest speakers from various positions in the government.

Speakers are being invited by the students to talk about the basic structures of their jobs and how their jobs relate to the community. Affairs are handled by Mrs. Winterheimer, but the students obtain the speakers.

Recent speakers include William Jansen of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Rex Newell, a candidate for the state legislature.

Jansen spoke about the various cases, jurisdiction and operations of the FBI. Some of the cases included were that of a self-ordained minister who had kidnapped and killed a young two-year-old girl. The agent involved had used "ordinary" conversation to sway the man to reveal the whereabouts of the girl's body, using the man's warped sense of priorities to gain this end. He discussed the constitutionality of these procedures.

Another example was that of the Harvey Hotel bombing, the evacuation procedures, bomb squad techniques and the reviewing of call in advice.

He also discussed when cases become federal, especially kidnapping which is federal only when state lines are crossed.

Newell discussed the functions of the legislature, the making of a bill and the approval of bills. He also discussed the running of an election.

Sandra Schoenfeld and Dale Towery

Schoenfeld - Towery wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cobb are pleased to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sandra Schoenfeld to Dale Towery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Towery.

Sandra is a 1978 graduate of Basic High School. She is employed as a secretary with Levi Strauss & Co.

Dale is a 1976 graduate of Basic High School. He is presently employed by Valley Bank.

The couple has set their date for August 11. After their honeymoon they will make their home in Henderson.

Gelbaugh wins math prize

Larry Gelbaugh of Basic High School was recently named the district winner for the 1984 Nevada Prize Examination in High School Mathematics sponsored by the University of Nevada Reno's Department of Mathematics.

Gelbaugh received $50 for having the top paper in District

II which consists of all southern Nevada high schools other than Las Vegas.

The examination was given earlier this year with approximately 1,100 students from 35 high schools participating. The prizes were made possible by a grant from the UNR Foundation through the Corporate Giving Program.

Elks Lodge under renovation

Members of Henderson BPO Elks No. 1956 who haven't been to the lodge lately are in for a pleasant surprise the next time they visit. The present officers and active members are in the process of upgrading the appearance of the lodge. Included is a new tile floor throughout, complete sanding and refinishing of the paneling, and a complete refurbishing of the women's restroom.

A facelift of the outside of the lodge is in the near future, including painting, adding facing around the roof, and a floodlight for the flagpole so that it can be flown 24 hrs. A couple of other items under discussion are blacktopping the parking lot and a lighted sign on Lake Mead Dr. in front of the lodge.

Exalted Ruler John "Boomer" Phelan and the other officers invite all members to stop by and see firsthand the progress underway. Regular meetings for membership are 8 p.m. each Tuesday with dinner being served starting at 6:30.

Senior Citizen Center news

By Edna Deardoff

It is hard to get in the groove again after two weeks vacation in Iowa visiting my Son and Wife and four lovely grandchildren. I had a lot of grandmothering to do! I also attended a 25th anniversary of my old neighborhood 4th of July celebration. It was in the planning a year ago and turned out to be a huge success. 150 people attended with some coming from Arizona, Illinois, Nevada, Wisconsin, Texas, and elsewhere in Iowa. It is always good to come home again and sleep in your own bed. My choice is still Nevada over Iowa even though I lived there for 47 years.

Physical Fitness classes are offered every Tuesday and Thursday from 11 till 11:30 a.m. You should be there.

A representative from the Social Security Office is in Room 7 every Wed. from 9:30 till 4 and on Thursdays from 9:30 till noon to serve all residents of Henderson and Boulder City.

Plastic needlepoint classes are held each Tuesday from 12:30 till 3:30. We are making some really lovely things. We have the plastic mesh here for only 40 cents per sheet. We exchange ideas and patterns and have a lovely social time as well.

Bridge is played every Wed. from 12:30 till 4:30. If you are a bridge player, why not join us. The winners last week were Gertrude Seever 1st and Jo Bitsche 2nd.

Fun Day is every Thursday afternoon. Bingo at 12:30, followed by cards of your choice. The lucky winners at bingo last week were: Ann Ahrens, Evelyn Summers, Lucille Jack, Pauline Munce, Joe Garcia, Ann Fletcher, Art Timm, Darlene Vigoren, John Ryman, Earl Ware and Judith Summers. Be here on the next Fun Day and you may be a winner too.

The Senior Law Project is here twice each month to serve Seniors 60 and older. The next date is Friday, July 20th. For an appointment, call 565-6990.

Lunch is served each day, Monday through Friday from 11:30 till 12:30 to Seniors 60 and older or married to someone 60 or older. The meals are great and the company better and our dining room is so pretty and cool. Take a vacation from that stove and enjoy lunch with us.

The Senior Center is open from 10 till 4 for your enjoyment. Come and enjoy. We have puzzles, books, pool, cards, television and you might just meet a new friend.

There are Free Blood Pressure Readings on the first Tuesday of the month for all Seniors. The next date is Tuesday, August 7th.

Sermon outlined for Community Church

'A Meeting in Hell' sermon topic at First Baptist Church

Rev. John Osko, Pastor of First Baptist Church has chosen for his sermon topic this Sunday, "A Meeting in Hell." The sermon is based on the Biblical teaching in Luke 16:19-31. The Worship Hour begins at 11 a.m. First Baptist Church is located at 47 East Atlantic Avenue, Henderson.

Children's Church is held during the Worship Hour for children 2 years of age through Kindergarten. Leaders for July are Amanda Williamson, Rena Yonashiro and Cathy Crain. A nursery is provided for children under two.

Sunday School classes for all ages begin at 9:30 a.m. The Deacons and Trustees and Deacons Boards will meet for their monthly meeting this Sunday following the Morning Worship Hour.

The Sunday Evening Service begins at 6 p.m.

Home Bible Study Group will meet on Friday evening at the home of Jay and Kaye Henderson.

Youth Support Group meets on Saturday evening at the home of Erin Watson. This group is open to senior high school and college age youth, and is under the leadership of Erin Watson and John Dailey.

The Pastor and congregation invite you to worship with them this week.

For additional information, please call 565-9511.

The Community Church of Henderson, a liberal protestant church located at 27 E. Texas Avenue and Army Street (one block north of the Rainbow Club) would like to invite you to join the Sunday Worship Service which begins at 10:30 in the Sanctuary.

Dr. Robert W. Richards will deliver the sermon. This Sunday, the sermon title will be "Sighs Too Deep for Words" and the scripture reading will be from Romans 8: 26-27.

Immediately following church is a fellowship and coffee hour. There will be babysitting for the littlest ones during the service.

Sunday School is on Summer Vacation. Classes will begin again next fall for the three-year-olds through adults. This year's Vacation Bible School will be held at the Henderson Presbyterian Church, July 23-27, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. next week.

The Women's Association is a very active group which lends itself to Christian living and service. The Women's Association usually meets the second Wednesday of the month at 12:30 p.m. in Gilbert Hall for a pot-luck luncheon and meeting, but the meetings for the months of July and August are cancelled due to the heat of the summer. The Women's Association will meet in September on the 12th. Bring a friend with you.

For the women who work during the day, we have a Christian Fellowship the JOY Fellowship. JOY Fellowship meets the fourth Thursday of each month in the member's homes.

Please help our young people to go to Summer Camp at Pilgrim Pines, this summer. Save your newspaper and aluminum cans and bring them to the church. We will continue to collect them for future camps. HELPS!! We need transportation for these young people. If you are going in the area of San Bernardino and Redlands, the camp is not far away. Yucipa is where Pilgrim Pines is located. Even if you did not plan to go, maybe you would help us out! The dates are July 29th and will be returning August 4th. It is approximately a four hour drive. Please call the church office Monday through Friday, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 12 Noon. You can also leave a message on the church recorder after office hours. The phone number is 565-8563.

We would like to remind anyone who wishes to rent the church for a wedding or reception, meetings, etc., our facilities are available for a set donation fee. If you are interested, please feel free to call the office or our Rental Committee Chairman, Bill Farmer at 564-1057.

If you have any questions about Community Church, please feel free to call our office at 565-8563. The church office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 Noon.

Come join us, we would love to have you worship with us.

Lutheran Church news

Pastor Ron Mayer and the congregation of Our Savior's Lutheran Church invite you to worship with them on Sunday beginning at 10:45 a.m.

Holy Communion is celebrated on the first and third Sundays of each month. Our Savior's is located at 59 Lynn Lane (just off Basic Rd., between Water and Pacific Sts.). Pastor Ron may be reached at 293-4378 or the church office at 565-9154. If needed, you may also receive information about the church at 565-8654, 565-8103 or 565-0582.

The Prayer Chain is open to all of you. If you have a need, please call and we'll pray with and for you. Contact Marilyn Nauenburg at 565-8103.

Thought for this week: "God writes with a pen that never blots, speaks with a tongue that never slips, and acts with a hand that never fails."

Pastor George Bondley will be returning to the pulpit Sunday, July 22 at the Henderson United Methodist Church.

Bondley has been absent for several weeks while pursuing theological studies out of state. Following Sunday's service he will be traveling for two weeks in the Holy Land.

Sunday's sermon topic will be "Two Seeds." Scripture reading will be from Romans 8:26-27, Matthew 13:24-43 and Isaiah 44:6-8.

Sunday School begins at 9:15 a.m. with classes for children, youth and adults. The worship service is at 10:30 a.m. with a fellowship period immediately following.

Members are currently meeting in Rooms 14 and 15 at St. Peter's Church on the Boulder

Bondley back at Methodist pulpit

Highway.

Groundbreaking is expected to take place next month on a classroom building to be located at 640 Horizon Drive.

The building will serve as sanctuary, Sunday School and meeting room until future phases of construction can be completed.

MEET UNLV REBELS— Edward DiSanza and Michael DiSanza of Henderson are shown as they greeted Reggie Theus from the UNLV Rebels as they visited the Henderson campus of the Community College last Thursday. Theus is a former Star for the Rebels basketball team.

Meet the boys and girls club directors

LeRoy Zike has been a member of the board of directors of the Henderson Boys and Girls Club since 1974. He was honored as Board Member of the Year two years running in 1979 and 1980.

LeRoy was born in Oklahoma. While attending high school in Elk City Oklahoma, he spent summers with his uncle here in Henderson and worked at the BMI complex for various companies. He continued to work summers here and paid his way through Oklahoma Western State University.

LeRoy actually became a permanent resident of Henderson in 1952 and still resides here with his wife Barbara. He has owned and operated several businesses in Henderson for the past 25 years, including Zikes Texaco station which he sold in July 1983. He is now the owner-operator of Van Valeys Family Shoe Store on Water St. Prior to being elected Mayor of Henderson in 1981 he spent two years on the city council.

In addition to the boys and girls club Mayor Zike is a charter member of the Elks, a member of the Eagles, and the Moose Lodge. He is a past president of the Rotary Club and received the rotarian of the year award twice. He is a member of the Salvation Army board of directors and has been active in the Chamber of Commerce for over nine years. He presently rectors and has been active in the Chamber of Commerce for over nine years. He presently serves on the Civilian Military Council at Nellis AFB and the State Board of Directors of the Nevada Cities League as well as being a committee member on two of the National League of Cities Committees. Mayor Zike is a direct member of the board of the Nevada Development Authority, sits on the board of directors of the Henderson Industrial Trades, and is a Commissioner of the Regional Transportation Commission.

Mayor Zike feels that his time on the board of the Henderson Boys and Girls Club is well spent. He states "If even one boy or girl in our community has found a new direction or sense of purpose through contact with the boys and girls club them my 10 years on the board is rewarded. I would like to feel that my participation has contributed in some small way to the development of the youth of our community. I would like to personally thank those citizens of Henderson who have already become involved or helped in any manner with the boys and girls club and I urge others to participate in any way possible, because I would like to share the warm satisfaction of knowing the benefits the youth of the community derive from our help."

Rotarians 'debunk' past president, begin new year

PLEADING - An impoverished Dennis Rusk pleads for the Rotary District 530 Tax Court to throw the book and the water at 1983-84 past president Bill Sheehan for the defendant's past errors.

BAPTISM UNDER FIRE - 1983-84 past president Bill Sheehan is drenched with water as a punishment during his "debunking," June 30, an annual event in which local Rotarians send out their past year's president with less than auspicious honors. Rotarian Clyde Caldwell has the honors behind the bucket while judge and Henderson Rotary Club charter member Tom War and a peeping Dave Meteyer, along with 50 Rotarians and guests, enjoy the spectacle. 1984-85 president Paul Marshall has conducted two meetings in the new Rotary year, one which Dennis Rusk presented interesting facts about the Civil War.

REALLY GUILTY - When it comes to debunking ceremonies, Rotary's standard of justice is none too lenient.

Well we thought that we would have some more rain but back to watering the lawns.

Well, today the Hostess was Irene Leavitt. Next week is Doris Loushough. We played bingo and the winners were Margaret Blakley, Helen Martin, Agatha Nelson, Harry Youngs, Ralph Blakley, Grace Wood, Rosie McEthan. Coverall won by Ethel Elliott and the door prize won by Ralph Blakley. Then to Canasta a good time had by all. See you all next week, so take care.

FREE Blood Pressures on the first Friday of the Month, at Room 29 the next one is on August 3rd. This is for all Seniors.

Why not visit the RSVP Center at Room 29 of the Civic Center and see what we have to offer and not be lonely, we play Canasta every day.

Come in and join the Crochet Class or the Ceramic Class. In crocheting they teach you how and to read Patterns and we get together and talk over the different patterns. It's lots of fun. In either class this is a nice way to make your gifts for some one close.

TRANSPORTATION through the EOB and this is handled through the RSVP. 565-0669. We service Henderson on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. And Tuesdays and Fridays we go to Las Vegas. Priorities first, the Hospital, Doctors, V.A. Clinic. You have to call 24 hours ahead for this Service.

FREE FOOT CARE FOR THE SENIORS and this service is by appointment only call 565-0669.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS FOR THE SENIORS and also this is by appointments call 565-0669.

The Housing Rehabilitation is in full swing again accepting applications for the Seniors home grants. If you need your roof fixed, plumbing leaks, a new swamp cooler, doors repaired or some other small items like this in the City of Henderson. If you own your own home or own your own Trailer and need assistance please call us and pick up your application from room 29 at the RSVP Center.

We have a representative for the Senior Employment and he is on duty 5 days a week, and if you need a job got a Seniors call 565-0669. This is handled through the RSVP.

Our Crochet class is on Mondays from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

We have Rummage for sale and at a reasonable price. So come in and look at what we have to offer.

TEN YEARS SERVICE - Gilbert (Gil) Valdez, a Caustic Helper in the Caustic Plant at the Stauffer Henderson location (left), recently celebrated 10 years of service with Stauffer Chemical Company. He is pictured receiving his service award gift - a Lenox Crystal Pitcher presented to him by (R) Ken Longero, Caustic Plant Foreman. Mr. Valdez started with the company on July 10, 1974.

LOGIC

Knowing when to hold 'em or fold 'em isn't a matter of luck. It's simple logic. The great poker players of the world call the Horseshoe home when they want to test their skill. They find the kind of action that separates the bets from the bluffs. That's why the world's largest poker pot was won at a Horseshoe green felt table ... $958,000. At craps, where a player's mind must work like a computer to race with the tumbling dice, the largest single bet ever won in the game was cashed at the Horseshoe ... $777,000. The challenge of "21" was met at the Horseshoe and conquered by a card player with steel nerves and a stack of blacks. One wager, and one win, set a new world record ... $100,000.

On June 13, 1984, the Horseshoe established another all-time win record for a player: this time the game was Keno and the ticket paid ... $115,040.75. Today the progressive Keno amount exceeds the world record, and the Horseshoe is waiting to pay a fortune to a new Keno cash champion. If you play Keno, go for the Gold. Play at the Horseshoe ... it's logic.

Rhyme and reason

By David Mullin

Taking another step closer to making bowling an Olympic event, a world class bowling tournament will be held at Sams Town, Aug. 1-4, with 14 nations competing.

Taking on 30 of America's top amateur bowlers will be a star studded field of foreign bowlers in the four day event. Not since the 1971 Federation Internationale des Quilleurs (FIQ) World Championships, which were held in Milwaukee has America hosted such an event.

Converging on the local lanes during the tournament will be a virtual who's who of international bowling. Entered in the competition will be the top three men and women from each of the 18 European and Asian regions. Only the highest finishers from each country at the recent FIQ world championships in Venezuela are entered, along with numerous other qualifiers.

The American Bowling Congress (ABC), and the Women's International Bowling Congress (WIBC) has recently been placed on the group "C" Olympic committee, and is hoping to further demonstrate reasons for making bowling a regular event in the Olympic games by such competitions as

Henderson youth seeks mini moto-cross Grand National Championship

By David Mullin
Sports Editor

Kenny Arnold, a sophomore at Basic High School, has spent much of this year participating in moto-cross and desert racing in hopes of qualifying for the Grand National Moto-cross championships. Now after spending countless hours and thousands of dollars competing in Nevada, California, Utah and Arizona, the 15-year old racing enthusiast has qualified along with 11 other regional racers for the big event which will be held in Ponca City, OK., but is in need of financial aid if he is to see his dream come true.

Though Arnold has only been a serious rider for a little over one year, he has already received much recognition in his sport. Arnold earned top honors at the last Nevada Motor-sport Awards for Desert Motorcycle Racing and Sanddrugging. And as testament to his go-for-broke racing style, the Arnold home is loaded with trophies which the young rider has won.

Kenny along with his father do all the mechanical repairs needed to stay in competition, and at the tracks, the team often will do major overhauls between heats.

Competing in the 80cc, stock and modified, 12-16 year olds Intermediate class competitions, the Arnolds have spent over $500 each weekend when competing in the five out of state qualifying events. Kenny also earned first place in the qualifying Las Vegas Mothers Moto-cross at the Appex track.

Being that Kenny is competing in amateur races, there is no cash prizes, and to defray the high cost of the trip to Ponca City, he is soliciting aid from area merchants. The Mini Grand Nationals Moto-cross Championships is a five-day event, beginning Aug. 5, and is expected to cost the Arnold family about $2,000 in expenses, but there are other things needed to make the trip. Kenny is also hoping area merchants will donate some supplies he will need in the marathon event, such as six rear tires, three front tires, specially lettered shirts and many other things.

Those interested in donating to the Henderson youth's endeavor are encouraged to call 564-7045.

TOUGH COMPETITOR-- Kenny Arnold of Henderson tunes-up and practices on his motorcycle for the upcoming Mini Grand National Moto-cross Championships at Ponca City, OK.

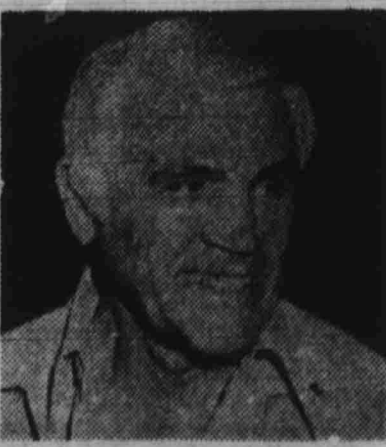

FROM CURTIS' CORNER

By Joey Curtis

Billy Costello really impressed me with his big win over Ronny Shields last weekend. He looked so much better than he did when he beat Las Vegas own Bruce Curry to take the WBC junior welterweight title earlier this year.

This New York kid has a lot going for him in stamina, power, and he even showed he has a real sharp jab. His only real problem is that he stands up pretty straight and can be tagged. But he has a tough chin and can really take a punch.

I don't know how far Costello can go or how long he'll be junior welterweight champ, but the way he's improving he has a real chance.

"Rocking" Robin Blake, who made a lot of fans here in Las Vegas with his "bombs away" style, hits the comeback trail some more when he takes on Edwin Curet on the 26th in Miami.

Blake was world ranked in the Top Ten and in line for a world title shot late last year when he was upset not once but twice in a row. Since early this year its been nothing but wins, but he still hasn't reached the Top Ten again. Maybe a win here and he'll be back in the spotlight.

A good fight to watch coming up early next month is at the Showboat and features a rematch of Dio Colome and Eric Martin over 12 rounds for the ESPN welterweight title. This is a fight the fans want to see since Martin just upset Colome in a fight that was very, very close.

Don't forget that Las Vegas referee Davey Pearl is being honored as "Man of the Year" on August 5th at the Holiday Casino. Davey's one of the best referees in the world and has worked title fights all over the globe (including last week's Costello-Shields fight in New York), but he's being honored for his work for the Fitz House.

This event starts at 7 p.m. on the 5th in the Convention Center of the Holiday Casino. Tickets are only $25 and are tax deductible since all money goes to the Fitz House, a nonprofit drug and alcohol abuse treatment center.

This is a good cause so I hope to see you there both to help the Fitz House and to honor Davey. But hurry, the tickets are going fast.

And if you forget this week, I'll remind you again in next week's column!!

Henderson merchants support local wrestlers

Some 30 Henderson merchants and businessmen have rallied in support of Rodney Ford and Maurice Hernandez in efforts to send the two State Champion wrestlers to the Junior Grand National Wrestling Tournament in Cedar Falls, IA.

The two Basic grapplers have expressed their thanks to the supportive group for helping make it possible for them to attend the prestigious tourney.

Most of the nation's top high school wrestlers will be featured at the Junior Grand Nationals. The event will be held Tuesday, and the fine competition will greatly help develop the abilities of Ford and Hernandez.

Coming forth to aid the local wrestlers were: Judge Jensen, Irma Hernandez, Marie Huffington, Beauty Crafters, Antique Rose, Skips Ameritone, New Frontier, Lorin and Tina Flower Shop, Snap Tow Inc., Fortune Fence, George's Video Best, Casa Verde, Desert Pest Control, Henderson Motel, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Salazar, Nevada Power Company, Sheehan &

Sheehan L.T.D., The Craft Closet, G.P. Gerleman D.C., The Other Telephone Company, Star Supplies Company, The Villager Lounge, John F. Marchiano, American Family Realty, Henderson Trophies, Zikes Shoes, Ron Hubel, Stauffer Chemical, Mr. & Mrs. Bob Mackie, and Cylinder Head - Auto Machine.

Thanks to these supporters, our best wishes go along with Rodney and Maurice.

Auction of Steve McQueen's estate

The long-awaited auction of the estate of actor Steve McQueen will be conducted by well-known auctioneer Don P. Britt at the Imperial Palace in Las Vegas. The estate will be previewed November 19-22, with the auction set for November 23-25 in the Imperial Theater of the Imperial Palace.

A great deal of interest is anticipated in the sale of more than 20 vintage automobiles and close to 100 motorcycles. McQueen was a collector, as well, of automotive and airplane memorabilia and antique toys. Also scheduled to be sold are antique furniture and personal effects from McQueen's ranch.

All items will be presented for sale with no reserves.

For more information on the November auction of the estate of Steve McQueen, contact Kris Engelstad at the Imperial Palace Hotel - Casino, 3535 Las Vegas Blvd. So., Las Vegas, NV 89109.

Lines from the lanes

By Ruth Soehlke

"MOONLIGHT" MIXED DOUBLES: Bowlers can start signing up now for the July 29 "Moonlight" Mixed Doubles Tournament at Henderson Bowl. Entry is $20 per couple and the lights go out, almost, at 9 p.m. First place cash prize is $200 for the high team with handicap. The Crazy 8 Pot has risen above that, however, and now is $300 for the bowler who can knock down eight pins on one ball on two lanes. Each month three entrants are chosen to try their luck.

HENDERSON BOWL SPRING DOUBLES: Not many tournaments offer a second chance to better a bowler's score but the Henderson Bowl Spring Doubles Tournament is open to enter as many times as you wish to bowl, with the same partner or several partners. With a first place prize of $1000, second $500 and third $250, the lanes are busy each Saturday and Sunday with challengers. Liz Bondurant and son Gary paid the $20 entry fee and scattered 1332 pins to hold first place; Bev Jolley and Dave Pittis are in second place with 1325. Only two weekends remain so get your partner and call 565-7712 for reservations.

SILVER SPUR CLASSIC: This new league will begin in September at the Henderson Lanes. It will consist of four-man teams bowling scratch and will have $5000 added money. Contact Nick Musolino for further details.

BOWLERS WORKSHOP: Watch for details on the upcoming workshop planned for all bowlers, but most specifically for all league officers, in August. Both the men's and women's associations will be hosting the meeting in order to answer any questions you have on bowling protocol, rule changes for the coming season, and how to create more fun on your leagues.

SUN ESCAPES LEAGUE: Dan Sewell bowled a nice 225-552 for the weekly high scratch and 249 hcp game, George Young 534, 645 hcp series for the men, Joe McMillan 201, Dick Morton 507. Ladies highs were Carol Ashley 606 hcp series and Anita Fox 233 hcp game.

The CBS television network has scheduled to cover the final day's action live from the local bowling house.

The international group will be having a practice session during the day on Aug. 1, and will roll the first six qualifying rounds at night. There will be six more qualifying games rolled both in the afternoon and night of Aug. 2. The top six qualifiers in each division will roll five games Aug. 3, with at least two foreign and U.S. bowlers making the cut.

In the final day's action, the top three bowlers in each of the divisions, with a guarantee of at least one foreign and U.S. bowlers making the cut, will compete in a single elimination, step-ladder format.

Sponsoring the event on the 56 synthetic lanes will be: the ABC, the WIBC, Brunswick Corp., AMF Corp., Multi-unit Bowling Information Group, and the Bowling Proprietors Association of America.

This event should be marked down on your calendar because it is such a rare opportunity to see these fine bowlers perform.

Congratulations to the new Junior Baseball League champions.

Jones Chemical's Motley Crew captured the American League title with a 9-8 victory.

The Sherman Enterprises' Expos toppled the Businessmen's Royals, and gave the Expos a first place in the City tournament. The Expos had already captured the league title, giving it a sweep of the season honors.

The Royals had finished fourth in the regular season, but showed plenty of class by working its way back through the losers bracket to earn a place in the tourney's championship.

Henderson, you got style... This town has to be proud of the way it responded to the needs of Rodney Ford and Maurice Hernandez in their efforts to raise enough money to attend the Junior National Wrestling Championships in Cedar Falls, IA.

The Nevada Wildlife Federation is putting on a great fishing seminar tonight folks. It's at Garside Jr. High on Torrey Pines at 7 p.m. The Nevada Outdoorsman is giving a Phenix rod and Daiwa reel away as a door prize. There will be some other gifts from local merchants also.

We've added some new twists to these seminars especially for people who have graphs. This will be a great chance for people to really learn some good stuff. It will be a lot of fun and everybody's questions will be answered. This will probably be my last seminar for a long time, so come and take your shots while you have a chance. Tonight, 7 p.m., Garside Jr. High, be there.

Recently I purchased a book called a "Sportsman Guide" which contains almost everything you ever wanted to know about the Colorado River System. It's actually a reference guide to fishing, boating, camping, water sports and RV information. It covers everything from Lake Mead to Parker Dam. The price is around $5.00 which is what we normally pay for a map of only one area. I purchased mine at Sunset Marine and Tackle, but they should be available at most tackle stores. It's a great book if you use any of the facilities on the Colorado River.

One other quick note, several weeks ago I suggested that you listen to KRRI FM radio. I gave you the wrong frequency, it's actually 105.5 on your FM dial and its my error not the computers. So once again tune to 105.5 FM for great weather and fishing reports.

Fishing has been moving along at about the normal pace with Strippers really starting to get into their tail slapping frenzies. The shad are growing in size and a lot of them are around 1 1/2 to 2 inches. This bigger size accounts for the tail slapping which also means the fish are driving them towards shore. You shore anglers can expect more action from now until fall. The last few days we've found numerous schools of Strippers working right next to shore and not a shore angler in sight.

Once again the "Jumpin Minnow" has been just great with "Zara Spooks," "Sassy Shad," "Chug Bugs," "Bucktail Jigs" all doing very well. For a little change of pace you might try a "Near Nuthin," "Pico Pop," or "Chugger Spooks," they are all adequate top water lures.

Largemouth Bass fishing continues on the same pattern with plastic worms, crankbaits, and "Fat Gitzits" all doing very well. As is usual the size of fish declines in the hot summer months with most anglers getting fish in the one to two pound class. The bigger fish will be deeper and if you don't like to fish deep then you might try some night fishing.

The big bucketmouths are usually more plentiful through the night and can be taken with the same lures that you use in the daytime. Check my article in "Fins and Feathers" July issue, as I go into detail about this exciting type of fishing.

Anybody that says that they are consistently taking 3 and 4 pound bass, well it's a fish story. Everybody I know says they are catching one to two pounders, so consider your sources of info with a little more care.

One angler who did connect on a large bucketmouth was George Andecour. It was reported that he nailed a 6 1/2 pound bass at the Vegas Wash campground using a yellow Pencil Popper. See you at the seminar tonight. Good fishing everybody.

1984 small game hunting season recommendations

By David K. Rice

Season dates and limit recommendations for Nevada's 1984 small game hunting and furbearer trapping seasons have been finalized by Department of Wildlife and are now available for public review.

The process for establishment of season opening and closing dates, and daily and possession limits for upland and migratory game birds, waterfowl, rabbits, and furbearing animals involves recommendations by NDOW as well as review by the public through individual County Game Management Board meetings.

Season parameters are set for each species by the seven-member Board of Wildlife Commissioners after review of NDOW and county board recommendations and further public input during a Commission meeting.

Prior to last year, the Commission's season setting meeting occurred in late August, giving little time to print and distribute the hunting brochure, therefore, in 1983 NDOW moved the Commission meeting to late July, three weeks earlier than in past years.

"In the past, the regulations brochure was not available to the public by the opening of the dove season (Sept. 1) and was not widely distributed in time for the sage, blue and ruffed grouse hunts which usually open by the second Saturday in September," said George Tsukamoto, chief of game.

"Before 1983, establishment of season recommendations earlier than mid-August was a point of concern to the Department," Tsukamoto explained, "since brood surveys, aimed at assessing the reproductive success of a species for that particular year, had a great effect on NDOW's season length and limit recommendations."

"However, after analyzing data for the past 30 years, we found that although brood data is important, it is not absolutely necessary as the basis for our recommendations. Actually, hunter success early in the season has more influence on the eventual harvest totals than apparent good production recorded during brood surveys. In other words, successful hunters are more likely to make additional hunting trips later into the season than those who experience poor success on their initial hunts."

He said that the 1983 chukar hunt was a good example of this analysis of hunter behavior. Brood surveys indicated good production of young chukar; however, heavy September rains scattered the birds and overall hunter success in 1983 for this species was poor.

Tsukamoto said that procedural guidelines for season dates, lengths and limits for all species have been developed and these represent a move towards standardized seasons from year to year. Brood survey data will be collected after establishment of the Department's recommendations and if extreme or unusual conditions warrant a change, this will be accomplished before the Commission meeting.

Commenting on an early forecast, Tsukamoto said that range conditions vary widely across the state, with eastern and southern Nevada expected to have reduced bird populations, while northwestern counties should have average production and moderately good numbers for most species. More definitive season fire-cast information will be developed in late August after brood surveys are completed, and this will be distributed through the media and will also be available through all NDOW offices.

The statewide mountain lion season, formerly set in March along with other trophy species, will be set at the same time as the small game seasons.

The Board of Wildlife Commissioners will meet Saturday, July 28, beginning 9 a.m. at the Bristlecone Convention Center, 150 Sixth Street, Ely. This, and all meetings of the Commission are open to the public.

Swim Class offered

The American Red Cross will sponsor a Swim-A-Cross at area pools on August 3.

Swimmers solicit sponsors who pledge to pay a fixed amount for each length of a pool swim. Swimmers can pick up participant packets at city and county pools or at the American Red Cross office.

BLM to review horses and burro management

The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) today released for public review and comment a draft herd management plan for the Colorado River area. The three-week comment period ends August 3, and comments should be sent to the BLM El Centro Resource Area office, 333 S. Waterman, El Centro, CA 92243.

The draft herd management plan describes methods and goals proposed for the management of wild horses and burros on public lands on the Californian side of the Colorado River. The area is home to an estimated 600 burros and 45 horses and ranges from the Dead Mountains north of Needles, south to the Chocolate Mountains.

The plan is designed to protect wildlife and native vegetation in the area in addition to protecting the animals. BLM is proposing removing, and placing for adoption, approximately 400 of the burros to achieve a necessary ecological balance.

Additional information may be obtained from the BLM El Centro Resource Area office, or by calling (619) 352-5842.

1983 Harvest of upland game and waterfowl up

By Charles Crunden

The statewide hunter harvest of most upland game and waterfowl species during the 1983 season was up from the previous year, according to the results of Nevada Department of Wildlife's annual questionnaire which was mailed to approximately 10 percent of the state's hunting license buyers.

The only declines noted were for rabbits and pheasant, which were down 21 and 13 percent respectively. San Stiver, NDOW upland game specialist, attributed the drop in pheasant take to more restrictive seasons on private lands, and the lower rabbit harvest to declining population levels in certain areas. "Elko County, for example, which provided a harvest of 13,953 rabbits in 1982, yielded only 7,307 in 1983."

"The sage grouse harvest of 14,495 birds, although up from the previous year, can only be considered average when compared to the 1979 peak of 28,228 birds. This was as expected; however, because our annual data collected since 1951, suggests a fairly regular fluctuation in numbers. Peaks in numbers vary a few years one way or another; however, it does appear that high populations have occurred on or about those years ending in zero, with lows occurring on or about years which end in five," he explained.

"Although chukar partridge made a substantial 42 percent climb to 78,222 birds reported taken in 1983, the population level was far below its full potential. The all-time record chukar harvest of 218,965 birds taken occurred in 1980. Reasonably good production last year led us to believe the hunting season would be a good one; however, heavy rains throughout northern Nevada during September dispersed the birds and made for very difficult hunting conditions," Stiver said.

"Quail made an excellent comeback in 1983 with Clark, Lincoln and Nye Counties contributing more than one-half of the state's 88,434 reported harvest. We expected it to be a good season since rains during the preceding winter and fall created the favorable range conditions upon which quail are dependent.

"Quail are extremely sensitive to their desert environment and can go from boom to bust in just one year's time. In most areas, cover is adequate and water is either available, or in most suitable areas of Clark and Lincoln Counties has been supplied by Department of Wildlife through construction of artificial watering devices known as guzzlers. Food, then, becomes the limiting factor and considering the current record drought in southern Nevada, the outlook for quail in 1984 is grim in the lower portion of the state," Stiver forecast.

The harvest of other upland and waterfowl species during 1983 as reported in the annual questionnaire survey were: blue grouse - 2,497, up 39 percent; Hungarian partridge - 2,999, up 39 percent; Mourning dove - 117,294, up four percent; ducks - 125,619, up 29 percent; dark geese - 8,801, up 36 percent; and white geese - 1,407, up 85 percent.

Biologists throughout the state are currently conducting field surveys and will soon formulate recommendations for the 1984 upland game, rabbit, migratory game bird and furbearing animal seasons and bag limits. These proposals will be presented to Game Management Boards at public hearings in all 17 counties. The seasons and limits will be set by the State Board of Wildlife Commissioners at its July 28 public meeting in Ely.

College to hold auditions

Clark County Community College Theatre will hold open auditions for William Mastroianni's drama "Extremities" on Thursday, July 26th from 7 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, July 28th from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the CCC Theatre, Room 1201. Rehearsals will start August 23rd with performances in late September.

"Extremities" is a powerful, explicit depiction of an attempt ted rape, and the violent chain reaction that it releases. There are castings for three females ages 23-25 and one male age 20-35. The role of Marjorie requires partial nudity.

All auditions involve cold readings, physical improvisations and interviews. No prepared pieces will be heard. A copy of "Extremities" is on reserve at the CCC Library. Rehearsals will begin the week of August 20th.

"Extremities" will be directed by Robert D. Dunkerly, whose directing credits include: "Equus," "A Couple of White Chicks Sitting Around Talking," and CCC's critically acclaimed production of "Bent" and "I'm Getting My Act Together And Taking It On The Road." Set design will be by Kristin Baclund Talley and light design by Cindy Frei.

BLM fire attack policy changes on public lands with low resource value

The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) has announced a new fire management policy for fires which escape initial suppression efforts on public lands with low resource values. Ed Spang, Nevada State Director for the BLM, says the result of the new policy is aimed at saving taxpayer dollars in trade for some increase in burned area.

Spang emphasizes that the new policy parallels the old policy for the initial attack phase of all fires. There will continue to be an aggressive and sustained attack on all wild fires with the object of controlling the fire at minimum acres lost by 10 a.m. the following day. Wildfires which are burning or threatening high resource values will continue to be aggressively attacked.

The change in fire policy begins when a fire which is burning on public lands with low resource value escapes initial attack. At that time an interdisciplinary team of resource and fire specialists will analyze the situation, looking at on-site values, off-site problems and the risks or damage which could occur. Examples of on-site resources to be evaluated are: plant cover (trees, bushes, grass, forbs); use by man and animals; soil (its susceptibility to wind and water erosion); visual impacts, and a threat to private property. An off-site effect might be smoke pollution to a city.

Once analyzed, BLM specialists will develop a suppression plan which will control the fire commensurate with the risks, on-site resource values and off-site problems. Spang says this new system will still prevent the huge disaster fire, and will be evaluated at the end of the 1984 fire season for effectiveness.

Under the old policy, fires which were not controlled by 10 a.m. were reinforced with sufficient crews, aircraft and equipment to gain control by the following day. If control efforts failed again, the forces would be escalated and this process would continue until the objective was finally met. The result would often be a large firefighting bill for a relatively minor resource loss.

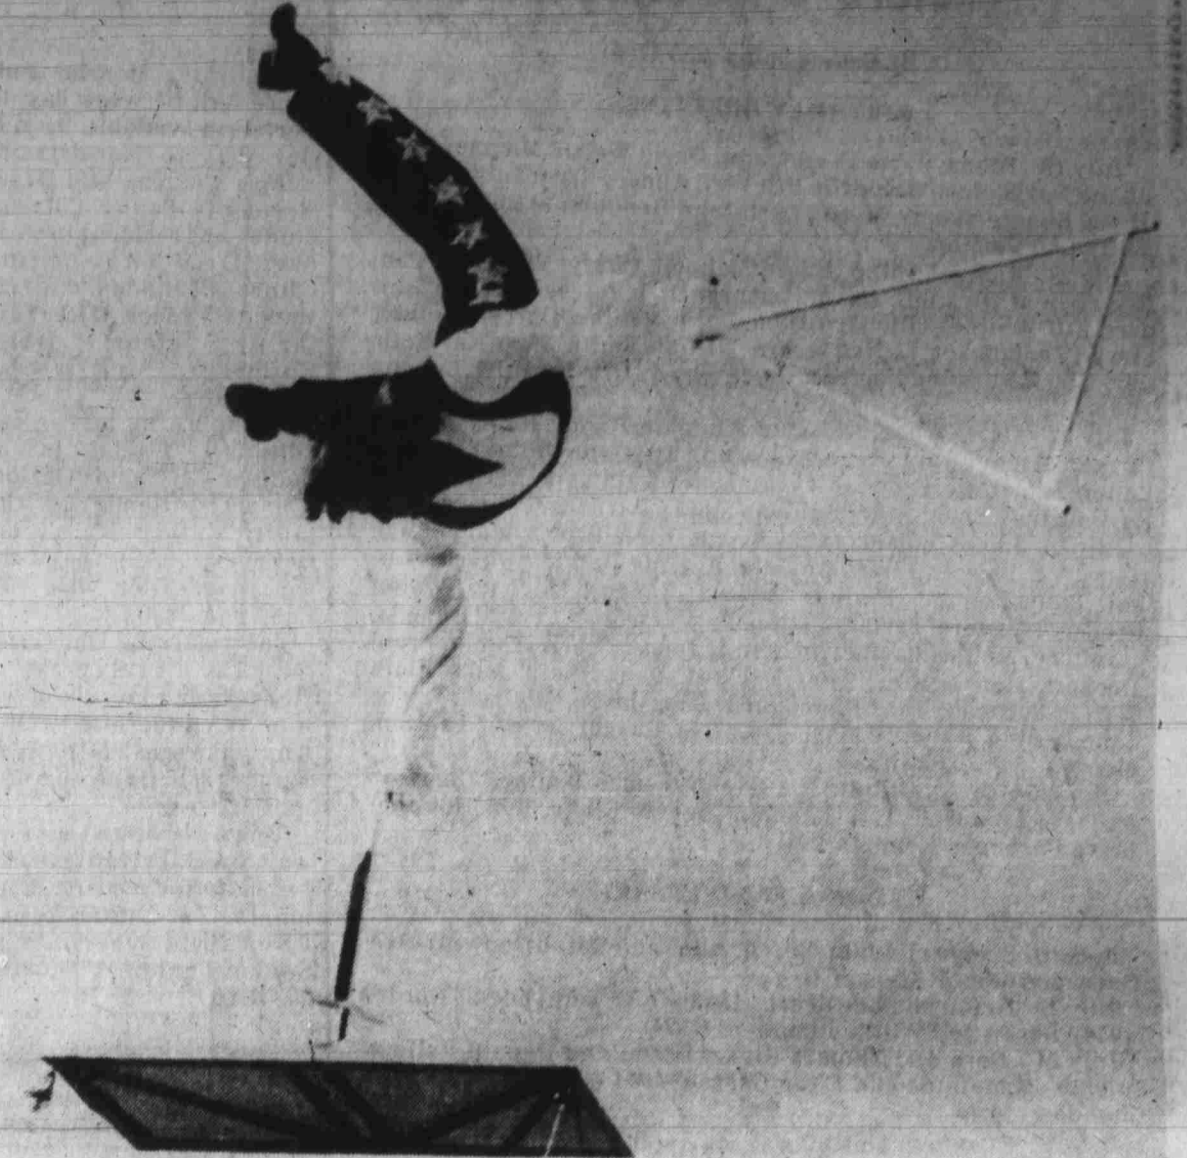

Spang cited the new policy at work at the Indian Fire near Gardnerville and at the Seaman Fire in the southern portion of the Ely BLM District. The Indian Fire was burning very high resource values and threatening human life and improvements. The BLM deployed more than 1,000 firefighters and spent more than $1,000,000 suppressing the fire. The Seaman Fire, on the other hand, escaped initial fire control efforts, but because of extremely low resource values, the BLM decided to use a small, mobile force to control the fire at natural barriers and secondary roads.

Spang says the Seaman Fire bill was less than $25,000 with 15,000 acres burned. Massive attack would have cost more than $150,000 and still resulted in several thousand burned acres.

A key benefit of the new fire management policy will be shown if the BLM experiences simultaneous large fires in Nevada. It will allow for modified action on the fires burning low resource values, making more firefighting forces available to suppress high value and property-threatening fires.

Spang says in the future some areas in Nevada with low resource values and a history of few fire occurrences may be designated as "limited" suppression areas. Fires occurring in these areas would not be attacked unless they threatened to spread beyond designated boundaries or cause off-site problems. Prior to designation of any limited suppression areas, public participation would be sought, and the areas would be included in a detailed fire management plan.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q. I am 66 years old, and I get Social Security retirement benefits. I expect to work part time this year. How much can I earn before my Social Security checks are reduced?

A. In 1984, people 65 or older can earn $6,960 before their Social Security benefit is reduced. The amount is $5,160 for people under 65. These figures are called the "annual exempt amount," and they generally go up each year.

Q. What is SII?

A. Supplemental security income (SII) is a program that pays monthly checks to aged, blind, or disabled people who do not own much and who have little income.

Q. What happens if a person earns more than the annual exempt amount?

A. If a person earns more than the annual exempt amount, the rule is that $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 in earnings above the exempt amount. (However, special rules apply in the first year of retirement.)

Q. I applied for Social Security disability benefits about 6 weeks ago. When can I expect a decision on my application?

A. It generally takes 2 to 3 months to process a disability claim. The actual time depends largely on how long it takes to receive medical reports and other information and also on whether a special examination or test is needed. You will be notified of the decision by mail.

Forest service names Minerals Area Management director

Edwin R. Browning has been named Director of the Minerals Area Management Staff for the Intermountain Region of the Forest Service. He succeeds William Johnson, who recently retired.

For the last four years, Browning has been assigned to the Minerals and Geology Management Staff Group of the Forest Service national headquarters in Washington, D.C., with his duty station in the Ogden Regional Office. Before that he served in the position of Associate Program Manager for the Surface Environment and Mining Program at Billings, Montana.

In 1974, he was assigned to the Rocky Mountain Regional Office in Denver, Colorado, where he worked with states on land management planning. Earlier he was District Ranger of the Grand Mesa-Uncompahgre National Forest and the White River National Forest in Colorado. After beginning his Forest Service career on the San Juan National Forest in Colorado, he transferred to the Shoshone National Forest in Wyoming, where he served in various positions.

Browning graduated from the Pennsylvania State University with a degree in forest management. He and his wife, Mary, reside in North Ogden with their three children.

BELETED BIRTHDAY

Renee Reese couldn't celebrate her birthday on June 26, as she was in the hospital. So -- because John Pilgrim thinks that she is one of the nicest ladies in town, he has decided to give her a belated birthday party on Sunday, July 29, at his home. All senior citizens are invited to come to 622 Del Prado, for the First Annual Renee Reese Day! Mark the date on your calendar.

ADMIRATION FROM ESTHER

There are many people in town whom I admire. Two of them are Lorine and Robert McDougall. Rob is the proprietor of the snack bar at the court house in Las Vegas. He is totally blind, but he can tell the numbers on paper money. He sets his merchandise very carefully on the shelves and counters, so that he knows where everything is. He can tell the identity of people by their voices and their steps. Rob is a good card player, but will not deal. You just tell him what card you play, and he can remember. Rob belongs to the Elks and the Odd Fellows, and can memorize lodge work better than many men with sight. He has gone to college. When John and I (Esther) have taken Rob and Lorine on lodge trips, we have found him an intelligent conversationist. He and his wife walk all over town, with just a cane, as his wonderful guide dog is no longer with him. Like any good husband, he often helps his wife choose her clothes. He is pleasant company, and we enjoy having him around.

Lorine is legally blind. She is a wonderful, truly religious person, who spreads sunshine to hundreds of people. She loves music, plays the organ and piano, and can sing. She fills the need of any church who does not have a permanent musician. Lorie mails beautiful greeting cards of the most appropriate type to the ill, the bereaved, those with birthdays, and some just friendly messages. She visits the sick, makes many phone calls, and there aren't many folks who have not been on the receiving end of her loving care. Lorine has been an excellent officer of the Rebekah Lodge, the American Legion Auxiliary, the VFW Auxiliary, etc. We also enjoy her company. Lorine was named "Woman of the Year" a couple of years ago, but we think she is a Woman for all Years!

On Stage

We would like to thank all of you for the support for our "Evening of One-Act Plays" this past weekend. We would also like to thank the cast for outstanding job. We had quite a few new faces on stage this last time. It was a pleasure working with them. Maybe some of you would like to join us - on stage. We would also like to thank Doug Rodgers for his special effects, Greg Johnson for lighting and our backstage crew Sarah Hess and Rhonda Ortega for their assistance. Special thank you to all our sponsors and to Fran Knauss of Herb's Tavern for furniture for our plays. We appreciate all the donating or loaning of props-furniture. It makes our sets so much more attractive.

We are going to have a Fall production soon and will be having tryouts the 10th and 11th of August. Watch next week's article for more details on parts needed and times.

If you would like to join our theatre family please come to our general meetings on the First Tuesday of Each Month - 7 p.m. Next meeting August 7th - 7 p.m. Boulder City Library.

We will be selecting plays for the upcoming year if you have a play that you would like for us to perform please tell a member or write your suggestion down and a brief synopsis of the play and mail it to our post office box address - P.O. Box 1134, Boulder City, Nv. 89005 in care of Mark Eisinger. Be sure to sign and put your phone number on the sheet so we may call you for more details.

Don't forget to watch "On Stage" for details on the casting for the fall production. New faces are always welcome.

Henderson jail used for B.C. prisoners

Eight persons arrested by the B.C. Police Department have been transported to the Henderson Jail since the two cities ratified an inter-local agreement effective July 1.

Under the contract, Boulder City will have its prisoners incarcerated in the Henderson Jail facility at a cost of $27 per prisoner day.

Based on past occupancy in the outmoded Boulder

City jail, city officials estimate the annual cost to be approximately $21,000. If the city improved its jail facility and employed full time jailers, etc., the cost would be well over $100,000.

Those arrested in Boulder City are taken to the B.C. Police Department where they are booked and dressed in prisoner garb. When possible, reserve officers are called to make the transport to Henderson where the prisoner is turned over to jail personnel there.

B.C. Police Chief Robert Lowrie says there have been few problems with the new arrangement. Although having prisoners incarcerated in Henderson presents an inconvenience for court appearances, these will be worked out as personnel settle in to the new system.

Drivers can lose vehicles for felony drunk driving

Drivers convicted of felony drunk driving (DUI) in Nevada not only face stiffer fines and penalties as a result of 1983 changes to the law, but may also forfeit the vehicle they were driving, according to an opinion issued today by Nevada Attorney General Brian McKay.

Authored by Chief Deputy Attorney General Bill Isaeff, the opinion cites a 1983 Nevada law dealing with forfeiture of property used in the commission of crimes.

Nevada Revised Statutes section 179.121 provides for the forfeiture of personal property used as an instrumentality during the commission of murder, sexual assault, robbery, kidnapping, burglary, grand larceny and pandering. However, the same 1983 law goes on to state, "...all conveyances, including aircraft, vehicles or vessels, which are used or intended for use during the commission of a felony are subject to forfeiture..."

Isaeff said, "As a result of this new forfeiture provision, individuals apprehended for felony drunk driving now also face the prospect of losing the vehicle they drove while committing this serious crime."

Under Nevada law a third DUI conviction within a seven-year period and DUI convictions involving the death of a victim or substantial bodily harm to a victim are defined as with simulated ocean waves, a Japanese pearl-diving area, a pool for underwater photography buffs and numerous fast-moving rides -- among them a water chute with a 76-foot plunge into a pool.

Harper Development specializes in turn-key construction of commercial and industrial buildings, regional shopping centers and health-care facilities, in addition to theme parks.

The firm will have temporary offices in the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas. Interviewing of subcontractors and suppliers by Hufford will begin immediately and continue until the start of construction.

felony drunk driving. Isaeff continued, "The stakes are definitely going up in respect to drunk driving, because the forfeiture procedure in felony DUI cases is statutory and over and above any fine or sentence imposed by a court."

The forfeiture law protects innocent parties whose vehicles, unknown to them and without their consent, are used in the commission of a crime. Such persons include: an individual whose car is stolen, then used by someone else in a crime; the owner of a bus driven by someone else; a person or firm with a valid security interest in the vehicle, such as a bank.

Vehicles forfeited under the law may either be seized at the time of arrest for felony DUI or later through a court order. A vehicle forfeited in this manner can be retained for official use by the agency seizing it or it can be sold. Proceeds from sales go toward covering the expenses of seizing and selling the vehicle with all remaining money placed into the state's victims of crimes compensation fund.

The opinion was issued to Wayne Teglia, Director of the Nevada Department of Motor Vehicles.

RAIN FOREST WILL OPEN IN GREEN VALLEY AUGUST 1 -- Madeline Davis, (left) of American Nevada Corporation, developers of Green Valley, assists Jan Mills in relocating a floral display at her existing shop. Mills plans to open "Another Part of the Forest" in the Green Valley Plaza Shopping Center on August 1 as a complement service to her Rain Forest plant and flower store on Eastern Avenue. Mills, who specializes in plantscaping for interior design, has been actively involved in the florist business for eight years in Las Vegas. Her present staff of eight will assist in plantscaping, florist service and plant maintenance. Her hours in the Green Valley Plaza will be from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. daily, except Sunday.

Harper to build Las Vegas Wet 'n Wild

Harper Development & Associates of San Diego has been selected as general contractor and construction manager to construct Wet 'n Wild, a $12 million, 27-acre theme recreation park in Las Vegas. Construction is to begin in September, and the park is scheduled to open in May 1985.

Wet 'n Wild is being developed by a partnership of Wet 'n Wild, Inc. and Howard Hughes Development Corp., a part of Summa Corp. The water oriented recreation center will be located between the Sahara and El Rancho hotels.

Ronald D. Harper, president of Harper Development, said Duayne Hufford will be project supervisor for his firm, which recently completed a $9.3 million border crossing to Mexico, the second international border station at San Diego.

The Las Vegas project will be the third Wet 'n Wild park, following others in Orlando, Fla., and Arlington, Tex. The Florida park also was constructed by Harper Development.

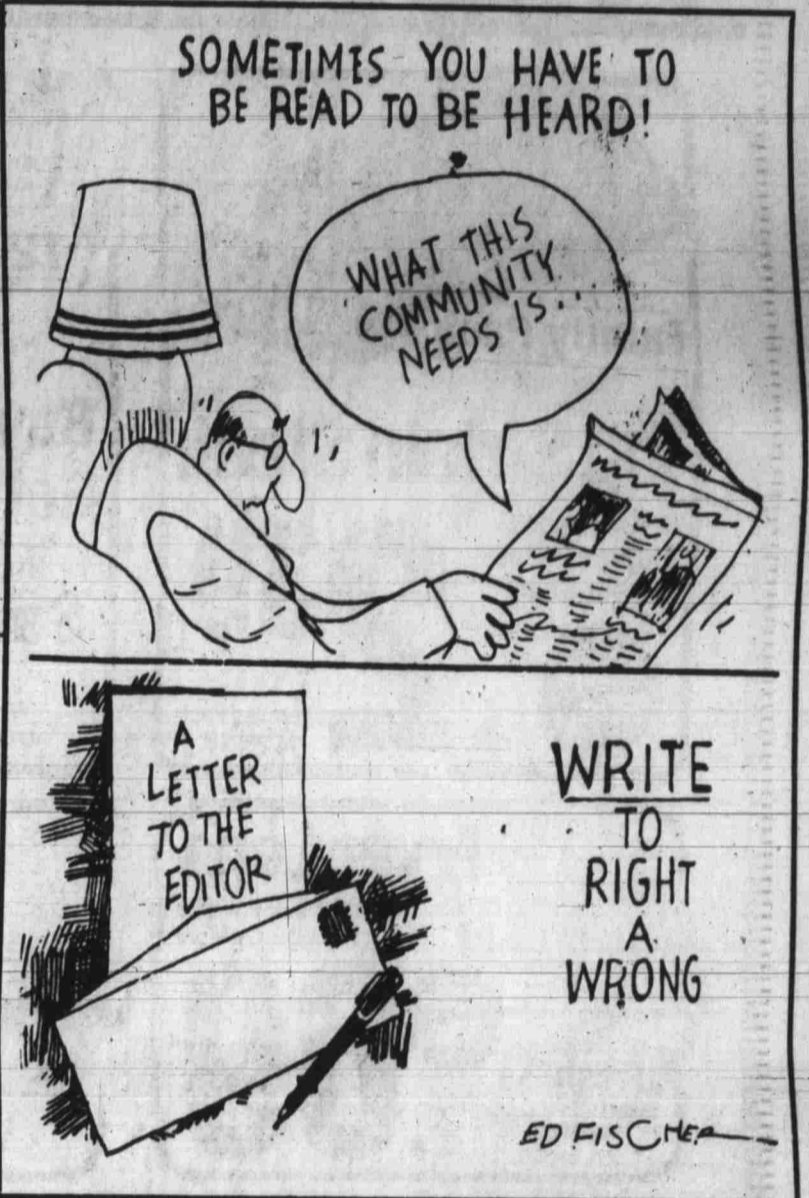

Tom L. Silvers, AIA, is the architect for Wet 'n Wild. He is the architectural principal in charge, with George Walsh, AIA, as the project manager.

George Millay, president and founder of Wet 'n Wild, announced the selection of the Harper firm, citing the builder's track record of competence, thoroughness and on-schedule completions.

Millay and Clark County officials said the park will be a boost to the Las Vegas - area economy, both during construction and afterwards, will be employed.

Before forming Wet 'n Wild, Millay developed the Sea World marine parks in San Diego, Cleveland and Orlando.

Las Vegas' Wet 'n Wild will feature a 500,000 gallon lagoon

Shirley Holst uncontested in county school board election

School Trustee, Shirley Holst, has filed for re-election to a second term representing District A on the Clark County School Board.

Shirley Holst

Holst currently serves in the following positions: Nevada School Boards Association President, Nevada Advisory Council for Vocational - Technical Education President, Clark County Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission Chairman and Policy Committee Chairman for the Board of School Trustees.

She was recently elected to Executive Board of the Boulder Dam Area Council, Boy Scouts of America and the Board of Directors of the Discovery Museum for Children.

"I feel it is critical for students to master the basic skills and work habits required to achieve employability whether college bound or not. Each young person must be prepared, upon graduation from high school, for employment, further study, or both," Holst said.

Holst has lived in the Las Vegas community for 28 years. She is married to Las Vegas businessman, W.L. (Buzz) Holst III and has four children and one grandchild. She is running unopposed.

School trustees ask question 12 defeat

Saying it would "jeopardize instruction" and "seriously deplete revenue available to Nevada's schools," the Clark County Board of School Trustees Thursday night unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the defeat of Question 12.

In the strongly worded resolution, school trustees emphasized the potential devastating impact of the tax limitation initiative.

"The fact that this initiative would place a limit on revenue makes it a dangerous proposition. This would be an extremely damaging piece of legislation to enact in a state like Nevada which is experiencing such phenomenal growth," said school board president Lucille Lusk, who also serves as legislative chairman for the Nevada State School Boards Association.

The association, like the district, plans to lobby heavily against Question 12. According to Lusk, there will soon be a statewide coalition formed involving citizens from throughout Nevada, to work for the defeat of the measure.

The amendment provides that revenue derived from ad valorem taxes must not be more than five percent greater than the amount from the preceding fiscal year.

"There's no question in my mind," stated Lusk, "that if this initiative passes, there will be lasting negative implications for education throughout this state."

Nevada in movies featured in Nevada Magazine

"Nevada's diverse landscape has been used by filmmakers to portray everything from the Sea of Galilee to the Canadian Rockies," writes Joseph M. Ansolabehere in the August issue of Nevada Magazine. His and other articles show how the image of Nevada continually adapts to the interests of visitors and entrepreneurs.

In his article, "Gunfights, Gangsters and Galilee," Ansolabehere discusses "the many faces of Nevada's landscape" in the movies and on TV. Often directors, recreating the stereotype view of Nevada, emphasize the spectacle and provincialism of the state, as did Francis Ford Coppola in his elaborate, neon-encrusted portrait of Las Vegas, One from the Heart.

But the amazing point is that Nevada settings can so easily represent a variety of themes and locales without modifications. The Valley of Fire became Mexico for The Professionals, a 1966 western starring Lee Marvin and Jack Palance. The Amazing Colossal Man (1957) played upon the nation's first wave of nuclear anxiety and had a radiation-created 60-foot man rampage through Las Vegas. The Electric Horseman (1979) shows Robert Redford, as a fading cowboy rodeo star sated with living from one show to the next, leaving a stint at Caesars Palace and heading into the desert in search of a simpler life.

As author Bill Willard demonstrates in "High Times on the River," Nevada can adapt itself for life as thoroughly as for movies. Willard writes about the town of Laughlin, on the Colorado River. "In past years," he says, "the temperature has often been higher than the population, but now Laughlin is rapidly emerging from a landlocked village of less than 100 people into a planned community of thousands of river dwellers." This phenomenal growth results from the tourist trade at Laughlin's seven casinos. On weekends as many as 70,000 visitors crowd into the town. Recently land for 6,500 housing units was made available to provide homes for casino workers, who have had to commute from communities in Arizona.

In "Desert Greens" Jim Crandall shows that Nevada's elegant golf courses are also adding to the state's reputation. Tournaments like the PGA Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational and the LPGA J&B Scotch Pro-Am, also held in Las Vegas, have made desert greens a favorite setting for pros like Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Craig Stadler, and Patty Sheehan. Golfers of all levels of ability like the challenge and scenery of Nevada courses. Crandall tells where and when to go for both spectators and golfers, and a chart lists facilities and prices for all Nevada courses.

When photographer Glenn A. Davis moved to Las Vegas in 1930, it was a small railroad town. During the next decade he was able to witness and chronicle with his photographs the rise of Vegas to a resort capital, according to author Sherman (Scoop) Garside in "Focus on Vegas." Twelve of Davis' photographs of celebrities and town landmarks accompany the article.

The August Nevada Magazine also includes a guide to Basque restaurants, information on wilderness tours in the Jarbidge area, a calendar of events and casino showguide for July and August, scenic photography, and articles about Nevada history. Nevada is now on newsstands.

Tragic evangelical incident in Carson City

By Phillip I. Earl

Itinerant preachers, revivalists and evangelists of one sort or another have had a long history in Nevada, but none has touched a community quite like the Reverend F.E. Yoakum who showed up in Carson City in December of 1909. A faith healer and the founder of the Pisgah Institution in Los Angeles, he had been invited to Nevada by the Reverend H.W. Hornaday, pastor of the local Methodist-Episcopal Church. The Carson Appeal had previously carried several articles on Yoakum's work with California's "down and outers" and the editor assisted the clergyman in bringing him to town.

Since Reverend Hornaday had been holding revival services at his church for two months, he was planning on Yoakum's appearance as a capstone to his crusade, but he got more than he bargained for. Yoakum and his assistant, Sister Lulu, a reformed "soiled dove," arrived on the morning of December 15 and he held his first service at the Methodist-Episcopal Church early that afternoon. A large crowd was on hand - some skeptics, others merely curious, others crippled and seeking help - and he did not disappoint them. One crippled man who came forward to receive a prayer cast his crutches aside and walked away, and a handicapped child, carried by his mother, did likewise. Neither was known to the locals, however, and some non-believers said that they had been brought in by the reverend, but Yoakum astounded everyone by going to the home of Mrs. M.C. Gardner, paralyzed in her legs for years, and helping her walk across the room. Even better known than Mrs. Gardner was Godfrey Cardinell, thrown from a horse at the Rickey Ranch years before, who could only drag himself along with two crutches. He crawled to the church that day, knelt in prayer and walked back to his seat. Yoakum could even project his miraculous powers, as demonstrated by the family of a Mrs. Packley who went to the meeting to pray for her. Following the prayer, she rose from her bed at home and walked across the floor for the first time in years.

As word of the miracles spread, Dr. Yoakum was besieged at his quarters in the Arlington Hotel the next morning. Not only were the lame, the halt and the blind on hand, but also men caught up in the coils of the liquor and tobacco habits. Yoakum told them that he could only give them a message from Christ which could "rekindle the flame of ambition to a higher life," not cure them, but that was enough for some who were able to throw off their burdens that very day. A large delegation of lost souls from Reno were on hand for the afternoon service and the session proceeded much as the previous day.

On December 17, Reverend Yoakum went to Virginia City to inquire into the condition of the invalid mother of Kate O'Connor, assistant state librarian. All hope had been abandoned and the death watch begun when he arrived. After praying, the reverend told her to "rise and be well," and she did. The service that night was held at Carson's opera house and a Mrs. Pollard of Silver City, a cripple for eleven years, was cured, as was Mrs. Roswell K. Colcord, wife of a former governor, who had not been able to walk for years. Many young boys, the sort who would ordinarily stand across the street and throw rocks, also attended and came forward to be cured of the tobacco and liquor habits that blighted their young lives.

Following the meeting on Saturday evening, December 18, Joseph A. Kelly, a Carson merchant, announced that he had found "the true religion" and was going to give his entire stock of liquor and tobacco to Dr. Yoakum and his followers to do with as they desired. Bright and early Monday morning, Kelly and his employees commenced the moving of his wet goods to a lot across the street. Fifteen barrels of whiskey went first and thirteen cases of beer followed. The heads of the barrels were then smashed in and each bottle of beer was taken from its case. Thirteen barrels of cigars were then carried out and eighty-nine boxes and three barley sacks of loose smoking and chewing tobacco were piled on the growing heap, as well as ninety dozen tobacco pipes and a case of cigarette papers. Other Carsonites were stopping by with their own bottled goods and a few brought books, pictures and papers they considered to be "immoral" in some way. A five-gallon can of grain alcohol was then secured to pour over the pile and all was ready for the torch.

A large crowd had gathered by late morning and Dr. Yoakum and his party arrived at 1 p.m. A few minutes later, he topped the pile with a final symbolic can of tobacco, removed his hat and addressed those who had gathered in the softly falling snow. After reading Kelly's pledge, he read from Luke, Chapter 10, and urged others to come forward with their own "unholy" goods, but none responded. Chris Yager, a notorious drunk, came up and asked for a prayer, however, and Dr. Yoakum obliged. Photographers standing on nearby sheds were meanwhile taking shots of the proceedings and Yoakum and Kelly posed together just before the alcohol fuel was poured on.

Reverend Hornaday arrived at the last minute and lit a torch from those being held by Yoakum and Kelly. On a count of three, they threw the firebrands in and the whole pile went up with a whosh. The crowd oohed and awed as the flames licked the liquor and tobacco, but there were probably those among the gathering who shed a quiet tear and silently cursed the day that the clergyman arrived in town.

Another service was held in the afternoon and Yoakum and his party departed for Oakland that evening, but the story does not end here. Kelly, none too stable mentally for some years past, had a complete nervous breakdown a few days later. His wife sent him off to a sanitarium in Belmont, California and he appeared to be recovering, but a heart attack on January 11, 1910 hospitalized him and he died within an hour. The body was returned to Carson City two days later and the funeral was held on January 14 under the auspices of the Eagles' Lodge. Kelly's friends and lodge brothers turned out in large numbers, businesses closed during the services and a sadness pervaded the entire community.

Many Carsonites blamed Dr. Yoakum for the tragic death and not a few of them perhaps had second thoughts about organized religion, but the best they could do was to help the grieving widow and her two fatherless children and vow to be more careful about extending their city's hospitality in the future.

Poor Madrone Street SHALL rise again

By Bill Harbour

Well, it's all over but the shouting. Progress, (and a buried drainage pipe), have caused the demise of Madrone Street.

Last week, the city officially approved the vacation of the remaining portion of Madrone Street. It had earlier given up the first portion leading from Nevada Highway.

Mario Caruso of the Boulder City Trailer Park inherited the strip of street property which stretches from the highway to the Desert Soaring trailer on the Boulder City Airport.

In return, Caruso gave the city an easement to a drainage pipe which runs smack through the middle of his park and carries highway water to the airport where it flows into the desert.

It seems no such document was secured when the pipe was put in. As a matter of fact, the street grating on the highway was covered with asphalt some years back... and the city had forgotten the pipe was even there.

It was "rediscovered" while city personnel were planning the Nevada Highway Sidewalk Project. It was then that Caruso was asked for an easement.

He agreed... but in exchange for an equal strip of land at the northerly edge of the park... a strip that is largely made up of Madrone Street.

The deal was struck... and Madrone Street was swallowed up in the transaction.

Not that the street will be much missed. As a matter of fact, few of Boulder City's 11,000 people even knew it existed.

Snuggled right up beside the busiest street in town... Nevada Highway... and located right next to the Boulder City Chamber of Commerce... the obscure little public street acted as an entrance to the Boulder City Trailer Park.

It also served as an access to the southerly side of the city's municipal airport and allowed Desert Soaring customers to reach the soaring facility without driving across the asphalt apron in front of the airport hanger... though its final 200 feet into the airport was in reality not much of a public road but more of a pitted dirt alley. No matter. It sat there and did its job... even though most of the people using it didn't even know its name.

Speaking of names, Boulder City pioneer Elton Garrett set the City Council straight on the correct pronunciation of Madrone at a recent meeting.

Members had been calling it Ma-Drone... with the "Drone" pronounced as in "Phone."

Elton listened as the name was mispronounced again and again. Finally, his sense of historic correctness could take no more... and he set matters right.

The correct pronunciation is Ma-Drone-Uh... which is the name of a tree found in the Pacific coast region of the United States.

Well, that figures. If you've noticed... the streets leading from Nevada Highway as you approach the city from Las Vegas are all named after trees.

Beginning uptown, there's Ash Street... Birch... Cherry... Date Street... Elm... Fir... Juniper... Yucca... and of course Madrone Street.

And so the deed is done... or is it? For one thing, the Desert Soaring trailer now finds itself on the private property of the B.C. Trailer Park. Well, that will soon be remedied. The city has agreed to move the trailer back onto airport land... a move of 25 to 30 feet.

The move will benefit the flying facility according to Desert Soaring owner Dick McKnight. In its new location, the trailer's "tower" will have an improved view of the paved runway, a view that was partially obscured by a trailer in Caruso's park.

And Madrone Street will rise again. The city took a piece of land from the Chamber lot at the edge adjacent to old Madrone Street... and will construct a spiffy new Madrone Street that will meet city codes in all respects.

Well... the highway portion feeding the trailer park will be modern and built according to Hoyle. The back portion will still be a bladed dirt road, (actually, more like a trail), feeding the Desert Soaring operation as before.

All this will be accomplished in the months ahead... and when it's done, mighty Madrone Street should have an elegant ribboncutting to appropriately recognize its close brush with oblivion.

Madrone Street SHALL rise again.

Apples, pears, plums, cherries, and almonds are all from the same family as the rose bush.

Death of Nevada writer announced

Nevada Magazine writer Harry Webb, whose colorful career spanned more than eight decades as a cowboy-actor-rancher-writer, died today in Burbank, California following a short illness.

Up until his death, 97 year old Webb drew upon his experiences to write about Nevada, capturing the humor and pathos of the state's frontier life.

In April 1984, Webb was honored by the National Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City, where he was presented the Trustees Award for a Lifetime Contribution to the Western Heritage.

Born a miner's son in Colorado on November 7, 1887, Webb achieved only a fifth grade education and left home at age 15 with the dream of becoming a bronc rider. Six years later his riding skill caught the eye of Buffalo Bill Cody, who offered Webb a job traveling with his Wild West Show.

In 1983, the Buffalo Bill Historical Center in Cody, Wyoming, honored Webb as the last surviving bronc rider from the show of 1910.

After Webb left the Wild West Show, he took a job first training horses for one of the early silent movie companies, and then later as an actor. But play-acting lost its appeal and he found in 1914 there was more excitement and money breaking horses for use in the war effort in Europe.

His days as a vagabond ended in 1915 when Webb settled on a ranch at Pine Mountain near Elko. It was there he began to write about his own experiences and anecdotes about friends and neighbors.

In an editorial for the July-August issue of Nevada Magazine, where his stories have appeared since 1979, publisher Caroline J. Hadley wrote: "Harry's been a coal miner, bronc buster, trapper, horse trainer, shepherd, rancher and actor. He has written songs and played the fiddle at dances all over Nevada, but his most priceless gift to us have been his true tales of the West."

Webb is survived by a son, Harry Webb, Jr., of Sylmar, California; a step-daughter, Bea Green, of Joshua Tree, California; and seven grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. Funeral arrangements are private.

Warning: Heat kills pets in parked cars

Every year in July, the Humane Society of Southern Nevada launches its annual summer warning to both residents and visitors to the State of Nevada. The red, white and black, 8 1/2" by 11" posters stating "Warning: Heat Kills Pets in Parked Cars" are being offered free of charge to businesses, public parks, tourist attractions, public buildings and individuals who wish to display them. A 3" by 5" hand-out version is also available.

In the summer months, HSSN alerts the general public of the dangers inherent in leaving pets in parked cars. Many people don't realize that on an average summer day, the temperature inside a parked car can reach an unbearable 160 degrees in the sun, even with the car windows left open a few inches.

Likewise, never leave your dog or cat outside on a hot day unless you have made sure that the animal has access to adequate shade and water. A flat barn roof for ponies, horses and burros, or a doghouse for dogs, does not provide sufficient shade or protection. Also, pet owners should be aware that dogs accompanying them while they jog or ride their bicycles are prone to push themselves beyond their endurance limit and they may collapse from over-exertion, especially in the heat.

Heat kills thousands of humans annually, even though there are 650 sweat glands per square inch in human skin which are able to cool the body. But dogs and cats have no such safety valve. Wrapped in a fur coat and lacking pores in their skin, they can't perspire - they can only evaporate water from their lungs and tongue by rapid panting. This can lead to hyperventilation and dehydration. Excessive heat also produces stress and muscle contractions which further build up body temperatures. Pets with heart conditions are more susceptible to heat prostration, as are the very young or obese. On a humid day, the moisture-laden air severely hinders the evaporation process so that the pet is even further incapacitated.

No Cool Air

In a parked car, there is no cool air for the dog's lungs to exchange for warmed body air. Under such conditions, it is obvious that your pet would soon be in grave danger. Research has shown that dogs and cats exposed to high temperatures suffer severe and permanent brain damage, fragmentation of the heart muscles and the destruction of kidney cells. So even if your pet survives the heat, he or she may still be seriously harmed. Automobile air conditioners have been known to fail and shade disappears as the sun moves across the sky. Sun moves across the sky. Countless pets have died while their owners lingered on an errand, thinking that their pets were safe. The sun's rays easily penetrate glass car windows, but they have no way in which to escape again. With this "green-house effect," the heat will continue to build up, creating an effective, and lethal, solar heat collector.

Heat stroke symptoms include restless pacing, trembling, twitching, rapid panting, excessive salivation (even frothing at the mouth), and glazed eyes or a staring expression. Frantic pawing at the windows if a dog is confined in a vehicle is a sure indication. Vomiting, convulsions and collapse occur when death is imminent.

First Aid

You can give immediate first aid by immersing the animal in a tub of cool water, thus lowering the animal's body temperature. If a tub is not available, immersion in a swimming pool, a lake or stream, or even spraying it with a garden hose may save its life. Put the animal in the shade, massage the skin and flex the legs to increase circulation to help dissipate the heat. As soon as possible, you should get the pet to a veterinarian. If you see a dog or cat suffering in a car on a hot summer day, you should call the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department, the Humane Society of Southern Nevada or your local animal control agency.

The Humane Society of Southern Nevada strongly urges all pet owners, "If you love your pet, leave him home. Don't take a chance with your pet's life."

Fat consumption linked to cancer

WASHINGTON, C.C. — The relationship of dietary fat to cancer is one of the most important and challenging areas of research in cancer and an issue that is particularly confusing for laypeople concerned about the relationship of diet and nutrition to cancer, according to the American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR).

At an AICR interview, T. Colin Campbell, Ph.D., and David Kritchevsky, Ph.D., illuminated the controversy and research about dietary fat, one nutrient that many researchers now believe is linked to cancer incidence.

"Large amounts of fat — either saturated or unsaturated — are now believed to increase the risk of developing cancer," according to Dr. Campbell, Professor of Nutritional Biochemistry at Cornell University.

Cancers of the breast, colon and prostate are particularly linked to high fat consumption, although both Dr. Campbell and Dr. Kritchevsky caution that nutrition is only one factor affecting cancer incidence, and that more studies of nutrients are needed before research in this area can be considered conclusive.

The interview highlighted the controversy over the role of saturated and unsaturated fats. Many people have reduced their consumption of saturated fats following the linking of heart disease to high consumption of saturated fats.

"The overriding factor affecting the risk of cancer believed attributable to fat consumption is the total amount of fat in the diet. But research on animals treated with carcinogens suggests that in a low fat diet, the risk associated with unsaturated fat may be higher than the risk associated with saturated fat," says Dr. Kritchevsky of the Wistar Institute.

According to both scientists, these research findings might present a dilemma to consumers who have switched to unsaturated fats to reduce the risk of developing heart disease.

"Total fat reduction in the diet is the optimal way of decreasing the risk of developing either heart disease or cancer from dietary fat," advises Dr. Campbell.

Dr. Campbell and Dr. Kritchevsky served on the National Academy of Sciences Committee on Diet, Nutrition and Cancer, which issued the first broad guidelines on diet and cancer in 1982. The American Institute for Cancer Research was the first organization to distribute these dietary guidelines widely, through its publication, "Dietary Guidelines to Lower Cancer Risk." Both guidelines advocate reduced intake of both saturated and unsaturated fats. Dr. Campbell is Senior Science Advisor to AICR; Dr. Kritchevsky is a member of AICR's grant review panel.

Drs. Kritchevsky and Campbell offer two suggestions, based on current research, for reducing fats in our diets.

Dr. Kritchevsky suggests that the easiest way to reduce dietary fat is to eat a balanced diet in moderation and concentrate on reducing calorie consumption. "We may find that the effect of total calories consumed is even more important than the amount of fat," he says.

Dr. Campbell advocates a shift to a plant-oriented diet with more fruits, vegetables and whole grain products. "This would reduce total fat and protein intake and increase fiber, beta-carotene and ascorbic acid intake, all of which are beneficial. This type of diet would satisfy both cancer and heart disease researchers," he says.

Both scientists base their advice on data now available on total diet and its relationship to cancer, but warn that research in this area is still inconclusive, particularly as it relates to the interaction on nutrients and other factors to the incidence of cancer.

AICR's dietary guidelines to lower cancer risk, based on recommendations from the National Academy of Sciences Committee on Diet, Nutrition and Cancer are:

Reduce the intake of dietary fat — both saturated and unsaturated — from the current average of approximately 40 percent to a level of 30 percent of total calories.

Increase the consumption of fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals.

Consume salt-cured, smoked and charcoal-broiled foods only in moderation.

Drink alcoholic beverages only in moderation.

Mary Digles wins art competition for phone book

Fine art on a phone book cover?

Yes, and only in Las Vegas. The July 1984 phone book cover features an original work by Mary Digles, the winning entry in the Second Annual Directory Cover Art Competition co-sponsored by the Allied Arts Council and Centel.

Digles' "Artists Trump," a colored pencil and ink piece, was selected from 78 original works created for the competition by Southern Nevada artists. The competition is the only one of its kind in the nation.

"The Arts Salute the Artist" will be a July 28 public reception for Digles from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. at Meadows Mall, center court. The Allied Arts Dance Division will present a modern dance piece to African drum and flute music, choreographed by Leigh Christensen and danced by Karen Brown, Barbara Vess and Mary Scodwell. The piece will be performed twice, at 1:35 and 2:50 p.m.

The salute to the winning artist will continue with costumed players from Theater Exposed presenting "Great Scenes from Shakespeare," including not only well-loved scenes, but also humorous medieval songs. Digles will sign color reproductions of the July Centel directory cover and receive the congratulations of Allied Arts President Paul Burns and Sal Cinguegrani, Centel public relations director.

In addition to seeing her work on the directory cover, Digles was awarded a check for $500 from Centel. Two equal runners-up, William Verrill and Anne Bridge, received checks for $250 from Centel.

"Southern Nevada is fortunate in having a company like Centel, which is so willing to involve itself in the arts," said Allied Arts Council Executive Director Patrick Gaffey. "Where else have you seen a directory cover that isn't just decoration, but art? And it's a piece of artwork by a local artist — a piece of art that reflects our very particular environment."

Economist concludes banks, not taxpayers, should absorb bad foreign loans

Washington-- The International Monetary Fund (IMF) played a major role in creating the international debt problems now plaguing U.S. banks, but the banks themselves will have to solve the problems, a Heritage Foundation economist has concluded. And this could mean writing off some of the bad loans as losses.

Edward L. Hudgins III, an international economist at the Washington, D.C., think tank, said the IMF encouraged imprudent loans to Argentina and other nations by saying it would bail out borrowers in trouble.

As a result, "Many... banks, under the illusion that lending to sovereign nations is risk free, made otherwise irresponsible loans to foreign governments," he said. Now these governments can't pay what they owe.

Total international debt now approaches $800 billion, with Latin America accounting for the largest and riskiest portion, about $350 billion. Of this, Brazil owes some $100 billion, Mexico $94 billion, and Argentina $44 billion. Some of the largest banks in the U.S. are "heavily exposed" in the region, Hudgins says.

Arrangements have been made for Brazil and Mexico to reschedule their debt payments to enable them to keep up with interest payments, Hudgins notes. But, "Argentina cannot meet even its interest payments this year, which will amount to $5.5 billion, and it has been unable or unwilling to come to a firm agreement with the IMF," he says.

"The debt crisis is between the banks and their debtors," says Hudgins. U.S. taxpayers should not be expected to foot the bill by bailing out troubled lending institutions. Instead, the banks could add the current interest due to the principal and stretch out payments over a long period, he suggests, with interest payments realistically tailored to Argentina's ability to pay in the short-run.

"This would trim the banks' profits and probably force them to write off a portion of the loans as a loss, but businesses do this all the time," he adds.

Hudgins believes the IMF helped create the problem and must modify its functions if future debt crises are to be avoided. Not only did the IMF foster an illusion of safety by guaranteeing to bail out borrowers in trouble, notes Hudgins, but the Fund "actively encouraged private lending to less-developed countries, despite their failing economic policies."

The IMF's original function, he says, was to deal with "temporary" balance-of-trade problems. But, he adds, with the demise of fixed rates in the early 1970's, "the IMF took on a role that actually destabilized the world economy."

First, says Hudgins, "the IMF continued to promote inflation through the creation out of thin air of 'special drawing rights (SDRs)'" The value of an SDR is based on a "mixed basket" of currencies -- normally a little over one U.S. dollar. Hudgins explains. "Worse still, SDRs and other IMF resources were used to induce private commercial banks to commit funds to developing countries," he says.

While the IMF imposes economic requirements on debtor-nations holding IMF loans--requiring them to take steps toward balancing their budgets, cutting wages, and improving the balance of payments -- these conditions "can be a mixed economic blessing," he says. Tight restrictions on imports, for example, might produce beneficial short-term effects. But in the long run could dampen economic productivity and growth, because imports of raw materials are often necessary for domestic industries to grow and become profitable. President Alfonsín of Argentina has made this argument, he adds, maintaining that a proposed agreement with the IMF would hurt Argentina in the long-run.

"Another problem is that IMF conditions do not get to the heart of the debt problem within most debtor nations," Hudgins says. By providing loans to central governments and inducing foreign banks to do the same, he claims, "the IMF merely bolsters the state sector and thus helps perpetuate wasteful practices."

Hudgins says the U.S. should both push for reform of the IMF and reduce its support of the organization. "The U.S. government should insist that the IMF alter its function to that of collecting and publishing information and statistics on the international economic situation," he suggests. It might even rate the credit worthiness of countries, he adds, "in effect acting as an international Dun and Bradstreet."

Hudgins says U.S. deposit insurance policies also encouraged bank managers to make imprudent loans. Because the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) guarantees individual deposits up to $100,000, "U.S. banks do not need to take as much care to secure their deposits," he says.

Hudgins says FDIC policies should be amended to force banks to be more cautious. He suggests, for example, that the FDIC phase in a "deductible" on insured funds for banks that lend to high-risk countries. If the banks were made responsible for the first 40 percent of losses he notes.

"this would force the banks to be more cautious with their loans, lest the stockholders and depositors take their business elsewhere." Hudgins believes the banks would cover the portion of their deposits not covered by FDIC with private insurance, which would develop a rating for the risk involved in various loans, he adds.

The Heritage economist recommends that the U.S. encourage the Argentine government to give priority to economic deregulation, strengthening the economy and stabilizing the money supply. "Bringing down inflation, currently running over 500 percent, should also be urged as a top priority," he says. He also suggests that the Argentine government reduce taxes on agriculture. The government should be cautioned not to hinder farm production, he says, adding that "a thriving agricultural sector could also prompt other Argentine industries to demand deregulation and tax reduction."

Aglow plans annual retreat

The Nevada Southern Area Board of Women's Aglow Fellowship has announced plans for their annual Retreat, to be held September 14, 15, and 16 at Lee Canyon Youth Camp on Mt. Charleston. Aglow members and others interested in fostering fellowship among women are invited to attend.

The featured speaker will be Mary McLeod, an Instructor for 11 years at Christ for The Nations Institute, Dallas, Texas. She has a lengthy history of personal experience in Christianity, and an outstanding repertoire of subjects which she is qualified to teach, including Voice.

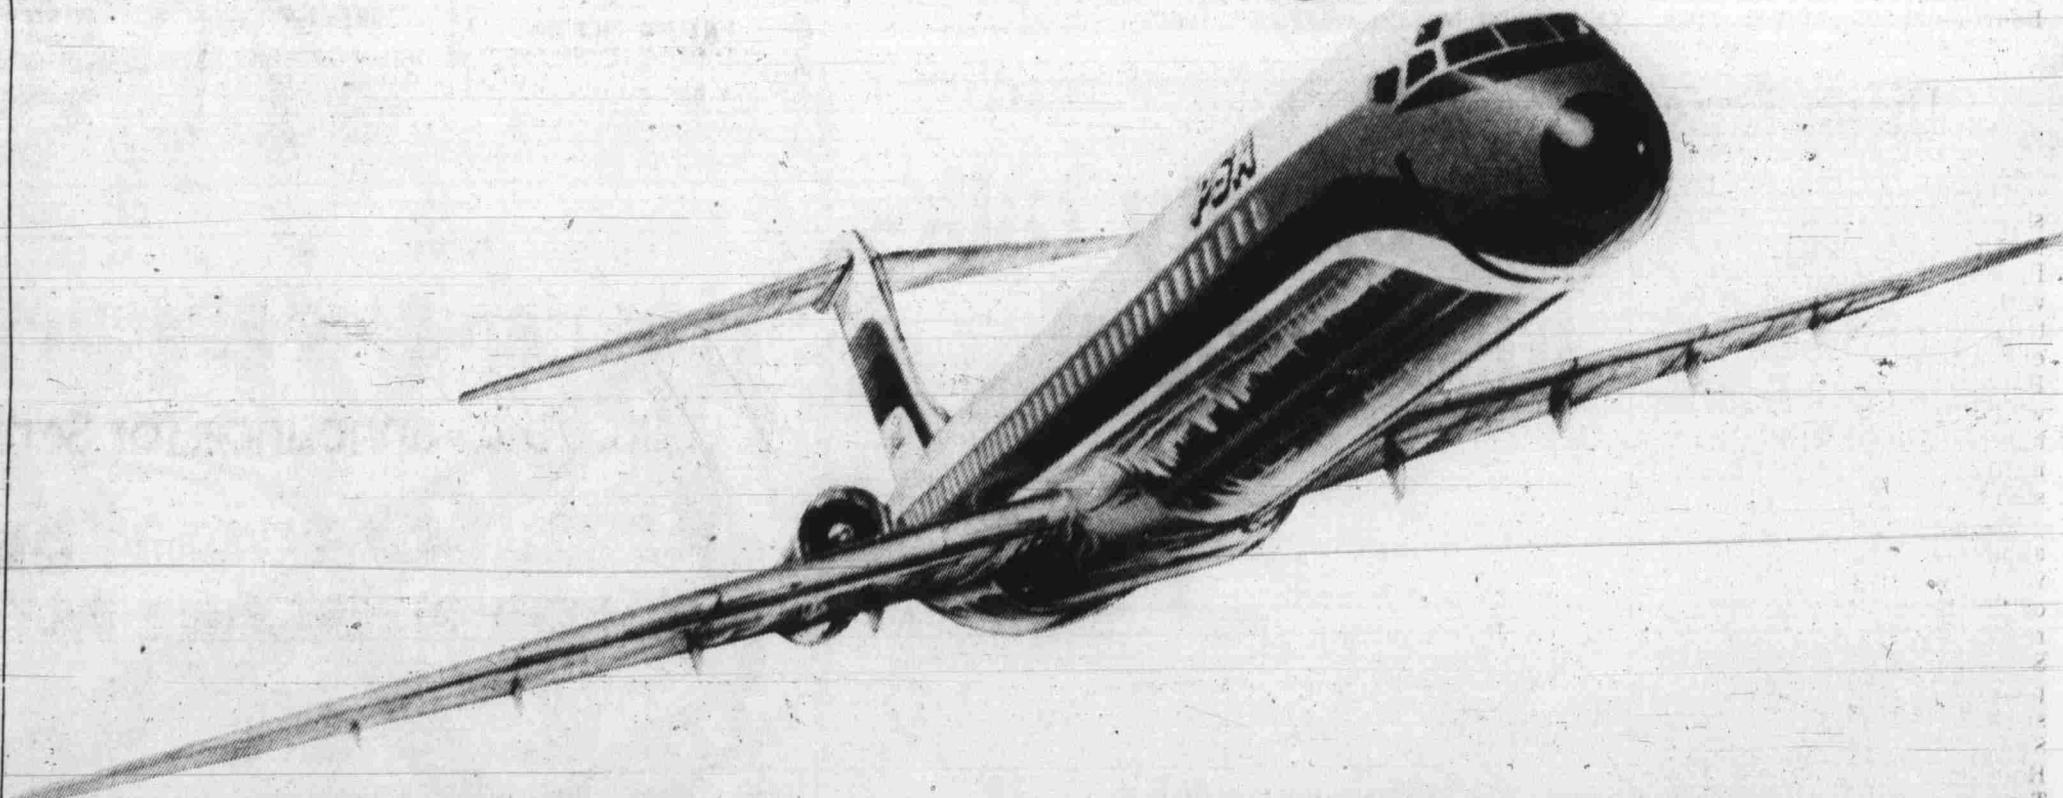

The Aglow Board emphasizes the need for reservations due to the limited capacity of the facilities. Women desiring more information should call Dorothy at (702) 735-4449, or Rosie at (702) 451-3912, or Lois at (702) 454-2526.

Retired officers to meet

The Retired Officers Association will hold its monthly dinner meeting at the Maxim Hotel on 28 July. In lieu of a speaker this month there will be dancing to a live band after dinner.

Social hour will be at 7 p.m. and a chef's choice buffet will be served at 8 p.m. Reservations should be made by 25 July, Wednesday, by calling: Dick Good - 871-3679; Ray Stark - 645-2669; or Jack Taylor at 458-7775.

Burk Gal'ry has new wood carvings

An exclusive collection of Birdcarvings by Ralph D. Trethewey are now on display at the Burk Gal'ry in Boulder City, the gallery of fine Southwestern Art in Southern Nevada.

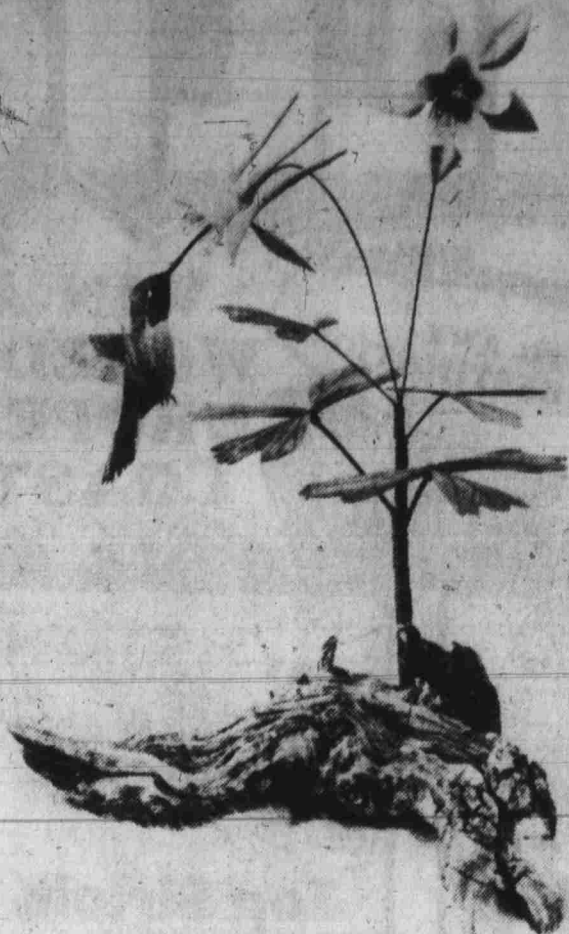

Ralph Trethewey, a former Boulder City resident, was influenced early in his life by his father and grandfather, both wood carvers. A naturalist, he studied his surroundings and began to execute bird and animal carvings with perfection and realism. Today his wood sculptures are shown in art galleries and sought after by fine art collectors.

Each bird is carved from seasoned basswood, painted with true life acrylic colors, and with delicate feet attached to a perch of seasoned wood. With practiced strokes the artist combines precise details in each individual feather, creating the elements of reality.

Imagine birdcarvings so breathtaking in perfection that you expect flight at the slightest movement or sound! You are sure to find a favorite in this grouping which includes: a Hummingbird, Saw-whet Owl, Cedar Waxwing, Winter Wren, Black-capped chickadee, and a Roadrunner.

You may view these original birdcarvings at the Burk Gal'ry.

Burk Plaza, 400 Nevada Highway, Boulder City, Nevada. Gallery hours are: Monday - Saturday, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. For further information, please call 293-3958.

Continental Airlines ticket exchange agreement announced

Nevada Attorney General Brian McKay announced today that individuals holding Continental Airlines tickets prior to the firm's bankruptcy last fall can redeem them for credit until November 30th.

A negotiated settlement was reached in June in an agreement between the Texas-based airline and the Office of the Texas Attorney General. The settlement includes not only consumer air travel but compensation for ground accommodations and freight shipments not made by the airline.

The Texas Attorney General charged that before it claimed bankruptcy, Continental knew, or should have known, it would be unable to provide travel services for which the airline had already been paid.

McKay said, "Consumers who held tickets for future travel on Continental on or before September 25, 1983, are entitled under the agreement to exchange those tickets for travel certificates in the same amount as the tickets they purchased."

He indicated that where ticket holders had paid for flights to or from cities no longer serviced by Continental, in addition to the exchange for the face amount of the ticket, customers are entitled to a $50 travel certificate per city no longer served. Under the agreement, all travel certificates must be used prior to December 31, 1984.

Affected consumers must present their tickets to agents at Continental retail outlets or mail them to: Travel for Credit, 7300 World Way West, Los Angeles, California 90098.

McKay noted that customers not satisfied with the compensation under the agreement can submit grievances to an arbitration panel which will consider their complaints. Consumers having problems with individual claims should direct their inquiries to: Judith Doran, Assistant Attorney General, Office of Texas Attorney General, 1001 Texas Avenue, Suite 700, Houston, TX 77002-3111.

McKay supports Supreme Court decision on search warrants

Nevada Attorney General Brian McKay supports the U.S. Supreme Court decision that courts must consider good faith efforts by police where defendants claim that evidence used against them was illegally obtained.

In United States vs Leon, the high court ruled that while courts may exclude evidence which was obtained in illegal searches, the courts also have a responsibility to consider the good faith of police in applying for and effecting search warrants.

The issue centers on the Constitutional protection of the Fourth Amendment against unreasonable searches and seizures. The "exclusionary rule" permits certain evidence improperly obtained to be barred from use in court.

McKay said, "I am glad to see that good faith efforts by our police will be considered by courts in determining the validity of search warrant - developed evidence.

"Certainly we must preserve the public's freedom from illegal searches, but we should also recognize honest efforts by law enforcement officers to obtain evidence. No one wants to see a case tossed out of court on a technicality and see a guilty person go free. I think it's important that law-abiding citizens know that evidence obtained in good faith by police armed with search warrants can be used against criminals."

In its decision the Supreme Court noted that magistrates issuing search warrants to police must be neutral. It also said that prosecutors have the right to expect that courts will consider the effect on their cases of omitting evidence obtained by search warrant.

In a second case decided today involving the legitimacy of search warrants, the Supreme Court cited its earlier Leon decision in ruling against a defendant's challenge to the use of search warrant evidence in a murder case.

Diana Ross appearing at Caesars Palace

When the lovely Diana Ross steps out on stage at the Circus Maximus Showroom at Caesars Palace July 18-30, she brings with her the excitement of a true professional. Live audiences thrill at her presence. But it is not only live on stage where Diana is a superstar. She has reached out and touched millions on worldwide television.

She made her first television appearance on "The Ed Sullivan Show" in 1964 as a member of the Detroit trio "The Supremes." During the sixties, The Supremes made numerous appearances on TV variety shows such as "The Ed Sullivan Show," "Hullabaloo," "The Hollywood Palace" and "The Tonight Show."

The Supremes also appeared as guest stars on television specials hosted by Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Sammy Davis, Jr., Dean Martin, Tennessee Ford and Andy Williams.

In 1968, Diana Ross and The Supremes were joined by The Temptations in a Motown production for CBS-TV entitled, "TCB, Taking Care of Business." "TCB" was one of the first TV specials to feature pop groups on prime time TV.

When Diana Ross launched a solo career, solo television specials emerged such as "Diana" for ABC in 1971 and "An Evening with Diana Ross" for NBC six years later.

In 1981, Ross starred in and served as executive producer of a second special called "Diana" for CBS. The special included such diversified talents as Larry Hagman and the Joffrey Ballet. Filmed in large part at the 18,000-seater Forum in Los Angeles, the show became one of the highest rated entertainment specials of the season.

Diana Ross really never stops reaching out to touch her audiences, whether it is on stage, or on the screen. She continues to thrill fans in the Caesars Palace Circus Maximus Showroom as her career continues to spiral upward.

Cocktail shows are scheduled nightly at Caesars Palace at 8:30 and 11:30 p.m. Prices are $35 Sunday, Monday, Wednesday and Thursday; $40 on Friday and Saturday. For reservations phone 731-7333.

The world of stone thanks Boulder City for kindness

By Teddy Fenton
There is in Boulder City a home where happiness is the subject. Instead of using names this story will tell of how doors are opened to people who are in need of the kindness this story will deal with.

But first, the owners of a business they named the World of Stone came to Boulder City with tons of Agate, and Amethyst. The former cut and polished or in its natural state if you prefer. The latter straight from Mother Earth. If our readers have noticed beautiful Amethyst placed in the NEWS office and at City Hall, at Diane's Jewel Box... Yes! The folks we tell you about, where only Boulder City could make it happen.

couple, go to 609 5th St. and meet them. Their names were in a feature story last week in the NEWS.

They are proud to be Boulderites. They have found friends by the dozen who appreciate the World of Stone.

Please tell them you saw the ad in the Boulder City News!

Meet them at a yard sale on July 21-22. Our World of Stone friends came to Boulder City looking for the very opportunity that is opening up for them.

First, as of last week, they found a wonderful home. It is the house of the Richey's located at 609 5th St. The way they found the house was again the detective work conducted by friends that are typical "Boulderites" for aren't we the town with over 50% volunteers? Yes! Typical means just that. People who care... and they cared about the World of Stone friends listed here as mystery people.

You can find them easily by looking in the NEWS today. See the ad for a yard sale... ROCKS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Extraordinary formation. The Idyllic Retreats have placed them in formations everywhere and we intend to go back for more.

So readers, especially for you who befriended this charming in just such a situation. Swiss Family Robinson is the name of the film and it is another great adventure. produced by the Disney Studios. Come and enjoy another great movie at the Boulder City Library. For further information call 293-1281.

ENERGY AWARD -- Gov. Richard Bryan presents one of four 1984 Energy Awards to UNLV engineers Paul Riffle (left) and Tom Harkenrider (center), who designed and installed an innovative pre-cooling system in UNLV's William D. Carlson Education Building. The energy efficient system is expected to save the university thousands of dollars in energy costs and will pay for itself ($8000) in about two months.

Local man on UTC committee

A local man served on the Press Committee of the Order of United Commercial Travelers of America (UCT), during the organization's 97th annual international convention, July 9-12, at the Constellation Hotel.

Members of the committee were: Joe J. Owen, of Armore, Oklahoma, who was appointed chairman; Eugene F. Dodds, of 1102 S. 34th St., Mt. Vernon, Ill.; Leon I. Kuch, 2728 Oak Ave., Rapid City, SD; Ed Hamer, of 9 Wilmount Ave., Riverview, NB, Can.; Bert Barr, of 14 Cramer Dr., Ottawa, ON, Can.; Glenn C. Welch, of 127 Beech St., Henderson, and James W. Noffsinger, of 2217 E. Jackson Blvd., Elkhart, Ind.

The committee was appointed by Presiding Supreme Counselor (International President) George Mike McComber, of Ardmore, Oklahoma.

The Press Committee conducted convention news service activities, worked with Toronto media and released pertinent news items to hometown news media of convention delegates.

Chris C. Antonelli, of Smithfield, Rhode Island, is the newly-elected supreme counselor.

Equal rights group to meet

The Nevada Equal Rights Commission will hold an open Commission Meeting on Monday, July 23, 1984, at 6 p.m. in the Washoe County Commission Chamber, 1205 Mill Street, Reno.

Order of business for the meeting will be the decision of the Commissioners on the Hearing Officer's finding in the case of Slawnik vs Washoe County School District that was held on September 12, 13, 19, 20, and 27, 1983, in Reno, Nevada.

The public is invited to attend.

4-H county teams compete in 'Horse Bowl'

4-H'ers from throughout Nevada will gather Aug. 1-2 at Gardnerville for the annual State 4-H Horse Bowl competition and Horse Judging events sponsored by the College of Agriculture, University of Nevada Reno.

"We expect youth from eight to 10 counties in the state to participate," said Al Cirelli, head of the Ag. College horse program, and a co-coordinator of the activity with Rhonda Hicks, Extension 4-H agent in Douglas County.

"Hopefully the top team in the Horse Bowl," Cirelli said, "will go into the first Arabian Invitational Horse Bowl to be held in Reno this September. It would be a first for the winning team."

The Horse Bowl is patterned after the old TV College Bowl in which teams vie in answering questions. The two day affair kicks off at 7 p.m. Aug. 1 with the bowl competition in the Douglas County Library in Minden. Judging action gets underway at 8 a.m. Aug. 2 at the Douglas County Fairgrounds on Pine Nut road.

According to Hicks, one team will represent each county in the Horse Bowl; both junior and senior teams will compete in the horse judging. It consists of four halter classes; a Western performance class; a English equitation class; and two reasons classes. In the latter, the 4-H'ers must tell a judge why they placed a halter or performance class as they did.

Chris Gansberg Sr., Douglas County 4-H horse project leader, has assisted Hicks in the arrangements.

Tumbleweed Festival planned at Brian Head

CEDAR CITY-- Mountain men demonstrations, bluegrass and country music, a children's hollow and the sale of pioneer crafts, from handmade dolls and quilts to willow furniture, will be featured July 23 through 25 at Brian Head and the Tumbleweed Festival.

Co-sponsored by the Southern Utah State College Division of Continuing Education and the Brian Head Hotel, the festival will take place in the wooded area outside the hotel. Demonstrations and craft sales start at 1 p.m. and continue until 7 p.m. when musical entertainment begins.

"This is a western festival planned to take advantage of Brian Head's cool summer temperatures and the outdoor activities associated with the area," said Phillip C. Carter, coordinator of SUCS's summer school program which has been expanded this summer to include an entire block of college workshops and classes taught at the Iron County ski resort.

Admission is just $1 per person per day or $5 per family per day with a special $10 three-day family rate. SUC students with activity cards will be admitted free. The price of admission includes performances by the Salt Lake City bluegrass group the Oquirrh Ridge Drifters and by Primo+, a vocal group under the direction of SUCS music professor Ronald Aden.

A rendezvous type atmosphere will originate from a group of mountain men from northern Utah who will demonstrate skills ranging from flint and steel fire making to canoeing, rifle making, and leather working. Festival participants will have an opportunity to test their own rendezvous skills in knife and tomahawk throwing contests.

Dutch oven cooking, furniture refinishing, tole painting, and quilting demonstrations are also planned, according to festival directors Barbara and Stan Shakespeare. "We're interested in pioneer and western type crafts and in individuals who would like to demonstrate them," Mrs. Shakespeare said. Interested persons can contact her at 586-9795 for additional information or by calling the SUCS Division of Continuing Education, 586-7850.

A number of craftsmen will sell their handmade items, their specialties ranging from willow furniture to jewelry and pioneer-dressed dolls. A "general store" is also planned where craftsmen with only a few items can display their wares. Refreshments will be available from various food vendors and in the hotel itself which will feature, in addition to the regular menu, a special July 24th buffet.

Children of all ages can visit the "children's hollow" which will be manned by students and faculty in a July 17 through 27 Creativity in Education class being taught at the hotel. Solar hot dogs cookers, face painting and native crafts are but a few of the activities planned there.

Primo+ -- their performances taking on a "decidedly western flavor" -- will be highlighted July 23 and 24 along with appearances from a young dance group from Panguitch. Primo+ will also perform July 24 along with the Oquirrh Ridge Drifters.

An outdoor lecture will be held from 3 to 4 p.m. July 25 so that festival goers can become familiar with bluegrass music. The actual Drifters concert will start at 7 p.m. that evening, co-sponsored by SUCS and the Utah Arts Council's Rural Arts Consortium.

"Since the performances are being held outside with seating on the hillside, concert goers are encouraged to bring along pillows or blankets to ward off the chilly mountain air," Mrs. Shakespeare said.

When you're looking for an evening of fun, entertainment and fast-paced gaming action, don't forget the clubs located in Henderson and on the Boulder Highway. Nothing fancy, just informal "down home" good times. Downtown Henderson is home for the Eldorado and Rainbow Casinos. If you're heading north toward Las Vegas, make it a point to visit Sam's Town, the Skyline Casino and the Nevada Palace. And if your direction is south toward Boulder City, you can't miss the "grand daddy" of them all -- the Railroad Pass Casino, and just 3 miles west of Hoover Dam you'll find a 71 room hotel, casino called the Gold Strike Inn.

All these clubs have two things in common. They pride themselves on a friendly atmosphere and they feature the best in video gaming machines manufactured by INTERNATIONAL GAME TECHNOLOGY.

It's a natural partnership because the folks at IGT are friendly too. Their idea of a good time is making sure that casino patrons have a good time. At IGT, we design and build machines with the player in mind. That's why we're the world's fastest growing video game corporation.

Once over lightly

By Carolyn Drennan Bishop

While all those about me are into "finding their own identity," I've totally misplaced mine.

My family has gone through more identity crises than is recommended for my health. Or my sanity.

Everyday in every way, I seem to be living with a new cast of characters.

Take my son who decided taxidermy would enrich his life and bring beauty to our home. A "stuffed" was needed for lesson number one. Robert the rooster fit the bill. He flapped hysterically in our back yard while my son perused his instruction book. While Robert flapped, I tried to imagine a preserved chicken perched forevermore on my mantle piece.

Next, we wntered the wonderful world of magic. My favorite scarves disappeared faster than Elizabeth Taylor changes husbands. Once I remained handcuffed to the kitchen faucet for two hours. My magic release had to wait until the vanished instruction book could be found.

Our son's career in magic became a case of "Now you see it, now you don't," when we discovered he had placed an order for two trained doves. At the low, low price of eight hundred dollars!

When my eldest explored the legal profession I was afraid to order that kid to take a bath. He could have slipped on a bar of soap and sued me. Somehow, he grew up in spite of me. He's an attorney and I wish him well. As long as I no longer have to "tort" and "retort" with him. Living with an aspiring actor can be unnerving. I've witnessed more spectacular death throes than any mother should have to. I'm also tired of sending a ten year old to the bathroom to brush his teeth and having him emerge as a toothless ninety year old man or a pregnant gypsy.

Currently, I'm living with a doctor-in-training. I don't dare raise my voice. Everytime I get excited over little things like banana peels on the sofa and cockroach buffets in the boy's room, a blood pressure cuff is snapped on my arm. There are consultations and much head shaking. The prognosis never appears to be hopeful.

I'll admit it. I'm a confused person. Who am I? What am I? Where am I?
Will I ever know?

New Life corner

"What Happens to Persecutors," based on Biblical texts, is Vernon Howard's theme this week at New Life, 700 Wyoming Street, Boulder City.

"Nothing could be more self-destructive than hatred and persecution in the name of God," states Rev. James Serada, commenting on this series. Meetings are Wednesday and Friday at 7 p.m., Saturday and Sunday at 9 a.m. Friendly, informal and casual dress. Nothing to join. Donation basis.

Over the last several months Vernon Howard has been interviewed on 135 radio stations in 44 states. Some interviews were as short as 5 minutes, while the longest was 4 hours.

New Life classes are full of good-natured, old-fashioned wit and wisdom. Desi Arnaz Jr., who highlighted the New Life float in Boulder City's Fourth of July parade says, "Come to your first meeting and see what a truly normal, happy and alive place New Life is. Bring a friend."

This week's Lifeline: New Life student Frank Michelberger, a local firefighter for the past 17 years: "My job has taken me into a lot of dangerous situations. But I know the most destructive fire of all is burning anger. Come hear Vernon Howard and cool down."

State Cinderella Girl winners announced

The 1984 Nevada State Cinderella Pageant, staged at the Hacienda Hotel in Las Vegas was the largest state pageant ever held in Nevada hosting 85 young ladies from across the state.

The Finals were hosted by the 1984 Royalty, LaTara Reber, Heidi Portenstein, Charisma Carpenter and Cindy Lee Gray. As a youth development and scholarship program, Cinderella Girl awarded $1,900 in college scholarships in addition to other prizes including 4 Caribbean Cruises.

The 16 title holders and the finalists in each division will represent Nevada at the International Finals to be held August 3-12 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Miami, Florida.

The 1984-85 State Royalty includes: Cinderella Tot - Alison Testa, Fallon; Cinderella Miniature Miss - Candice Pritz, Las Vegas; Cinderella Miss - Kimberlee Clark, Elko and Nevada's Cinderella Teen - Wendi Stewart, Las Vegas.

Henderson girls participating included Marissa Jones, Lezlie Reber, Vicki Wall, Billie Jo Shaw, Heather Wiles, Stacey Chiles, Tammy Gillard and Bridget Smerck. Lezlie Reber and Vicki Wall were both selected as alternates at the Finals, and Marissa Jones was selected as Nevada's Tot Photogenic Doll for 1985. Tammy Gillard was named Best Gymnast and all the Henderson entries were successful in the Nevada Modeling and Talent Showcase. These young ladies will host the 1985 Henderson Preliminary scheduled for February, 1985.

Cinderella Girl is the largest and most prestigious event of its kind in the world and these girls will join over 400 other representatives in Miami for a week of pageantry and magic including a full royal lighted coach, a Cinderella Fair, a 40 foot tall Fairy Godmother and a boat trip to Miami's Seaquarium. The newly crowned State Royalty will host the 1985 preliminary pageants through-out Nevada and the State Finals will return to the Hacienda Hotel for 1985.

$100.00 offer...

Are you getting your monies worth?

HARVEST FINANCIAL SERVICE is offering a $100 challenge to compare your present program no matter how long you have had it, with the HFS Series and with the following conditions. Submit your whole life insurance for an impartial comparative analysis, and if the HFS Series, in comparison to your whole life insurance, does not illustrate either greater benefits or reduced total outlay (both as defined on the Challenge Certificate), Harvest Financial Service must pay you $100.

This is not an offer to buy insurance, but a chance to get a free comparison and also an opportunity to possibly pick up an extra $100. Understand that Harvest Financial Service isn't in the business of giving away money, it is just that Harvest Financial Service is so confident of the HFS Series that it is willing to make this offer.

CHANGING TIMES-- Two homes on Lake Mead Drive, constructed during the 1950s were moved in tact last week to be set up in the Pittman area. The area, zoned for commercial, will make way for new businesses.

Count Basie to be honored

The late Count Basie will be honored for his artistry, the achievements of his great career, and his many contributions to Las Vegas when the explosive Count Basie Orchestra performs with the great blues singer Joe Williams Tuesday, July 24, at the Union Plaza Hotel.

Williams, now a Las Vegas resident, rose to fame singing with Basie. He, along with the rest of the musicians performing, will be donating his fee for the performance to the Count Basie Scholarship Fund, which will be the recipient of all of the profits from the concert.

William "Count" Basie, who died April 26 at the age of 79, appeared many times in Las Vegas, and several times with Joe Williams as his vocalist. Basie worked for the Union Plaza's entertainment director, Maynard Sloate, in the Blue Room of the Tropicana for a number of years. He also worked at Caesars Palace with Frank Sinatra.

Joe Williams

The concert begins at 8:30 on Tuesday, July 24 in the Triple Crown Ballroom of the Union Plaza. Ticket prices are $15 per person (Las Vegas Jazz Society members, $12.50) and will be on sale at the Union Plaza's casino cage or at the door, and at Garehime's Music and Tower Records.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on August 23, 1984 at the hour of 8:30 A.M., in the Clemens Room of the Clark County Health District, 625 Shadow Lane, Las Vegas, Nevada, a Public Hearing will be held by the Clark County District Board of Health for the purpose of considering the adoption of amendments to the Air Pollution Control Regulations for New Source Performance Standards (Section 14).

The proposed revisions would adopt (by reference to the Code of Federal Regulations) Environmental Protection Agency Regulations for the following sources and/or facilities which have been constructed since approximately 1982, or new sources which may be constructed in the future. Performance standards and testing criteria would be adopted for the following categories:

- 1) Standards of performance for metallic mineral processing plants;
- 2) Standards of performance for equipment leaks of volatile organic compounds in the synthetic organic chemical manufacturing industry;
- 3) Method 18 - Measurement of gaseous organic compound emissions by gas chromatography;
- 4) Method 21 - Determination of volatile organic compound leaks;
- 5) Method 22 - Visual determination of fugitive emissions from material processing sources and smoke emissions from flares.

These proposed Regulations may be inspected and copied at the District Health Center. The District will send copies of the proposed revisions to interested persons upon request. Call us at (702) 383-1276, or write c/o Michael H. Naylor, Director Air Pollution Control Division, 625 Shadow Lane, Las Vegas, Nevada 89127.

All persons interested may submit data, views or arguments in writing to the District Board of Health before the hearing, or may appear to make an oral presentation. The Board of Health will consider fully all written and oral submissions respecting the amendments.

DATED this 13th Day of July, 1984.

NOTICE OF HEARING

PROPOSED ADOPTION OF REGULATIONS
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN for the hearing of the proposed adoption, suspension, and repeal of the Regulations in Chapter 616 of the Nevada Administrative Code of the STATE INDUSTRIAL INSURANCE SYSTEM (SIIS). The regulation hearing will be held, and regulations will be adopted, pursuant to Chapters 616 and 2328 of the Nevada Revised Statutes.

THE STATE INDUSTRIAL INSURANCE SYSTEM will hold a public hearing at 9:30 a.m. on August 21 and August 22, 1984, at the Public Employees Retirement System, Conference Room, 693 W. Nye Lane, Carson City and at SIIS offices, 2601 E. Sahara Avenue, Training Room, Las Vegas, respectively.

The purpose of these hearings will be to receive comments from all interested persons regarding the proposed adoption, amendment and suspension of regulations. If no person who will be directly affected by the proposed agency action appears to request time to make an oral presentation, the State Industrial Insurance System may proceed immediately to act upon any written submissions.

The State Industrial Insurance System will be adopting, amending, or suspending the regulations of the Nevada Administrative Code concerning: NAC 616.308 - .404 which deal with individual and association retrospective rating plans; NAC 616.044 amending reasonable market value of meals and lodging for payroll-premium purposes; and definitions found in NAC 616.056 standard rates; 616.060 year of experience; 616.034 incurred losses; 616.052 risk, and 616.054 standard premium.

SIIS is hereby soliciting comments generally from the public and from businesses to be affected by the proposed regulation changes.

Persons wishing to comment upon the proposed action of the State Industrial Insurance System may appear at the above-scheduled public hearing or may address their comments, data, views or arguments, in written form, to the State Industrial Insurance System, Attention General Manager, 515 East Musser Street, Carson City, Nevada, 89714. Written submissions must be received by the State Industrial Insurance System at least five (5) days prior to the above-scheduled public hearing.

A copy of the proposed regulation will be on file at the office of the Secretary of State, Capitol Complex, Carson City, Nevada, for inspection by the public during business hours. Additional copies of the proposed regulations will be available at the State Industrial Insurance System offices located at: 515 East Musser Street, Carson City, NV or 2601 East Sahara Blvd., Las Vegas, NV, for inspection and copying by the public during business hours and copies will also be mailed to members of the public upon request. A reasonable fee may be charged for copies if deemed necessary.

BRADEN MAIL: Every Fourth of July, I have found it necessary to tranquilize my dog because she reacts so horribly to the noise of fireworks...

My pet snake has suddenly stopped eating regularly. His skin also appears to be almost blistered. What could this be?

A. It is not uncommon for snakes to suffer from scale rot (blister disease) which, in fact, is a bacterial infection.

My pet hamster has been acting very strangely lately. He has not raised his head in days and is constantly pushing his nose on the floor.

A. This distressing condition is known as cage paralysis. It is caused by lack of Vitamin B and can be cured by exercise and adding a few drops of cod liver oil to his feed.

Q. My neighbors have a dog which they constantly abuse. It's gotten to the point where I'm sorely tempted to "dognap" him and get him a good home.

A. Unfortunately, you could be prosecuted if you were to try that. Report them immediately to the local S.P.C.A. authorities.

KEEPING FIT

A friend of mine recently got married, and received three woks. "What am I going to do with three woks, let alone one?" she asked.

Annette Annschild details the joys and benefits of cooking with a wok in her book, 'Wok Your Way Shiny'. In it she provides a 30-day menu plan that is healthy, delicious and low in calories.

Food prepared in a wok tends to be low in calories and high in energy so much so you can feel it. The diet is economical and delicious for the whole family.
