Council makes Pacific 80-foot street from Basic to Horizon

The Henderson City Council voted to restrict a previous resolution concerning the widening of Pacific Avenue through the original Townsite area and allow planners to design an 80-foot street for the remainder of the regionally-designated road.

A handful of residents appeared at the meeting to enforce what hundreds had emphasized during Comprehensive Plan hearing in 1984, that Pacific Avenue not become the city's second major access to the Boulder Highway from the Highland Hills and adjacent neighborhoods.

Plans dated older than a decade have advocated the promotion of Pacific to an arterial linking the city's western housing area and downtown to the Boulder Highway.

Those plans necessitated the condemnation of several homes on East Pacific and large vacations from other homeowners within the original Townsite neighborhood.

"Who wants the sidewalk three feet from the bedroom window," Bill Horan recounted about the previous plans for Pacific, noting the uproar the proposition caused 10 years ago and in recent planning sessions.

Council echoed the statements of staff and of Townsite residents, stating that planning a four-lane route on Pacific from Basic Road to Water Street would be difficult.

However, Councilman Ron Hubel suggested four lanes could be placed from Basic to Atlantic Street without street parking to avoid the area's bottleneck.

The council did not commit themselves to four lanes within the disputed Water Street to Basic Road area and appeared perturbed that Pacific remains designated as a regional street by the Regional Transportation Commission and the city Comprehensive Plan.

In other actions, the council tabled a variance request to allow more than three boarders in two residential care homes until the applicant was licensed by the state, overturned a Planning Commission denial of a parking variance at 1 Water St., and denied a request to cut a street within a recently-completed improvement district.

One Man's VIEW

By MIKE O'CALLAGHAN

The Department of Interior and the Department of Agriculture continue the exchange of land which will eventually leave Nevada as the only state in the West without a national park or a national forest. This action continues despite the strong opposition from U.S. Sens. Paul Laxalt and Chic Hecht, Rep. Harry Reid and the people of Nevada. In other words, the bureaucrats are thumbing their collective noses at the people and the elected representatives sent to Washington, D.C. to speak for them.

It comes right down to Bureau of Land Management chief Bob Burford having more juice with President Ronald Reagan than anybody we have sent back there to represent us. Burford, a crony of former Secretary of Interior Jim Watt, is still carrying out the destruction of the forests and parklands by his former boss.

Oh yes, Nevadans are asking about those public hearings where hundreds of them came forth to protest the BLM taking over all of the forest lands in Nevada. To be honest, it appears the protests made by the residents of the Silver State meant absolutely nothing.

A recent Department of Agriculture press release entitled "The Land Exchange Moves Forward" made clear that Secretary of Interior Donald Hodel and Secretary of Agriculture John Block really don't care what Nevadans or any other westerners think.

The press release read, "Secretaries Block and Hodel's decision to press on with the land exchange came after they sponsored 28 public hear-

Planning commission discusses plan, R.R. Pass annexation

The Henderson Planning Commission will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss a variety of issues and conduct public hearings.

One of the most important items on the agenda is a public hearing concerning the Land Use Plan and Master Streets and Highways Plan segments of the Henderson Comprehensive Plan.

The comprehensive plan itself has already been approved, and these segments are supplements to it.

Another important item will be discussion of the proposed annexation of the 51-acre Railroad Pass Casino property. If annexed, it could mean a significant increase in revenue for the city.

Gold Bond Ice Cream Company has requested an architectural review of their proposed ice cream factory as well as an overhead powerline route to run the plant which will be located at the corner of Olsen and Keokuk streets.

Public hearings will be conducted on two zone changes. Intercontinental Capital Group, of California, is requesting appropriate zone changes to allow them to construct a 212-unit apartment complex on the corner of

Racetrack suit may be nearing end

By Scott Dickensheets
There are indications that an end may be near to the lawsuit between the Public Employees Retirement System (PERS) and the Funk family over ownership of Henderson's dormant dog-racing track.

"Our attorneys have indicated that the matter might be resolved within 30 to 60 days," said Laura Wallace, a PERS investment analyst.

She added that if PERS was victorious in the suit, their inclination would be to sell the property.

According to Henderson

city manager Gary Bloomquist, there have been at least two serious offers to buy the land.

"These were offers from stable parties," he said, "they weren't flaky kinds of offers."

Basic High School senior wins Miss Black Teenage title

Basic High School senior Dartanya Breiane' Stringfellow was crowned Miss Black Teenage Nevada July 26 in Las Vegas.

The 17-year-old competed among 10 other local beauties from the Las Vegas area and was sponsored by her mother, Frances Bracy-Stringfellow.

Breiane' is a senior at Basic and is an active member of the school's creative writing club, the Bel Canto singing chorus and the BRAT (Bringing Races All Together) human relations club. She also sings with the Las Vegas Youth Chorus.

Upon graduation from Basic, Breiane' plans to attend Pepperdine University and work towards degrees in law and journalism.

Former Henderson woman wins international Cinderella Girl pageant

By Katherine E. Scott

Former Miss Nevada LeAnna Grant who grew up in Henderson before moving to Las Vegas her senior year of high school, recently won the title International Cinderella for 1985-86 in the Cinderella Girl pageant series.

Grant returned home Monday night following a goodwill tour of the Bahamas with other Cinderella Girl winners and International Prince Charming Scott Ollis, 24, of North Carolina.

The object of the goodwill tour, she mentioned in a telephone interview Tuesday, "is to publicize our scholarship program."

The winners were crowned Aug. 10 following the week-long pageant in Miami. Grant, now 23, noted she has been involved in the Cinderella Girl pageant system since she was 17.

Her recent win came less than two months after she retired as Miss Nevada. On June 15 she crowned current Miss Nevada Sonja Nall during ceremonies in Reno.

The International Cinderella commented, "I represent about 25,000 girls" from the United States and South America.

She is the granddaughter of Myrtle Peterson of Henderson.

ings throughout the nation. In Nevada, a thousand people attended three public hearings and overwhelmingly opposed the proposal and the elimination of the Toiyabe and Humboldt National Forests. Jim Bradley, Forest Service Public Affairs Officer, reported, "The rest of the public hearings were similar to Nevada. The hearing records show that almost every one at all 28 hearings nationwide was against Interchange. Washington also received approximately 2,500 written responses from across the country and 90 percent of them were against the proposal as well."

"After this negative public response, officials in the BLM and Forest Service discussed the possibility of dropping the land exchange proposal, but Secretaries Block and Hodel instructed them to continue the effort."

Strange that this land exchange should continue forward when our senior U.S. Sen. Paul Laxalt is so close to President Ronald Reagan. Hodel, Block and Burford do work for the president, don't they? Senator Laxalt is against the land exchange isn't he?

Well?

Today's News carries a story about the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) which should interest most Americans. This columnist helped put together the plan which changed the former Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) into FEMA during President Carter's term in the White House. It has been a dynamic agency and does at some time or another touch the lives of most U.S. residents.

During recent years the leadership of FEMA has embarrassed President Reagan by spending tax money foolishly and becoming a bunch of little badge carrying bureaucrats. FEMA will have a new leader in September and maybe it will return to serving the people and the nation as it was designed to do.

The east leg of the Las Vegas Expressway should be called the Henderson Freeway. Not only should it be so named, but the signs carrying the name should be paid for by the Department of Transportation. To even suggest the freeway signs be paid for by the city of Henderson is pure nonsense. Las Vegas doesn't have to pay for signs pointing federal highway travelers to that city.

Believe me, the east leg of the Las Vegas Expressway goes to Henderson and should be named accordingly to prevent confusion for out-of-state motorists. Furthermore, locals are going to call it the Henderson Freeway no matter what somebody else wants to call it.

So let's knock off the silly arguments and have the State Transportation Board properly designate this patch of highway as the Henderson Freeway.

If you are driving toward Tonopah, Nevada, it's important that you stop for more than gasoline and a bite to eat. You see, Tonopah is the home of the Central Nevada Museum which is open from noon to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. This large building is loaded with information, machinery, Indian relics, photographs, maps, household displays, musical instruments, telephone and railroad displays which cannot be matched in any other part of our nation. Yes, and it even has ore samples and other souvenirs for sale so you can take some history home with you.

The Central Nevada Museum located on Logan Field Road just south of Nye General Hospital on Highway 95 holds a treasure of knowledge about the mining history of Nevada and the Indians who lived here centuries before the miners arrived.

Nobody should just drive through Tonopah, the "Queen of the Silver Camps," or Goldfield, "The Greatest Gold Camp on Earth," without visiting and doing some personal exploring. Much of this exploring can be done right in the Central Nevada Museum where you will see: a switchboard from the Southern Nevada Consolidated Telephone Telegraph Company, Goldfield; Manhattan Fire Department hand-drawn hose cart; sheriff's evidence safe from Belmont Courthouse; Tonopah's first church organ; a sample of the Quinn Canyon meteorite; bootlegger's still; mining tools; photographs, mineral collection and many many other items.

This writer spent a couple of hours in the museum with his seven-year-old grandson who came away as excited as his granddad. So I can guarantee it is a stop worthwhile for kids of all ages.

They are attempting to change the current zoning of one-family residence, civic and industrial uses to two-family residence and limited multi-family residence uses.

Finally, Southern Nevada Auto Parts is requesting the vacation of certain portions of Snap Avenue and Cohen Street, in Pittman, an item that was tabled from the previous commission meeting.

The Commission meets at 243 Water St. in city council chambers.

Herbst-Collins Corporation of Las Vegas is requesting a planned-unit residential-development and tentative map review for their development, Richwood Homes. Richwood consists of 191 units on little more than 31 acres northeast of Wigwam Parkway and Jessup Road in Green Valley.

He said the cost of repair work and the legal actions he's taken have consumed his savings.

"All I've got now is my social security, and that barely pays for the house payments. I can't even pay my electric bill," he said.

He tells of the years since the house was built, which coincided with his release from the hospital following surgery, saying that during rainstorms, he and his wife and the occasional neighbor fought the water with shovels and wheelbarrows.

"I can't do this anymore," he said.

He is also angry at the city of Henderson for their inactivity in the matter, although now they have taken some measures to alleviate the flooding.

"That channel is illegal," Satterfield said. "Why don't they do something to the guy?"

City engineer Mark Calhoun said the city can't move because it has no proof of who dug the channel.

"We have a pretty good idea," he said, "but the city can't act on heresy."

Satterfield's neighbor, Francisco Gonzales Jr., who lives next to the new home, said he saw who dug the trench.

The city is asking for a civil-district zoning, both to reduce the incompatibility of the industrial zoning with the surrounding neighborhoods and to allow for the construction of a fire station and a church there.

Dick Satterfield has a problem.

Water.
When it rains, he gets too much of it. It rages across his land, he says, gouging his yard and eating his property out from under him. The wire fence that surrounds his lot is sagging in a number of places because the ground beneath it is badly eroded.

Satterfield says that it hasn't always been this way. He lives on the northeast side of town, on the edge of the desert, and he says that the natural drainage patterns there tended to sweep the water past him, doing only minimal damage.

During the heavy rains and floods of five or six years ago, he said his property suffered only minor damage.

The situation was changed with the construction of a new house across the street and down from Satterfield.

The new house sat in a natural drainage area, and a trench, an illegal trench (according to city engineer Mark Calhoun) was dug behind the new house to channel water away.

Unfortunately for Satterfield, it channeled the water toward his land.

"This has ruined me," Satterfield said, gazing across the desert to

Shooting suspects jailed

Two men were arrested Friday morning following a shooting incident at the Look Inn on Boulder Highway.

Curtis Jerome Pettes, 27, of North Las Vegas and Jody Blaine Mann, 21, of Henderson, allegedly fired two shots from a vehicle at three persons outside the bar known for its topless dancers. At least one shot may have struck the building.

According to police reports, the incident followed after the suspects were thrown out of the bar when Pettes tried to approach one of the dancers, who reportedly was his ex-girlfriend.

The dancer, Linda Jean Walker, and two men were shot at moments later outside the bar. Walker is the widow of John Walker, who in May was killed by Henderson Police after holding their son, and his son from a previous marriage, hostage.

While police were investigating the 4:15 a.m. incident, the suspects returned, taking off when seeing the law enforcement offices. According to reports, "pursuit ended when the vehicle crashed into a truck in the east end of Prices Trailer Park."

The vehicle, a 1980 brown-over-tan Cadillac, was listed as stolen from a Las Vegas residence early the same date, according to police. They report Pettes was one of the suspects in that theft and a related armed robbery.

One handgun was used in the robbery, police report, and four shotguns were stolen. According to police, the gun used at the Look Inn was a two-inch .38 caliber revolver.

Pettes was charged with three counts of assault and one count of shooting into an occupied structure. Bail was set at $5,000 for each assault charge, with bail set in court for the shooting.

Mann, also known as Joseph B. Mann, was charged with the same counts.

Henderson police arrested three men Sunday for possession of a stolen automobile. Bail was set at $2,000 each in the alleged theft of a 1981 brown GMC pickup.

Charged were Robert Francis Merriam, 35, of Henderson, also known as Robert F. Goodrow, Robert F. Peterson Jr and Edward Gene Peterson; Clyde Edward Miller, 33, who listed no home address; and Thomas Alexander Heffel, 31, of Henderson, also known as "Passum" or "Possum."

Other arrests

Willie George Holt, 56, of Las Vegas, was arrested Aug. 14 on a charge of driving under the influence. Bail was set at $1,000 and his vehicle was impounded.

Cecil Lloyd Mooney, 38, of Boulder City, was arrested Aug. 15 on a charge of driving under the influence. Bail was set at $1,000 and his vehicle was impounded.

Dennis Burton Drake, 34, of Henderson, was arrested Aug. 14. Charges included reckless driving, fictitious license plates, driving without a motorcycle license and operating a vehicle without insurance. Total bail amounted to $425.

Cinda Lee Garen, 36, address unknown, was charged Aug. 14 for contempt of court, involving schooling and community service. Total bail was set at $1,020.

Teresa Ann Martin, 26, of Henderson, was arrested Aug. 15 on contempt of court charges involving a fine, schooling, and community service, and failure to appear for sentencing. Total bail was set at $2,010.

Dwayne Mark Hoard, 29, of North Las Vegas, was arrested Aug. 15 on failure to appear regarding a traffic arrest. Bail was set at $150 plus $20 for court costs.

Linda Dean Hillis, 19, of Phoenix, Arizona, who also gave police the name Gloria Jones Cook, Letha Colter and Newnew, was arrested Aug. 13. Charges included interfering with police (providing false information) and two counts of possession of stolen property. Bail was set at $500 for the interference charge, $500 for one possession charge and $2,000 for the other.

Deborah Lynn Elmer, 19, of Henderson, was arrested Aug. 13 on a charge of injury to property. Bail was set at $500 plus $10 court costs. The incident involved a door at the Atlantic City Apartments.

Kimberly Rae Anderson, 22, of Henderson, was arrested Monday on a charge of possession of a controlled substance. Bail was set at $7,500.

Thefts

Henderson police are investigating the theft of a cream-colored 1985 Nissan 45 stolen from a Henderson resident between 10:30 p.m. Friday and noon Saturday.

The vehicle is valued at $12,539.25 and sports the license plate number 210BKE. Also inside the vehicle were clothing worth $650, miscellaneous items valued at $90 and an unknown number of public library books.

Also under investigation is the theft of a $10,000 airplane from Sky Harbor airport between Aug. 9 and Aug. 12. The 1970 Rockwell Aero Commander 100, a single-engine four-seater, belonged to George William Harrison of Lancaster, Calif.

Police believe three juveniles between the ages of 12 and 16 were involved in the theft of $100 plus a jar of change from a Townsite home past midnight Aug. 13. Two of the juveniles were taken into custody.

But until clear ownership is established, nothing can be done about it."

PERS originally loaned the land-purchase money to the Funk family when the dog track was built in the late 1970s. The lawsuit emerged been done?" he asked, pointing out numerous spots in his yard where he has filled in erosion ditches and displaying a $1,300 fence-repair bill.

To compensate for the damages and work, he filed a civil suit against Martin, though that looks stalled at this point.

His attorney dropped the case, and Satterfield said he cannot afford another.

Martin's lawyer Frank Green said that Satterfield is attempting to try his case in the press, and claims that Satterfield has no case against his client.

"All I want is for him to pay me what he owes me," Satterfield said, "for all the work that was done, for the damages, the fence."

And there are, he adds, some puzzling inconsistencies in the matter.

In a deposition related to the civil suit, for example, city engineering staffer Saeed Ahmad said that he had inspected the channel and found it to be less than a foot deep and two-or three-feet across. Pictures Satterfield says he took when the trouble first started indicate that it is of somewhat larger dimensions, as did a recent inspection.

Other aspects of the issue bother Satterfield but it looks as if, for now, there is not much he can do. The city is aiding him at last, and he cannot afford an attorney to argue a case that he might not win anyway.

Yet he refuses to give up. "I'm going to keep after this," he said, "because I know I'm right, and all I want is what he owes me. If it was me doing this to him, I would have taken care of the problem when it started."

Illegal contractor receives maximum fines from Muni Court

By Katherine E. Scott
Rudy George Simpson, doing business as The Concrete Works, was fined the maximum penalty in Municipal Court last week for failing to be properly licensed for work.

Henderson Municipal Court Judge James Jensen levied the maximum fine of $500 for the local charge and $1,000 for the charge filed by the state in court Aug. 13.

Leonard Lang of the city's business licensing department filed on May 28 a complaint that Simpson entered a written agreement with a local resident and received payment for construction of a block-wall fence.

Lang's affidavit states Simpson did not have a business license nor a Nevada State Contractor's license. In addition, he did not have a permit to work out of his home, according to the affidavit.

State investigator Robert Mackey mentioned Simpson received the maximum sentence because "the gentleman had had a history of this," in Southern Nevada.

Las Vegas Deputy City Attorney Nancy Becker remarked "a complaint was filed (against Simpson) for contracting without a license" in that city in September.

She added that "involved an allegation that on July 2, 1984, he entered a written agreement to grade, form and pour a concrete patio for the sum of

Long-time Henderson resident visits daughter after officer school graduation

Long-time Henderson resident Charles W. Wyatt returned Saturday from a visit with his daughter and granddaughter near Kansas City, Mo.

Wyatt stayed two weeks with his daughter, Army Second Lieutenant Sharlee Wyatt Shirley and her 16-year-old daughter, Tamara.

Shirley, whose mother, R. Viola Wade, lives in Reno, recently graduated from Officer's Basic Course for the Adjutant General Corps of the U.S. Army.

She was commissioned a U.S. Army Reserve officer in June 1984 at Oregon State University in Corvallis, Ore. She attended OBC at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. from Jan. 14 to May 10 of this year.

Lt. Shirley graduated as an honor graduate of her class and was interviewed and chosen for active duty.

She was assigned to recruiting duty in Kansas City, Mo. for a three-year tour of duty as the battalion assistant operations officer.

The second lieutenant grew up in Reno and graduated from Hug High School in 1970. She has always worked, but while attending Central Oregon Community College in Bend, Ore., she joined the Army Reserve.

She received her Associate of Arts degree in 1982 and went on to Oregon State where she received a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration last year. She makes her home in Blue Springs, a suburb of Kansas City.

Marlene Chatterton opens 'Hoky' sweeper business

The owners of Fortune Fencing and Silver State Striping have added a new business to their location at 229 West Foster.

Marlene Chatterton, wife of Chat and mother of Ron and Kerstin who run the local fencing, sealing and striping business, has opened Santree-Vegas, which will distribute Hoky-brand products to the Southwest. Hoky is Japanese for "broom."

The best known of these products is the talented little non-electric sweeper, which has for many years been sold by independent salesmen around the world.

Marlene says that the Hoky sweeper "is an idea whose time has come again."

"I got tired of plugging in a vacuum every time I tracked in leaves or spilled crumbs or needed to clean up dog hairs. I found that the Hoky saves time and cleans up hairs better than does my vacuum," she said.

Marlene is a graduate student at Claremont Graduate School in California, working toward her doctorate in English literature.

"I have finished the course work and began to feel isolated and bored while preparing for the qualifying exams," she says. "So when a graduate school friend with an import business asked if I would like to market the Hoky in Las Vegas, and I found what high-quality tools they are, I told her I would do it."

"I'm finding that I focus on my studies and my writing better than before, since I must make time for the new business. And I get to meet real people, which is a bonus for one who spends most of her time in fiction."

Currently, Marlene has one representative in the Henderson area. Her name is Grace Good, and she will be the exclusive representative for the Henderson area.

Grace may be contacted at 565-5754. Hoky products will also be available at the Fortune Fencing office.

Marlene feels that the Hoky will catch on quickly, since so many of our local residents are from back east, where the Hoky has been a well-known sweeper for many years.

"Women especially love the sweeper," she says. "It is designed by the Japanese for thorough cleaning, durability, and easy handling."

"It looks almost like a toy, but women and men find that it grabs into the carpet and cleans better, and handles better, than bulkier sweepers."

Resort labor relations course offered

The resort occupations program at Clark County Community College will offer a new course entitled "Practical application of labor-relations principles in resort operations," commencing with the fall semester.

Designed for resort executives, hotel line supervisors, union business agents and representatives, the course stresses rights, duties and obligation of both management and unions under existing collective bargaining agreements.

Interested registrants may enroll for either sections, one beginning Thursday, Sept. 5, or the other beginning Thursday, Oct. 17.

Both sections are of six-week duration and offer 15 instructional hours.

Each course section will be offered on Thursday evenings from 6 to 8:20 at the main campus located at 3200 E. Cheyenne Ave.

The Liquidators 'sells everything'

By Katherine E. Scott
Local Residents on a budget have a new store to purchase household necessities at a low price thanks to the recent opening of The Liquidators on Lake Mead Drive.

Owner Dick Ratti explained the new shop sells "everything from zippers to furniture to electrical appliances" which he gets from buying out casinos, hotels, estates, etc.

"I buy low and sell low," he remarked, noting he recently bought out a 4,000-square-foot warehouse from the Pacifica formerly the Treasury Hotel in Las Vegas. He added, "I'm buying out 159 rooms" of furniture from the hotel.

Some two weeks ago he opened the Liquidators at 601 West Lake Mead Drive, at Hillcrest. He also deals with used clothing and buys, sells and trades all kinds of books.

He and his wife Sherri, a nurse for a North Las Vegas doctor, have lived in southern Nevada about two years.

Originally from Ann Arbor Mich., Ratti came here from California where he worked in quality control for a technical instrument manufacturer.

Ratti got involved in his new business after holding garage sales for other people. "Then I started buying at swap meets," he went on, which led to the ultimate opening of The Liquidators.

Ratti, a veteran of the Korean War during which he was an Army photographer, recently joined the Henderson post of Veterans of Foreign Wars. He has two children and five grandchildren, all in California.

"We carry office supplies, dishes" and a myriad of other items residents might need, he concluded.

The Liquidators is open weekdays 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

With IPP lost, city should seek to enforce federal law

It's done for reasons that to the ordinary citizen seem ridiculous, but the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has performed their duties well, even though they did affirm a weak and ill-prepared decision from U.S. District Court Judge Leland C. Nielsen.

What the three-judge panel said about the issue of most concern to local officials and residents is patently absurd. They said because two power lines are placed together does not necessarily mean a power corridor has been created.

Yet, the very definition of a corridor under the federal law that mandates their designation is in areas or routes where more than one line exists.

This seemingly willful ignorance of the intent of the Congress when promulgating a law requiring the designation of powerline corridors is uncommon for our court system, but not as rare as most citizens would hope.

Apparently, the Ninth Circuit Court has made a similar previous decision regarding the same issue of corridor designation in Columbia Basin Land Protection Association versus Schlesinger in 1981.

What the court acknowledged was that Intermountain Power Project planners and the federal officials involved told Henderson that the addition of the IPP line would have no legal consequence in determining whether or not the current Navajo-McCullough line route would be designated a corridor in the future.

The court contends this concession makes the point of the corridor issue moot, noting "that without a corridor designation each subsequent right-of-way would require a full panoply of environmental review."

What is the court saying? Are environmental impact statements for each additional line sufficient to meet their interpretation of federal law? With this logic, would a corridor study ever be commissioned or completed?

Right-of-way seekers merely have to acknowledge no corridor exists through Henderson, address the issue inadequately in an environmental impact statement for the entire power generation project, and tack another line to a de-facto corridor that really doesn't exist, although everyone born with eyesight can confirm otherwise.

Here lies the inadequacy of both federal court opinions. Their actions may have pre-destined designation of a power corridor through Henderson should a study and finding ever occur, but to date, they have given those wanting to erect new lines no reason to seek or perform a corridorization study.

Given this, the city must decide whether to test the circuit court's opinion before the U.S. Supreme Court, a costly proposition.

Should the city not go forward at this point, we feel they should seek to force other power projects planning to build lines, such as the White Pine Power Project, to perform a corridorization study to comply with federal law.

Only in this way can an endless battle of legal bickering be avoided. We should note though, given federal law, the current route will most likely be designated as a corridor.

GOP leaders fold cards

By Richard Cohen

WASHINGTON--Back in 1981 when the Reagan administration was new, then Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker took a look at Ronald Reagan's plan of tax cuts and still more tax cuts and pronounced it a "riverboat gamble." The next sound you hear is a man folding his cards. Baker has called for a tax increase Speaking up just a jot too late, Baker said he favored a tax program similar to the one Walter F. Mondale proposed in the last presidential campaign. "It ain't what Mondale said, but who said it," Baker said at a breakfast here with reporters. "There are some things only a Republican can do and some things a Democrat can do." One thing a Republican can do, apparently, is find the courage to speak up only when it no longer matters.

What bothers Baker, what bothers almost everyone, is the deficit. After seven weeks of deadlock, the Congress finally passed a budget that reduces the deficit by about $56 billion for the coming fiscal year and by $280 billion over the next three years. Be advised, however, that those figures are not beyond dispute. The Congressional Budget Office puts the three-year savings at only $200 billion, which also happens to be about what everyone says the deficit for this fiscal year alone will be.

Numbers like this are numbing and really meaningless. There is no way for either you or I to envision $200 billion, to calculate what it means, and to figure out whether the United States can carry such a debt. Will it on its own keep the dollar so high that it continues to produce a trade imbalance and is it the high dollar alone that's responsible for the trade imbalance? And, as long as we're asking questions, how come Democrats who used to be sanguine about deficits are now running around like Chicken Little?

The last question is easy to answer. Democratic deficits are supposed to have a utility. They were the price paid for pumping up the economy and they were supposed to be used sparingly: Break Glass Only in Recession. This deficit, though, emerged in a recession, picked up steam in a boom and has become a fact of life. Like a puppy brought home for the day, it has stayed to become a monster. Shoo, shoo, you say, and it just growls back.

There are those such as Rep. Jack Kemp, R-NY, who say the last thing this country needs is a tax increase. Given the correct monetary policy, some judicious budget pruning and an economy managed by the editorial board of The Wall Street Journal, the deficit would shrink in the ensuing boom. A tax decrease—not an increase—is what is needed. Other more traditional Republicans like Baker and Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, take a different view. They see that deficit and they get sick. If it takes taxes to reduce the deficit, then as bad as taxes are, let's have them.

At the moment the argument remains academic. Emerging now and then from hibernation, the President growls "no tax increase" and, confusing that for leadership, goes back to sleep. The fact is the deficit is a rebuke to his program. It says "failure." Nowhere in his program does it say that the nation is supposed to be running a $200 billion deficit. In fact, this is the same man who once blasted Jimmy Carter's for his rather modest $59.6 billion deficit.

A president, especially a popular President like Reagan, has huge power. For instance, when the President got it into his head that lasers and particle beams could banish nuclear weapons from the Earth, he announced the so-called "Star Wars" program and a whole government—skeptical and dumbfounded though it was—fell into line. Similarly, when the President announced early on that he could cut taxes, increase defense spending and not run up a deficit, political leaders like Howard Baker and George Bush ("voodoo economics") swallowed their doubts and got with the program.

Now, it's apparent the riverboat gamble has not paid off. Baker has folded his cards. So, for that matter, has Dole and other Senate Republicans who endorsed a tax on imported oil. These Republican leaders and some of the Democrats, too, are too late conceding that the President's plan won't work.

What they now call a gamble, they knew all along was something else: a sure-thing deficit. All they needed was the courage to call the President's bluff.

Reagan retirees reflect conservative conflicts

Two recent retirees from the Reagan administration known for their conservatism have returned to jobs in the Intermountain West nursing wounds inflicted by fellow conservatives. Their experiences tell much about the internecine warfare that plagues contemporary conservatism.

Secretary of Education Terrell Bell left the Reagan administration at the end of last year and is now an education professor at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City.

On June 1 Rex E. Lee resigned his job as Solicitor General of the United States. As Solicitor General, Lee argued for the United States before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lee, who was raised in Arizona, will divide his time between doing Supreme Court work for the Washington office of a Chicago law firm and part-time teaching at Brigham Young University Law School in Provo, Utah. Lee was the founding dean of the BYU Law School.

Both Lee and Bell went to Washington with experience in previous Republican administrations and with sound reputations as Mormon conservatives.

Lee quickly drew the fire of supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment because of a book he wrote while at BYU attacking the amendment and because of the role the Mormon church played in fighting the ERA.

At his nomination hearing Eleanor Smeal, recently elected to a second term as president of the National Organization of Women, cited his work as a member of the board of the Mountain States Legal Foundation as one reason for opposing his nomination.

She described the MSLF as "a 'public interest' law firm espousing the economic views of its large corporate contributors" and as an organization that "seeks to gain control of public resources for the benefit of private interests and opposes the equal rights of women and minorities."

Others suggested that Lee's anti-ERA book was written at the behest of the leaders of the Mormon church and was part of a well-orchestrated campaign by the church which included a crucial ruling against the extension of the ERA by former church official, U.S. District Court Judge Marion Callister of Idaho.

Lee denied that he had written the book at the direction of church leaders, saying that he did not show it to them until it was completed.

This controversy soon paled into insignificance as both Lee and Bell came under attack from Washington's rapidly emerging neoconservative establishment.

This was particularly ironic in Lee's case since he had gained at least some of his national recognition working for the Mountain States Legal Foundation.

The MSLF, whose director was James Watt before he became Secretary of the Interior, was the brainchild of Colorado beer baron Joseph Coors.

Coors is also a major source of funds for the influential New Right think tank, the Heritage Foundation. Coors has considerable pull in the Reagan administration where he was a member of the so-called kitchen cabinet that advised Reagan during the transition between his election and inauguration.

As early as 1983, Lee came under attack by such New Right luminaries as Paul Weyrich of Coalitions for America and Peter Gemma of the National Pro-Life PAC.

Weyrich, Gemma and the heads of a number of New Right organizations wrote to Attorney General William French Smith calling for Lee's resignation.

They were incensed over Lee's statement that issues such as abortion and school prayer, which are sacrosanct to the New Right and were inscribed in the 1984 Republican platform, were "an albatross around my neck."

The unkindest cut of all came in a magazine article by James McClellan, head of the Center for Judicial Studies in Washington.

He described Lee's writing and legal work as reflecting "the interests, values, and prejudices of the liberal mind" and accused him of repeatedly taking "positions at odds with the president's program."

McClellan was particularly galled that Lee had not taken on the Supreme Court's historic 1973 Roe v. Wade decision that legalized abortion.

"I am conservative, and I have always been a conservative," said Lee recently. He insisted that his differences with fellow conservatives were over tactics, not philosophy.

Secretary Bell also fell prey to New Right attacks, some originating from within the Heritage Foundation, others from the White House staff.

President Reagan took office committed to abolishing the Department of Education, and the Department became a favorite posting area for members of the New Right.

After an initial attempt to abolish the department, Bell, and Bell says the President, shifted ground supporting continuation of the department and larger and larger budgets.

"I thought I was right of center," Bell said, "but I didn't know what far right was until I tangled with them. They're just too far out for me. Wow, maybe I was a bit naive."

Bell noted that he increased the DOE budget from $14.7 billion when he took office to $18 billion when he left.

He said that he had more one on one contact with the president during his last two years at DOE. "I never felt I had a serious philosophical difference there," he concluded.

Bell and Lee's experiences demonstrate that the major lines of conflict within the Reagan administration are between conservative centrists and hard-line rightists.

The New Right types, however, no longer speak with the voice of the citizen-activist besieging the heights of power in Washington.

Despite its populist rhetoric, the New Right has emerged in the Reagan years as a firmly entrenched, well-financed and institutionalized power in Washington, very much an establishment of its own.

And the President has become adept at placating both conservative camps using the rhetoric of the New Right to carry out the programs of the bureaucratic center.

Downtown would suffer from nuke waste transportation

Editor:

This is an open letter to the county commissioners regarding the nuke shipment to the downtown area.

While grappling with the nuke issue, we must not forget to require all downtown establishments to submit financial statements.

We must be sure that they could survive for at least two months in case of a derailment.

The evacuation of downtown either for a few days or a month would be disastrous; consider what national media would do with this; downtown could become a ghost town overnight. Imagine telling Valley Bank to evacuate for a couple of days due to a bomb threat at Union Pacific Railroad with greed superceding the soul, we must not discount sabotage, with only two gaming meccas in the U.S., it would be very convenient for New Jersey with all the bodies buried in the desert, nothing can be overlooked in the situation.

A simple bomb scare could evacuate Downtown. Unlike the Arizona incident this will not dissipate...we had better get financial statements; luckily all the bankruptcies would be the problems of federal courts.

No nukes for Nevada! Utah is dying proof.

Too many restraints

The Reagan administration's preoccupation with secrecy seriously interferes with the First Amendment rights of millions of federal government employees and the public's right to know what those employees are doing in the name of all Americans. That papa-knows-best penchant of the administration requires 4 million federal employees with access to classified material to sign pre-publication review agreements, where anything they write for public consumption is to subject government censorship. Prior to 1974, such censorship was almost unknown.

Pre-publication review is the insidious product of a 1981 Reagan presidential order that requires it to be practiced in nearly all federal agencies. Despite strong opposition by Congress and some minor modifications, it continues to be used to interfere with the free flow of information.

Since the earliest days of the Reagan administration, officials from the CIA, and departments of Defense, Energy, Justice, State and Treasury have attempted to keep secrets from the public. They helped draft the directive squelching high-level officials.

Under Reagan, the federal government is again filling warehouses with classified information, much of it having less to do with national security than political security.

The inclination of those with authority to classify information is to stamp everything secret to save themselves embarrassment and to further the interests of the administration in power.

Administration officials have admitted the executive order is not being used to stop the recent rash of military espionage but rather to stop leaks to the press—and thus to the public.

Former federal officials charge the program might conceal information that would expose improper government activities and will do little to improve security or to completely plug information leaks.

The censorship directive denies the public the benefit of political discourse by those most qualified to inform the public—those government employees most knowledgeable about the workings of a government agency.

Information is the foundation for democracy, secrecy, its destroyer. Unless national security is involved, there are no legitimate reasons for government to attempt to prevent public servants from speaking out about what they observe in the performance of their jobs.

State officials must be wary of junkets

Attorney General Brian McKay told Nevadans he wasn't compromised by accepting a junket to London and Monte Carlo, courtesy of the International Association of Gaming Attorneys. Furthermore, state Gaming Commission Chairman Paul Bible and Gaming Control Board Chairman Bart Jacka weren't compromised either. At least, that's what McKay says.

Of course, there's another side to this story—as one might suspect. While there's no reason to believe that the trip influenced future action by the three officials regarding gaming cases, the appearance of being compromised cannot be erased. Many Nevadans might be convinced of the trio's integrity despite acceptance of the trips, valued at $2,500 each. But Nevadans also know that many association members represent clients before the state's gaming boards for licensing and other matters.

Perhaps the new Ethics Commission can look into the matter and see what it comes up with. And in the future, the state should pay for state officials to attend such meetings if they are so important. That will avoid the appearance of a conflict of interest—which in the case of gaming control, is mandatory.

Chief's Corner

By James E. Goff
Chief of Police

Do I have to report an accident?

The one common answer is "yes." This brings into play several statutes.

NRS 484.219 states "If involved in an accident as the driver of any vehicle on any highway or premises of public access resulting in either bodily injury, death or damage to a vehicle or other property you must report the accident and meet the requirements of NRS 484.223, which are to give name, address, exhibit license on request; give information, license requested by officer; and, render reasonable assistance.

If no police are present, after doing the above, report the accident to the nearest police agency or Nevada Highway Patrol.

Recently the Legislature changed part of NRS 484.229 B to provide that, under Section 21, a report is not required from any person if the accident was investigated by a law enforcement agency and the report contains the name and address of the insurance company providing coverage to each person involved in the accident, the number of the insurance policy, and the dates which the coverage begins and ends.

The Henderson Police Department tries to defer non-injury and minor damage accidents on private property to the desk officer if the damage is less than $350 to either vehicle.

If the citizens insist on an officer at the scene, then one is dispatched.

The Presser Case

Prosecutors make decisions every day to drop some cases and proceed with others. Most of the time these choices go unnoticed by the public, and it is rare that the judgments are second-guessed. But when the subject of an investigation is the international president of one of the largest, most powerful unions in the country who just happens to have strong political ties to the administration in power, an explanation is required. In the case of Jackie Presser, it had better be a good one.

For 32 months, federal investigators have been looking into charges that Mr. Presser approved payments of more than $250,000 in union funds to "ghost employees" who did no work.

A Justice Department organized crime strike force in Cleveland recommended prosecution months ago, and the foreman of the federal grand jury in Cleveland publicly complained about Washington's delay in moving on the case. But now we are told that the government will not seek an indictment of the Teamster leader and has, in fact, already closed down the investigation.

It is hardly surprising that many people, considering the close political connections between the Reagan administration and the Teamsters, suspect the worst. The union was the only major labor organization to endorse the president in 1980 and 1984. Mr. Presser served on the 1980 transition team and has been received as a guest by the president. But the White House has been adamant in denying any involvement in the case, and Attorney General Edwin Meese, who had dealt with Mr. Presser on political matters, removed himself from the case at the time he went to the Justice Department last February.

Even if the Presser prosecution was not set aside for political reasons, there seems to have been an egregious foul-up somewhere. We are led to believe that Mr. Presser was some kind of an informant for the FBI and that indicting him would jeopardize some other—more important?—cases. But who authorized this arrangement and why didn't the strike force know about it? What is the relationship between the FBI and federal prosecutors in dealing with informers? And what are the ground rules, not only for this case, but generally, that govern decisions to drop some prosecutions in order to preserve others—especially when public figures are involved?

The Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations has already begun an inquiry into the government's handling of the Presser case. To put it mildly, the public deserves an explanation.

Video watchers should boycott Faces of death part I, part II

The Board of Governors of the Nevada Federation of Animal Protection Organizations and Carmelita Pope, the director of the Hollywood office of the American Humane Association, have joined together to issue a warning to citizens concerning what may be the most horrendous video cassette ever offered in the United States.

"Faces of Death, Part I and part II" is not a motion picture made for theatrical release, but was produced in video cassette form only.

This cassette is a collage of violent death involving both humans and animals, which makes this joint warning of paramount importance to Nevada parents.

It cannot be stressed strongly enough that this video cassette production, which shows graphic, gory killing in dogfights, bullfights, kosher slaughterhouses, seal hunts, attacks by piranhas, the painful death of monkey shot with poisoned arrows, the shooting of alligators and sharks and the ritual puncturing of animals to drink their blood could easily cause permanent psychological damage to the young or immature.

In the production, the scenes mentioned above are combined with those of human deaths that include shootings, a guillotine murder, gas-chamber and electric-chair executions, a man killed by a bear, an animal-control officer mauled by an alligator and a Satanic cult devouring the innards of a human corpse.

While presented in documentary form, these tapes include many scenes suspicious of being "set-ups," such as a restaurant episode in which a live monkey is brought in by a waiter and secured in the center of a table, with only its head exposed to the "diners."

Each of these diners is then issued a hammer which they use to beat the animal to death.

The head is then slashed open and the diners are served the monkey's brains.

There was no sign of other customers or the normal clatter of a restaurant, only spotlights on the table in the scene.

There are a number of other killing scenes that also appear to have had advance planning.

It is important to note that what we've described above are just a few of the morbid scenes depicted on the video cassette.

The entire three-hour running time of the tape is exploitive of both animals and humans. "Faces of Death, Part III" is already scheduled to begin production.

While it is not the intent of NFAPO or the Hollywood office of AHA to become censors, the graphically violent and fatal episodes depicted in this cassette necessitate an urgent warning to the general public.

It should be noted that all attempts to contact the distributor, Jaffer Ali, Maljack Productions, 15825 Rob Roy, Oak Forest, IL 60452, have been unsuccessful.

The Nevada Federation of Animal Protection Organizations and the Hollywood office of the American Humane Association suggest that if you are concerned about the welfare of animals and humans, you should write letters of protest to the cassette's distributor and to your local elected official.

It is also suggested that strong complaints be registered with managers and store owners of all video cassette retail outlets, within the state of Nevada, who rent or sell the deplorable cassette.

If you're a customer or a club member of these outlets, inform them that you will not do business with them as long as they continue to rent or sell copies of "Faces of Death."

Wow! Talk about good cookin'. Nearly fifty people gathered at The center for potluck on Sunday and brought some of the most delicious food we have ever tasted. We played Canasta, Bridge and Yahtzee afterward. Thanks to everyone for such an enjoyable afternoon.

We want to thank Dave Drake for installing the carpet in the RSVP and nutrition offices on Saturday. It looks great, Dave! Also, on Monday Albert and Diana Funk donated several large boxes of books and magazines to our library. They include beautiful hardback books such as the Wild, Wild World of Animals series, the Old West series, plant books by Sunset, and books on self-improvement and astrology, as well as many National Geographic magazines. We are grateful for these gifts.

While we are thanking people, we must mention one of our most loyal volunteers, Emma Jessop. She is a tiny, quiet, beautiful lady who greets everyone with her big smile and warm eyes and helps us with our record-keeping at mealtimes. While she sits, she is always busy knitting slippers which she gives to senior citizens who are in the hospital. Two of our senior friends who are hospitalized at this time are Irene Leavitt and John Ryman. Buck Weese and Selze Hefflefinger have recently returned home from the hospital. We hope all of these folks get well very soon.

We just found out that Edna Deardoff completed ten—yes, ten—years with the Senior Nutrition program on Aug. 15. Congratulations, Edna! We hope you stay another ten years. Your services are invaluable.

Mark your calendars for next Tuesday, Aug. 27. A twenty-minute film entitled "Eat, Drink and Be Wary" will be shown at the center at 11 a.m. and repeated at 1 p.m. the same day for those who may not be able to come at 11.

On Friday, Aug. 30 we will have a party for all those whose birthdays are in August. Burning questions to be answered at local Elks lodge dinner theatre

It's been a long hot summer and it's time for a change.

Get out of the heat Saturday, Aug. 24 at the Henderson Elks Prime Rib Dinner Theatre.

After a dinner including prime rib, baked potato and an all-you-can-eat salad bar, enjoy an evening filled with comedy plays, music, and vaudeville hi-jinks.

These burning questions will be raised. Did Johnny and Wilma make love in the back seat of their Volkswagen? Did God and Lucifer ever agree on anything? Does Wilma really need hormone shots?

Why is Lucifer wearing a business suit? Is it live or is it Memorex? Will Johnny ever make love to Wilma? Does your chewing gum lose its flavor on the bedpost overnight?

Get the answers at the Henderson Elks Lodge, 631 E. Lake Mead Drive. No-host cocktails start at 6 p.m. Dinner will be served from 7-8 p.m. and the entertainment starts at 8:30.

A $10-per-person donation aids youth activities including the Henderson Boys' and Girls' Club, little leagues and the preschool vision-testing program.

Oh, and about the chewing gum left overnight on the bedpost. Just got carried away with that one. We really don't want to know.

College comments

By Herman Van Betten
Executive Director,
Henderson Campus

All of us at the Henderson Campus would like to thank the many business friends of the College for sponsoring the full-page ads in the Henderson Home News. Also our thanks to the TIMET Corporation for paying for a series of ads on Boulder City's KRRI Radio.

During the registration at the Boulevard Mall last week several of our Henderson classes filled up already. Our registration begins at 3 p.m. on Aug. 28 but local students should feel free to drop by our offices beforehand for advice.

Many residents who drop by the office are surprised to learn that the average 3-credit course costs only around sixty dollars for an entire semester. Some people interpret the $20.50-per-semester-hour cost as $20.50 per contact hour. No wonder some people hesitate about going to college.

Charlotte Claassen, a longtime Henderson resident, built the Henderson Campus developmental program from nothing into a flourishing enterprise. Many residents have been able to bridge the gap between a poor or nonexistent high school education and college by attending Charlotte's classes.

People who dropped out of high school or junior high school years ago because they had to support the family or some other reason are now finishing up a college degree at our local campus.

Because of her success in working with and motivating adult students, Charlotte Claassen has been appointed the academic advisor at the Campus.

Other fine instructors will be teaching her courses in reading, writing, math and GED. We all thank Charlotte for a job well done and wish her much success in advising our students, particularly those who have been out of school for a number of years.

Recently we conducted a survey of local business and industry to find out the need for training in word processing. As could be expected, many companies are interested in exploring the many advantages of word processing if they have not already switched over to word-processing equipment.

A word processor can write 500 individualized letters in a couple of hours. This kind of a job would take days for the average typist. The editing of text on a monitor is infinitely more convenient than correcting on a piece of paper and retyping.

Word processing at the Henderson campus is taught by the very capable Donna Denton of Boulder City. Ma. Denton has taught for us a number of years.

In her first course, Word Processing Concepts (OAA 205), students will acquire and improve skills in proofreading, punctuation and machine transcription, learn about word-processing equipment and receive hands-on instruction on the Apple, DecMate or CPT. In the second course, CPT 8000 (OAA 206), students will receive hands-on instruction on the CPT, a dedicated word processor, widely used by government and industry in Clark County.

Again, I want to remind all residents of 62 years of age that the Community College has been honoring seniors for years by offering tuition-free credit classes. Seniors who do not want to take tests but would like the knowledge may sign up to audit the classes. They may enjoy the lectures and the give-and-take of the class discussions, but may walk away at exam time.

Older students frequently provide quite a challenge to the young students in our classes. We have often found that a recent high school diploma is no match for the wisdom gained in decades of experience.

Love was head custodian at Robert Taylor elementary school and was active in community affairs, serving on the city's first recreation board and as a Scoutmaster of Boy Scout troop 23.

He was also a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3848, having served in both World War II and the Korean War. He was a member of the First Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife Cleo (Penny); daughters Pamela Radke of Henderson, Lleeann Love of Las Vegas and Nancy Love of Reno; stepsons Vernon D. Caulkins of Alaska and Larry L. Caulkins of Las Vegas; sisters Helen Welker, Ruth Randall, Audrey Stroughton, Beatrice Tania, Thora Cornell, all of Michigan, Beulah Irwin of Tennessee and Jean York of Arkansas; brothers Rev. Kenneth Love and Rev. Dr. Harry Love, both of Michigan and Rev. Bruce Love of Illinois. He had 10 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held today at 1 p.m. at Bunker Brothers, 925 N. Main, Las Vegas. A military graveside service will be conducted by VFW Post 3848 following services.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations to the Bill Love memorial education fund at First Interstate Bank of Nevada.

17 YEARS—John Clark received a retirement gift from fellow employees, presented by Nancy Anderson of the housing Assistance payments staff.

24 YEARS—Nancy Anderson, housing quality inspector with the Authority, presents a retirement gift to Eldon Chase, maintenance supervisor, upon his retirement after 24 years

Housing Authority employees retire

Two longtime employees of the Clark County Housing Authority retired recently.

Eldon Chase of Henderson had worked for the Authority since November 1961 and John Clark, also of Henderson, since April 1968.

Chase retired as maintenance supervisor, a position he held since November 1968.

His 24 years also included time spent as Maintenance mechanic and as roofing foreman for the old World War II structure in Carver Park and Victory Village which were torn down in 1973.

"Chase is not a jack-of-all-trades but a master of many trades," said executive director Bill Cottrell.

"He has expert knowledge in everything from air conditioning to sewer-line maintenance, from roofing to concrete work, from painting to landscaping. It is hard to find people like that these days."

Clark started with the Authority as a maintenance mechanic, was promoted to maintenance mechanic leadman in February 1975 and then to maintenance mechanic II in 1979, serving a total of 17 years with the agency.

"John was our expert-of-experts in air conditioning, refrigeration and locksmithing," Cottrell noted, "and he will be very hard to replace."

Both men were honored at a recent retirement party given by fellow employees. Each was presented with a retirement gift and refreshments were served.

At the party Cottrell noted, "These fellows may be 'retired' but we all know they will keep on working; it just won't be with the Authority now."

Miscellaneous news missiles

By Jessie Bennett

This is a windy Thursday, Aug. 22, 1985. It marks the 234th day with only 132 days remaining in this old year (you can call it old now that it is on the downhill run). This day also turns over a new Zodiac leaf and we find that from now until Sept. 22 the sign of Virgo rules.

Thought for today: That great showman P.T. Barnum said, "Money is a terrible master, but a great servant." (Isn't that something to be remembered and think about in these days of commercialism, greed, etc.?)

Of this and that: I suppose there's not too many subjects that are written about more than history. Big, dusty libraries full of big books and little books of history; histories of cities, counties, countries, civilizations, people and things good and bad. Edward Gibbon who wrote the oft-referred-to The History of the Decline & Fall of the Roman Empire summed up history as "little more than the register of the crimes and follies and misfortunes of mankind." Another American historian, Charles A. Beard, put down his pad and pencils after writing what he believes is history that all could read and understand without too much effort:

1. Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad with power.
2. The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly small.
3. The bee fertilizes the flower it robs.
4. When it is dark enough, you can see the stars.

Historical Flashbacks: Last week in history we could learn that 24 years ago (1961) the construction on the 'Berlin Wall' was begun by the Russians. The Panama Canal opened in 1914 just 71 years ago. On Aug. 16, 1948 baseball's great Babe Ruth died in New York at age 53. And 758 another great and perhaps infamous man the Mongol conqueror Genghis Kahn died.

- Aug. 22 1851 American Yacht won cup at international regatta
- 1903 Yacht "Reliance" won the first race for the American cup
- 1911 De Vinci's "Mona Lisa" stolen from the Louvre in Paris, France
- Aug. 23 1775 England's King George III proclaimed the existence of open rebellion in the American Colonies
- 1914 Japan declared war against Germany in World War I
- Aug. 24 1814 British captured Washington, D.C. and burned the capitol in War of 1812
- Aug. 25 1718 French immigrants founded the city of New Orleans in Louisiana
- 1883 The Krakatoa volcano erupted in the Dutch East Indies, creating a tidal wave that killed 36,000 people
- 1981 The US Voyager 2 spacecraft came within 63,000 miles of Saturn, transmitting photos and other information about the planet to earth
- Aug. 26 1346 At the battle of Crecy, firearms and cannon used for the first time. 55 B.C. Roman forces under Julius Caesar invaded Great Britain
- Aug. 27 1908 Lyndon Baines Johnson, 36th U.S. President born
- 1945 American troops landed in Japan at the end of World War II
- Aug. 28 1609 Henry Hudson discovered Delaware Bay
- 1922 The radio station WEAJ in New York City aired the very first radio commercial. The Queensboro Realty Company of Jackson Heights paid $100 for 10 minutes air time. (My, how things have changed in 63 years!)

Cause for celebration—Tomorrow will be August 23 and is a special day in lives of Louise and Bernell Lamb. It is, first, Louise's birthday and it is also the Lamb's wedding anniversary. Makes for a double celebration. Congratulations and many happy returns.

Popular Date—It seems that in Henderson August 23 and August 24 are indeed popular days in the romance department!

—Tina-Gail Wilcock and G. Cash Wilson will be united in marriage Aug. 23. Tina-Gail is the daughter of long-time residents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilcock. She is a graduate of Basic High School. Her groom Cash is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary G. Wilson of Las Vegas. A reception in their honor will be held at the Spanish Oaks Clubhouse in Las Vegas. To them much happiness in the new life they have chosen.

—Henderson Home News' own Scott Dickensheets and Laura Jean Johnson have chosen that special Saturday, the 24th, for their wedding at the Henderson Presbyterian Church. Laura is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson of Henderson. She was a student at UNLV and also employed at local Osco Drug. Scott's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harley Dickensheets. He is also a UNLV student. Both were graduates of Basic High School.

—Another Henderson couple who will recite their wedding vows Aug. 24, is Robin Christianson and Frankie Baca. Robin and Frankie both graduated from Basic High, are currently employed in Henderson and will make their home in Henderson (of course!) Robin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Gana and Frankie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baca, Jr. Their marriage will be solemnized at Our Savior's Lutheran Church and a reception in their honor will follow the ceremony in the church parish hall. A reception will also be held in the Henderson Convention Center. To Robin and Frankie every happiness for the future. Congratulations and a wish for much happiness to these popular young couples.

Vacation—A last vacation for the summer was taken by Mike and Donnie Rincon along with their three sons, Jake, Micah and Jason. They packed all their camping gear and spent a cool week in a cabin in Utah's mountains near Cedar City. Now they'll be ready for the school year to begin.

Family fun—You don't have to read this column often to know how I feel about family. One of my mottos is "Families are forever—cherish yours!" And one Henderson family who are close and have all kinds of activities together is Alan and Lol Irons and their families. Alan and Lola along with David and Kim Irons with Amber, Heather and Kevin had a special vacation together that included a trip to that beautiful wonderland, Yellowstone Park. Along with all that wilderness beauty it was cool and refreshing, too.

Busy, big place—Have you been to the Las Vegas Airport lately? Goodness, but it's changed and big! Have to go there a couple hours before flight time or arrival just to find the way in—not to mention tickets and baggage and all that stuff. Palma Black, beautician at Migi's Magic Mirror on Water Street has had a busy summer with some of her grandchildren, son Andy's offspring from Sacramento, Calif. Last Sunday she put them on the plane for home and learned all about the airport.

Visitor—David and Geri Munford lived here for many years until they uprooted to live in Salt Lake City. Dave was in the area on business this last weekend and visited with Jan and Jan Bennett and many other friends. Good to see him again.

Something to ponder—Something the powers that are, and have been, should have remembered is a little something that first president George Washington said in his farewell address to the nation: "It is our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliance with any portion of the foreign world." (Then maybe this nation wouldn't be dictated to—Japan and big oil interests, for instance.—jb)

Sad trip—My better half (three quarters) Dick and I, along with Jan and Jan Bennett, my parents Buck and Molly Holman, and uncle and aunt Therold and Erma Brook, had a quick trip to Springville, Utah, to attend the funeral of a dearly beloved aunt, Margaret Gurr Hamblin. It was a farewell to her and, as these things seem to go, a meeting of many dear family members not seen for some time. Utah is almost as warm and the winds just as strong as in our valley. The hunters of the bow were getting ready for bow season for deer in Central Utah and their school starts today.

Anderson Potter marriage—Congratulations are in order for Cheryl Anderson and her groom Steven R. Potter. They were married in religious ceremony in the LDS Temple in St. George, Utah on Friday, Aug. 9. Steven is the son of Mrs. Arva Potter and the late Weston L. Potter of Salt Lake City. Cheryl is the daughter of Henderson Educator Kent K. Anderson and wife JaNeene. They were honored at a reception that night in Henderson and an openhouse is being held for them this coming Saturday in Salt Lake City. Congratulations to them.

U.S. team competes in NATO pentathlon

Rocha performs in orienteering manuevers

By Staff Sgt. Richard D. Glynn
U.S. Army and Air Force Feature Team
U.S. Army and Air Force Hometown News Service

OSLO, Norway—American Reservists and National Guardsmen from across the country proved their athletic mettle once again after taking two team first-places in the annual NATO Confederation of Interallied Reserve Officers (CIOR) military pentathlon here Aug. 7-9.

Marine Corps Reserve 2nd Lt. John E. Rocha, son of Frank A. and Jean Rocha of Henderson, was a rookie member of one of the six three-man teams the United States fielded. In the team competition, the U.S. finished top in the novice and over-35 divisions.

Competitors from the U.S., England, France, West Germany, Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Italy, Canada and Norway fought for the gold in marksmanship, land- and water-obstacle courses, land navigation and grenade throwing and orienteering, the latter an event requiring stamina and precise land-navigation skills.

The 24-year-old Marine said the U.S. team did very well in the shooting and water-obstacle events of the competition.

"The rifle scores and swim times were outstanding for the team," said Rocha, a 1979 graduate of Basic High School.

"The orienteering wasn't performed as well as we are capable of, however. I think we should have done better. And, as a result, we didn't maintain our competitiveness for the overall competition.

"I had my good days and bad days during the pentathlon. I shot poorly due to the pressures of international competition," Rocha said. "It was the most difficult part for me. The .45-caliber pistol has a big kick and it was hard for me to keep a good trigger squeeze, because I tended to anticipate the recoil of the pistol.

"But my obstacle courses were good and I'm proud of them. I also threw grenades perfectly, hitting four out of four.

"In the orienteering event, I was an 'iron packer,' one of the two guys on the team who carried a weapon, so I didn't play any great role in that event. But, except for shooting the pistol, I met my goals for the competition."

According to veterans on the 18-man U.S. delegation to the pentathlon, there's much more to the competition than just competing—it's the chance to see new lands, make new friends and renew old acquaintances.

The primary reason for the Confederation of Interallied Reserve Officers is to foster fraternity and understanding between the reserve officers of NATO.

"The Norwegian team was unbeatable this year," said Rocha, who holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Nevada Las Vegas. "Their obstacle-course times were exceptional as was their orienteering. I also found the Norwegians were wonderful hosts. Their country is great. It's a beautiful place to live and visit.

"The CIOR competition was a very worthwhile experience for me. I wouldn't have passed it up for anything."

In the overall competition, teams from Norway garnered first, second and fourth places, with the French team placing third and the American Over-35 team placing fifth overall as well as taking first in their division.

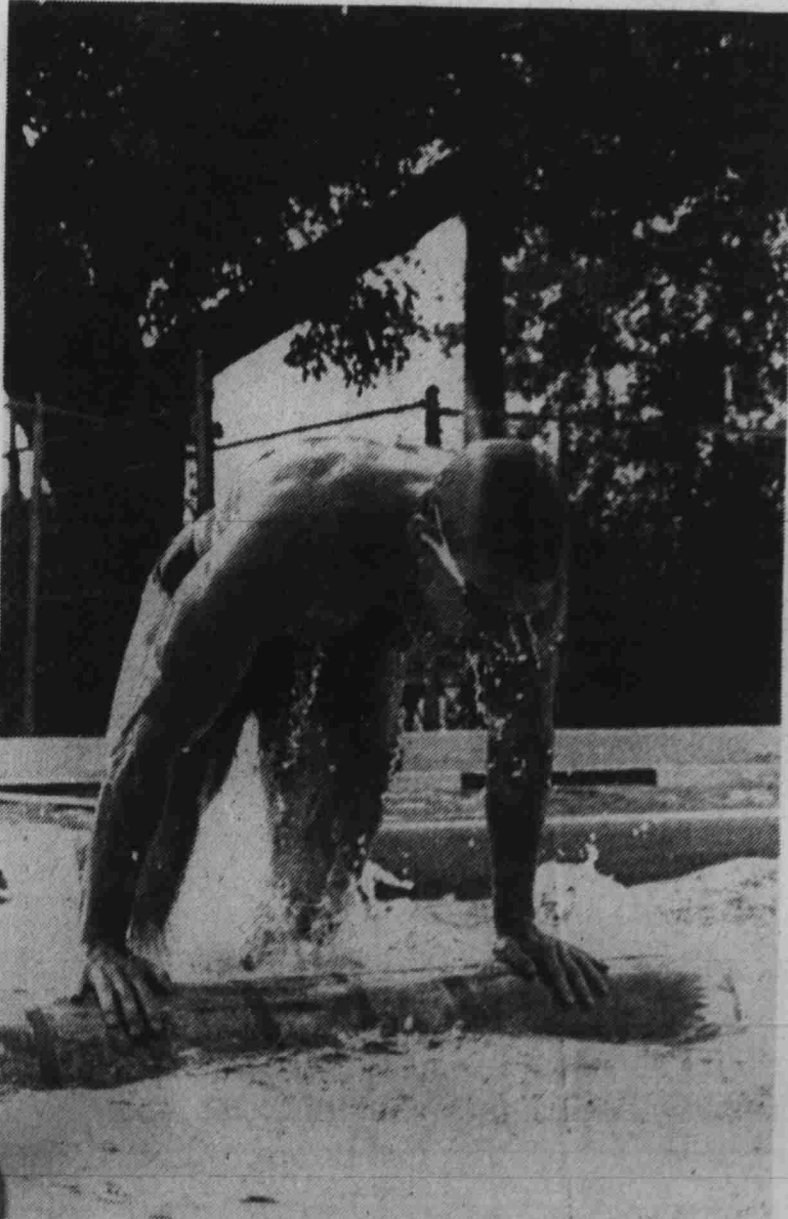

American marksmanship was strong, though, with the U.S. finishing first in pistol and rifle. Out of 38 teams from 10 nations, the U.S. also placed 14th, 16th, 17th, 23rd and 38th in the overall competition.

Bergslien to attend Occidental

Henderson resident Kimberly Ann Bergslien, a graduate of Basic High School, will begin undergraduate studies at Occidental College this fall, according to the college's Public Information Office in Los Angeles.

The class of 1989 is an "academically impressive group," stated Charlene Liebau, director of admissions at Occidental. Noting that over one third of the 459 new students ranked in the top five percent of their high school class, Liebau commended the contributions each has made to his or her school and community.

"We look forward to the interest and energy they will bring with them in the fall, and to contributions they will make to life on campus," she said.

Founded in 1887, Occidental College is a private liberal arts institution with a student body of 1,550, and is located in Los Angeles.

There will be a 50-cent entry fee with all proceeds going to the Boys' and Girls' Club of Henderson.

Some of the items to be sold include furniture, pool tables, clothes, arts and crafts supplies, candles, toys, cosmetics, lamps, mattress and box spring, stove, clothes dryer, figurines and house paint.

If you are interested in renting a space or need any other information call 565-6569.

The Henderson Boys' and Girls' Club is located at 401 Drake St., just two blocks down from Basic High School.

Boys, girls club to be closed Sept. 3 to 7

The Boys Club will be closed for repairs, repainting and some rest for its staff members from Sept. 3 to 7.

The summer of '85 has been the club's most active in the last 10 years. The daily attendance between the two facilities has been more than 200 members a day.

Close to 30 field trips were provided to the members and the indoor soccer league had more than 120 active participants.

The club staff worked very hard to provide programs for the youth of Henderson and was anxious to get the kids involved in the many programs offered, but they are excited about seeing the kids start back to school.

Flag football and cheerleading signups are now being taken for all children between grades one and ten.

Easy living at US Home's Somerset Park

"You see that phrase 'easy living' a lot," said Jim Young, sales consultant at US Home's Somerset Park community, "but it really starts to mean something when people see these townhomes.

"Not only are they filled with time-saving features and appliances that make for comfortable, carefree living, but the homeowners association keeps the exteriors, landscaping, swimming pool and heated spa in perfect condition.

"People can forget about maintenance problems and just relax and enjoy their new home. It's truly easy living," Young said.

"Another thing that adds to their peace of mind," Young continued, "is the 288-item checklist that US Home uses before every closing. Each item is gone over with the homebuyer by a US Home representative to ensure complete satisfaction.

"So people start out knowing their home is in excellent condition, which is a nice, secure feeling. The quality is there, so they can spend their time and money on furnishings and decorating their home. And US Home protects them with a full 10-year warranty that has no deductibles for any warrantable condition," Young emphasized.

Somerset Park Townhomes are one- and two-stories, with one, two or three bedrooms, and offer a choice of five different models.

The list of features include refrigerator with icemaker, continuous-cleaning oven, washer and dryer, dishwasher and garbage disposal, wall-to-wall nylon carpeting with upgraded thick padding, no-wax Congoleum floors in kitchen, baths and entry, mini-blinds throughout, private patio with block wall, dual-pane windows and sliding glass doors with screens, covered parking, covered and lighted front entry.

The Shaw is one-story, one-bedroom; The Standish, one-story, 2-bedroom; The Drake, two-story, two-bedroom; The Hampton, two-story, three-bedroom; and The Stonyford, two-story, two-bedroom with loft and wet bar.

"The interiors of these Townhomes are very attractive," added Young, "with bright, spacious rooms, and the vaulted ceilings give a nice feeling of openness and freedom.

"A lot of thought went into the floor plans, so that they could adapt easily to fit the needs of different-sized families and their individual lifestyles. People appreciate the ceiling lights in all the bedrooms and the mini-blinds throughout, as these features save them money.

"They don't have to worry about choosing and buying drapes or bedroom lamps when they first move in," Young noted.

"Another thing people have mentioned that they appreciate about Somerset Park is the handy location," Young continued.

"Schools, day nurseries, a variety of markets are close by, and the south leg of the Expressway will make this location even more convenient. Lake Mead, with boating, fishing and water skiing is just a short 15-minute drive away.

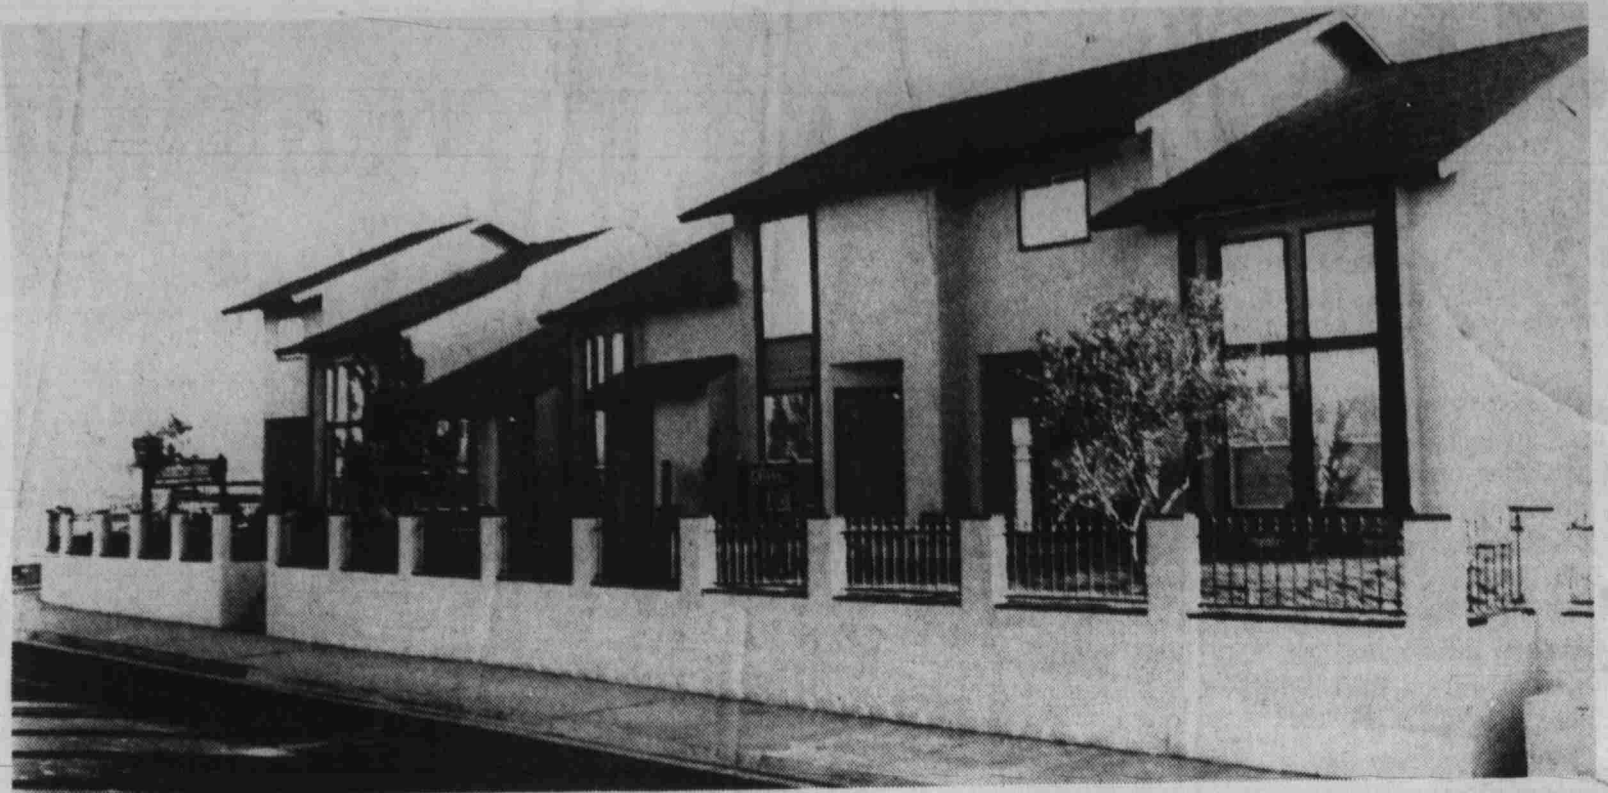

"I'm really proud to show people these townhomes, as I know they're getting a well-built home, with a lot of great features that make for easy, pleasant living. And not the least of the positive things about this community, is the neighborhood feeling of good will.

"Lots of nice, friendly people live here, and that means new families moving in to make friends with easily," Young said.

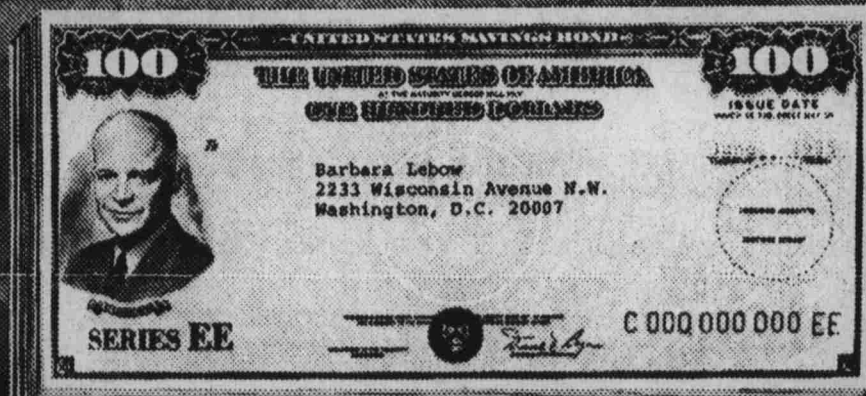

To come to the townhomes at Somerset Park, which are priced from the low $40's, go north on Boulder Highway, turn east onto Sunset Road and follow the signs.

The sales office and furnished models are open seven days a week from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. For further information, please call 564-5155.

U.S. Savings Bonds. Now Paying 9.49%. In the 1800's, baseball was a child's sandlot game. Then came the curve ball, the slide, the crowds and the legends—like Babe Ruth. Baseball had become our national pastime.

Some things never change.

But one great American tradition has changed—U.S. Savings Bonds. Now Savings Bonds pay higher variable interest rates like money market accounts. Currently, Bonds are paying 9.49%.

Just hold Savings Bonds for five years and you get the new variable interest rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. That means you can earn a lot more, but never less than 7.5%.

But some of the best things about Bonds haven't changed. The interest earned is still exempt from state and local income taxes. Bonds still cost as little as $25. And they can be purchased at almost any financial institution, or easier yet, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Henderson swimmers triumph at state meet

The State Recreation Swim Championships were conducted at the Boulder City swimming pool on Aug. 3. The Boulder City swim team, under Coach Jeff Crawford hosted the meet.

Henderson fielded the largest team with close to 40 participants. The Henderson team won with more than 600 points.

The closest team, Boulder City, was 205 points behind the Henderson lead.

Seven teams were present, these included Von Toble, Sunrise, Sunset, St. Viators, North Las Vegas, Boulder City and Henderson.

Telly Dillard and Amy Sena led the team scoring with five individual and four individual gold medals respectively. Kelly Dillard received high point trophy while Amy received the runner-up high point trophy.

Other outstanding swimmers were Todd Ladanyi, Scott Ladanyi, Kathy Smith, Brennie Akins, Julie Akins, Anita Littlefield, Todd Gagnon, Ben Kole, Dave Kole and Eric Denison.

Special awards for the summer program were presented at the banquet after the meet.

These were most valuable girl swimmer Amy Sena, most valuable boy swimmer Todd Ladanyi, most improved girl swimmer Kathy Smith, most improved boy swimmer Tony Williams, coaches award to Melissa Hagen, Julie Akins, Mathew Ray and Blake Minnis and most valuable parent Eileen Sena.

Coach Ron Hague also awarded Nick Bloyer a trophy for his outstanding efforts in assisting the team.

Winners announced in $50,000 dart tourney

Competitors from 15 countries and 40 states, including Nevada, competed last weekend for over $50,000 prized money in the 16th annual North American Open Dart Tournament, held at the Sahara Hotel.

The event was sponsored by Watney's Red Barrel, an imported English beer, and was hosted by the Southern California Darts Association.

The event drew such legendary darters as John Lowe, the British ace who holds the record for the most money won in one day of darts, $140,000.

Lowe came out on top of the open single division, while Kathy Maloney took high honors in the ladies only division.

Andy Green and Gerald Verrier won the open 301 doubles, Sandy Reitan and Kathy Cassilas won the ladies cricket doubles and Judy Campbell and Karen Lawman won the ladies 301 doubles.

No Nevadans were among the winners.

The sport of darts is a lucrative one for the consistent winners, many of whom earn more than $200,000 annually from darts alone.

The popularity of the game is credited both to large tournament purses and the fact that in darts women can, and do, compete equally with men, taking a large percentage of prize money at competitions.

FROM CURTIS' CORNER

By Joey Curtis

The big show at the Showboat tonight features not one but two "main event" bouts on the scheduled line up. First there's a 12 rounder for the ESPN National Championship Tournament junior middleweight championship between unbeaten Roman George of Louisiana and Darnell Knox of Detroit

Then there's Las Vegas' own Freddie Roach in a lightweight go against unbeaten Greg Haugen of Washington. Freddie was all set to fight Brett Summers of both Washington and Detroit in what would have been one of the all time brawls for "the Boxing Capital of the World" but Summers injured his left hand (his power hand) while training.

Enter Haugen who's one tough replacement as evidenced by the unbeaten mark he brings into the ring.

Tickets are only $10 and $15 and the action starts at 6 p.m. in the Boat's sports arena.

Both undefeated IBF heavyweight champion Larry Holmes and unbeaten undisputed world lightweight champion Michael Spinks are in town and already training at the Riviera getting ready for their big 15 Round title affair Sept. 21.

Holmes, of course is trying to win number 49 without a loss and tie the record now held alone by the great Rocky Marciano for most wins ever by an unbeaten and untied heavyweight champion.

Spinks, of course is trying to become the first light heavyweight ever to beat a heavyweight champion in a world title encounter.

He'll be trying where greats like Archie Moore, Bob Foster, and of course Billy Cohn (a fighter out of my "era") have failed.

Holmes works out everyday but Wednesday and Sunday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. on the second floor of the Mardi Gras Plaza area at the Riv.

Spinks works out everyday except Sunday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in the same location at the Riv.

The public is invited to come out and watch the preparation for what certainly will be one of the biggest bouts of the year here in Las Vegas.

It's known that WBA featherweight champion Barry McGuigan will be defending his crown against Bernard Taylor on Sept. 28th.

What isn't as well known is that if McGuigan wins he just may make his second title defense against none other than Las Vegas favorite Tommy Cordova of Alburquerque.

Cordova's world ranked now and still remains the relentless brawler that won over the fans at the Showboat and everywhere else he's fought along the line.

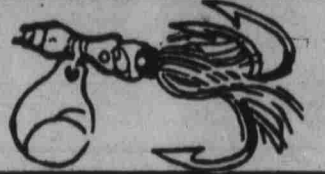

It's reported that Reno will get another title fight before the year's out, in October when WBA lightweight champion Livingston Bramble will go up against Tyrone Crawley.

Crawley's one slick boxer so it should make for an interesting match up of contrasting styles.

GUIDELINES

By Al Cleri

Editor's note: NEWS columnist Al Cleri is a member of the Outdoor Writers Association of America, an organization whose membership comprises the majority and the best magazine and newspaper outdoor fishing and hunting writers in the nation.

The month of September will be a busy one if you are a fisherman. There are several tournaments that you can participate in. It's a chance to make some big bucks. The Kidney Foundation of Nevada along with TV-3, Sunworld Airways, First Interstate Bank, Flight Paths Magazine and Playmate Resorts is sponsoring the "Great $10,000 Striper Catch."

Ten fish will be tagged and released with nine of them worth valuable prizes and the tenth will be worth $10,000.

In addition, the largest Striper in length will also be worth a 3-day houseboat trip from Playmate Resorts.

The dates of this event are from Sept. 20 at noon until 3 p.m. on Sunday. Entrance fee is $15 which also entitles the bearer to the picnic following Sunday's final hour which is, again, at 3 p.m. Also a portion of the entrance fee goes to the Lake Mead fisheries enhancement committee.

The great thing about this fundraiser is that the money stays right here with the local kidney chapter to be used for medications, dialysis and other kidney treatments including transplants.

You can't lose on this one, folks. Help some needy people, maybe win a bundle for yourself and feel good about the whole thing.

Sunday a special celebrity event will be held in conjunction with the kidney foundation affair. These people are just going to fish for the fun of it and the chance to do something for a worthy cause.

For more information and entrance tickets call 456-0026. Tickets will be available at most tackle stores and at other outlets.

You must register to be eligible for the prizes.

September 28 will be National Hunting and Fishing Day. Look for some interesting displays in the local shopping malls.

The day is geared towards conservation, and what some groups are doing will pleasantly surprise you.

Also during that same packed week the Southwest Outdoors Writers' Association will meet in Las Vegas. Some of the nation's finest outdoor writers will be here to take a look at Nevada's great outdoors.

There's more: on Sept. 20 and 21, U.S. Bass will hold its team tournament on Lake Mead. This could be a real fun-filled eye-opener-type of Bass tournament.

The competition is between two-person teams instead of individuals, and there are some great matchups in this one.

On top of this, Nevada Striper will hold its annual picnic on Sept. 8 at Sunset Park. From all indications it looks as though this should be a neat affair.

If you are still looking for something to do, then slip on out to the lake for some incredibly top water action. September is always a better month than August, and so far August has been phenomenal.

At present there is almost no area on the lake that isn't producing good action. Some very respectable largemouths are coming to the surface. Maybe by September they will be up everywhere.

Good fishing everybody!

Congress creates wild horse problems

Bill aggravates feral horse problem

The House Interior Appropriations Subcommittee has added language to its FY 1986 appropriations bill that would prevent the removal of excess feral horses and burros now roaming public domain land, the Wildlife Management Institute reports.

The amendment added during committee markup would prohibit the agencies from rounding up additional feral horses and burros until all the animals now held in corrals are adopted.

The problem is that many of the horses and burros already captured are old or ugly or mean and unsuitable for adoption.

Thus the unwarranted language would prevent control of the feral animal populations and lead to further overgrazing of public land.

Habitat vital to native wildlife such as the rare desert bighorn sheep would be degraded.

Committee agrees on ag conservation

Members of the House Agriculture Committee have agreed on conservation provisions for the 1985 farm bill. The agreement includes sections creating sodbuster, conservation reserve and swampbuster programs, according to the Wildlife Management Institute.

For highly erodible land which has not been cultivated since 1980, the bill, H.R. 2100, would enact sodbuster language that withholds price supports and other subsidies from farmers who plow such land.

The ban would not apply to land cultivated for crops, or considered as planted because it was enrolled in a government acreage retirement program, between 1981 and 1985 or to crops planted before enactment of the legislation or to crops planted in any crop year which began before enactment of the new program or to any crops produced under a conservation system approved by a local soil conservation district.

The program would not apply to perennial crops such as fruit and nut trees or grape vines.

"Highly erodible" land would be defined as land rated in certain designated classes under the federal land capability classification system, or other land which would have an excessive erosion rate if used for crops.

A farmer planting a crop on highly erodible land in violation of the provisions would lose federal price supports and other benefits for all of his crops.

The conservation reserve is intended to retire erodible land already in row-crop production. It authorizes USDA to pay landowners for taking fragile land out of row crops and planting the areas to vegetation that would reduce erosion significantly.

Up to 25 million acres could be retired under this program for periods of not less than 10 years. The contracts between USDA and farmers

Dogs can have heart murmurs too

The physician double-checked my new grandchild when she was a few days old. She thought she detected a heart murmur at first but, fortunately, she didn't hear it the second time around.

This made me think about heart problems in dogs. I asked Dr. Cheryl Dhein, veterinary clinician at Washington State University, about heart murmurs in dogs.

Q. Dr. Dhein, what is a heart murmur?

A. A murmur occurs when the heart chambers do not form properly leaving holes or abnormal vessels, when the heart valves do not close completely or when the blood viscosity is decreased by anemia.

The heart is divided into two top chambers called atria and two bottom chambers called ventricles. Valves between each of these chambers prevent blood from backing up into the top chambers when the ventricles contract to send blood to the body and lungs.

As some dogs age, the valves become thick and nodular and allow blood to back up into the top chambers. This creates the sound (murmur) that is heard with a stethoscope.

Q. What kind of dogs are top candidates for heart murmurs?

A. Acquired murmurs due to improper valve function occur most commonly in older, small-breed dogs. Many dogs have a heart murmur without showing signs of a failing heart. Murmurs heard in a young dog may be due to congenital, developmental abnormalities of the heart which often lead to heart failure.

Q. Why does a dog with a heart murmur sometimes develop more serious heart disease?

A. As blood backs up into the atria due to abnormal valve function, the ventricles must perform more work to meet the demands of tissues for oxygen and nutrients which are carried in the blood. When the ventricles cannot meet the increased demands placed upon them, signs of heart failure occur.

What are the signs of heart failure in a dog?

A. The signs of heart failure include coughing, difficult breathing especially at night, inability to exercise, fluid accumulation in the belly cavity and fainting.

Q. How do you treat a dog that shows signs of heart failure?

A. Treatment depends on the type of heart failure and may include digitalis-like drugs to strengthen the heart beat and slow down the heart rate, diuretics to decrease blood volume so the heart has less to pump, low-salt diets so there is less fluid retention by the body, blood vessel dilators so the heart has less resistance to pump against and airway dilators to make breathing easier.

would require that retired cropland be planted to pasture, permanent grass or legumes, or trees.

Also, USDA could make contracts specifically for converting land to shelter-belts, wind-breaks or vegetated stream borders.

Participating farmers could preserve the crop-history base on land enrolled in the conservation reserve. But if a participant decided to retire the base permanently, the surrender of a potential asset could be recognized in setting the land rental rate paid by the government.

Payment to individuals would be limited to $50,000 annually, and not more than 25 percent of the cropland in any county could be enrolled in the program. Lands emerging from expired or cancelled conservation reserve contracts would be subject to provisions of the sod-buster program.

The swamp-buster provision would deny subsidies to producers who convert wetlands to crop use. Language for this section has not been finalized.

However, conservationists are pushing vigorously for the provision since the House Ag Appropriations Committee has reported its FY 1986 appropriations bill with language that would eliminate the Water Bank Program.

The Water Bank is a USDA effort that pays landowners not to drain wetlands important to wildlife. Some conservationists suggest that the swamp-buster will be a more effective wetland-protection vehicle than Water Bank, and it will not cost nearly as much to operate.

The Senate Agriculture Committee reportedly will meet next week to continue markup of its 1985 farm bill which also contains a conservation section.

Committee staffers say that sodbuster, conservation-reserve and swamp-buster provisions already have been approved tentatively by the committee members. But the provisions have not been printed and compared with House language.

However, observers contend that the Senate sodbuster language is stronger than the House version, probably due to the efforts of Senator John Melcher of Montana.

Michigan opens dove season

By a 7-0 vote, the Michigan Natural Resources Commission has opted to have an "experimental" mourning dove hunting season this fall, according to the Wildlife Management Institute.

The season is labeled experimental because the commission wants to gauge public opinion and sportsman reaction before making a final decision next year.

The commission also will use the trial period to monitor any effects of hunting on the state's dove population.

The 1985 season will run 22 days beginning Sept. 15 and ending Oct. 6. The area open to dove hunting in Michigan will be the southern portion of the state, which is defined as generally south of Ludington to Saginaw Bay.

With this action Michigan becomes the 38th state to implement a hunting season for America's most popular game bird.

Mourning doves are found in the 48 contiguous states and the national population is estimated to be more than 500 million birds.

Michigan conservationists report that protectionist groups are threatening to seek legislation that would designate the mourning dove a "songbird" in the state, and thereby prevent future hunting seasons for the species.

However, years of intensive research have shown that properly regulated hunting does not have an effect on breeding populations of mourning dove.

Forest Service shifts personnel

The U.S. Forest Service has named new deputy chiefs for the National Forest System and for programs and legislation as well as a new regional forester for the Pacific Northwest, the Wildlife Management Institute reports.

J. Lamar Beasley, currently Deputy Chief for Programs and Legislations, will be the new deputy chief for the National Forest System. He replaces Ray M. Housley, a highly respected forest service veteran who is retiring after serving the agency for 33 years.

Jeff M. Sirmon, presently regional forester in the Pacific Northwest, will replace Beasley. And Charles T. Coston, Region 1 forester, will replace Sirmon.

National Zoo continues symposia

The National Zoological Park in Washington, D.C. is continuing its series of symposia to provide adult audiences with up-to-date information about animals and conservation issues, the Wildlife Management Institute reports.

The day-and-a-half format brings together scientists with diverse interests and gives them a chance to discuss complicated wildlife issues that have controversial elements.

This year's program is scheduled for Nov. 1 and 2. The topic will be "Wildlife survivors in the human niche."

For further information, contact Kay Taub, public affairs specialist, National Zoo, Washington, D.C. 20008.

Plan for parks drawn

The National Parks Service apparently is working on a 12-point plan to improve management of the National Park System, according to the Wildlife Management Institute.

NPS Director William P. Mott reportedly is behind the plan which will be publicized in early August.

Sources in the Service say that the plan includes development of a long-range strategy to protect park resources; a land protection initiative that would involve other federal agencies, states, and the private sector; better communication of park problems through interpretive services and the use of annual reports and public statements; a better balance between people management and resource management in parks; expanded career opportunities and promotions for employees; simplified management by having various park units specialize in particular types of recreation; establishing a "team relationship" between the Service and park concessionaires so that private operations can be improved and expanded citizen involvement at all levels of NPS operations.

Mott also has recommended that a quick decision be made on whether to establish a tall-grass prairie park in Oklahoma.

Conservationists have advocated such a park for years, since it is the only ecological type currently not represented in the National Park System.

First drive-through race, sports book at Sam's Town

In a move that will be a first for the Las Vegas community, the Clark County Commission gave the Boyd Group approval for a drive-up teller window for the Race and Sports book at Sam's Town Hotel, Gambling Hall and Bowling Center on Boulder Highway and Nellis Boulevard.

The latest gaming innovation is a result of the overwhelming popularity of the present Race and Sports Book at Sam's Town.

Boyd Group spokesperson Chuck Ruthe said the attraction of the current Race and Sports Book created a parking problem.

"Now the customers can simply place their bets and drive through. They will still have to come in and collect their winnings," Ruthe said, "but we wanted to give our customers the best service we could."

The Race and Sports Book window will have its grand opening on Sunday, Aug. 25.

The hours of operation will be Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Monday, Thursday and Friday the window will be open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The drive-through will be closed Tuesday and Wednesday. The window will be for football betting only.

'Foothills' offers unique vacation home opportunity

If you're planning to visit southern Utah soon, perhaps attend Labor Day festivities such as the Iron County Fair, be sure to explore a unique idea for a vacation home.

Jim and Neil Thormodsgard July 12 announced the grand opening of "The Foothills Vacation Estates," a recreation-vehicle subdivision in Parowan.

Parowan is located approximately 16 miles north of Cedar City at the base of Brian Head Ski Resort.

The area is known for its excellent hunting, fishing and skiing activities as well as the natural beauties of nature.

The development was born from a desire by the brothers to provide a place where people could buy a vacation spot which is nearby all the various types of outdoor activities and within a reasonable distance from Las Vegas.

"We need to maintain in our lives that part of America which was so precious to our forefathers and be able to pass it down to our heirs.

"It seems that we all get too caught-up in the concrete hustle and bustle of the city and forget that there are still those areas of beauty left that only the creator could have built," stated Neil.

"This is not time-share," states Jim, "you actually get a deed and title policy with your purchase. You can keep it in your family forever.

The development has common areas such as a volleyball court, barbecue and picnic area, horse-shoe pits and tetherball pole.

Also, the 2,800-square-foot clubhouse has a lounging area with fireplace, game room with ping-pong table and game tables, coin-operated washers and dryers, men's and women's bathrooms with showers and a common kitchen for lot owners' utilization at approved parties.

There are on-site managers who will answer any questions regarding the cool, clean air of the development.

You can reach them at "The Foothills," 1710 West Holyoak Lane, Parowan, UT 84761 or call 801-477-3535.

Championship, Roach fights highlight ESPN boxing

Roman George

Undefeated and highly regarded Roman George of Lafayette, La., faces slugger Darnell Knox of Detroit in the 12-round main event for the ESPN junior middleweight championship Thursday, Aug. 22, at the Showboat Hotel, Casino and Bowling Center.

Two important bouts highlight the undercard: Las Vegas lightweight Freddie Roach against unbeaten Greg Haugen of Auburn, Wash. in a 10-rounder and Willie Pep of Vancouver, B.C., against Darrell Savoy of Lafayette, La., in an ESPN western regional junior lightweight fight. Both Pep and Savoy also are undefeated.

These six fighters have a combined record of 108-9-2.

The card, promoted by Bob Arum's Top Rank, Inc., in association with the Showboat, begins at 6 p.m. in the Showboat Sports Pavilion. Doors open at 5 p.m.

Tickets, priced at $10 general admission and $15 for ringside reserved, are on sale from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday at the Showboat Sports Pavilion Ticket Office.

Three preliminary bouts, one including unbeaten former amateur standout Joey Belinc of Marysville, Wash., and another featuring Las Vegas "Lightning" Bob Smith, are on the card assembled by veteran matchmaker Mel Greb.

The card will be shown live nationally by ESPN but will be blacked out throughout Southern Nevada.

The 25-year-old, six-foot one-half inch George has a record of 16-0-1 with nine knockouts and is coming off a pair of impressive wins at the Showboat. On April 25 he won an easy eight-round decision over Kenny Releford in a western regional 154-pound semifinal; and on June 27 he stopped Zack Hewitt in the ninth round of the western regional finals.

George excelled as an amateur, managing a 208-37 record and the north American welterweight championship won in 1982 at the

the bout.

Haugen, 24, has a record of 11-0-1 with five knockouts and is coming off a near-shutout decision over Jeff Bumpus on July 17 in Atlantic City. Bumpus had won 20 of 21 fights entering the bout. Haugen, who fought as a junior welterweight in that fight, claims a win over former World Boxing Association junior welterweight champion Johnny "Bump City" Bumpus as an amateur.

Both Pep and Savoy have perfect records. Pep, 20, is 10-0 with five knockouts while Savoy, 21, is 14-0 with eight knockouts.

Pep captured the Canadian featherweight championship on April 10 of this year, taking a 12-round decision over Ned Simmons. He defended the crown in his most recent outing, taking another 12-round verdict over Las Vegas Carlton "Two-Gun" Sparrow on July 11. Both bouts were in Vancouver.

Savoy, a lefthander, also is coming off a 12-round win, this one over Bryant Rogers on June 26 in Lafayette for the Southern junior lightweight title.

Two six-round bouts and a four-round fight complete the card.

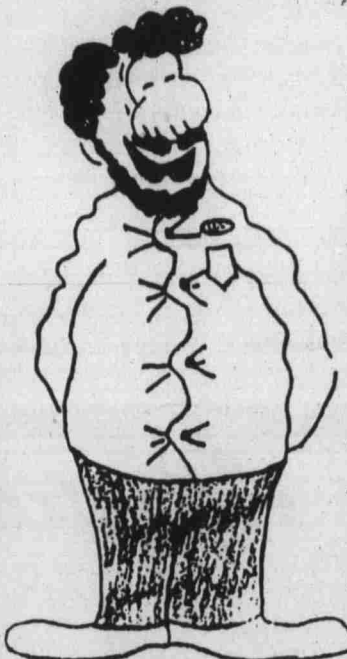

Willie Pep

Belinc, with a record of 6-0, faces Rene Garcia of Caldwell, Idaho, in a six-round junior welterweight fight while Smith, 4-1-2 with three knockouts, meets Ricky Locke of Bakersfield, Calif.

Both Garcia and Locke list records of 9-5 with four knockouts. Opponents for the four-round fight will be determined later.

Deer tag drawing completed, 3,536 tags remain

By David K. Rice

Department of Wildlife's computerized deer-tag drawings have been completed and a total of 3,536 tags remain available on a first-to-apply, first-served basis. A total 1,760 resident general-hunt (any legal weapon) buck tags are available in varying amounts in six management (hunt) areas: 11 late, 12 early and late, 13 late, 14, 16, 21 and 25. In addition, 14 nonresident tags remain available in unit 203 of area 20, area 26 and 27. A number of antlerless (doe) tags also remain available to residents in hunt areas 4, 6, 7, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 20, 22 and 25. A total of 1,756 are available in varying amounts. Six resident muzzle-loader tags are also available according to NDOW, two each in hunt units 202 and 205 of management area 20 and two in area 25. All remaining deer tags are available by application only, which must be mailed to the Department's Reno office. No hand-delivered applications will be accepted. To allow those in remote areas of the state the same opportunity as individuals living in close proximity to Reno, NDOW has established Wednesday, Aug. 21, as the first day applications will be accepted for the remaining tags. All applications must have an Aug. 21 or later U.S. Postal Service cancellation date. Hunters who applied for a general or muzzle-loader tag in 1985 and who are unsuccessful will receive preferential drawing status for the same hunt next year. Those who obtain an antlerless tag will not lose their preferential drawing status for next year; however, those who obtain one of the remaining muzzle-loader or general hunt tags will lose preferential status. All hunters are limited to no more than one 1985 deer tag regardless of type. Seasons and regulations brochures and deer tag application forms are available at all NDOW offices and most hunting- and fishing-license agents. A Department spokesman said that information concerning hunter success in the general, muzzle-loader and antlerless hunts is not available and will not be given over the phone at any Department office. As stated in the seasons and regulations brochure, all applicants will be notified by mail of their drawing status by Aug. 24.

Lake Mead desert bighorn transferred to Hiko mountains, Colorado

By Charles Crunden

A desert bighorn-sheep-trapping program at the Lake Mead National Recreation Area has resulted in the capture of 33 animals for transplant into the Pahroc Mountains of Nevada's Lincoln County and for transfer to the state of Colorado. The sheep were captured by Nevada Department of Wildlife on the shores of Lake Mead near Boulder Canyon. Three trap sites had been selected earlier this summer and baited with fermented apple mash," explained Bob Turner, NDOW game biologist, "but to date, only two have attracted a sufficient number of animals to warrant capture attempts. "At one location in Boulder Wash, a flash flood toppled the net and buried it under a foot and a half of gravel. "Of the bighorns we have captured so far this summer, 20 were transferred to the Pahroc Mountains near Hiko in southeastern Nevada and 21 were transferred to Colorado for release near Grand Junction. "We plan to continue trapping at Lake Mead as long as weather permits and the sheep cooperate. "Ten sheep caught July 27 were shipped to Stillwater Mountain Range east of Fallon and released the next morning. "Previous plants were made into the Stillwaters in 1981, 1982 and again in 1984. "This year's sheep are intended to further bolster that population and speed up the establishment process." Terms of NDOW's current agreement with the National Park Service permits the taking of 25 rams, 75 ewes and associated lambs from the Black Mountains adjacent to Lake Mead. "Since the trapping project on the Lake mead National Recreation Area began in 1969," Turner said, "eleven seasons of effort have resulted in the capture of 454 desert bighorns. "Of these, 317 sheep have been relocated to other sites with the remainder being marked, tagged and released where caught.

In addition to 11 different Nevada mountain ranges which have received animals, this program has also benefited the states Utah, Texas and Colorado. "Sheep are captured with a square drop-net, 70-by-70 feet in size, suspended above the ground with poles and ropes and baited with fermented apple mash and alfalfa hay. "When a sufficient number of animals have moved underneath to feed on the bait, dynamite caps woven into the supporting ropes are detonated, dropping the net on the animals below," Turner concluded. Assisting Department of Wildlife were personnel from the National Park Service, Bureau of Land Management and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service as well as a number of interested local sportsmen.

Water stores enhance wildlife habitat

by Charles Crunden

A major portion of the South Egan and Hiko mountain ranges in eastern Nevada are now better habitat for wildlife, the result of a recently completed Bureau of Land Management water-development project. According to Rita Suminski, BLM Ely District wildlife biologist, "Five artificial-watering devices, also called 'guzzlers,' were assembled and installed in July at four widely separated sites by volunteers from several sportsmen organizations. Fifty persons representing the Fraternity of the Desert Bighorn, New Wite Pine County Sportsman's Club and the Bristlecone Bowmen, along with personnel from BLM and Nevada Department of Wildlife, all participated in the project.

"Natural rainfall and snowmelt gathered by the guzzler is piped to a drinking tank below where water levels are maintained by a float valve. "Both mountain ranges were identified by Department of Wildlife as high-priority areas in its desert-bighorn-sheep-reintroduction program. "The three sites in the South Egan and the site in the Hikos were selected by personnel from both agencies to provide maximum benefit to the sheep proposed for future release in these areas."

sources would contribute an equal or greater amount in money or services. "To date, monetary value of direct grants and volunteer labor from the private sector has exceeded $22,000. "In addition to the private sector," she said, "valuable assistance was provided by the Nevada National Guard and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service through the loan of several pieces of specialized equipment for use at the construction sites. "Department of Wildlife was a party to the Cooperative Management Agreement that made this project possible and also supplied expertise in site selection, guzzler design and personnel during the construction phase."

There was even one visitor from Alberta, Canada, who was passing through, heard about the program and volunteered his help. "The guzzlers resemble flying saucers when assembled, and are capable of holding 2,100 gallons of water. The guzzlers and volunteers were airlifted into the four inaccessible sites. "Funds for approximately 30 hours of helicopter time were contributed by the Foundation for North American Wild Sheep of Cody, Wyo. "Aircraft and additional contributions were supplied by El Aero Services of Ely and Rocky Mountain Helicopters of Provo, Utah. "Each of the watering devices was placed in a shallow pit and camouflage-painted to blend in with their wilderness surround-

Suminski said the project was made possible through a $290,000 appropriations from Congress for desert-bighorn-sheep-restoration programs on public-domain lands in the western United States. "The Ely BLM District qualified for $18,000 from this total with the stipulation that private Sufficient materials are on hand for one more guzzlers which, according to Suminski, will be installed in the Hiko Range, later this year, with volunteer help.

Each performance will be thirty minutes long and will take place in the center court of the Boulevard Mall.

FEMA, an untypical federal agency, profiled

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has approximately 2,400 employees, but the responsibilities assigned them by Congress, to prepare the nation to meet any crisis, touch the lives of most Americans, according to the agency's Washington, D.C. Office of Public Affairs.

FEMA, the central point of response to disaster within the federal government, provides financial support, technical guidance and training to state and local government officials responsible for emergency management. The following sketch of the agency provides some insights into FEMA.

- Formed in 1979 through the consolidation of five federal agencies, FEMA is the central point within the federal government for a wide range of emergency management activities in both peace and war.
- FEMA's 2,400 employees work in some 20 facilities, of which approximately half are underground for protection in the event of war. The 1985 fiscal year authorized budget is $765 million.
- In 1984 FEMA coordinated federal response and recovery activities following presidential declarations of 34 major disasters and four emergencies, most of which were prompted by flooding. The total estimated expenditure by the federal government is $557 million for the year.

The agency provided 9,211 displaced families with temporary housing at a total cost of $15.4 million, and recovery grants totaling $33 million were made to 13,000 disaster victims.

Disaster unemployment assistance was made available to 27,260 workers who lost their jobs because of major disasters. And, assistance totaling $112 million was provided to 1,455 state and local governments for the repair and restoration of 18,326 publicly owned facilities.

• FEMA offers flood insurance through local insurance agents and brokers in 17,650 communities known to be flood prone.

The National Flood Insurance Program, administered by FEMA's Federal Insurance Administration (FIA), has two million flood-insurance policies on dwellings, businesses and their contents with a total insured value of $114 billion. The program paid $375.9 million on 36,969 flood insurance claims during 1984.

Recently, private insurance companies began offering flood-insurance coverage under their names through arrangements with FIA. Currently more than 200 companies have this arrangement with FIA.

• Since 1983, FEMA has assisted some 900 families and 36 businesses in moving out of areas contaminated by hazardous materials. It has cost more than $30 million to move people from unsafe communities like Times Beach, Mo., and Globe, Ariz.

• New sprinkler heads that automatically extinguish residential fires within 30 to 90 seconds are now available. To promote public awareness of such safety equipment, FEMA's U.S. Fire Administration has installed the quick-acting sprinklers in 20 mobile homes designed to simulate typical living areas. These trailers located around the country are used for public demonstrations. With people in the trailer, a fire is set, flames appear, the sprinkler goes off, and the fire is extinguished.

Some city building codes have provisions for such residential sprinkler systems.

• During 1984, FEMA combined a number of grants into a single set of Comprehensive Cooperative Agreements (CCAs) with the states, resulting in substantial savings in administrative overhead costs and reduction of red tape.

This system reduced 2,600 grants-in-aid applications to 56 CCAs for a total of $90 million to help state governments prepare to face manmade and natural emergencies and disasters.

• FEMA completed the donation of over 29,000 pieces of property of state and local emergency-management organizations in 1984. This property, which previously had been on loan from the federal government to these organizations, was originally valued at more than $161 million.

Most of the items are vehicles used by fire departments, law enforcement agencies, rescue squadrons, and related civil defense organizations.

• FEMA oversees the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS), which could be used by the president to communicate with the American public during an emergency.

EBS may be used at the state or local level to communicate warnings of approaching tornadoes or hurricanes or to announce emergency evacuations of populations around commercial nuclear power plants.

In addition to having oversight responsibilities for the operation of this warning and communications network, FEMA provided funding for the protection and equipping of 15 stations and upgrading of 50.

• By the end of 1984, FEMA had surveyed 1,680,047 buildings throughout the nation that could provide emergency lodging for 181.5 million people during a crisis.

• FEMA fulfilled oversight and evaluation functions in 33 exercises of state and local plans for the responding to emergencies around commercial nuclear power plants during 1984.

The agency also updated 52 state and 429 local radiological protection plans, and supported the maintenance of over 4 million radiological detection and monitoring instruments.

• In a government-industry cooperative effort to cut national mobilization lead-times for delivery of machine tools essential to defense, protection in an emergency, FEMA has signed agreements for industry to provide, on an expedited basis, items valued at more than $1 billion.

• In the last five years, more than 30,000 firefighters from every state in the Union have been trained in a variety of courses at FEMA's National Fire Academy at Emmitsburg, Md.

• There are millions of Americans in state and local governments and volunteer agencies who are devoted to planning for and responding to every conceivable type of disaster or emergency.

FEMA is dedicated to support and supplement such state and local disaster and emergency organizations and their workers.

Austin Jones

Because it happened while we were on a trip, we did not learn until recently of the death of Austin Emery Jones, who was assistant chief of the Lake Mead Seismological Party in Boulder City, which kept track of earthquakes to see if they would damage the dam as the lake was filling. I was the secretary. Austin traveled to several places in the United States, including Alaska, finally settling in the state of Washington. He is survived by his wife, Dorothy, of Spokane; sons David, Spokane; Ethan, Fairbanks, Alaska; Martin, Lake Charles, Louisiana; daughter Julia Ann Moore, Rogue River, Ore.; sister Shirley May Dietrick, Klamath Falls, Ore.; 13 grandchildren, 8 great-grandchildren. He was a veteran of World War I. Private services were held and his ashes were scattered on the mountains in places he loved the best. Austin taught John all about living in the desert. He and Dorothy were our friends from the first day we came to Boulder City in 1941.

Baha'is offer telephone contact for homebound

The Baha'i Community of Boulder City is offering a telephone-reassurance program to the homebound residents of the city. The service is provided by volunteers coordinated by the local assembly of the Baha'is of Boulder City. There is no charge for this service, and it is offered at the request of the homebound.

The program is called "telephone reassurance" because each participant will be called once a week or more often, if requested, to be sure they are safe and well. It will provide a friendly voice and a caring heart.

This service is being offered in accordance with the Baha'i teachings on service to the community and to humanity, and they promise that there will be no effort to promote the faith or to proselytize their faith in any way.

Any homebound person who would like to take advantage of this service may call the Senior Citizens' Center at 293-5510 or the Baha'i number, 294-1050.

Frank Crowe spoke on the construction of Hoover Dam

Looking back: It was June 4, 1935, and Frank Crowe was asked to speak on the radio. He went on the air and said this: "The crew that built the dam (structure) started in March, 1931 and consisted of about 4,000 young men, some from every state in the nation. They have put in more than 2 million man-hours. It was labor tempered with courage, energy and enthusiasm."

These men are the cream of construction industry. Never before were such high-scalars, ringers, truck drivers, cableway operators when in action. They were operating bigger and faster equipment than was ever used in this class of work.

"The goal was the control of the Colorado River. To win this goal they gave their best. The job is now nearing completion and these boys, now "vets" will soon be scattered, looking for new cliffs to scale, new rivers to battle."

Music forms integral part of 'A Royal Tea' at Festival

Music has always formed an integral part of the Utah Shakespearean Festival's A Royal Tea, and this summer the music is more important than ever.

The Chamber Consort Musicians performing on authentic replicas of Renaissance instruments highlight a program which also features poetry and sonnet reading and the appearance of Queen Elizabeth I and the Earl of Essex.

Located in the Great Hall Annex, this "afternoon tea" serves marmalades, hot teas, black currant juices, crumpets and cucumber sandwiches.

"Music at the tea offers quite a varied program with a wide range of instruments and sounds and even some surprises."

"We tried more musical variety, using all instruments in different combinations we have just discovered this year," says Jeffrey L. Snedeker, the Utah Shakespearean Festival's assistant musical director.

Although this tea is an afternoon musical concert, Elizabeth I and the Earl of Essex grace the show with poetry and sonnet reading. Lisa Ivary plays a young Queen Elizabeth.

"I'm very excited, I love Elizabeth and I'm thrilled that she is young. I have been chosen to portray a witty and vivacious Queen," she said.

A ROYAL TEA promises to be a refreshing afternoon break every Monday and Friday at 3 p.m. through the Festival season. Good seating is still available for all performances. For more information, call the box office at (801) 586-7878.

Veterans need help to sign highway

The Council of Nevada Veterans Organization (CONVO) has designated "Veterans Day," Monday Nov. 11 as the official day designating U.S. 95, excluding that portion so designated as Oran K. Gragson, as "Nevada Veterans Memorial Highway."

This is the result of A.B. 45 which was passed and signed by the governor during the 1985-86 legislative session.

The Council of Nevada Veterans Organization is charged with paying for the signs re-designating U.S. 95 to Veterans Memorial Highway in conjunction with the department of transportation.

First Interstate Bank of Nevada has opened an account for donations to "CONVO, Nevada veterans memorial highway fund" to assist in paying for the signs.

Donations can be made at any branch of First Interstate Bank in Nevada or checks mailed to CONVO, 1301 Webb St., North Las Vegas, 89030.

'A Quiet Journey' opens at Flamingo Library

"A Quiet Journey" reflects on the misty mood and natural artistry photographer Sylvia Hill encountered in the countryside of Ireland, Maine and New Zealand.

The cibachrome color-photography exhibit, opening with a 3 p.m. reception Sunday in the Upstairs Gallery of the Flamingo Library, 1401 E. Flamingo Road, will continue through Sept. 20.

Focusing on artistic interpretations rather than on realistic viewpoints, Hill has concentrated on the obscure, the overlooked, and the understated beauty of her subjects.

Illustrative of her fascination with the seemingly unremarkable are shots of a crocus that becomes a long graceful sweep of shape and color and a grey stone wall that seems to have drained the cloudy sky of its own greys.

As a beginning photographer of industrial equipment, Hill learned by trial and error to take and process black-and-white photos.

After receiving formal training and participating in workshops at the University of Nevada Las Vegas, Hill shifted her interest from the technical to the artistic aspects of photography.

"I tend to think of life as a journey," states Hill. "Like everyone, I am busy with everyday responsibilities but, when time permits, I turn to photography to still brief moments of my travels so that later I am better able to reflect upon the wonders around me."

Although "A Quiet Journey" is her first one-man show, Hill has received numerous awards including first place in the 1984 Meadows Mall annual photography contest and best-of-show in the 1984 city slide contest.

Her "Donal's Wash" won a purchase award at the Las Vegas-Clark County Library District's 1985 Art-A-Fair and now hangs in the periodicals department at Flamingo Library.

As an active member of the Nevada Camera Club, she has participated in and won many ribbons in competitions sponsored by the club.

Also, in March of this year, she presented at the Flamingo Library "A Wee Journey," a multi-media slide show on Ireland.

The first automatic pop-up electric toaster was marketed in June, 1926. It received one slice of toast at a time.

Alley Cat becomes a mascot at the idyllic retreats

By Teddy Fenton

The Idyllic Retreats are located at 663 Ave. D. It is a retreat for citizens seeking peace and quiet.

One morning the solitude was broken by a sound that gave the kitten a nickname. We call him The Yowler!

Siamese cats have a voice box that has earned it a reputation, they talk incessantly, they do not belong in a sanctuary. The "Yowler" spoke in several octaves higher than any Siamese cats we have known.

The yowl disturbed me while I was at my typewriter at early dawn. I went out on the back porch and scooted it away. As cats go it was cute only because it was little. It had a face like a Gremlin...it was called Gremlin once it won the heart of our tenants. It was fed by Richmond, who moved when Yowler Gremlin was less than a year old.

Gordon had been adopted by two other cats...then arrived Gremlin...shortly followed by "Boots."

What to do with four cats once Gordon moved? Thereby lies our tale. None of our tenants wanted the responsibility or the expense

Learn to square dance

Beginner classes starting soon are sponsored by the Circle Eights, a Boulder City Square Dance Club. Ron Sowask, the club's caller, doing the instructing in the basic lessons.

An average evening of square dancing lasts about two hours. This provides an excellent evening of recreation and a fine opportunity to meet other dancers while having fun just learning. Age has nothing to do in performing.

Those planning and are interested in the classes, call Ray at 293-4918.

of feeding the four cats. Our choice was to call the Humane Society, or even worse...you guessed it!

Come Bill Harbour to the rescue. He talked at length with Linda Cooper at Dr. Carol Whitmoyer's Animal Hospital.

Now to backtrack. Yowler Gremlin arrived to the house in which The Narrator resides. He was not welcomed. He was more stubborn than she was. He even seemed to like the bath he received from the garden hose going full blast. Twice she gave him to other families. He came back! He stayed, he yowled. Bill Harbour noticed that Gremlin seemed to speak with authority on many subjects. He would rise in tone for a grand sweeping statement. He would utter a greeting in the lowest of tones.

For 14½ years Bill and Teddy had loved and cared deeply for a tiny Peek-a-Poo named Bille the Pup. He became ill and was put to sleep. The cats cannot take his place but in a sense they are so amusing that they fit right into the atmosphere of Teddy's Kitchenettes.

Here then is what has happened. Describing Gremlin is hard. He is the thinnest cat on the block. He is grey, he is too tall for his weight, he is funny and dear and aloof.

Yes he is also expensive. Bill Harbour is regaling the tenants and listeners at Pilgrims Landing with his daily reports on the 3 cats he now befriends. The menu they receive reads like a swank restaurant for animals.

He has followed directions as to shots for every danger a feline encounters. Gremlin is neutered. Gremlin has had all the tests for leukemia. Gremlin then had the first of booster shots. Bill said he was going to paint him gold!

Our worry was that being as fat as a slat he might be ill and endanger the other two cats. The overhaul has taken care of that.

It was our Bill that decided Gremlin was not to go to the dog pound, ditto for Boots and Black cat.

The tenants call Gremlin our mascot. All of us thank Bill Harbour for saving him for us.

CONFLICT—"The parching winds of Somalia" explores the history and culture of Somalia, an African country where ancient traditions are beginning to conflict with modern ideals, such as the demands of women to change the patriarchal system which has dominated their lives for centuries. The program airs at 10:30 Monday on Channel 10.

'Gala of Stars' 1985 will encore on PBS

Videotaped in performance at the Opera House of the historic Brooklyn Academy of Music, the critically acclaimed "Gala of Stars 1985," which the New York Daily News noted "has something for everybody," will encore on Saturday, Aug. 24 at 9 p.m. on Channel 10.

Among the highlights of "Gala of Stars 1985," public television's sixth-annual music and entertainment extravaganza featuring Beverly Sills and James Levine, are two movements from Andrew Lloyd Webber's Requiem and selections from the Metropolitan Opera production of Porgy and Bess.

ADVENTURE—An around-the-world solo yacht race is the subject of "The Ultimate Challenge," an adventure documentary which airs Sunday at 10 p.m. on Channel 10.

School summer maintenance hits high gear

School may be out for most children in the Clark County School District, but the schools are far from deserted. Five hundred and forty men and women are bustling through the facilities performing a thorough summer cleaning.

Each year, when students and teachers depart for summer vacations, school custodians remain on the job and begin the summer maintenance program. Work is scheduled from 4 a.m. to noon, five days a week, in order to conserve energy and reduce utility costs to the district.

Every inch of every building is included in the checklist. Ceilings and light fixtures are cleaned, as well as walls, woodwork, lockers, desks, chairs, windows, transoms, partitions, door glass, showcases, tile floors and carpeting. The buildings are sprayed for pest control.

"We even turn the desk and chairs upside down to remove gum," said Robert Hernandez, assistant director of Maintenance and operations.

Shower, dressing and rest rooms get extra special attention during the summer clean up. In addition to the regular ceiling, wall and floor treatment, all nickel and chrome is cleaned and polished, and porcelain fixtures are cleaned inside and out. Soap dispensers are flushed and then filled with water until they are needed in the fall.

Outside, bleachers are cleaned and splinters or other hazardous conditions are reported by the custodians to the Maintenance Office for handling. Trash is collected daily. Roof and yard drains, gutters, downspouts, and exterior lockers are cleaned inside and out. Walkways, lunch tables, outdoor furniture, rubbish bins and yard cans are all carefully scrubbed.

The 62 grounds-department staff members maintain all lawns and planted areas, spray for weeds and repair sprinklers.

"We want all our facilities to be well-maintained," continued Hernandez. "If the public notices any brown areas in the lawn or any broken sprinklers, we'd like them to call us at 382-6741 and report it."

All school buildings undergo the extensive summer cleaning, even the outlying schools far removed from Las Vegas which do not have summer custodial staffs. To prepare them for the fall, special scrub crews are sent out from the district offices.

The 15 year-round schools present a unique situation. The thorough yearly cleaning must be achieved even though the schools are in operation around-the-calendar. To accomplish this task, each of the year-round schools has an extra custodian who works four hours a day all year performing the thorough cleaning chores. However, because classes are in session throughout the summer months, the custodians have elected to work 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. shifts without air conditioning rather than disturb the students and children.

Many CCSD school buildings are used by the city and county parks and recreation departments to provide summer classes and activities to the community. In those locations, custodians accommodate the needs of the programs and prepare the building areas that will be used daily. Then they proceed with the thorough cleaning schedule.

The five junior high schools which have outdoor swimming pools, Brinley, Hyde Park, Garside, Martin and Fremont, are used by the city and county during summer months. They are responsible to maintain the pools. CCSD custodians, however, take care of the shower areas, rest room facilities and locker rooms.

H.J. Stewart and Variety Schools and Basic High have indoor swimming pools. In those schools, CCSD custodians are responsible to maintain not only the adjacent areas, but also the pool itself.

Custodians are skilled in making minor repairs whenever needed. But, when more extensive or specialized repairs are called for, they report it to the head custodian who writes a work order requesting the services of painters, furniture or equipment repair persons and locksmiths.

Some summers present unplanned situations for custodians to handle. At the end of the summer of 1984, for example, several floods had custodial crews out working around the clock hauling buckets of mud and washing down schools with fire hoses. Then, when the immediate emergency was over, the custodians had to perform another thorough cleaning of the schools to be ready for returning students.

Today, the Maintenance and Operations Department is prepared for any possible flooding. Hundreds of empty sandbags are in storage, ready for filling in case they are needed to divert water and mud away from school entrances.

This summer, the custodians have had the added responsibility of a major moving of two schools. Due to the planned asbestos removal and fire retrofit program scheduled for Brinley Junior High School, all its furniture, classroom and office equipment and teacher supplies have had to be moved to Gibson Junior High School. Sunset High School has moved its headquarters to Hyde Park Junior High School, so all of its furniture, equipment and supplies have had to be moved too.

Summertime may mean vacation fun for most, but at Clark County School District buildings, the work has just begun.

Circus Circus announces plans for new property in Laughlin

Circus Circus Enterprises, Inc. (NYSE, PSE) announced Aug. 16 that it plans to build a second hotel and casino in Laughlin to be called the Colorado Belle.

The Colorado Belle will be a riverboat, a three-deck replica of a classic paddlewheeler, that will offer a 46,000 square-foot casino, three restaurants and 200 rooms. Adjoining the riverboat will be a five-story hotel, with 600 rooms, whose facade and decor will reflect the look of old New Orleans.

The property will be located on a 22-acre site adjacent to the Edgewater Hotel and Casino which the company also owns and operates.

Circus estimates that the cost of the project will be approximately $65 to $70 million, and it will finance the construction from internal funds.

Construction for the property should begin by year's end, with the property's opening slated for mid-1987.

"Our experience and confidence in the continued growth of the Laughlin market calls for a larger presence there by Circus Circus," said William G. Bennett, the company's chairman and chief executive officer.

"We are renowned for operating theme resorts that appeal to the middle-income tourist, and the Colorado Belle will be one of the most distinctive properties in the entire industry.

"Based on our research of waterways in the south, the riverboat itself will be authentic, in much of its design and detail as the famous paddlewheelers of American lore."

In the first quarter ending April 30, the Edgewater Hotel and Casino in Laughlin, with a larger room base, posted an increase in casino revenues of nearly 60 percent compared with the year-prior first quarter.

"And certainly our strong summer results at the Edgewater have prodded our decision to further expand our operations in Laughlin," Bennett added.

"We keep beating our own expectations. Together with the Edgewater, the Colorado Belle should ensure that Circus ranks as a dominant force in the Nevada industry's boomtown for the foreseeable future."

The Colorado Belle represents a third element in a major Circus-Circus expansion program. On July 1, at Circus Circus in Reno, the company opened its 900-room Skyway Tower (which has since operated at 100 percent occupancy), including 9,000 square feet of additional casino space.

At Circus Circus in Las Vegas

the company is ahead of schedule on the construction of the Circus Skyrise, an 1,188-room tower that will include approximately 27,000 square feet of casino space, slated to open next April.

"All told, we believe that Circus Circus has set in motion a reliable course of profitable growth for the next three to five years," Bennett said.

Circus Circus Enterprises, Inc. has five properties in Nevada: the Circus Circus casino-hotels in Las Vegas and Reno, the Edgewater Hotel and Casino in Laughlin, Slots-A-Fun Casino and Silver City Casino in Las Vegas.

CENTEL SINGERS—The Centel Singers will be one of six choirs featured Sept. 3 during "An evening of choirs" at UNLV's Ham Concert Hall at 7:30 p.m. The Centel group has performed since October 1984 for convalescent homes, hospitals, conventions and civic meetings. Centel employees comprise the group directed by Henderson resident Marjorie Andersen, a former high school music teacher who remembers having had some of the singers in her classes. Andersen has been pleased with the group's progress, noting "it is surprising to find people who aren't professional musicians taking musical ideas, grasping them and sounding like such a unit," she said. Tickets are available from members of any and all groups participating in the songfest.

MIGRAINE

Migraine is the most painful form of headache, yet, despite the suffering it causes, migraine is actually a symptom rather than an illness or disease in itself. It is nature's way of warning us that something is wrong within the body.

In many cases it has been found that the migraine victim was also suffering from nerve pressure due to a spinal misalignment. When the spinal misalignment was corrected by a Doctor of Chiropractic, the nerve pressure was relieved and the migraines disappeared.

Chiropractic seeks to eliminate the pain of migraine by correcting the cause of the pain, not just hide the symptoms with an application of "temporary relief" pain killers.

Costume shop manager holds festival together

The force that holds the Utah Shakespearean Festival's costume shop together can be summed up in two words, Kay Schumacher.

"What I do is a craft, it is a functional art. We produce a product on stage, a final art form...visually it is an art, but it is also a craft in that it has to function. That is why I prefer shop-managing as opposed to, say, designing," says Schumacher.

As costume-shop manager, Schumacher manages the resources and oversees the process. This entails ordering materials, organizing the shop set up and overseeing the personnel, among countless other things.

"I try to let most problems solve themselves. If you give people the resources they solve the problems," says Schumacher.

Schumacher became interested in costuming when she discovered how much she likes solving the problems of costuming such as how to create a shape or how to make a particular part of a costume look a certain way.

For the past three years Schumacher has been costume-shop manager at Oberlin College in Ohio where she will return in the fall to do two operas and two to five theatrical productions as well as dance productions.

Altogether she will give technical support to approximately 20 productions campus-wide.

Originally from Albuquerque, N.M., Schumacher has had an interesting life. When she was a child her family raised an ostrich named Harvey, from an egg.

Her lifelong fantasy was to operate heavy equipment and in 1981 she got her chance. She drove a bulldozer in Albuquerque, N.M. "Operating a bulldozer is not a lot different than operating a sewing machine. It's just a difference of scale," she says.

Schumacher's future goals include doing something totally different, "more directly socially relevant" than theatre, such as water resource management. "It's an issue I'm concerned about," she says.

The distant future is unclear for Schumacher. "I don't think I will stay in costuming. When I weigh the hours and the rewards, it doesn't balance.

"I would like to do my own art, not someone else's. I would like to go into rug-making or tapestry-weaving."

In the meantime, however, the Utah Shakespearean Festival is richer for her help.

The Utah Shakespearean Festival season runs through Aug. 31. For more information on this year's The Merry Wives of Windsor, Antony and Cleopatra and Twelfth Night or any other Festival productions, call the box office at (801) 586-7878, located on the campus of Southern Utah State College in Cedar City, Utah.

Seminar looks at business potential in space

Nevada businesses will be in a good position to reap financial benefits when a full-scale industrialization of outer space begins, according to Walter Hurd, Jr., corporate director of product assurance for Lockheed Corporation, one of the nation's primary defense and aerospace contractors.

Hurd will spell out specific ways that Nevada businesses can profit during an Aug. 28 seminar sponsored by the southern Nevada Quality and Productivity Institute (QPI) at the Union Plaza Hotel.

The "Space Industrialization" seminar is scheduled from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

The $35 registration fee includes a sit-down breakfast, program and materials.

For information call 367-5655 or 739-8222.

According to QPI project director Dr. Herb Rogers, the space industrialization seminar will be of special interest to managers, executives and entrepreneurs looking to tap new profit possibilities.

"Opportunities for new small businesses and near-high-tech industries will be abundant in the very near future because of the rapid industrialization of space," Rogers said.

"By the dawn of the 21st century, space industrialization will offer new opportunities in a diverse range of businesses including recreation and tourism, medicine and pharmaceutical development, processing and developing new electronic materials like silicon, germanium and other essentials to micro-electronics, as well as space habitation and communications," Rogers explained.

Hurd, a retired United States

Air Force general, will elaborate on how local businesses can provide much-needed technical, industrial and educational support for space industrialization.

He has worked for Lockheed Corporation in various executive capacities since 1958 and is considered one of the nation's leading authorities on space flight and space colonization.

A registered professional quality engineer, Hurd is also a charter member of the National Space Institute, a fellow of the British Interplanetary Society, an associate fellow of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics and a member of the Space Studies Institute.

He is widely published in professional, technical and scholarly journals and is in constant demand as a speaker at international symposia on space industrialization and quality control.

The QPI "Space Industrialization" seminar is being co-sponsored by Lockheed, Citibank Nevada, Nevada Power Company, Pacific Engineering Company, G.W. Wallace Inc. and Larkin-Saltman Investments.

QPI is a nonprofit network of sponsors whose mission is to increase prosperity by improving quality, productivity and leadership in all sectors of Southern Nevada business, industry and education.

First annual pro-rodeo art contest to benefit Opportunity Village

Local artists are invited to enter their most outstanding artwork reflecting a rodeo-western theme to the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority in the first annual PRCA National Finals Rodeo Program Art Contest.

The contest, Aug. 13 through Sept. 24, will benefit Opportunity Village.

The artwork selected will appear in a two-page, four-color spread in PRCA National Finals Rodeo Program in December.

The winning artist will receive $1,000 in prize money, while two runners up will be awarded $400 each.

The entries will be judged for artistic quality, tastefulness, graphic strength and reproducibility and will be on display publicly following the judging.

The $15 entry fee per entry, a maximum of two per artist, will be donated to Opportunity Village, Nevada's largest nonprofit organization offering vocational training and employment for intellectually handicapped citizens.

In addition to the Opportunity Village Thrift Store, Opportunity Village Contracted Services include sewing, advertising button manufacturing and printing.

Entry registration will be Sept. 22-24 in room 104 of the Cashman Field Complex from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. For further information call 362-6900.

Dimension Cable introduces new services

Dimension Cable Services will begin offering its 62,000 subscribers three major new services on Aug. 19: Cinemax, American Movie Classics and Video Hits One.

Cinemax is a 24-hour pay cable service from Time, Inc., which also owns Home Box Office. Cinemax is programmed and scheduled to provide the cable subscriber, with multiple pay services, a unique mix of movies and select original presentations.

A mix of top-quality, differentiated movie product is shown on the service, with select broad-appeal films, including some recent Hollywood blockbusters and a variety of unique, critically acclaimed films for the genuine film enthusiast, plus exclusive comedy and music specials.

Cinemax offers the minimal amount of duplication with other broad-appeal premium services.

American Movie Classics is a pay cable service distributed by Rainbow Programming Services, which also distributes Bravo! and the Playboy Channel, both of which are premium services already offered on Dimension's local system.

American Movie Classics is devoted to classic films, the best from Hollywood's golden years.

Dimension is combining American movie classics with Bravo!, and offering both channels as a single premium-service selection.

VH-1 is a new service from MTV Networks, Inc., which also owns Nickelodeon, the cable channel especially for children, and MTV, the 24-hour rock video channel. VH-1 is similar to MTV in concept, but offers a wide range of contemporary music for the adult viewer.

The service specializes in a range of music from soft rock to rhythm-and-blues and cross-over country. VH-1 will be available to subscribers to Dimension's seven-channel Expanded Cable service. Dimension is also introducing a 24-hour electronic program guide on its Basic Cable service, making listing information for all its channels available right on the viewer's TV screen.

In addition to the new services, Dimension is also expanding four of its most popular present channels. Nickelodeon, the cable channel especially for kids, will be carried for its full 24-hour schedule, as will Black Entertainment Television.

Carriage of Arts and Entertainment is being expanded to its new 20-hour format from 5 a.m.-1 a.m. daily. On Financial News Network, Dimension is adding the new Score service in the evening, offering sports highlights, news and scores.

Dimension is offering new subscribers a special $9.95 connection for the next 30 days to help introduce its new services.

For existing subscribers, the cable company will add an additional premium service during the same period for only $5 and donate half of that to the Muscular Dystrophy Association in support of the annual Jerry Lewis telethon coming up in a couple of weeks.

The cable company will be giving all present subscribers a taste of the new programming via a special six-hour preview of Cinemax, American Movie Classics and VH-1 on cable channel 14 on Sunday evening, Aug. 18, 5-11 p.m. With the new and expanded services, Dimension now offers Las Vegas-area residents 35 channels of cable television with service packages beginning at $8.95 per month.

The company serves large areas of unincorporated Clark County and the cities of Las Vegas, North Las Vegas, Henderson and Boulder City.

Some of the movie highlights on Cinemax this month include: Streets of Fire, Meatballs II, Repo Man, Phar Lap, Raiders of the Lost Ark, Revenge of the Nerds and The Wicked Lady. Specials include: Cinemax Comedy Experiment: It's Just TV! starring Harry Shearer, Paul Simon: Hearts and Bones and Album Flash: The Everly Brothers.

On American Movie Classics in August, there are no films newer than 1975, except for those in AMC's "Future Classics" series: Wuthering Heights, In Name Only, From the Terrace and Mr. & Mrs. Smith are major titles; August is also "Carole Lombard" month.

VH-1, in addition to its regular schedule of music videos, features Rita Coolidge as one of its on-air hosts for August, and one-on-one interviews with Laura Branigan, Jamie Lee Curtis and Peter, Paul and Mary.

Nevada historical society's 'This was Nevada' series

A visit from former president Ulysses S. Grant

By Phillip I. Earl

As the centerpiece of the great Comstock Lode, Virginia City was known far and wide; no visit to Nevada was considered complete without a tour of the mines.

Among those Americans of some note who made the excursion a century ago was former President Ulysses S. Grant and his family, who were coming through the state on the end of a world tour.

Word of the coming of the famous Civil War hero and political leader had spread some months before, and Virginia City was a mass of flags, shields, streamers and wreaths when the Grant party reached the Comstock on Oct. 27, 1879.

Citizens from the surrounding towns began to flock in that morning, as did the local Paiutes, and even the quiet Chinese were seen to be dodging everywhere to get a look at the "big Melican war man."

At 11 that morning, Virginia City's militia companies, the firemen and state, county and city officials marched in a body down the divide to the Gold Hill depot where the visitors were to disembark from their train.

A large crowd had meanwhile collected in and about the depot. A few minutes before 1 p.m., the scream of steam whistles could be heard coming from American Flat.

The boom and bang of annual salutes and giant powder cartridges soon blended with the music of the bands and shouts of "Here he comes!" went up as the train chugged up the grade.

A detachment of militiamen cleared a section of the depot by the local Paiutes, mounted and naked from the waist up, staging a ceremonial ride.

A reception for the Grant party was held at the Storey County courthouse that evening. Above the entrance was a large painting showing the General in full uniform shaking hands with a miner. Beneath the mural was inscribed "The Miner's Welcome to The Soldier."

All who desired to call upon the ex-President were welcomed and the party repaired to Piper's Opera House later in the evening. Grant's entrance into his box was the signal for the entire audience to stand and applaud. The General bowed, took his seat and seemed to enjoy the play.

Dinner was served at the Savage Mansion following the theatrical performance, and the people of Como, some twenty miles to the southeast, fired an immense bonfire on their tallest peak in honor of the famous visitor.

As the sun went down, the people of Virginia City witnessed a rare and beautiful phenomenon, the American flag waving from the top of Mt. Davidson picking up the rays of the setting sun and appearing as though it were wrapped in flames.

This same scene had been witnessed only once before, on the occasion of the ending of the Civil War when Grant met Lee at Appomattox Courthouse.

Next morning Grant and his party were escorted to the C & C shaft where they were joined by the Governor, John Mackay, James G. Fair and others for a trip to the lower levels of the Consolidated Virginia and California Mine.

All changed to the gray shirt and pants of the miner with heavy shoes and coarse felt hat to match.

They first descended to the 1,750-foot level where Mrs. Grant expressed herself as being disappointed at finding it all so light, dry and comfortable. She had expected the lower levels to be dark, wet and muddy, she said.

Mrs. Grant and the other ladies returned to the surface at that point, while Mackay conducted the men down to the 2,150-foot level where the temperature reached 120 degrees.

Although a bit warm for the others, Grant did not seem to mind and asked many questions about the timbering, the operation of equipment and other work in progress there.

Back on the surface, the group was assembled for Johnny Noe's camera. At 4 p.m. a reception was held at the Pacific Coast Pioneers' Hall where Grant was made an honorary member.

After thanking those who had accorded him this honor, he remained for the musical program and to view the cabinet of relics and curiosities which had been collected by the pioneer organization.

That evening the Grants once again visited Piper's Opera House for a performance by the Colville Company.

Next morning the distinguished visitors visited Dayton, stopping off at Odeon Hall before going up to the Sutro Mansion for breakfast. They then traversed the Sutro Tunnel, arriving back in Virginia City by way of the Savage Mine.

Grant and his wife then said their farewells, boarded the V & T coach awaiting them and returned to Reno, from which point they entrained for Washington D.C., fully confident that all was well with the mining industry and that America was on a firm industrial footing.

GRANT'S VISIT—Ex-President Ulysses S. Grant and his party in Virginia City, Oct. 28, 1879. From left, John W. Mackay, Mrs. M.G. Gilette, Ulysses Grant Jr., Mrs. U.S. Grant (turned to side because of her self-consciousness about being cross-eyed), General Grant, S. Yanada, a servant, Mrs. James G. Fair, Governor Kinkead and James G. Fair. Nevada Historical Society Photograph.

platform and Grant, his wife, Governor John Kinkead and other state officials stepped out to be welcomed by the Mayor of Virginia City.

Following the mayor's address, the parade up over the divide to Virginia City began as artillerymen posted on the Bullion Dump fired a twelve-gun salute.

As the parade reached the crest of Griner's Bend, children decked out in their "bibs and tuckers" waved small flags and cheered in their small, shrill voices.

The procession then wound through the streets and ended up at the Savage Mine Office where Grant was to review the remainder of the parade and speak from the balcony.

Mrs. Grant had meanwhile come up to Virginia City on the Virginia & Truckee and was conveyed to the Savage office in a six-horse carriage complete with several grooms.

Following her arrival, Senator John P. Jones and Senator William Sharon joined the other members of the reception committee on the balcony.

Grant's speech was short and to the point. Thanking the people for their hospitality, he said that he was not like Nevada's senators, "who were in the habit of making long speeches and catching your votes."

Sharon and Jones spoke briefly, as did James G. Fair. At 3 p.m., a reception was held for the veterans of the Mexican War and the Civil War, both Union and Confederate, and the militia companies went through an elaborate arms drill.

The fire companies put on a ladder drill for the guests, followed

The Antique Car Show, also sponsored by the Chamber, will be held in the Boulder City High School Soccer Field, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. (The show will actually begin on Friday, Sept. 27.) Bert Hansen, President of the Chamber of Commerce, expects about 150 entries. The public will be the judges, voting for their favorite antique car in several categories. An award banquet will be held that night.

The 8th Annual Western Art Show and Sale will open at 10:15 a.m., at Burk Gal'ry. Darlene Burk says the 24 artists, from nine states, whose work will be displayed, will be on hand during the show. At 1:30 p.m., at the Artist Quick Draw, 15 artists will have one hour to complete a painting or drawing. The art will be auctioned off at 3 p.m. A percentage of the proceeds will go to the Saturday, Sept. 28, 1985, a day that will be remembered for a long, long time. A lot will happen in Boulder City!

The Bureau of Reclamation will host the Hoover Dam 50th Anniversary Celebration at 11 a.m. in Bruce Eaton Stadium at Boulder City High School. President Reagan, Secretary of the Interior Don Hodel, and many other dignitaries are invited. The entertainment group "Up With People" will perform.

Many other activities will be occurring across the city. Starting the day at 7 a.m. at the Gazebo will be a Pancake Breakfast sponsored by the Rotary Club. The Boulder City Chamber of Commerce will host the parade beginning at 8:30 a.m. And are we in for a treat—live marching bands! So far, five bands will be in the parade. And the number will grow.

Events planned for Hoover Dam 50th anniversary celebration

Boulder City Museum and Historical Association. Refreshments will be served throughout the day. There will be a steak barbecue on the gallery premises Saturday night honoring the artists. Limited tickets are available for $15 from Darlene Burk.

The Boulder City Coordinating

Council (BCCC), made up of area organizations and churches, will host fun and games in Wilbur Square and Gazebo Park beginning at 11 a.m. Eva McGarvey, liaison for BCCC, said there are currently 23 booths selling food, drinks, crafts, and a variety of souvenirs. No two booths will be alike.

The BCCC will conduct games during the day such as sack and three-legged races. "We're trying to encourage the 1930's era in the park on this special day," Eva said adding that winners will be given prizes such as were given in that era. KORK Radio will provide 1930's music to be broadcast from the Gazebo. Copies of 1930's newspapers will be on display in the vicinity of the Gazebo.

"Boulder City is the home of Hoover Dam," said Eva. "This is our way of saying thank you to the community." Anyone interested in applying for booth space should contact Eva at 293-6344.

LULAC will sponsor a Mexican Food Feast at the Western & Mexican Center. Live music, Mexican food and drinks will be available beginning at 9 a.m. The proceeds will go toward scholarship funds for Latin youths in the area.

"This is the one chance for Boulder City to shine," said Bert Hansen. "We need to support our local organizations to help make this a successful celebration."

"A lot of organizations, not just the Chamber of Commerce, need volunteers. We have to realize we are only observers. We need to be participants in the day because we will have a lot of visitors to the city." If you are interested in helping, contact the Chamber of Commerce, 293-2034.

This is your day, Boulder City!

Daytime adult high school accepting registrations

A daytime adult high school which will meet at the Juvenile Court Services building in Henderson during the school year from 8 a.m. to noon Mondays through Fridays is now accepting registrations.

Interested applicants should contact the Career Development Center, 600 W. Ninth Street, in Las Vegas.

The unique program offers adults an opportunity to obtain a high school diploma while investing a minimum of actual classroom time. Scheduling is tailored to the needs of the individual.

"The attendance requirements are not as strict as those in the regular school system," notes Madelyn Smith who will be offering the largely individualized instruction which is limited to a total class size of only 15 students.

Credits are based on classroom hours, though credits may also be obtained for work experience. Students may also be taking other courses towards a diploma at the same time and receive credit for these as well.

Successful completion of the requirements results in an actual diploma from the Clark County Adult High School.

There is no cost for the program which is funded through state monies administered by the Clark County School District. Textbooks are provided.

Smith says the classes attract a wide cross section of people who have been excluded from the usual school system for a variety of reasons.

Interested persons may call 384-4414 for additional information but must appear in person for actual registration. Space is limited and Smith advises those interested to act soon to assure a seat in the class.

Museum activities feature Boulder Dam in August

Clark County Parks and Recreation Department will feature the following exhibits at the Clark County Southern Nevada Museum, 1830 S. Boulder Highway, the entire month of August.

The feature exhibit "Boulder Dam—The First 50 Years" is a fiftieth-anniversary look at one of the engineering wonders of this or any age, located in Southern Nevada's own backyard.

The rotating exhibit "Furs & Feathers—Fashion Accessories 1880-1940" consists of what the well-dressed Nevadan would have worn for a night on the town before many towns existed and provides a look into a seldom-seen part of the museum's historic clothing collection.

The County time-line exhibit "Boom or Bust—Mining Camps of Clark County" re-discovers the mines and mining camps of the past century that grew from infancy to old age in a few short years and were once the center of population, wealth, and culture in our County.

The Southern Nevada Museum's Outreach Program will install a promotional exhibit on "Boom or Bust—Mining Camps of Clark County" at Paradise Park and Community Center, 4770 Harrison.

Also, the exhibit "Indian Cultures of the Southwest" will travel to the Winchester Community Center, 3130 South McLeod Drive.

In addition to the above special events, the museum also features exhibits at Heritage Street, Nevada Ghost Town, and the Central Exhibit Hall.

Admission is $1 per adult and 50 cents per senior or child. For additional information call 565-0907.

Once over lightly

By Carolyn Drennan Bishop
Everyone loves a good ghost story!

Recently I discovered that for nearly a century something spooky has been going on in room 3502 of the Hotel del Coronado in California.

I couldn't resist! I wrote for a reservation, hoping it wouldn't be a case of "You can check in, but you can't check out."

I took along a friend, with no known history of instability, and a Ouija board.

Know-your-ghost seemed like a good idea to me, so as we checked in we quizzed the desk clerk. "I don't know anything first-hand," she apologized, "but there have been several TV networks here filming coverage on the ghost."

Our bellhop Steve Oakford, billed as the "Hotel Historian," carried our bags up to the notorious room.

"The whole thing is nonsense," said he. "The only documented tragic death that has occurred at the hotel was during the early part of the century when a jilted bride shot herself on the ocean-front veranda in full view of a group of startled afternoon tea drinkers. The 'ghost room' wasn't even in existence then."

We finally reached 3502 after meandering down endless creepy, narrow, low-ceilinged corridors. Despite Steve's warning, we fell in to the room. The floor is several inches lower than the hallway. The squat, misshapen room is an architect's nightmare. One window overlooks the dimly lit hallway. There is a large window with a spectacular view—in the closet. The bathroom, from whence it is rumored mysterious sounds emanate during the midnight hours, could accommodate one very small midget.

We hastily unpacked and left our cramped quarters, determined to identify our ghost before we spent a night with her.

The stories we unearthed from interviews and published material proved as illusive and colorful as ghostly rumors usually are.

The hotel Public Relations department, obviously old hands at supplying information to inquiring reporters, handed us a stack of published accounts of our ghost.

We discovered one of the most colorful theories advanced concerns a young woman who killed herself in or near the room in the late 1800s. Adherents to this theory explain the woman's ghost is restless because hotel owner Elisha Babcock covered up her death by burying the body on the hotel grounds.

We quizzed bellman Steve Oakford again. He claims the room did not exist then. The burial on the grounds was to have taken place where the hotel has since built a swimming pool. "Just to be on the safe side," Steve states, "they did a little extra digging around the area. No body was found."

A reservations clerk told us the ghost room is especially popular with honeymooners and if you want to sleep there on Halloween, make your reservations far in advance.

Hotel employees claim that many who check into the room don't last the night. Their complaints range from cold drafts to flickering lights and objects moving about in true ghostly fashion. Apparently, psychics also believe there is something afoot because they periodically monitor the room.

The most amusing story is the tale of a gentleman who checked into 3502 one evening and turned on his TV set. Unfortunately, the news program concerned the ghostly aspects of the very room he was staying in. Shortly after the program concluded he asked to have his room changed. His complaint? Moving curtains and ratting pipes. His occupation? A Secret Service agent assigned to protect Vice President George Bush.

On the way back to 3502 the elevator operator remarked, "Have a restful night," as he left us off on our floor and hastily zoomed away. Was that a knowing smile on his face?

Once in the room we set up our Ouija board and settled down for a serious conversation with our ghostly roommate.

Events moved slowly. We asked the ghost to speak. Silence.

Would she please tell us why she was unhappy? Why did she check in for such a long stay? No answer.

Finally we went to bed. Ms. Ghost was obviously out for the evening. Was it possible she was dining downstairs in the Crown Room with the Prince of Wales? He too, had visited the hotel in the early part of the century where it is rumored he first laid eyes on Wallis Simpson.

Whatever she did that evening, she did not stop in for a friendly chat with us.

During the midnight hours I awoke to what can only be described as a gurgling roar.

My companion and I sat up and stared into each other's eyes.

"I hate to ask an indelicate question," I ventured, "but were you in the bathroom and did you flush the toilet?"

"No," she answered shakily. Eventually the plumbing settled down and so did we.

The next morning we woke safe and sound.

Oh well. I guess all of us can't see something "that goes bump in the night."

The Hotel del Coronado, across the bay from San Diego has been designated as an historic landmark and is one of the world's largest wooden structures. It is a grand example of Victorian architecture—an appropriate spot for a ghost to roam.

Continuing education catalog available

UNLV's Division of Continuing Education will offer more than 250 classes in its fall catalog, now available.

Titled "The Catalog," the course listing will be mailed to 25,000 people in the community and distributed in local newspapers in time for fall registration, scheduled to begin Aug. 26.

The catalog will also be available in the continuing education office, located in Maude Frazier Hall, room 109.

The Division of Continuing Education has extended its office hours to 7 p.m. Aug. 26-29 and Sept. 3-5 for registration.

Because courses begin at different times throughout the semester, continuing education registration continues through fall.

Registration may be completed either by mail, using the registration form on the back of the catalog, or at the continuing education office.

Students may register any time up to the first meeting of classes.

This issue of "The Catalog" features several new educational opportunities for Southern Nevadans, including three live, satellite video teleconferences, and a new comprehensive program in financial planning for the layperson.

Three free informational programs, presented as a community service, will be open to the public in early September.

These are orientation to microcomputers, Sept. 9, 7-8:30 p.m.; basic money management for singles, Sept. 10, 7-9 p.m.; and how to select a financial planner, Sept. 11, 7-9 p.m.

Review of Fall 1985 financial management courses will be part of the Sept. 11 class.

The Las Vegas Law Day Forum to inform potential law students about law schools across the nation is set for Nov. 8.

Three popular continuing education certificate programs will be offered this fall.

They include microcomputer operations, photography, and the UNLV-AMA certificate in management. A number of credit workshops are also planned.

For individuals seeking enrichment in the humanities and sciences, continuing education offers courses in writing and editing, pre-college training languages, performing arts, arts and crafts, photography, dance and fitness, cooking, home and garden, natural sciences, exploring trips and extended travel-study.

For a free copy of "The Catalog" detailing fall courses, watch your home edition of the newspaper on Aug. 27, check your local library information rack, come by the continuing education office at UNLV, or call 739-3394.

Six-month unemployment rate fluctuates little

The Census Bureau will visit area residents August 19-24 to collect current employment and unemployment data, according to Francis White, Jr., director of the Bureau's Los Angeles regional office.

The Bureau's monthly current population survey is sponsored by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) primarily to gather employment and unemployment data. In some months, additional social and economic information is also gathered.

Data collected in June showed that the overall jobless rate (including the military) of 7.2 percent was the same for the fifth month in a row. The rate for civilian workers of 7.3 percent also remained the same.

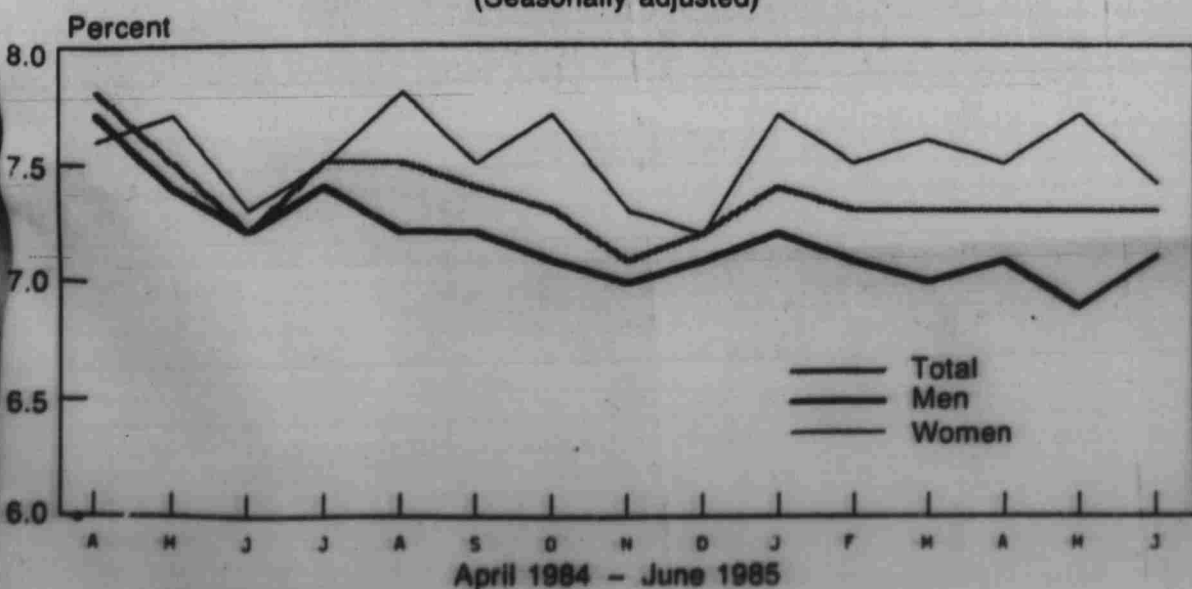

The local data will contribute to August's national unemployment picture to be released Sept. 6 by BLS. The July data became available Aug. 2.

Information supplied by individuals is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

The following graph compares 1984 and 1985 unemployment rates, and shows how steady total unemployment has remained for the first half of 1985.

Bourbon Street honors Big Tiny Little

August 5 was a red letter day for Big Tiny Little, his 40th anniversary as an entertainer, the folks who run Bourbon Street Hotel and Casino, he currently headlines their Basin St. Lounge, and the hundreds of friends and special guests who crowded the casino to the rafters all night long.

It was a memorable occasion, with a craps table removed from the pit to allow room for complimentary champagne and hors d'oeuvres to be dispensed to everyone. Show biz was represented as local favorites Glenn Smith and Billy Martin dropped by to entertain and salute Tiny. Cork Proctor and Jacqueline Fontaine were also on hand as were local media figures Forrest Duke, Harley Akers and Jackie Brett. A huge cake and a plaque were presented by general manager Jim Avance and staff in honor of the occasion. Needless to say, a great time was had by all.

Additionally, plans and specifications may be examined but not purchased at the offices of the Associated General Contractors of America, 1135 S.W. Temple Street, Salt Lake City, Utah, 84110; and 300 South Wells Avenue, Reno, Nevada, 89502; at the office of the F. W. Dodge Company, Greystone Building, 1850 East Flamingo Road, Suite 107, Las Vegas, 89109; at the office of Daily Pacific Builder, 2450-17th Street, San Francisco, California, 94110; and at the office of the Construction Notebook, 3131 Meade Ave., Las Vegas, Nevada, 89102. A fee of Twenty Dollars ($20) is required for the purchase of each copy of the plans with proposal form. Plans, proposal form and specifications obtained on this basis are non-returnable and no refund will be made. Bids must be on the proposal form of the Department of Transportation and must be accompanied by a bid bond, a certified check, a cashier's check, or cash in the amount of five percent (5%) of bid.

Right is reserved to reject any or all bids. This is a Federal-aid project and as such, any contractor otherwise qualified by the State of Nevada to perform such work, is not required to be licensed nor to submit application for license in advance of submitting a bid or having such bid considered; provided, however, that such exemption does not constitute a waiver of the State's right under its license laws to require a contractor, determined to be a successful bidder, to be licensed to do business in the State of Nevada in connection with the award of a contract to him.

The State of Nevada Department of Transportation will on its own initiative, take affirmative action, including the imposition of contract sanctions and the initiation of appropriate legal proceedings under any applicable State or Federal law to achieve equal employment opportunity on Federal-aid Highway Projects and will actively cooperate with the Federal Highway Administration in all investigations and enforcement actions undertaken by the Federal Highway Administration. In conjunction with the above statement, the Department of Transportation will not issue plans to an irresponsible bidder. Subsection (b) of the section 112 of Title 23 United States Code has been amended by adding at the end thereof, the following: "Contracts for the construction of each project shall be awarded only on the basis of the lowest responsive bid submitted by a bidder meeting established criteria of responsibility."

Poets convene in Reno

Poets from all over the world will have the time of their lives as they converge on the "Biggest Little City in the World" over the weekend of Aug. 23, 24 and 25, for "World of Poetry's" first annual convention.

The convention is at the MGM Grand Hotel in Reno in celebration of World of Poetry's tenth anniversary, and promises to be so spectacular in poetical scope that World Television, in association with National Celebrities, will be there to televise the event.

Headlining at the grand banquet will be none other than Steve Allen, one of the world's great entertainers and truly gifted poets. And chief among the lecturers and workshop instructors will be California's famous poet laureate Charles B. Garrigus.

Also high on the list of poetical excitement is the first-annual Poetry Convention Contest which boasts $10,000 in cash prizes, ten $1,000 grand prizes in all, one for each year World of Poetry has been in existence!

Only poets attending the convention may enter.

Winners will be announced at the grand banquet, and World of Poetry's editor and publisher John Campbell and Steve Allen will be on hand to present the ten $1,000 awards.

Add to this the pleasures the convention provides in bringing poets together, and you have some great reasons why the poets are coming.

For information write World of Poetry, 2431 Stockton, Sacramento, CA 95817.

District attorney seeks tighter rein on solicitors

District Attorney Bob Miller is requesting an amendment to the Clark County Peddler's Ordinance that will require all charitable solicitors or canvassers selling goods, merchandise or wares to identify the charitable organization that will receive the proceeds of the sale.

"I'm taking this action in response to numerous complaints I've received from people wanting to determine the legitimacy of the various street-corner, telephone and door-to-door solicitors in our community," stated Miller.

The charitable identification amendment will be included as part of a larger ordinance that will broaden definitions and refine licensing procedures and regulations for peddlers and solicitors in Clark County.

The penalty for violation of the new guidelines will be a fine of not more than $1,000, imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months, or any combination of both.

"This ordinance will help legitimate solicitors and discourage deceptive ones," added Miller.

The ordinance was on the agenda for introduction at the Clark County Commissioners' meeting on Aug. 20.

Lord's Supper celebrated at Southside Christian

The Lord's Supper will be observed this Sunday at Southside Christian Church, currently meeting in the Davis' Paradise Valley Chapel, 6200 S. Eastern Ave., between Russell and Sunset Roads one half miles south of Tropicana Avenue at 9:30 a.m.

Dr. Hiram Hunt will be bringing the short devotional for this time-honored observance.

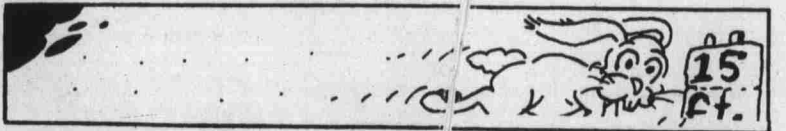

Joel Rivers, minister, will be speaking on the topic "Five verses that describe the death process."

He is preaching and teaching from the book of Ecclesiastes but, beginning Sept. 15, he will begin study in the book of Revelation.

The Hand-Bell Choir will begin practicing for presentation of a concert right after the Labor Day holiday," Fred Autenrieth, leader of choir, announced.

For more information or ministerial services, please call 458-2731.

When racing at top speed, the jack rabbit bounds, or broadjumps, up to fifteen feet.

TOO MUCH SAUCE!—Dan Johnson (L) and John Pilgrim are entering this year's Third Annual Chili Cook-off sponsored by the Boulder City Elks Lodge. The event will be held on Saturday, Sept. 14, in the lower portion of Central Park. Johnson and Pilgrim are entering this year's event representing the local Elks Lodge. Pilgrim came up with the bright idea of running chili recipes through his sophisticated computer and analyzing the results as the choicer ingredients were changed. They apparently added too much hot stuff because the computer later expired, its innards quite literally cooked, (actually, Pilgrim says it was a city power outage that caused the disaster.) The duo tosses out the challenge to other clubs and organizations to enter a team, too. It promises to be a fun day for participants and spectators.

Leaders welcome new teachers

The Clark county School District, in partnership with the business and community leaders of the greater Las Vegas area, is sponsoring a noon luncheon for new teachers at the Union Plaza Hotel on Aug. 23.

According to personnel director Tim Harney, the purpose of this luncheon is to welcome new teachers to the community and to show support and appreciation for the work they will be doing with the children of our community.

Governor Richard Bryan will be the guest speaker. The new teachers will be welcomed to the luncheon by superintendent of schools Bob Wentz.

Special entertainment will be provided by "Sing It Instead," a student singing group from Pat Diskin Elementary School, under the direction of teacher Beth Pergola.

USE ACTION-PACKED WANT ADS

Despite skeptics like American tycoon Russell Sage who thought that an underground transit system was preposterous, and would prove disastrous, the first New York subway began operation in 1904 without any incidents whatsoever. The line ran from City Hall in downtown Manhattan to Grand Central Terminal in midtown, then west to Times Square and north to 145th Street.
