Skimming charges close Silver Spur

by Scott Dickensheets
 Home News Staff Writer
 State gaming agents shut down the Silver Spur Saloon and Gambling Hall early Wednesday morning and seized corporate documents, amid allegations that casino operators evaded gaming taxes and fees. According to Nevada Gaming Control Board chairman Mike Rumbolz, licensee Rujo Inc. and its partners Sidney Rudich and Jeffrey Jolcover have been charged with systematically evading taxes by under-reporting revenues. Rumbolz and 15 gaming investigators descended on the casino shortly after 7 a.m. Wednesday, informing startled patrons and employees of the shutdown. Another 15 agents served search warrants throughout Clark County Wednesday in connection with the Rujo Inc. investigation. "We've stopped gaming and have counted down the cage," Rumbolz said. "We will also count down the slots and take possession of financial records and corporate documents." Charges on nine counts alleging unauthorized removal of money from gaming devices, phony jackpots and phony fill slips were being prepared while agents seized evidence. Rudich and Jolcover, along with shift bosses Ernest John Fontes, Rick Haughey, Robert Slafka and Wade Howar were

Just like Henderson city manager Gary Bloomquist predicted, accurate population figures can be a great advantage for the city. If Attorney General Brian McKay rules in favor of Henderson, the city will get a full-time seat on the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority board of directors.

Presently Henderson and Boulder City share a seat and North Las Vegas has a full-time seat. Mayor Lorna Kesterson believes the new population figures demand that North Las Vegas shares a seat with Boulder City instead of her city.

Better yet, maybe now is the time for North Las Vegas, Boulder City and Henderson to have their own seats on the board.

Lorna has made her demand and it is now up to the other board members and the attorney general to move. This should tell her where Henderson's friends and enemies are in Las Vegas and Carson City.

Cattle Baron near completion, seeks gaming license

by Scott Dickensheets
 Home News Staff Writer
 The main elevator in the unfinished Cattle Baron Casino is working. Nor is it the only thing going up around there. Work is progressing rapidly on the 41,000-square foot building, and casino executives say both interior and exterior construction will be completed by the end of February.

"You can put the Rainbow over there, and the Eldorado over there, and still have all that room left over there," Bob Policy said, stressing the size of the main gambling room. Policy is the on-site watchman and an excellent tour guide through the casino. Across the gaming chamber from the front doors is the elevator; on either side of it a pair of grand Scarlet O'Hara staircases sweep down from the second floor. Workers are everywhere putting the finishing touches on walls, stairs and fixtures. "We're looking at six months for a grand opening," said Roy Warren, general manager of the Cattle Baron. "All our applications are in, all our legal work is done." Cattle Baron Inc. filed for a state gaming license Dec. 18, listing Warren and three other men, including local businessman Ralph Brady, as corporate officers, and the Colorado-based firm Source Venture Capital as the parent company. A spokesman for the Nevada Gaming Control Board said Tuesday it would take between six and nine months for the application to worm its way through the required investigation and examination procedures, and come before the board. High on the list of Source Venture Capital officials is financier Meyer Blinder. Blinder has been the target of a federal probe in connection with an alleged Atlantic City casino stock fraud in 1985. Some people speculated that Blinder's deep involvement with the Cattle Baron (his firm,

Schools recall shuttle disaster

Several local schools are commemorating the second anniversary of the explosion of the space shuttle Challenger today. Gordon McCaw Elementary School is the only one having a school-wide assembly recognizing "Shoot for the Stars Day," an effort organized by the Clark County School District. Fifth grade teacher Paul Mata has arranged for his students to present a program tying in the space program with the classical mythology they are studying. There will also be 78 seconds of silence, honoring the duration of the Challenger flight, and Mata will launch several small rockets. Parents are invited to attend either of the two assemblies, at 9:05 a.m. and 9:50 a.m. Teachers at Robert L. Taylor Elementary and C.T. Sewell Elementary Schools are planning individual classroom programs, but no assemblies.

make certain it stays clean. Messing around with Boulder City's air or water can get a fella into a heap of trouble.

Just down the road a ways in Henderson the residents have had a different problem. The town was built to provide residences near the industrial plants. For years, the plants spewed out dust and gas and little was said by political or civic leaders.

That all changed several years ago and a struggle to improve the air was joined by the residents, government and the industrial complex. The results have been amazing and the air quality over this end of the valley has improved by leaps and bounds.

The Clark County Air Pollution Control Department's Mike Naylor deserves a pat on the back for the role he plays in this success story.

Now that every other writer has had his say about the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in favor of faculty supervision of high school newspapers, it's my turn.

Personally, this columnist believes that complete freedom of high school newspapers makes good sense—if the writers and editors can be held legally and financially responsible for what is written. Sorry but this isn't the case.

Who has to pay the piper when something goes wrong in the school paper? You guessed it, the teacher, principal and eventually the school board can be held accountable. This means that you and me, the taxpayers, eventually are held accountable.

Reminds me of the story about a chemistry teacher who left the classroom and a young lad blew up the lab. That school district is still paying for the accident which took place almost 40 years ago. The student was blinded by the explosion and the school district was held accountable for his actions.

What if a story appears which does great personal damage to a student. The student, very sensitive like most people in that age group, attempts suicide. Who will be blamed for the article? You guessed it—the teacher, principal and maybe even the school board members.

Seldom will the articles in a responsible school newspaper be questioned by a staff member. But certainly there can be times when a red flag must be raised by the people held responsible for questionable items.

This is an election year and every eligible Nevadan should register to vote in both the primary and general elections. Then please get to the polls in September and November.

In 1986 less than 10 percent of Arizona's qualified voters turned out for the GOP primary. Then in a three-way race the person winning the governorship received only 40 percent of the votes cast.

The result was Gov. Evan Mecham.

No matter how much a person disagrees with income taxes or how much he resents certain actions by the IRS, he must pay his income taxes. Disagreement and even court action is certainly the right of every American, but only a fool refuses to pay taxes owed according to the laws of this land.

Amend the U.S. Constitution, challenge the IRS in courts, write letters to the editor, and, if you so desire, put together an organization to fight unfair IRS practices. Nevada's Sen. Harry Reid, along with other senators, is trying to pass a Taxpayer's Bill of Rights to protect taxpayers.

These are all acceptable actions and certainly will cut into some of the bad habits a few IRS agents have developed over the years. But as long as the law demands we pay income taxes, we must pay them even while fighting the law.

Several times this writer has watched people with good intentions end up in prison because they were convinced not to pay taxes. As long as it is the law, then nobody should be foolish enough to believe they can ignore the income tax collector.

All the good intentions in the world aren't enough to win a legal battle with the IRS. It takes changes in the law and/or good legal advice by qualified tax accountants and attorneys.

Just thought I ought to mention this long before April 15, 1988.

Just read a book review of The Thirteenth Man and I'm going to buy it. It's written by Terrel Bell who served as Ronald Reagan's secretary of education during his first four years as president.

Gentle Terrel Bell, an educator highly respected nationwide, is back home in Utah. He is the man we credit for the release of A Nation at Risk which made our country aware of many education problems in 1983.

Bell came to believe that his dedication to improving education was being blocked by Ed Meese and other adversaries. His frustration comes out in his book according to the review in the Washington Post.

Sounds like a book written by a respected educator who learned that political games are not always fair games.

It's published by Free Press/Macmillan.

CLOSED—Patrons were turned away at the door of the Silver Spur Wednesday. Investigators closed the casino and restaurant amid skimming charges leveled at the business' owners and supervisors.

not permitted to enter the casino Wednesday.

Authorities allege the supervisors assisted in the skimming scheme.

"They're jacks of all trades," an employee said of the pit bosses' duties which included slot maintenance, dealing and collection.

Rumbolz said that in one instance, more than $2,400 was removed from machines in the space of a few hours.

According to a gaming control board press release, the board intends to seek fines against Rudich, Jolcover and key employees in excess of $1 million each.

Gaming control agents also served search warrants against Rujo principals Wednesday morning and suspended other Rujo operations, including a slot route and manufacturing business.

The closure was approved by the board Tuesday.

The shutdown is the result of a six-month investigation into the casino's operation, including the use of covert investigators, Rumbolz said.

Rujo Inc. and its operators have 20 days to respond to the charges, Rumbolz said, after which a hearing will be set, probably in another 20 days.

Under the terms of the emergency suspension order, however, Silver Spur operators can seek an expedited hearing. "It's all up to them," Rumbolz said.

In the meantime, the casino will be closed and Rudich, Jolcover and other key employees will receive no return on their investment in the Silver Spur.

Six dealers at the 46 Water St. casino had Clark County Sheriff's Office gaming cards seized also, according to an employee.

Without the cards, employees can not work at any other gaming licensed facility and are not eligible for unemployment insurance, workers say.

One employee expected the casino to be reopened by Feb. 3 under the emergency operation provisions.

Rudich was not available for comment Wednesday and when contacted by phone, Jolcover hung up.

City invites public input on highway project

Residents' input to the design of the Boulder Highway Beautification Project has been stressed as a high priority by the city of Henderson, which created a citizens' committee that is expected to start meeting early next month.

"They will be providing input to the consultant," explained Ann Barron, staff advisor to the new committee.

She added, "Part of what we'll do through the committee is develop a public information program." She predicts a minimum of two publicized meetings for the general public.

Barron, the city's economic development director, is also on the Nevada Department of Transportation committee responsible for the $8.1 million in combined federal, city and state funds for the project.

The NDOT committee has narrowed the field of potential consultants to two, sources said. A final decision is expected before the first meeting of the citizens' committee in early February.

Newly-appointed chairman Brad Nelson feels the Boulder Highway project "is a great opportunity to create an image for the highway itself and the whole city."

Nelson, vice president of American Nevada Corporation in Green Valley, was appointed by Henderson Mayor Lorna Kesterson in accordance with a resolution for the committee passed by the city council.

"The resolution listed the various committees that were supposed to select somebody from their membership," city clerk Dorothy Vondenbrink ex-

Pittman library to be dedicated Friday

by Katherine E. Scott
Home News Staff Writer

U.S. Congressman James Bilbray is expected to attend the lease signing for the Pittman Branch of the Henderson District Public Library tomorrow afternoon.

The public is invited to attend the ceremonies at 3 p.m. Friday. The library is located at 1640 Price St., on the west side of Wells Park.

The branch library will actually open around mid-February, according to library director Janet Clark. "The shelving and the books should be in by Feb. 20," she commented. Furniture is still on order, but the circulation desk should be installed by tomorrow, she said.

The building was donated to the city by the Pittman

Women's Club. That was formed 35 years ago by neighbors who wanted a gathering place for themselves and their children.

"Unfortunately," commented current president Dorothy Coroneos, "we do not have an active club right now."

The remaining members still meet about once a year, but no longer sponsor activities such as Head Start and Tots to Teens.

The community center they built in the early 1950s was becoming a financial burden. Upkeep, utility bills, etc., "were just a little bit too much for the size of the club."

The city was first given a 99-year lease, but that did not relieve the club from other legal obligations, according to city economic development director Ann Barron. The building was donated to the city last year.

"We have completely remodeled the building," Barron noted.

With some $74,000 in Community Development Block Grant Funds, the building was given new air conditioning systems, insulation, new lighting, drop ceilings, new walls, handicapped bathrooms and more, she described.

She added Bilbray was invited to the ceremony "to show the congressman how the city of Henderson is using the CDBG funds to benefit the community."

Other city officials are expected to attend, as well as members of the library's board of directors and the Pittman Women's Club. Coroneos has sat on the library board four years.

RETIREMENT—St. Rose de Lima Hospital nurse Edwina Hopkins, accompanied by her daughter Kathleen Cardwell and granddaughter Michelle Cardwell, shows off one of her retirement gifts. The serving and warming tray she holds is engraved with a message of thanks for her 29 years of service at St. Rose de Lima Hospital.

Nurse retires with honors after almost 30 years at St. Rose

Edwina Hopkins, a nurse who has worked in almost every area of St. Rose de Lima Hospital since August of 1957, celebrated her retirement from full-time service during a party last Friday at the hospital.

Since beginning as an obstetrics and nursery nurse under the guidance of Sister Marie Daniel Lundy, Hopkins worked in every area of patient care at St. Rose de Lima. In recognition of her long-standing service, director of patient services Bob Loritz presented Hopkins with an engraved serving and warming tray and an honorary 30-year service pin.

Though retiring from full-time employment, Hopkins will still be on call for nursing duty two days each week. Known as "Hoppy" to her fellow nurses, the long-time Henderson resident said, "I'm going to keep it up until I can't walk any more!"

During the retirement party, Hopkins summed up her experience at St. Rose de Lima by saying "It's all been very pleasant." Her favorite event at the hospital over the years was the birth of the first of three grandchildren, Michelle Kathleen Cardwell.

Since moving to Henderson in 1953, Hopkins raised four children, all born at St. Rose de Lima Hospital.

Hopkins was highly-praised during the retirement party. One nurse said she had taught many other nurses the finer points of patient care. Sister Mary Assenmacher, pastoral care minister, reported that Hopkins had often befriended patients who were lonely during their hospital stays. The Adrian Dominican Sisters of St. Rose de Lima encourage such acts of kindness at the non-profit hospital, saying the hospital's Catholic heritage should make a difference in how workers approach their duties.

According to all reports, Hopkins always lived up to those ideals, and will continue to until she retires from part-time, on-call nursing duty.

Bono named to college list

Joe A. Bono of Henderson has been named to the Master Key list for 1987-88 at California Baptist College, according to the Riverside, Calif. school's public information center.

A junior at California Baptist College, he is a business administration major. He is the son of Joe and Ethel Bono.

Bono has been selected on the basis of his leadership qualities, academic achievement and high level of participation in campus activities.

California Baptist College is a four-year liberal arts college that offers 16 majors on the bachelor's degree level and a master's degree in counseling.

The fully-accredited college is owned and operated by the Southern Baptist General Convention of California.

The holiday season is over. A new calendar year is ahead. I's always nice to clean the slate and start anew.

The January chapter meeting was held at the home of Christine Schulze. Plans were made for this month's social, a brunch to be held at a local restaurant. Also, all the Henderson chapters will gather for a brunch on Jan. 30 to welcome new rushees into our sisterhood. It is a chance to renew acquaintances and friendships with other members, too.

The program portion of the evening was given by Shirley Cove and Dot Swackhamer. Shirley spoke on "Women and friendship" and Dot presented thoughts on "What do you want in a friend."

Laureate Kappa Chapter will be giving their old Christmas cards, usually relegated to the wastebasket, to St. Jude's Children's Home in Boulder City. They have a project of designing new cards from old ones, especially those with a religious theme. What a wonderful way to recycle cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rothwell were host and hostess for Preceptor Iota's Christmas party. It was indeed a gala event with members breaking into teams of two for the evenings games. The winners were Theresia Avila and Jim Sanchez who added up the most points at the end of the games.

We welcomed guests Jan Mentzle and Toni Purtil's father at the Christmas party.

Members joined together to furnish a deserving family with Christmas dinner and played Santa's helpers by enjoying the warmth of Christmas "giving" with gifts for the entire family.

The New Year has brought sadness to the families of Madeline and Larry Wieder and Sharon and Fred Rothwell at the loss of their father L.A. Wieder. And also to Carol and Clyde Golden who's brother, Don Golden passed away. Our condolences to each of you.

Pam Olson opened up her home for the January meeting. Loy Sanchez presented the program, "Exercise for all life styles." Members attending were Bobbie Bayley, Barbara Dickensheets, Jacque Dillard, Millie English, Barbara Harris, Cyndie Leigh, Pam Olson, Renta Ogle, Esther Pierce, Loy Sanchez and Madeline Weider.

Members are preparing for the January Brunch which is enjoyed Karen and Larry Moore hosted our "honey-do" dinner and Christmas party. For Karen it was a "honey-do" day because Larry cleaned the house as well as cooking his share of our dinner. After being treated to a delicious feast prepared by our husbands, we opened our secret sister Christmas exchange gifts. The men had a gag gift exchange. It was an enjoyable way to start off the holiday season.

Our service project this year was to collect reading books for the Nevada childrens home. Terry Lange and Sue Cahill took the new and used books to the children just before Christmas.

Our Jan. 7 meeting was held at Carolyn Quinns house. Carol Moore and Mary Desnoyers brought a scrumptious Bavarian rum and chocolate cake. Terry Lange gave a program title 'Beta Sigma Phi and what it means to me.' The program lead to a discussion and memories of the members.

What to do about gasoline prices?

Free markets are not necessarily competitive markets as our capitalist ancestors soon discovered at the onset of the industrial age. Some businesses could control the market so well as to eliminate competition first, then escalate prices to consumers above a reasonable level of profit.

Such market control did not lead to capitalism's stated goal of competition but instead such efforts left economic control in the hands of a small class of monopolists.

In its early stages, economic success in America was not beating your competitor by offering a better and less-expensive product or service; success was achieved when you could afford to drive competition out of your market, then establish monopoly control and pricing for your product or service.

At the turn of the century and until recently, government has acted to make capitalism free and competitive through anti-trust legislation and federal and state trade laws.

However, with the return of the conservative movement to the halls of power, specifically the Reagan Administration, there has been very little effort to fight monopolistic movements and unfair trade practices by some of the largest corporations in our country and the world. In some instances, the present administration may have encouraged such economic activity.

In the name of non-interference with the private economy, government virtually has abdicated its role as the guarantor of fair competition.

"Given an inch, they apparently will take as many miles as needed to obtain market control, which eventually will mean higher prices for everyone."

Witness Southern Nevada's recent experience with gasoline. Gasoline retailers quote government officials responsible for fair trade practices. Officials once said if any gas retailer's percentage of the market exceeded 10 percent, that might be cause for investigation of unfair trade practices, primarily due to the diversity of the gasoline retailing business.

Locally, one oil company's share of the market approaches 40 percent, yet the federal government has yet to respond. Dealers doubt any investigation into unfair trade practices, such as selling below cost, will occur.

In other states, local fair trade laws and enforcement have been used to break up these new attempts at market control.

In Nevada, a partial divorcement law allowing only a certain number of oil-company owned gasoline stations has not stemmed what is clearly an attempt at market control.

How can an oil company sell gasoline at retail outlets 10 cents below the spot-market price charged to independent gasoline dealers?

How can an oil company produce gasoline for about 40 to 50 cents a gallon at the Los Angeles refinery, ship it about 400 miles through a pipeline at a cost of 13 cents a gallon, suffer the nation's highest gas tax of 30 cents a gallon, then sell the product to some of its Las Vegas customers for as little as 74 cents a gallon?

These are the pointed questions gasoline dealers and some elected officials are asking? So far, there's been no response, only resistance at every level to respond to the questions and a concerted public influence campaign that spreads donations and funds lobbyists.

For the most part, the fight escapes the attention and interest of consumers. As long as gas is cheap in Las Vegas, who cares.

The problem is that gas will not be cheap in Las Vegas or anywhere else if the major oil companies are allowed to eliminate independent retailers and their own dealers.

If the same companies that own the refineries own all the outlets that sell gasoline, where is the incentive to be competitive? No one sells retail gas unless they have a refinery, so the retailer cannot hope to take his competitor's supply through supply competition. Oil companies lose when they compete against each other, at the refinery and at the pump.

Only independents, refineries and dealers, ensure competition because they can buy where the cheapest and sell at a small mark-up.

But if oil companies can drive out independent retailers, the independent refinery cannot sell its product, and thus it dies too.

What's left? The oil company refinery and the oil company station. Where's the competition in that?

Though total divorcement (requiring oil companies sell gas to dealers only, not their own stations) in an intrusive governmental measure in the economy, it seems the only solution to prevent some oil companies' attempts locally and nationwide at market control and eventual price control.

Given an inch, they apparently will take as many miles as needed to obtain market control, which eventually will mean higher prices for everyone.

Legislators and gas retailers really can't expect customers to buy higher priced gas in order to block a potential monopoly by aggressive oil companies.

Public officials can only investigate allegations, enforce present law and legislate new rules to ensure fair competition.

In this case, action rests with our leaders and what they can do to further ensure a fair and competitive gasoline market. Such action will blunt the short-term attempt at control that can only mean higher than average gasoline prices over the long term. We encourage such measures and encourage others to call for changes to ensure competition now and for the future.

A wimp's refuge

by Richard Cohen

If, as Samuel Johnson wrote, patriotism is the last refuge of the scoundrel, then loyalty is the last refuge of the wimp. The proof of that is George Bush: He has the vice presidency confused with the confessional. Under no circumstances will he reveal the advice he gave President Reagan about the Iran-contra affair. Loyalty, it seems, has struck him mute.

Bush has told us the following: He knew arms were being sold to Iran. He thought the missiles were just an attempt to curry favor with the nonexistent moderates. He didn't know arms were being swapped for hostages. He had only "general knowledge" of the operation because he was "out of the loop" and sometimes out of Washington. With Bush, the buck never stops. He's close to the President when it comes to successes, but away on business when it comes to failures.

But documents tell a different tale: They say Bush attended many National Security Council and other White House meetings where the arms for hostages deal was discussed. Notes of those meetings reveal the context was clear: Missiles were being sold to Iran in hope that Americans being held hostage in Lebanon would be released. In all that time, one participant in those meetings told the Washington Post, Bush never voiced reservations. "He was not pro. He was not con." The source said Bush "echoed the President."

That's hardly loyalty. For a good working definition of loyalty (Washington style) we can look forward to the memoirs of Secretary of State George Shultz. Out of loyalty to both Reagan and his country, Shultz voiced the strongest objections to the Iran arms sale. So, too, did former Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger. Both Cabinet officers thought the President was making a mistake. They did not define loyalty as telling Reagan what he wanted to hear, but as doing all they could to detour him from the perilous path he had chosen.

What Bush told the President in private is something we still do not know. What he told the President in the presence of others is something we are beginning to find out. (Shultz according to White House documents, recalls Bush's support of the arms deal at one meeting as being "intense." Bush cannot recall the meeting.) The record suggests that Bush confused loyalty with obsequiousness, that he marshaled his experience in foreign affairs (former CIA director, U.N. ambassador) only to tell the President what he wanted to hear. As the most experienced member in foreign policy of the President's inner circle, Bush seemed to have had the influence of a potted plant.

Over and over during this presidential campaign, the issue of character has emerged. It first struck Gary Hart, who fled the campaign, regrouped and then came back as a guerrilla fighter. It next hit Sen. Joseph Biden (D-Del.), who tripped over his own fat tongue and had to withdraw from the race. It has taken a couple of nips out of Pat Robertson, who forgets positions he once took as a minister and who, when reminded, says he's now a politician anyway. In politics, this sort of convenient schizophrenia is the closest we're likely to come to an insanity defense.

But isn't there a question of character when it comes to Bush? Where was the steel he says he has when it came to the worst foreign-policy blunder of the Reagan administration? Can he persist in saying he knew little when documents and witnesses say otherwise? The issue here is truth, that and principle. At what point will Bush take a stand on a matter of principle? He has not done it on abortion. He has not done it on the need for a tax increase. He did not do it when, in 1985, he saluted the late William Loeb, publisher of New Hampshire's Union Leader who had vilified Bush in print. Bush licked the boot that kicked him, but to no avail. The paper was likened his candidacy to "the black plague itself."

No doubt, a vice president owes his President loyalty. But the attributes of a spaniel are not those of a President. And, anyway, Bush is not only the vice president, but a presidential candidate as well. As such, he has two audiences of equal importance, the voters who want to know what he thinks and a President who wants to know the same thing.

How would it be disloyal for Bush to tell the voters what he told Reagan? That's not the same as disclosing what Reagan told him. Bush says he's not the type to kiss and tell but the analogy is not apt. He already claims to be the President's main squeeze. The kiss is a matter of record. It's the tell we await.

Is new gun control legislation needed?

Sarah Brady is vice chair of Handgun Control, Inc., and is the wife of President Reagan's press secretary James Brady, who was wounded during the 1981 assassination attempt by John Hinckley.

Yes

Is new gun control legislation needed?

Yes; for handguns. I'm not lobbying for more "gun control legislation," i.e., laws on hunting weapons like rifles and shotguns. However, America does need stronger laws to keep handguns from falling into the wrong hands. Every year more than 20,000 Americans are killed by easily concealable handguns, and many more are wounded or assaulted, like my husband Jim.

Specifically, what are your views on a national waiting period and background check for handgun purchases?

I agree with every major law enforcement organization that such a law can help prevent handgun violence. John Hinckley walked into a Dallas pawnshop, filled out the federal form required by law, and within minutes walked out with the handgun he later used to shoot President Reagan, my husband and two law enforcement officers. Hinckley lied on the federal form by using a false address. Had police been given the opportunity to discover his lie, John Hinckley may well have been in jail instead of on his way to Washington.

The Hinckley case is just one example of how a waiting period could have prevented a handgun tragedy. Last year alone, California's waiting period caught 1515 convicted felons trying to buy handguns. Yet under federal law, it's the buyer's word. That just doesn't make sense. We need the mechanism to ensure that those persons prohibited by law from purchasing handguns are, indeed, screened out.

What is the outlook for gun control?

Momentum is building for two vital bills: the "Handgun Violence Prevention Act," calling for a national waiting period for handgun purchases, which now has unprecedented Congressional support, and legislation to outlaw plastic handguns. Many of our key lobbyists are law enforcement officers, both chiefs and rank and file. But the final outcome is up to the American voters. If senators and representatives hear only from the NRA, we will lose. I urge the majority of Americans who support stronger handgun laws to let their elected representatives know how they feel.

Wayne R. LaPierre, Jr., is executive director for the National Rifle Association's Institute for Legislative Action.

No

Is new gun control legislation needed?

The best way to reduce crime is to get criminals off the streets. "Gun control" doesn't do that. After nearly 20 years of regulatory statutes on the acquisition and use of firearms, crime remains a problem.

Restrictive gun laws only serve to disarm the law-abiding—and 82 percent of the criminals in a study confirmed that.

More laws would only take the guns from the estimated one million people who each year use firearms to deter crime.

Specifically, what are your views on a national waiting period and background check for handgun purchases?

Again, gun laws don't affect criminals. But they do invite arbitrary denials of gun rights based on faulty or incomplete police records, and have proved a costly waste of police time and budgets, which could otherwise be used to apprehend violent criminals.

Additionally, noted the U.S. Justice Department, Persons with a criminal record are the one most likely to obtain false identification documents to support a new name. The name check (conducted in a background investigation) will not reveal any information regarding the purchaser's criminal activity.

As a measure against so-called "crimes of passion," waiting periods have no effect. Said criminologist Dr. Marvin Wolfgang: "Few homicides due to shootings could be avoided merely if a firearm were not immediately present... the offender would select some other weapon to achieve the same destructive goal."

What is the outlook for gun control?

Congress consistently has reaffirmed its support for law-abiding citizens' right to keep and bear arms free from infringement by defeating "gun control" proposals and reforming measures to target criminals, not honest citizens. And in the states, voting in referendum after referendum to maintain our firearms freedoms has proved that the people don't want to control guns, they want to control criminals.

Public deserves to ride airlines that arrive on time

The Transportation Department's first airline report card has some serious problems as a consumer-protection device. Among other things, the reporting rules were interpreted differently by different airlines, so comparisons are difficult. There is not enough information on specific flights, either. But the report card certainly does confirm that the airlines have a serious problem with late flights.

During September, commercial jets arrived on time at a 77 percent rate. That means that nearly one-fourth of the time, flights were late; that is, they were late by more than 15 minutes, because the Transportation Department is counting flights that are 14 minutes late as on time.

And that doesn't count flights that are delayed because of mechanical problems, or that are canceled altogether. The government did not ask for these figures. If these data were added, the airlines well might be late one-third of the time.

The airlines might not think that is a horrendous statistic, and transportation officials might not think so. But it is. What would you say about an employee who arrived late for work every fourth day? You know what the employer would say: Shape up or you're fired.

Consumers can't fire the airlines. But they certainly can insist on better service.

Lateness is not the fault of the airlines alone, of course. The airways are so crowded that jetliners often have to take off late or circle in a waiting pattern on arrival at major airports. The existing fields are strained beyond a reasonable capacity, yet no one is building new airports because fields are highly expensive and because local residents do not want an airport built near them, no matter where they live.

As a result, the government itself is delaying individual flights at their point of departure until there is room for them at their point of destination.

Sometime, somehow, new airports are going to have to be built in major cities. And they are going to have to be built some distance from existing airports, so that two fields will not be using the same airspace.

If they are not built, airline travel will have to be restricted even more than now.

But none of this excuses the airlines. Flights are late far too often in the most important transportation system in the country. Just as bad is the airline industry's refusal to let consumers know what their chances are of being late, or of making realistic schedules instead of artificially optimistic ones. Some flights in the September report were late 80 percent of the time. Did consumers know that? Not until this report card, they didn't.

What the public wants from the airline industry is planes that take off and land on time. Where that is not possible, what the public wants is an honest warning from the airlines so consumers can schedule other flights or arrive at the airport when the plane is actually departing, instead of spending hours in waiting rooms or in hot, stuffy planes.

Is that too much to ask?

Good riddance

Arizona Governor Evan Mecham, under criminal indictment, faces possible impeachment and almost certain recall by the voters. He could spare our Arizona neighbors considerable messiness, anguish and embarrassment by resigning. Then long-time Secretary of State Rose Mofford would complete Mecham's unexpired term as governor. Mofford has never expressed an ambition to be anything more than the secretary of state, and probably would be only a caretaker governor, but that certainly beats having an insensitive buffoon as the chief executive.

Even for Mecham last week was some week. During his State of the State address there was a tiny glimmer of contrition that by Friday had become a full-fledged apology for whatever bothered anyone. In between, the governor made a remark about Japanese people that may not have had an ounce of malicious intent to it but, given the circumstances, was certainly dumb and ill-timed. "I hope that wasn't anything out of line," Mecham said afterward. The fact that he had to ask is indicative of his depth of judgment.

To close out the week, a special investigator told the Arizona House of Representatives that Mecham had used public funds for personal gain and concealed a campaign contribution of $350,000. Members will debate this week whether to ask the Arizona Senate to impeach the governor.

During his first year in office, Mecham managed to insult just about every other group, including blacks, Jews and gays. Mecham, a millionaire auto dealer, was elected on his sixth try for the governorship with 39 percent of the vote, largely because a third candidate conducting a write-in campaign pulled support away from favored Democrat Carolyn Warner, who had been a state education official.

Perhaps Californians should not be advising Arizonans on their internal political matters. But, as friendly neighbors, Californians could suggest that Mecham's record so far has not helped the Grand Canyon state's image as a lively, progressive and environmentally sensitive area. Rose Mofford may not be lusting for the governorship, but the idea of a peaceful change in the chief executive's office must look real good to a lot of Arizonans right now.

How to defeat the terrorists

by Si Frumkin
Special to the News

The family of the American hostage Terry Anderson received a Christmas gift from the terrorists: a video tape of Terry pleading for help. Just a few days after that we read that a woman hostage had given birth in captivity; she is a French Catholic who was kidnaped, along with five other non-Jews from a boat in the Mediterranean. The terrorists at first claimed that the captives were Israelis, but they didn't let them go when they turned out to be French and Belgian Christians.

By the time you read this, there will probably be additional news: some captives might have been released, killed, rescued, and new captives might have been taken.

There could also be other new developments. We, or another country, may have attempted to retaliate and punish by bombing a city or an armed camp. Terrorist bombs may have exploded in crowded stores or streets killing passers-by. On the other hand, if none of the above has taken place, we can be sure that some or all of it will happen in the future.

There is a reason for this certainty. We are engaged in a war. It is a new kind of war, fought by an elusive enemy against non-combatants. History has never seen a war like this one; although guerrillas and partisans of the past did not refrain from attacking the military, they did not prefer attacking innocent civilians.

Another certainty exists: we have been losing the war against terrorism and we will continue losing it if we keep fighting it with weapons of our past conflicts. Our bluster and our threats are not taken seriously because the enemy has good reason to believe that we are impotent against him. Bombing Tripoli or a PLO camp—with the hope that such an action may influence the thugs who lead the terrorists—is a desperate move by a power that does not know what else to do.

In an unconventional war, unconventional means must be used. The Soviet Union utilized an unconventional strategy when our Soviet citizens were kidnaped—and one later murdered—in Beirut. The KGB quietly grabbed a close relative of the leader of the terrorist group, killed him and delivered an intimate piece of his body to the leader. The hostages were released within a day, and the Soviets have not been bothered since.

I am not suggesting that we emulate the Russians. There is another, much more effective, way.

As in any war, the first step is to identify and define the target. Let us, then, compile a list—through cooperation with Israeli and Western anti-terrorist experts—of 20-25 terrorist leaders. Next, with maximum publicity, let us offer—and pay—a reward of $1 million to anyone who kills one of the criminals, as long as he or she provides us with proof of the deed. (This tactic certainly has precedents: the "Wanted: Dead or Alive" posters of our own history, and the standing reward to any communist pilot bringing a Mig to South Korea or Taiwan).

The million dollar reward is very cost effective. It is a bargain when compared to the cost of bombing raids or the conversion of our embassies to fortresses. At the same time, even with the cheap dollar, it's a heck of a lot of money for one individual.

What an inducement for members of terrorist gangs to do away with their leaders! In addition, mercenaries and would-be soldiers of fortune would begin scouring the world for their targets. I am certain that the results would be so successful that the original list could be updated within a few weeks or months.

Additionally, terror chieftains who are lucky enough to elude death would find themselves in the unusual position of having to hide, to tremble, to distrust those around them, to suspect betrayals; in short their activities would be drastically restricted and, for the first time, they would be reacting to us—they would be put on the defensive!

It isn't fair, you say? Not nice? Not legal? You might be right, but this is war! And the last time I looked, war hasn't been fair or nice or legal.

Will it work? I believe that it will, and if you agree, tell so to your Congressman or Senator and urge him to act. It's time to take the war to the enemy!

'Youth initiative' perhaps Bryan's most memorable proposal, accomplishment?

by Guy Shieler

A plan for state government to provide more effective help to Nevada's children seems certain to go down as one of Gov. Richard Bryan's most significant social service suggestions.

In announcing what he calls the "Governor's Youth Initiative" last week, Bryan said that its goal would be to "consolidate and streamline services for Nevada's children and families." Because of the booming population, "it is not logical to expand the current system. Taking all the children's service programs which are now scattered throughout the Department of Human Resources, and integrating them into a single agency with a centralized intake point not only will streamline the system, but services will be provided more effectively."

Currently four divisions of Human Resources provide most services to children. Sometimes their responsibilities overlap, and all work with inadequate resources because of the skyrocketing demand for services. The governor's most striking example:

"The increase in child abuse and neglect from 22 reports in 1967 to 7,282 reports in 1986 is indicative of the demand placed on all of our child-serving programs which were designed at a time when there were not only fewer children, but less severe problems. Today we are seeing children with a variety of special needs."

These "special needs children," as social workers identify them are those with a broad range of serious problems—racial, physical, mental, and often a history of child abuse or neglect. Dealing with such problems requires tremendous skill, patience and expertise—and usually means considerable frustration for the workers who must handle them.

Consider, for example, the Welfare Division, whose adoption program has to cope with all this on a daily basis. This program is responsible for all aspects of adoption in Nevada, including the placement of many "special needs" children. That is an especially difficult job, because most people who want to adopt a child seek one who falls within the traditional middle-class definition of "normal".

That's why it usually takes months, or even years, for people to get a child close to what they desire. As the division's adoption specialist, Rota Rosaschi, puts it:

"We don't have to recruit prospective parents for the newborn child—there are currently more than 1,000 families in Nevada standing in line for them.

"But while they wait, I have a whole drawerful of names of kids who are what we call 'waiting children.' Because of their special problems, we don't have families waiting for these children. The children do the waiting."

These children whose parents have given them up for adoption, or whose parental rights have been terminated because of serious difficulties, such as child abuse or neglect—or because of their race.

Minority adoptions, Rosaschi says, can be most difficult. "People who say they will take a child of another race usually mean a Hispanic, an Indian or an Oriental, not a black. And even those whites who are willing to adopt a black know that they will have to deal with the whole difficult issue of raising a black child in a white community."

But no matter how willing adoptive parents may be to take on the raising of a special needs child, of whatever race, the whole process is long, complicated and time-consuming for the division's workers. Explains Rosaschi:

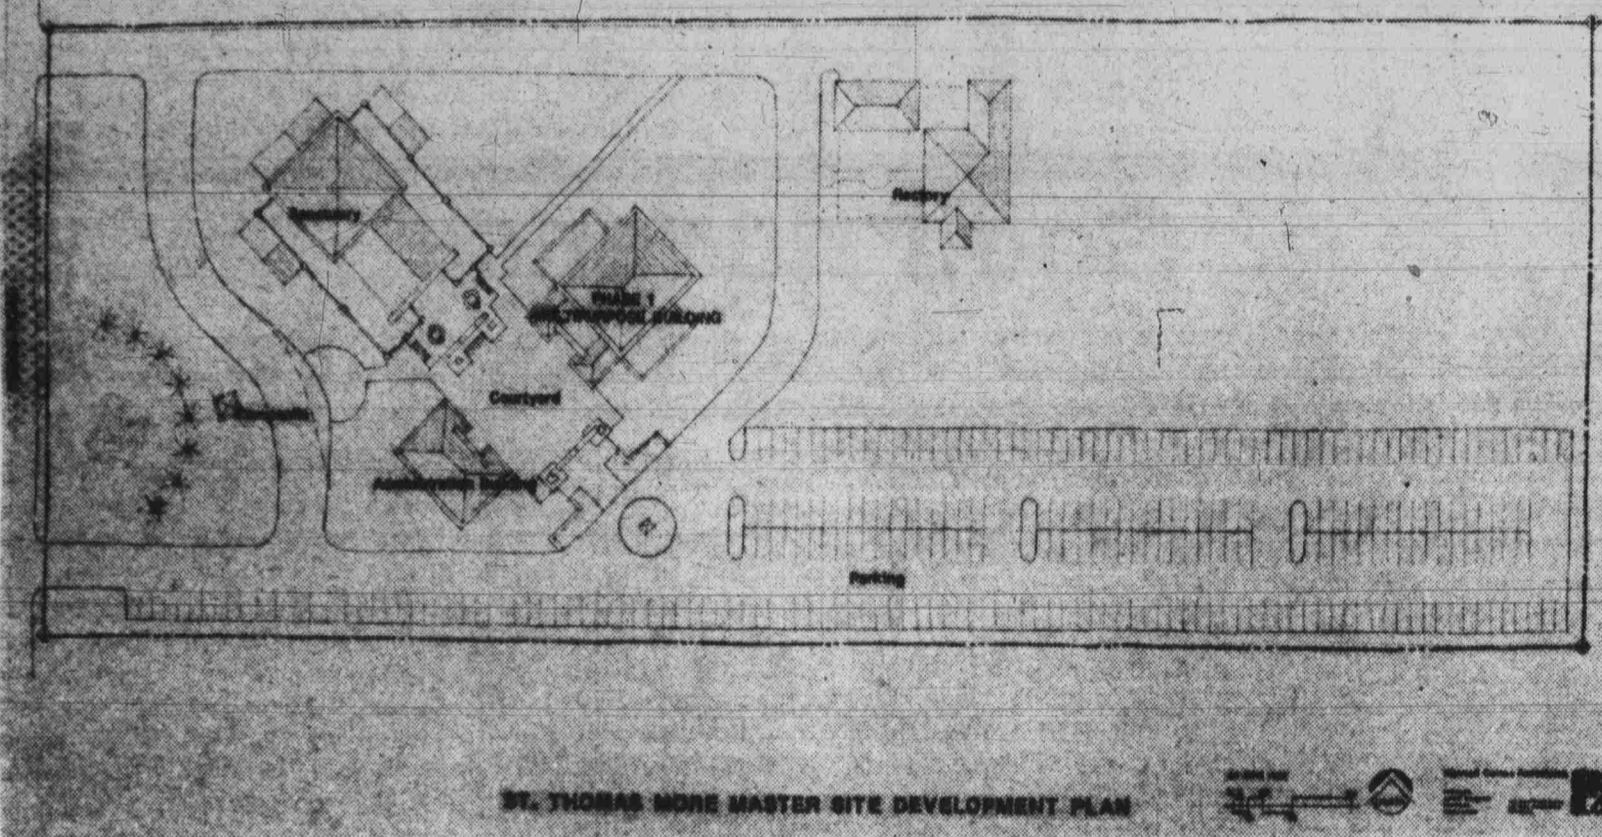

"The child is generally in a foster home. Its foster caseworker has to work with the child to prepare it for adoption. Meanwhile, another group of people is developing the actual adoptive family.

"This is not easy. The prospective family has to understand the difficulties it may be asking for, and so many people who say they want to adopt a special needs child have the misconception that we just have these cute little children who can't go home. We have to try to make them understand that the child can become a problem.

"Special needs children are the toughest of any to fit into a family, generally speaking. They have emotional behavior problems. They may look attractive, but they are quite likely to be those with a background of being sexually abused. The adoptive parents may just say, 'Well, I've got a lot of love to share and love will make everything better.' That's not always true."

Obviously, it takes special people to make the sacrifices necessary even to want to take special needs children into their homes and make them a permanent part of the family. That's why the group of "waiting children" is so large. Gov. Bryan's bold plan, if implemented by the 1989 Legislature, may at least help shorten that waiting period.

ST. THOMAS MORE MASTER SITE DEVELOPMENT PLAN

PLANS—The long range plans for St. Thomas More Catholic Community call for construction of a multi-purpose structure at first, with other church buildings to follow.

The cost for phase one of the project will be $560,000. Construction is set to begin in the spring and finish in the fall.

GV Catholics set to build new church

by Scott Dickensheets
Home News Staff Writer

Green Valley Catholics will soon have a new place to worship.

According to Father Thomas Long, Pastor of St. Thomas More Catholic Community, construction will begin this spring on the first phase of a new church facility on a ten-acre site near Wigwam Parkway and Pecos Road.

"This has been in the works from day one," said Long, with a smile, sitting in an office in the Green Valley Professional Center that serves as the temporary administrative headquarters of the parish. Worship services are held at the Palm Valley View Chapel, on Eastern Avenue. "This is one of the things we're really looking forward to."

Phase one will consist of a 6,250-square foot multi-purpose building, which will not only accommodate Sunday services, but will be open to public functions such as lectures and dinners, according to Long. The rest of the complex, which will eventually consist of a sanctuary, administrative building, rectory and central courtyard, will be built as needed.

The first phase of the project will cost about $560,000; construction will carry a $362,000 price tag, with the rest going for furnishing, landscaping, offsite improvements and architect fees.

Funding for the expansion is coming from three sources: the first is $150,000 in an ongoing bank account accumulated by the parish since its formation in October 1983. A second source of revenue will be a pledge drive that Long says will begin next month, and last for two years, with a minimum goal of $150,000. The rest, about $260,000, will be borrowed from the Diocese.

The ten acres was donated by Collins Bros. in 1984.

Ironically, Long, who has worked hard to bring this project to fruition, may not be around to see it completed. He estimates it will take about five years before church growth and financial security warrant the beginning of phase two. Five years is also the amount of time Long figures he has left before the Church transfers him to a new parish.

'Secret of Victory over Sin' pastor Rivers' topic

Joel Rivers, minister of Southside Christian Church, currently meeting in the Davis Paradise Valley Chapel, but soon to be at 1631 E. Sunset Road, will be speaking on the topic of the "Secret of Victory Over Sin" at this Sunday's Worship service at 9:30 a.m.

The congregation is studying its way through the book of Matthew during the evening worship hour and everyone is invited to bring their Bibles to study along.

Bob Kaiser will be leading the Lord's Table devotion and prayer with assistance from Ron Gordon, Glen McConnell, Bob Tynes and William Vogel.

Terry Chitwood, pianist for the senior citizens orchestra will be leading the congregational music effort at both the piano and organ.

For more information about this independent Christian Church congregation, a volunteer member of the North American Convention, please call 458-2731.

Blinder International, which owns Source Venture, loaned Cattle Baron $4 million to build the building) might derail their chances for a gaming license.

In answer to that question, Warren pulls from his desk a Jan. 18 copy of the Wall Street Journal, opens it to page four, and points out an article headlined "Appeals Court Overturns SEC Sanctions Against Blinder Robinson and Founder." The article relates that a federal judge found the Securities Exchange Commission acted too harshly in sanctioning Blinder in connection with the alleged stock fraud.

Warren says he doesn't know if Blinder's mudfight with the SEC will injure Cattle Baron's application, and Source Venture officials were unavailable for comment.

Warren did caution, however, that it may take longer than normal for the application to grind through the state, because none of the other corporate officers have ever been licensed.

Today

The calendar says it is Thursday, Jan. 28, 28th day of 1988 with 338 days left in the year. The use of calendars goes back to ancient times. "Calendar" comes from a Latin word that means "to call," and on calends, the first day of the month, the Romans were called together to hear dates for phases of the moon, festivals, and important events. In 300 B.C., the calendar was posted in public places instead of being read aloud to the populace.

Thought for today

Anon says, "A barefoot man should not walk among thorns!"

Of this and that

I love houseplants, but surely don't have the proverbial "green thumb." I either drown them or starve them it seems. Since these plants are quite expensive these days, I keep looking for something less expensive. Silk (they don't wilt or die when over-loved or neglected) are expensive, too.

I read recently that an indoor garden in houseplant pots are a free way for green in the home. Save an avocado pit and root in water before planting, plant pumpkin or melon seeds, root a sweet potatoe or squash or root the top of a pineapple in water before planting, they promise they make great plants and produce food as well.

DeSimone, Montana wedding

Congratulations to Ann C. DeSimone of Boulder City and Charles William Montana, Jr., of Henderson who will be married at Grace Community Church in Boulder City on Saturday, Jan. 30, 1988. Ann is the daughter of Ralph and Catherine DeSimone of Boulder City and Charles is the son of Anita and Bill Montana of Winterhove, Calif.

Social Security numbers

Parents should be reminded that their children must have a Social Security number beginning at age five. This number is necessary to enter school, open a bank account or a credit union account and is the best piece of identification to have. In Henderson, Social Security registration can be made at the Senior Citizen Center on Lead Street on Wednesdays from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Thursdays from 9:30 a.m. to noon. Be sure to take two forms of identification for each child—a birth certificate and one other. The birth certificate is a must.

Patchett son

Set to some special music are the words, "The nearest things to God are kids' Thank God for kids!" Just arrived from Heaven and Heavenly Father is Brandon Nelson Patchett, infant son of Mike and Jami Patchett, born Jan. 22, 1988 at the Boulder City Hospital and weighing in at nine pounds 10 ounces. Brandon can boast of two big brothers, Jason and Andrew and one big sister, Kristina who were happy to welcome a little brother home. Fraternal grandparents are Marvin and Della Patchett of Las Vegas and maternal grandparents are Ron and Margie Nelson of Henderson. A special welcome to Brandon.

Speaking of grandsons

What is it "they" say? "This is the first mistake I've made!; Wish to correct a mistake and also apologize. Wrote last week that new born David Thomas Burr was first grandson for Sam and Eleanor Davis, sons of Tim and Pam Davis were the first grandson for Sam and Eleanor Davis. Not So! Matthew Timothy and Brandon Nick Davis, sons of Tim and Pam Davis were the first grandsons for Sam and Eleanor. Sorry guys.

Surgery

Luella Lewis, wife of Claude Lewis, long-time Henderson resident, has been hospitalized for serious surgery at St. Rose de Lima Hospital since Jan. 18. Daughter Claudine and her daughter from Salt Lake City, Utah has been staying here to be with her father and mother when she gets home. Many heartfelt prayers and special get well wishes from family and many friends and neighbors go out to Luella.

Ground Hog Day

Many superstitions surround the second day in February. In the country of England, greenery from Christmas had to be taken down, or goblins would appear. In several other countries, a sunny day foretold bad weather for the next month. Germans believed if a hibernating animal came out to see the sunshine, another forty days of bad weather would follow. Ground Hog Day is a version of this and seems to have been brought to this country by the Pennsylvania Dutch. It is also known as Candlemas Day.

Old friends

Last week on a Tuesday must have been my day to see some friends and acquaintances not seen for sometime. Did some shopping and saw Betty Price, (Mrs. Jim) also doing some shopping at local K-Mart. Betty, looking good and energetic, crossed my path at a crossroad in that store. Then visited Sandi's Office Supply to see Donna Matske who is working at Sandi's. Also talked with Letha Wilson who has lived in Henderson since before 1954.

Raised her family in our town. Son Don spent most of December at home then returned to Washington D.C. and the office of Senator Harry Reid. Ruth Mangun and husband Ralph have been living here a long time, too. Met her at St Rose de Lima for special class. Nice to see her and feel her enthusiasm and positive attitude toward self-health, improvement.

Accident

Sporting a broken leg sustained this week, is young Alan Cavaleri, son of Jim and Loran Cavaleri. Got a little too enthusiastic on those exciting four-wheelers. Take it easy Alan and heal quickly.

Quick trip

Bob and Penny Taylor with son Richard took a quick trip to San Jose, Calif., to visit long time friends living in that California city.

DMV information

If you make an appointment with the local Dept. of Motor Vehicles (DMV) office for a driver's license, renewals, etc, there isn't such a long wait or hassel. The office is open on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. To make an appointment you must call on Monday, Thursday or Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 565-0235.

Robbins home

There is lots of excitement building in the home of Dave and LaJune Robbins these days. One of their older sons, Lonney Robbins will be arriving home this weekend after living in the eastern state of Maryland for the last two years. Quite new to Henderson, the Robbins moved from California to the River Mountain Estates area. We welcome Lonney home.

Surgery

Former Henderson man and Basic graduate, David Peterson, son of Pete and Elaine Peterson had some surgery recently in Las Vegas hospital. Family and many friends send out prayers and "Get Well Wishes" to him.

Downer

Looking at our picture gallery the other day brought to mind the recent holiday season. One of our cards contained a beautiful photo of Jim and Clara Downer and their wonderful family of eight children. Jim, son of the Clarence Downers of Henderson was raised in this community and worked here for many years. Great to be remembered by old friends.

Home

"Home is a genuine Saxon (old English) word; a word kindred to Saxon speech, but with an import common to the whole race of man. Perhaps there is no other word in language that clusters in it so many and so stirring meanings; that calls into play, and so powerfully excites, so many many feelings, so many faculties, of our beings." (Henry Giles, 1872)

Senior Center highlights listed

by Emma Swinney
Senior Center Publicist

The weather is much more pleasant now, but I'm suffering from an awful head cold, that I caught from my littlest one. She was so uncomfortable I just had to hold her while baby-sitting. So I have joined the club here. I think most of the regulars have had it and I am just catching up with them. It hurts some of us worse than others. We sure missed a lot of you due to illness and injury.

But it is nice to see Billie Mullin, Emma Jessop, Art Timm, and Margaret Quinn back after being so ill. All the others who are still out, please hurry and get well.

Our art instructor Dan Gianos is here every Monday to help you begin or return to oil painting. His class meets at 1 p.m. and he also has a portrait class on Fridays. A minimum donation is suggested.

Every Tuesday, we are seeing more people at the plastic needlecraft class at 9 a.m. They are making many lovely articles. It is so easy even I can do it! Just bring a large-eyed tapestry needle and some yarn. Even if you can't make it by 9 a.m., they will be glad to help you get started.

Of course, some of them leave at 10:30 a.m. for walking in the gymnasium, for a few minutes before 10:45 a.m. when the physical fitness group meet for exercise. Join them on both Tuesday and Thursday. Your body will appreciate it.

After lunch on Tuesdays and Fridays, you can see a good movie right here in the center. If you have a favorite, and can give us the title or even the type of show you like, please tell us. We show them at 12:30 p.m.

If you prefer to play the grand old card game of pinochle, you can join the group here at the center Tuesday afternoons at 12:30 p.m.

The open bridge games are building and not only play Wednesdays at 12:30 p.m. but also on Friday afternoons as well. So if bridge is your game come in either day, or both!

Thursday is for bingo. Starting at 12:30 p.m. every week, you can enjoy ten quick games. The winners last week were Trudy Little, Lois Dailey, Margaret Chmiel, Lois Bailey, Margaret Quinn and Ward Schembeck, the Doris Van-Beek won the four corners, and the others who won were Louis Fish, Bernice Stott, Millie Stenklyft, Emma Jessop, while Maria Varella and John Greene split the cover-all.

We wind up the week with a door-prize drawing every Friday. If you sing a name slip every day when you have lunch, you can have five chances to win. Last Friday Agatha Nelson was the lucky lady.

There is a nutritious meal served every week-day at the Senior Center. If you or your spouse are over 60 years old, come between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. and have a delicious lunch. The suggested donation is only one dollar. Where can you beat that?

There are many other services at the center, 201 Lead Street, Civic Center, room 7. The Social Security representative is here on Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. and on Thursdays from 9:30 until noon.

The Senior Law Project sends Millie Hart to us twice a month. She will help with your wills or legal problems. You must have an appointment, so call 565-6990 and set one up, if you can use this service. A donation is suggested, so ask about that also.

The energy assistance program is ending Feb. 29, so if you haven't been in to apply, just bring a bill for your utilities and proof of total family income. Some of the trained volunteers will help fill out the application, if you are low-income.

Beside all these special services, Helen VanDerSys has just finished two weeks training for the new Income Tax Assistance Program. She will begin helping you with those forms, Feb. 1, next Monday. Call the Senior Center at 565-6990 or her office number, 565-0669 for an appointment.

Also, Ann Dromirecki has files for Senior Employment, so if you have a position that an agile senior could handle, or are on who needs part-time work call her. There's a possibility she could put you together.

Menu for Feb. 1 through Feb. 5 will be as follows:

Monday: Liver and onions, cabbage slaw, breaded tomatoes, potatoes au gratin and apple sauce.

Tuesday: Stuffed cabbage rolls, creamed corn, Jello with pineapple and cottage cheese, celery sticks and fruit.

Thursday: Baked ham, sweet potatoes, lettuce and tomato salad, apple juice, muffins and peaches.

Friday: Meat balls, peas and onions, cabbage salad, oven-fried, potatoes, cranberry juice and applesauce cake.

Coffee, tea and low-fat milk available daily.

News: We have the new bus! Have you see it, yet? It will be more recognizable when the lettering is done. Thanks to all who had a part in the funding, our people are more comfortable, and safer.

Thought for the Week: Count your age by friends, not by years. Count your life by smiles not by tears. Anon.

Your all-round insurance program is as easy as 1,

It's always difficult dealing with many insurance companies, many different Agents and paying many different premiums throughout the year.

I represent the Farmers Insurance Group and can simplify all this for you by taking care of your insurance needs ranging from auto to life, from fire to truck, from business to boat.

I can even arrange easy, monthly payments for all the insurance you have with me. And, I might just be able to cut your insurance costs.

Call me today to find out about Farmers fast, fair, friendly service.

Senior Center offers tax assistance

Beginning Monday, Feb. 1, income tax assistance will be available at the Henderson Senior Center RSVP office, room 7, 201 Lead Street, Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. as well as Thursday evenings from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Assistance under both VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) for the younger persons and TCE (Tax Counseling for the Elderly) for those over 60 years of age will be offered.

Although appointments are not necessary and walk-ins will be assisted as rapidly as possible, they are preferred in order to schedule the assistance so clients do not have a lengthy wait.

To expedite the filing, the following items should be brought on the first visit: 1986 Income Tax return, all copies of all W-2's and or W-2P's showing income or pensions, all 1099 forms showing interest or dividends, list of all medical expenses and insurance paid, list of all donations of cash or other property and any other information which could affect your tax return, such as sale of residence, sale of stock or any unusual expenditures.

James Bumiller and JoLynn Lauten

Lauten, Bumiller engagement

The parents of JoLynn Lauten and James Bumiller announce their engagement. JoLynn, daughter of Barbara and Julian Rosales and the late Frank Lauten is a 1978 graduate of Basic High School and UNLV.

Bumiller is the son of Carol and Paul Bumiller of Semionole, Fla. He is a graduate of the University of Florida.

Both received their juris doctorates from Western State University College of Law in San Diego and are both practicing attorneys in Santa Ana, Calif.

The couple will marry Feb. 4 at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Henderson.

Dirk joins JR Realty

Century 21 JR Realty recently announced that Bob Dirk has joined them in their office at 204 W. Pacific Avenue.

Dirk currently resides with his wife Carla and their five children in the Henderson area. Dirk and his family are members of the LDS Church, Green Valley Stake.

Prior to becoming active in real estate Dirk was in industry working as a design engineer, primarily at the Livermore, Calif., and Los Alamos, New Mexico scientific laboratories.

Following the industrial career, Dirk spent fourteen years as a owner and manager of an income tax facility associated with a nationally franchised firm.

Dirk has six years prior experience with an independent real estate sales firm.

He is a graduate of the Realtors Institute and recently completed Century 21 sponsored training courses.

'Who is our authority,' Jennings topic

Henderson Presbyterian Church offers two Sunday morning worship services, at 8:30 and 11 a.m.

Sunday church school for all ages is at 9:45 a.m.

Pastor Dr. R. Dixon Jennings will preach a sermon at both services entitled "Who Is Our Authority?" based on Mark 1:21-28

Following the pastor's talk with the children at the 11 a.m. service, those who are in kindergarten through second grade may go to another part of the building for Cherbu Church, activities under adult supervision.

Youth group for junior high and senior high youth meets Sunday at 6 p.m.

The church's board of deacons meets Monday at 7:30 p.m. and choir rehearsal is Thursday at 7 p.m.

The church is located at 601 N. Major Ave., just beyond Morrell City Park.

For further information call the church office at 565-9684.

Former Henderson resident files for Jean electoral office

Longtime Nevadan and former Henderson resident Janet Curtis Smith Monday filed as incumbent for the office of Justice of the Peace, of the Goodsprings-Jean township.

A Nevada resident for more than 50 years currently residing in Sandy Valley, Smith was unanimously appointed Justice of the Peace by the Clark County Commission July 7, 1987.

She filled the position vacated by Stuart A. McCarthy, who retired after 12 years.

The former Administrative Assistant to Governor Mike O'Callaghan, Smith also served as records and research clerk in the District Attorney's office during the administration of Ted Marshall. In addition, she was court clerk to Federal Judge Roger Foley.

Smith served as legal secretary to District Court Judge Thomas

O'Donnell for four years before being appointed O'Callaghan's special assistant for Southern Nevada in 1971.

A mother of six children, with 11 grandchildren, Smith is married to Prince L. Smith. The Smiths are fifth generation Nevadans.

The Justice of the Peace position includes jurisdiction in Sloan, Goodsprings, Jean as well as the territory south and west to the stateline.

Pantuso couple joins Century 21 Henderson Realty

Becky and John Pantuso have joined the Century 21 Henderson Realty staff, according to franchise president Duane Laubach.

Formerly of A & A Realty, the Pantusos joined the firm in November.

"She is a long-time professional in real estate sales and she will be a definite asset to the organization," Laubach said.

She was designated a Century

21 Million-Dollar Club member in 1986 and 1987 and in 1986 was listed among the top salesmen in the Century 21 Southwest Region.

Her husband John is the second generation of a pioneer Henderson family and a graduate of Basic

High School.

After high school graduation, he became an iron worker and recently retired from that trade.

The couple now works and sells together out of the 18 Water St. Henderson Realty office.

Mondt's message 'Thorns or flowers'

All in the community are invited to worship this coming Sunday at First Henderson United Methodist Church. There are two morning worship services offered, the early service begins at 8:15 a.m. followed by Sunday school for all ages at 8:15 a.m. At 10:30 a.m. a second worship service is offered.

This Sunday John Mondt will be the pulpit guest. Mondt will bring the message at both morning services and it is entitled, "Thorns or flowers." It is based on the scripture passage of Mark 4:1-9 14-20.

During both the 8:15 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. service there is a time for the children of the church to come forward and learn from a children's message. This week lay leader Ellie Knapp will lead worship and bring the children's message.

The adult choir under the direction of Dorothy Vondenbrink will offer the musical anthem, "Thy Word Declares Thy Glory, Lord" by Robert J. Hughes.

First Henderson United Methodist Church also offers a Sunday evening worship opportunity with an evening vesper service at 7 p.m. Vondenbrink will bring the message this Sunday evening.

Pastor Louie Lyon is away this weekend along with other United Methodist ministers in Las Vegas and the northern Arizona area at their annual ministers retreat.

Members and friends of the church are reminded of programs scheduled this week.

The adult Bible study meets at the home of Stewart Earl this Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m.

The adult choir practices at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday at the church and youth confirmation class continues at 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday. The diet group meets on Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. in the church conference room.

The First Henderson United Methodist Church is located at 609 East Horizon Drive in the Highland Hills section of Henderson.

For further information on the church programs call the church office at 565-6049.

Swain's topic 'Still striving to be one'

"Still striving to be one" will be the topic of Dr. Ed Swain's sermon at the Community Church of Henderson, a liberal protestant church located in downtown Henderson.

Community Church is affiliated with the Southern California Conference of the United Church of Christ and welcomes all.

The address is 27 East Texas Avenue, just one block east of Water Street at Army Street, services start at 10:30 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Sunday school classes are held in the chapel and the educational building and start at 9 a.m. Classes are available for preschool through seventh grade.

There is a junior sermon during the regular worship service for the younger children and a supervised nursery for the smaller ones during the church service. The Chancel Choir always has a special anthem as part of the worship and favorite hymns are included for the congregation.

Community Church has two women's groups.

The Women's Association meets on the second Tuesday of each month at noon for a potluck luncheon and business and devotional meeting. All ladies of the community are welcome to join with them.

The Joy Fellowship meets the fourth Thursday of each month in member's homes at 7 p.m.

Short-handed Lady Wolves have enough

by Paul Szydelko
Home News Sports Editor
With three players out with various injuries and illnesses, the Basic High School Lady Wolves made the most of seven players to defeat Bonanza, 39-26, Tuesday night at Basic. Kristie Bennett, who had ar-throscopic knee surgery earlier in the day, Lisa Brezette (sick) and Donna Vargas (leg injury) all sat out the game.

The Lady Wolves, who improved their record to 2-5 in league, 5-11 overall, should have Vargas and Brezette back when they travel to Clark 8 p.m. Friday. Bennett will be out for the rest of the regular season.

Basic was in command of Bonanza throughout most of the night but still lived dangerously: three players each picked up four fouls.

The Lady Bengals scored the first basket, but Basic regained the lead for good when Juanita Richardson hit from the outside to make it 5-4.

Leading 9-6 after the first quarter, Basic converted three successive fastbreaks to open the second. Guard Kris Benham was particularly effective running the floor.

The Lady Wolves, who led 22-14 after the first half, expanded the advantage to 31-19 after the third.

Richardson and Benham both committed their fourth fouls early in the fourth quarter, but the Lady Bengals did not own the ammunition to challenge Basic's lead.

Richardson had nine points; Shonna Wicklund, Debra Virden and Benham each had eight. Christi Adams was the Lady Bengal's leading scorer with 11.

Bonanza out-executes Basic, 71-59

by Paul Szydelko
Home News Sports Editor
Call it a matter of execution or a question of confidence. The Bengals had it and the Wolves did not Tuesday afternoon at Clark.

Down by two early in the second quarter, Bonanza High School surged ahead, 22-15, with nine unanswered points and went on to defeat Basic, 71-59.

It was the fourth straight loss for the Wolves, who must now seek to regroup and find the momentum they had in the week before finals.

"We've got to pull out of it," said Basic coach John Williams of the abrupt skid. Williams was quick though to credit Bonanza's execution and rebounding as keys to the win.

The Bengals outboarded the Wolves 16-12 in the first half and improved on that margin in the second half, finishing with 35 rebounds to Basic's 24.

Andre Grant's easy bucket underneath off a John Woodriddle feed put the Wolves up, 15-13, when the Bengals began their streak. Doug Simister's two, Doug Vanderweele's three-pointer and Larry Wisniewski's three-point play highlighted.

Bonanza, now 5-2 in league play, outscored the Wolves 20-8 in the second quarter and led 33-21 at the half.

The second half proved to be more of the same, although both teams picked up the pace late in the third quarter.

After Brook England's three-pointer made it 43-34, Vanderweele hit consecutive three-point shots to hold back the Wolves.

Basic, sometimes careless and increasingly frustrated by the Bengal defense, never sustained a major threat.

The Wolves never pressed the halfcourt-oriented Bengals until there was less than two minutes to play and the outcome long decided. Williams said he did not try the press because Woodriddle was under the weather and Mike Petersen has a minor foot injury.

"We hustled, we executed what we can do," said Bonanza coach Howard Leavitt. "When you control the boards, you control the game."

Vanderweele finished with five three-pointers and 17 points; Doug Simister had 10, with Lenny Wisniewski and Rob Bartolo each adding nine.

Petersen scored 20 for the Wolves, Robby Horn had 12, Woodriddle and England nine each.

It was the lack of execution that frustrated Williams. "We just did not execute. When we pushed the ball upcourt, we scored. When we didn't we had trouble getting the ball inside."

But the problem may be more than execution and Williams was concerned about attitude. "As a coach you have to touch a spot. . . We've got to get them in touch with themselves," Williams said.

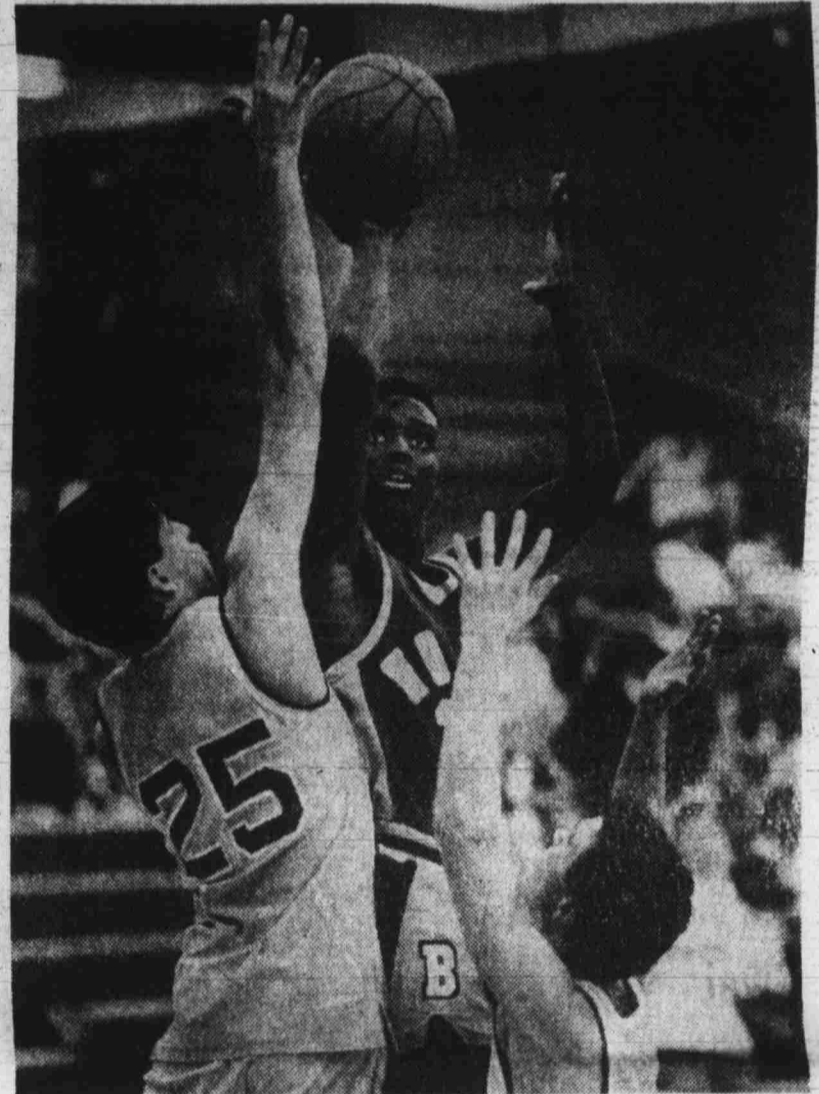

Asked if the team was still thinking of the one-point loss to Las Vegas Jan. 15, Williams shrugged no. But he admitted the Wolves have failed to match that intensity in three straight games.

Williams said he tried the "explosive" approach at halftime of the Valley game and the "intellectual" approach at halftime of the Bonanza game.

"We're the same team. We can do the same things," Williams said.

Basic, now 1-6 and 6-12, returns to its home court for Friday's 8 p.m. game against the Clark Chargers.

Boys Club hoops highlighted

In the Pepcon-sponsored Senior League action at the Henderson Boys Club, the Bulls defeated the Knicks for their first win, 58-18. Richie Montano led all scorers with 18 points for the Bulls and King Chan had seven for the winless Knicks.

In a Rotary-Junior League game which kept both coach Tony Allotta and coach Paul Espinosa from sitting down, it was the Bulls over the Hawks, 22-20. Tuffy Salazar had seven points for the winning Bulls and Troy Garden eight for the Hawks.

Leo Hernandez's Supersonics outrebounded Billy Bly's Rebels and won 26-20. It was JoJo Hogan with 11 points for the Sonics and Bert Bednar with six for the Rebels. Carrie Rednor had a game high of 11 rebounds, which added to the Sonics win.

Action in the Boys Club Auxiliary Bid League was between the Lakers and the Bears. Matt Lopez paved the way for the undefeated Lakers with 14 points as they beat the Bears 18-8. Jamie Lockner had four points for the Bears.

The Hawks were too much for Mark Weiss's Eagles, 26-6. The Hawks caught on fire in the second half to pull away. Waylon Shaw had six points for the undefeated Hawks, and John Floyd, Brian McMahon and Jason Ludlow each scored two for the 0-2 Eagles.

It was the Bulls ahead at halftime but the Cavaliers won the second half and their first game, 18-17. Reggie Williby led the Cavs with ten points and Leo Asel six for the Bulls.

Purging the sporting notebook

Miscellaneous thoughts, lists and other things from the sublime to the ridiculous have again built up in my head and notebook in this Super Bowl week. Before the big game, I find I must purge them.

Since the Bronco-Redskin match-up is on the mind of every right-thinking American, I'll lead off with that.

Obligatory prediction: Given my record lately, don't rush to the nearest sports book, don't even wager a Big Gulp with a friend, but I like the Broncos to break the NFC's hold on the Super Bowl in the last few years.

The difference, of course, is rising mega-star

John Elway. For two years now, Elway has won his duel with Cleveland Brown quarterback Bernie Kosar. Their budding rivalry is beginning to be reminiscent of horse racing's Affirmed-Alydar contests in 1978.

In each jewel of the Triple Crown, Affirmed barely held off Alydar in memorable races. It may be little consolation to two-time loser Kosar, but Alydar is by far the better stud.

Dud Super Bowl games: Like many fans, all I really want is a competitive game—a game that comes down to the fourth quarter with spectacular plays deciding it, not spectacular goofs.

Maybe it's the two weeks of inactivity, maybe it's the media hype, maybe it's the letdown after winning the pressure-packed conference championship, but Super Bowls have rarely been super.

Only one has been decided by three points

(Super Bowl V) and 16 of the 22 have been decided by 16 points or more. In none has the final spread been one or two points.

What exactly was Jimmy "the Greek" Snyder bred for? CBS was correct to fire the bozo, whom I have never liked. His statement that coaching was all that was left for the white man in sports was enough, but his dissertation on Civil War breeding patterns to explain the black man's success in athletics was crude and insensitive.

Like the Dodgers' Al Campanis before him, Snyder is only a symptom of a much larger mindset that Dr. Martin Luther King sought to eradicate. Snyder may have been drinking, he may have been exercising his right of free speech but you would think a high-profile member of the media would be more responsible.

Trivial Pursuit: The CBS Syracuse-Georgetown telecast last weekend was marred by a glitch the networks continue to overlook. Since the clock inset overlapped the lower-right corner of the screen, viewers could not see the seconds wind down as the winning basket was hit at the buzzer. With all the millions of dollars invested in graphics, can't they get it to fit right?

I got real tired, real fast of Dick Vitale's shouting in the ABC UNLV-Temple broadcast. That announcing team of Keith Jackson and Vitale overwhelmed what would have been a fine game and great telecast.

Just wondering: Does the Pac-10 play basketball anymore, outside of Arizona. . . Why does UCLA coach Walt Hazzard still have his job. . . Why does Phoenix need an indoor stadium. . . After Spinks, who's left for Mike Tyson. . . Who else is going to be thankful for the Winter Olympics come February. . . Have a Super weekend.

From Curtis' Corner

by Joey Curtis

It's looking like April will be a busy month in the world of boxing what with one and possibly two world championship fights in line.

The one that's set is for Feb. 15 in Italy where Gianfranco Rossi will defend his WBC super welterweight championship against ex-world welterweight champion Donald Curry.

The other title tiff is possibly for the WBC welterweight championship with a rematch between current champion Jorge Vaca and Lloyd Honeyghan. Vaca upset Honeyghan in his hometown of London.

Speaking of England, two other British fighters may be in line for world championship fights early this year too. They're Sam Reeson who may take on WBC cruiserweight champion Carlos DeLeon and Duke McKenzie who may get together with WBC flyweight champion Sol Chitalada.

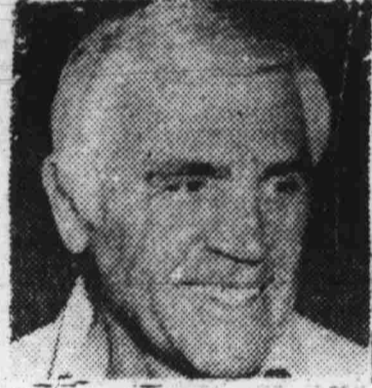

And while we're still "over" in Europe there's talk that Graziano Rocchigiani of Germany (that's right Germany, not Italy) may be in line for a shot at IBF super middleweight champion Chong Pal Park. If he did get the shot he would have to move down to 168 from the light heavyweight division he's now fighting in.

Nevada boxers meet California

Sixteen of Nevada's finest amateur boxers will compete in all weight divisions against a rugged California team Saturday, Jan. 30, at 2 p.m. in the Showboat Sports Pavillion.

Tickets are on sale now for $8 for adults and $5 for youths under 13.

Lt. Hal Miller, tournament director, expects a large turn out and suggests that boxing fans buy their tickets early.

"Some of the greatest boxing fans in the world live in Las Vegas, and it's important to remember that these young fighters are the future of the sport.

I encourage all boxing enthusiasts to come out and see these talented young men." Miller said.

Moving east there's two world championship fights set for this week. On Jan. 31 in Japan, Hiroki Ioka defends his WBC strawweight (that's lighter than flyweight for those fans of lighter weights) championship against Lee Kyung-Yung and Sot Chitalada defends his WBC flyweight championship against Hideaki Kamishiro. Naturally Chitalada has to be successful against Kamishiro here if his title fight down the line against Duke McKenzie is to take place at all.

I hear where Las Vegas Tony Trudnich is planning to promote pro fights again at Lake Tahoe. His first card is planned for March 19.

Tony used to promote monthly fights here before the Showboat and ESPN began doing it for the first time in 1980. Tony started with cards at the Sahara in the middle 70s then moved to the Aladdin, and finally the Showboat, where his shows were the first in the line that's included Don Cargin, Bob Arum and now Mel "Red" Greb promoting.

Finally, the WBC will be giving a "special honor" to Thomas Hearns at their annual banquet for him winning the WBC middleweight championship, his fourth world championship making him the first fighter to ever do this.

This is a big honor because Hearns had to edge out some pretty tough competition for the year 1987 in the form of Mike Tyson, who became the first undisputed world heavyweight champion since Leon Spinks in 1978, and Sugar Ray Leonard, who upset then world middleweight champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler.

HPRD youth baseball and softball, Little League sign-ups underway

The Henderson Parks and Recreation Department is now taking registration for the 1988 youth baseball and softball program.

For those youngsters that will be seven and eight years old before Aug. 1, mini-baseball is offered.

In this league, a coach pitches a soft baseball to his team and rules are modified to insure a positive learning experience for all participants.

Pee-wee baseball includes everyone ages nine and ten by August 1. Midget baseball includes all 11 and 12-year-olds, based on ages as of Aug. 1.

There will be two divisions in the junior baseball league. Everyone ages 13 and 14 will play in the American League, while those 15 through 17 will be in the National League.

This year the Henderson Little League was formed. This is a pilot program and is being cooperatively coordinated with the existing Henderson Parks and Recreation Department's Youth Baseball Program.

Only sixty youth, ages 10 through 12-years-old will have the opportunity to participate this year.

Registration will be taken as though the participant is registering for a HPRD baseball program. It is mandatory at the time of registration to indicate that the participant is trying out for the little league program.

An information packet will then be given at that time containing specific details about the Henderson little league program. The participant, identified as a potential little league participant will attend the HPRD baseball tryout of his age group.

Due to the little league program being limited for the first year, those not assigned to a Henderson little league team will be automatically assigned to a HPRD baseball team. Those who are assigned to a little league team will be required to pay an additional fee of $20.

For those who prefer softball, there will be three separate divisions; minor league, ages 9 through 11, major league-ages 12 through 14 and senior league, ages 15 through 17. All ages are based upon ages as of Aug. 1.

Early registration is being taken at the Civic Center, 201 Lead Street, through Feb. 26. After this date, an additional late fee of $7.50 will be charged, so be sure to register early! Call 565-2121 for further details.

HPRD seeks coaches

The Henderson Parks and Recreation Department is once again seeking coaches for all youth baseball and softball leagues.

If anyone has baseball or softball experience, or enjoys working with young people, their services are being sought.

Call recreation coordinator Bill Kesgen at 565-2124 for additional information.

Attention City Tournament Ladies: There will be a special meeting of the Henderson Women's Bowling Association at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 2 in the Henderson Bowl league room. Board meeting will immediately precede at 6:30. Some changes in the tournament plans are necessary and your vote is essential so please be there.

Debby and Fred Stanford win 500 Club event: The mixed doubles tournament of the 500 Club of HWBA was held Saturday with some anxious members eager to bowl above average as this was the first tournament in which total pins over current book average will determine the bowler of the year. Debby and Fred Stanford beat out all contenders with Fred's 547 and their combined total of 1234. Placing second were Christa (545) and Al Haldie with a 1202. Barbara Grogan teamed with Stroud Smith (509) to take third place with 1188.

Mike Wages led the men in series with a 210-570, Dee Wages high game 216-533. Ruth Soehlke led the ladies with a 554 series and Jane Wisniewski high game with 204. Just out of the money were Billie and Ben Stepman with 1187.

Watch for the next event in February. It will be a Red Heart Singles and entrants may wear red or any color of their choice. Entry forms will be out in plenty of time for the tournament on Feb. 13.

Sunday Night Mixed: Gold Casters Jewelry in the lead with 92 wins. Fred Wolf led the men with a 210-548, Dick Ratti 522, Ivan Schryver high game 222-503, Mike Lucas 502 and Cliff Bender 501.

Faye Little took ladies' high with 202-532, Nelia Angeles 507.

Henderson Seniors: The Hi Rollers up by four with 90 wins. Harvey Spittell led with 525, Bob Steers 201-519, Stroud Smith 503 and Abe Steinberg 203 for high game.

Henderson Eagles: Teams one and seven lead with 11 wins. Brad Clark led in series with a 231-206-595. Tim Clark took high game with a nice 247 for a 577. Spero Behe 564, Joe Pilon 225-561, Kelley Roundy 203-554, Boyd Alexander 534, Chink Clark 520, Larry Lopan 514, Clay Oliver 203. Sharon Wheat led the ladies in series with 202-506, Carol Meadows ladies high game of 206.

Powder Puff: El Torito Cafe continues to lead with 55½ wins. Baskin Robbins was high team for the week with 826-2127. Fay Little and Marianne Belger 513, Dorothy Pike 580 hcp series. Shirley Kolfoy took highs in game with 205, 233 hcp. Kay Sims picked up the 4-7-10 split.

Ben Ward League: Quickie Quickie No. 1 leads with 13 wins. Ivan Beaver high series with 223-219-630, Clair Jolley 232-213-626, Bruce Tull 223-206-624. ## Boys Club Timet still undefeated after 93-0 victory

The Timet Jr. High School wrestlers remain undefeated after smashing the Valley Jr. High team by a team score of 93-0. In one of the strongest performances of the year, the Boys Club wrestlers recorded pins or major decisions in every weight class but one, and Bobby Compton came from five points down to win 6-5.

The conditioning of the Boys Club wrestlers proved to be a major factor in several of the matches. By the third period when Valley wrestlers were showing fatigue, the Boys Club wrestlers took advantage and had little problem putting their opponents on their backs.

The Boys Club wrestlers' next duel meet will be held Feb. 3 when a tough Chaparral team visits Henderson and attempts to dethrone the defending zone champs. Starting time is 6:30 p.m. in the Boys Club gym, and a large crowd is expected to turn out for this important match.

Timet will travel to Cal State-Fullerton on the Feb. 13 weekend to wrestle in one of the bigger tournaments in Southern California. The wrestlers will also go to San Diego for another tournament Feb. 27.

HPRD offers performance group

The Henderson Parks and Recreation Department will be offering a new type of children's performing group called "Sunshine Generation." This performance group originally began in Utah, but has recently expanded throughout the United States.

The philosophy of the group is somewhat different than many other groups. All children participate.

The program is for boys and girls ages three through twelve years old. Classes meet on Tuesday or Thursday and are held on monthly sessions. Registration is now being taken for the February session.

For more information please call 565-2121.

'Love for God's house', Osko's sermon

"Love for God's house" is the title the Rev. John Osko pastor of First Baptist Church has chosen for his message this Sunday. The scripture text is Psalm 84:10 and Psalm 122:1.

Special music will include John W. Peterson's "Praise the Lord!" sung by Bettye Hansen and Lanny Wolf's "God's Wonderful People" and Don Marsh's arrangement of "Where Two Or Three Are Gathered (medley)" by the First Baptist Church Chorale.

The worship hour begins at 11 a.m. First Baptist Church is located at 47 East Atlantic Avenue in Henderson.

Children's church time is held during the worship hour for children two years of age through kindergarten. Leader for this month is Amanda Blondeaux.

A nursery is provided for children under two years of age.

A valentine banquet is scheduled for Sunday evening, Feb. 14 at 5 p.m. More information will be given this Sunday.

Pastor Osko and church family invite everyone to worship with them this week. For additional information please call 565-9511.

Janet Shaw

Realty firm leader continues top sales

Century 21 Henderson Realty's top salesman Janet Shaw led the firm for the third consecutive year in 1987, according to franchise president Duane Laubach.

Shaw transacted slightly more than $3 million in 1987, with more than 50 sales throughout Clark County.

A native of Maine, she and husband Bruce migrated to Nevada 10 years ago. They miss the cold reaches of the north, Laubach said, but Shaw also likes the warm climate of the southwest.

Shaw says that Henderson also offers the perfect climate for keeping her goal of being a continuous million dollar producer. She works at the firm's 18 Water St. office.

Henderson Realty joins Century 21 franchise network

Henderson Realty has become part of the nationwide Century 21 real estate sales franchise, according to new local franchise president Duane G. Laubach.

Century 21 leads the national real estate sector in listing and sales, according to Laubach.

Since starting Henderson Realty 18 years ago, Laubach has been very active in the community along with professional associations' service with the Las Vegas Board of Realtors, the Nevada Association of Realtors and as a director of the National Association of Realtors.

Laubach was the first Henderson man to serve as LVBR president and he led the state association in 1983.

Laubach and 12 full-time agents join a Century 21 network of more than 6,500 offices in the U.S., Canada and Japan.

Approximately 80,000 full-time sales agents transacted more than $50 billion in real estate sales in 1986 for Century 21.

"Century 21 has been No. 1 in size, sales, referral networks, education and above all, they present an awareness to the selling and buying public through their national advertising campaigns," Laubach said of the change.

Century 21 Henderson Realty is located at 18 Water St. and is open every day.

MOHAVE TROUT PLANTS—The Nevada Department of Wildlife and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are stocking more than 400,000 rainbow trout into Lake Mohave during the first three months of this year. Here workers from the NDOW's Lake Mead hatchery are shown stocking trout earlier this month at Cottonwood Cove. (NDOW photo)

Lake Mojave: Nevada's winter fishing hot spot

by Geoff Schneider
NDOW Publicist

Anglers who have put their fishing tackle into hibernation for the winter may be missing out on some of the year's hottest action for rainbow trout.

According to the Nevada Department of Wildlife (NDOW), now's the time to take advantage of some really good trout fishing at Lake Mohave, located in the southeast corner of the state. That's because anglers will find a good supply of catchable fish while enjoying the lake's mild weather and pleasant scenery.

To help assure angler success the NDOW and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service plan to stock more than 400,000 rainbows into the lake during the next three months. Current plans call for the NDOW to plant 187,200 trout in the lake from its Lake Mead hatchery. Begun in early January, this fish stocking program will continue through March.

Likewise, the USFWS hatchery at Willow Beach is scheduled to plant 78,000 fish per month during the next three months.

These will also be rainbow trout that will generally be around seven inches in length.

NDOW Supervising Biologist Dave Buck said the agency, as in the past, will be planting fish from Aztec Wash to points well below Cottonwood Cove. Because this water is warmer and richer in nutrients than the water that's located closer to Hoover Dam, the NDOW feels this is a good area to plant to achieve maximum growth rates.

Boat registration underway

by Chris Healy
NDOW Publicist

The number of registered boats in Nevada grew by a total of six percent in 1987, equaling the rate of growth experienced the past two years.

The 18 per cent rise over the past three years puts the total number of vessels registered with the Nevada Department of Wildlife at 37,162.

Registration renewal forms for 1988 were mailed out in early December to Nevada's registered boat owners. Boaters will notice a big change in the way their registration fee was totalled.

The 1987 legislature passed a measure that exempts all vessels from payment of separate personal property tax. So, instead of paying taxes to the county assessor and registration fees to NDOW, boaters now only deal with the Department of Wildlife. Boat trailers must still be registered through the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Half of all registration fees collected will be returned to their counties of origin. Those monies will be deposited in the county school fund.

The new fee schedule is as follows.

If the vessel is: Less than 13 feet...$10, 13 feet or more but less than 18 feet $15, 18 feet or more but less than 22 feet $30, 22 feet or more but less than 26 feet $45, 26 feet or more but less than 31 feet $60 and 31 feet or more $75.

According to Department of Wildlife officials, the increased revenues realized by NDOW will be used to improve boat registration, boating safety and education programs. "We will need to expand our programs to meet our increasing needs," said Tom Atkinson, boating safety staff specialist at NDOW.

"The recent trend obviously shows an increasing number of boaters using state waters."

end into each line guide. If the guide is worn, the cotton will hang up and leave cotton threads in the guides. Have the worn guides replaced.

Worn line guides can ruin a new spool of line in one fishing trip. Change the line on your reels if it's been on the reel for several trips or months. If you can't afford new line for all those reels, then reverse the line. Most reels get only the first 50 to 100 feet used while fishing. If you reverse the line, then the old line will be on the bottom and the new line will be used. Most of today's reels have several drag disc or washers. If you don't back off the drag when the reel is stored then the disc or washer becomes permanently compressed and won't work well, or worse; will fuse together due to constant pressure. This could result in costly repairs or a lost trophy fish.

Most anglers can take spinning reels apart and clean them without any problem, but baitcasting reels with all of their small parts cause some real problems.

Many tackle shops offer reel cleaning and repair for a nominal charge. Normally once a year is sufficient.

You wouldn't expect your automobile to function year after year with no tune-up or maintenance. The same is true with fishing equipment. Get it done now. Don't wait until the spring rush when everyone wants their feel fixed by tomorrow.

Fishing continues to be very slow throughout the area, with the exception of Sunset Park. One of the local bass clubs fished out of Echo Bay last Saturday with fourteen boats with 28 anglers participating. At the end of the day, everyone finished in first place, not a single fish came to the scales.

Keep your hooks sharp and good fishing!

Guidelines

by Jim Goff
Home News Correspondent

Have most of you had enough winter? I certainly have and most of my angling friends feel the same. Well hang in there. Unless we are inundated with some severe weather in the next month, the bass fishing and striper fishing should start on the upswing near the end of February. That's when our resident fishing licenses expire anyway.

Armed with a new fishing license, the first of March anglers should be able to find the largest of the female bass moving to the backs of the shallow protected northern coves to begin the spawning process. The northern most coves receive the sunlight for the longest period of the day in the early spring. These coves with vegetation and dark colored bottoms will retain the heat and be three to five degrees warmer than other coves throughout the lake.

Two things will cause the fish to move to the shallows. Number one is the urge to reproduce and the second is the need to feed. Normally both bass and stripers on Lake Mead feed primarily on crawfish in the early spring. The mid to late afternoon fishing is best this time of year because the shallow protected coves will be at their peak temperatures for the day. This warmth also brings the crayfish out to feed. Crayfish prefer clay type banks to burrow into or rock slides that offer protection and feed.

In the early spring, crayfish imitating lures such as jigs, grubs or slow moving crankbaits fare well. The rule of thumb is slow, slow and slower on the retrieve. Maintain contact with the bottom and walk the lure across the bottom, kicking up mud or silt as a real crayfish would.

Since this time of year the water is normally very clear, then long casts with light line is a must. When crawfish first appear they are normally pea green in color; then take on an orange-brown hue in April and May. They then turn almost a dark brown in June and July, match the seasonal colors with your lures. Also match the size. Small crawfish in the early spring will be one and one-half to two inches long by late spring and early summer if the fish haven't dined on them yet, you will find them two to four inches in length.

An added scent such as fish formula works very well on crawfish type jigs and grubs.

Most anglers fishing Lake Mead prefer jigs and grubs when the water temperature is between 55 and 60 degrees. They will still catch fish throughout the year. Once the water temperatures reach 60 degrees you can swim them just off the bottom or with a bottom bounce retrieve. The fish's metabolism is increased and they will chase faster moving baits. As the temperatures reach the low sixties, most bass anglers change to spinner baits, crank baits or rubber worms, but that's another article.

Now is the time to get out your rod, reels and tackle boxes, and get them in order. Let's start with rods. A good cleaning with hot soapy water will do wonders for them. Check all of the line guides for signs of wear. Sometimes you won't be able to see worm or pitted guides. A trick I learned years ago is take a Q-tip swab and run the

Despite the many volumes of literature written about nutrition and ways to rearrange it to lose weight, build muscles, and be the best, the unglamorous truth is to do all of the above anyone need only to follow good sound nutrition. There is no "quick fix." Watching when and what food is eaten is the best way to accomplish any and all of the above goals.

Precompetition meals are a long standing tradition. With the present state of the art we know much more about what to eat pre-game than we did previously. Pre-competition meals should be eaten three to four hours before the event. No food should be eaten an hour or less before the event, although plain, cool water is recommended up until the last 20 minutes. Nausea and vomiting may occur if food is in the stomach during competition.

Pre-game meals should have moderate portions of high-carbohydrate foods as these pass through your stomach quickly. High protein foods such as lowfat dairy foods and lean meats (tuna, baked ham, broiled chicken) take longer to digest. However, these can be included in pre-game meals in moderate amounts. Pre-game meals should avoid high fat foods such as hamburgers, sausage, peanut butter, fried foods and condiments such as mayonaise. If they are in pre-game meals they should be in small amounts. Some examples of high carbohydrate foods from each of the four food groups listed.

| Skim milk                    | Pinto beans        |
| Pudding                      | Navy beans         |
| Lowfat yogurt                | Blackeye peas      |
| Fruit-Vegetable group | Grain group |
| Potatoes                     | Whole wheat bread  |
| Bananas                      | Rice               |
| Corn                         | Pasta              |
| Peaches                      | Oatmeal            |
| Peas                         |                    |

High sugar foods such as honey, soft drinks or sweets eaten an hour or less before competition can actually produce low blood sugar. The short (15 minutes or less) duration of elevated blood sugar cause a release of more insulin which then rapidly causes the blood sugar level to drop. This in turn can leave you feeling tired and weak.

The National Dairy Council has several excellent publications concerning nutrition and its effects on performance.

rina, stocks the entire lake, according to Buck.

Because fish tend to congregate around the nutrient-rich discharge water from the Willow Beach hatchery, the fishing is generally best in this area, particularly for shore anglers. NDOW records show that the average angler at Willow Beach catches 2.55 trout per outing, while the catch rate is a little less than one fish at Cottonwood Cove.

In terms of size, just the opposite is true. Of the trout caught at Cottonwood Cove, 66 percent are premium trout that are 12 inches or longer compared with just 33 percent premium fish at Willow Beach.

For those who want to take advantage of the excellent fishing that will be going on for the next few months at Lake Mohave, Buck offers a few fishing tips. The most important of these is to use line no larger than 4-pound test and size 10 or 12 single hooks (not treble hooks). He said too large hooks and line are the major mistakes made by anglers.

He also suggests that the best time for fishing the lake are sunrise and sunset. "You want to be fishing when there are shadows on the water because trout are very sensitive to light and will head for deeper water when there is a bright sun," he said.

In an attempt to analyze the upcoming Super Bowl matchup, we must agree that both teams earned their right to represent their conference.

The Washington Redskins seem to be a predictable type team with an outstanding defense using a four man front that can be devastating when ignited with the proper enthusiastic flame. The offense ranges from average to good and at times excellent. They certainly have the tools to win the 1987 Super Bowl Championship providing the necessary ingredients all come together on Super Bowl Sunday!

The Denver Broncos cannot be considered, in the least sense, predictable. This includes the defense which seems to have the elements of quicksilver. The defensive line will be considerably smaller than the Redskin line, but the quickness will even the difference and in addition the Bronco brilliant linebacker Karn Mecklenburg seems to be everywhere. The Denver offense is in a sense predictable—everyone knows that Elway will be working generally from a spread formation with well conceived hand-offs to Winder, but definitely passing the ball from anywhere! Planning a defense against Denver will not be easy!

Lets examine briefly the statistical differences during the season. Not included in the actual scoring and defensive totals are the three strike played games. The Denver team scored 313 points and gave up 217 points. The Redskins on the other hand, scored 286 points and gave up 221 points. A difference of 27 points offensive advantage and a four point defensive advantage by Denver. This works out to approximately a two point edge to Denver.

Both teams defeated quality opposition during the season and playoffs with Denver losing to Minnesota and Seattle along the way and Washington losing to Philadelphia and Miami.

The non strike schedule showed Denver with one tie and three losses and Washington with four losses. This all adds up to a very slight advantage to Denver which, in a Super Bowl on a neutral field, can be considered as negligible.

No expert, no bookmaker, no high roller, nor any prognosticator, can predict the fumbles, interceptions, or questionable penalties that may decide this game! Unfortunately good old logic has sent many bettors to the poor house, so perhaps you can throw the statistics out the window and let your instincts decide who will win the Super Bowl. I decided that the unknowns will decide the winner as most close matchups do, and my choice is Washington + 3/4 or 4 —the points seem to be rising. Good Luck!

The White House has 132 rooms and a bomb shelter. It occupies 84,184 square feet.

CCCC offers Russian language course in Henderson

by Jeanette Gant
CCCC Publicist

There are more teachers of English in Russia than there are students of Russian in the U.S. Due to the need for more Americans with the ability to speak Russian and the recent increase of interest in the Russian culture, the Henderson Campus of Clark County Community College will again offer a beginning course in Russian this spring.

After successfully completing four semesters-Russian I through IV, instructor Maurice Hortwitz will be teaching the sequence of courses in the Russian language again at the Henderson Campus.

Are the Russians going to land in Henderson, Nevada? Perhaps not, but the response to mastering the Russian tongue has been, surprisingly, an enthusiastic one. The relations between the U.S. and Russia of late seems to be attracting Americans who are serious about learning more about Russia.

"It's truly amazing how loyal his students are," said director of the Henderson Campus Dr. Herman Van Betten. "Maurice Horwitz has built quite a following here. The students rave about him. He even meets with them during semester breaks to help maintain their speaking skills."

Horwitz served for many years as a Russian language interpreter and interrogator for numerous governmental agencies and is a graduate of the U.S. Marine Corps' Institute of Foreign Language in Washington, D.C.

It was during World War II while in training for guerrilla warfare and preparing for armed attacks in Germany, that his interest in the Russian language took root. Since that time Horwitz has become one of the most highly respected Russian language instructors in the country.

One student, Larry Bryant, whose electronics business takes him all over the world, said, "I've been going to school all my life: Maurice Horwitz tops the list when it comes to instructors. His is not a typical college class; he has a method of teaching that makes a difficult subject interesting and much less difficult. His main concern is getting the point across and he bends over backward to see that it sinks in."

During his business dealings overseas Bryant found Russian to be the second language spoken in many countries. "I believe there is definitely a new awareness in our country towards learning more about the Russians, especially their language."

Alma Strabala, who is retired, has gone through all four semesters with Horwitz. When asked what prompted her to study the Russian language she said, "I saw it advertised in the paper and I did it for the challenge."

Of Horwitz' teaching abilities Strabala said, "I can't say enough;

he is a wonderful person and instructor. He is so encouraging, patient and determined that we students succeed."

Howitz and a few of his students are in the process of planning a trip on the trans-Siberian Railroad this summer. This will be Horwitz' second visit to the Soviet Union.

On his first trip he visited Moscow University where he was surprised to see the size of their English classes. "They go to much greater lengths to teach English than any other country I know of," he said. "It is a high priority with them."

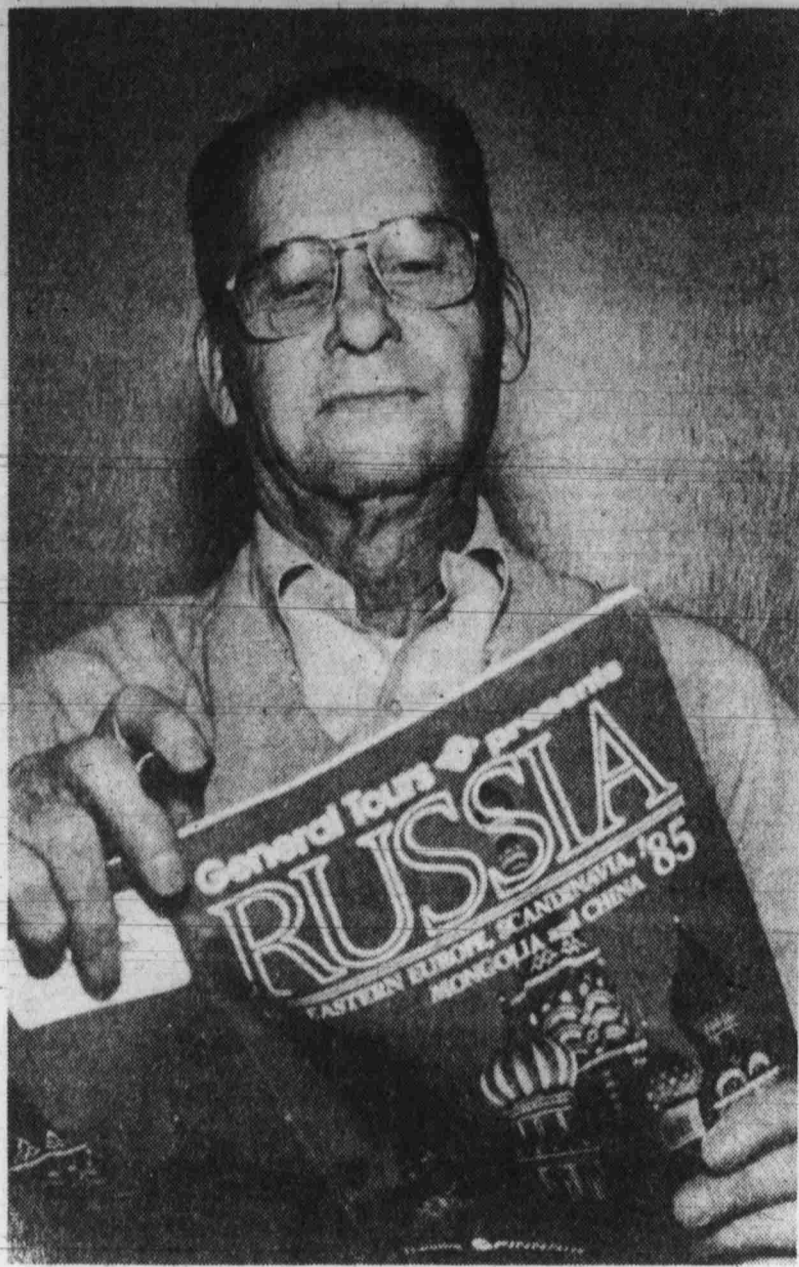

One report states that there are 11 million English speaking Russians as opposed to 28,000 Russian speaking Americans.

Students who register for Russian I can expect to come away with a knowledge of the basics, which includes the Russian alphabet and writing and translating elementary Russian.

Because of improving U.S.-Soviet relations, Horwitz views learning the Russian language as highly desirable. He offered this tip to possible students: "Learning the Russian language is actually no harder than learning any other language. In order to succeed it is very helpful to be objective and motivated."

The class will be held on Wednesdays from 6 p.m. to 8:55 p.m. Regular registration will be held at the Henderson Campus from Jan. 25-28 from noon until 8 p.m. and on Friday, Jan. 29 from noon until 3 p.m. The cost of the three-credit course is $64.50.

For further information students may call 564-7484 or drop by the school at 700 College Drive off Horizon in Henderson.

Small business seminars scheduled at CCCC

The Nevada Small Business Development Center (a program sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration and UNLV) is working with Clark County Community College (CCCC) and the Henderson Chamber of Commerce to increase business skills for new and potential business owners in the Henderson and Boulder City area.

Three seminars are planned for February and March of this year. All will be held at CCCC-Henderson in the conference room and seating is limited to 15 people per session.

The cost for each seminar is $15. The first seminar, "Going Into Business," will be conducted on Saturday, Feb. 6 from 9 a.m. until noon. It will be geared toward potential business owners and will cover bookkeeping and company structure, marketing, business licensing, site selection and business planning.

The speakers will be Henderson CPA William Farmer, Sidra Kain, a small business marketing consultant, Henderson Chamber of Commerce director Gary Johnson and Laurie Kalnin of the Nevada Small Business Development Center.

The second seminar, "How to Write a Business Plan," is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 20 from 9 a.m. until noon.

Subjects to be covered will be the mission statement, company objectives and goals, the marketing plan, the management team and financial information.

The speaker will be management consultant and UNLV instructor Edward Joyce.

The third seminar, "Home Based Business," will be conducted on Saturday, March 19 from 9 a.m. until noon.

Henderson attorney John Cougar, will be the speaker and his subjects will include legal aspects, being professional, accounting and taxes and marketing from the home.

To register for these seminars contact continuing education at CCCC-Henderson 564-7484.

Wine label paintings on display at UNLV

by Susan DiBella
UNLV Publicist
"Mouton Rothchild Paintings for the Labels," an exhibit of original paintings by such celebrated artists as Picasso, Dali and Warhol, will go on display in UNLV's Museum of Natural History Feb. 2 through 11.

The free public exhibit features art works that appear on the labels of each year's vintage of Mouton Rothchild wines.

The original paintings were commissioned by the wine company specifically for use on the labels. Miro, Braque, Chagall and Cocteau, as well as Picasso, Dali and Warhol, are among the 40 internationally acclaimed artists whose work is included.

The exhibition is currently on a five-year tour of the United States under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service.

The concept of label art originated with Baron Philippe de Rothschild in 1924 when he became the first French vintner to bottle fine wines at the chateau, rather than sell them in barrels for others to market.

To celebrate this new marketing concept, he had the famous designer Jean Carlu produce a striking label for the bottles which incorporated a stylized cubist ram's head—the ram being the symbol of Chateau Mouton Rothschild. The label was used for several years; no other art work was commissioned until the end of World War II.

At the war's end, to celebrate the recovery of his estate from German occupation, Baron Philippe dedicated the 1945 vintage to the year of victory and commissioned a young designer, Philippe Jullian, to produce an original label based on the symbol "V" for victory.

From then on, the tradition of an annual painting for the label was established.

For the first 10 years most of the artists selected were personal friends of the Baron, including Jean Hugo, Jean Cocteau, and Leonor Fini. In 1955, Georges Braque agreed to paint a label, and since then dozens of world famous artists have contributed to the series.

The result is an unusual and lively collection of art works saluting the pleasures of wine as well as the Bordeaux of Mouton Rothschild.

The artists, who are repaid in wine, are given the freedom to paint whatever the theme of wine inspires—the grape, the vine, the joy of drinking, or the symbol of the ram.

In the exhibit, the original art works spanning 40 years are juxtaposed with the resulting labels, and in many cases, the artists' variations on the design.

Museum hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays. For more information, call the museum at 739-3381.

CHAGALL PAINTING—Art work by Marc Chagall is featured on the label of the 1970 vintage of the wines of Chateau Mouton Rothschild.

High-production novelist Yarbro to speak at UNLV

The author of 40 novels will open the Southwest Gas Distinguished Artists Series spring season Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in John S. Wright Hall, room 116.

Chelsea Quinn Yarbro will speak on "Working in Genres: The Real World of Writing Books for a Living."

A five-time nominee for the literary World Fantasy Award, Yarbro writes horror, science fiction, young adult, romantic suspense, and fantasy novels. She currently produces four 100,000 world novels each year.

Before becoming a full-time writer in 1970, Yarbro worked at a variety of jobs, including manager and playwright of a children's theatre company, a demographic cartographer, and a tarot card reader and palmist. Her interests in history, occult studies, and musical composition are reflected in many of her novels, including Ariosto, Blood Games, and False Dawn.

She won the Mystery Writers of America scroll for her historical suspense novel Floating Illusions, and she received the Elves, Gnomes, and Littlemen's Science Fiction Award for one of her fantasy books.

Yarbro's novels have been distributed through such popular bookclubs as Doubleday, Mystery Guild, Science Fiction, and Literary Guild, and they have been reprinted in more than seven languages and countries.

Yarbro will be available to autograph copies of her books Feb. 3 from noon to 3 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m., at Amber Unicorn Bookstore, 2202 W. Charleston Blvd.

Nevada Historical Society's 'This Was Nevada' series

Nevada Historical Society Gala opens new music exhibit

CITY BAND-The Reno Wheelmen's Band and conductor Walter Hastings (foreground) pose for a photograph in 1904.

by Phillip I. Earl
Historical Society Publicist

The Nevada Historical Society hosted its annual Mid-Winter Gala at its Reno museum Jan. 15 and featured an exhibition focusing upon Nevada's cultural history, "Music in Nevada, 1860-1920."

With partial funding from the Nevada Council on the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts, the society will offer several concerts later in the spring. For further information, call the society at 1-789-0190.

When Nevada's early settlers first arrived, they brought with them the customs, traditions, habits and diversions of a lifetime, seldom thereafter discarding the old for something entirely new. So it was with music, which came west in the hearts and minds of overland immigrants and in the form of hymnals, sheet music, fiddles, guitars, jew's harps, cornets, ocarinas, portable pianos, brass instruments, foot-pumped melodians and wind organs.

In the days before radio, MTV, compact disks and all the electronic forms of entertainment available at the flick of a switch today, songwriters and music publishers brought the family group around the parlor upright piano. It was homey and unsophisticated fare, but the tradition of such music tells us much about the changes in family life which technology has brought about.

Other musical forms were also participatory in nature. The barber-shop quartet, which had its origin with men having a few drinks in a nearby saloon while awaiting their turn in the chair, was a feature of community life a century ago, as was the saloon with its dancing girls, throaty-voiced singers and the ever-present, out-of-tune barroom piano. Churches, the main stabilizing social institution in the early west, are also deserving of a niche in the history of music in Nevada, although their offerings were rather restricted and broke little new ground in the ongoing chronology of frontier music.

Most Nevada communities, regardless of their size, had a band of some sort at one time or another. In Tuscarora, the Tuscarora Excelsior Band organized by Gabe Hoskins, played for dances, led parades and opened saloons for several years in the mid-1800's. Hoskins later established bands in Winnemucca and Wadsworth, but is best remembered for his leadership of the Hoskins' Juvenile Band in Reno in the 'Nineties. He also worked with musical groups at the university for many years and gained some prominence as a music teacher.

Other bands organized by volunteer fire companies, militia units, fraternal organizations and ethnic groups, were also part of the musical scene. Virginia City's Germans organized Turnvereins which sponsored both choral groups and brass bands, and Reno's Italian Benevolent Society organized a brass band shortly after the turn of the century, as did Tonopah's Young Servian Society in the new central Nevada mining camp.

Among the most famous of Reno's musical aggregations was the Reno Wheelmen's Band. Organized in August, 1902, by Walter Hastings a cornetist who had previously headed the Modern Woodmen's Band, the Wheelmen provided music for dances sponsored by the bicycle club, marched in parades and offered summer concerts in Reno's parks. The bandmen also played musical interludes at the races and joined the members of Carson City's Nevada State Band for a trip to St. Louis to perform at the "Nevada Day" ceremonies held at the St. Louis International Exposition in 1904.

Larger communities, Virginia City, Carson City and Reno, were able to support a variety of musical groups, but smaller mining camps had their troubles. For the most part, the bands lacked stability and continuity of leadership since talented men who also held down full time jobs came and went with the vagaries of the mining economy.

Theatre bands, the foremost of which was Piper's Opera House Orchestra, sustained themselves because of the popularity of theatrical entertainments and would often go on tour around the state or accept engagements to perform at opera house openings, conventions and civic celebrations. Reno, Virginia City, Carson City and Elko were also on the California theatrical circuit which brought much outside musical entertainment to those communities.

Nevada also produced several musical personages who went on to make their mark in the outside world. Among these was Flora Finlayson, a Reno girl who debuted as an opera singer on the Boston stage in 1885 and became a staple on the eastern theatrical circuit before her death in 1896, but the most famous singers associated with the state are Emma Nevada and Richard Jose.

Emma Nevada, nee Emma Wixom, grew up in Austin. After graduating from Mills College in 1876, she went to Paris to study with the famed Mathilde Marchesi. Following her operatic debut at Her Majesty's Theatre in London in May of 1880, she achieved an unprecedented popularity among Europe's aristocracy. Jose, on the other hand, had only what lessons he learned at his father's knee in his native Cornwall before his widowed mother sent him off to Virginia City to live with an uncle. Only eight years of age, he began his singing career in Comstock saloons patronized by Cornish miners, but later took voice lessons from a teacher at Bishop Whitaker's School for Girls in Reno.

In 1885, he signed on with a booking agent and eventually ended up on Broadway as a member of Lew Dockstadter's Minstrels. Jose began to make annual tours of Europe in the 1890's where he became a favorite with the crowned heads of every nation. He also recorded for the Victor Talking Machine Company, which made its first million from his rendition of "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Both Emma Nevada and Richard Jose will be subjects of future columns in this series.

The new exhibition will run through July 3. For information on programs, call the Nevada Historical Society at 789-0190.

Slide lecture slated at Allied Arts Gallery

Currently on exhibit at the Allied Arts Gallery are architectural drawings by Rita Deanin Abbey, inspired by the experience of building a passive solar home and studio in the desert.

UNLV art historian, Dr. Robert Tracy, will present a slide lecture on Abbey's work entitled "Gan or Series: The Architectural Experience," on Feb. 3 at 7 p.m.

The forty drawings, done on paper with graphite, prismacolor pencils and oil pastels, express images and feelings experienced during the process of construction.

Curator of Abbey's 35-year retrospective Katherine Plake Hough who has chosen four works from the series to include in that exhibit says, "They (the drawings) deal with impossible kinds of perspective and imaginative spaces which involve the spirit of architecture and make the drawings works of art as opposed to traditional representational architectural renderings."

The lecture is free. Allied Arts is located at 3710 S. Maryland Parkway in the Marshalls' complex.

For information call 731-5419.

Museum offers Valentine special

Dear Debbie

Letters to Deborah White

Dear Debbie:

My fiancée and I have been together for two and a half years. Throughout this time, he has been dependent on cocaine. It's so bad it caused him to lose his job and most of his money. I told him I would leave him if he couldn't straighten himself out soon. Well, he finally did, but not because of me.

He says Jesus saved him and that he's born again. Now all he can do is quote the Bible all day long. He no longer uses drugs, but he also doesn't do anything else we used to do like go dancing or to the movies or even have an occasional drink. All he thinks about is religion.

Social Security notes

NLV office moves

by Marta A. Blanco
Social Security Publicist

Las Vegas area district manager for the Social Security Administration George Nakamura announced that the North Las Vegas Social Security branch office has moved from 2031 McDaniel Street, North Las Vegas to its new location at 1820 East Lake Mead Blvd., Suite F, North Las Vegas.

The office hours will remain the same—9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and the general information telephone number 388-6581 will remain the same.

Those wishing to make applications for benefits should call the special teleclaims number at 388-6335.

Now he tells me we can't see each other anymore because I am the Devil and when he's around me he feels lust. We used to make love, now he calls it fornicating with the Devil.

I can't believe this is happening. I have stood by his side all this time, and now I lose him to Jesus of all people. What should I do? Go ahead with the wedding plans and hope he'll snap out of it? Or should I give him up?

Lost Out to Jesus

Dear Lost Out:

Your fiancée is a compulsive and obsessive personality, and unless he deals with that problem he will always need a crutch to lean on, whether it be cocaine, Jesus or you. I wholeheartedly believe that it was not the intent of Jesus to have his followers withdraw from the human race or to condemn others as your boyfriend seems to be doing. Religion is a fine thing until it begins to affect normal productivity within society.

The work of the Lord is supposed to take place in our work and play and in our relationships with others. Anything other than that is, in my opinion, selfish obsession. I suspect your boyfriend is not so much experiencing a sudden and deep understanding of faith as he is using religion as a crutch.

I commend him for apparently conquering a very difficult habit to break, and I don't think you should do anything to disrupt his progress. To be frank, you will be better off with somebody a lot more stable.

Bananas breathe. They inhale oxygen, exhale carbon dioxide and generate their own heat.

Once over lightly

by Carolyn Drennan Bishop
Home News Correspondent

"The trouble with you," my husband announced the other day, "is that you're just plain nosy."

"Nosy? Come on! I consider myself a very discreet person, I answered huffily.

"Oh yeah? What about the last time my brother phoned? You couldn't stop asking questions."

"Who wouldn't? You answered the phone, mumbled a few times, hung up and announced Tom had been in the hospital and also was getting divorced."

"So. That's it. In a nutshell." "Nutshell? Don't nutshell me! What I want to know, is why?" "Why, what?" was his answer.

I couldn't believe my ears. "Why," I shouted, "was he in the hospital? And why," I screamed louder, "is he getting a divorce?"

"There you go again," he answered smugly. "All women are just plain nosy."

On Monday, I decided to find out if this impossible man was completely void of curiosity. As he came in the door, intent on settling in front of the television for a long evening of football, I announced casually, "I just saw a news flash about your favorite team."

I had his attention. "I'll give you a little hint," I added, "It concerns the quarterback and the coach."

"For Pete's sake!" he yelled. "What happened? I've got a bet on this game, you know!"

"That's it. In a nutshell," I answered calmly as I left for a movie with the kids.

I don't feel a bit guilty. I figure what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

This week's horoscope

by Salome

Editor's note: This week horoscope is from Jan. 24 through Jan. 30.
Weekly Tip: Tackle unfinished business.

Aries (March 21-April 19) If you've left loose strings flying where a new partnership is concerned, see to this immediately. Your personal magnetism is high now, so use it wisely.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) There are people who are envious of your position at home and at the office, but don't flaunt your status. Work hard now to get ahead in your finances.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Romance is coming at you from all directions, but be choosy in your final selections. If you feel like abandoning all reason at the shopping center, do it.

Cancer (June 21-July 20) Your attitude toward a newcomer in your personal life is less than pleasant. You had best correct this, since this person could become very pivotal.

Leo (July 21-Aug. 22) Family matters are weighing heavily on you now, so see to them immediately. Your workload is quite heavy now, but co-workers will gladly help you out.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Maintain your steady course toward success; you are bound to notice you sooner or later. Keep building that nest egg in the bank for later use.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You have been relying too heavily on the advice of someone who doesn't really know your situation. Remember to get different points of view.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Rely heavily on your intuition now where romance is concerned. Instead of listening heavily to your heart or your head, try rolling with the punches.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) It's been a long time since you called your old buddies; give them a ring. Let your hair down and go out for some good old fashioned fun pronto!

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If someone has been demanding too much from you lately, let them know. Get into your finances and find out exactly where you stand now.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Your world may seem a bit cloudy now, but rest assured things will clear up soon. Rely on yourself to pull you through any hard times you will face.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) You've done well sticking to your daily routines, so why not step off the beaten path for a while and take a trip with some fun family and friends?

If you were born this week, you have that congenial Capricorn attitude. This works well for you, as well as those around you, and you're most often sought after for social affairs and parties. Remember, however, that life isn't just one big party. Sooner or later your shoulder will have to get to the grindstone.

Cooking questions answered

Q. What's the difference in fat content between a serving of bacon and a sausage patty? E.G., Little Rock AR.

A. Little or none. Two medium slices of bacon have about a quarter-ounce fat after cooking. One brown-and-serve sausage patty has about a third of an ounce of fat.

Q. Does cream cheese icing need to be refrigerated? S.H., McConnellsville, OH.

A. A cake frosted with cream cheese icing may be left at room temperature for up to 12 hours. But for best keeping quality, refrigerate.

Q. What's the difference between whole wheat flour and graham flour? A.S., Fort Atkinson, WI.

A. None. Whole wheat and graham flour are different names for the same thing: flour milled with the complete wheat kernel left intact including the bran, germ and the endosperm. It's valued for the nutty flavor and chewy texture it lends to baked goods.

When whole wheat or graham flour is used for making yeast breads, smaller loaves may result because the germ and coarse bran may interfere with gluten development.

Tip of the Week: Pineapple will not ripen after it has been cut open.

Do you have a question? Write Dear Betty Crocker, Box 1113, Dept. Betty, Minneapolis, MN 55440.

International dance troop in concert Feb. 5

The City of Las Vegas Cultural Affairs Division presents AVAZ. Anthony Shay's International Dance Theatre, in a concert of dances, songs, music and costumes of the Middle East, North Africa, Eastern Europe and the United States at the Charleston Heights Arts Center, 800 South

Brush, at 8 p.m., Friday, Feb. 5. The audience's understanding is enhanced by brief narrations preceding each selection by the ensemble's artistic director, Anthony Shay. The mimetic style, cross-cultural influences and intricate choreography result in a performance of great dynamic variety. The company has appeared throughout the West, as well as on a television special in Mexico City.

Tickets are adults $6 and students, seniors and handicapped $5. For reservations or information call 386-6383.

Kitty Dukakis campaigns for husband in Nevada

Katharine S. (Kitty) Dukakis, wife of Democratic Presidential candidate Michael S. Dukakis, governor of Massachusetts, will campaign for her husband in Las Vegas Thursday.

Arriving in the afternoon, Kitty Dukakis will be met by Charles Waterman and Elizabeth Foley, prominent local Democrats who have taken the lead in southern Nevada support for Gov. Dukakis. Dukakis will then go to the home of Edythe Katz in Las Vegas for a fundraising reception. Katz has known the governor's wife through Dukakis' work on the President's Commission on the Holocaust.

Sponsors for the reception include Elise Ax, Shirley Barber, Shelley Barkley, Gilda Castellini, Ann Cooper, Foley, Mimi Katz, Alice Key, Rudy Maffro, Njek Pandells, Laura Past, Uly Ramsey, Mona Sanchez Joplin, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Sparkuhl, Muriel Stevens, Dina Titus and Lise Wyman.

Following the reception Dukakis will go to the Nevada Dukakis headquarters at 557 E. Sahara for a reception with campaign volunteers.

Dukakis has been a regular campaigner for her husband since he announced his candidacy in the spring. At home in Massachusetts she has a reputation as a strong and independent woman, but on the presidential trail her remarks have been punctuated with phrases like "Michael believes" and Michael thinks."

But Dukakis says she is not deliberately playing a low-key role in her husband's campaign. "I'm out there and I have been one of the more active and I want it to be that way," she told a reporter.

The rest of the family has also been actively campaigning. Their son, John, is the southern regional director for the campaign, while their eldest daughter, Andrea, is campaigning in Iowa. Their youngest daughter is a freshman at Brown University, but she campaigns during her school holidays.

Dukakis was born in Cambridge, Mass., and was graduated from Lesley College with a degree in education. She later received a masters in broadcast and film from Boston University. Her interests range from human rights to the arts.

In addition to her work on the Holocaust Commission, Dukakis organized a task force on Cambodian children which twice took her to Thailand. She served as a trustee of the Washington-based Refugee Policy Group and as a director of Refugee International.

Dukakis also serves on the executive committee of the New England anti-Defamation League and has worked on efforts to strengthen bonds between the people of Israel and the U.S. She is chairman of the Governor's Advisory Committee on the homeless in Massachusetts.

Since 1985 Dukakis has been a director of the Public Space Partnerships project, a joint venture between the John F. Kennedy School of Government and the Graduate School of Design at Harvard University.

Committed to the visual and performing arts, Dukakis is the daughter of well-known conductor Harry Ellis Dickson who, until he retired earlier this year, was associate conductor of the Boston Pops and a first violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Elks Mexican Fiesta Saturday

The sights and sounds of Old Mexico will come alive at the Boulder City Elks Lodge, beginning at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 30. The date of Lucero's Mexican Fiesta is upon us.

Al, Roseie, Ruben, and Tillie are busily preparing their menu which will include tamales, enchiladas, rice, beans, and sopapillas. A mariachi band will stroll through the crowd to provide music during the meal. The internationally known Los Trubadors band will perform for your dancing and listening pleasure from 8 until 11 p.m.

Advance tickets are available at the Elks Lodge. Phone 293-2457 for details. Seating is limited, so get your tickets early. All proceeds go to further Elk's charities.

B.C. Elks Friday nite dinner

We have another notorious member to do the cooking this Friday nite. He's that fast-talking Darwin Bible, who auctioned himself off to the Elks for another stint in the culinary department. He's going to prepare his delicious stuffed Game Hens, noodles, vegetable, salad, dessert, rolls and coffee. Nothing more needs to be said. Come on down and enjoy.

BPO Does meeting tonight, Thursday, Jan. 28 at 7:30 p.m. It is formal. Newly elected President Dee Dee Senko will preside.

The Elks famous Mexican Fiesta is this Saturday, Jan. 30, starting at 6:30 p.m. There's a muy grande Mexican dinner followed by a dance. Proceeds are for Elks charities.

Pro Bowl Sunday is Jan. 31. Starting at 12:30 p.m., the Elks will have 'all you can eat' Chili for $1.25 while you watch the game.

Toastmasters explore topics

Last Thursday's meeting of the Boulder City Toastmasters included an off the cuff evaluation of our city council, an informative look at retirement systems, and an impromptu storytelling session.

Rowena Whitmore spoke about the effectiveness of the city council and the question of whether the mayor should be elected rather than selected by the council. As this speech project was an exercise in impromptu speaking, Rowena actually did not know on which topic the club had selected her to speak until she stood up to begin.

Rowena, a frequent participant at council meetings, praised our councilmen and our council system. She felt, however, that our system of selecting a mayor should not be changed.

Dr. John Rousseau gave a speech entitled "retirees Beware!" He gave the group some surprising facts about the retirement systems many of us are under. He included information on how well our retirement systems really provide for us, and areas in which we may not be getting the benefits we believe we are.

In table topics, which is the impromptu speaking portion of the meeting, Mary Venable had the group tell a story, each member picking up the story where the last speaker left off. The group had fun concocting a story about a fortune-hunter who vacations around the world and finally finds true love with a mermaid.

Receiving awards for the meeting were Dr. John Rousseau for best speaker, Wendell Welcome for best evaluator, and Stewart Earl for best table topic.

Boulder City Toastmasters meets first and third Thursdays at 11:30 a.m. at Grace Community Church. The club is for people who want to learn to speak in public or just how to express themselves in everyday situations. Guests are always welcome. Come join us!

Boy scouts to initiate pilot program

The Boulder Dam Area Council, which includes Boulder City, is one of six councils across the United States to participate in the new Troop Operations Study. Troop 12 sponsored by Grace Community Church is one of the troops in this council who have decided to reorganize according to the guidelines set forth in this program.

The Troop Operations program contains active outdoor camping experiences utilizing father-son participation. The program is designed to take a beginning scout simultaneously through the first four ranks of scouting in one year. This achievement is half way to the nationally recognized award of Eagle Scout.

Young men who achieve the rank of Eagle Scout have found that it opens many doors. It is not unusual for an employment position to be awarded to an individual who can list "Eagle Scout" on his application.

Employers realize that young men who have reached this rank in scouting have exhibited leadership, long-term goal setting abilities, and perseverance. Many colleges and universities also recognize the development of these traits in an Eagle Scout; scholarships also become available because of this achievement.

Parents and young men who are at least 10½ years old are invited to attend an introductory meeting concerning the new program. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 4 at Fox Hall. Fox Hall is located two doors down from the bowling alley, behind Grace Community Church. For further information, please contact Grace Community Church at 293-2018 or the scoutmaster at 293-1421.

Chamber of Commerce prayer breakfast features Bell Choir

The Grace Community Bell Choir will be one of the highlights featured at the Community Prayer Breakfast, Saturday, Feb. 6. The popular non-denominational event will be held at the Hildebrand Senior Center and is slated to start at 9 a.m.

Advanced ticket purchase is encouraged at The Burk Gal'ry, Nevada Engraving, and the Boulder City Chamber of Commerce, the sponsor of the event. Ticket price is $5 per person.

Cake decorating and model-singer featured at Boulder Dam Hotel

The Boulder City Lunch Bunch invites and welcomes all ladies in the community to the upcoming Feb. 8 luncheon. The monthly meetings are inter-denominational and geared to motivate and inspire women of all faiths and backgrounds.

This month's 12 p.m. gathering will feature Cake Decorating, presented by Mrs. Tony (LeAn) Jensen, wife and mother of four children. LeAn will be sharing some of her expertise homemaking ideas and artistic designs. Ladies, who desire a fresh incentive in mastering a cake decorating technique will not only discover this special feature both educational and enjoyable, but it promises to be truly a Valentine special in the atmosphere at the historic Boulder Dam Hotel.

Professional Las Vegas model and singer, Tammy Lee will be the guest vocalist. Tammy received vocal training at the Ben Lowey Vocal Studio in Las Vegas and has sung extensively throughout Nevada and California. Not only will ladies appreciate her vividly expressed message in song, but her lovely youthfulness and vivacious personality as well.

Rita White, noted speaker and former elementary teacher, received her degree from the University of Northern Colorado. She and her family moved to the Boulder City area from Tucson, Ariz., where she actively filled speaking engagements, one of which was speaking at a Sunday school children's conference, specializing in Christian education.

Rita's enlightening talk will surround the Valentine theme with emphasis on life's sweetheart and the reality of a changed life.

The buffet luncheon with a variety of entrees and salads will include beverage, roll and desert. All reservations are by advance ticket, available at Foxhaus, located at the Hotel Plaza, or Cheri Lyn's, behind First Western Savings and Loan. Or, interested ladies may obtain tickets for themselves and their guests by contacting Mrs. John King, 294-1607; Mrs. Arthur Schulz, 293-0408 or Mrs. Bob McCullough, 293-2660. A complimentary nurse is provided by calling Mrs. Jim Lyster at 294-0111.

Texas family writes Jessica Brolick after finding balloon

Imagine the thrill 10-year old Jessica Brolick experienced when she received a bulky letter postmarked from Texas.

The envelope contained a long letter from the May family in Sarita, Texas. Also included was a map of Texas and a collection of pictures of the

May family. No, the Mays and Jessica have never met—but it was the Mays who found the balloon Jessica released from the Mitchell Elementary School recently as part of the Read a Million Minutes program.

Art show slated

Recent ink embossings, block-prints and fabric art of petroglyphs and southwest indian designs by Joyce Spavin will be on display at the Valley of Fire Visitor's Center, Sunday, Feb. 7 through Monday, Feb. 29.

Community club tonight

Worthy matron Jerri Timmons has announced the stated meeting on Feb. 1 will be preceded by a chili dinner at 6 p.m. This is a fund raising dinner with the proceeds going to the worthy grand matron's projects. The cost is $3.

The worthy matron, worthy patron and all the officers look forward to seeing you there and at the meeting as they prepare for the official visit on Feb. 13.

Art Guild Doings

Visit Southeastern Asia tonight

A slide presentation entitled, "Glimpses of India, Nepal, Thailand, and Indonesia," will be given by Barbara Adams, tonight, January 28 at 7 p.m. at the Boulder City Library.

The slides shown will feature highlights of Barbara's 1987, two month journey to Southeastern Asia. The initial prompt for Barbara's trip was an international high school graduation in Northern India. For there, she visited Nepal, Thailand, and Indonesia.

Barbara Adams, a resident of Boulder City for 22 years, intends to follow a travel-log format, and she expects that the duration of the program will be 45 minutes to an hour.

If more information is needed, please contact the library at 293-1281.

Plan on painting with James McLean's art class Saturday, Feb. 13. Note that the date has been changed. Meet at the Alan Bible Visitors Center at noon for an afternoon of painting in all media on location. Bring your art supplies and a snack. The fee is $8.

The Third Clark County Artists' Show will be held May 21 at Boulder City's Bicentennial Park. Members are invited to attend the next planning meeting Thursday, Feb. 11 at 2:30 p.m. at the Art Guild Gallery. It will be followed by a board of directors meeting. Advance reservations are now being taken for art classes in February. Call the gallery at 294-9982 for details.

Applications for our Third Clark County Artists' Show have been mailed. If you haven't received yours, please contact the gallery.

Panel fees are now due. A full panel from January through March is $15. A half panel is $7.50.

There is space available in the gallery for your original crafts. Bring them to the gallery to be juried before they go on display.

Drug Awareness Forum scheduled

Is there a drug abuse problem in Boulder City? How can it be controlled? Are citizens aware of the nature and impact that drug abuse has on the community?

Get the answers to these and other questions at the upcoming Drug Awareness Forum on Feb. 10.

Living in a small town sometimes makes people complacent. Some tend to compare Boulder City with large cities with well-known crime and drug problems. As a result, they think this community has very little to worry about.

Residents need to become aware that there is a drug problem in clean, green Boulder City and that the police and the citizens must work together to eliminate it.

The BC Police Department in cooperation with the Elks Lodge 1682 are presenting a drug awareness forum on Wednesday, Feb. 10, at 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Lodge on Nevada Highway.

This will be the first in a series intended to educate the public about drug abuse and what can be done to combat it.

The program will include several guest lecturers who will speak on various drug-related subjects. Short films will be presented and a question, answer period will wrap up the evening.

The program is designed for an adult audience. All residents are encouraged to attend to assist in the continuous fight against the ongoing drug problems to be found right here in Boulder City.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions - horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle, then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.
