Hostile housewife hits husband's hat

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer
A Henderson couple's morning fight landed the wife in jail Wednesday after she shot through the hat her husband was wearing, police said.
Ruth Roll, 39, was arrested for assault with a deadly weapon and for shooting into an occupied structure during the 8 a.m. incident, HPD Sergeant Howard Avery said. Officers were called to the Montego Bay Apartments in the Whitney Ranch neighborhood after residents heard shots fired in the parking lot, according to police.

Avery said police were told Roll and her husband, 49-year-old Jerry Roll, had been arguing when the woman brandished a .38 caliber Smith & Wesson revolver.
"She fired two rounds that went into [the apartment clubhouse]," Avery said, "Then she fired into the bill of his cap." A bullet lodged in the dashboard of the couple's silver-grey four-door Mercedes, Avery said.
The couple left the complex on Russell Road, driving to Boulder Highway before they were stopped by Henderson Police at Emerald Street in East Las Vegas.
Avery said the Mercedes was released to Jerry Roll, who was driving when police located the couple.

Former President Ronald Reagan didn't get $2 million for his visit to Las Vegas last week. That's the amount he received four months ago for an advertising visit to Japan. You can safely bet he received no less than $35,000 to $50,000 for his Las Vegas address to the Prudential Real Estate Affiliates convention.

When complaining about governmental spending, he showed that he has a convenient memory. "We must get control of the budget. I didn't have a budget approved in the eight years I was president," he told his audience. Reagan should have added that Congress in those years approved less spending than he had requested in each of his executive budgets.

He went on to call for the power of a presidential line-item veto to cut out "pork-barrel" projects. What is pork barrel for New York may be a necessity for the welfare and economy of Texas. Of course, there's never anything in the president's executive budget that could be considered pork barrel.

City lawsuits progress updated

The city has won a lawsuit stemming from a council decision concerning property owned by Robert Glassburn. Glassburn's property is zoned residential, but has commercial adjoining it. He asked the city to rezone the property commercial so he could convert the home into a suite of offices.
Monday, March 12, has been set as the Nevada Supreme Court hearing date for the ongoing dispute over Local Improvement District 818. Several property owners in the area are contesting the city's figuring in developing costs and benefits for the LID.
The city won the first dispute in District Court.

City Council approves revised water contract with BMI

By Ben Baker
News Staff Writer
The City Council unanimously approved the revised water contract with BMI during Tuesday night's meeting. The contract was reworded at the request of the Colorado River Commission. Under the terms of the new contract, BMI water will be assigned to the city.
City Attorney Shauna Hughes said assigning the water to the city was the CRC's idea. Once assigned, the water rights belong to Henderson and cannot be taken away unless the city fails to pay BMI for the water. The assignment is good for the city, she said.

"I think [the CRC] suggestion was great. They were real instrumental in getting us into the position," she said.
As part of the reworded contract, Henderson is now a signatory to a 1969 BMI water contract with the federal government. That was done at the request of the Bureau of the Reclamation.

"The Bureau indicated they wanted to have a direct relationship with the water users," Hughes said.
In other action, a request from American West for 30-inch roll curbs and gutters in a Whitney Ranch neighborhood development was tabled for more discussion. In the past, the council has refused such requests, recalling problems with 24-inch roll curbs. No complaints have been received concerning 30-inch curbs, but people have been using the curbs to park on the sidewalk in some places.

Recently, the council approved roll curbs for a private street. Council members were hesitant about granting the request. Councilman Andy Hafen said he wanted to deny the request because, "We have set precedents."

The council approved a measure to allow NDOT to reimburse the city for installing railroad crossings at the Lake Mead Drive crossing. NDOT has received $14,600 in federal funds to reimburse the city for the work at the site.
Luis Hitt, a resident living on Stephanie Road, spoke out during citizens' concerns about a neighboring firm which is disrupting his neighborhood, he said.

Burkholder students re-enact East/West separation, tension

By Ben Baker
News Staff Writer
The infamous Berlin Wall was briefly recreated at Burkholder Junior High School Monday afternoon.
Tensions were high on the Eastern Border as students, temporarily East Germans, were forced to copy homework assignments as labor. Talking, looking around and just about anything were grounds for being thrown in jail, at the whim of teacher-turned-dictator Susan Justad.
Conditions were rough in the east, but equal. Provided everyone kept in line, all were treated equally.

After writing for a while, students got up and marched around a lunchroom table. Student guards at the border between the East and West—the lunch room and game room in this case—were quick to push away those drifting too near the wall. However, one of the guards apparently fell asleep and about half of the East Germans "escaped" to West by climbing over the wall, actually brushing aside a blanket between the two rooms.

The remaining East Ger-

Naturally a president, Democrat or Republican, would never use line-item veto power to kill a Nevada project and keep a project in the final budget for vote-heavy California.

In his speech Reagan was still harping about the 22nd Amendment which limits the president to two terms. He told the businessmen, "Let's get rid of the 22nd Amendment that says you can only vote for a president twice." Gee whiz, that's the Constitutional Amendment pushed through by the GOP after Franklin D. Roosevelt had been elected four times to occupy the White House.

We can only be thankful that Ronald Reagan hasn't been hired to write the U.S. history books for our schools. He is an excellent speaker, but there are times scholars must wish he read as much and as well as he speaks.

In case you were wondering about the local American Legion's most recent Four Chaplains Memorial Service, here's the background:

"Early on the morning of Feb. 3, 1943, the U.S. troop transport 'Dorchester' was wallowing through icy seas off Greenland. Most of the 900 troops on board were asleep in their bunks. Suddenly a torpedo smashed into the Dorchester's flank. Frantically pounding up the ladders, the troops milled in confusion on the decks.

"In those dark moments of panic, the coolest men aboard were four U.S. Army Chaplains—1st Lts. Clark V. Poling (Reformed Church of America), Alexander D. Goode (Jewish), John P. Washington (Catholic) and George L. Fox (Methodist). The four chaplains led the men to boxes of life jackets, passed them out to the soldiers with boat-drill precision. When the boxes were empty, the four chaplains quietly slipped off their own precious life preservers, put them on four young GIs and told them to jump.

"The Dorchester went down 25 minutes later in a rumble of steam. Some 600 men were lost, but the heroic chaplains had helped save more than 200. The last anyone saw of them, they were standing on the slanting deck, their arms linked, in prayer, to the one God they all served."

Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney, a former member of Congress, admits that more military projects are to be eliminated in the districts of Democrats than in GOP districts. But there are more Democrats than Republicans in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Of the 21 full-time military bases scheduled by Cheney for closing, only two are located in the districts of Republican members of Congress. This appears to be more than a bit lopsided and may cause some problems in the Congress.

It does appear that a closer look should be taken by Congress to see if there aren't some additional closings that can save even more dollars. Maybe a few bases now scheduled for closing should be left open and others that can save even more money should be closed.

Members of Congress, Democrats and Republicans, should vote to save the most tax dollars and make certain that the cutbacks don't weaken our nation's ability to survive in an unstable world.

Votes shouldn't be cast strictly on the basis of partisan politics of the condition of a congressional district's economy. Likewise, Cheney, the former GOP congressman and now a cabinet member in a Republican administration, shouldn't be allowed to let partisan politics enter his recommendations for where the cutbacks should be made.

Let's hope the coming Washington debates will throw some light on both matters.

Johnson finalist in scholarship competition

Anthony Johnson, a student at Basic Senior High School, has been selected as a finalist in the National Achievement Scholarship Program.

Johnson is now being considered for one of 725 scholarships to be offered to students who advance into the scholarship program.

"You have advanced from Semifinalist to Finalist standing in the 1990 Achievement Program," wrote Robert Carter, Vice President for the Achievement Program. "I am pleased to enclose a Certificate of Achievement which recognizes your accomplishment. You have every reason to be proud of your accomplishments to date, even if you do not win an Achievement Scholarship."

Johnson is the son of James and Patricia Johnson of Henderson.

Henderson student attending Youth confab

WASHINGTON—Aaron Hammer of Henderson is attending the 1990 National Young Leaders Conference sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council.

Approximately 400 outstanding high school juniors and seniors from around the country were selected for the honor, based on demonstrated academic achievement, leadership and citizenship. The event began Tuesday.

The theme of the National

Aaron Hammer

Young Leaders Conference is the "Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today." Throughout the six-day conference, the scholars will meet with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

Highlights of the program will include a breakfast panel discussion led by prominent journalists at the National Press Club, welcoming remarks from a member of Congress on the floor of the United States House of Representatives, and a government relations forum, comprised of lobbyists from various corporations and public interest groups. A visit to a diplomatic embassy and a briefing at the Organization of American States are also included among the week's activities.

Hammer will also have a unique opportunity to meet with Sens. Richard Bryan, and Harry M. Reid and Rep. James H. Billbray or members of their respective staffs. Culminating the National Young Leaders Conference will be the "Mock Congress on National Service" in which the scholars assume the roles of United States Representatives by debating, lobbying and voting on proposed volunteer service legislation.

The National Young Leaders Conference is sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council. Founded in 1985, the Council is a non-profit, non-partisan educational organization committed to recognizing outstanding youth and providing them with a "hands-on" civics learning experience in the nation's capital.

"We firmly believe that by touching one life, the National Young Leaders Conference enriches thousands more. Scholars return to their home communities charged with the lifelong duty of leading all Americans to better understand their rights and responsibilities in this participatory democracy," said council co-founders Barbara Harris and Richard Rossi.

Joining the Council in its commitment to educational excellence is the Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors, comprised of more than 300 members of Congress.

Pecos Road improvements could cost $2.6 million

By Paul Szydelko
Associate Editor

Clark County Commissioners discussed for more than 90 minutes Tuesday a plan to construct Pecos Road between Sunset and Warm Springs Roads, but failed to reach a decision on how to improve the north-south traffic flow in the Green Valley neighborhood.

Pecos, a major arterial through much of the valley, stops short of Duck Creek north of Green Valley. Motorists are crowding narrow Tomiyasu Lane as an alternative route, while traffic on Eastern Avenue is expected to worsen during a widening project this year.

A six-lane, full improvement of Pecos including a bridge over the wash, would cost $2.6 million, according to county public works estimates. Funds from both the county and the City of Henderson currently available for the project total $1.8 million.

Developer Al Collins, whose proposal to pave two lanes and build a bridge that could be expanded later has been repeatedly rejected by the commissioners, offered to contribute designs and specifications totaling $158,000.

Funding is still needed to purchase right-of-way and curbs, gutters and street lights for the project. Two prominent landowners along Pecos, developer Tony Marnell and entertainer Wayne Newton, do not support the project and are not expected to dedicate the land for the right-of-way or participate in a special improvement district.

Collins was directed to find other builders willing to contribute cash for the project before the commissioners consider the matter again March 6. The commissioners also directed the district attorney's office to study condemnation procedures and the county's right to build the road without the support of those owning right-of-way.

Alternative discussed

The commissioners also discussed connecting Green Valley Parkway with Sandhill

Road after a presentation from Marnell lawyer, Chris Kaempher.

Kaempher said state traffic studies indicate that the interconnect would carry 30,000 cars a day; Pecos, if put through south to Warm Springs, would carry only 20,000 a day. He also noted that property owners along the interconnect would be more willing to dedicate the right-of-way.

Plant provides promised productivity perks

By Ben Baker
News Staff Writer

Hefty bonuses were awarded to all the employees at Pioneer Chlor Alkali last week as part of a productivity bonus program.

The plant's two owners in Texas offered a five-and-a-quarter percent bonus based on yearly earnings to the employees if they met a certain quota, said Glen Doering, personnel manager. If they exceeded that amount, the bonus would also rise, he added. When the checks were delivered last week, each employee was given a seven percent bonus based on the money he made last year.

"We put a lot of effort into that program. We sure hoped it would be well received and it was. We have some excellent people here," co-owner Rick Kellogg told the News Monday on a visit to the plant.

Since the facility is owned by just two people, bonus programs like this one and one last year in which each employee was given $500 cash at the end of his shift are easy to manage, Doering said.

"I was thrilled that we were recognized and thought of as important. I really appreciated it," said Jean McCutcheon, an employee.

The bonus came as a surprise to many. Most knew they would get a bonus, but not as much as they received.

"We knew about it, but not how much. I was really surprised and grateful," said JaeSen Hall.

"I was flabbergasted," said

Louise Francis.

"Oh gosh, I was so surprised," said Rita King.

Penny Berlie used the extra income to pay bills and other necessary expenses. Many other employees also used the money to pay bills.

"I bought tires for my car, boots for my son and banked the rest. I'll blow that as soon as I can figure out what to blow it on," said Tamie Towers.

When the $500 bonus was given out, one man said it was the kind of money he liked — his wife didn't know about it. Richard Kielhorn did tell his wife about the bonus.

"She was elated. She wished her job had a similar thing," he said.

Henderson gang problem described to Rotary

Does certain graffiti on walls around Henderson indicate gangs are present?

Indeed it does, Detective Stanford McNeal of the Henderson Police Dept. told members of the local Rotary Club at a recent meeting.

"We have a problem that's starting to come here and we have to address it now."

McNeal, assisted by Detective Monty Sparks, said there are about 20 gangs in the Vegas Valley with around 5,000 members. And he estimated a membership of "maybe about 400 in Henderson."

He explained the letters ALG, sprayed onto walls, stands for the Al Landsman Gardens gang who are Crips, and "if graffiti comes up, take it down so they can't mark their territory."

"You need to let them know it's your territory, not theirs," he warned Rotarians.

McNeal advised there is an anti-graffiti paint and the graffiti just washes off when sprayed with water.

There are two main gangs, the Bloods (red) and the Crips (blue), and locally more Crips than Bloods. But there are also other gangs and they can be recognized by their different colors, haircuts, tattoos, even bum marks.

McNeal said the Henderson Police Department has formed a gang unit.

"We're trying to get to gangs now and slow them up because that's where the drugs are."

He said most out dealing are between nine to 14 years of age.

Cocaine was the big drug—now it's "crack," from which the user gets a 15-minute high, and "ice," which gives a four-to-five-hour high, he said.

One of the ways citizens can help combat the problem is through the Neighborhood Watch.

It is going to take the help of everyone to drive the gangs back to L.A., the detectives emphasized.

mans marched double time around the tables as punishment for their comrades' defection.

Meanwhile in the West, students examined "money" with which they would purchase food and drink from the local store. Prices ranged from $10 and up. According to Renee Klund, a student teacher from UNLV, capitalism is expensive.

Students were given different amounts of money as they began their career in the West. To earn more, the students had to work and produce more.

The assignment was designed to help the students learn more about the Cold War and East/West separation. Klund said she wanted the students to write poetry about the famed division and many did not have a firm grasp of what that was.

The idea for a re-creation of the Berlin Wall worked very well during the assignment, Klund said. Students in the West joked and kidded and worked while those in the East were very subdued and kept their heads down.

Klund, with the help of Justad, is now teaching the students about the various forms of poetry. She said she expects the students to produce some very good poetic examples of the East/West tensions.

City questions porn shop licensing process

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

A pornographic video and novelty store that opened on Boulder Highway last week may have been misrepresented in the city's licensing process, city officials said Wednesday.

"An adult business in a CH zone requires a use permit," Deputy City Attorney Liza Conroy said. She said Fantasy Video Plus did not obtain such a permit, and that city inspectors "were told at the time of [examining the facilities] that it wasn't an adult business."

Conroy said the timing of the store's opening and the upcoming presentation to City Council of a sex store law "was totally coincidental; we have been working on this ordinance [since last year]."

The ordinance, which may come before the City Council at its Feb. 20 regular meeting, would regulate sexually-oriented stores, city officials said this week. "We've been sending drafts and making modifications for months and months," Conroy said.

She said the city expects to serve a complaint today, seeking a revocation of Fantasy Video's business license. "The information we have indicates a misrepresentation in the application process," she said, "which resulted in the business's failure to obtain a use permit as required."

Once served, owners will have 10 days to respond, Conroy said. A hearing would then be scheduled within about two weeks, she said.

Stand up and be counted.

Counting America's people and housing

The City Council's decision to adopt a census count committee was a wise one. Considering the problems Henderson has had with the state census, getting a correct count from the national bureau is essential.

Counting the residents of a country as big and as vigorous as the United States is no easy task. Just ask the Census Bureau, which is preparing to take on the job for the 21st time, beginning in late March.

The Census Bureau, an agency of the Department of Commerce, expects to count some 250 million people and 106 million housing units across the country.

The 1990 Census will be a "do-it-yourself" count, taken almost entirely by mail. One questionnaire will be delivered to each housing unit. A short form containing 14 questions will go to five out of six households. A long form with 59 questions will go to the remaining households. An adult in each household will be asked to complete the form and return it by April 1—Census Day. In some rural areas, census workers will pick up or help residents complete their forms.

The primary use of census data has not changed since the very first census in 1790—to fairly apportion seats in the House of Representatives among the states, based on their populations. This provision was included in the Constitution by the Founding Fathers and is reflected in the changed make-up of the House after each census.

In addition, state and local governments responding to court decisions dealing with the principle of "one person, one vote" have adopted the use of census figures to redraw their election district boundaries.

As the sharing of federal and state revenues with counties and cities has increased in recent years, census numbers have also been used to allocate millions of dollars in program funds based on populations.

Today, government planners and business economic developers wouldn't think of pushing ahead with a new school, health clinic, or shopping center without first studying census information to make certain that the new facility is placed in the best possible location.

Such statistical information is tabulated from the answer contained on over 100 million questionnaires. The data are arranged by geographic area at the national, regional, state, county, city, neighborhood, and even block levels. Individual responses on the questionnaires, however, are strictly confidential, by law, for the next 72 years. The resulting numerical mosaic is a demographic "snapshot" of America's people and housing as of April 1, 1990.

From the 18th century to the end of the 20th century, the census has chronicled the country's growth and change. The 1990 Census will provide the statistical springboard for the journey into the 21st century.

It happened this week 5, 10, 20 and 30 years ago

Firemen sought from high schools in 1970

By Nathan Larson
News Staff Writer
1970

On Feb. 4, the City Council went into a special session to find new ways to raise money. The four main ideas were: Using profits from the water department; a rate hike for city sewer-users to help pay for the new $500,000 sewer system; using land-sale profits; and city worker layoffs and cutbacks in workers' hours, including dismantling the Pittman Fire Department.

The Home News learned Feb. 4 that two German shepherds were poisoned with strychnine. Dr. Gerhard Hoenstch, a local veterinarian who saved both dogs, warned pet owners to keep an eye on their animals. Police were looking for the poisoner.

High school, university and v-tech students were being sought to fill auxiliary firemen vacancies for the city. Salaries began at 50¢ per hour and the rookies were expected to be at the firehouse from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. every third day and four hours on the weekend.

Three homeowners living near the Paradise Valley Golf Course asked the City Council to improve LeMesa Drive. Councilman Lorin Williams made a motion to contact the Mesa Development Co. by Feb. 16.

On Feb. 4, a seven-member committee was appointed to study the choices for a "mini-convention center" for Henderson. The committee was formed to confer on the selection of an architect, building plans, site selection and management methods.

Federal help was asked for the "Henderson Cloud" by Mayor Lorin Williams, the Home News reported Feb. 7. The City Council adopted a position statement which

Men lying to women

By Richard Cohen

WASHINGTON — Weird! That's the look I got from the news dealer when I put my magazines on the counter: Savvy Woman, Ladies Home Journal, Redbook, Working Woman, McCall's and some others. Was I looking to give myself "a total beauty makeover" (McCall's)? Was I interested in the "sexual secrets men are afraid to share" (Redbook)? Nothing of the sort. I was boning up to become secretary of Health and Human Services.

The current occupant of that cabinet post, Dr. Louis Sullivan, recently blasted R.J. Reynolds for attempting to market cigarettes specifically to blacks. "Uptown" is the name of the cigarette and black is Sullivan's race and the two turned out to be a combustible mixture. Sullivan exploded: "This brand is cynically and deliberately targeted toward black Americans."

Indeed it is. Reynolds made no bones about it. Blacks are much more likely than whites to smoke and, as Sullivan noted, much more likely to die of lung cancer and other cigarette-related disease. With all that ails the black community, Sullivan rightly concluded that the last thing it needs is a cigarette of its own.

Sullivan did a good thing. But some cancer experts wished the HHS secretary was what he demonstrably is not—a black woman. Then, instead of just lambasting the tobacco industry on behalf of blacks, he might have said something about women as well. They indeed have come a long way. Lung cancer among women has passed breast cancer as a cause of death.

In marketing terms, this is an American success story. Once it was daring for a woman just to smoke and magazine ads in the 1920s and '30s equated smoking with what then passed for women's liberation. Now the tobacco industry has a different message for women and, once again, a liberation of sorts is promised—freedom from fat. To see what I mean, let's turn to the magazines I bought.

McCall's has a two-page spread for Capri Super Slims. Redbook's back cover sells the same brand, but the Ladies' Home Journal pushes Super Slims. Savvy begins its issue with a two-page ad for Super Slims and ends it with a Now 100s ad and the last two pages of Working Woman are devoted to an ad for Capri Super Slims.

By now, the careful reader will note that one word is repeated: slim. That's because cigarette makers know many women are obsessed with their weight. Those who smoke, fear quitting because they will gain weight. Women who don't smoke might want to take it up to control their weight. Should either group have any qualms about smoking, the ads are there to put them at ease. The models are the epitome of healthfulness and, of course, they're all slim.

When it comes to sheer perniciousness, nothing beats those ads. They promise a healthy, attractive look through the use of an unhealthy product. As Dr. Sam Broder, head of the National Cancer Institute, likes to say, cigarettes are about the only product you can think of that's unhealthy when used as directed. And women are using them. The percentage of men who smoke has declined dramatically. Not so women. And surveys tell us that more teenage girls smoke than teenage boys.

Of course, the tobacco industry is not the only culprit here. The list of unindicted co-conspirators is long and includes, of course, the publishers of women's magazines (and, for the record, Newsweek, owned by my employer, The Washington Post Co.). Not excluded from that list are the publishers of magazines aimed at blacks.

After Sullivan blasted Uptown, Johnson Publications said it would not accept advertising for the brand in any of its publications. Ha! What hypocrisy! The current issue of Jet, a magazine Johnson publishes, begins with a cigarette ad (Kool), ends with one (Virginia Slims) and has one in the middle (Newport Stripes). All three are mentholated cigarettes, the type that blacks for some reason prefer. All three ads show light-skinned black women having a swell time on the weed.

R.J. Reynolds's mistake, it turns out, was to admit it was targeting blacks with Uptown. The makers of other brands, though, have been doing this for some time. It can have come as no surprise to Johnson Publications that blacks smoke more than whites and, of course, suffer the consequences. As for the women's magazines, they know perfectly well what they are doing. They're making money at the expense—even for lives—of their readers.

So, bully for Sullivan. Physician first, cabinet officer second, he saw a health menace and did something about it. But Sullivan ought to drop the other shoe and blast cigarette companies for targeting women.

Ads that promise good health and good looks may be a new message, but the technique is as old as the hills. It's just another example of men lying to women.

Feds don't play by Nevada's rules

By Guy Shieler

In theory, the traditional love-hate relationship between Nevada and the federal government boils down to one clear and simple attitude: We love the fed's money but hate its intrusion into our lives.

Trouble is that sometimes when theory becomes fact the relationship gets tangled up in its own feet, because most of those intrusions have money connected to them in some way.

Let the feds announce they may withdraw such an intrusion from our state and all hell breaks loose. We may have been bellyaching about its presence for years, but all of a sudden it becomes a precious entity and we try to protect it with our lives, our sacred honor and our pocketbooks (not necessarily in that order).

So it was last week when the Defense Department announced its plan to move the Stealth bomber program from its base at Tonopah to New Mexico. Immediately the Three Musketeers who make up Nevada's Democratic leadership went into action. Gov. Bob Miller (D'Artagnan) was joined by Sens. Richard Bryan (Aramis) and Reid (Athos) in mutual and indignant denunciation of this cruel and unusual punishment. Miller led his compatriots in the attack with a formal statement, proclaiming in part:

"Nevada has always done all it could to encourage a strong military presence, and that means total cooperation from Nevadans who work on the bases and live in nearby towns.

"The people in Nevada communities who live near bases have a strong economic link to the military. It's unfair for the federal government to make a commitment to a town, a long-term financial commitment, and then to break its end of the bargain...Many Nevada families have invested heavily in businesses that support the Tonopah facility. Now the federal government wants to pull the rug out from under their feet."

So federal intrusion is not always bad—if it operates according to Nevada's rules. The trouble is it doesn't. That makes our officials angry because it's a blatant violation of Nevada's fierce pride in its traditional support of rugged individualism and independence.

Defending that remnant of the Old West led Bob Miller to spend much of his first year in office in full cry against the federal government's peccadillos. In so doing, he carried the banner Richard Bryan handed him when he became Nevada's junior U.S. senator.

Until the announcement of the defense cutbacks, Miller's battle with the feds had been against intrusions that had (1) already been made by the military; and (2) by the threat of new intrusions by the Department of Energy with its nuclear waste dump.

As the D'Artagnan of the state's top leadership, the governor took over from Bryan local direction of the battle. (The junior senator still leads the Washington flank attack.) In the midst of sparring with the Navy over the ear-shattering sonic booms from its low-level pilot training, Miller learned of the discovery of 30 years of lousy marksmanship by pilots who, on their practice runs, scattered bombs in seeming cavalier fashion across the desert landscape.

And no sooner had he and his Washington colleagues begun to express their horror over that light-hearted handling of high explosives than word came of alleged huge fuel spills at the Fallon Naval Air Station itself.

Now in the latter cases, neither the governor nor the members of the Nevada congressional delegation in Washington had any thought of kicking the offenders out of the state. In the first place, even if they wanted to they couldn't—any such urges get pretty well frustrated by the fact that the federal government has, ever since territorial days, owned or operated 87 percent of the land in Nevada. Like it or not, it still does.

Then there is the fact that in spite of their supposedly nefarious doings, especially their propensity for using the state as a shooting gallery, the military installations supply the local civilian populations with economic benefits—jobs and money—just as the Stealth bomber operation has done.

But why does this state-federal war seem to have gained such impetus lately?

The answer lies in the fact that not only do we live in a shrinking world, but in a shrinking country. The United States cannot live in splendid isolation these days; everything from its financial markets to automobile production to the general economy has become interdependent with nations throughout the world.

By the same token, the states of the nation have become much more closely linked with one another. Bit by bit, inexorably, that luxury of Old West individuality and independence of which Nevada has been so proud is disappearing into the mass facelessness that may well be the hallmark of the 21st century.

Legislature in '89 boosted money grab by one-third

Because members of the Nevada Legislature go to great lengths to keep their victims from understanding what's being done to them, it takes considerable time to sort out the degree of abuse delivered upon the rest of us when the solons gather in Carson City.

The lawmakers worked their feats of obfuscation, deception and confiscation during the first six months of last year; and now, after another six months or so, the people are beginning to discover some of the things that happened to them during the legislative session.

Some of the answers were provided this week by the Nevada Taxpayers' Association, which has calculated the legislators voted to take approximately $1.7 billion away from other people for "general fund appropriations" during the current biennium and that the lawmakers increased the severity of their fleecing process by about a third (32.6 percent) compared to the assault on taxpayers waged by Nevada legislators two years earlier, in 1987.

The taxpayer group noted the 1989 session of the Legislature was dragged out for 166 days (the longest in the state's history), and the total general fund appropriation indicates the lawmakers were taking money away from other people during that time at an average rate of $10 million per day.

Statistics prepared by the association show the appropriators this year will take approximately $280 million away from the people through sales and use taxes and will confiscate more than $300 million in state gambling taxes. Those are the two biggest devices for taking the earnings of their folks; and other significant confiscations are represented in the $55 million to be seized as insurance premium tax, $31 million in cigarette tax and $24 million in property tax. Several other ways to separate people from their money are included in half a dozen tax levies that yield less than $20 million per year each; and a variety of fees, licenses and miscellaneous grabs will combine with the bigger fiscal diversions to separate the people of Nevada and the state's tourist from $758,511,707 during the 1989-90 fiscal year.

The budget adopted by the legislators at the '89 session anticipates another series of raids worth more than $810 million will be made during the 1990-91 fiscal year to achieve the total confiscation of more than $1.5 billion in two years.

More than half (57 percent) of this money is to be spent on education, at a rate of more than $400 million per year; and that obscure socialistic money sink called "human resources" will gobble up another quarter of the total, more than $150 million per year, mostly purporting to solve problems that government is inherently incapable of solving.

Such legitimate pursuits of government as public safety (10 percent of the total), general government (4.5 percent) and regulatory activities (2.7 percent) are almost inconsequential in the grand spending spree enacted by the legislators.

The projections also show that spending budgeted for those two big categories, education and "human resources," anticipate excessive growth—more than 25 percent during the biennium for education and more than 38 percent for "human resources."

A couple of conclusions can be drawn from the numbers provided by the Nevada Taxpayers' Association. First, our legislators are taking too much money away from other people. The escalation rate of 33 percent in confiscations every time they gather is excessive by any assessment. Second, they are spending all that money in foolish ways. Their constituents would be more reasonably served by a 38 percent annual cut in "human resource" expenditures, rather than by an increase of that scale.

If the legislators would allow the people to keep more of the money they have earned (by refraining from such as 33 percent escalations in money being taken away from those people), the people could use their own money to attend to their "human resource" needs without government interference.

Bravo for Moynihan's tax-cut plan

By Stephen Moore

Thanks to "the stealth tax hike" that is raising Social Security taxes for the seventh time in 10 years, American workers' 1990 take-home pay has shrunk.

This tax hike takes $7 billion out of American pockets, cutting a worker's take-home pay by up to $600 a year. In addition, the increased levy on employers will cause many to trim job rolls or cancel plans for expansion. For 80 percent of middle-income families, escalating Social Security taxes—intended to "save" the system—have eroded all their gains from the income-tax cuts of the Reagan years.

Even without the added revenues, the retirement program will be financially solvent for at least the next three decades. The new funds, moreover, would not go into a reserve for paying benefits to "baby boomers" in the next century. Instead, the retirement funds from the surplus—$70 billion this year and $230 billion by the year 2000—are to be spent on current government programs. Nothing is being saved, deposited or invested for future retirees. The "fund" is merely a stack of IOUs from the Treasury. The White House proposals to move Social Security "off budget" wouldn't change that.

"Thievery" is what Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, the New York Democrat, correctly brands the present tax structure. As chairman of the Senate Finance Subcommittee on Social Security, he will introduce legislation to stop it. His plan would cancel this year's tax hike immediately and cut a further 2.2 percentage points next year. His intent is to have incoming payroll taxes equal outgoing retirement payments each year.

That would give $55 billion back to workers next year without affecting current or future Social Security benefits. Social Security would become a genuine "pay-as-you-go" system, rather than a cash cow subsidizing federal spending. Therefore, President Bush should endorse Moynihan's plan.

Social Security taxes have risen from two percent on the first $3,000 of earnings in 1977, to six percent of wages in 1960, to today's 15.3 percent on income up to $51,300. Workers and employers each pay half.

The current Social Security rate structure was set in 1983 when Lawmakers expected sluggish economic growth, and thus low-tax receipts, for the remainder of the decade. But economic expansion generated a huge, unexpected surplus. The Moynihan proposal merely corrects for that forecasting error.

What about the overall economic impact? A payroll tax falls disproportionately on lower-income workers and discourages businesses from hiring additional workers. Former U.S. Treasury economists Aldona and Gary Robbins estimate that the 1988 and 1990 payroll tax hikes will cost Americans 510,000 jobs and reduce gross national product (GNP) by $320 billion during the next 10 years, while every dollar reduction in Social Security taxes would expand economic output by 68 cents.

Pro-growth tax policies are the best way to protect the solvency of Social Security; for example, plans like Moynihan's, the capital gains tax cut urged by Bush and expanding eligibility for Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA). If real per capita incomes were to grow just two percent per year, or about 1980's growth rate, for the next 40 years, workers in the year 2030 would have more than double the income of today's workers, substantially easing the burden of paying for retirees' benefits. But maintaining today's high payroll taxes will make such growth impossible.

Some say the Moynihan plan would inflate the federal deficit. But Social Security taxes were never intended to finance the deficit or pay for anything but Social Security. Moreover, projections show that if the Social Security tax were reduced to the level needed just to cover the program's expenditures, and all other federal programs were frozen at 1990 levels, the budget would be balanced by 1994.

It's time to end this stealth tax increase and return pay-as-you-go honesty to the Social Security system. The White House should join other champions of economic growth in endorsing the Moynihan tax cut.

Merchants thanked

Editor:

The Fraternal Order of Eagles Lodge 2672 extends its warmest thanks to the several local merchants, including:

- Video Tyme of Henderson
- Henderson Jewelers
- Blockbuster Video
- Goldcaster Jewelers
- O.K. Tire
- Liquori's
- Affair with Hair, Debbie, Sabina, Madelon, Daisy, and Karen

The merchants' donations to the Eagle's annual New Year's Eve Dance were greatly appreciated. Henderson was founded on merchants like them, and they can not be thanked enough.

We would also like to thank "CornBred," the hard-working, hard-playing, fun-loving bank that helped New Year's be such a success. Thanks to you all: Tommy, Joyce, Dan, Roxanne, Joel and Bill.

Look to the Eagles again for 1991's New Year's party. Thank you again!

Still more thanks

Editor:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of University Medical Center Foundation and myself, I would like to thank the Henderson Home News for the extraordinary support of time, energy and resources which contributed greatly to the tremendous success achieved at the First Annual Great Las Vegas Duck Race.

Your efforts were rewarded! The day was beautiful, the winds perfect and the crowd had a great time. Next year we hope to make the Second Annual Great Las Vegas Duck Race another smashing success.

Your continued support for excellence in quality health care for the children in our community is deeply appreciated.

said that since the BMI complex, which was mainly blamed for the cloud, was not part of Henderson, the problem should be solved with federal dollars. The money would be used to upgrade pollution abatement facilities at the complex.

1985
A Cuban gang was blamed for the death of a Henderson man. At 11 p.m. on Feb. 5, police received a call for a burglary in progress in the Pittman neighborhood. The house was empty when police arrived, but signs of a homicide were evident. On Feb. 6, the man's body was found near the Las Vegas Wash north of Pittman.

Financing for the Lake Las Vegas project was delayed due to developers' lack of financing information, as then-Gov. Richard Bryan pointed out, reported the Home News on Feb. 5. Bryan also stated that the developers should have also answered the concerns of opposing views to the project. The developers were expected to submit another application in the near future.

Henderson's finest?

Editor:

As I go over some of the pictures I took at the Kidd Marshmallow Co., I came across these pictures of our Henderson firefighters when they came to inspect the rebuilt Kidd Marshmallow factory.

I'm sorry I don't know any of these men's names. But I would like to share the pictures I took.

Remember they are your friends, your neighbors, people you pass on the street. They're always ready to come to your help in time of need. They are the fine, brave firefighters of the Henderson Fire Department.

They are among of Henderson's finest, and we are proud of each and every one of them.

lives. Hitt said large truck drivers for the firm drive through the neighborhood as though they were in cars.

He also said the drivers occasionally make obscene gestures to neighborhood children. Hitt said he has spoken to the council on the matter several times.

According to City Manager Phil Speight, the city is examining possible solutions for Hitt's problem.

"This can't go on, this hostility. Someone is going to get hurt," said Councilman Mike Harris.

The city received two purchase bids on a 31-acre parcel near the Villa Hermosa Trailer Park. Lewis Homes submitted the accepted bid.

In voting for Lewis Homes, Councilman Mike Harris noted the developer offered to pay for offsite improvements to a park planned for that neighborhood.

Two city-owned houses are now up for renovation bids. The home at 155 W. Basic Rd. was occupied when the city purchased it. The other, 151 W. Basic, was boarded up. About $25,000 has been set aside from the Land Fund for the project.

In order to ensure Henderson gets the most complete count possible in upcoming U.S. census, the council created a Complete Count Committee. According to Ann Barron, economic development director, the committee will seek ways to stress the importance of the census to Henderson residents. The committee is made up of Sunny Dent, John Flaherty, Rusty Durante, Edie Barker, Chris Maestas, Bill Timmons and Angie Mundo together with Ted Carrasco, representing the Clark County School District.

Laurence Thomas, founder of the anti-drug and anti-gang youth organization Street Wise Alive, asked the council to underwrite the part of the expense of renting the Henderson Convention Center for SWA's youth-only dances.

Thomas estimated the entire cost of staging a dance at the facility to be $3,081. The last concert staged at the facility took in $3,600. He asked the council pay for the center's rental, $925, and the cost of hiring some security for the next two dances. He added any help the council could give would be appreciated.

Thomas said he was afraid if less than $3,000 was taken in for a dance, SWA would be financially prevented from holding dances in the near future. After two more dances, he said he expects SWA to be able to manage dances without outside support.

The Convention Center operates on an enterprise budget which forces the city to pay when it rents the center for city function. According to Manager Sharon Phelps, the center has given discounts to regular customers and non-profit organizations, but has never completely underwritten the rental cost.

The basketball court at O'Callaghan Park is in need of resurfacing, according to City Hall information. The council put the item to bid, estimating the cost at $45,000. Also, $60,000 was set aside for concessions and restrooms at the Burkholder Ballfield site.

The council's regular meeting for Tuesday, March 6, was moved to Tuesday, March 13, because several members of the City Council will be in Washington, attending a National League of Cities meeting.

The council appointed Frank Lamping to a vacancy on the Senior Citizen Advisory Board; Carl Gozier to the Citizen's Traffic Advisory Board; Aaron Blackburn to the Citizen's Advisory Committee to the Clark County Control Advisory Committee; and Manny Gomez to the Commemorative Beautification Commission.

'Boss for a Day Program' getting ready

A scene from last year's program.

The annual "Boss for a Day" program has been a very good way for students to get a first hand observation of career potentials, said Chamber of Commerce officials.

The participating students get a real look at businesses and progressions from the inside. This year's program will begin at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 21, with a program and continental breakfast at Basic High School. After the breakfast, the student and their sponsor will go to the office or job-site for a morning of experience.

Business persons and students at Basic High School, should use this unique opportunity to look at possibilities for the future.

The cost of constructing the interconnect was estimated to be $1.74 million. Building Sandhill to Russell would add another $586,000. Any acquisition costs along Patrick or Silvestri would be additional.

A few of the commissioners however expressed concern about Sandhill's ability to handle increased traffic north of Russell Road.

Just before the commissioners tabled the matter for another month, former Gov. Grant Sawyer, a Sierra Vista Ranchos resident, called Tomiyasu "bedlam" and urged the commissioners to act quickly to find a north-south alternative.

GREEN VALLEY NEWS

Quering continues sidewalk fight

By Hugh J. Anderson III
President, GVCA

In a recent News article, the issue of no sidewalks along Wigwam in Green Valley South was highlighted. It described the current frustration of residents and city officials in getting sidewalks put in by the developer.

One resident, GVCA member Ruth Ann Quering, has been working on this issue for many months. She is deeply concerned about the safety of school children who must use the street to wait for buses. The GVCA commends Quering for her efforts on behalf of all those children who will benefit from sidewalks. More important is the recognition that that resident embodies the spirit of the GVCA for her tenacity, community spirit and willingness to get involved.

A recent edition of a local daily newspaper had a front-page profile of the growth and development of Henderson. The article was largely flattering, emphasizing that Henderson was no longer the back-water cousin to Las Vegas. An interesting quote from one of the city's planning staff stated that no new zoning for apartments was planned, that existing zoning was sufficient to meet current needs.

Whether the current debate on Southern Nevada water supplies is legitimate or just so much media hype remains to be seen. What is obvious is that many parts of the country are experiencing below-normal rainfall and, in some cases, drought.

Southern Nevada is desert and developing rapidly. It is imperative that residents become "water aware."

Recently the Las Vegas Valley Water District announced

a series of programs to teach residents how to conserve water. The Sierra Club, Aquavision and the Cooperative Extension Service will also participate. It is estimated by the county that simple conservation efforts could reduce water use by as much as 25 percent.

Gaming Industry ties on nearly 25,000 MADD ribbons

Employees at 14 of Southern Nevada's hotel and gaming resorts were in the red during the holidays—and it wasn't due to excessive use of their credit cards.

Rather, some 24,400 dealers, cocktail waitresses, food servers, administrative personnel and hotel executives did what thousands of Southern Nevadans have made a habit of doing the past four years—"tie one on with MADD."

The fourth annual Mothers Against Drunk Driving Red Ribbon Campaign, which officially concluded in January, saw 1.5 million red ribbons distributed in a community-wide effort to visually remind motorists to not drink and drive.

"It's the first time the Nevada Gaming Industry has participated in the Red Ribbon Campaign as one big group, and it paid great dividends," said MADD Executive Director Sandy Heverly.

"I look forward to increased involvement by the Nevada Gaming Industry next year which will mark our chapter's 10th anniversary," Heverly said.

pleted for several years, according to Green Valley Community Association President Hugh Anderson.

A status report on the proposed construction of Pecos Road was presented by Clark County officials at a 7 p.m. meeting Thursday (after News presstime) at Cannon Junior High School. County and city officials, developers and leaders of concerned homeowners' groups were expected to attend the meeting.

Anderson said county engineers have ruled out Al Collins' two-lane proposal, which he presented to the County Commissioners in December.

Officials estimate the full improvement—six travel lanes, a center turning lane and a 100-foot-wide bridge over Duck Creek—would cost $2.6 million. The purchase of right-of-way along Pecos from entertainer Wayne Newton and developer Tony Marnell would further delay the project.

Moreover, traffic officials are not convinced that Pecos will alleviate north-south traffic congestion in the area, said Anderson (see Anderson's column, page 6). The county instead will study a number of alternatives:

- The extension of Green Valley Parkway to Sandhill near Russell.

- The widening of Eastern Avenue and Warm Springs with the installation of a traffic signal at the intersection.

To reduce traffic on Tomiyasu Lane, the county will consider a median on Sunset Road to prevent motorists from making left turns from Sunset south onto Tomiyasu and to prevent left turns from Tomiyasu onto west-bound Sunset. Residents living near Tomiyasu, a country lane not equipped to handle much traffic, have vocally supported expediting the opening of Pecos.

The proposals are expected to be considered at the Clark County Commission meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Bridger Building.

BLEACHERS DONATED TO SCHOOLS—Clark County School District Superintendent Dr. Brian Cram, left, accepts a donation of bleachers from Showboat Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer G. Clifford Taylor. The bleachers, which seat up to 4,000, will be used by junior and senior high school choral groups.

Showboat donates bleachers to schools

The Showboat Hotel and Casino has donated bleachers from its Sports Pavilion to the Clark County School District for choral groups to use at older junior and senior high schools.

The bleachers were used by the Showboat for its boxing and wrestling setup and have a seating capacity of 4,000. The Showboat Sports Pavilion is currently undergoing renovation.

School District Equipment

Specialist Sam Abramo said, "This donation from the Showboat will allow our junior and senior high schools to have permanent choral fixtures."

The Showboat also donated 52 tables and 90 stacking chairs to the district. The tables, used for the Showboat's buffet, were given to the Vo-Tech culinary arts program. The chairs will be upholstered and distributed to schools throughout the district.

Geography bee competition underway

The preliminary rounds of the Clark County Geography Bee for students in grades 4-8 are underway at various schools in the Clark County School District this week.

Top students in the Clark County competition will advance to the Nevada finals which will be held at Cashman Field Center on March 30. Approximately 160 schools throughout the state are participating in the Nevada Geography Bee.

One hundred school winners will be chosen by the National Geographic Society for the state rounds through a written test given by the society. Winners will be announced at the end of February.

Students advancing to the finals will compete on March 30 at Cashman Field. The preliminary statewide competition will begin at 1:15 p.m. The final round will be held at 3 p.m.

At 12:30 p.m., Tim Foresman, manager of Geographic Information Systems, a new office in

Judge Guy to run again

District Judge Addelmar Dell Guy recently announced that he is seeking re-election to the Department 11 seat he has held since 1975.

Guy was appointed to the District Court bench by then-Gov. Mike O'Callaghan in July 1975. He served as chief District Court Judge between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31 of 1985.

Prior to his appointment, Guy worked as deputy district attorney for 10 years, the last three of which he served as chief deputy district attorney.

"I enjoy my work; I love the challenges each day brings," Guy said. "Because I understand the law and because I understand human nature, the people whose trials I preside over are satisfied with my decisions the vast majority of the time. I enjoy the challenge of making legal decisions, and have dedicated myself to performing whatever research is necessary to ensure that all matters brought before me are judged fairly."

Guy, 66, received his law degree in 1957 from Loyola University School of Law in Chicago. He is a member of the National Bar Association, and serves on the National Bar Association's executive board of the Judicial Council.

Judge Addelmar Dell Guy

He was recognized as a "Distinguished Nevadan" in 1979 by the University of Nevada Board of Regents, was honored in 1980 with the "Distinguished Achievement Award" by the Judicial Council of the National Bar Association, and was recipient of the Silver Beaver Award in 1989 by the Boy Scouts of America.

Guy has been actively involved with the Las Vegas Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and has worked for many Las Vegas charity and service organizations. He was awarded the Silver Lily Award in 1979 by the Easter Seal Society.

A former chairman of Fitzsimmons House and a member of the Las Vegas Housing Authority, Guy serves on the board of the A.D. Guy Boys' Club. He has taught criminal law at Clark County Community College.

Guy is married and has three children—Capt. Addelmar Guy IV, Dr. Pamela Guy and Michael Guy.

Serenata Chamber Orchestra presents concert

A Feb. 18 concert will be held in the Clark County Library Auditorium, 1401 E. Flamingo Rd., featuring the Serenata Chamber Orchestra. The orchestra, a 16-piece ensemble, is the resident musical arts group for the library district. The concert is preceded by an open rehearsal on Feb. 17 in the Spring Valley Library auditorium, 4280 S. Jones, revealing the orchestra at work behind the scenes. The events on both days are held at 3 p.m. and are free to the public. The concert will be broadcast over public radio KNPR-FM 89.5. The concert features Bach's "Symphony in F"; Nowak's "Concerto for Six Timpani and Orchestra" with soloist Jack Cenna; Mozart's "Concerto No. 14 for Piano and Orchestra," with soloist Michael Mulder; and Bloch's "Concerto Grosso for String Orchestra and Piano Obligato." Rodolfo Fernandez, founder, conductor and musical director of the library's orchestra-in-residence, selects both the personnel and the repertoire for the orchestra, with the aim of presenting a diversity of musical styles and techniques from the Baroque to the Contemporary. The orchestra has developed a devoted audience of regular concert-goers since it was formed in 1985.

For more information about the orchestra, call 733-3631.

Native American Languages Lecture Tuesday

Dr. Laverne Jeanne, an anthropologist from the University of Nevada, Reno, will speak on "Native American Languages and the Study of the Mind" at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in Frank and Estella Beam Hall Room 112 on the UNLV campus.

Her free, public talk is sponsored by UNLV's College of Liberal Arts.

Jeanne's primary research interest is the study of Native American languages, including her native Hopi.

During her UNLV talk, she will examine certain aspects of Hopi, contrasting them with their counterparts in English and other languages. She will attempt to demonstrate the truth in linguists' claim that there is a universal grammar for all natural languages.

Anthropologists believe the structure of languages provides a window into certain aspects of the human mind. Languages which appear to be very different from each other are governed by a small number of basic principles. The study of Native American languages provides special insight into the mind, enabling researchers to move closer to the discovery of these principles.

The program "Native American Languages and the Study of the Mind" is funded by the Nevada Humanities Committee, the state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Sen. Hal Smith to be honored by GOP women

State Sen. Hal Smith of Henderson will be honored Saturday at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner, which is once again being hosted by the Republican Women of Henderson. The fundraiser gets underway at 6 p.m. at the Henderson Convention Center, officials said.

Clark County District Attorney Rex Bell will be guest speaker at the dinner, which also features the Rev. Caesar Caviglia as master of ceremonies.

Proceeds from the no-host bar will go to the Henderson Boys and Girls Club. Virgil McKinney will perform at the piano.

Smith, who is seeking a second term as District 1 state senator, said the special recognition "is greatly appreciated."

"I know there are many outstanding citizens in Henderson who deserve to be recognized for their contributions to this community," Smith said. "I am flattered to be considered among that group."

St. Rose Hospital to offer CPR class

St. Rose Dominican Hospital will offer a class in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation on Monday and Tuesday. Both classes will be held from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the hospital Annex. The class is open to the public and will cost $10.

Those who complete the class will be qualified to perform basic lifesaving CPR. CPR is used in incidents which interrupt the normal rhythm of breathing and heartbeat such as heart attacks or near-drownings, spokespersons said.

Due to space limitations, reservations are requested.

Diana MacNeil-Berres, guest dancer with Choreographers Showcase.

Dance critic to perform in Choreographers Showcase

California dance critic and choreographer Martin A. David will be the featured choreographic advisor for the 1990 Choreographer Showcase, at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in the Charleston Heights Arts Center.

Tickets for the event, which is so-sponsored by the Allied Arts Council and the City of Las Vegas, are $6 general admission and $4 for students, seniors and Allied Arts members.

David, who has written extensively for the Los Angeles Times, was an aspiring actor until he turned to dance in his late 20s. "My training as a dancer began at 27," he said. "I debuted as a dancer at 31."

In 1966, David and fellow dancer Diane Black formed the Creative Dance Theatre, in Paris. David choreographed about half of the ensemble's repertoire as it moved from Paris to Rome, and later to Copenhagen, Denmark. "We toured all over Europe with great success," he recalled.

After 10 years in Europe, David and Black returned to the U.S., where they toured as a pair.

"Although there were only two of us, we were able to offer a full evening of duets and solos, and we toured all over the country."

David eventually arrived in Los Angeles, where he put his dance knowledge to work as a critic for the Times and the Hollywood Drama-Logue.

The Showcase, first held in 1981, was created to give local choreographers and dancers a chance to stage purely creative work that might not otherwise find an audience. The lucrative commercial dance work in Las Vegas production shows has created a pool of dance professionals here, many of whom are eager to stretch artistically.

For more information about the Choreographers Showcase, call 731-5419.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

ROSA HERWICK, GRI, CRS
HOUSE VALUE VS LOT VALUE

QUESTION: What is the proper relationship between the cost of a lot and the value of the house on it?

ANSWER: Old rules of thumb have lost much of their meaning. It used to be that land represented about one-sixth of the home's purchase price. Then it moved up to one-fourth. And it will change again as the cost of land continues to rise.

Nevertheless, the land value versus house value ratio cannot be totally dismissed because it does, to some extent, affect the resale value of the property. It may not make much difference if you put an inexpensive house on an expensive lot, but it could be a mistake to have too much house for the land.

THE RELATIONSHIP between the cost of the lot and cost of the house is important.

Angi Vera' to screen at UNLV

The second movie in UNLV's Tenth International Film Series in Pal Gabor's Hungarian film "Angi Vera," based on a novel by Endre Veszi. "Angi Vera" will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 18 in John S. Wright Hall, Room 103, on the university campus.

The year is 1948, just after the Communist coup—a period of personal and national crisis for the Hungarians. The setting is a strictly regulated political re-education camp, to which a special selection of workers have been sent for several months' training.

The heroine is Vera Angi (her name is reversed in the title due to Hungarian custom), played by Veronika Papp, a small, shy, 18-year-old woman who is "truly a good citizen." She is sent to the camp because, while serving as a nurse, she had the courage to publicly protest the abuses and bureaucracy in the hospital where she worked.

The story line has amazing twists. Vera Angi goes through a process of dehumanization, or an education in moral self-betrayal, as chilling truths about reality are revealed.

Opposite Papp are Tamas Dunai as Istvan Andre, the gentle group leader of the Party school. He is the married man with whom Vera falls in love. Erzs Pasztor plays Anna Trajan, the weary-looking, politically regimented Marxist who tries to mold Vera.

As the story is resolved, the characters play critical roles in the plot, especially during the camp's session of "Criticism and Self-Criticism," when Vera renounces her lover.

The story was adapted and directed by Gabor, who creates an emotionally rich, intelligent, ironic film by confronting the heroine with all the ethical and moral changes that her society faces.

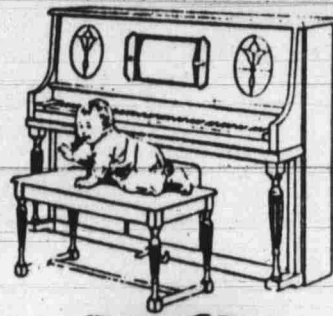

Gabor comments, "In short, the film is about responsibility. It is about ill-advised choices made and the consequences stemming from these misguided moves, consequences that affect the whole society."

Gabor graduated from Hungary's Academy of Dramatic and Cinematographic Arts as a film director in 1961, and has since directed on such acclaimed films as Zoltan Fabri's "The Brute" and Ferenc Kosi's "Ten Thousand Suns."

Angi Vera has won Gabor several awards, including the International Critics Prize at the Cannes Film Festival in 1979 and the Gold Hugo (Grand Prize) at the Chicago Film Festival in 1979.

THIS DOESN'T NEED TO HAPPEN!

Last spring more than 80 unwanted kittens were abandoned at the Dewey Animal Shelter everyday during kitten season. Many of these kittens were too weak and sick to be adopted, and a vast majority of them were not adopted due to the overwhelming number that were turned in each day.

The answer to these sad statistics is to spay and neuter our animals. In an effort to lessen the number of unwanted kittens this spring the Animal Foundation of Nevada will spay any female cat FREE OF CHARGE at the Low Cost Spay & Neuter Clinic during the entire month of February.

Voter registration slogan contest kicks off

With this year's elections just around the corner, Secretary of State Frankie Sue Del Papa and Nevada Superintendent of Education Eugene Paslov are inviting Nevada students to compete in the 1990 Voter Registration Slogan Contest. They have sent letters to all middle, junior high and high schools inviting them to participate in the contest.

The contest was first initiated in 1988 and was highly successful and greatly increased Nevada's awareness of the need to register to vote, officials said.

awareness of the importance of voter registration for all eligible citizens by starting with those who will vote for their first time this year or who will be eligible to vote in the near future," Paslov stated.

The 1990 contest began Feb. 1; the winning slogan will be selected on April 1. Judging will be done by the governor, attorney general, secretary of state and superintendent of education. Winners will receive U.S. savings bonds from First Interstate Bank. The first-place slogan will be used on the Secretary of State's voter registration promotional materials, which includes posters, envelopes, commercial products and billboards.

"To prove that point, Nevada ranked 3rd among states with an increase in voter registration and first among states which saw an increase in voter turnout," said Secretary Del Papa. "Our goal this year is to keep Nevada on top in voter turnout and to put us on top in voter registration. This voter registration slogan contest is designed to do just that."

"We hope to further increase

Common Cause lists unspent campaign funds

Twenty-two members of the state Legislature and all but one of the Clark County commissioners accumulated more money in unspent campaign contributions in 1988 than they received in salaries in 1989.

That's a finding of a study by Common Cause/Nevada, a citizen's group dedicated to higher ethics in government.

A large part of the campaign money that enriched individual legislators came from special-interest groups, Common Cause spokespersons claim.

"There are special interests trying to buy influence from our state and local government officials as blatantly as they are buying influence in Washington," said Jim Hulse, chairman of the statewide board of Common Cause.

Common Cause is circulating an initiative petition that would require political candidates in Nevada to report more fully on the sources of their campaign contributions, to return unspent campaign money to donors or give it to charities or their political parties and to obey the state's Open Meeting Law.

Hulse said his group's statistics were compiled from the candidates' own reports that are required by law.

Office-holders who derived the largest campaign benefits from contributors, which they did not spend on their campaigns, included:

Bruce Woodbury, Clark County commissioner, $133,949; Jacob Bingham, Clark County commissioner, $106,827; Paul Christensen, Clark County commissioner, $82,154; Manuel Cortez, Clark County commissioner, $57,448; and Karen Hayes, Clark County commissioner, $42,720. The annual salary of a Clark County commissioner was $29,000 until Jan. 1, 1990, when it became $45,000.

William Raggio, Sen., Reno, $49,429; Sue Wagner, Sen., Reno, $35,263; Dean Rhodes, Sen., Elko, $33,688; Marvin Sedway, Assemblyman, Las Vegas, $32,797; Joe Dini, Assemblyman, Yerington, $32,200. The salary of a state legislator is $7,200 for a regular session. Other payments for per diem costs, travel, telephone, etc., can increase that to as much as $20,000 during a legislative session.

Nearly every successful legislative and county commission candidate carried home excess campaign contributions, Hulse said. A few used the money to help other candidates and some retained it for future campaigns.

Senior Center Highlights

Vining named Volunteer of Month

By Helen VanDerSys

LaRue Vining, a volunteer teacher of oil painting at the Senior Center for two years, has been named Volunteer of the Month for February. In naming her, Holly Hoitsma, Senior Center director, said, "The center is fortunate to have such a talented person give her free time to teach our seniors the art of painting."

Vining, who says her first love is her family and her second her painting, has sold her paintings all over the country. Vining moved to Henderson from Reno 10 years ago, where she lived 30 years and taught art at the Community College.

Vining loves children and has shared her home with boys who needed a mother image. She enjoys gardening, loves to cook, reads a lot and also sews in her spare time, Vining says. Married 47 years, Vining has two sons and three grandchildren.

There has been a number of inquiries from seniors who enrolled in the Nevada State Medical Association's Nevada Care plan regarding the availability of a listing of physicians who have volunteered to participate in the project.

For their information, a listing of doctors who will accept Medicare reimbursement plus deductibles and co-payments as payment in full for services rendered has been published and the list is available at the Henderson Senior Center for reference.

Seniors who have submitted applications and have been issued Nevada Care membership cards should be receiving a listing of those doctors, which will be periodically updated.

Qualifying seniors over 55 years of age having Medicare Part B and incomes less than $25,000 (single) or $32,000 (couples) may pick up applications for NevadaCare at the Senior Center's reception desk. NevadaCare is not an insurance plan; NevadaCare participants

Driving course for seniors offered

A two-day refresher driving course for senior citizens, "55 Alive," sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons, will be held from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 21-22.

The course is designed for drivers 50 years of age and over who experience age-related physical changes such as declining perceptual skills, officials said. The course includes a review of the rules of the road, local driving hazards and accident prevention measures.

One important advantage of taking the course, spokespersons said, is that several Nevada automobile insurance companies provide premium reductions to graduates of "55 Alive." Individual insurance carriers should be queried to see if completion of the program applies to a premium reduction, they said.

To make a reservation, mail a $7 check, made out to AARP/55 Alive, to AARP/55 Alive, c/o Lawrence E. Franklin, 4300 El Conlon Ave., Las Vegas, Nev. 89102. Payment will not be accepted at the door, spokespersons said. Attendees should bring a pen or pencil to the classes, they added.

For more information, call 386-6454.

LaRue Vining

are required by law to pay the annual deductible of the first $75 of Medicare "allowed" charges for physician's services and 20 percent of allowed charges after that.

The Friends of the Henderson area Senior Inc.'s board of directors will meet at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the center's activity room. Seniors holding a membership card may attend the meeting as an interested person.

A free bus trip to Laughlin, sponsored by Golden Nugget Casino, will leave the center at 9 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 15. Pre-registration for the trip, which includes a free funbook, buffet and cocktail, is required.

Dr. Diskin's Skin Screening clinic will be at the center, at 8:30 a.m. Friday, Feb. 16. No appointment is required for the screening.

Tom's Casino on Sunset Road picks up seniors at the center at 12:30 p.m. every Tuesday, returning them about 3 p.m. A special Valentine's Day menu will be served Wednesday, and there will be live music and entertainment.

Feb. 28 is the deadline for submitting energy assistance applications for those meeting the income criteria. Eligibility is based on an annual projection of monthly income from the month prior to the application. Free bingo is played following the lunch hour at 12:30 p.m. every Thursday. Players are requested to bring a non-perishable item, paper product or canned goods to use as bingo prizes.

A hot, nutritionally sound meal, prepared on site by professional cooks, is served every day at the center from 11:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. No advance sign-up is required and

Food tips for singles

There you stand, alone in your kitchen, staring helplessly into your refrigerator. You're hoping that if you stare long enough a five-course meal will miraculously appear. But no. Once again you must opt for eating out or facing a frozen dinner.

Some singles are terrific cooks. Others panic at the prospect of fending for themselves.

If you go through the nightly dilemma of what to eat for dinner, follow this advice of Carolyn Leontos, registered dietitian and nutrition specialist for Nevada Cooperative Extension:

"Cook as little as possible. That doesn't mean a hamburger every night or hinting for dinner invitations from friends. The plan is to cook a whole batch and freeze individual servings in small plastic containers with tight fitting lids—all labeled, of course.

"By doing this once a week,

Health insurance panel to meet

The Legislative Commission's Subcommittee to Study Health Insurance Benefits will meet at 9:30 a.m. Friday, Feb. 23, in the fifth floor, south end, Commissioners Meeting Room, McCarran International Airport.

Testimony is invited on health insurance benefits required by law, effects of current and proposed mandated health insurance benefits, laws governing self-insured employers and problems experienced by employees and employers who are self-insured, among others.

Deadline nears to enter 1990 National Beef Cook-Off

For those who like to cook, here's a chance to be one of the stars at the 1990 National Beef Cook-Off. But the opportunity for stardom is fleeting. Deadline for entering the contest is March 1.

Top prize in the national event is $15,000 cash, with a total of $35,500 in prize money to be awarded. Contestants from all 50 states will compete in the cook-off, which will be held Sept. 20-22 in Seattle.

To be one of the contestants in Seattle, entrants must first win their state contest in the conventional category or one of seven regional contests in the microwave or outdoor barbecue categories. Winners of each of those categories on the national level will win $5,000, and a chance for an additional $10,000 as "Best of Beef." Second and third prizes of $3,000 and $2,000 in the conventional category, along with five $500 Honorable Mentions, will also be presented. Furthermore, all entrants are eligible for $1,000 prizes in the "most convenient," best "under 300 calories/serving" and best beef recipe utilizing any cut from the chuck special categories.

First prize national winners also will be awarded appliances from Tappan and premium charcoal from Kingsford, official contributors to the 1990 National Beef Cook-Off.

Cooks who own cattle, or whose families own cattle, aren't eligible, officials said. Just send a typed copy of the recipe to the National Beef Cook-Off Entries, 444 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

The National Beef Cook-Off is sponsored by the American Cattle Women, in cooperation with the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board and the Beef Board.

suggested donation is $1.25 for those over 60 years of age or $3 for those under 60 years of age. Meals on Wheels also delivers meals to homebound seniors who have been certified to receive them.

Income Tax assistance by volunteers trained by IRS will be available at the center by appointment only until April 13. Call 565-0669 to make an appointment between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Community services offered at the center include a Social Security representative from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. every Wednesday to resolve problems and answer questions regarding Medicare, Medicaid or Social Security. Legal aide is at the center from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., the first and third Tuesday of every month to help seniors with minor legal problems and the making of a simple will. A Veterans Administration representative comes to the center from 8 a.m. until noon the first Wednesday of every month to assist veterans or their families with service-related problems or questions on benefits available to them. An appointment as far in advance as possible is required to see the legal aide; however, no appointment is required to see Social Security of VA representatives.

Regularly scheduled activities next week:

Monday: Bridge, 8:30 a.m.; grocery shopping, 12:30 p.m.; art class, 12:30 p.m.; line dancing, 2 p.m.

Assessor Dutton files for re-election

Assessor Jean E. Dutton recently filed as a candidate for Assessor of Clark County.

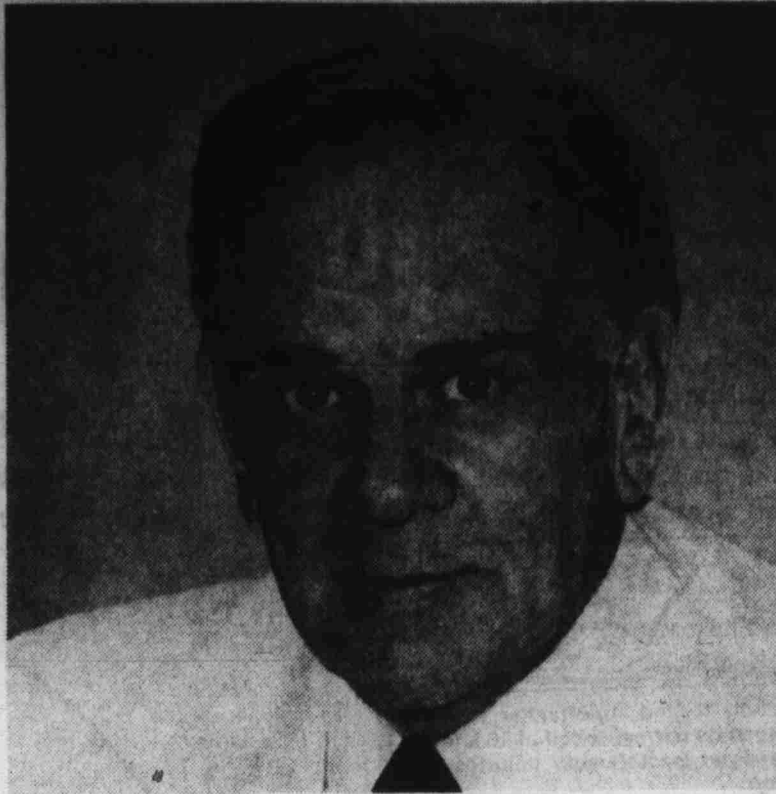

Dutton was first elected to the position in 1974. Prior to that he was director of Las Vegas City Licensing and Revenue for 18 years. Dutton has resided in Las Vegas for 36 years.

Regarding his years in the Assessor's Office, Dutton says he has enjoyed the opportunities to meet with many people and organizations to explain the property tax laws and bring about a better understanding of the functions of the Assessor's Office. "As the elected Assessor," states Dutton, "I have the responsibility to the taxpayers to insure fair and equitable assessments, to propose realistic forms of legislation and to work towards the elimination of unnecessary governmental expenditures and bureaucratic red tape."

Dutton believes in maintaining an open door policy for the benefit of the people.

"The accelerated growth in Clark County is presenting many challenges to the Assessor's Office. 10 years ago in 1980, Clark County had a total count of 170,034 parcels and a gross appraised value in excess of $11 billion. At the close of our current tax roll, we had 257,007 parcels with a gross appraised value of $34 billion," he noted.

Jean F. Dutton

World War II bombs found

Officials at Nellis Air Force Base announced last week that they identified a bombing target near Tonopah containing approximately 11 World War II vintage bombs.

The old target is located approximately 30 miles east of Tonopah in Stone Cabin Valley and was apparently used for B-26 bombing practice by the Army Air Corps.

An explosive ordnance disposal team from Nellis AFB has examined the site and is currently determining the best plan for the bombs' removal.

All appropriate state and local agencies have been notified of the discovery. Security Police from Nellis AFB have secured the site, officials said.

you'll never have to depend on fast food again."

Leontos adds these other tips to help you through the hungries:

- Get a good, basic cookbook and use it. There are plenty of dishes that require little skill. Start with one-dish meals that are hard to ruin like stir fry or chile.

- Salads are the "in" dish these days. They are easy, tasty and nutritious.

- Avoid frying whenever possible. Besides being high in calories, fried foods are usually messy and require more cleanup time (stir fry which uses very little oil is an exception).

- Never shop at the grocery store when hungry; you'll buy more. Use a list. You'll get home with what you need and less of what "looked good."

- Don't forget to drink water. You need six to eight cups of liquid each day. Include two or three glasses of water. The rest can come from beverages like juice, milk, coffee, tea, or soup.

- Eat regular meals. Several small meals are just as good as fewer larger meals if you eat a variety of foods. Try to eat three different types of food at each meal—a fruit or vegetable, a bread or cereal, and a protein or dairy food.

- Always eat breakfast; it gives you energy to start the day. If you're the type who barely has enough time to get dressed in the morning, much less eat, keep individual serving sizes of yogurt or fruit handy to grab on your way out the door. Remember that breakfast does not have to be the traditional-fat bacon and eggs. Try leftover spaghetti, an English muffin pizza or a peanut butter sandwich.

- Try these quick and easy foods that are good for you: hearty soup, baked potato, sardines, cheese and fruit, peanut butter or tuna fish sandwich, green salads, cereal with bananas and milk.

Leontos stresses that you must eat nutritious food every day. "When you do not eat, your body breaks down muscle tissue for energy, making you weak and increasing the possibility of illness.

"Most adults can get the nutrients they need from food. However, if you do need supplements, do not waste your money on 'natural' brands if they are expensive. Choose an economical brand.

"Your body cannot tell the difference between natural and synthetic vitamins," says Leontos. You can overdose on supplements, but you cannot overdose on vitamins and minerals from foods. Leontos advises that, unless medically prescribed, choose a supplement with nutrients that do not exceed 100 percent of the United States Recommended Daily Allowance (check the label).

Establish Close Ties With Your Dog

Use a leash. It's one of the most important things you can give your dog.

With very good reasons, most communities require dogs to be kept on a leash. It keeps your dog from running into traffic and risking injury or death. A leash prevents your dog from trespassing and possibly destroying others' property. It serves as identification when a license is attached to the collar, assuring your dog's return if he should be lost. A leash is also a basic and indispensable tool in behavioral training.

A leash keeps you close to your dog enabling you to communicate better with him. And finally, when you use a leash, your dog will know that he is protected, wanted, and loved.

Grooming shop goes to the dogs

By Ben Baker
News Staff Writer
Many dogs, especially long-haired dogs, require occasional grooming to keep their fur manageable. Debbie Schaefer has decided to make it a point to keep dogs groomed and looking their best.

Customers at the K-9 Klip Joint, 151 Water St., usually make appointments for their pets, similar to the way they will make appointments for themselves at a hair salon. Many owners leave their pets and don't really know what goes on behind the scenes, Schaefer said.

When a dog is brought in, the animal is prepped. Sometimes a flea and tick dip is needed to clean the animal of the tiny parasites, but the dip is not something Schaefer does all the time.

"It's usually extra, because all dogs don't need to be dipped. It's not something you would want to do because the chemicals are very harsh. They have to be to kill the ticks," she said.

Each dog is bathed and nails are trimmed, a process which

State Department intern application deadline looms

Deadline for receipt of applications from college or university juniors, seniors and graduate students for fall 1990 participation in the State Department's various ongoing intern programs is March 1, officials have announced.

Purpose of the intern programs is to encourage students to consider careers in the field of foreign affairs while aiding the department in the fulfillment of its mission. The internships are considered to be an adjunct to an applicant's education and are open only to currently enrolled students who are taking at least one-half of a full-time academic workload and who will be returning to continue their education immediately upon completion of their internships, spokespersons said.

Two types of internships are administered by the State Department: Paid summer interns who serve between May and September and unpaid work/study interns who serve for one semester or quarter during the academic year, i.e., fall - October through December; spring - January through March; and summer - May through September.

Most internships are in Washington, but a few openings occur each year for interns to serve at Foreign Service posts abroad.

Applicants must submit a completed Standard Form 171 (Application for Federal Employment), a 500- to 750-word autobiography, a certified copy of academic transcripts, two letters of endorsement from faculty members and an OPM Form 1386 (Background Survey Questionnaire).

Autobiographies should include the applicant's objective in seeking the internship and discuss relevant studies and involvement in area issues. They also should include the bureaus or offices in which the applicant would like to serve. Separate application packages must be submitted for each area of interest, up to the maximum of three, officials said. Photocopies will be acceptable, they added.

Applicants may mail their applications directly to the Department of State, Intern Coordinator, P.O. Box 18657, Washington, D.C. 20036-8657. Questions concerning the Student Intern Program may be directed to the intern coordinator at the above address or by calling (202) 647-7290.

Deadline for submitting applications for the Spring 1991 internship program is June 30, officials said.

can take from a half-hour to 45 minutes, she said. The dog is then dried in a drying cage or with a hand-help drier.

"We have blow-drying also, because not all dogs can be cage dried. You stick driers on them and they go up the wall," Shaefer said.

After the dog is dried, he goes to a trimmer. Sometimes the dogs have to be muzzled to keep them from biting the clipper. Shaefer said she and her employees have been bitten, but not seriously.

"We move real quick," she said.

The shop has groomed dogs ranging from toy poodles to Great Danes and Afghans. Afghans, large dogs with extremely long hair, are the hardest to groom, she said.

The shop has groomed a dog 22-years-old, she added.

"The whole process takes about three-and-a-half to four hours per dog," she said.

Sometimes the shop gets abused animals people have just adopted from the animal shelter. Shaefer said such animals are treated very carefully and shown lots of affection. Only once has the shop called the humane society to report a possible case of abuse, she said.

"We've had them come in so bad it's awful. You almost cry because you realize how bad it is for the dog," she said.

According to Connie Alanano, it is very important pet owners tell the pet grooming shop of any problems the pet has. She said the shop has been given a few scares when dogs with epilepsies have come in, had a seizure and collapsed.

Shots are also important, she said. Animals must be vaccinated for their own protection as well as the people with whom they come into contact.

Montano's 30 points help Wolves break conference losing streak

By Pat McDonnell
News Sports Editor

The Basic High Wolves broke a pair of long losing streaks Tuesday with an 83-78 home-court victory over Chaparral High.

A fourth quarter comeback, which helped Basic overcome a 62-58 deficit after three quarters, made the Wolves' first Southern AAA conference win in two seasons even sweeter. The defeat extended a Chaparral losing streak to seven games.

Basic's victory was its first triumph since a 63-50 win over Castle Park (Calif.) High Dec. 27—a span of 11 games. The Wolves also were victorious for the first time in 24 league games, dating back to a 66-59 triumph versus Eldorado on Feb. 12, 1988.

"I think the biggest key was they believed they could win," Basic Head Coach John Williams said after the game. "Their focus was on the game."

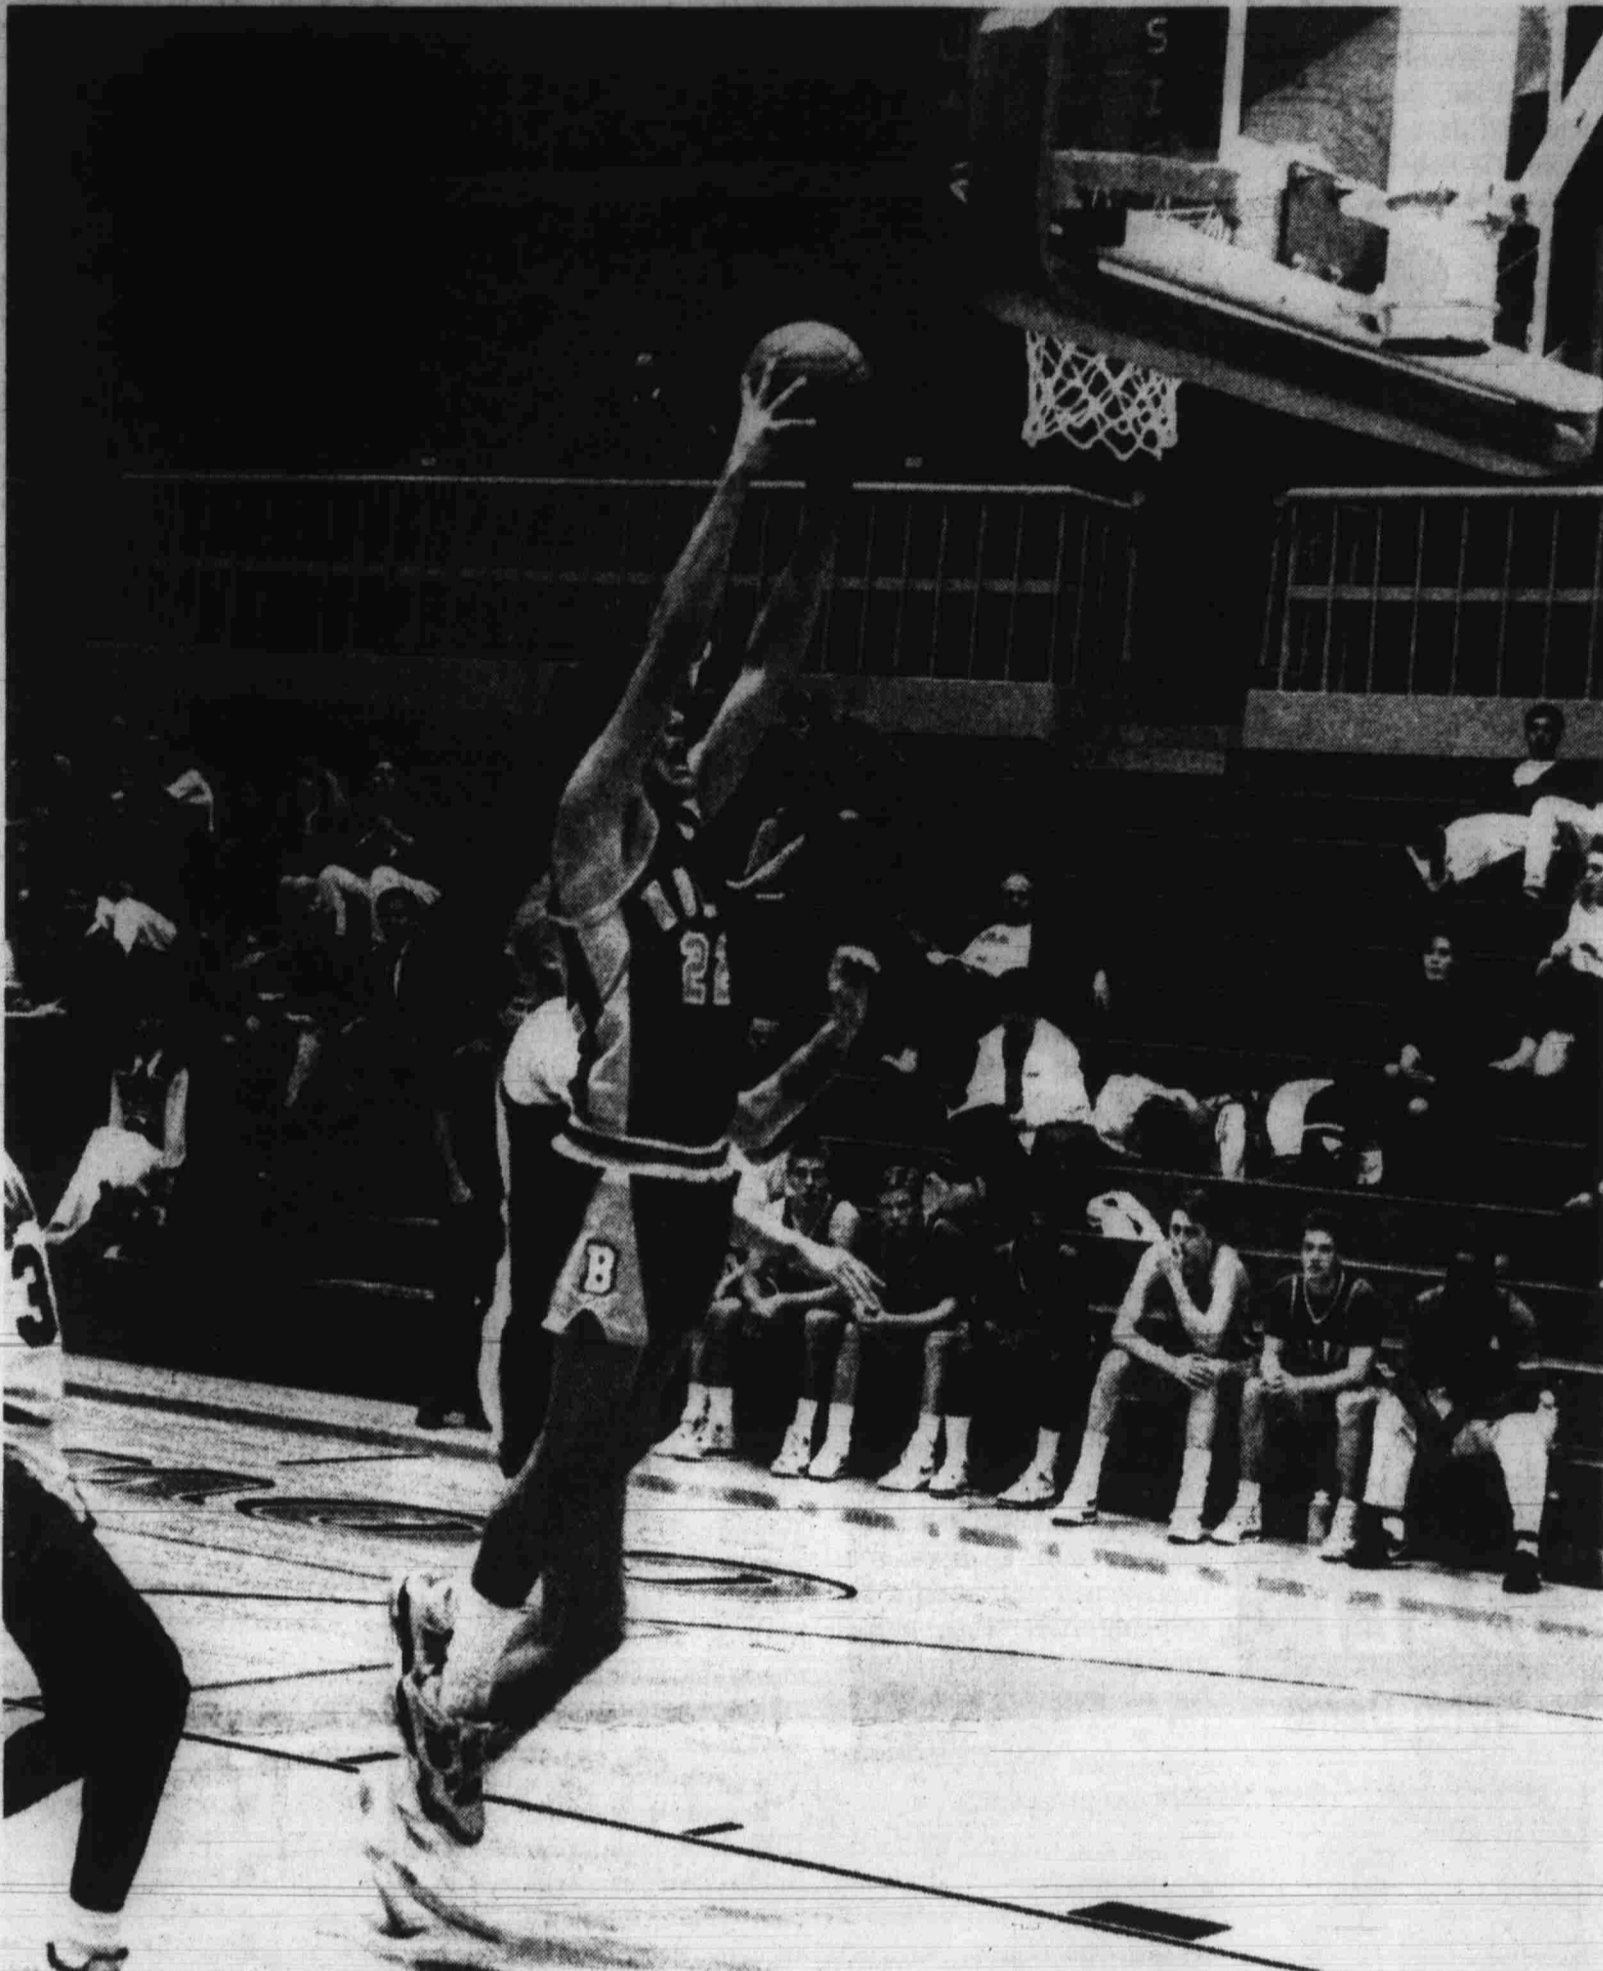

Sophomore forward Richie Montano scored a season-high 30 points. He made 9 of 11 second half free throws as the Wolves erased two Cowboy leads in the fourth quarter.

Montano, who tallied 15 points in the fourth quarter, gave Basic a 67-66 lead when he banked in a jump shot with 5:56 remaining. After Chaparral jumped ahead again, Montano converted a three-point play for a 70-68 Wolves' advantage—a lead the home team never relinquished.

The Cowboys, who led 6-4 early in the first quarter, did not threaten seriously until late in the third quarter. Basic entered the second half with a 44-35 edge, but center Aaron Geathers and guard Ryan Jenkins combined for 13 points as Chaparral pulled to a 62-58 lead with eight minutes remaining.

The basket and free throw by Montano gave the Wolves new life and he followed with a three-point field goal seconds later for a 73-69 lead.

Basic went into a delay of offense with 3:30 left, but Cowboy center Derek Furze snuck inside for a three-point play and the visitors trailed 78-74.

SEASON HIGH—Basic High sophomore Richie Montano, pictured in a game at Chaparral last month, helped the Wolves defeat the Cowboys Tuesday at Basic. Montano netted 30

Jenkins nailed a baseline jumper to move Chaparral within two points with 1:26 left. He had a chance to tie the game on the foul line 10 seconds later, as did teammate Matt Beshear, but both Cowboy players missed free throws. Montano rebounded Beshear's miss with 1:08 remaining, but Jenkins immediately stole the ball. He missed a golden opportunity to tie the game, blowing a layup, and Montano was fouled on the rebound with 59 seconds left.

Montano made two free throws for an 80-76 lead, points in the win over Chaparral—the top offensive output for the Wolves this season.

although Basic could not convert four foul shots down the stretch and Chaparral still had a chance to pull out the victory.

The Wolves put the game away after a timeout with 39 seconds left. Williams inserted senior guard Kenny Weast into the lineup to evade a Chaparral stack defense on the inbounds play.

Weast took a pass from Keith Clough and charged toward the basket, where he was fouled after making a layup. Weast then canned the free throw to put Basic ahead 83-76.

Confident Lady Wolves top Chaparral

By Pat McDonnell
News Sports Editor

Senior guard Tanya Blackburn scored a game-high 20 points Tuesday to boost the Basic High Lady Wolves to a 51-23 road victory over Chaparral High.

Blackburn took over the scoring load for starting forward-center Shonna Wicklund, who was held out of the game because of illness. Basic Head Coach Diane Hernandez said Blackburn's point total was a career high.

"She took charge and she was driving to the basket," Hernandez said. "Maybe she felt she had to take control. I told her 'you need to play like that all the time.'"

The win upped Basic's conference record to 2-7 and overall mark to 6-16. The Lady Wolves also moved within two games of fourth place Eldorado in the Sunrise Division after the Lady Sundevils' 56-51 loss to Bonanza Tuesday.

Basic gained a 13-4 lead after one quarter and outscored the Lady Cowboys 7-0 in the second quarter.

The Lady Wolves dominated the boards on both ends of the court.

"Marilyn [Cartwright] did a real good job defensively," Hernandez said of the Basic's 5-foot, 10-inch senior center who wound up with seven points.

Senior forward Rebecca Virden added nine points for the Lady Wolves.

Basic was unable to extend its lead at the free throw line, hitting just 13 of 33 foul shots.

"We were not very good," the coach said of the team's free throw shooting. "We will spend a good half hour on it in practice."

Chaparral was paced by Donna Horn and Cori Hess, who each scored six points.

The Lady Wolves face Bonanza High in a 3 p.m. home contest Friday. The game with the Lady Bengals will not count in the conference standings.

Basic resumes its conference schedule with a home game Tuesday versus Las Vegas.

Parks and Recreation continues baseball, softball registration

Local youngsters have been invited to register for the Henderson Parks and Recreation Department's baseball and softball programs.

Registration is held at the Silver Springs Community Center, 1951 Silver Springs Parkway, and at the Henderson Civic Center, 201 Lead Street.

The Parks and Recreation Department is offering four baseball programs: Mini League (7 to 8 years old), Pee Wee League (9-10), Midget League (11-12) and Junior League (13-15). The signup fee for the introductory Mini League is $15. Pee Wee and Midget registration is $22.50 and Junior League registration is $25.

There will be three divisions in HPRD's Ponytail softball program, as well as the recreational youth softball program. The Minor League is for softball players from 9 to 10 years, the Major League is geared for those 11 to 12 and the Senior League matches 13 to 15 year-olds. Softball registration is $20.

The baseball and softball programs are designed to be recreational and not competitive. Skill development and the understanding of rules in each sport are emphasized, Parks and Recreation Department officials said. There is no postseason regional play, as in Little League baseball or Bobby Sox softball.

Individuals who have not played HPRD baseball or softball previously will need an official proof of birth at registration.

The last day to register is Feb. 24. As of Feb. 26, the signup fee will be increased $5 in all programs.

For more information, call 565-2121 or 435-3814.

Utah antelope released in Nevada

The release of nearly 250 pronghorn antelope, a gift from the State of Utah, has been completed, according to a biologist with the Nevada Department of Wildlife.

"Nevada is the welcome recipient of the animals which were removed from Utah's Parker Mountain antelope herd in a project designed to reduce the number of animals to protect the range habitat of the Parker Antelope Unit in that state," explained NDOW Game Biologist Jim Luck.

Luck explained that a helicopter was used to herd the animals into a drive trap capture pen built just for the trapping effort. "The captured animals were then sorted, with Nevada receiving does, fawns and seven mature bucks. We assume that the majority of the does are pregnant."

Lusk said that the majority of the antelope, 104, were released in Garden Valley of eastern Nye County, with 60 liberated near the town of Jackpot in northern Elko Co. 25 others were released in Mineral County, with 55 finding a new home in Dry Lake Valley in western Lincoln County.

In addition to those released in Nevada, two Utah universities and two zoos in that state were recipients of antelope captured during the recent roundup, according to Utah Game Manager Norm Bowden.

Despite the ongoing drought, Lusk believes there is sufficient water to support the new arrivals. At least three new man-made watering devices, known as big game guzzlers, are scheduled to be installed soon by NDOW in Lincoln County for the antelope.

According to Lusk, "Antelope once covered the Western U.S. in very large numbers, with historic populations possibly surpassing 30 million. However, as man moved into their historic range, numbers began to decline, and most populations were on their way down by the late 1800s. "Records indicate that by the 1920s, the population of this North American native had plunged to an estimated 13,000 animals. Because of the work of wildlife agencies, backed with funding provided by hunters and other interested in the survival of this species, the pronghorn population today is estimated at over one-half million in the West," he said.

Here's a Bronx cheer for Notre Dame

By Pat McDonnell

News Sports Editor

There is a pressing question hovering over my head as I immerse myself in the sports pages. The question: Do college football fans need to see Notre Dame home games on national television almost every weekend for five years, beginning in 1991?

The Fighting Irish want their golden dome and golden wallets exposed on NBC. Apparently, Notre Dame could not orchestrate a buyout of a superstation and settled for so-called "America's Team" status on network television.

The Donald Trump of college football teams has gone on record to state its new $30 million TV contract will benefit the sporting public. Notre Dame says the package means "more choices" for the football fanatic.

But the Fighting Irish are seemingly ignoring the downfall of their avarice. Despite Notre Dame's claim of perpetual academic and athletic integrity, the deal reeks with the smell of misplaced priorities and excessive self-interest.

The golden Notre Dame numbers are staggering—$500,000 a game, per telecast. The potential recruiting figures for the Fighting Irish should be insurmountable. Once a Midwestern powerhouse with ties to scattered pockets of alumni, Notre Dame has forged its way to the living rooms of Anywhere, USA.

The rich are not just getting richer this time... it appears their banner is now being waved with pompous glee.

Some may say the rest of the college football populace is just jealous of the Fighting Irish. Notre Dame administrators will certainly throw out the old "free enterprise" arguments.

But this is not Notre Dame's shining moment. Instead it marks the beginning of a huge void which will swallow up the smaller NCAA Division I schools. In five to seven years, parity will be a distant word from the past.

There are two world championship fights set this week. But only one bout is really capturing the world's attention.

That fight, of course, is Undisputed World Heavyweight Champion Mike Tyson, battle with James "Buster" Douglas in the new covered stadium, known as "The Big Egg," in Tokyo, Japan.

More on the Tyson-Douglas fight later in the column.

The other world championship bout slated is tonight in Lewiston, Maine, where WBA Junior Lightweight Champion Brian Mitchell meets Jackie Beard.

If Mitchell wins, he is scheduled to go against Joey Gamache. Lewiston, Maine, is becoming a popular fight center in the New England area. Lewiston first gained attention when it hosted the second Muhammad Ali-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship bout in 1965.

Lewiston did not have much in the way of boxing until last year, but this week's fight will be the second world championship contest there in under a year.

I don't think Las Vegas has to worry about losing its title as The Boxing Capital of the World.

Las Vegas does not have to worry as yet.

Tokyo either, where Tyson puts his crown on the line against Douglas.

Douglas can be a troublesome fighter to anyone with a stiff jab and a solid combination. But he has had stamina problems in the past.

Tyson has had a few problems of his own during sparring for the fight against Douglas, most of it in the form of former WBA Heavyweight Champion Greg Page.

Page knocked Tyson down not once, but twice, as he was preparing for Douglas, the first time in Las Vegas and the second time in Tokyo. Page was also wearing 16-ounce gloves.

Tyson does not normally wear protective headgear when he spars, but he was when Page dropped him in the Tokyo gym.

So what does all this mean? It means Page has boosted himself back into consideration for a title shot against Tyson. Tyson's next championship defense after Douglas is June 18 in Atlantic City, N.J. against Evander Holyfield. After that, who really knows.

The talk is Tyson will put his crown up for grabs against George Foreman this fall, but first Foreman has to get past Jose ribalta in April.

Even if Foreman wins, Tyson could still take on one of three other fighters Razor Ruddock, Michael Dokes or Page.

Tyson was supposed to meet Ruddock in Canada in January, but the promoters reportedly had trouble raising purse money on time. There was also speculation Tyson would face Dokes, but Dokes supposedly asked for $2 million instead of the $1 million that was offered.

Hunter safety course begins

By Mike Donahue

The next hunter safety course in the Las Vegas area has been scheduled from 5:45 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, Feb. 13, 15 in the East Las Vegas Community Center, 5700 E. Missouri Ave.

Hunter safety is required for anyone born after January 1960 who wishes to purchase a Nevada hunting license, according to the Nevada Department of Wildlife.

Training in the class will touch on several hunting-related fields, including weapons, ethics, responsibility, laws and resources, said John King, NDOW hunter safety coordinator.

Most of the states in the U.S. have a hunter safety requirement for prospective hunters, and it would benefit anyone who is going to be hunting outside Nevada to check with that state to find out if they meet the minimum requirements, King said.

For example, elk hunters from Nevada who hope to bag their big game in Colorado should be aware that hunters born after 1949 are required to have completed a hunter safety course, King said.

And in California, a new law that went into effect Jan. 1 requires all non residents applying for a California hunting license to show evidence of completion of a hunter safety class.

Again, King said it is the responsibility of the hunter to find out what other states require and to be sure they will recognize a Nevada card.

Interested persons must attend all three days of the February course. The class costs $5 and students are asked to bring a pencil, officials said.

Plasso, Cathy take GVAC run

By Paul Szydelko
Associate Editor

Just more than 200 runners participated in a 10K run to benefit the American Heart Association Saturday at the Green Valley Athletic Club.

Frank Plasso Jr. was the overall men's winner, finishing the course in 31 minutes, 42 seconds. Finishing second overall was Sam Sitonik, whose time was 33:54.

The overall women's winner was 28-year-old Kellie Cathy, who finished in 34 minutes, 31 seconds.

Winners in each age category follow—boys 14 years old and younger: Mike Thompson, one hour; men's 15-18: Chris French, 40 minutes; men's 19-29: Jeff Demeny, 34 minutes; men's 30-39: Plasso; men's 40-49: Edward Preciado, 37 minutes; men's 50-59: Frank Ellis, 39 minutes; and men's 60 years and older: Harrie Hess, 42 minutes.

Girls 14 years and younger: Julie Kyriacou, who is 8, finished in 52 minutes; women's 19-29: Cathy; women's 30-39: Teri Busby, who was second overall, in 37 minutes; women's 40-49: Chris Sewell, 43 minutes; women's 50-59: Genie Salerno, one hour and one minute; and women's 60 and older: Anne Naunan, 57 minutes.

The top GVAC men's finisher was Stephen Montoya, 39, who finished in 38:08 minutes; the top GVAC women's finisher was Kathy Oiness, 38, who completed the course in 43:17 minutes.

One hundred and seventy-eight runners participated in the two-mile fun run that the athletic club hosted as well.

Mules

William Faulkner once wrote a tribute to the mule in which he claimed the mule was the second most intelligent of all animals. Only the rat did he rate with higher intelligence. He said the mule will work patiently for you for ten years for the chance to kick you once. Seven or more correct you're a true mule skinner. Less than five correct, you're muleheaded.

1. By definition, what is a mule?
2. In what war's battle was the "Mantanzas Mule" believed to be the only casualty?
3. What man introduced the mule to America?
4. In August of 1785 Charles III sent the first mule to the "Father of Our Country." Over which country did Charles III rule?
5. Which baseball owner bought a mule, named it after himself, and made it a team mascot?
6. What name did George Washington give his first donkey?
7. What 1924 college football team had seven mules and four horsemen on it?
8. What was the name of Mohammed's white mule, which was taken into heaven?
9. What man's mule kicked over a rock near Tonopah, Nev. in 1900 and made possible the discovery of the Mizpah Silver Vein?
10. Where did the 20 mule team borax make its run?
11. Which state had a mule population of 354,000 in 1940?

Bonus: What is the major difference between the excretory habits of the stabled horse and the stabled mule?

Answers

- one corner of the corral
- Bonus: The mules are clean creatures. They are careful to foul only
1. A mule is the offspring of a male donkey and a mare.

Eckstein's X-Rays

By Benjamin Lee Eckstein
America has gone survey-mad, every where you turn, someone is asking you something. What type of deodorant you use? Who is your favorite designer? How many hours of Nintendo do you play? Do you recycle? Are you recycled? Do you like to bicycle?

Most surveys do not amount to much and should be taken with a grain of salt. Occasionally, a survey will come up with some deep, penetrating questions, and if you missed USA Today on Monday, here are some gems from their "Speak out on Sports" survey.

PULL... Probably my all-time favorite question, and certainly a question for the ages was, if you had the afternoon off, you would prefer? The choices were—go to a baseball game, or, sex. Of the 14,457 people that responded, 66% went for the afternoon delight, while the other 34% (obviously all bozos) opted for a baseball game. We have no idea how many of 14,457 were men or how many were women, but my guess is, more guys responded. Why? Read on!

PULL... A question that was buried toward the end of the survey asked— Which women's sport would you like to see more on TV? In order, from the lowest percentage to the highest, the answers were: cycling 2%; track and field 15%; gymnastics, 19%; volleyball 25%; basketball 25%; none 37%! That answer makes it obvious that more guys responded to this thing. Now, if Roller Derby was one of the choices, the percentage would have gone off the charts. For those that never followed Roller Derby, it basically amounted to five- or six-man teams, where one skater, the designated scorer, had to get past the skaters from the opposing team, and the more players you passed, the more points you scored. The men were OK to watch, but the women were a treat. They kicked, scratched, pulled hair, punched, spit and did it with a style that would keep you coming back week after week!

PULL... About that disgusting brawl at the Runnin' Rebel game last week. There is no room in basketball for headbutts. Jerry Tarkanian is

Budget reflects new emphasis at BLM

President Bush's fiscal year 1991 proposed budget would provide funds for the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Management to take a greater role in environmental management of the nation's public lands, with the agency's wildlife and recreation programs receiving substantially more emphasis than they have at any time in the agency's 43-year history.

As proposed, in FY 91, the agency would be spending $2.9 million more on wildlife habitat, an increase of 13 percent over FY 90 and 28 percent over FY 89; $4 million more on recreation, an increase of 28 percent over the FY 90 budget and a 37 percent increase over the FY 89 budget; and $11.7 million more on land acquisition to obtain additional wetlands and recreational areas, nearly double the amount available last year.

"We're trying to give the American public the land management program they want. This goes hand in hand with BLM's traditional role as steward of economic resources on public lands, such as minerals, timber and grazing lands," said BLM Director Cy Jamison.

The BLM, an agency of the Department of the Interior, manages over 270 million acres, making it the nation's largest land-managing agency.

It also administers mineral operations on an additional 300 million acres underlying federal, private and Indian lands.

"The BLM is a world leader in land management technology. In order for us to maintain that status, we must be responsive to the changing needs of all the people using these lands. The new direction we're taking is right in line with President Bush's charge that all federal agencies be more environmentally sensitive. It also reflects Interior Secretary Lujan's 'stewardship' program designed to foster better care of the public lands," Jamison said.

The 1990 Appropriations Act also included several one-time appropriation items that will not be repeated in 1991.

Adjusting for comparable figures, the budget available for BLM operating revenues for FY 91, which excludes firefighting costs, payments to local governments, and one-time costs in 1990, is slightly higher than a comparable FY 90 level, rising from $564.7 million to $582.2 million. A decrease of about $11 million will occur in the mining law administration program because under a new process, this program will be funded from collection of user fees from mining claimants in lieu of appropriated dollars.

According to Jamison, the new funding for the recreation program will enable the BLM to provide better service to the recreating public through a greater BLM presence at high use areas; better information on recreation opportunities including maps, brochures and guides; better protection for recreation resources; and, better upkeep of recreation-related facilities.

For the wildlife program, the FY 91 funding level will mean more effective and efficient management of wildlife resources including more development of wetland habitat to benefit waterfowl and associated wildlife, improvements in habitat for salmon and steelhead trout and other recreationally important species; and improving habitat for big game and upland birds.

The additional funding for land acquisition will allow the BLM to acquire 16 more wetland, recreation and specially designated areas including desert tortoise habitat in the Mojave Desert in California; acreage near the Upper Missouri Wild and Scenic River in Montana; and, acreage related to the King Range National Conservation Area in California.

The FY 91 budget would also increase funds for facility maintenance and rehabilitation construction. An additional $9 million dollars will provide for new facilities in New Mexico and California and reconstruction work at facilities in Nevada, Utah and Idaho. Maintenance projects will involve recreation sites, trails, bridges and access for the physically handicapped.

one of the great coaches in the long and storied history of college basketball and his kids are among the most talented in the nation, but that doesn't mean they can get away with this kind of nonsense. The local media treats the kids like royalty and kisses their feet when they give out a few words for a TV or radio broadcast. That's for the birds. Get down on 'em when they need it and praise 'em when they deserve it. But don't coddle 'em!

This Was Nevada

The American Thomas Flyer in Ely, March 18, 1908.

Nevada Historical Society Photograph

New York-to-Paris via Nevada—Part 1

By Phillip I. Earl

Among the treasures to be found at Reno's William F. Harrah Foundation National Automobile Museum is the 1907 Thomas Flyer which won the famous New York-to-Paris Race in 1908. One of the most historical pieces in the collection, the vehicle was acquired by Bill Harrah in 1963 and restored to the condition it was in on the day it arrived in Paris, June 30, 1908.

The "Great Race," as it has come to be known, was preceded in 1907 by a race from Peking to Paris, but the 1908 race became the standard by which all such competitions were henceforth to be judged. Sponsored by Le Matin, a French newspaper, the New York Times and the Chicago Tribune, the race was to take entries from the United States, Italy, Germany and France across the country to San Francisco, by ship to Japan and Asiatic Russia and on west to Paris. Initially, the cars and drivers were to cross the ice on the Bering Strait, but an early thaw melted the Yukon River in Alaska.

Three American cars were scheduled to take part, but only the Thomas Flyer was on the line when the racers set off from New York's Times Square on Feb. 12. The Italians entered a Brixia-Zust and the Germans a Protos. France entered three cars, but only a DeDion completed the American segment of the race. On the trip across the country, all the drivers had their share of breakdowns, accidents and troubles with snowstorms and muddy stretches of road. The Americans had something of an advantage over their rivals since farmers they encountered were more likely to come to their aid.

Although Montague Roberts was the first American captain, George Schuster, a road tester and mechanic for the E.R. Thomas Motor Co. signed aboard at Buffalo, N.Y., and later became the principal driver. The Americans reached Nevada on March 17, leading the others by several days. They had intended to push on along the route of the Southern Pacific Railroad, but a telegram to Reno confirmed that the pass over the Sierra Nevada was still packed solid with snow. At that point, Schuster decided to take a southerly route through central Nevada.

Spending their first night at Cobre where several drunken cowboys in the barroom of the hotel disturbed their sleep, they went south along the tracks of the Nevada Northern Railway the next morning. At Currie, the citizens welcomed them with a luncheon, and a teenage girl tied a bright hair ribbon to the Flyer's steering column which Schuster promised to carry on to Paris. Near Cherry Creek, they stopped so Charles DuPrez could photograph a small band of Shoeshone Indians. They had never seen an automobile before, but consented to climb aboard to have their picture taken.

Several prominent Ely citizens met the Americans 10 miles north of town and escorted them back to the Northern hotel. Dave McLean hired on as a guide for the trip to Tonopah, but the Flyer became stuck in Robinson Canyon and had to be extricated by a six-mule team hitched to a freight wagon which happened along. Near the Veteran mine, they again mired in the mud, so spent the night at a mine bunkhouse.

The run to Tonopah the next day was anything but smooth. At Twin Springs, they broke down fording a creek, ripping six teeth from the drive pinion and cracking the transmission case. Schuster secured a horse from a nearby ranch, but got lost on the ride to Tonopah and had to hole up in a stable. A rescue party had meanwhile been sent out and Grant Crumley located the lost autoist early the next morning. They returned to Tonopah where parts were secured and drove back to Twin Springs. The repairs took most of the day and they did not get into town until 11 p.m.

Greeted by screaming mine whistles, thousands of enthusiastic well-wishers and a black band, Schuster parked in front of Crumley's Nevada Club. Souvenir hunters snipped off bits of the American flag carried by the crew and others scratched their initials into the paneled woodwork of the driver's compartment. The tired crew were put up at the Belvada Hotel for the night and the racer was gassed and stored at Malcolm McDonald's garage.

The citizens of Goldfield had meanwhile been making plans for an elaborate welcome for the Americans. Children were given the day off from school, flags, and bunting decorated the town and a reception was held at the Goldfield Hotel. Schuster and his crew were presented with specimens of high grade ore by mining entrepreneur George Wingfield, and editor John C. Martin of the Goldfield Tribune gave them a new American flag to replace the tattered shred remaining from the ravages of souvenir hunters across the country. Trailing their new banner in the breeze, they left for Beatty and Rhyolite at 11:30 a.m.

Earl Clemens and Guy Keene, publishers of the Rhyolite Herald, provided an escort in from Beatty and virtually the entire population of the town turned out to welcome the visitors. Schuster paused only for gas and supplies before pushing on to Death Valley, Central California and San Francisco, however.

(Next Week: The adventures of the other entrants in the race and the American victory in Paris.)

Nellis resource plan, EIS available to public

The Nellis Air Force Range Proposed Resource Plan and Final Environmental Impact Statement is now available to the public.

The Bureau of Land Management prepared the plan in response to the Military Lands Withdrawal Act of 1986 (PL 99-606) and a 1988 amendment (PL 100-338). According to Ed Spang, Nevada state director for the BLM, the proposed plan is designed to direct the management of natural resources on about 2.2 million acres of withdrawn public lands in Nye, Lincoln and Clark Counties.

The Nellis document focuses on the management of vegetation, wildlife habitat and wild horses. Vegetation, especially riparian (streamside) zones, will be managed to maximize wildlife values. On the Nevada Wild Horse Range, horses are to be managed to achieve a thriving ecological balance.

The lands have been withdrawn to test high-hazard military weapons and to train military personnel, which limits resource management options. Spang notes the document does not address military uses or impacts within the planning area; those were addressed in previous environmental impact statements.

Access to the proposed ACEC is subject to Air Force authorization, Spang says.

Copies of both the draft and the final plans are available by writing the Las Vegas District Office, BLM, P.O. BOX 26569, Las Vegas, Nev. 89126.

U.S. highways threatened; drivers propose nine-point solution

America's highway transportation system is so good that we tend to take it for granted.

But mobility on the nation's 3.9 million miles of roads, streets, bridges and highways is seriously threatened, according to Lester P. Lamm, president of the Highway Users Federation.

An expanding economy and growing population are pushing highway travel to unprecedented levels while government investment in aging roads and bridges is simply not keeping pace, Lamm said.

The result is deterioration of the highway network, gridlock, inadequate rural roads and concern for driving safety.

In response to mounting concern, the Federation is proposing a nine-point national highway program.

New federal help needed

The plan would succeed the current federal highway program when it expires in 1991, if approved by Congress and the administration. It calls for $21.8 billion a year in federal expenditures, but would require no increase in federal gasoline taxes at least through 1995.

The funding would come mainly from the unspent balance in the Federal Highway Trust Fund, which has grown to $17 billion.

Former NEDCO executive named to MBDA spot

Longtime community leader Dr. William H. "Bob" Bailey has been sworn in as associate director of the Department of Commerce's Minority Business Development Agency.

Bailey's appointment is the first presidential appointment for a black from Nevada. During the past 30 years, Bailey has received more than 90 awards from the state, county and city recognizing his contributions toward the development of civil rights and minority enterprise.

Until his appointment, Bailey was president of the Nevada Economic Development Co. Inc, the New Ventures Certified Development Co. and New Ventures Inc.

Janis Stevenson, director of loan activity for NEDCO, succeeded Bailey as chief executive officer of the organization, according to the Rev. Marion Bennett, chairman of the board.

Mastectomy group meets Monday

Hugh Goulding will discuss "Co-dependency" at the February meeting of the Mastectomy Association of Nevada, scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, in the activity room of the Nathan Adelson Hospice, 4141 S. Swenson St.

Highlights of the plan are:

- Reduce traffic congestion in areas of at least 50,000 population.

- Keep the interstate highway system in good condition.

- Create a national arterial system of non-interstate primary highways.

- Connect rural communities by keeping low-volume roads and bridges in good, safe condition.

Bridge Safety Stressed

Other aspects are:

- Ensure highway bridge safety through state-managed programs of inspection, maintenance and repair.

- Improve traffic safety by eliminating hazards, improving signs, signals and markings and supporting traffic safety education and other high-payoff initiatives.

- Focus on a 10-year high-tech "smart cars on smart roads" program to make driving safer and more efficient.

- Develop scenic, recreational routes to serve tourism.

- Strengthen state and local planning so that federally aided projects meet local goals.

Valley Bank tops SBA list

The Small Business Administration recently released its national, regional and state rankings of financial institutions for 1989, and Valley Bank of Nevada remained Nevada's No. 1 lender, while moving to eighth in the region and breaking into the country's top 20 SBA lenders.

The rankings are based on the number of SBA loans made by a financial institution during the year. For Valley Bank, a record number of 87 government-backed loans were booked last year which totaled nearly $20 million.

Valley Bank more than doubled its previous year's performance for both the number of SBA loans and the total dollar amount booked from these loans.

Valley Bank is the largest state-chartered bank in Nevada, with assets totaling over $2.8 billion.

CRC: 'Water supply not in immediate jeopardy'

By Ben Baker
News Staff Writer

Southern Nevada will not have a water shortage quite as soon as has been reported, said Colorado River Commission Chairman John Moran Jr. last week.

The Las Vegas Valley Water District issued a statement last week, saying, "The CRC staff goes so far as to say there will be a severe reduction in Colorado River water rights by 1991."

According to a reply written by Moran, the statement was in error. He wrote, "The CRC's proposed 1989 Colorado River Water Budget indicates that there was 182,108 acre-feet of unused Colorado River water apportionments as of 1988. The water budget indicates that an additional amount of 92,000 acre feet per year may be made available for allocation subject to the assumptions and conditions discussed therein. Clearly, the CRC does not anticipate severe shortages in the Colorado River water to occur in the next several years with this amount of water potentially available."

The report added the river supply should be "reliable" until 2008 at current usage levels. The LVVWD report agreed, stating "Southern Nevada should not run out of water in the next few years, barring a severe drought."

The "reduction" may have been a misinterpretation of an automatic water-increase limiting measure in the contracts with the Southern Nevada Water System's contracts. The provision limits how much more water the valley's entities can take from the river each year. Current demands will not be affected and future demands can only be limited, not stopped, Moran wrote.

California has been diverting Nevada and Arizona's unused water supplies for some time. The LVVWD report said California has structured its contracts with the Secretary of the Interior to allow the Pacific rim state to divert unused water.

The report states Nevada should take a similar approach with regard to water allowances for the Fort Mojave Indian tribe, the generating station at Edison, Calif., and other entities which do not use all their entitlements.

The water could not be considered a permanent source, since it is an entitlement to another entity, but the water could be used to recharge water storage facilities.

"It makes infinite sense to build as large a water 'savings account' as possible to act as a safety net in times of severe drought and as an interim source of supply until alternate sources become available," the report states.

Moran replied Nevada and Arizona are legally entitled by federal contract to the unused water California is taking. If at any time Nevada or Arizona needs that supply, it will be diverted from California, he said.

"Nevada's... allocation is definitely not in danger of being reduced because California is presently diverting Nevada's unused water supply," Moran wrote. He added California realizes the source is temporary and can be cut off. The state is taking measures to reduce dependence on that supply.

The LVVWD report said there are not enough contracts with the Secretary of the Interior to divert Nevada's full water entitlement to the state. It added the CRC has taken a "conservative" position on the water supply and accuses the CRC of "unwillingness... to address Southern Nevada water issues on a comprehensive, global basis."

Calling the statement "totally false," Moran wrote "The commission's staff introduced the concept to the SNWS[of] securing contracts for the temporary use of unused Colorado River allocations at the SNWS... meeting of Dec. 19, 1989."

The CRC has sent a letter to the regional director of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation urging the department to approve the use of temporary contracts, he added.

The CRC did attempt to be conservative so Nevada's water supply would not be exaggerated, he wrote. The LVVWD at one point called the CRC findings too liberal, he added.

The water contracted to the SNWS does not reflect water actually consumed, the LVVWD report states. The CRC did not include in its report return water flow to the Colorado River, it added. Only a part of the water taken from the river is actually used. Some is returned to Lake Mead through discharges to the Las Vegas Wash.

The LVVWD argued the return flows should be considered when allocating water to the various entities taking water.

Moran replied, the surplus flows are only available periodically. Since times for such surpluses and amounts cannot be predicted accurately, it is not feasible to include them, he added.

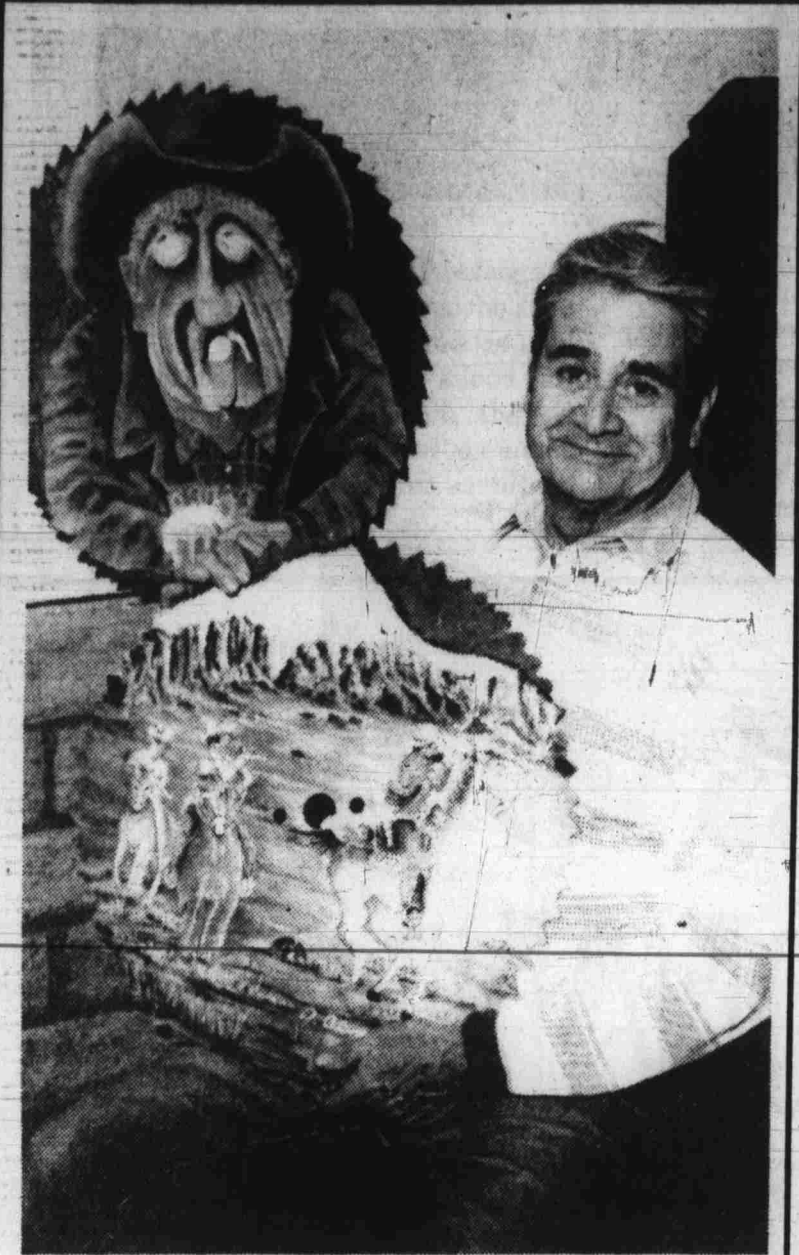

To work toward resolving water shortages before they occur, the LVVWD has announced plans to begin a Community Awareness Water Conservation Program. Several of the valley's entities have already joined forces to educate the public about water and begin conservation programs.

The LVVWD and the Cooperative Extension Service have also joined to present several water-related forums. Examples of successful water conservation programs and public discussions will be held, according to press releases.

According to a LVVWD press release on the conservation efforts, "statistics analyzed from other states with similar climatic conditions, [show] as much as a 25 percent reduction in water use can be realized through simple conservation practices."

Moran agreed, writing, "The CRC and its staff recognizes that water resource management occurs on three governmental levels: federal, state and local. The CRC has and will continue to work closely with the federal and local governments to ensure that Nevada's Colorado River resources are protected."

Mature driver course offered

The Clark County Traffic School, in conjunction with the National Safety Council, will present a mature driver course for persons 55 years of age and older. The class, 8 hours long spanning two days, is scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 14. Persons completing the course will receive a certificate and will be eligible for insurance discounts. Cost is $12, including course materials, spokespersons said.

As class sizes are limited to 40 students, pre-registration is required. CCTS is a non-profit, public benefit corporation.

Vo-Tech to hold open house

In celebration of National Vocational Education Week, the Southern Nevada Vocational Technical Center will conduct an open house from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday. Entertainment will be provided by the Sunset Symphony and refreshments will be served, spokespersons said.

Attendees should enter the school at the front door, they added.

Poets invited to enter contest

More than $15,000 in prizes are being offered in World of Poetry's 14th Annual Poetry Contest, open to all poets. Grand prize is $1,000, spokespersons said.

Said 82-year-old World of Poetry Editor Eddie-Lou Cole: "I want this contest to inspire new poetry, to add more beauty to the world."

The deadline for entering is March 10, 1990. Winners will be notified by April 2.

Those wishing to enter the free contest may send one poem, 21 lines or less, to: Eddie-Lou Cole, 2431 Stockton, Dept. PR, Sacramento, Calif. 95817.

America

NICKNAME: Green Mountain State

POPULATION: 541,000 (Ranks 48th in US)

SIZE: 9,609 square miles (Ranks 43rd in US)

OVERVIEW: Vermont is a small New England state with the smallest population of any eastern state. Most of Vermont is covered with forests and its mountainous terrain and inviting climate (cool summers and snowy winters) bring a constant stream of vacationers and skiers to the state.

Vermont was explored by France's Samuel de Champlain and the great lake in northern Vermont bears his name. The lake was a major battleground in the French and Indian Wars when England won control of the area. In 1777 Vermont declared itself an independent republic and remained so until joining the Union in 1791.

The state has many small villages and only two towns with more than 15,000 population. It went from a primarily agricultural to a manufacturing economy by 1900 with emerging industries in tool-making and wood products. Today tourism ranks as its second strongest industry.

FUN FACT: Vermont has the lowest percentage of city dwellers of any state.

GEOGRAPHY PUZZLER: What lake forms part of Vermont's border with Canada?
(Answer: Lake Champlain)

NICKNAME: Old Dominion

POPULATION: 5,787,000 (Ranks 13th in US)

SIZE: 40,817 square miles (Ranks 36th in US)

OVERVIEW: Virginia can rightly be called the most historic US state. The first American colony began in Jamestown in 1607. Major events of the Revolutionary and Civil wars took place there, including the British surrender at Yorktown and Confederate surrender at Appomattox. Virginia was one of the first 13 states and home to eight presidents including the first, George Washington. Today millions of tourists come to see its historic sites and to visit nearby Washington, D.C. Many Virginians work in the U.S. capital. Its plantation days are long gone, but Virginia's main crop is the same — tobacco. Tobacco processing and chemicals are its two top industries. The climate is mild and humid. The coastal Tidewater region has many inland waterways. Farther west are rolling hills and the scenic Blue Ridge Mountains.

FUN FACT: The world's largest shipyard is in Newport News — it has built 700 ships.

GEOGRAPHY PUZZLER: The Blue Ridge Mountains are part of what major mountain range?
(Answer: The Appalachians)

Zara new Latin Chamber president

By Fred Flores

Is the Latin Chamber embarking on a true business course for its members? Marino Zara is the new president edging out Ofelia Gomez who drew only one term in office. Seems the membership was not impressed with her "hands off" management style as president.

Zara promised a concentrated ongoing communication with the chamber's members and their business interests rather than continue to be a social service organization. However, that is contrary to Otto Merida's mode of operation. There are a number of members and past members who have felt that Merida has spent too much time trying to be a "political king maker" and social service director rather than enhance business opportunities for the membership.

It will be interesting to see if Otto or Zara will prevail. Informed sources have it that Otto is a survivor and that he will follow Zara's lead. After all, he has been executive director ever since the Chamber was first founded under the administration of former Gov. Mike O'Callaghan.

Don't forget the Chamber's installation banquet set for Friday at the Tropicana Hotel and Casino.

Did anyone catch C-Span's TV Wednesday coverage of the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee confirmation hearing on Clarence Thomas, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission chairman? None of the Civil Rights advocate organizations were present to either support or speak against Thomas's nomination for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington. It seems as though civic organizations such as the LULAC, the American GI Forum and the NAACP made an oral commitment to the Administration not to participate in Clarence's confirmation hearing.

Informed sources in the Washington office of EEOC say the staff is glad to see Thomas leave and have agreed to a hands-off position regarding the confirmation hearings. Former allegations against Thomas of a purge of lawyers in Washington and a purge of Hispanic top management personnel, losing over 900 cases of age discrimination because EEOC let the time lapse and having cronies as hatchet management officials to get rid of troublemakers were not mentioned.

Watching Sen. Orrin Hatch, member of the Senate Judiciary Committee and chairman of the EEOC Oversight Subcommittee question Thomas was like watching a lawyer lead the witness in a court session. Other Republican members followed Sen. Hatch's example of asking leading and self-serving questions.

Thomas, prior to his presidential nomination and confirmation (he was re-confirmed as EEOC chairman) came from the Department of Education Office of Civil Rights and brought with him a number of fellow Department of Education officials. I wonder how long those persons will last once the new EEOC chairman takes over and brings his own loyal supporters to the key management positions in EEOC?

In wrapping it up for This Week, our hat is off to Antonio Villeda of Las Vegas, who sang the Mexican National Anthem prior to the Paez-Dorsey fight.

ATTC to hold open house

In celebration of National Vocational Education Week, Feb. 11-17, the staff at the Area Technical Trade Center has invited all interested people to attend an open house, at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 13. Bill Trabert, Nevada State Department, director of occupational education has agreed to be the keynote speaker.

The trade center is located at 444 W. Brooks Ave., approximately one mile west of the Clark County Community College, off Cheyenne Road and Commerce Street.

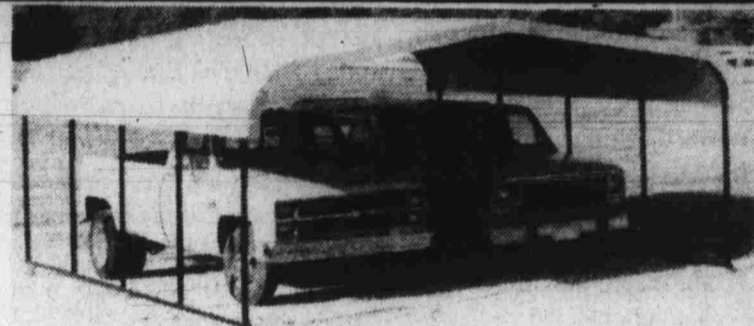

Refreshments will be served by culinary art students. Tours of the facility will be conducted by students enrolled in the hotel operations program.

The public can observe the technical training programs at ATTC, where high school students prepare themselves for a promising future. Building portable classrooms, working in local hospitals and extended care facilities, rebuilding diesel engines, making hotel room reservations and preparing gourmet meals, are all part of a routine day for students at the Area Technical Trade Center.

Applications are now being accepted from prospective sophomores and juniors for the '90-'91 school year.

Interested persons see high school counselors for details or call 799-8300.

Walt Disney's 'World On Ice' coming to Thomas and Mack

Fans of all ages are invited to join Mickey Mouse and all his Disney friends live and in person at Walt Disney's World On Ice Celebrating Mickey's Diamond Jubilee.

In honor of the special occasion, the Thomas and Mack Center will be transformed into a glittering icy wonderland from Feb. 28 through March 4, as the Disney stars join 45 world-class ice skaters in blockbuster production numbers guaranteed to delight children and adults alike.

The all-new ice sensation, produced by world-renowned entertainment impresario Kenneth Feld, showcases Mickey's stellar career and features his special leading lady Minnie, and his pals Donald Duck, Daisy, Goofy and Pluto.

With dazzling sets, lavish costumes, fantastic props and state-of-the-art production technology, Walt Disney's World On Ice recalls magical moments from Mickey's unparalleled entertainment career, including his acting debut in the 1928 animated film classic "Steamboat Willie" and his unforgettable performance in the innovative 1940 film "Fantasia."

Joining in the celebration of Mickey's Diamond Jubilee are a host of world-class performers. Super-charged stunt skater Doug Barnhart adds an element of excitement with his gravity-defying feats on ice and featured championship pair skaters Tricia Puccio and Joseph Mero and pair skaters Ellicia Shepherd and Michael Blicharski thrill audiences with their graceful mirrored steps.

Soloists Paul Guerrero, Sean Abram, and Christina Gronski glide effortlessly through exacting ice maneuvers, and funnyman Concha and Concha provide comedy relief with their acrobatic antics.

Mickey added skating to his list of illustrious career accomplishments in 1981 when he first appeared in Walt Disney's "World On Ice." Since then he has brought this special skating magic to millions of families throughout the world. He has also starred in more than 130 movies, appeared in hundreds of stag and television events, made dozens of records and videos, and has greeted millions of fans in the three Walt Disney theme parks.

Yet as the entrainment world gears itself to commemorate his exceptional career in grand style, the world's most legendary mouse said, "I couldn't think of a more exciting way to celebrate my Diamond Jubilee than by spending it with my loyal fans, in person, the Thomas and Mack Center."

Mickey-Mouse in Walt Disney's "World On Ice."

Tickets for Walt Disney's World On Ice Celebrating Mickey's Diamond Jubilee are on sale at the Thomas and Mack Center Box Office and all Ticketron and Teleguide outlets. To charge tickets by phone, call 1-800-992-2128. For further information, call (792) 739-3900.

'Kiss of Death,' 'Panic in the Streets' to be shown in libraries

Victor Mature, Brian Donlevy, Richard Widmark and Karl Malden star in "Kiss of Death," next feature for the Las Vegas-Clark County Library District's 1990's Classic Images Film Series. The classic will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, at Green Valley Library, 2797 Green Valley Pkwy.

As a landmark film, "Kiss of Death" was the first to take the tough gangster film out of the studio and into an urban location. Director Henry Hathaway skillfully orchestrated the moods and sounds of New York City to create a vividly suspenseful, almost neo-realist, study of a captured thief who turns police informer.

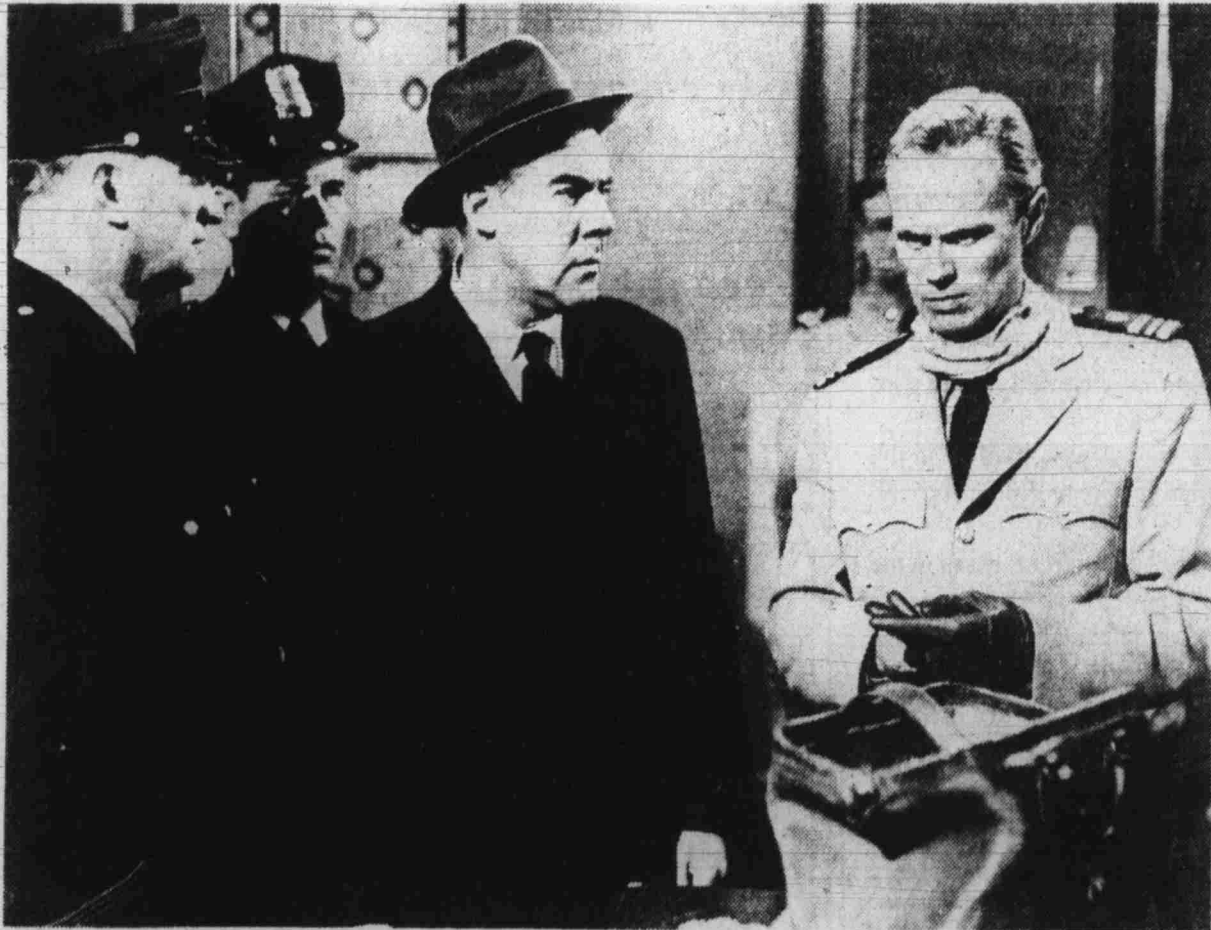

"Panic in the Streets," starring Barbara Bel Geddes, Richard Widmark, Paul Douglas and Jack Palance, will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 27 at Green Valley Library.

Director Elia Kazan encases a tense, taut crime tale in pseudo-documentary style in which the criminals must be apprehended not only because they are dangerous murderers, but because they may also be carrying a rare and deadly virus.

A critique by movie reviewer Carol Cling as well as a bibliography of books related to each of the movies will be available with the library film program, which is free and open to the public, spokespersons said.

A scene from "Panic in the Streets."

Opera bus tour scheduled

A special opera excursion has been planned by the Nevada Opera Theatre set for Feb. 24-25 to Costa Mesa/Newport Beach, Calif., for the production of "Turandot."

Accommodations will be at the Westin South Coast Plaza Hotel, adjacent to the new Orange County Performing Arts Center, spokespersons said. VIP video-equipped buses will depart at 9 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 24, from the parking lot of the Nevada Opera Theatre.

On Sunday, Feb. 25, prior to returning to Las Vegas, the group will make a trip to Newport Beach.

Price is $196 per person and includes a continental breakfast, a box lunch, champagne and other refreshments.

For information or reservations, call 451-6331.

Dear Debbie

By Deborah White

Dear Debbie:

My wife and I have very different sexual needs. Every night, we go to bed and end up in an argument because there is always a reason why she doesn't want to have sex. I feel rejected and angry. What do you think her problem is?

FRUSTRATED AND ANGRY

Dear Frustrated and Angry:

There are a host of reasons why your wife may not desire sex and the list ranges from stress at work, old resentments, diet, fatigue, even something as small as body odor. You need to talk to your wife and listen carefully to what she says. If she can pinpoint the problem you can begin to resolve any problems that may exist. Also, understand people really do have different levels of sex drive. Don't take a sexual refusal personally, by simply rolling over and acting angry. Sexual relationships are very intimate. Perhaps if you were more intimate with your wife in non-sexual ways, it would lead to a more satisfying sexual relationship.

Dear Debbie:

I had a favorite pair of pants that just disappeared from sight about six months ago. Recently, I ended up staying overnight at a friend's house and she lent me some clothes to wear the next day. To my surprise, she gave me my long-lost favorite pair of pants and told me to return them as soon as possible. It made me pretty angry that I had to have them dry cleaned and returned to her when they were mine in the first place. At first, I didn't return them, but after a week she called me and asked for them back. I feel a little stupid telling her the pants are mine and I don't want to fight over them. What should I do?

LOST AND FOUND

Dear Lost and Found:

Why not simply tell your friend the pants she lent you look very much like a pair you lost? Ask her how she came by them and if there is any possibility they could be yours. If your friend knowingly took them from you, I doubt she would have let you see that she had them. It is possible you left them at her house or someone else's, and she has no idea they are yours. It's also possible the pants only look like yours. What do you have to lose? I can't imagine it's an issue worth fighting over.

Send letters to Dear Debbie, P.O. Box 4367, Orlando, Fla. 32802-4367.

UNLV president Opportunity Day speaker

UNLV President Dr. Bob Maxson will be the keynote speaker at an Opportunity Day program Wednesday at Cashman Field. Dr. Maxson will address women, minority and small business owners attending the all-day program, sponsored by the Nevada Minority Purchasing Council.

Opportunity Day will begin at 10 a.m. and will continue until 6 p.m., spokespersons said.

For further information, call 877-6775.

Valley High '70 class readies reunion

The Valley High School class of 1970 is planning its 20-year reunion and is currently seeking members of that class. Persons who were in that class — or those who know of a member of the class — who are interested in attending are urged to call 799-7200, Ext. 214, 367-0990 or 451-9790.

Symphony to perform Monday

The Las Vegas Symphony will perform its fourth subscription concert at 8 p.m. Monday at Artemus Ham Concert Hall, with Virko Baley conducting.

The concert features Gustav Mahler's "Symphony No. 5" and Yevhen Stankovych's "Chamber Symphony No. 3."

Single tickets for the performance are $19, $16, $13 and $8 and can be purchased by calling the box office at 739-3801.

Season tickets are available at half price for the three remaining concerts. Discounted prices are $40, $32.50, and $25, officials said.

Freeing himself from the confines of a fixed framework, Mahler replaces the standard four-movement symphony with one in three parts which are subdivided into five movements. Using instruments in extreme ranges, the work illustrates the struggle of man's triumph over death, and encompasses a range of emotions from optimism to confidence. Mahler's work is best known for the fourth movement. Following the premiere of this work in 1904, Mahler revised it several times until just before his death in 1911.

As a composer, Stankovych is known for using vivid, colorful orchestration. The "Chamber Symphony No. 3," like many of Stankovych's other works, shows both inner freedom and consummate mastery.

Richard Soule, principal flutist, appears as a flute soloist in Stankovych's work. Chairman of the music department and associate professor of flute at UNLV, Soule was one of the founders of

Small business workshop planned

The Service Corps of Retired Executives, a non-profit group of volunteers, will conduct a workshop on small business planning and management from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Clark County Community College's Cheyenne Avenue Campus, Room 2207. The $20 fee includes refreshments and literature, spokespersons said.

For reservations, call 643-6060, Ext. 200.

Special arrangements for handicapped will be made if requested in advance by calling the Small Business Administration, 388-6611.

Secretaries group meets Monday

The Oasis Chapter of Professional Secretaries International will hold its monthly meeting at 5:45 p.m. Monday in Training Room B of the Valley Bank Consumer Finance Building, 4000 E. Charleston Blvd. Felice Lipking, Clark County wellness coordinator, will be the guest speaker. Parking is available on the west side of the building, spokespersons said.

For reservations or information, call 791-4231 or 791-0401.

Free seniors exercise program offered

Beginning Tuesday, Feb. 20, the American Lung Association is offering a free exercise program for seniors with lung disorders such as emphysema, asthma and chronic bronchitis. The one-hour classes will meet at 12:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and at noon Saturdays at the Las Vegas Athletic Club South, 5090 S. Maryland Parkway.

For more information, contact the association at 454-2500.

Key investment terms

By Tim O'Callaghan

Southern Nevada Association of Life Underwriters

Do you wonder about the bulls and the bears? get confused when people talk about leverage or margin? If so, you're not alone. Every field has its jargon, and the investment industry sometimes seems to have more than most. To help you through the thicket, here's a brief glossary of investment terms:

Arbitrage. The act of purchasing securities on one market for immediate resale on another in order to profit from a price discrepancy. Or, as recently used, it can apply to profits taken in the securities of companies about to be bought by other companies.

Asked price. Also called the offering price, this is the lowest price at which an over-the-counter security will be sold.

Back-end load. A fee paid when an investment, such as a mutual fund or an annuity, is sold or surrendered by the owner. Some investments have declining back-end loads, in which the fee is reduced each year.

Bear. A person who thinks stock market prices will fall. A declining market is called a bear market.

Blue chip. A widely known company, a leader in its industry, with a long record of stable dividend payments.

Bull. A person who thinks stock market prices will rise. A rising market is called a bull market.

Bond. A debt security, under which interest is generally paid at specified intervals and the principal amount is repaid at maturity.

Callable. Redeemable by the issuer before the scheduled maturity date.

Convertible bonds. Bonds that are convertible to common stock at a predetermined price. Convertibles are a hybrid, usually offering higher income than common stock but greater chance of appreciation than bonds.

discount brokers. Limited-service stockbrokers who execute buy or sell orders on securities at a discount.

Dollar cost averaging. Periodic investment in the same security to average acquisition cost.

Ginnie Mae. A mortgage-backed security issued by the Government National Mortgage Association and backed by the U.S. Government. Monthly payments consist of both principal and interest.

Leverage. The use of credit to increase potential profits. Buying on margin is an example of using leverage.

Margin. The down payment made by an investor when making a securities purchase on credit; the amount paid to the stock broker, with a minimum set by federal law. If you want to buy on margin—a risky business—you must open a margin account.

Municipal bonds. Debt instruments, generally nontaxable, issued by state and local governments.

Mutual funds. Open-ended pooled investments, under professional management, offering investors the chance to diversify with relatively small sums. Mutual funds invest in a wide range of investment vehicles, with varying investment objectives.

Unit investment trusts. Closed-end unmanaged investments with a fixed portfolio and a fixed rate of return.

Once over lightly

By Carolyn Drennan Bishop

"The readiness," as Hamlet says, "is all." Bearing that in mind, I was ecstatic the other day when I discovered a sneak preview of fashions offered in an article entitled, "Look Fashionably Fit."

Never mind, I told myself, that some of the pants seem to have been designed for pipe stems, the oversize sweaters promise to hide a multitude of calories. This just may be my chance to make a splash in the fashion scene, I thought, as I hurried to the nearest department store.

Sure enough, there they were, sweaters you could lose yourself in, featuring the relaxed oversized fit paired with, get this, easy-pleated trousers. Obviously, some merciful designer had realized that not all of us have washboard stomachs and legs the size of matchsticks.

I could hardly wait to closet myself in one of those booths with three-way mirrors and a lighting system that I've always maintained was designed for the city morgue.

At the end of a happy hour spent mixing and matching Navajo prints, buffalo check coats and belts and scarves in the new animal print motif, I was ready to emerge carrying a wardrobe that would place me at the forefront of fashion.

Are you ready for this? The door was locked! I jiggled it. I called for help. No response. I sank onto the floor and stared into the mirror. My grandmother's face stared back at me.

Time passed slowly. Horror stories flashed through my mind. Just that morning at breakfast, I'd read about a man who fell asleep in a chair in the furniture department of Sears. He wasn't discovered until he awoke in the wee hours and triggered the alarm system. Bully for him! There was no way I could trigger an alarm system.

More time passed. I curled up in a corner and finished reading my fashion magazine. What an eye opener! Guess what's "in" for men? Overcoats that hang down to the ankles, Humphrey Bogart hats, baggy pants and rumpled jackets. The whole mish-mash looks like it's been stored in a duffel bag and stashed in a swamp during the monsoon season!

Yes, I was eventually rescued. I really don't like to talk about it. I will say that when I finally arrived home in a totally disheveled condition, my husband said I was over reacting.

Overreacting? I say it would serve the man right if I go right back to the store and buy him a whole new wardrobe!

'Second-Hand Rose' fashion show Tuesday

This year's "Second-Hand Rose" and Fashion Show, scheduled for Tuesday at the Sahara Hotel's Space Center, will have a gala "Ramblin' Rose" Western theme. The event is free and open to the public, spokespersons said.

Racks and racks of stunning clothes are for sale and on display from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Modeled clothes and furs will be available after the show, they said. Advance reservations are required for the $13 tax-deductible luncheon. Call 382-6180 for reservations. There will be doorprizes and, after the fashion show, a special collection of antiques and collectibles such as fine crystal, china and silver will be auctioned off by Father Herbert A. Ward Jr.

Festivities begin at 11:30 a.m. with a no-host bar, luncheon at noon; the fashion show will be presented at 1 p.m. followed by the antique auction at 1:30.

All proceeds will benefit the St. Jude's Ranch for abused and neglected children and the Good Shepherd Campus for neglected girls. For further information, call 456-0377.

Weekly Sermon

The Peacemaker

By Rev. Beth Ann Carey
First Henderson United Methodist

"For Christ Jesus is our peace, who has made us both one, and has broken down the dividing wall of hostility... And Christ came and preached peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near; for through him we both have access in one Spirit to our Creator. So then you are no longer strangers and sojourners, but you are fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God... in whom you also are built into it for a dwelling place of God in the Spirit." (Ephesian 2:14, 17-19, 22)

A friend sent me a picture greeting card this Christmas of a photograph taken of her peering through a small hole in the graffiti covered Berlin Wall. The picture is striking because as she stands in shadow on her side of the wall, her face is bathed in a brilliant light that shines through the hole from the other side.

The greeting on the card next to the picture reads "Peace on Earth." The picture was taken in June, 1989. Little did my friend know as she looked into the light on the other side that the Berlin Wall would be opened up, and with it, the relationships between people who have lived divided lives for the past few decades.

A line continues to haunt me from Robert Frost's poem "Mending Wall": "Something there is that doesn't love a wall/That wants it down."

Something there is, indeed, and that something is the power present through Jesus Christ, our living peace. The Spirit of Christ is a power strong enough to tear down walls and skilled enough to create community out of the ashes of hostility. It is a power courageous enough to invite those who have been hostile strangers to join together, creating with one another a home without walls, a dwelling place for God in the Spirit.

That power is available to us as we live out our lives. It is a power that gives us the courage to approach a friend or family member from whom we are estranged with the compassion of forgiveness. It is a power that moves groups of people to set aside their hostilities and differences and join together in one common hope for the benefit of many. It is a power that is challenging even nations to open up their borders and see themselves as fellow citizens of this, God's world.

The Spirit of Christ gives us a very real challenge for how we are to live out our lives. We are now the ones who bear that Spirit. We are the ones called forth in this day to tear down walls and build up human community, to invite others to break out of their bonds of hostility.

In his final days with his beloved friends, the Disciples, Jesus gave them many words to carry them on when he would no longer be among them. Among those words are two phrases which also serve to give us a concrete direction of how we are to bear the Spirit of Christ in our lives and in this world. The first comes from John 14:27: "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you; not as the world gives do I give to you." The second comes from John 15:12: "This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you."

May this be our prayer for peace in our time.
Prayer: Living Peace, may I be open enough to your Spirit and challenged enough by your presence to move with its yearnings and be a breaker of walls. May I reach out and love as you have loved me, with that hope for our world, I pray. Amen.

Lay speakers to preach at First Henderson UMC

The worship services Sunday morning at First Henderson United Methodist Church will be conducted by both Ken Dewbre and Gary Saffell. Both recently finished a Lay Speakers School course. Dewbre will speak on the subject of living faith in truth; Saffell will base his message on the parable of the Good Samaritan.

Lay speakers Dorothy Vondenbrink and Stewart Earl will also help lead the worship.

Worship services are at 8:15 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., with Sunday School for people of all ages being held at 9:20 a.m. Childcare for all Sunday morning activities is offered to infants and preschool children. A Bible Study is offered at 7 p.m. Sunday in Room 5.

Other scheduled activities at First Henderson include a car wash from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at Verne's Texaco, 3 E. Lake Mead Drive, where youths from the church hope to raise enough money to attend a Passion Play, in April in California. At 7 p.m. Monday, there will be a general meeting of the United Methodist Women in the Sanctuary. At 10 a.m. Tuesday, a Bible Study group will meet in Room 7. At 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, the Chancel Choir will rehearse in Room 5 followed by a meeting of the UMW Faith Circle at 7:30 p.m.

First Henderson United Methodist Church is located at 609 E. Horizon Drive in the Highland Hills section of Henderson.

Further information may be obtained by phoning the church office at 565-6049.

Obituaries

Ruth Etta Ware

Ruth Etta Ware, 75, a former longtime resident of Southern Nevada, died Jan. 27 at her home in Claremore, Okla.

She was born on June 19, 1914, at Wanette, Okla.

She is survived by her husband, Lawrence of Claremore; two sons, Lawrence Dean Ware and John Benton Ware of Edmond, Okla.; two daughters, Phyllis Jean McWherter of Broken Arrow, Okla., and Betty Lou Ware of Claremore; two sisters, Ruby Moler of Pawhuska and Gladys Lansdon of Chandler, Okla.; and eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Services were held. Interment was in the Woodlawn Cemetery in Claremore.

Pastor Rivers' topic: 'Relationship'

Pastor Joel Rivers is currently going through the Book of Proverbs in a series he has entitled "Herbs from Proverbs." This Sunday, he will discuss "Relationship" during the 10 a.m. worship service at Southside Christian Church, which is currently meeting at 1631 E. Sunset Road, in the Green Valley area, across from McCarran airport, one-half mile west of Eastern Avenue.

During the Bible School Hour, Pastor Rivers teaches the book of Proverbs in a verse-by-verse study. His wife, Kitty, leads the children in a Bible school study at 9 a.m.

Deacon Ron Gordon will lead the Scripture Reading and prayers for the weekly Lord's Table observance, which is open to all believers, spokespersons said. He will be assisted by Jack Feetham, Bob Tynes, Clem Russell and William Vogel.

For more information, about the independent Christian Church, call 458-2731.

Presbyterian Topic: 'Words to Live By'

Pastor Dr. R. Dixon Jennings will preach a sermon entitled "Words to Live By" at both the 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. worship services Sunday at Henderson Presbyterian Church. His message will be based on Matthew 5:17-26, in which Jesus describes the righteousness of the realm of heaven.

Sunday church school for all ages is at 9:45 a.m.

There is a nursery for preschool children at the 11 a.m. service.

Following the pastor's talk with the children at the 11 a.m. service, those who are in kindergarten through second grade may go to another part of the building for Cherub Church, activities under adult supervision.

The Daytimers monthly potluck luncheon will be at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The Presbyterian Women's Bible Study group will meet at 7:15 p.m. Thursday. Call the church office for the place.

The church is located at 601 N. Major Ave., next to Morrell City Park.

For further information, call the church office at 565-9684.

'Our Shrinking World' sermon topic at Community Church

Community Church of Henderson, United Church of Christ, located at 360 E. Horizon Drive at the corner of Greenway Road, holds two services on Sundays.

An early "travelers" service at 8 a.m. accommodates those who wish to be more informal and relaxed as well as those who may be traveling through or going away for the day and can come as they are for an early start.

The 10:30 a.m. service is more traditional, with liturgy, hymns, and anthems. There is a youth meditation for the young people, after which the smaller ones may go to a supervised nursery.

The first Sunday of each month is Communion Sunday and all are welcome to partake, even if not belonging to the UCC denomination.

Dr. Ed Swain, minister, will speak on "Our Shrinking World," with scripture from Psalm 119:1-8, the Old Testament lesson from Deuteronomy 30:15-20 and the Gospel lesson from Matthew 5:17-26.

Sunday School is held for kindergarteners through junior high school, at 9 a.m. The adult class meets at 11:45 a.m. on the second and fourth Sunday of each month, right after the regular worship service. Dr. Swain is now leading the class with a study of the Gospel of Mark. They will meet this Sunday.

The church Council will meet at 7 p.m., Monday, Feb. 12, at the church. The new officers for 1990 will be in charge. The Women's Association will meet at the church at 11:30 a.m., Tuesday, Feb. 13, for "car-pooling" to the home of Marion Lindesmith, charter member of the church and originator of the Women's association in the 1940s. She was the group's first president. Members will have a pot-luck lunch and business meeting at her home.

For further information, call 565-8563. The office is open from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., Tuesday through Friday each week.

New Life class topic: 'Trance not Spirituality'

"A Religious Trance Is Not Spirituality," with biblical reference to I Peter 5-8, is the topic of talks this week at New Life Foundation, 700 Wyoming St., at the corner of Utah Street in Boulder City.

"I warmly invite each and every man and woman in Southern Nevada to come to their first class at New Life Foundation to find out for themselves, not from others, about the practical guides for living a decent, Christian life that are given at each lecture," New Life spokesperson Joan Phillips said.

Weekly New Life classes directed by inner-life author Vernon Howard are conducted on a donation basis at 7 p.m. Wednesday and Friday and at 9 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. This week Howard will speak at both the Friday evening and Sunday morning classes.

Recently Howard asked the audience if they remembered the parental instruction given them as children: "Before you speak or act, ask yourself, 'Is it true? Is it kind? Is it necessary?'" He urged listeners to renew the phrase and "start life all over."

Newcomers are invited to come an hour early to each class for a cup of coffee and important pre-meeting activities.

A man from Austin, Texas recently wrote: "When I found one of your books at the library I was astounded at your clear explanation of current events. I now recommend your writings to my friends who are wondering why our present society seems so destructive.

Life classes have given everyone in my family helpful guides for living a right life, I wouldn't miss a class," Linda Butler said.

Your insights have helped a great deal."

Angel Plane Airfest March 24, 25

The sights and sounds of "hot" aircraft; the time is drawing near for the Fourth Annual Angel Plane Airfest scheduled this year at the new Boulder City Airport on Mar. 24 and 25.

The roster of entertainment is still incomplete but among the firm entries is a 1990 debut performance by the famed U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds stationed at Nellis AFB.

Also booked is a special performance by the United States Army Golden Knights Parachute Team. The two-day event will feature a variety of static aircraft displays along with thrilling aerial performances by some of the biggest names in air racing.

All proceeds from the event go to the Angel Plane organization, founded in 1985 by Ann Mishoulam who organized a handful of private pilots volunteering to fly blood to hospitals. Since then, the organization has evolved into a nationwide network of volunteer squadrons who are on call anytime to fly blood, organs or patients requiring emergency medical treatment, from anywhere to anywhere. To date, the Angel Planes pilots have flown over 2,000 lifesaving missions.

"With the continued support of generous Southern Nevadans, we hope that this year's airfest is an even greater success than last year's," says Mishoulam, now the national president of the organization. "With the increasing demand for our lifesaving service, we need more and more money to continue our efforts and expand our programs."

"Winterize" Your Dog

- Rinse your dog's feet and dry them completely after a walk—rock salt used on icy streets can be irritating.
- Look out for dangers inside the home. Keep antifreeze away from dogs, likewise poisonous holiday plants such as holly and poinsettias.
- Don't let your pet romp alone—snow can muffle scents and your dog can easily get lost.
- Never leave your dog alone in the car during winter.

Rare opportunity in biblical archaeology

There is fierce competition among fans of biblical archaeology to participate in a dig in the Holy Land. Thousands of Christians, Jews, Moslems, historians and anthropologists are interested and go to Israel to share in the discoveries made every year in this land so rich in remains from the past.

Many apply but not all are accepted. For instance, the site of Gezer will be reopened next June for another excavation season, only 125 volunteers will be selected among more than one thousand applicants who received the news by word of mouth, without any publicity.

A new opportunity is offered with the opening of the Bethsaida excavation project. Christians should be especially interested in this project since, next to Jerusalem and Capernaum, it is the town most frequently mentioned in the Gospels—the birthplace of James and John, sons of Zebedee, and the home of Philip. According to Mark 8:22-26, Jesus healed a blind man there.

Josephus, the great Jewish historian of the first century, gave important information about Bethsaida. Philip, the son of Herod the Great, inherited from his father (4 BCE) the tetrarchy of Iturea within which the Golan and Bethsaida are included. Philip elevated Bethsaida to a status of a polis because of "its large population and strength." He also named it Julias in honor of Julia Augustus' daughter. Philip must also have had a great attachment towards Bethsaida for he ordered his tomb to be built there. Strategically, Bethsaida-Julias played a role in the military maneuvers of the Jewish Revolt. In 67 CE Gamla, the rock-bound fortress overlooking the Valley of Daliot and the plain of Bethsaida, along with Seleucia, on the shore of Lake Hula, were the only towns left unconquered by the Romans. The Roman legions under Vespasian prepared a siege of the town. On the onset of the siege, the Roman commander Sylla was sent to cut off the supply routes from the Galilee to Gamla. In order to do so Sylla pitched camp in the vicinity of Bethsaida controlling the traffic in the plain. His enemy, Josephus commander of the Jewish forces in the Galilee, sent a contingent of 2000 men under a certain Jeremias from his headquarter at Tarichea-Magdala (the hometown of Mary Magdalene) to the plain. The next day Josephus arrived with reinforcement troops of 3000 men. Soon the armies clashed in a series of inconclusive battles. Josephus relates that if he had not fallen off his horse and wrenched his wrist he would have own the battle.

The quest of the proper site of Bethsaida emerged with the rise of modern biblical research during the mid-19th century. E. Robinson, the prominent biblical scholar, visited the area and reassessed the literary sources based on his personal impression of the site. He suggested identifying Bethsaida with a large mound, named et-Tell, situated at the northern corner of the Betecha plain. A few decades later, G. Schumacher a scholar from the German colony at Haifa, who engaged in research on the Golan, maintained that it is implausible that a fishermen's village should be located two miles away from the sea, and he proposed two sites located on the shore, one by the name of el-Araj, on the shore, a few hundred yards away from the mouth of the Jordan river, and a small ruin named el-Mesadiyeh farther southeast. Since these two proposals were made, no significant change in the possible identification of the town has occurred.

Since 1987 the Golan Research Institute together with the Department of Archaeology of Haifa University have been conducting an archaeological project which seeks to resolve the debate over the identification of Bethsaida. The goal is to locate and bring to light the nature of this Jewish town which was one of the springboards of early Christianity.

Et-Tell is the largest mound on the northern coast of the Sea of Galilee. Its ancient ruins lay on a basalt hill extending from the lava plains which form the Golan Heights. The probe excavations have revealed that et-Tell was first founded during the Early Canaanite period (2700 BCE). The settlement covered the entire mound and was surrounded by a thick wall. The place was inhabited during the Late Canaanite period (1550-1200 BCE) and the Israelite Period (1000-600 BCE). Following an occupational gap, the town was reestablished at the beginning of the Hellenistic Period (4th century BCE). This time, habitation extended over the entire mound. Et-Tell flourished towards the end of the first century CE., then it was suddenly abandoned, its inhabitants did not even have a chance to gather all their belongings, before rapidly fleeing to find refuge, probably at Gamla.

According to historical sources, Bethsaida existed during the Hellenistic period and flourished in the first century CE. The results of our excavations at et-Tell support its identification with Bethsaida.

The excavation project of Bethsaida is only in its ascent stage. In the course of the next few years we plan to uncover and rediscover this city. Some day it will be possible to meander through the very streets and the homes where ancient people dwelt.

Here is a rare opportunity to participate from the beginning in a promising archaeological adventure of great interest to Jews and Christians alike as well as to all those intellectually interested in historical discoveries.

The entire season lasts six weeks from June 24 to Aug. 3, 1990, but participation can be made by units of one week. The place is very safe and the cost minimal. The excavation is open to students and to any other person in good health. Forty hours of work are to be provided every week.

For $200 a week lodging at the field school of Qazrin and three meals (Kosher) a day are provided, with archaeological and cultural tours and lectures. Students can obtain 3 credits from the University of Haifa if they stay three weeks and pay a $100 tuition fee. There will be a 25 percent airfare rebate between New York and Tel Aviv for the group leaving at the beginning of the season. The director of the excavation is Professor Rami Arav, director of the Golan Research Institute. For more information call Dr. John Rousseau at (702) 293-2018.

Library News from the Boulder City Library

By Anne Karr
Boulder City is truly fortunate to be among the cities that the Nevada 89 exhibit was scheduled to visit on its tour of the state. It is here now at the Boulder City Library through Wednesday, February 14th, and is well worth a visit. Las Vegas residents who missed the exhibit at the Nevada State Museum and Historical Society last month are driving here to see it.

Two Boulder City residents are included in this highly competitive photo exhibit. Photographers who have work accepted for display or for inclusion in the slide show can consider the feat an award as only one out of five entries were selected for the honor. Irene Brennan and John H. Lehr are the two Boulder City residents so honored.

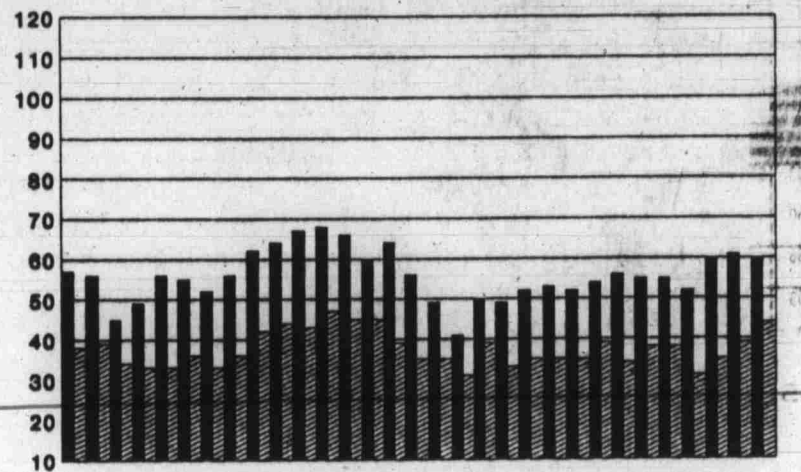

There is a slide program which tours with the free-standing print exhibit. The slide show and the exhibit are entirely different competitions. The slide show is narrated by Stu Rider of KELK and KLKO-FM radio stations in Elko and the audiovisual was produced by Howard Hickson, director of the Northeastern Nevada Museum. Any interested party may view the slide show at the library during regular operating hours Friday, February 9th through Monday afternoon, February 12 (Hours Fri., 10-5, Sat., 11-4, Sun. 1-4, and Mon., 10-5). The slide show will be set up in the Community Room.

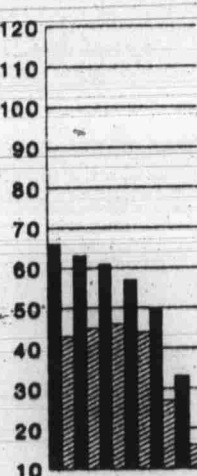

Best of Show went to "Rodeo Puppy" by Michelle Farren.

Catholic campers set exciting 1990 events

Posting a new schedule of campout events the Boulder City Catholic Campers complete six years of fun and friendship.

A meeting held last Monday at St. Andrews Catholic Church resulted in a new slate of officers for 1990 headed by Bob Fewell as Campmaster.

It was Fewell who initially formed the roving RVers into a friendly group which ranges up to 200 miles for its montly campouts. Year-round activities include competitive games and scenic exploration as well as the ever-present campfire.

This year a new site has been added, a 3-day weekend at Eagle Lake in the mountains east of Pioche, Nev.

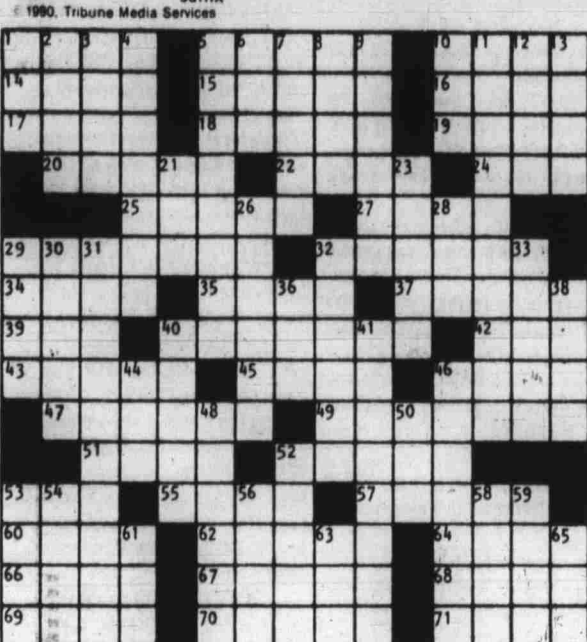

The club is open to any RVers in the Boulder City-Henderson area who share the same spiritual interests. Plans for Sunday Mass are included for all scheduled events, Fewell reported.

Events through the summer are as follows:
Feb. 16-18 Temple Bar
Mar. 30-April 1 Valley of Fire
April 20 - 22 Cottonwood Cove

May 18-20	Eagle Lake
June 9-10	Mt. Charleston
July 20-22	Pine Valley
Aug. 18	Park Picnic
The new roster of officers is as follows:
Campmaster	Bob Fewell (293-2240)
Assistant Campmaster	Ray Arneson (293-2335)
Secretary	Irene Arneson
Treasurer	Virginia Fewell
Wagonmaster	Heber Amstutz
Assistant Wagonmaster	Bennet Smith
Spiritual leaders	John and Eileen Brown
Song leader	Cliff Metkowski

Words of Wisdom

A ship, to run a straight course, can have but one pilot and one steering wheel. The same applies to the successful operation of a business. There cannot be a steering wheel at every seat in an organization.

A bell never rings of itself, someone has to move it.

An actor is a person who has to sweat to make it to the top and who has the guts to accept rejection.

A man's true wealth is the good he does in this world.

High heels were started in France in the 1600s by Louis XIV who wanted to add a few inches to his height because he was so short. He started a fad, and soon, everyone was wearing elevated heels. American women copied the style, and it became a part of American fashion in the 1800s.

Laid end-to-end around the equator, it would take 257,588,120 dollar bills to circle the Earth.

If a Turkish person is wearing violet, he or she might be in mourning.

The first U.S. coin to bear the words, "United States of America," was a penny piece made in 1727.

Ivory Soap was first called White Soap. When it took off and became popular and was in demand, Messrs. Procter and Gamble felt they needed a more unique name for their product. "Ivory" was found in the Bible which mentions "ivory palaces."

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions - horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle, then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF NEVADA

In Re Investigation by the Public Service Commission Regarding the Provisions of Telephone Service to the Dormitories at University of Nevada Las Vegas.

NOTICE OF HEARING

The Public Service Commission of Nevada ("Commission") has opened an investigation, identified as Docket No. 89-126. The Commission seeks comments and will hold a hearing regarding the provision of telephone service to the dormitories at the University of Nevada Las Vegas ("UNLV"). The Commission entered an Interim Order regarding this matter on February 6, 1990.

This docket was opened pursuant to Nevada Administrative Code ("NAC") 708.651. At the hearing, the specific statutes and regulations involved are Chapter 704 of the Nevada Revised Statutes ("NRS") and NAC. The Commission has jurisdiction and authority to hold a hearing pursuant to NRS 704.120.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing in this matter will commence as follows:

MONDAY, APRIL 25, 1990
10:00 a.m.

Office of the Public Service Commission
Alexander Dawson Building
4045 South Spencer, Suite A-44
Las Vegas, Nevada 89158

when and where all interested parties may appear and be heard. Persons wishing to comment in writing should address the following issues:

1. Whether the resolution of Docket No. 88-870 ("Shared Tenant Service") will render Centel's tariff valid regarding this matter?
2. Whether the Moni-Type resolution would better resolve this matter?
3. Whether UNLV dormitories should be considered hotels/motels and charged business telephone rates?

Those persons wishing to comment on the above-mentioned or any other issues regarding this matter should file the original plus office copies of their written comments at either of the Commission's offices located at 727 Fairview Drive, Carson City, Nevada 89710 and the Alexander Dawson Building, 4045 South Spencer, Suite A-44, Las Vegas, Nevada 89158 no later than Wednesday, April 4, 1990. Copies of the written comments will be available at either of the Commission's offices after 1:00 p.m. Monday, April 9, 1990.

By the Commission,

Insulating Your Home Part II
Types Of Insulation

Mineral fiber made from inorganic glass, rock or slag is the most versatile and most widely used insulation. It is available in these forms:

Blankets — Rolls of insulation with vapor barriers or without (unfaced).
Batts — Similar to blankets but sold in 4-ft. or 8-ft. lengths.
Blowing wool — Loose-fill insulation for contractor insulation. Contractors use pneumatic equipment to blow this type of insulation into ceilings (attic floors) or walls.
Cellulose, made from old newspapers or other scrap paper, is loose organic insulation meant to be blown or poured into place.

Insulation Efficiency Ratings

Insulation is rated by R-values, which are expressed as numbers — R-30, for example. "R" means resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power. One type or brand of insulation may be thicker or thinner than another, but if they are rated at the same R-value they will perform the same.

R-values must be plainly marked on all packages of all types of insulation. If they aren't, don't buy that product or allow a contractor to install it. Also, ask the seller to let you see the R-value fact sheet.

Mineral fiber blankets and batts are manufactured to meet specific R-values and are regularly tested by government-required methods. The R-values that are commonly available are R-11, R-13, R-19, R-22, R-25, R-30 and R-38. The insulation must be installed properly to get the R-value marked on the package.

The R-value of loose-fill insulation, either mineral fiber or cellulose, in an attic floor can be determined only after installation. It depends upon the weight per square foot, the minimum installed thickness and the number of bags of insulation used in relation to the area covered. Check with your local utility for specific recommendations for your area to insure maximum insulation efficiency.

You & Your Child
by Eileen Adams

Getting Grandparents To Back Off

Your parents have most likely been extremely prominent figures in your life: They changed your diapers, sent you to school, survived through your (yipes!) teen-age years, and finally saw you marry your true love. At the point when you start having children, however, they take on an additional role in your life — they are the grandparents of your children. As such, you may run into a few scuffles regarding all-important child-rearing issues.

Don't be surprised if your troubles start during pregnancy. Your parents may be force-feeding you, wife lima beans and bran muffins, when all she really wants is a glass of water. And then, after the blessed event, the name dilemma may ensue. Should you name junior after your husband's father? After your wife's aunt? A distant relative so you can stay in the will?

And on and on. But, as you most likely understand, these new grandparents are only trying to help you overcome obstacles they encountered, and hoping they can do so to alleviate some of the grief they anticipate for you.

The best way to handle this is by exercising respect, both for the new grandparents and for you and your spouse. Experience is something that should be valued, and there are certain tips and pointers you'll want, but it must be understood that junior is YOUR child, and YOU have the ultimate say regarding his or her welfare.

The earlier this is established, the better. More easily said than done, a heart-to-heart between grandparents and parents can set a good standard. For instance, make sure that when in your house, YOUR rules are to be followed. Alternately, let the grandparents know that they will have ample time to spoil their grandchild rotten when it's at THEIR house. To stave off any rebellion (for instance, "Grandpa lets me drink soda for breakfast"), make the grandparents aware of certain rules, not too many, that you feel absolutely cannot be broken. You'll be surprised that not only will they adhere to your guidelines, but they will respect you and your decisions as well.
