Rebel to stop labeling oxygenated fuel

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

Notice of oxygenated gasoline may be omitted at Rebel gas stations after today, following action last week by the Clark County Air Pollution Control Board.

In other business during the Thursday meeting, another gas station was fined for gasoline oxygenation violations and four other companies were cited for air-polluting emissions, according to the Air Pollution Control Division.

Rebel Gas sells oxygenated gas all year, APCD Director Michael Naylor told the board in a Feb. 8 memorandum. He said the company "believes they may be at a competitive disadvantage by being required to label when non-oxygenated gasoline does not have a label."

Today is the final day that gasoline must contain a minimum oxygen content as a means to control wintertime air pollution, an APCD spokesperson said. However, according to Naylor's memo, the section requiring labeling does not have an ending date.

A report on the first year of mandatory oxygenation of gasoline will be prepared by April 15, according to regulation requirements, Naylor said. "Several sections of the regulations may need some adjustment," he stated.

In other business during the regular meeting of the Control Board, Express Oil and Gas of Nevada Inc. was fined $3,300 for mislabeling or having less than the required amount of oxygenated fuel in various pumps, including six located in Henderson.

Express was fined $300 each for the condition of six pumps at 671 W. Sunset Road on Dec. 13, according to APCD. Two had less than the required amount of oxygenate and four were mislabeled, records stated.

In other business, Titanium Metals Inc. was found in violation for a spillage of titanium tetrachloride from a reactor on Dec. 5. A negotiation was listed, stating Timet will use

One Man's VIEW

By Mike O'Callaghan

The Nicaraguans in and around Managua are having huge rallies for the Sandinistas led by President Daniel Ortega and opposition party candidate Dona Violeta Chamorro. The newspapers are covered with front page pictures of thousands of people gathered for each rally.

I was more impressed by the little rally held by the Miskito Indians at Puerto Cabezas when their leader, Brooklyn Rivera, returned home after announcing his support for Chamorro. A large crowd met our Soviet-built military transport plane when we touched down after the flight of more than an hour from the national capital. Also meeting the plane was leader Steadman Fagoth, who has joined Rivera in support of the opposition.

Prime Minister George Price of Belize and I flew to Puerto Cabezas to observe the preparations for the upcoming election and to hear complaints of citizens and candidates. The military plane, with benches along each side of the fuselage, also held reporters from Japan, Spain and several South American countries to observe us.

The Miskitos and other tribes along the east coast of Nicaragua are combined into what is known as the Yatama peoples. When we disembarked down the unloading ramp at the tail of the aircraft, we were immediately surrounded by the Indians, who were shouting, "YATAMA! YATAMA!"

Proposed changes could hurt community development program

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

Government officials who deal with community development in three states met in Henderson this week to discuss federal regulations they feel may be detrimental to their communities.

"The Community Development Block Grant program was created as a tool for local governments and municipalities to take federal funds and use them as they best saw fit," said Skeet Fitzgerald of Henderson's Economic Development Department.

He said regulations had made a "very flexible program so we could use their funds within their guidelines [in a manner] that would best suit the needs of low-to-moderate income people."

Now, he said the federal government is planning to "take away some of that flexibility and actually take some of that control out of the hands of the local governments and put it back at the federal level."

A regional meeting of the National Community Development Association convened in Henderson Monday for a round-table discussion about how to respond to the proposed changes in the federal guidelines.

Seventeen persons from Nevada, California and Arizona found that, regardless of the size of the community each represented, "we all have the same perspective," Fitzgerald said. "We all had the feeling these changes are not beneficial to the program."

Fitzgerald said that with the proposed changes, improvements that benefit all residents by focusing on those with low-to-moderate income may no longer be eligible. "Right now, the way that we can use the CDBG funds benefits the whole community," he said. New streets, lighting, storm sewers, sidewalks and such projects have all been installed in Henderson through CDBG funds, he said. "If we can't do that because of the new regulations, then I think we suffer," he added.

CDBG funds can be used to assist low-to-moderate income residents "through a variety of types of projects," Fitzgerald said. Direct benefits come from

Police on lookout for GV bank robber

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

Henderson police were searching for a man suspected of robbing a local bank at gunpoint at Home News presstime Wednesday.

A large amount of cash was taken from the American Federal Savings at 2790 N. Green Valley Parkway late Wednesday morning. Police first received report of a robbery alarm at 11:30 a.m.

According to police, the suspect first came in for a loan and returned with a handgun after having been refused. Police also said the suspect matched the description of another bank robbery suspect, but details were unclear as the Home News went to press.

The suspect was described as a white man, six feet tall, with brown hair slicked back with some type of gel.

He wore a long black raincoat over a white shirt with pinstriping and a dark tie. He also wore sunglasses, but police said he removed them long enough for a witness to see that his right eye was bruised.

The suspect was also said to be clean shaven and apparently had an earphone through which he may have been listening to police broadcasts.

The black handgun, which may have been a revolver, had something taped on the end which may have been intended to silence the weapon, according to police.

PAPER BOY INJURED — Sean Semon, 13, of Henderson, leaves St. Rose Dominican Hospital on Tuesday with balloons in one hand. His other arm was broken in three places when he slipped on his bicycle Feb. 6 while delivering papers for a local daily newspaper. While in surgery, the 42 papers he still had to deliver were handled by others. His sister Rochelle will work his route until he recovers enough to go back to work. Meanwhile, Semon expects to collect a salary from the State Industrial Insurance System.

Mystery solved in Henderson woman's death

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

Foreign laws that would have made a third party responsible for a murder/suicide caused a mystery that delayed police from solving a Henderson woman's murder in Las Vegas this week, according to the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department.

Dawn Lee Ray's body was found Sunday in Las Vegas along with that of co-worker Mok Sang Huh in Huh's apartment near the Imperial Palace, where both worked as blackjack dealers, police said. Ray had been shot several times in the upper body, while Huh had one gunshot wound in the head, according to police.

Although murder/suicide was suspected, police considered the case could be a double murder because no gun was found at the scene, and because Ray had just days earlier filed a complaint that a man she had turned in for gaming fraud had been harassing her.

Metro Lt. Kyle Edwards said the murder had no link to the gaming incident. He said Huh wanted his relationship with Ray "to be something more than a friendship." When Ray tried to leave the apartment, he said police believe Huh killed her, then himself.

"The weapon was removed from the scene by a friend of the murder suspect," Edwards said. He added, "In his country, which is Korea, the owner of the gun is as responsible as the user of the gun."

He said the friend came to the room, saw what had happened, and was afraid he would be charged with murder in the crime. He said the gun had been loaned to Huh about a week earlier.

Henderson police said that Ray's husband, Sherman Ray, had reported her missing about 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

dust suppressant equivalent to $3,000.

Thatcher Co., Las Vegas Division, was found in violation for emissions from its bauxite handling facility scrubber stack at 7300 W. Lake Mead Drive on Nov. 7. The company was fined $300.

Las Vegas Paving Corp. was fined $300 for emissions from an asphalt plant stack at its Henderson facility on Nov. 7, according to ACPD records.

Nevada Rock and Sand Company was fined $200 for fugitive dust emissions from a landfill operation on Nov. 25. ACPD records stated no precautionary measures were taken at its facility at 501 W. Sunset Road.

housing rehabilitation and social services, while other projects may improve the neighborhood itself, such as the recent addition of street lights in Henderson's Townsite neighborhood.

That was eligible, he said, because federal guidelines required that CDBG funds could be spent in a neighborhood that had a minimum of 51 percent of residents in the low-to-moderate income level.

"Under the new guidelines," Fitzgerald said, "100 percent of that project would have to benefit low-to-moderate [income residents]." However, the project could have been funded proportionately under the new guidelines, if money could have been found for the unqualified portion of the project.

There is still some flexibility left, but it would still "restrict the activities that we're engaged in," he said.

The communities involved at the meeting Monday had CDBG funds ranging from Henderson's $500,000 to San Francisco's $16 million, Fitzgerald said.

He said the federal government seems to "want to turn the CDBG program from a community development program to an anti-poverty program." He added, "We'd have to almost exclusively do direct-benefit activities, which isn't bad, but [we need a balance]."

Projects such as the Townsite streetlights, the new Senior Center and the paving of streets in the Pittman neighborhood several years ago may be ineligible under the new guidelines, he said.

"[With] all the new things they want to add," he said, "they aren't giving us any more money. And worse than that, they keep cutting it. Since 1981 the CDBG funding has declined by 53 percent overall.

"What good is it to try to expand the program and make all these other things eligible ... and then not give us the money to do the programs?"

Among the proposed cuts, he said, is the deletion of low interest loans for housing improvements through Housing and Urban Development. He said Henderson has spent some $220,000 in the past five years "including a couple years where we didn't spend any at all because we didn't have any money available."

He said the loans are made with money repaid from previous loans, but HUD has used those funds for other purposes.

Funds for rehabilitating rental properties, which Fitzgerald said is used often in Henderson's older neighborhoods, will be cut by 45 percent under the proposal, he said.

The consensus from the round-table discussion, Fitzgerald said, is that the general public and the administrators of the CDBG funds need to inform their United States Congressional representatives that their communities would be hurt by the proposed changes.

"We felt that it was a marketing effort on our part. Let people know that the program benefits them, that they can contact their congressional delegates." He said that "instead of it being a faceless clientele [they] could put some faces and names to it."

He said another regional meeting of the NCDCA will be set following the group's nationwide conference in April.

He added that April 7 to 14 is National CDBG Week. However, he said, "We need to keep it out in front all year."

Callous FAA controllers kill 73 with indifference

Editor's Note: Not much has been said about the deaths of 73 Colombian airline passengers who died when their plane crashed on Long Island. Evidence shows the plane crashed because it ran out of fuel as a result of being held aloft for 45 minutes by air traffic controllers after being told the plane was running low on fuel.

This was a tragedy which would have and should have been prevented and still so very little has been said about it in the U.S. press. Is there silence because it was a foreign airliner or because we have become calloused and brush it off as "just one more airline disaster" that takes place regularly in our world?

Mel Steninger, publisher of the Elko Daily Free Press and a pilot, didn't brush off the tragedy, but took time to comment on it in depth. His editorial remarks are worth reprinting:

Something that is difficult to comprehend is how callously indifferent federal bureaucrats can become, with a little practice. A demonstration was provided in the recent level of insensitivity achieved by agents of the Federal Aviation Administration.

FAA controllers last week kept an Avianca airliner wandering about the skies over the eastern part of the United States for an excessive period of time, assigning the ill-fated plane to "holding patterns," until the aircraft finally ran out of fuel, crashed and killed 73 people. Many others were injured.

It was done despite the undisputed fact that members of the plane's crew notified FAA controllers at least 45 minutes before the crash that the craft was running low on fuel.

The FAA personnel who thus condemned 73 people to death—the FAA agents are called controllers because they exercise a near-absolute control over such aircraft—have shown no inkling of remorse. Instead, they have attempted to absolve themselves with public contentions that crew members on the airplane did not use the correct words when announcing the fuel shortage.

Flint-hearted spokesmen for the FAA declared earlier this week that the crew members—who were killed in the tragic crash—should bear the blame because the pilot pleaded for "priority" clearance to land before he crashed. The FAA apologists say they might not have ignored the plight of the airliner and its 159 passengers and crew members if the word "emergency" had been used in the plea for merciful treatment by the controllers.

The official contention of the FAA, then, is that the crew members and more than 70 of the plane's passengers deserved to die because of this perceived error in terminology. Fred Farrar, official spokesman for the FAA, arrogantly declared on Monday that the plea containing the word "priority" was properly ignored by controllers because this word "has no particular meaning in air traffic control. If there is an emergency, you use the word 'emergency.'"

The more important point, we believe, is that the pilot of the Colombian airliner notified FAA agents that he was running out of fuel—because the aircraft had been delayed so long by FAA controllers ordering it into "holding patterns"—and asked them to guide him to an airport promptly. Instead of responding rationally to that notification and request, the FAA agents ignored the pilot and kept him aloft until his plane exhausted its fuel and crashed (after aborting one landing attempt because of poor weather conditions).

We think it's time somebody used the word "emergency" in describing the need to make some drastic changes in a bureaucracy that has grown so callous it won't even admit that the indifferent negligence of its agents killed 73 people in one swat.

Don't count Jessie out

To listen to political strategists, Jessie Jackson's political career will be washed up if he doesn't run for mayor of Washington. They say Jackson does not have the experience of running a high-level elected office. They say he desperately needs that to prove he is somebody and can lead. Pulling the city from the mire would do just that, they say. Jackson is missing a golden opportunity, they say.

According to that line of thinking, Jackson should have never gotten as far as he did in the last Democratic primary or the primary before that. However, the record shows just how well Jackson did. The political pundits chalked it up to image, since they couldn't say it was experience.

Image is precisely what they are forgetting now. Jackson has built an image that stands apart from his capabilities of operating smoothly in an elected office. Jackson does not need to run for mayor of Washington. The voters will not care if he didn't run for mayor when the 1992 primary rolls around. He does not need a mayoral position to convince voters. Jackson has the gift of image.

Increasingly, image has played a part in presidential and other elections. More and more frequently, the massive voting public really doesn't care what the candidate stands for as long as he looks and sounds good. A few persons, the politicians included, do care about such things as experience and well-defined stands on certain issues. However, those people are very few and their opinions don't matter to a public more concerned about a candidate's necktie than his stand on nuclear waste storage.

It's called stupidity

By Richard Cohen

WASHINGTON—Once there was a milk carton, and it had a lid. For years the milk carton was the only one available and people made do. Then someone extremely clever invented a carton that had no lid. The opening and the container are one. That carton is a vast improvement even though you often cannot open it and, if you do, the milk dribbles out in ways you cannot predict. This is called progress.

Once there was something called the telephone company. This phone company basically offered just one model telephone, usually black, but if your phone broke, a man came to your house and fixed it. Then someone invented a better phone company. It offered many kinds of phones and oodles of services, most of which you don't need. Now no one comes to your home to fix your phone. This is called progress.

Once there was something called a bank teller. Trouble was, the teller usually only worked from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., so long lines formed. Then someone invented the Automatic Teller Machine and so now, instead of waiting in line inside the bank, you wait in line outside the bank—and often get charged to make a transaction. This is called progress.

Once there was something called a paper bag. In some parts of the country, it was called a sack, but whatever it was called, it worked. Groceries were put in it and, when emptied at home, it could be used to start fires in the fireplace or as a garbage bag. Then someone invented the plastic bag. It cannot be burned since the fumes cause chipmunks in the woods to fall over and die. It's too small to be used as a garbage bag and, full of groceries, it topples over in the trunk of a car. This is called progress.

Once there was just one kind of pay phone. Usually it was found in a booth where you could find the phone numbers of incredible women who, although they had American names like "Patti" or "Debbi," clearly had read the Kamasutra. Then someone invented a better phone booth and, at the same time, lots of phone companies. This way you can duplicate the anxiety of foreign travel. You never know which phone company you'll get or if your calling card will be accepted. This is called progress.

Once there was an airline industry. Its rates and routes were regulated by the government, but service was good and there was such a thing as a nonstop flight. Then someone invented a better airline system. For almost a week, air fares dropped. So, too, did maintenance and service and, when fares rose again, maintenance and service remained the same. Then the airlines abolished most nonstop flights. Now, to get to almost anywhere you have to change planes in Atlanta. This is called progress.

Once there was something called a street address and mail came to that location in a timely fashion. Then someone invented the Zip Code and insisted that it be added to the street address. Now mail that once took a day to reach its destination takes a week and very often includes a notice that a check you mailed a week before has never arrived. This is called progress.

Once there was something called a clerk. Often the clerk answered the phone and gave you the information you requested. Then someone invented something better. It's called voice mail, and it means that you cannot ever get to talk to a human being. You press "6" and then "1" and then get disconnected. Need I tell you? This is called progress.

Once there was something called a family doctor. That person came to your house if you were sick because that person had learned in medical school that sick people don't feel well and should not spend hours in waiting rooms with other sick people, all of them with different diseases. Then someone invented a better doctor. That new kind of doctor is so good that you have to go to him, but not on weekends or holidays or on Fridays after noon. This is called progress.

Once there was something called a watch. It had a minute hand and an hour hand, and one was longer than the other. Most people thought it worked just fine, and maybe the best thing about it was that if your watch wasn't working, you could just glance at someone else's. Then someone invented the digital watch. This meant that you could not read someone else's watch. It also meant that when daylight saving time came or went, you had to devote many hours to resetting the thing. This, too, is called progress.

Once there was a rule. It was "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." Then someone decided that the rule was silly, and so all sorts of things that worked perfectly well were fixed so that they don't work well anymore. This is now called progress. It used to be called stupidity.

Capitol Commentary

GOP voter registration gains

By Guy Shieler

The Republicans aren't catching up with the Democrats when it comes to finding a viable candidate to run against Gov. Bob Miller this year. But they are getting close to them in voter registration.

Last week, Secretary of State Frankie Sue Del Papa reported that as of Jan. 1, the Democrats were leading Republicans by a little over 9,000 registered voters statewide—193,263 to 184,182.

That's a huge change. In 1980, the Democrats had about half again as many registered voters as the Republicans had—119,985 to 74,433. And as recently as 1988, the Democrats led Republicans in registration by only 22,493. In two years, the GOP has cut that lead by more than half.

The rapid acceleration has taken place mainly in the last 10 years. When I first came to Nevada in the mid-1950s, the Democratic registration ran pretty consistently at about three-to-one over the Republicans.

That lopsided situation tuned out to present me with a difficult problem. As a correspondent for national news publications based in New York, my major job was to cover Nevada's inconsistent lifestyle. I was reporting that in spite of its well-known liberal social attitudes and behavior, it was remarkably conservative politically. That sort of stuff didn't make sense in Rockefeller Center.

Asked the puzzled editors: If Nevada had a three-to-one Democratic registration, how come it was so clearly locked into a rigid, red-neck right-wing political conservatism at both the state and national levels? And how come that implicit narrow-mindedness could possibly tolerate 24-hour legalized gambling, quickie divorces, bars that never closed and legally licensed brothels?

Even states with long traditions of liberal Democratic influence didn't do crazy things like those, said the editors. But since Nevada did, how come its voters could send to the U.S. Senate a Democrat as right-wing as Pat McCarran?

My problem was how to explain those things satisfactorily. It wouldn't be easy, because even though I had worked with and for them in New York well enough to gain their confidence, I could tell that the editors were then beginning to think the altitude had somehow affected my judgment.

The only way I could get them partly off that train of thought was to try to put that lopsided voter registration into the Eastern perspective. In long memos I explained that the word "Democrat" did not mean the same thing in Nevada that it did in New York.

Rather, it came closer to equating with the Northerner's definition of Southern Democrats, who—especially in those days—were notoriously conservative by Northern standards. Where states' rights had strong racial overtones in the South, states rights in Nevada zeroed in mainly on the over-abundance of the federal government's physical presence.

The explanation helped somewhat. But I never have been able to make them understand Nevada's liberal attitudes in other ways, even though more and more states have begun to follow some of them, at least when it comes to legalized gambling.

Actually, of course, party registration has in itself never made as much difference in Nevada as it has elsewhere. Despite the heavy Democratic registration edge, three of the five governors between 1950 and 1982 were Republicans.

Between 1950 and 1988, the voters of both parties put a total of 22 republicans into all the state's highest offices—Congress, governor, lieutenant governor, treasurer, controller and attorney general.

Scores of Republicans have served in the Legislature, often enough to have majority control over one or both houses, where they have had as profound an influence on the state's political directions as have the Democrats. And their impact has been felt as strongly at the local government levels throughout the state's history.

Historically, then, it has been hard to tell the difference between the two major political parties in Nevada when it comes to election results. Perhaps here more than any other state, the individual and what he stands for guides the voter more than his party affiliation. The net effect at the polls has been a pretty consistent conservative political record at both the national and the local level.

All indications are that it will stay that way. Even though our booming population is giving us the largest registration ever, the strong Republican gains would assure a continuing conservative trend. For there is no sign that the Democrats have become any more liberal than they were when they sent Sen. McCarran to Washington—and kept him there until he died.

Uniform speed limits necessary for school zones

You've got an appointment across town and are running a little late because of unforeseen circumstances. You're driving carefully, and within the speed limit, but you don't have any time to waste. Suddenly, you find yourself in a school zone—and you can't remember what the restrictions are. You slow down, frantically search for a sign and try to observe other traffic.

This confusion is typical for Nevada motorists. In some school zones you're permitted to go 25 mph at certain times of the day, but in others a strict 15-mph limit is in effect. Some schools have flashing yellow lights when you're supposed to slow down; others do not. At schools located on major thoroughfares, motorists are sometimes given more latitude.

In an attempt to clarify the situation, the Nevada Department of Transportation plans to conduct a number of public hearings on how to bring about greater uniformity. And the school safety zone issue is already on the Nevada Legislature's 1991 agenda.

These discussions shouldn't consume very much time. The most sensible and practical solution would be to adopt a 15-mph zone for all schools—from a half-hour before school starts to a half-hour after it ends—on streets surrounding the school. If that were the case for every school in the state, there would be no confusion.

As long as motorists are warned within a reasonable distance from the school that a speed limit is approaching, it would be fair. And it would be safer than the existing system—which has motorists scratching their heads when they should be letting up on the gas pedal.

Some people would no doubt feel inconvenienced by this. They've grown used to the idea of zipping along at a steady pace. But a little inconvenience is a small price to pay for creating a safe traffic environment for school children.

Furthermore, a uniform school speed limit can only be effective if it is strictly enforced. Other areas of the country are vigilant in patrolling areas around schools and in slapping heavy fines on violators. There's no reason we can't be, too.

State officials say the problem of uniformity is complicated because of the regulations in small communities. Towns without a traffic engineer often make safety zones too long just to be on the safe side. Officials of those towns can't be faulted for this, but they, too, must work toward uniformity.

It's time we all got a little smarter when it comes to traffic safety around schools.

Events of 1790 — Part One The National Census

By L. Jessie Bennett

1990 will be the 200th birthday of the American Census. The year 1789, when General George Washington became President George Washington, was a year of anguish and frantic formation of a new government. President Washington confessed to Henry Knox, secretary of War, that he foresaw, "an ocean of difficulties" ahead. It was from two different executive mansions in New York City—Cherry Street Mansion and the High Street Mansion—that many of those momentous decisions were made. Government leadership included the president, Vice President John Adams, First Chief Justice John Jay, Associate Justice James Watson, Secretary of War Henry Knox, Attorney General Edmund Randolph and Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton.

Those leaders and the new nation faced many problems and decisions:

- Early government income
- Coast Guard
- Post Office System
- Taxation
- U.S. Patent Office
- Newgate Prison established

Also the big balloon business flourished and a boat was designed to be propelled by steam.

The educational system was being formed. Take, for example, the James Morris Academy in Litchfield, Conn. It was a co-educational school, offering Latin, Greek, mathematics, English, grammar, logic and moral philosophy. Things were moving in 1790.

Considering the many programs that had to be started and supervised in the early months of the new government, it is quite remarkable that this nation got off to such a successful start 200 years ago. To add to everything else there were additional problems, such as poor communications and bad roads that surely hampered the taking of the first census.

The secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton, was responsible for taxation and the first census. Hamilton was a brilliant man and soon initiated the census to count the population of the new nation. The 1790 Census records were important in 1790. They are also important to historians, genealogists, etc., in the last 200 years.

Post riders all carried the census papers to the towns throughout the states to gather the information. Each town was responsible for assigning a census taker to gather the required data in his town.

An example of the form and information therein follows:

First census of the United States Heads of Families—Litchfield County

Name of Head of family	Free White Males of 16 yrs & upward including the heads of families	Free White Males 16 yrs & the heads of families	Free White Females	All Other Free	Slaves
Litchfield Town
Catlin, Alexander	3	1	6		1
Stone, Reuben	2	3	3
Marsh, Solomon	2	3	5		1
Sheldon, Elisha	1	1	1		4
Morris, James	2	5	3

The 1790 Census was extremely important to the formation of the new nation of the United States of America. Is the Census important now? Is it necessary to governmental planning for the good of the nation and the people?

Indeed the 1990 Census, 200 years later, is once again extremely, even vitally, important to the United States of America. Each form of the 1990 Census should be completed in full honesty and returned as soon as possible.

Letters

Support your police

Editor:

This letter is to everyone that lives and works in Henderson and Green Valley. As a homeowner here, my neighbor and I are becoming very alarmed at what we see everyday.

To start with, some teenagers in Brown Jr. High School—maybe that both junior high school and Basic High School—are causing problems.

The problems are:

1. Walking in the street going to and from school, stopping cars from moving and acting like they own the street. The ones that are doing this know who they are. They will block the street for a half a block to a block or more, not caring that they have the traffic stopped dead. Do they have a death wish or something?

2. Again the teens—and they know who they are—are starting fights among themselves, getting into the mail boxes, taking mail, etc., which is a federal offense.

3. Those youngsters who use drugs and those who drink and abuse alcohol—what a waste of life! I think they should see a person what has died of drugs, alcohol or AIDS. They should just stop and think, but I doubt if they will.

4. When driving, they speed and show off in their cars. A car is a killer.

Now for the adults—and again they know who they are: 1. The ones that pick up their kids at school need to pay attention to the speed zone. Do they pay attention to the 25 mph zone in neighborhood areas? No! Yet they are the first to yell if they see speeders in their areas.

2. As for those who are also using drugs and abusing alcohol at home and behind the wheel of a car, how can they expect their kids not to do it?

We that live here or the school need to call the police when we see something going on. I don't know if many of them know this fact, but the school is in charge of the kids until they reach home. Being afraid of calling the police will not, I repeat will not, clear up all the problems. The police do have their hands full and are also short of manpower, but they do the best they can.

They can't always get there as fast as some people want, in fact I am guilty of thinking they should get to a trouble spot sooner. The police have 78 square miles to cover and that is not easy.

Also when they do get there, does anyone say "thank you?" I am just one person, but if one person and the next one person get together and start calling the schools and the police, we just might end up with a pretty nice and safe place to live and play.

When one gets right down to it, if one phone call saves a life and we are not afraid to call, it is worth it. Those who take time to call and let the right people know—police, school, etc.—how are authorities going to know where they are needed? Support your local police!

Upset over neighborhood blight

I have been a Henderson resident for seven years. My husband and I purchased two homes in the Black Mountain Hills area; one is our home and the other is a rental. We had a lot of confidence in the City of Henderson's quest to improve its image and therefore the probability of our property losing its value was not our concern at the time we made those purchases.

In 1985, we noticed that many of the residents in our area began to clutter their yards with broken-down cars, appliances, plumbing, furniture and other eyesores. In addition, many have neglected their landscaping and only dirt and weeds remain.

Many of us were concerned about where our neighborhood was going. I circulated a petition among the residents which expressed our use of residential property. I submitted the petition to the City Clerk, who then informed me that the City of Henderson could do absolutely nothing to prevent our neighborhood from deteriorating due to blight.

It seems to me that with all of the effort and expense put forth by the city towards the Henderson Beautification Project, unless we establish some city ordinances prohibiting the use to residential property for junk yards, the city is spinning its wheels.

If the City of Henderson proper intends to improve its image, I am more than willing to participate and take the necessary steps to accomplish this goal. Advice would be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
MARY KIROS

P.S. Is a business license required to run an auto repair shop on a front lawn? We have that, too. Also, if anyone wants to buy a used washing machine or mattress, just drive around Black Mountain Hills and you can shop in the comfort of your own car.

Unhappy with errors

Editor:

Upon arriving in the Green Valley area almost two years ago, I was pleased to discover the existence of a local newspaper covering events of interest to the community. Since that time my enthusiasm has been tempered considerably by the appalling number of spelling and grammatical errors consistently found in the paper. The occasional "typo" can happen to anyone, but the clear misspelling and incorrect use of several commonly used words detract from the paper's content and credibility.

The attached came from this week's paper, but the use in an earlier edition, of the word "jestering" to indicate movement of the hand, was simply outrageous.

Doesn't anyone even attempt to proofread anymore, or is it that the staff doesn't know these are incorrect? The pressure of deadlines should not be an excuse for contributing to the demise of the English language.

Sincerely,
DOROTHY A. HOWARD

County Commission mulls Pecos Road

By Hugh J. Anderson III
President, GVCA

The Clark County Commission discussed Pecos Road and the Green Valley/Sandhill interconnect at its Feb. 6 meeting.

The most striking comment from a participant was from Clark County Public Works Director Marty Manning, when asked which project had the most merit. Manning could not or would not make a choice, so he proffered building both projects. Henderson Public Works Director Mark Calhoun was called by the commission to verify Henderson's financial commitment to the Pecos Road project. Calhoun indicated that the current priority list, in order included: Pecos Road, Green Valley/Sandhill and improve east/west roads.

To cover an approximate $800,000 shortfall to do the Pecos project, the county and Al Collins discussed contributions of "things of value." That list of things would include Collins contributing $158,000 in engineering work, Pecos property owners dedicating to the county the needed rights of way (read: give the county the necessary land), and/or Pecos owners participating in a Special Improvement District (read: pay for road improvements in front of their properties).

County Commission Chairman Bruce Woodbury said that he thought it highly unlikely to expect that kind of cooperation from the Pecos owners.

Collins also indicated that other developers in the area would contribute to the shortfall, but no specific amounts have yet been disclosed.

Commissioner Manny Cortez saw validity in both projects, but also directed the county attorney to investigate condemnation procedures of the needed Pecos land. The attorney said that the land could be acquired while the fair value of the seizure was decided by the courts.

The commission will take up the matter again on March 6. The obvious goal is to move as many people as safely and conveniently as possible, while spending as little public money as possible (read: goal not that simple).

Rebuttal to Home News Front Page Article of Feb. 8, Concerning the Henderson City Council Meeting of Feb. 6

To Whom It May Concern:

Since 1981, Landscape Supply Inc. has been manufacturing and supplying water-efficient soil mixes called "It'll Gro" under U.S. Patent No. 1445465, as well as providing landscape rock, masonry sand and similar materials.

To be successful, a business needs community support and cooperation, along with its own drive, enthusiasm and desire to succeed—all combined with a touch of professionalism.

We feel the city and surrounding areas make it possible for this to happen.

It angers, frustrates and saddens us at Landscape Supply that we must answer to the false accusations by Luis Hitt before the Henderson Council.

We are doing business in a location where we are legally authorized to be. Our goal is to be good neighbors—not only to those across the street, but to the Henderson community in general.

It was intimated that our drivers were reckless, careless and obscene. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Our drivers are professional operators. The rules of the road and our insurance coverage (see the adjacent letter) demand that they be careful, prudent and courteous and submit to drug testing. Is there anything more absurd than the allegation that our drivers "occasionally make obscene gestures to neighborhood children?"

Just the same, we have been challenged and we answer that challenge "with both barrels."

A survey was taken in February from well over 200 of our customers, including home owners, contractors, municipalities, hotels and businesses. The results showed that:

- 99% were satisfied, of which
- 86% were repeat customers, and
- 99% plan to use us again in the future.

We must be doing something right and we see no need to do business differently—only continue to improve.

Since 1981, our business has been growing because of two simple rules:

1. Supply the demand! and
2. Tend your business and it will flourish!

Simply put, our customers are our bosses!

We are thankful for the success of Landscape Supply and it relates directly to our customers. We deeply appreciate their support!

If there are any further concerns about our business ethics, our corporation citizenship in the community or additional related comments on this matter, persons are encouraged to direct them to:

- Henderson City Hall, 565-2323,
- Henderson Chamber of Commerce, 565-8951, or
- Better Business Bureau, 735-6900.

To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is in regards to Landscape Supply, Inc. and Bernard Schwab.

For a number of years we have insured Mr. Schwab's business. We have been impressed with the manner he conducts his business as well as his pre-screening of employees.

Mr. Schwab has always conducted his business in a gentlemanly manner with the utmost integrity.

Prior to hiring his employees and drivers he screens them for not only an adverse driving record but also for drugs. His concerns being not only his business but also the public.

Insurance Companies Loss Control inspections have found him to keep his business premises neat and tidy and show him to be an asset to any area he may be in.

I find it a pleasure to handle his business insurance.

In many ways life is an adventure for all of us. Especially as we grow from childhood to adulthood and beyond. Life becomes more interesting if we realize this and learn to recognize each experience as a learning experience and special adventure—whether good, bad, or indifferent. ## Senior Center Highlights

Kitchen employees awarded certificates

By Helen VanDerSys

At a recent ceremony held during the Senior Center's lunch hour, Black Mountain Nutrition kitchen employees Emma Chavez, Wilma Holden, Inez McBride, Fanny Williams, Joyce Fee and a volunteer, Fred Zajac, were awarded Certificates of Appreciation for outstanding performances.

A letter accompanying the certificates stated, "in appreciation for the many hours you have devoted to preparing and serving the delicious meals to our many seniors at our nutrition center, Salvation Army and Day Care Center." Appreciation was also expressed by the Senior Nutrition Advisory Board, which initiated the certificates, for the ability of the staff members and volunteer to adjust to a new and strange kitchen in August 1989, when the Senior Center moved to its new location from Lead Street, with a minimum of confusion.

Since the new center has opened, meal count has increased more than 200 percent over meals served at the old site, with no increase of employee personnel. Fred Zajac, only volunteer working in the kitchen is in charge of inventory control and devotes about 200 hours per month volunteer time.

Senior Dimensions will have a representative at the center at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday to acquaint seniors with its program. Senior Center volunteers will assist seniors in filling out their property tax-rent application forms, if proper information is brought.

Proof of age (copy of driver's license or birth certificate), rent receipts for January through December 1989 and proof of all income for 1989 is required. Deadline for filing is April 30.

Seniors seeking employment may apply at the Senior Community Employment Service, whose representative is at Nevada Business Services, 117 Water St. from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on the second Tuesday of the month.

NevadaCare has advised the center that a listing of physicians volunteering for NevadaCare participation will not be mailed to individual card holders, but the listing is available at all senior centers and should be consulted regarding the listing of a particular physician. Dr. Diskin's Skin Screening Clinic will be at the center at 8:30 a.m. Friday for free screening.

The arthritis clinic will be held at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday; an Assessor's Office representative will be at the center Friday, Feb. 23, to assist seniors in applying for rent assistance rebate.

The Social Security representative needs no appointment to see him from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. every Wednesday. Applications for initial or replacement Social Security cards are available at the center's reception desk to be picked up in advance and filled out to expedite the interview; the representative can answer any questions relating to Social Security, Medicare or Medicaid.

Regularly scheduled activities and services next week:

Monday: Bridge, 8:30 a.m.; art class, 12:30 p.m.; grocery shopping, 12:30 p.m.; line dancing, 2 p.m.

Tuesday: Needlecraft, 9 a.m.; legal aide, 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.; pinochle, 12:30 p.m.; Tom's Casino trip, 12:30 p.m.; arthritis, 12:30 p.m.

Wednesday: Social Security, 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.; bridge, noon; line dancing, 7 p.m.

Thursday: Bridge, 8:30 a.m.; bingo, 12:30 p.m.; line dancing, 2 p.m.; pinochle, 7 p.m.

Friday: Bridge, noon; art class, 12:30 p.m.

Menu for week of Feb. 19 through Feb. 23:

Monday: Tuna loaf, tossed vegetable salad, baked potato, green beans, wheat bread, orange juice and sliced peaches.

Tuesday: Beef stew, sugar free Jell-O with grapefruit and pears, mixed veggies, wedge of cheese, tomato juice, corn bread and fresh fruit.

Wednesday: Roast turkey, cranberry perfection salad, yellow squash, mashed potatoes, orange juice and sherbert.

Thursday: Roast beef, cabbage salad, mixed vegetables, mashed potatoes, fat free gravy and fresh fruit.

Friday: Chili with beans, cottage cheese, pineapple salad, fruit compote, crackers, orange juice and peanut butter bars.

Coffee, tea and two percent milk are served with every meal.

Cola Increases Social Security, SSI rates

By Marta A. Blanco
Social Security Administration

A 4.7 percent cost-of-living adjustment will increase the amount of 1990 Social Security and supplemental security income payments.

The annual rate change raises the amount of the maximum Social Security retirement benefit for a person retiring this year at 65 to $975. The average Social Security retirement benefit paid nationally is $566.

The full Federal SSI payment goes up this year to $386 for an individual and $579 for a couple. In some states, a supplement raises the payment amount. Living arrangements and other income also affect SSI payment amounts.

Other changes effective for 1990 involve the retirement earnings test—the amount of earnings a beneficiary can earn and still receive full Social Security benefits. The figures for 1990 increase from $8,880 to $9,360 for people ages 65 through 69 and from $6,480 to $6,840 for people who are under 65. After age 70, no limit is placed on earnings.

If earnings are over the retirement test limit, $1 out of each $2 in earnings over the limit is deducted from benefits for people under 65. For people ages 65 through 69, the deduction rate is $1 out of each $3 in earnings over the limit.

The easy retirement plan

In the ever more complex world of retirement plans, there is one plan that offers simplicity, flexibility, low cost, and a minimum of paperwork, and is specifically designed for the self-employed individual or small business!

A Simplified Employee Pension Plan, or SEP, allows you the opportunity to put aside up to 15 percent of your earnings (to a maximum of $30,000). This plan works basically the same as an individual IRA—you tuck away pre-tax money to grow tax-deferred until retirement. Each year, you can determine how much you wish to contribute, from nothing up to 15 percent (or $30,000 maximum). If you have employees, you would contribute the same percentage of their salary, from 0 percent to 15 percent, as you have decided to contribute of your salary to a SEP-IRA for each employee.

Many people could benefit from a retirement plan that is simple to set up and inexpensive to administer. There are no reporting requirements, and no need for plan document filings or approval from government agencies by the individual opening the plan.

Jorgensen/Segler wedding

Hardy Segler and Kathy Jorgensen have chosen Friday as their wedding day. They will be married in sacred ceremony at the Las Vegas LDS Temple. A special wedding breakfast will follow the ceremony. The bride, daughter of Ellen Jorgensen is from Mt. Pleasant, Utah. The groom has been a longtime resident of Henderson and this area. There will be many out-of-town guests to help celebrate this special day. Congratulations.

Former resident Halversen

From Santa Maria, Calif. it has been learned that Cameron Halversen, a Basic High School graduate, will be spending the next two years in Bordeaux, France, as an LDS missionary. He will leave for France last of February or first of March after some language training. Best of luck to Cam and his new adventure in another part of the world.

Hospitalized

Longtime resident of Henderson Virginia Picotte recently spent some time in St. Rose Dominican Hospital. Virginia is now at home, getting well and gaining strength. Her son reports that she is improving. From her many friends, neighbors and family comes many "Get Well Wishes."

DUP meeting scheduled

The Daughters of Utah Pioneers, Desert Sunrise Camp, will meet at 1 p.m., Monday at 160 Victory Road. Capt. Irene Campbell will conduct the meeting. Hostesses for the luncheon are Florence Baird and Ruth Soehlke. All members are urged to attend. Visitors interested in their pioneers are welcome.

Venture Scout activities

The Venture Scouts, Troop 44, attended a recent Scout activity, Venture Rendezvous, near Overton on the "Muddy River" last Friday and Saturday. There were approximately 500 scouts and leaders present. Those from Troop 44 included: leaders Jan T. Bennett and Dennie Segler and Venture Scouts, Brent and Larry Hartzell, Brett Bennett, Joe Groft and Alan Cavalieri. The weather was warm and beautiful and everyone enjoyed the activities.

From Utah

Floyd DeMille, former resident of Henderson now living in Rockville, Utah, is steadily improving at home after some serious surgery in December, his wife Vilo reports. Their daughters, Faun Barber, Lokoma Tangren, Rosalyn Lingenfelter and Elaine Dickinson, all live in this area.

Utah visitors

Max and Norma Holman, of Santaquin, Utah, were recent visitors at the home of Norma's brother, Almon Bame. Norma is extending her visit to stay with Mrs. Bame who has been ill. She is wished a speedy recovery.

Congratulations

If you have been watching TV for last week you may have seen Mary Eslinger, a student at Basic High School, who was named Senior Student of the week. Congratulations to Mary for her leadership abilities and school work.

Sad farewell

Been saying a sad goodbye to a special, 16-year relationship. Over the years (from about 7 years old) my life has been greatly enriched by some of the "critters" of our world... dogs, cats, birds, turtles, etc. My life has been emotionally entwined with their lives and I sincerely hope I have given them as much love, pleasure, loyalty and security as they have given to me. A young feline, white as the snow falling at the time, took refuge 16 years ago at my house and decided to stay. Last week her valiant heart gave up and she took leave of us. We said a tearful farewell and mentally thanked her for choosing us as her "humans."

Some good words

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths; in feelings, not in figures on a dial. We should count time by heart-throbs. He most lives who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best."

Phillip James Bailey

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

ROSA HERWICK, GRI, CRS

DON'T COUNT ON ORAL PROMISE

QUESTION: I am about to close the purchase of a new home. The builder has promised me that all of the things that are wrong will be taken care of and that his handshake will save a lot of paperwork. Should I trust him?

HANDSHAKES don't count in real estate. Put it in writing.

ANSWER: Many a business agreement has been made with a handshake and enforced by the courts. But when it comes to the never-never world of real estate, you cannot and should not rely on oral promises. In fact, legislation in each of the fifty states specifically requires that all agreements and conditions relative to the sale of real estate specifically be in writing to be enforceable. The only way to put any teeth into oral promises is to insist that everything which you think is significant be put in writing.

Last spring more than 80 unwanted kittens were abandoned at the Dewey Animal Shelter everyday during kitten season. Many of these kittens were too weak and sick to be adopted, and a vast majority of them were not adopted due to the overwhelming number that were turned in each day.

The answer to these sad statistics is to spay and neuter our animals. In an effort to lessen the number of unwanted kittens this spring the Animal Foundation of Nevada will spay any female cat FREE OF CHARGE at the Low Cost Spay & Neuter Clinic during the entire month of February.

The clinic is located at 700 N. Mojave. Please call for information and appointments 384-3333.

Basic students build bridges

Ten students from Basic High School will take part in the First Ever Southern Nevada High School Bridge Building Contest at 8 a.m. Saturday at Western Technologies, 3611 W. Tompkins Ave.

The students, several of whom turned in their projects early, are: Vince D'Angelo, Tony Diaz, Ryan Evans, Jason Flory, Wright and Scott Wader. Basic teacher Jerry O'Brian is the adviser and will be accompanying the students.

The contest is sponsored by five local engineering firms—Boyle, Kleinfelder, Kennedy-Jenks-Chilton, Western Technology and Nicklaus engineering—together with the University of Nevada, Las Vegas and the Clark County School District.

The judging criteria of the contest is to build a bridge with the highest load-carrying efficiency as determined by the ratio of the maximum load the bridge will carry to the weight of the bridge itself. Students are building their bridges with basswood bridge kits that weigh less than one ounce each.

In addition to trophies, calculators and other awards, a large traveling trophy will be awarded to the school whose students have the highest total efficiency. The two students who build the most efficient bridges in Saturday's contest will then qualify to compete in the national contest to be held in Bellingham, Wash., in May.

Library observes Valentine's Day all month

A Valentine's Day theme is being celebrated throughout February at the James I. Gibson Public Library with a special exhibit of antique valentines displayed by Victor Coe in memory of his late wife, Marymargaret Coe.

The Coes searched antique sales in Ohio and surrounding states for 10 years, seeking valentines dating from 1850 to the mid-1930s.

The library display includes a valentine dated 1890. Many of the fragile valentines are free-standing, resting on an accordion base of delicate paper.

The exhibit will be on view the entire month of February, spokespersons said. The Water Street library will be open for business as usual on Monday, Feb. 19, Presidents' Day. Library hours will be 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. For further information, call 565-8402.

Job info fair at Cashman Field

A Job information fair will be held from 8 a.m. until noon Friday at Cashman Field Complex.

The job fair is sponsored by the Clark County School district Special Student Services Department and is a component of the district's Carl Perkins Occupational Program for the Handicapped.

More than 100 students are expected to attend the seminar that will provide information about the jobs that are available for special education students who have been enrolled or are being considered for enrollment in vocational education classes.

The theme of this year's job fair is "Your Future Can Be Magic...Make It Happen," and is being held in conjunction with Vocational Education Week.

Students will participate in a personal vocational assessment that deals with personality traits and hear about job opportunities that are available in Clark County. A fashion show will also be presented that will focus on dressing for success.

Program teaches teachers to cope with students' growing pains

By Shari Baker and Ben Baker
News Staff Writers

Burkholder Junior High School teachers have been part of an innovative program for three years which teaches them to build self-esteem in students.

Called "Skills for Adolescence," the program is designed to help teachers help students ages 10 to 14. That time frame is considered by many to be a person's formative years. The program builds self-esteem in students by teaching them to cope with negative peer pressure, poor family communication, lack of goals, poor decision-making skills and irresponsibility. Students suffering from those kinds of troubles are likely to seek artificial escape through drugs, according to information obtained about the program.

"In my 30 years as an administrator in the Clark County School District, this is the most effective and the most useful program we have ever implemented. It works without a doubt. It humanizes the education process," said Burkholder Junior High School Principal Frank Lamping.

Teachers must learn to deal with the adolescent psyche to be able to instill proper values in the students, said program organizers. To do that, a teacher must understand the changes adolescents go through.

"I feel it definitely enhances student esteem. It shows them they are not alone; it's OK to feel that way, angry, mad, whatever. It's a sharing process," said Burkholder teacher Emily Agureo, who has been using the program for three years. "This is a very difficult age, junior high. The Quest Lions program gives them guidance and exposes them to ways they can go." She uses the program in her Teacher Advisory class which is similar to a homeroom.

The program, cosponsored by the Lions Club and Quest International, uses a three-day seminar to instruct teachers on how to use the program at their schools. The Thursday, Friday and Saturday seminar was taught at Burkholder by Bob Steinbeck a member of QI. According to Burkholder Assistant Principal Shauna Zobel, 36 teachers attended the seminar and many more observed the sessions.

At the seminar, teachers are given the supplies they will need to teach the program as well as training. According to QI, the teaching materials are not available to teachers who have not completed the three-day course.

QI supplies several information-packed books with short stories and assignments developed to target the 10- to 14-year-old mind. The teachers have supplements and the parents also have information and books.

According to QI, some of the student activities require direct parent involvement. Parents are also trained in four two-hour seminars to learn to use the program to the fullest, said QI spokespersons. Other supplements include audio-visual aids, which may be used by parents and students in the program.

The entire school gets involved through a series of "morning announcements" which include brief messages about obtaining realistic goals and communication.

The program was begun to combat the drug-abuse problem and social factors which were virtually unknown during past generations.

"These problems begin to take shape in the critically important middle school years," states a QI press release. "They are not limited to the poor and the uneducated; nor are they confined to a particular country or ethnic group. They touch all of us, each day, in almost every conceivable setting. To reverse and prevent these problems requires a serious, committed and thoughtful resolve."

Many adults now look back at their experiences of growing and realize how difficult it was. Today, youths face all those challenges and more.

A similar program, "Skills for Growing," has been in effect at Edna Hinman Elementary School. That program fosters many of the same goals, except at a lower school level. A third-level program is "Skill for living," which targets teenagers in high school. Another similar program, "Somos el Futuro" (We are the Future), is designed to help Hispanic students.

During junior high and high school, youths will come into contact with great peer pressure, the strains of becoming an adult and all the responsibilities that they entail.

"I feel it's beneficial for kids to develop critical thinking skills. They thoroughly enjoy [the program]. It is helping them to relate and get to know each other. It's a much more balanced social environment," said Burkholder teacher Cheryl Callicoat.

Callicoat added since the program has been in effect, the importance of student cliques has declined. Students are now learning to relate to each other outside the cliques, she said. She incorporates the program into her TA class.

The program was designed by a team of 75 researchers and educators throughout the United States and Canada. It has approval from such noted youth-conscious celebrities as Bill Cosby.

In endorsing the program, Cosby said he wished his children had been taught the program during their preteen years. The national PTA has also endorsed the program.

According to information obtained from QI, the program can be taught to students in a variety of ways. It can be used as an independent course or combined with another course such as language arts, social studies or health and guidance classes.

"I use mine in my TA because I teach math. A lot of the ideas go very nicely with my math classes; a lot of the skills go over into class," said Burkholder teacher Jan Nelson.

The course can also be taught during nine-week, 12-week or 18-week session as well as one-, two- or three-year periods. QI research shows the course is most effective when taught for at least 18 weeks.

QI also recommends the course be taught at least every other day and take at least 40 minutes. QI spokespersons said the variety exists to allow for the different needs of different junior high schools.

Burkholder TA classes are 30 minutes long, a problem the teachers overcome by teaching one lesson over two class days, Nelson said.

QI long-term research has also indicated student improvement in schools where the program has been used. Students cite more positive feelings about school and grades improve. Disciplinary actions are also lower among students who have taken the program than those who have not. Parents in the program also report marked improvements in parent-child relationships.

During a recent session in her TA, Nelson and her class discussed "killer statements vs. booster statements." She said at the junior high age, many students will use insulting remarks without thinking about it. To see how often such comments are used, she instructed them to listen while in the hallway between classes. The results, she said, were tremendous as all the students came back talking about all the slurs they had heard.

The teachers at Burkholder encourage interaction and widespread discussion on the topic at hand during the pro-member and program coordinator, said, "We are working to get it to where every teacher in Clark County [will have been] through the seminar."

LACK OF COMMUNICATION—Frances Ruiz-Prunchak and Bob Steinbach portray a husband-wife team with communication problems. Steinbach explained such problems are transferred to a couple's children, who then take their frustrations to school. Following a trickle-down theory, problems at home can influence a child's performance in school, Steinbach said.

Summer food service program sponsors sought

Sponsors are needed for the Summer Food Service Program, department of Education officials have announced. Purpose of the program is to ensure that, during the summer months, needy children aged 18 and under are able to receive the same quality meals made available to them during the school year by the National School Lunch Program.

Sponsorship of the program is available to public or private nonprofit school authorities, public or nonprofit residential camps, state, local or county governments, including Indian tribes, and some private nonprofit agencies.

Eligible sponsors may be reimbursed for some of the costs involved in obtaining, preparing and serving meals meeting program requirements. Additional reimbursement is also available for some of the administrative costs related to planning, organizing and supervising the food service operations.

The Summer Food Service Program is available to all children without regard to race, color, national origin, age, sex, or handicap. The application deadline is April 6, 1990.

For further information contact the Nevada Department of Education, Capitol Complex, Carson City, Nev. 89710 or call 687-3117.

Preview offers look back in time; new building to open Sunday

The Southern Nevada Desert, as seen thousands of years ago.

By Ben Baker
News Staff Writer

When the first, and subsequent, patrons step into the new building at the Clark County Heritage Museum on Boulder Highway, they will be going back 12,000 years in time, said Dawna Jolliff, curator of exhibits.

The new building will be officially opened 9 a.m. Sunday.

"The whole exhibit is called the Clark County Desert Frontier. The opening will have an introduction and explain why the area looks the way it does," she said.

The first exhibit to be seen as a patron enters the hall is an introduction to the museum.

The next exhibit is a desert scene of approximately 12,000 years ago. The animals painted on the mural are called "came-lops" and were native to the area back then. The vegetation at the scene is more abundant than it is now because 12,000 years ago, Southern Nevada was much wetter.

A petrified log, about 150 million years old, in front of the scenery, is the oldest artifact in the entire hall, she said.

A gypsum cave is next. It is set to appear 2,000 years old, about the time natives would have occupied the natural formation. Stone tools and a sloth skull are scattered at the site.

The full-scale Indian dwelling represents a lost city of about A.D. 800 to A.D. 1000. A diorama will house Indian artifacts from three tribes ranging in ages from 10,000 B.C. to 2,000 B.C. Another dwelling will be dated about A.D. 1700.

"We will have hands-on where people can handle originals or reproductions," Jolliff said.

A Spanish trail and explorers route next to a Mormon settlement is based on descriptions circa 1800 to 1850.

A mining exhibit will take viewers from 1860 all the way to the present. A mineral exhibit and a modern-day mining video will also be displayed at the site.

"It's really nice. We'll be using ore samples to do a unique display. Right next to an ore sample, we'll have an object made from that ore—like silver will have film, because that is one of the biggest uses of silver," Jolliff said.

A ranching exhibit shows what raising animals in the desert must have been like in 1860 to 1900. A nearby pioneer house is a cutaway view of the inside of such a dwelling. Growth in Southern Nevada from 1900 to 1940 is next.

A cutaway and walkthrough steamboat exhibit will show what it was like cruising up and down the Colorado. A temporary shelter is set up to resemble the living quarters people used alongside the Las Vegas creek while waiting for the Las Vegas land auction.

A gaming exhibit and economic growth display from the '50s and '60s round out the tour.

"We're trying to show different lifestyles of people in Southern Nevada. That's our whole premise," Jolliff said.

In conjunction with the facility's opening, the museum will host a minerals and mining exhibit through Friday, March 23. Peter Bancroft, an authority on gems and minerals, and Stanley Paher, an expert on mining history and ghost towns, will speak beginning 1 p.m. Sunday at the museum. Both will also sign copies of their published works which will be on sale at the museum. Those already having copies of the men's work are welcome to bring those to be autographed, said Museum Curator Mark Ryzdyski.

Admission to the event will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children and seniors, he said.

For Ryzdyski, the museum staff and the Clark County Museum Guild, the new building is the culmination of years of planning. The museum began in 1967 and became part of the Clark County Parks and Recreation Department in 1979. The Boulder City Depot, moved to the current site in 1976, was not opened until 1979.

The depot, until now the main exhibit hall, was always veiled as temporary and was planned to be restored to its original state, Ryzdyski said. The depot is not able to properly house the types of exhibits people want to see in a museum, he added.

"Now, we have three times the exhibit space than in the depot. We can commit to themes we weren't physically able to respond to. We took the dioramas and murals and made them full scale," he said.

The new building has also made it easier for the museum to operate as a museum. The new building has proper storage space for artifacts being restored and catalogued, he said.

Corporate and private donations, very important to the museum trade, are also easier to manage now that the museum has better facilities, he said.

"I feel that by offering a building as nice as this one has made it easier to find sponsors for various exhibits. The new building has caused people to believe in us as an institution," he said.

The museum already has plans to add to the building to convert it from its present U-shape to a full circle, he said.

"We are looking for a source of capital. We are now seeking corporate sponsorship for a building expansion," he said.

Thanks for the current facility go to Newmont Gold and Nevada Mining Association, the Clark County Museum Guild ("They have been our patron saint through the whole thing," he said) and the Nevada Humanities Committee, Ryzdyski said. Those organizations were the first to get behind the project, believe in it and attract more assistance, he added.

The museum is also working on a membership program. Members will receive various benefits in exchange for their patronage. Ryzdyski said previews of coming exhibits could be one such member-bonus.

Basic wrestlers look to push pressure aside in zone finals

By Pat McDonnell
News Sports Editor

The Basic High varsity wrestling team will operate with a decidedly restrained attitude in this weekend's Southern AAA zone tournament at Clark High School.

That will be the mode of thinking if Heach Coach Jim Duschen has his way.

Preparing for an atmosphere usually filled with pressure and high expectations, Duschen said he wants the Wolves to wrestle as well as they can and then leave the results to fate.

"The key is self-satisfaction," he said. "The individual is the one who has to look at himself in the mirror."

Basic, which completed the conference dual meet season with a 4-5 record, needs to set brand-new goals for what Duschen considers a "new season."

"We need to relax more and enjoy wrestling," the coach said.

The Wolves, racked by injury and ineligibility problems this winter, will send 11 wrestlers into 13 weight class divisions at zone. The top four wrestlers in each class qualify for the Feb. 23-24 AAA state finals in Elko.

Last season, the Wolves placed fourth in the zone finals, qualifying six individuals for the state championships.

The following is a look at the Basic contenders in each class:

103: Jerry Bly

The sophomore compiled an 18-15 overall record with eight pins and a fourth place finish at the Kingman Invitational. He was 5-3 in conference and won two matches by major decision.

Ajeet Mahendernath of Valley is the premier local wrestler in the weight class. Eldorado's

Jamie Marrero, Judd Tettamanti of Chaparral and Bob Zimmardi of Las Vegas will vie with Bly for a top four finish.

"As long as Jerry is wrestling well, he has a good shot at beating those other kids," Duschen said.

112: James Tonemah

The Basic junior was 15-7 overall and 6-2 in conference duals. He had one pin, a technical fall and three victories by major decision.

Duschen said Tonemah will have to get past Pete Villanueva of Rancho and Zach Barajas of Eldorado if he is to repeat last season's zone showing at 103, when he qualified for state.

"He is always a good worker, but he needs to improve on his mistakes," the coach said.

119: Steve Gonzales

Gonzales, a sophomore, placed third in the Kingman Invitational last month. He was 4-2-1 in conference and 10-12-2 overall.

The quick, aggressive wrestler stands only about 5-foot, 4-inches tall, but he has "good strength in his legs and back," according to Duschen.

Gonzales will be challenged by favorite Frank Quintana of Las Vegas, as well as Chaparral's Mike Wasnueski and Tom Ho of Clark.

125: John Martinez

Another sophomore, Martinez recorded an 11-13 overall mark and a 2-4 conference showing, but eight of his victories came by pin.

Bothered by tendonitis in his calves early in the season, Martinez can be a dangerous wrestler.

"He knows how to go for a pin," Duschen said. "He will take advantage of a situation when it is there."

Bonanza's Heath Ludwig, Andy Kemper of Western and Cam Oliver of Eldorado are the top wrestlers in the class.

130: Basic forfeits

Due to Jason Blackwell's leg injury, the Wolves lose a potential state qualifier in this weight class. Blackwell compiled an 18-10 overall record and 4-3 conference mark. He had 12 pins, was third at the Monte Vista Invitational and fourth at the Pineview Invitational. "He was exciting," Duschen said. "If he had a good tournament, I thought he would qualify."

135: Shane Smiley

Smiley has wrestled through his varsity inexperience this season.

Only a freshman, Smiley was 2-6 in conference and 6-17 overall. He recorded one pin.

"He wrestled some tough kids. He has a tremendous attitude and lots of desire," Duschen said.

Justin Garrison of Eldorado, Cornelius Hollemon of Rancho, Jeff Blichfeldt of Clark and Chaparral's Mike Deneen appear to be the best in the class.

140: Mike Bakes

Bakes, a junior, has come on strong late in the season. He was undefeated in five dual meets at Victor Valley, compiled a 4-3 conference record and 15-16-1 overall mark.

Bakes also placed fourth at Monte Vista.

He will need to "keep his level of intensity up" throughout the zone finals if he is to place, Duschen noted.

But defending state champion Ian Earle of Eldorado and Kingman tourney champ Jon Parvin make Bakes' class a difficult one.

145: Dan Austin

A 15-12-2 junior, Duschen said Austin needs to work harder in the down position.

Austin beat Dan Reusch of Rancho, one of the top zone contenders, in last year's tournament, Duschen said Austin will need to spring some upsets to qualify for state.

Beyond Reusch, Eric Spooner of Eldorado, Tom Bell of Bonanza and Bishop Gorman's Paul Bossert will challenge for the title.

152: Eddie Owens

The sophomore suffered a broken wrist in the Wolves' first dual meet with Bishop Gorman Nov. 30. He returned Feb. 1 versus Eldorado, but has yet to post a win in three matches against league opponents.

A feisty wrestler with substantial youth league experience, Owens will face the likes of Eldorado's A.J. Grieves, Bonanza's Dan Dunn and Brook Geisendorf of Bishop Gorman.

"It is a tough weight," Duschen said.

160: Todd Terpstra

Terpstra, who also wrestled at 171, had a 19-11-1 overall mark and 5-3 conference record. He chalked up seven pins and won two other bouts by technical fall.

"He is going to have to wrestle his match and do what is necessary to win instead of taking unnecessary risks," the coach said.

Terpstra might need to beat Lamont Mullen of Eldorado to place at zone. Mullen edged the Basic senior at Pineview and in a conference dual meet at Eldorado.

Las Vegas' Damon Ruemele, Brad Glenn of Bonanza and Scott Hampton of Chaparral will challenge for the championship.

171: Dave Robinson

A senior, Robinson was ineligible during the first semester. He wrestled competitively in two conference duals this month.

"If he wrestles up to his capabilities, he can do well," Duschen said.

Senior Robert Richter compiled a 10-10 overall mark at the weight before suffering a shoulder injury. He was 2-2 in conference and placed fourth at Monte Vista.

189: Kevin Ruth

Ruth has been Basic's most successful wrestler this season. The junior is 32-3 overall and he is undefeated in nine conference matches.

Ruth compiled eight pins, a pair of wins by technical fall and seven major decision victories.

His prime zone competition should come from Gorman's Tom Connors, who defeated Ruth three times last season.

Clark's Jake Wall, John Duvall of Eldorado and Ernie Brown of Rancho are other top challengers.

"He needs to wrestle smart and aggressive," Duschen said. "He is going to need to come back strong in order to win it. I feel he will."

Ruth placed third in zone as a sophomore and qualified for state.

Heavyweight: Basic forfeits

Junior Mike Sweet filled the weight during the season, but he will be unable to compete in zone because of an injured neck.

Sweet keyed a number of Wolves' victories during the season with pins. He compiled a 13-14 overall record and was 5-2 in conference.

Personal fouls wreck Basic's chances versus Las Vegas

Earnest Wilmore and Hector Cintron led Las Vegas High past foul-plagued Basic High Tuesday in a Southern AAA basketball game at Las Vegas.

Wilmore, a junior power forward, and Cintron, a senior center, combined for 35 points in the second half as the Wildcats ran to an 83-61 triumph over the Wolves.

The loss, which broke a two-game Basic winning streak, was the Wolves' ninth in 10 conference games. Basic is 5-17 overall. Las Vegas improved to 4-7 in league and 8-15 overall.

Basic, which trailed only 30-27 at half, was hurt by foul trouble to starters Richie Montano and Jeremy Richter. Montano, the Wolves' leading scorer with 21 points, picked up his fourth foul with three minutes left in the third quarter. Richter, who wound up with 17 points, was hit with his fourth foul 35 seconds later.

After Richter went to the bench with Basic trailing 52-42, Las Vegas outscored the Wolves 15-7 to sew up the game.

"Our two big guys get in foul trouble and we've got a problem," Basic Head Coach John Williams said after the game. "Then [Las Vegas] gets to play the inside game. They started to do what they wanted on the boards."

The Wildcats proceeded to beat the Wolves on the boards and to almost every loose ball. Basic suffered 15 turnovers in the final half while Las Vegas committed only five.

Montano fouled out of the game with just over three minutes remaining.

"When we had our full unit in there, I thought we played real well," Williams said.

Las Vegas Head Coach Mel Washington said the Wildcats were able to overcome a slow start because they played under control in the second half.

"In the first half, we did not control the tempo," the coach said. "We just had to shake them up a little bit."

Wilmore finished as the game's leading scorer with 24 points—21 in the second half. Cintron had 22 and Graylon Dillon helped Las Vegas with 19.

Western next stop for Basic

The Wolves battle Western High in a 3 p.m. road contest Friday. The Warriors clinched a tie for the Sunrise Division title Tuesday with 103-87 win against Eldorado.

Wolves JV topped by Wildcats

The Basic junior varsity dropped an 83-50 decision at Las Vegas Tuesday.

The Wildcats built a 41-22 edge over the JV Wolves at halftime and boosted the margin to 66-34 after three quarters.

Basic, playing without injured starter Cleo McDaniel, was led in scoring by guard Lee Chandler, who tallied eight points.

Both teams fared well at the free throw line. The Wolves made 11 of 15 shots and the Wildcats were 23 of 33.

ON THE BALL

Sometimes there is no rhyme or reason to boxing, or even baseball

By Pat McDonnell
News Sports Editor

Normally, the hectic pace of the sports world slows down a bit in February. At this time of the year, football is over and baseball is barely beginning.

But now, for some reason, it seems a major sports story is always right around the corner.

Here are my observations, relating to the week's top events:

•A voice of relative impartiality brought some sense to major league baseball's stagnant labor talks Tuesday. Commissioner Fay Vincent stepped in and made a number of sensible suggestions.

He planned "a different way to approach the central issues," according to Donald Fehr, the head of the players' union.

Vincent's idea was to draw up a new collective bargaining agreement, based on the contract that expired at the end of last year. Under the plan, the owners would back off slightly from their absolute 48 percent revenue sharing proposal they say the players must accept.

It is said if the players' union agrees to commit to a revenue sharing plan for the future, then an extended lockout of spring training camps can be avoided.

Although it seems Vincent's suggestion merely puts off a lingering labor problem, the compromise may be the only hope for baseball fans. At the very least, the idea should demonstrate there is some logic to three months of back-and-forth rhetoric.

•The aftermath of the Mike Tyson-James "Buster" Douglas heavyweight title fight was an unbelievable mess.

The highly questionable tactics of the World Boxing Council and the World Boxing Association in not recognizing Douglas as the rightful champion made the organizations' leaders look like dimwits. There was no question both the WBC and WBA saw promoter Don King as their demigod, whose judgement could be valued highly enough to reverse a championship decision.

Why didn't anyone in the Tyson-King camp complain about Douglas' supposed "long-count" knockdown after the eighth round? Instead, King and crew waited hours longer to notify anyone of their grievance.

Now, of course, King claims he never requested officials take a look at overturning Douglas' knockout triumph. Unfortunately, his statements on record, are to the contrary. Should we be surprised?

Bulls, Hoyas and Lakers lead Boys Club basketball

After six weeks of play in the Henderson Boys Club's basketball leagues; the Bulls, Hoyas and Lakers held slim leads in their respective divisions.

As of Feb. 7, the Bulls won six of seven games to lead the 6 to 9-year-old league. The Clippers were a half game back at 6-2, the Celtics stood 5-2 and the Rebels were 4-3.

The Hawks compiled a 2-4 record, the Suns were 1-6 and the Lakers were 0-6.

The Hoyas won their first five games to pace the 10-12 league. The Blazers were 4-1 and the Bulls in third place at 3-1.

The Sonics split four games, the Jazz were 2-3, the Rebels were 1-3, the Pistons were 1-4 and the Lakers stood 0-4.

In the 13-14 league, the Lakers were on top with a 3-0 record. The Bulls were 2-1, the Rebels came in 1-2 and the Pistons were 0-3.

Ed Anderson paced the Clippers' 20-16 victory over the Rebels in 6-9 play Feb. 6. He led all scorers with 15 points. Shawn Gibson headed the Rebels with 12 points.

In another 6-9 game, the Celtics bested the Suns, 36-18. Bryan Freeman scored 20 points for the winners and Albert Brown keyed the Suns with 10 points.

Tom Stidham scored a game-high 19 points in the Pistons' 53-33 win over the Rebels in a 13-14 league contest Feb. 6. Richard Wilcox was the Rebels' leading scorer with 10 points.

In basketball, a defense is only as good as its ability to adapt to an opponent's changing offense.

The Basic High Lady Wolves learned the harsh reality of the lesson Tuesday in a 53-50 homecourt loss to the Las Vegas High Lady Wildcats.

Basic came into the third quarter with a 26-20 lead over Las Vegas, but the Lady Wildcats exploited the Lady Wolves' slow-moving zone defense throughout the second half.

The visitors outscored Basic 10-6 in the third quarter to narrow their deficit to two points, then edged the Lady Wolves 23-18 in the final quarter.

With the loss, Basic's conference record fell to 2-8. The Lady Wolves are 6-18 overall. Las Vegas moved to 8-3 in league, 16-5 overall.

Basic Head Coach Diane Hernandez said the Lady Wolves were sluggish on defense in the second half.

"What hurts us was we were not forcing them to keep the ball moving," she said. "They were able to shoot the ball because our defenders slacked off on the guards."

The Lady Wildcats' Latonya Jones led the Las Vegas recovery. She paced all scorers with 20 points and made eight of 10 foul shots.

Basic senior Shonna Wicklund, who came into the game as the Southern AAA's leading scorer, had 22 points for the second straight game. Senior point guard Lisa Brezette pitched in with 14 points.

Hernandez said Brezette allowed the Lady Wolves to beat Las Vegas' pressure defense.

"She did a real good job of slowing it down and running the team tonight," the coach said.

Basic struggled at the free throw line early in the game, but rebounded to convert 12 of 15 foul shots in the last eight minutes.

The Lady Wildcats were 18 of 25 from the line.

The Lady Warriors, one of the conference's highest scoring teams, are 9-2 in league and 16-9 overall after disposing of divisional foe Eldorado Tuesday, 74-48.

"If we can keep our guards moving, we might be able to hold some of them down," Hernandez said of Western.

Four recently announced world championship fights are slated for the immediate future. Three of those bouts will take place in March—the fourth fight is scheduled for April in Las Vegas.

Set for March 10 is a title defense by IBF Junior Middleweight Champion Gianfranco Rossi in Italy. Later in the month, WBA Junior Bantamweight Champion Kaosi Galaxy puts his championship up for grabs against Ari Blanca March 17 in Thailand and IBF Cruiserweight Champion Glenn McCrory fights Jeff Lampkin March 28 in London.

The Galaxy-Blanca fight was moved back three weeks because of injuries suffered by Galaxy in a recent auto accident.

The Las Vegas fight is a matchup between WBA Light Heavyweight Champion Virgil Hill and IBF Light Heavyweight Champion Charles Williams. The bout is set April 26 on a card featuring former World Heavyweight Champion George Foreman against Jose Ribalta, as well as middleweights Doug DeWitt and Nigel Benn.

The Hill-Williams fight will replace the planned meeting between Thomas Hearn and Michael Olajide, which will now take place in Atlantic City, possibly on the same date.

Another fight which will take place soon is a title defense by WBA Junior Flyweight Champion Myung-Woo Yuh against Leo Gamez.

It's awards time for boxing. Here is a listing of some of the more prominent honors given by several boxing organizations.

The World Boxing Association selected a good fighter, but one who is not very well known in the United States because of his weight class as its Fighter of the Year—Kaosi Galaxy. The WBA also picked ESPN's Al Bernstein as its Annouhcer of the Year. Bernstein now lives in Las Vegas after moving here from Chicago.

The world boxing council presented awards for the decade of the 1980s. Its Fighters of the Decade were Sugar Ray Leonard and Mike Tyson. The WBC also picked five Fights of the Decade. It is interesting to note four of the five bouts were held in Las Vegas and none were held in Atlantic City.

The named bouts included: Leonard-Roberto Duran in Montreal in 1980, Salvador Sanchez-Wilfredo Gomez in Las Vegas in 1981, Leonard-Hearn in Las Vegas in 1981, Larry Holmes-Gerry Cooney in Las Vegas in 1982 and Leonard-Marvelous Marvin Hagler in Las Vegas in 1987.

Believe it or not, I was the only local columnist to predict James "Buster" Douglas' upset win over Mike Tyson last weekend. Don't believe me? The call was broadcast on K-News just before fighttime.

A couple of media-related notes, one happy and one sad.

On the positive side, Wallace Matthews, boxing writer for the Long Island, N. Y., newspaper, Newsday, has been re-elected president of the Boxing Writers of America.

On the negative side, I am very sorry to report the wife of Michael Katz, boxing writer for the New York Daily News, passed away last month after a long battle with cancer.

Nation's top wrestlers return

USA Wrestling recently announced the national championships in both Olympic styles of wrestling will return to Las Vegas in April.

The John du Pont National Open Freestyle Championships will be held April 18-21, along with the National Open Greco-Roman Championships, April 19-21, in the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The best high school wrestlers of the region and the nation will also be competing in the Southwest Regional Junior Olympic Championships, April 18-21.

The nation's best wrestlers are expected to come to Las Vegas.

World and Olympic champions John Smith (136.5 lbs) Bruce Baumgartner (286 lbs), and Olympic medalist Nate Carr (149.5 lbs) head the freestyle field.

The Southwest Juniors will bring top high school talent in the region to battle for awards and bragging rights. In 1987, over 800 athletes competed in the Las Vegas event.

Tickets are available at the Las Vegas Convention Center Box office, (702) 733-2463. Ticket prices for a single session are $3 for students and $5 for adults. All session tickets cost $15 and $30, respectively.

Brewer, Robles win free throw competition

Michelle Brewer and Brandon Robles were local winners in Saturday's Knights of Columbus district free throw playoffs at the Henderson Boys and Girls Club.

Brewer led the 10-year-old girls division and Robles topped the 14-year-old boys. Both competitors, who received trophies for winning age divisions in the local contest last month, represented Rosary Council No. 3741.

Other district winners were: Joseph Carque of Council No. 7708 in the 10-year-old boys division, Chris Pingre of Council No. 8078 among 11-year-old boys, Paul Ainsworth of No. 8078 in 12-year-old boys and Nate Krentz of No. 7708 in 13-year-old boys.

District winners will receive trophies for their performance in March.

Trophy fish rules outlined

The winter months are typically the time of the year when fishing and hunting is at its slowest; when even the most avid outdoorsman takes a break to regroup, clean equipment or cull fishing tackle.

Winter is also an excellent time for planning fishing and hunting trips for the coming year and the Nevada Department of Wildlife wants to remind anglers that as they plan trips they should keep in mind the state's trophy fish program.

"The trophy fish program is a way of recognizing anglers who have caught fish that surpass a certain size. The minimum weight qualifications were re-established in 1981 for the various species of fish in the state, and any angler entering a fish that meets those minimum qualifications receives a trophy fish certificate," said Dave Buck, NDOW supervising fisheries biologist.

The largest entry of the year for each species will receive a record Nevada fish certificate, and trophy fish plaques will be awarded to those entries that establish a new record fish in the state.

Information about the program can be found in the state's Fishing Seasons and Regulations brochures, and entry forms can be picked up at any NDOW office.

Guidelines

By Jim Goff

If you are a bass angler wondering if the bass fishing on Lake Mead is picking up any, the answer has to be "NO!" Last Saturday 24 anglers belonging to the Southern Nevada Bassmasters fished a tournament out of Echo Bay. After eight hours of trying every lure and every technique known, they boated a total of four bass.

Nick Kristich of Las Vegas took first place with two bass weighing 3.47 pounds. Norm Bass finished second with one fish weighing 1.91 pounds. It was also a big fish of the tournament. Third place was caught by an angler with the last name of Coleman with a fish weighing 1.82 pounds.

After calling every marina and tackle shop within a 100-mile radius of Henderson in hopes of finding some fishing for the three-day weekend coming up, the only positive report was the Overton Landing, which reported the crappie fishing has been good in the mouth of the Muddy River inflow into Lake Mead.

It has been a long time since I fished crappie. We used to do well in the rear of Vegas Wash, in Bonelli Bay and in the Big Gyp Beds. Crappie are usually tough to locate unless some other angler will put you on their spot. One of the best methods to locate them is to use small Beetle Spins that are actually miniature Spinnerbaits. White and yellow are the preferred colors. Once you locate them, jigs in 1/16-ounce and 1/8-ounce size, either cast, jigged or suspended approximately three feet below a bobber, will catch them. The live bait that is preferred is small crappie minnows, two to three inches long, night crawlers and red worms.

A new product on the market, called Crappie Candy, is reportedly doing well also. It is a small artificial grub that is fished on very small jig heads or size 12 hooks.

Because crappies have such tender mouths, ultra light rods in the six- to seven-foot lengths work best. Spinning gear is preferred with four- or six-pound line.

Crappie are one of the best eating fresh water fish; second only to walleye.

Sounds like it's time to load up the motor home, hook up the boat, load up the ultra light gear and head for Overton. Overton Landing is approximately 60 miles from Las Vegas. A new store, an improved campground and hot showers await campers.

Keep your hooks sharp and good fishing!

Eckstein's X-Rays

By Benjamin Lee Eckstein

What a week. Before we get to the sports pages, there's a very disturbing item coming out of New York City. According to Liz Smith, the gossip/info/entertainment columnist, Donald Trump and his wife Ivana are ready to split after 12 years of marriage. There are so many questions to ask. Since Donny Boy is worth somewhere around 1.7 billion bucks (that's 17 hundred million to us plain folk) how much does the BIG I grab? Does she get half? That's like 850 million, and probably just a wee bit too much. Does this make the Trumpster an eligible bachelor or what? What happens to Trump—The Game? What about Trump's Book? What about the Tour De Trump? For those that do not follow cycling, that's the bicycle race Trump is trying to make as popular as the famous Tour De France. What about Trump Airlines? What about Trump Plaza? Trump Tower? Trump Castle? What about that projected new game show—Stump Trump? The dance—the Trump Bump? The sneaker (or tennis shoe as you say in the West) the Trump Pump? That new cut of meat—the Trump Rump?

This is a very perplexing situation, and one that all Southern Nevadans should give some serious thought. If you were Ivana, what would you ask for? What would you Fifteen species of fish call the languid waters of Lake Mead home, including the largemouth black bass and the razor-back sucker.

While it would be difficult to find two fish further apart than the fierce-fighting largemouth bass and the endangered bottom-feeding sucker, both fish, as well as all the other species in the lake, have certain things in common, including the need for water to live in, food to eat and a desperate necessity for some sort of "cover."

Cover is vegetation or structures, either natural or man-made, that are used by fish in a number of different ways, explained Dave Buck, supervising fisheries biologist with the Nevada Department of Wildlife. For three years—1985, 1986 and 1987—sportsmen helped with a massive project putting collected Christmas trees into the lake to provide cover for fish.

In 1986 the Nevada Department of Wildlife commissioned a study on cover with the Lake Mead Research Center at UNLV. The center completed the study in December 1989.

Buck said that the cover:

- Is used by fish to escape predators;
- Provides a habitat for organisms that fish feed on such as immature insects as well as smaller fish;

•Is necessary to ensure survival of newly hatched fry or baby fish;

•Stabilizes the shoreline;

•Helps control surface water temperatures in smaller lakes or in small areas of larger bodies of water such as Lake Mead.

Investigations between 1977 and 1982 indicated that the lack of cover was causing problems in production and survival of largemouth bass at Lake Mead, Buck said. As a result, the study was ordered to see if there was something that could be done to alleviate the problems.

The study was broken down into three phases.

During Phase I (1986-87) the shoreline of Lake Mead was surveyed for plant growth, the report said. Also during that time, submerged Christmas trees and fish habitat modules were evaluated for their effectiveness.

While the trees appeared to provide cover for bluegill, a largemouth bass prey species, submerged trees lost their structure in about three years, the study continued. The habitat modules did not appear to be an effective form of cover.

The National Park Service has asked that the introduction of artificial forms of cover not be continued until research is completed on the use of native plant material.

Despite the limited use of the Christmas trees, Buck said he believes there were effective as a short-term form of cover.

In Phase II, LMRC studied ways to plant certain plants in and around Lake Mead. Cuttings were also taken.

In Phase III, plant material was introduced to a number of coves both in and out of the water.

It should be noted, Buck said, that researchers were somewhat restricted in what plants were available to be introduced to areas in and around the lake.

"While we believe that bermuda grass would be one of the best plants for the lake, the park service says we can only use plants that are native to the area," Buck said.

He said the perfect plant would be natural and resistant to desiccation, or drying out, while at the same time resistant to flooding.

The LMRC report detailed seven recommendations including:

1. Introduction of sago pondweed tubers—an easy, effective method of increasing cover for game fish at Lake Mead. Although fertilization appears to have a substantial impact on plant growth, optimum rates for fertilizer application have not been determined.

2. Because shoreline revegetation is dependent on level fluctuations, it is recommended that any project include close coordination with the Bureau of Reclamation so

Black Mountain Ladies hold monthly meeting

In the regular monthly meeting of the Black Mountain Ladies Association, conducted by Jewell Russell, president, it was announced that the annual scholarship tournament will be held Saturday, March 24. Funds from the tournament will be used to sponsor a young woman golfer at the school of her choice, spokespersons said.

Two new members, Mitsy Glass and Maryvern Bennett, were welcomed.

Plans have been completed for the annual bus trip for members. They will travel to the Calvada Country Club in Pahrump on April 11.

Tournament winners for the month were announced. Raile Knocke, Ruth Brammer, Helen Chauncey and Gwen Harwood made up the winning team on Jan. 3. Betty Rineer was the winner on the 10th and Kay Miller took the honors on the 31st. Ruth Brammer was Medal of Golf winner for January and, in a playoff for December, Bettylou Anderson beat out Michele Barquist.

Betty Malloy, tournament chairman, had also arranged for match play among the members during January. Winning their flights were Bettylou Anderson, Betty Eighmy and Ellie Juratsch.

American Business Women meet

An informative evening was shared recently by members of Desert Dawn Chapter, American Business Women's Association when Leola Armstrong of Common Cause spoke to the Chapter about the "Legislative Special Session—What Happened, What Might Occur."

Chapter member Kathy Pantuso was the vocational speaker for the evening. Kathy is community resources advisor for St. Rose Dominican Hospital. She explained the benefits of the Silver Advantage Network and spoke about her involvement in various other community projects.

Don Griffie, EMT coordinator for the Henderson Fire Department, discussed blood riving in Tokyo to cover the Mike Tyson-Buster Douglas heavyweight title fight, was asked by the passport inspector how long he expected to work in Japan. He replied, "About a minute and 33 seconds." That was a cute line, but as most everyone knows by now, it turned out to be the biggest upset in boxing history. However, the problems are just starting.

PULL... Just as an aside, this past week was one of the strangest in recent memory. A heavyweight champ, normally an extremely popular figure gets starched, and people are cheering and screaming. John Gotti, reputed to be one of the nastiest mob guys in the past 20 years, walks away from another trial as a free man, and the people are dancing in the streets. Only in America. What a country!

PULL... Let's go to the videotape. What about those HBO announcers? As we said, this was probably the biggest upset in the history of boxing, and what kind of coverage do we get from this trio of boobs? Repulsive! First to Jim Lampley, the perfectly coifed (love that word) lead announcer. He was sitting on top of an event that could have made him an international superstar in the announcing world forever. Great announcers are associated with great events, and they make great calls when the event is happening. Like Al Michaels at the 1980 Olympics when the United States beat the Russians for the gold medal in hockey. His call sent chills up and down my spine. Lampley totally missed the boat on this one. As a matter of fact, he wasn't even in the ocean!

PULL... As for Sugar Ray Leonard—he might be a great boxer, but when they put a mike in his hand, he talks in oatmeal—dull and lumpy—when he should be rapping fajitas—spicy and hot!

PULL... Larry Merchant, the third member of this robot crew is totally on another planet. He reminds me of Sigmund Freud on a bad acid trip. Get a real job Larry!

PULL... As for the controversy about whether there was long count, and the title should be vacated, I say, no way Jose! Buster Douglas won the title in the ring, and should keep it. Listen to Bob Lee, president of the IBF, one of the three governing bodies in boxing. "All Douglas has to do is get up before the count of 10. If there is something wrong with the clock, or the referee makes a mistake, it's not his fault." Exactly!

PULL... I'm going to take a deep breath, and I'll catch ya'll on the rebound—in two weeks!

that planting decisions are based on information that is as accurate as possible.

3. Any revegetation project planned for the shorelines will have to be flexible in terms of planting times, type of plant and placement of plant.

4. Investigation into possible irrigation systems be initiated.

5. Emergent species appear to be able to withstand flooding and desiccation and are highly recommended for use in further shoreline plantings. Other species that are recommended for planting are seepwillow baccharii, Goodding's willow, coyote willow and cottonwood.

6. Soil moisture after hydroseeding be maintained by watering or by natural weather patterns or a combination of both.

7. It is recommended that further revegetation efforts evaluate the potential for an ecosystem approach to shoreline revegetation.

U.S. historic lengths of time

Many people feel history can be studied without reference to time and place. However, I have difficulty with that bit of false information. Time and place seem to be most important in history! Visualize some precious moments in time and select the proper amount of time each of these events captured. Six out of ten and you are a history buff!

- How many minutes did it take Abraham Lincoln to deliver his famous Gettysburg Address?
- How long did the first airplane flight by the Wright brothers last?
- How long did it take to cover the distance from St. Joseph, Mo. to Sacramento, Calif. by the Pony Express Riders?
- How many days did it take Thomas Jefferson to write the Declaration of Independence?
- How long did the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor, during a Sunday morning, Dec. 7, 1941 last? It killed 2,335 soldiers and 68 civilians.
- During the first battle of the Civil War, what was the total number of hours it took the Confederacy to capture Fort Sumter, S.C. from the Union?
- Give the number of days the Alamo was defended successfully.
- What was the total number of hours it took for Charles A. Lindberg to cross the Atlantic Ocean?
- What was the length of time for a verdict to be reached in the Dred Scott Case?
- How many days did it take for reporter Nellie Bly, to sail around the world?

Answers

1. Two minutes.	5. Two hours.
2. 12 seconds.	4. 17 days.
3. 10 days.	9. 11 years.
4. 13 days.	8. 33 1/2 hours.
5. 34 hours.	7. 13 days.
6. 72 days.	10. 72 days.

Lucky opens new store

The opening of Lucky Stores' newest food center in Henderson confirms Lucky's commitment to build neighborhood stores suited to the needs of local shoppers, the chain's spokespersons said this week.

The new store was built with today's "smart shopper" in mind, and offers the convenience of one-stop-shopping to save consumers time and money without sacrificing quality or variety, they said.

The new Lucky Food Center is designed to meet the specific needs of consumers in the immediate Henderson neighborhood. The entire store covers more than 49,700 square feet, with more than 37,700 square feet of sales area. While product variety is greater than in most stores, the same low Lucky prices are found in each department, spokespersons said.

The new Henderson Lucky features more than 300 farm-fresh produce items, a fresh seafood counter with free steaming service for lobster, shrimp and clams, a service deli, a pizza shop and cheese island, a service bakery, a fresh melon bar, a reading center, a full service pharmacy, fresh cut flowers and plants with an in-store florist and a First Interstate Bank, all right in the store. The new Lucky offers an extensive variety of low-price groceries, frozen food, dairy products and an expansive selection of wine and beer, they said.

In a continued commitment to efficient service, the new store offers 11 checkstands, as well as Lucky's EZ checkout system, utilizing debit card payment, and the "3's A Crowd" policy.

"Lucky is firmly committed to providing everyday low prices and designing stores to meet the needs of the neighborhoods they service," said William E. Yingling III, president of Lucky's Southern California division. "Our Henderson store is an example of store specific marketing. We're providing an expansive array of products to meet the specific needs of this community's consumer, while providing the low prices on which we have built our reputation for more than 50 years."

The new store is located at 724 Boulder Highway in Henderson, and has more than 100 employees. The store is also open 24 hours a day, officials said. The store will open Wednesday.

Phone Friend Center

REACHING OUT—A Phone Friend volunteer talks to children from 3 until 5 p.m. every weekday from the Phone Friend Center. Phone Friends is sponsored by KVVU TV-5 and St. Rose Dominican Hospital.

Phone Friends continues to be a success

Phone Friends started in November of 1989, as a public service sponsored by St. Rose Dominican Hospital and KVVU-TV Channel 5. Designed for children who are home alone after school. Phone Friends provides a friend to talk to, answer questions, offer reassurance or just listen.

A devoted staff of trained volunteers answer the telephones from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m., Monday thru Friday. "The volunteers are the main reason behind the program's success," said Marcia Hawkins, director of marketing at St. Rose Dominican Hospital. "All of our volunteers have a special knack for dealing with children. Sometimes I think they have more fun listening than the children do calling."

And call they do. Phone Friends receives an average of 29 calls per day, according to Deborah Campbell, public affairs director at KVVU. "One week the volunteers answered 291 calls, that's an average of 54 phone calls a day for two volunteers!"

"The Phone Friend volunteers are to be commended for their time, and above all, caring enough about Southern Nevada's youth to personally take the time to listen and talk with hundreds of callers," added Campbell.

enough about Southern Nevada's youth to personally take the time to listen and talk with hundreds of callers," added Campbell.

The concept of Phone Friends was developed in January 1982 by the State College Branch of the American Association of University Women in Pennsylvania. The program was in direct response to the changing social environment that results when both parents of school-age children work, leaving many children without adult supervision for several hours in the afternoon. Phone Friends addresses the issue by providing an adult to call who can offer assistance or listen to children talk about their day at school.

"The response to Phone Friends has been tremendous, the phones are ringing off the hook!" Hawkins said. "Promotion for the program began exclusively as television public service announcements on TV-5. Recently, 100,000 stickers were distributed to area schools sporting the Phone Friends logo and telephone number, which is 564-4675."

Persons who would like to become a volunteer for Phone Friends should call 564-4506 during regular business hours, spokespersons said.

'Herbs and Homeopathy' lecture presented

An educational program on "Herbs and Homeopathic Medicine" will be presented by Dan Comer from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday in the Spring Valley Library, 4280 S. Jones Blvd. In his lecture, Comer proposes to establish a foundation for the beneficial use of herbs as an alternative health care.

Comer has studied and worked with nutrition and botanical medicine in the homeopathic field for 14 years. He has been a consultant for physicians and health food store retailers and has been trained in Europe with specialists in the field of medicine and plant biochemistry.

His talk will feature a discussion of the efficacy of herbs and a history of the medicinal use of herbs, including folklore.

Comer will focus on the various uses of dried herbs, herbal products, extracts and will discuss their pros and cons. The components of herbs, such as alkaloids, nutrients and essential oils, will be discussed as well as the cleansing and detoxifying effects of herbs on the organs and on the immune, cardiovascular and nervous systems.

Workshop on creative thinking, problem solving

The Quality and Productivity Institute will host a workshop Tuesday entitled "Creative Thinking and Problem Solving."

Creative Problem Solving can be incorporated in every phase of life, from how to develop a new product, increase sales and productivity and even where to go for lunch, spokespersons said. Participants will be able to take home several techniques which can be used immediately in day-to-day activities.

Led by Ted Story, the workshop is designed to be a fast-paced, hands-on learning experience. Story is a consultant for McGladrey & Pullen and has been involved with some of the nation's largest firms as management and/or consultant. His Creative Problem Solving Workshop has been presented to all types of groups, including Fortune 100 company employees.

The workshop will be held from 5:45 p.m. to 8:15 p.m. at the Southwest Gas Auditorium located at 4300 West Tropicana.

Registration is $40 and a box dinner is included.

For reservations or more information, call 654-2404.

"What will happen when I go to the hospital" is a great concern of many children. Our responsive staff at the Humana Children's Hospital is devoted to serving the special physical and emotional needs of your child.

We have brought together a dedicated team of independent, pediatric physicians, several with specialties never before available in Las Vegas, to create a quality, health care facility for children in Nevada.

Their presence represents a significant step for the health care of children in Nevada. Specialties include intensive care, cardiology, neonatology, pediatric surgery, oncology and ophthalmology, among many others.

The exclusive 140-bed children's facility offers a specially trained pediatric nursing staff; pediatric equipment; children's menus; play therapist; complete playroom; resources library; pre-surgery tours; pharmacy; radiology; and an orientation program for parents and children.

Beyond the physical needs our goal is to make every child's stay pleasant as possible. Offering the love, care and attention your child deserves, that's what Humana Children's Hospital - Las Vegas is all about.

New York-to-Paris via Nevada Part II

By Phillip I. Earl

Continuing the account of the famed New York-to-Paris Race of 1908, the Italians in their Brixia-Zust arrived in Ely on March 26, eight days behind the Americans. The French DeDion was somewhere in Nebraska at that time, as were the Germans in their Protos. Ely's Italians put on an informal dinner for driver Antonio Scarfoglio and his crew, who stayed at the Northern Hotel that night.

James Pierce was taken on as a guide to Tonopah, but delays occasioned by the poor conditions of the roads stranded them in Troy, where they spent the night with an old French miner.

The people of Tonopah had prepared no welcome for the Italians, but the reception accorded them in Goldfield was memorable. Several cars bedecked with Italian flags met them north of town and the Italians of the community hosted an elaborate dinner that night at the Montezuma Club.

As Scarfoglio later recalled, "I have rarely seen so much scintillating luxury, so much splendor and ostentation gathered together in the dining-room of a European hotel. Never have I seen so many diamonds and precious stones as were poured out from full hands on the bosoms and heads of the ladies or on the rings of men."

Scarfoglio had intended to go south to Las Vegas and Los Angeles before moving up the coast, but he decided to follow the Americans through Beatty and Rhyolite. Several dozen of their countrymen greeted the Italians in the latter camp and Joe Gardino of the Central Bar conducted them to a local restaurant for a hastily-prepared banquet. He also loaded them up with a supply of wine to see them across the wilds of Death Valley.

That day, March 29, the French were heading south from Cobre and the Americans were on a ship bound for Alaska. Like the Americans and the Italians, the Frenchmen stayed at the Northern in Ely. Georges Boucier de St. Chaffray, the captain of the French entry, was fascinated with the community, describing it as "an unknown town, born one year ago." In a cable to the New York Times, he described the homes and business and observed that "a good copper mine has been started in the neighborhood."

Thomas Wildon signed on as a guide, providing the excursionists with some of their most memorable experiences. All the way into Tonopah, he took potshots at rabbits, antelope and cows with his revolver and the crew feared that they would be next, but the trip was otherwise uneventful.

Grant Cumley entertained them at dinner that evening, and they went on to Goldfield the next morning where the camp's French colony put on a reception. In a dispatch to the New York Times, St. Chaffray pictured Goldfield as "the wonder of the West."

"We drink everywhere champagne offered by these good cities," he wrote. "It is, I suppose, because the people want us to know that labor can make of a desert a paradise and that sand and snowstorms are nothing if men are willing." They continued on to Rhyolite without incident, but the Death Valley segment of their trip got off to a bad start. A fierce sandstorm pushed them off the road and they were stuck for 24 hours. One of the Nevada teamsters who came out to help fell from a wagon and broke his neck.

Goldfield's Germans had also planned a reception, but the Protos, captained by Lt. Hans Koepen, did not make the planned Nevada run. Although he headed north through Idaho, an accident near Pocatello disabled his vehicle and the car was loaded aboard a railroad flatcar for the journey to Seattle. The Americans had meanwhile arrived in Alaska, but found that they could not cross the Bering Strait. Returning to Seattle, they learned that the French and the Italians had sailed for Japan. The Germans sailed on April 19, and Schuster and his American crew left two days later. The French, the Italians and the Americans drove across Japan, but Lt. Koepen sailed directly to Vladivostok, Russia, where he spent two weeks repairing his vehicle. The race committee penalized him 15 days for the rail journey across Idaho and Washington and another 15 days for omitting the trip across Japan.

The French DeDion was pulled from the race and sold to a Chinese merchant and the three remaining cars set off for Paris on May 22.

The Germans arrived in Paris on July 26, beating the Americans by four days. The race committee figured the penalty, however, and declared George Schuster and his crew to be the victors by 26 days. The Italians dogged on, reaching the French capital on Sept. 16.

The victorious Thomas Flyer went through a succession of owners following the bankruptcy of the Thomas Co. In 1963, Bill Harrah of Reno purchased it from the Long Island Automotive Museum.

Following restoration, George Schuster came to Reno and he and Harrah returned to Tonopah with the old racer on June 12, 1964. Harrah drove it around the streets and Schuster met several old-timers who recalled his visit in 1908.

The Thomas Flyer is today a part of the exhibit at Reno's William F. Harrah Foundation National Automobile Museum, one of the most historic pieces in the collection.

St. Rose Hospital to expand

St. Rose Dominican Hospital has been serving Henderson since 1947. As the only hospital in Henderson, St. Rose has welcomed the challenge of continuing to meet the health care needs of the fastest-growing city in Nevada.

To keep pace with the growing marketplace, St. Rose is launching a major expansion of the main campus at a cost of $18.2 million, according to David B. Coats, president and CEO. The expansion is scheduled to begin during the first quarter of 1990.

The new construction includes a bed tower housing 130 acute care beds which will include 10 critical care beds; 20 obstetrical/gyn beds; eight labor/delivery/recovery/postpartum beds; and 92 medical/surgical beds with a mix of semi-private, private and VIP rooms.

The new main lobby, gift shop, admitting, pastoral care/chapel services and volunteer services will be located adjacent to the new front entrance to the hospital.

Dietary and cafeteria functions will be relocated to better serve visitor, employee and patient dining needs and include exterior dining facilities. The relocation will also provide convenient access for dietary carts to service the patient floors.

Ample parking will provide convenient access for patients, visitors, physicians and employees, officials said. Use of the warm desert climate will be maximized with three exterior courtyards which will be easily accessible for public, patients and staff. One of the courtyards is planned for the exclusive use of women patients utilizing the "Womens' Center" on the second floor.

Other areas of the hospital which will be affected by the expansion will include diagnostic imaging, CT scan, emergency services, nuclear medicine, surgery and recovery.

The building's exterior design places a strong emphasis on regional color, natural light, views and landscaping for an inviting and pleasing statement to the community, spokespersons said. The new facility will have efficient departmental layouts, they added.

Federal women employees to meet

Millicent Dillworth, director of human resources at University Medical Center, will be the guest speaker at a general membership meeting of the Federally Employed Women of Southern Nevada organization, scheduled to begin with dinner at 5:30 p.m. followed by the meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Denny's restaurant, 3081 S. Maryland Parkway. The public is invited, spokespersons said.

BLM District Chief to discuss land sales

The head of the Las Vegas District Office of the U.S. Bureau of Land Management will discuss the current disposition policy for government owned lands, and the growing impact of the desert tortoise at the monthly meeting of the Nevada Chapter of the National Association of Industrial and Office Parks.

Ben F. Collins, who joined the BLM as a range conservationist in Carson City in 1963, will speak at 5:30 p.m. Thursday at Chin's Restaurant in the Fashion Show Mall. His talk will be preceded by no-host cocktails at 5 p.m.

Collins will discuss the "hows," "whys" and "whens" of the sale of government lands in Southern Nevada and will talk about possible solutions to the development problems created by the status of the desert tortoise.

No reservations are necessary, spokespersons said. For more information, call 369-4800.

Heart ball honors dedicated surgeon, LVCVA

The American Heart Association, Southern Division, will host its annual Heart of Gold Ball at the Mirage, with cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner and dancing at 8 p.m. Saturday.

This year's Heart of Gold Ball honorees are Dr. Harold Feikes and the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority.

Long-time Las Vegas cardiologist Harold Feikes will receive the "Heart of Gold Award" for his outstanding dedication and devotion to cardiovascular science. Feikes, whose practice spans a quarter of a century, performed the first open-heart surgery in Southern Nevada. A certified pilot and avid golfer, Feikes has performed more than 2,000 heart surgeries and obtained the first heart-lung machine for use in Southern Nevada.

A special ceremony and presentation by colleagues and friends are also planned for Feikes.

Frank Sain, executive director for the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority, will accept the "Ned Day Heart of Gold Award" on behalf of the LVCVA. The special award is bestowed upon the person and/or organization that

Professional saleswomen to meet

The public is invited to attend a meeting of the National Association for Professional Saleswomen for Southern Nevada, scheduled for 7:10 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 22, at the Gold Coast Hotel. The meeting will be a forum to discuss sales techniques and procedures. Sharing tips will make attendees eligible for a prize, spokespersons said.

With advances in medicine and technology, more and more people can be kept just one short step from death. But the cost can be overwhelming, both financially and emotionally. And society is still debating whether, and under what circumstances, "life-sustaining treatment" should be discontinued.

A panel of Las Vegas experts will continue that debate from 7 to 9 p.m., Tuesday in a forum called "Right to Die: Whose Right Is It?," sponsored by The National Conference of Christians and Jews. The discussion, part of the Issues in Justice Public Forum, is scheduled at the Clark County Public library auditorium, 1401 E. Flamingo Rd.

Members of the panel will talk about whether a decision to end medical treatment should be made by a patient, the patient's family, doctors, the courts or lawmakers. The panel will also discuss what the principles and standards for such decisions should be.

For additional information, call 458-1600.

TIMET announces 1989 earnings

Pittsburgh—Titanium Metals Corp. of America recently released fourth quarter and fiscal year 1989 earnings which indicate continuing growth in profitability for the company.

A small decline in the military aerospace market was more than offset by a firm industrial market and strong titanium demand by commercial aircraft and engine builders in 1990, officials said.

The company also announced the opening, on Jan. 2, of another TIMET service center in the St. Louis, Mo., area. With the previously announced plans for a combined TIMET service center and finishing facility in Morristown, Tenn., it brings to six the number of U.S. service centers to be in operation by mid-1990. TIMET also operates wholly owned service centers overseas in London and Paris.

Separately, the boards of directors of Baroid Corp. of Houston, and Allegheny International of Pittsburgh, have each approved the previously announced agreement for the sale of AI's interest in TIMET to Baroid.

AI's common stock holdings currently represent approximately 30 percent of TIMET's outstanding common stock assuming Baroid's exercise of its warrant to purchase additional TIMET stock. Baroid previously stated that, as part of the agreement, it will exercise its warrant prior to the closing of the transaction.

As a result of the transaction, Baroid will own 100 percent of TIMET. The transaction is subject to the approval of the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Western District of Pennsylvania, where AI's chapter 11 proceedings are underway. It is anticipated that the closing of the transaction will occur shortly after bankruptcy court approval is obtained.

TIMET operates plants in Henderson and Toronto, Ohio, and is the largest Free World

Penalties increase for tax preparer errors

Increased penalties are in store for professional tax preparers who cause an underpayment of tax, notes tax and business law publisher Commerce Clearing House.

Congress decided the subject of tax preparer penalties needed a fresh look because existing penalties had been enacted and modified on a piecemeal basis and had not been reviewed in a comprehensive manner. The new rules come as part of the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1989, and apply to documents prepared after Dec. 31, 1989.

Preparer penalties

The Act revises the present-law penalties that apply in the case of an understatement of tax as applied to an income tax return preparer.

First, it provides that if any part of an understatement of tax on a return or claim for refund is attributable to a position for which there was not a realistic possibility of being sustained on its merits, the return preparer is subject to a penalty of $250. The penalty will not be imposed if there was a reasonable cause of the understatement and the preparer acted in good faith.

Willful understatement

In the event an understatement of tax is due to a willful attempt to understate liability, or the reckless or intentional disregard of IRS rules, the penalty is $1,000. No penalty producer of titanium sponge and mill products. Titanium alloys are widely used in commercial and military aircraft and engines, space vehicles and in chemical processing, power generation and medical applications.

is to be imposed if there was no intentional disregard of the rules.

Further, penalties of $50 apply to each failure to (1) furnish a copy of a return or claim for refund to the taxpayer, (2) sign the return or claim, (3) furnish the preparer's taxpayer identification number, or (4) file a correct information return.

Construction closes U.S. 93 at Hoover Dam

U.S. Highway 93 at Hoover Dam will be closed between 8 p.m. and 7 a.m. Sundays through Thursdays until March 7—except next Sunday—while construction continues on the Arizona approach to the dam. The work is part of a Bureau of Reclamation contract to widen the highway.

During closure times, traffic to Kingman, Ariz., will be detoured from Highway 93 near Railroad Pass to Highway 163, via Highway 95, south of Searchlight, then east past Davis Dam to Kingman.

The additional 23 miles will require approximately 30 minutes longer travel time from the greater Las Vegas area to Kingman, spokespersons said.

OVERVIEW: Washington, located in the Pacific Northwest, is the only state named for a president (George Washington). Seattle is the region's major city and is US gateway to the Orient, Alaska and western Canada. The state has scenic islands and inland waterways, thick forests, rich farmlands, high peaks and even some desert-like terrain. Its climate is rainy in the west and dry in the east. British and American fur traders operated in the area in the early 1800s. Pioneers arriving on the Oregon Trail flooded into the area and it became a state in 1889. The West's biggest river — the Columbia — gives Washington irrigation, fishing, hydroelectric power and transportation. Its farms are noted for apples and wheat, and it has large lumbering, aircraft and shipbuilding industries. It also has three national parks (Olympic, Mount Rainier and North Cascades) and Mount St. Helens volcano.

FUN FACT: The Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia is the biggest concrete structure ever built, using 12 million yards of concrete.

SIZE: 24,181 square miles
(Ranks 41st in US)

OVERVIEW: West Virginia is appropriately dubbed the Mountain State. The heavily forested Appalachian Highlands cover most of the state. It has cold, foggy winters and humid summers. Its people have a history of rugged independence. Early settlers were Scots-Irish immigrants who took refuge there in the early 1700s. The area was originally part of Virginia, which thwarted the Mountaineers' attempt to form their own government. The split continued in the Civil War when Virginia joined the Confederacy while West Virginians remained loyal to the Union. It became a state in 1863. Coal and natural gas production prompted an economic boom as the state entered the 1900s. Despite its mineral resources its people were among the poorest and most primitive in the country. Today West Virginia is the nation's No. 2 coal-producing state. It also has stable steel, chemical, glass-making and tourist industries.

FUN FACT: West Virginia takes pride in its apple crop, and the popular Golden Delicious variety was developed there.

Novello: 'Minorities capable of high office'

By Fred Flores

Who said there are no qualified Hispanics for top administrative positions? We seem to hear this only in Nevada from our top politicians. Take a look at the number—almost zero—of department heads in Nevada state government.

President George Bush has again shown that if you do have an effective recruitment program, you will find highly qualified Hispanics. The latest Hispanic Presidential nominee is Dr. Antonia Coello Novello, pediatrician to fill the position of Surgeon General.

This writer last week had the opportunity to catch part of her confirmation hearing conducted by the U.S. Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee. She received glowing comments from members from both Republican and Democratic members of the committee.

Dr. Novello acknowledged that she is the first woman, first Hispanic and first Puerto Rican to be nominated as Surgeon General. She said, "I am grateful for these 'firsts' because I know I will not be the last. There are so many women, Hispanics, and minorities capable of high office. Their time will come."

However the time for Hispanics in Nevada state government as department heads has not and will not come. Sure, we will see one or two hired as receptionists and secretaries, but that's as high any Hispanic will get in state government. Some Hispanics will apply for competitive positions, get hired and then the state administration will want to take the credit for their selection. But that's politics.

Getting back to Dr. Novello, she is deputy director of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. Dr. Novello graduated from the University of Puerto Rico's

School of Medicine and interned and did her residency at the University of Michigan school of Medicine. She moved to the Washington area in the mid-'70s and practiced at Georgetown University Hospital, obtained a master's degree in public health from Johns Hopkins University and held a number of appointments at the National Institute of Health.

The Senate committee will vote on her confirmation later this month and the full Senate will probably vote on the nomination in March.

The Aguila Award goes to President George Bush for setting the pace in nominating top Hispanics to his administration. Too bad our governor in Nevada can't do the same.

LOAN SALE

We're right in the middle of our 1990 Loan Sale, so come in and save big bucks.

Now you can save big bucks when you borrow from First Interstate Bank of Nevada.

Because from now until March 22, we're offering incredible value on a range of loans during our 1990 Loan Sale.

Equity AdvanceLine*

- No opening fee. For this limited time, it costs you nothing to open your Equity AdvanceLine account (normal account maintenance charges still apply).
- Borrow for any reason. Equity AdvanceLine is the special line of credit that lets you borrow between $5,000 and $100,000 or more for any reason—simply by writing an AdvanceLine check.
- Revolving line of credit. Since AdvanceLine is a revolving line of credit, you only pay interest on the amount you borrow.
- Save on your taxes. Equity AdvanceLine is secured by the equity in your home, so you may be able to deduct the interest you pay on your taxes. See your tax advisor for specific information regarding the deductibility of interest.

DISCLOSURE OF FEES NORMALLY CHARGED
FEES TO OPEN AN ACCOUNT: Range from $325 to $750 on lines up to $100,000.

ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE: Annual Percentage Rate of 12% was in effect Jan. 5, 1990. The annual percentage rate is based on the value of an index. The index is the average of the lowest and highest prime rates published in the Wall Street Journal "Money Rates" column. To determine the annual percentage rate that will apply, we add a margin to the value of the index. Rate subject to change daily.

MAXIMUM ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE: 18%.

Home Equity Installment Loans.

- Save 1% on your interest rate. Now you can save 1% off applicable interest rates* when you take out a Home Equity Loan from First Interstate.
- No points, recording or appraisal fees. During our Loan Sale, we're waiving all points, recording and appraisal fees and title insurance (a document preparation fee still applies).
- Borrow for a wide range of uses. This low fixed-rate, fixed-payment loan lets you borrow between $5,000 and $100,000 for a wide range of uses, like home improvements or a new car. And this interest may also be tax-deductible. For details regarding interest deductions, see your tax advisor.

Car Loans.

- Save 1% on your interest rate. During our Loan Sale, we're offering a 1% discount on applicable interest rates on all auto loans.*
And since all of our loans are simple interest loans, you only pay interest on the unpaid balance.

Great service. Guaranteed.

- More people to help you. At First Interstate, we make borrowing easier in more ways than just saving you money. We have more professionally trained loan officers to help you than any other bank in Nevada.
- Loan answers in 24 hours. If we don't respond to your loan application or other inquiries within 24 hours, we'll pay you $5 for the inconvenience. Guaranteed.

We'll even let you postpone a payment on most installment loans once a year.

So if you want to save big bucks, come to First Interstate's 1990 Loan Sale. Because when it comes to great value, nobody makes borrowing easier.

Nobody makes banking easier.

*No other special rate discounts apply (such as automatic payment or Bonanza account customers).

Christina Gronski principal 'World on Ice' skater

After a successful amateur skating career, twenty-year-old Christina Gronski joined the talented cast of Walt Disney's "World On Ice," celebrating Mickey's diamond Jubilee as a chorus skater. Now entering her second season, Christina performs in her first featured role, displaying her talents in a solo during the butterfly production number.

Christina received her first pair of skates from her parents when she was 12. Little did they know that just a few years later, Christina would execute a feat few have achieved—bring home first place trophies in compulsory, artistic and overall competition at the Philadelphia Area championship.

Christina continued competing and earned the titles of Junior Ladies Champion in 1987 and Senior Ladies Champion in 1988.

Christina recently shared her thoughts on reaching the goals she has set for herself: "I always give 100 percent during each performance and I'm proud of earning three gold medals for my United State Figure Skating Association tests."

There came a time when Christina had to choose between amateur competitions and professional skating. After making her decision, Christina began adding new dimensions to her career as a performer with Walt Disney's "World on Ice." "I wanted to expand my career, and with competition the way it is, it takes many hours of hard work to advance to the higher competitive levels. However, my greatest joy has always been performing for large audiences and making them happy," she said.

'La Traviata' performed at Cashman

"La Traviata," a fully staged production will be performed at the Cashman Center Theater, on Sunday, Feb. 18 at 8 p.m. located at 850 Las Vegas Blvd.

"The theater is now an excellent facility, thanks to Frank Sain and the Convention and Visitors Authority," Eileen Hayes, general director of Nevada Opera Theater said. She continued, "the orchestra pit has been redesigned, the light board has been enhanced and there are major stage improvements."

Prior to the performance there will be a pre-opera lecture presented by Robert Bailey, stage director for "La Traviata." Bailey is general and artistic director for Portland Opera. The elaborate sets for the production are from Virginia Opera and the costumes are from Portland Opera, with assistances from Carol Hogan and Dana Schreiner of Las Vegas.

Cast in the lead of Violetta is Phyllis Demetropoulos. She returns to Las Vegas after performing lead roles in Europe and the Soviet Union.

In the role of Alfredo, Cesar Hernandez is a rising star in the opera world. Prior to his performance in "La Traviata," he will perform with Placido Domingo in Puerto Rico.

The price of the tickets for "La Traviata" are $15, $25 and $50. The $10 tickets are sold out. Ticket outlets include Bullocks (Customer Service, second floor), Bloom Saloon (4th and Bridger), Burk Gal'ry in Boulder City and the Nevada Opera Theatre office located at 3430 E. Flamingo Road, Suite 220. Call 451-6331 for information.

Kingston Trio at Four Queens

The Kingston Trio, the popular folk and country singing group that put "Tom Dooley" on the charts in the '60s and changed American popular music forever, is appearing in the French Quarter lounge of the Four Queens Hotel and Casino, 202 E. Fremont St. in Las Vegas.

Performance times are at 9 p.m. and 11 p.m. daily through Sunday.

Copperfield to headline Caesars with Brad Garrett

Master illusionist David Copperfield returns to headline the Caesars Palace Circus Maximus Showroom Wednesday through March 5, performing in cocktail shows with comedian Brad Garrett.

The only magician to star in 11 of his own network television specials, Copperfield is preparing for "David Copperfield XII: The Niagara Falls Challenge," scheduled to air this March on CBS. For his upcoming television centerpiece, Copperfield will reportedly be bound and chained to a raft, pushed down the Niagara River and over the edge of the falls.

Copperfield is also a highly successful touring artist. In 1990, he will perform more than 500 shows, covering an average 3,000 miles a week with cast and crew.

Copperfield's grandiose illusions and magical comedy antics combine sophisticated staging techniques with choreography and story lines to create mini-plays around each of his feats.

Accompanying him are the driving sounds of Guns 'n' Roses, Van Halen and Peter Gabriel, along with the appealing vocals of Harry Belafonte and the classic perfection of Mozart. Copperfield's walk-in and walk-out music features Billboard magazine's chart hits.

A Def Leppard tune inspired one of Copperfield's most popular illusions—Death Saw, which has Copperfield chained under the riveting spin of a six-foot steel-plated buzz saw.

"I love the cutting edge music," Copperfield says, "and it has acted as quite an influence for many of my illusions."

Garrett is the six-foot nine-inch comic who suffered a life of ridicule because he was never any good at basketball.

Garrett's lack of athletic prowess has not kept him from scoring points in the world of comedy. In 1984, he gained national attention as $100,000 Grand Champion on TV's "Star Search."

He made frequent guest appearances on "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" before being chosen, in 1988, to star in the network television situation comedy "First Impressions."

Garrett frequently headlines comedy clubs and college dates and tours with such talents as Julio Iglesias, The Beach Boys, Crystal Gayle, Eddie Rabbitt and Smokey Robinson.

At Caesars Palace, the Copperfield/Garrett performances are scheduled at 10 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays. Showtimes are 8:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Fridays through Mondays. The showroom is dark on Tuesday, Feb. 27.

Concert to feature waltzes by Strauss

The Las Vegas Civic Symphony will perform during the 10th annual "Afternoon in Old Vienna," sponsored by the City of Las Vegas Cultural and Community Affairs Division, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 18, at the Union Plaza Hotel's Triple Crown Ballroom.

The audience is invited to dance and listen to the romantic music of that era as performed by the symphony under the direction of Alan Lewis.

Included on the program will be such well-known works as the "Blue Danube Waltz," "Tales from the Vienna Woods," "The Emperor Waltz," "Thunder and Lightning Polka," and many more, spokespersons said.

Tickets, priced at $8 for adults and $5 for students and seniors, may be purchased in advance at the Reed Whipple Cultural Center, 821 Las Vegas Blvd. N.

For reservations or additional information, call 386-6211.

Tender Fury to jam at Calamity's

Coming from the land of surf, sun and smog, Tender Fury has emerged from Long Beach, Calif., as a band to be reckoned with.

A hard-rocking band, the foursome has an album due out soon, but those so inclined can hear the band's tunes at 9 p.m. Friday at Calamity Jane's, 3015 Boulder Highway. Admission is $6, spokespersons said.

As one reviewer put it, "They are like nothing you have ever heard."

Winding the tunes is Jack Grisham, former voice for TSOL. The man takes the stage like he owns it, which indeed he does. Dino Guerrero pounds the skins in a style which would make Alex Van Halen's performance in "Live Without a Net" seem average.

Daniel Root strokes the telecaster and Randy Bradbury keeps the deep line humming.

Dear Debbie

Dear Debbie:

I dated a guy in college for three years and let's just say it was a stormy romance. Between his fraternity and my sorority every one of our fights was public information, and we had many of them. We had talked about marriage, but the relationship ended abruptly when we both went our separate ways after graduation. He was pretty cold and callous about the breakup and I'll admit I was very hurt even though I knew we couldn't continue to see each other the way we were treating one another. He lived with another woman for two years and I had a serious relationship of my own. Three months ago, we ran into each other; it had been five years since we had talked. We really hit it off and have been seeing a lot of each other. He has asked me to go away with him for about 10 days and I really want to go. My problem is that all my friends think I am a lunatic. They say I am setting myself up and I should have learned the first time that the guy is a "jerk." I don't want it to seem to my friends that I don't appreciate their concern, but I think my ex has changed and so have I and believe we have a good chance of making it work this time. My friends won't let that happen. Every time they see me, they tell me I'm doing the wrong thing. What should I do? Could they be right?

CONFUSED

Dear Confused:

What you should do is simple. Tell your friends this is a decision you have made and to mind their own business. It is unfair to judge a relationship that existed and ended in college. Although people don't entirely change after college, too many pressures often exist within college—from social life and academics—that can interfere with the relationship. After five years and the fact both of you have had serious relationships it is quite possible you are both more mature to handle a healthy relationship. You won't know unless you try. I have known more couples than I can count who ended a relationship and reconcile later to find it is much better. Stick to your guns and follow your heart in this instance.

Reserve fund essential for savings

By Sonya Leavitt
Nevada Cooperative Extension
Do you want to save money in 1990? If so read on. You'll find there's more to savings than just a spare bank account.

According to Mary Peters, area specialist, family resource management for Nevada Cooperative Extension, an emergency reserve fund is the foundation of your savings program.

Try to set aside two to six months take-home pay to use if you have an unexpected emergency. If you have a steady, regular income, two months take-home pay in reserve may be enough. If your income is irregular, you may want to set aside a six-month reserve.

The second category for which you need to save, according to Peters, is seasonal expenses. This category includes school supplies and clothes; house, car, health, life and disability insurance payments; summer child care; summer camp; registration for children's athletics; family vacation; Christmas, birthday, graduation and wedding gifts and taxes. You won't always know when you'll have some of these expenses, but you can plan for most of them.

The third category for which you need to save is major goals. Major goals vary from person to person and family to family. "Your goals will change as your personal situation changes," said Peters. "Changes in age, marital status, financial status and the economy are a few factors that may affect your goal."

Before you can reach your goals, you need to know what it is you want to achieve. Critics suggest you list your goals. If you are married, discuss your goals and your spouse's goals. Try to resolve any conflicts between your two sets of goals. You will probably compromise on some and discard others.

She explained, "Write down your goals. Be specific. List your short, medium and long-term goals. Short-term goals are the goals you wish to reach in the next week, month, six months or year.

Medium goals are the ones you wish to reach in the next one to five years. Long-term goals are what you want to reach in the next five years, 10 years, or in your lifetime. Specify when you wish to reach your goal, the total cost to reach your goal and the amount you need to save each month."

For some families, the first goal has to be to get out of debt.

Once out of debt, the money that's been used to make payments can go toward a savings program.

Peters advised that after you make out your list of goals, rank them. Decide which goals you will reach first. Once you have reached a few goals, you will gain a sense of accomplishment that will motivate you to reach your other goals.

Nevada magazine publishes state 125th anniversary issue

Nevada's year-long celebration of 125 years of statehood continues this month with publication of a special edition of Nevada Magazine. Themed, "125 years of Travel and Recreation in Nevada," the 96-page issue represents the first time the state-run magazine has produced a special publication in addition to its regular six-times-yearly schedule of magazines.

"Nevada Magazine has produced a very special issue that helps begin to tell the story about what makes Nevada such a wonderful place," said Gov. Bob Miller. "This historic issue profiles many of the people and places that have played a role in the development of Nevada during its first 125 years."

The issue starts with a story about the historic sights found near Nevada's two largest cities, Reno and Las Vegas. That's followed by a story about the state's 52,000 miles of back roads and a piece on the unique Lost City Museum in Southern Nevada.

Pension Plus

By Tim O'Callaghan

Southern Nevada Association of Life Underwriters

How you choose to take your pension will determine how large a retirement income you and your spouse have—and how long it lasts.

Basically, it boils down to a choice of more income or more security.

Under current law, you'll automatically receive a "joint and survivor pension which will pay life-long benefits to both you and your spouse. Neither of you will outlive the income, but the income may be considerably less than what you'd receive from a full individual pension.

An individual pension, on the other hand, will pay significantly higher benefits—perhaps hundreds of dollars per month more than a joint and survivor plan. But, since all benefits will end when you die, both you and your spouse must request an individual pension in writing.

Must you really choose between certain security and a richer but riskier standing of living? No, with careful planning, you can have the best features of both types of pensions.

Al H., age 45, and his wife Ann are a case in Point:

They calculate they'll receive $2,300 per month from a joint and survivor pension—a tight squeeze for both to live on, but more than adequate for one. Al's full individual pension would be $2,800 a month—$500 additional they badly need, but not at the risk of all monies stopping if Al suddenly died.

What Al really wants is for the two of them to have the greater income of an individual pension as long as he lives, and for Ann to have at least the same income that a joint and survivor plan would provide.

And that was exactly what he and his life insurance agent arranged. Al purchased a $300,000 ordinary life policy, which will be fully paid up by the time he retires. When Al dies, the proceeds will purchase an annuity which should give Ann as much or more than she would receive from a joint and survivor pension.

With Ann's future income guaranteed, Al and Ann now plan to elect the larger individual pension when he retires—and to enjoy the additional $500 a month ($6,000 a year) for the rest of Al's life. Everything considered, Al and Ann stand to gain more than the best each type of pension had to offer. Ann's eventual annuity income tax liability will be lower than pension income because she will have already paid tax on the portion attributable to the annuity premium, making it more desirable than the taxable benefit she'd receive from a joint and survivor type of pension. Moreover, should Al die before he is eligible to collect his pension, Ann will have a source of long-term income. Finally, if Ann dies before Al retires, Al can name another beneficiary or use the policy's cash values himself.

Weekly Sermon

When performance matches profession

By the Rev. Dr. R. Dixon Jennings
Henderson Presbyterian Church

Leaving the sanctuary some Sundays ago, a parishioner, no doubt intending to be complimentary, said to me, "You really gave us something to think about this morning!"

Through the parable in Matthew 7:24-27 that concludes the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus declares that truth is not just something to hear or think about, but to do. "Every one then who hears these words of mine and does them shall be like a man who built his house upon the rock," states Jesus. "Every one who hears these teachings of mine and does not do them will be like a foolish man who built his house upon the sand."

Are we but "a generation of sermon listeners" as someone has observed? Listening to a sermon sometimes may be a laborious ordeal, I'll grant you. But, do not think that because you have heard the Gospel preached that you have fulfilled your Christian discipleship.

The parable of the wise and foolish builders coming at the conclusion of Jesus' Sermon on the Mount is a warning to his hearers that what he has just said is not a theorizing about life, but the very stuff of life itself.

Whether this sermon by Jesus is actually a summary of his teachings as compiled and arranged by Matthew, which I am inclined to believe it is, or a message the Master presented on a single occasion, this parable is surely a most appropriate and effective conclusion. Remember Jesus' concluding words, "And great was the fall of it!"

Jesus pictures two men alike in many ways. Both are hearers; they attended the same church and heard the same sermon; perhaps, even sat next to each other in the same pew. They read from the same Bible and sang from the same hymnal. Both were builders, each building his own dwelling. And both faced the same storms—crises.

But, there were differences! The man who heard and did was a sensible man; but the man who heard and probably agreed, but did nothing more, was foolish. The first built on the rock; the second on the sand. The wise man weathered the storm; the fool went down, and great was his collapse.

Although the main thrust of this parable is concerning foundations, we do need to interpret the meaning of God's judgment

Topic at New Life: 'Satan Attacks a Source of Truth'

Clear explanations of "Why Satan Attacks a Source of Truth," with biblical reference to Job 24:13,17, will be given by world-famous author Vernon Howard in informal talks this week at nondenominational New Life Foundation, 700 Wyoming St., at the corner of Utah Street in Boulder City.

New Life classes are of interest to singles and couples of all ages and professions who sincerely seek refuge from tension and anxiety and wish to live a truly Christian life, sponsors said. Classes are conducted on a donation basis at 7 p.m. Wednesday and Friday and at 9 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. Howard directs the classes and speaks each Sunday at 9 a.m.

New Life invites newcomers to arrive at class one hour early for interesting and uplifting discussions.

During recent pre-meeting activities, Desi Arnaz Jr. shared that ultimately test the foundations. The longer I live, and some days it seems as if it has been a very long time, I am increasingly convinced that God's judgment is always the other side of his love; it is the other side of the same coin. His judgment upon our poor foundations is a blessing in disguise. He but seeks to save us from self-destruction.

The fact our rebelliousness leads us to the pig pen is not a denial of his love, but an affirmation. Even there his love woos us. When your life is darkened by some storm cloud, realize that God's love is still shining behind that cloud as brightly as ever, awaiting to break through with an eternal glory.

The foundations for life that can ride out the storm are enunciated in the sermon Jesus has preached. What are these foundations? Jesus declares God and his kingdom is the supreme base in life and in history. The Father's will for life is the deepest truth and should be sought with wholehearted commitment.

His will is good. God can be trusted in all things, both to sustain what is good and to rebuke and attempt to redeem what is evil. When one puts his trust in God, he becomes invulnerable to the "arrows of outrageous fortune," for in the Lord he discovers the strength for living in adversity as well as prosperity.

When Jesus says, "Every one then who hears these words of mine and does them..." he speaks with the authority of one who is the Word of God—the will of the Father. This is the authority with which he calls men and women to discipleship, to, "Follow me!"

In Jesus, God's Word and Deed are one. "I am the truth—I am the true one," he says, without any trace of egotism or delusion. In him is the foundation upon which human beings and nations will build, if they are wise.

his favorite Vernon Howard quote with the class: "The spirit of nobility is entirely free. It needs nothing outside of its own honor."

Once over lightly

By Carolyn Drennan Bishop

I've mentioned in past columns that I'm married to the "Prince of Doom."

If he isn't saving the whole family from ptomaine poisoning by tossing out little bowls of leftovers from the refrigerator, he's supervising the operation of all "heavy equipment," such as the garbage disposal, vacuum cleaner and trash compactor.

From the day we married I suspected I was in for a life of supervision. On the way out of the church, my new husband tripped on the loose edge of the aisle carpet. Not only did he tack it down snugly, he lectured the janitor on accident-prevention maintenance.

While I was cooking our first post-honeymoon meal, the "Prince of Doom" appeared at my elbow just as I lit the gas barbeque. His fists were clenched and his mouth was open in sheer horror.

"What's wrong?" I asked innocently.

"Wrong?" he shouted. "The way you're waving that match around, you could blow up the whole neighborhood, that's what's wrong!"

"Calm down," I said, "the steak is cooking and the neighborhood is still here."

I'm not sure he heard me because by that time he was on his knees in front of the refrigerator.

"What on earth are you doing now?" I asked.

"You'd better thank your lucky stars," he answered as he peered at expiration dates on food cartons, "I think I've just saved us from ptomaine poisoning."

And so it's gone, down through the years. Let me tell you, it hasn't been easy having my life saved several times a day.

Why am I bringing this all up now? I'll tell you why. I just read a very disturbing article entitled, "Widow's dead husband directs her activities from grave."

If the "Prince" goes first...

Desert tortoise still endangered

The wild desert tortoise is on the endangered species list in Nevada and is not to be "taken," harassed or killed, reminds TORT-Group, the Organization for the Protection of Nevada's Resident Tortoises Inc. Persons who know of places being cleared of vegetation preparatory to development where tortoises have been living recently are urged to immediately notify the local law enforcement office of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 388-6380. A description of the location, date and circumstances should be provided, spokespersons said.

Juvenile justice panel meets on Friday

The next meeting of the Legislative Commission's Interim Subcommittee studying the Nevada Youth Services Division and the Juvenile Justice System in Nevada will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the fifth floor Training Room A of McCarran International Airport. The meeting is the third in a series of five, spokespersons said.

The meeting will provide a forum for subcommittee members to receive information and testimony that will result in recommendations intended to address the problems caused by the increasing number of children entering the juvenile justice system in Nevada, they said.

Kite festival Saturday

Danny Sanchez and his son Jason "Learn the Ropes"

Don Markworth of Nevada Kite, in conjunction with the city's Parks and Recreation Department, will be sponsoring a kite festival Saturday at Hemenway Park.

The family oriented event will begin at 10 a.m. and last until 5 p.m.

There'll be kite demonstrations, stunt flying by professional locals and a supply of free kites to be flown by anyone interested in getting the feel of manipulating a stunt kite through its paces.

Designed for fun by the entire family, the event obviously depends on the weather to supply a modest amount of breeze. Picnic facilities are available for those wishing to bring along lunches and spend the day watching or participating in the colorful event.

Markworth will also be offering a course in kites through the Recreation Department beginning Wednesday, Feb. 28 and running for four weeks from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. each Wednesday.

For further information, contact the city Recreation Department.

Tom Bozdog thanked for rescuing historic documents

By Teddy Fenton

For historic records our story today names the building at 1400 B St. and 1404 Wyoming St. the Manix Building because until Curly Smith purchased it in 1986, it belonged to Helen Manix, the widow of J.C. Manix, who at his death left it to his widow.

Incredibly the building was always a part of the Manix complex. Curly handled the sales of all but the portion that is now a part of history. The owner of the lot is Christy Smith. See related story.

Last week, Betty Porter, of Porter's Electric, called and said the man who was in charge of the demolishing of the building, had uncovered artifacts buried in the sand in the attic. Among the treasures are business letters addressed to Dr. H.G. Pugh, a chiropractor who had to be practicing in Boulder City. All documents are dated 1931. If among our readers there is anyone who remembers Dr. Pugh please phone 293-1716. That name appears 29 times in the phone book covering Clark County.

Two newspapers, dated 1964, one had never been read, was filled with articles so timely they can be used for a "Looking Back" and one item that excited Tom Bozdog was a multi-colored bottle cap from an Opedyke Jersey milk bottle... Maybe Violet Opedyke Tracht has a milk bottle from her parents dairy to go with it!

How many buildings do you suppose have been torn down in Boulder City without anyone going to the trouble to save important items of history as gifts to our museum collection? I remember one citizen who threw out her entire box full of records pertaining to the Six Companies golf course in Boulder City. When Harry's Cafe managers found wonderful documents in the attic it was said that he turned over wonderful documents to the Boulder Dam Hotel. He said he heard they (whomever) threw them away.

This again in a heartfelt thank you to Tom Bozdog for donating this historic treasure. I will read every word of all of it. Pat Lappin will truly thank you also.

When the Christy Smith Building was razed last week the Supt. of Construction, Tom Bozdog, saved some yellowed newspapers, and 1931 artifacts from being taken to the dump. These in turn were donated to the B.C. Museum and Historic Association (via historian Teddy Fenton). Our story today describes the value of historic documents. In our picture today are Tom Bozdog, left, and fellow employees, Richard Schlopt and Randy Miller. The job of razing the building was awarded to Design Builders. See story.

The walls of a portion of the J.E. Manix Building torn down

By Teddy Fenton

Once upon a time an astute businessman named J.C. Manix arrived to Boulder City. Coming from Augusta, Montana, he saw a future for opening a business in Boulder City. His was one of the first business permits to be awarded to an individual. His partner was named Mr. Vaughn. Thus the Manix and Vaughn department store opened in 1931. It contained every item one would need. My own family bought groceries there, also wearing apparel. In later years, the dress department was managed by LaVera Hannig.

When J.C. Manix died the property was owned by his widow, the late Helen Manix. She in turn sold it to Curly Smith in 1968. It would take a million words to share with our readers the different uses the building was known for. It (the Manix Building) covered the entire block save for Bob Broadbent's drug store and on the other end, the Service station that was managed for the major part of its existence by Otis Hughes.

As of last week the building that once housed Curly's construction office at 1404 "B" St. has been razed. When J.C. Manix was there to help his partner and beloved wife, he had no idea the responsibility would fall to her after his untimely death. She continued to rent different departments to business people. For instance, Dick Blair and Marion Short had a real estate office that opened on to the Wyoming St. side. Now the entire side of that building has been razed.

The good news is that the empty lot will eventually become a futuristic business building with a spanish motif. The daughter of Curly and Georgette Smith, Christy Smith, has not decided exactly the date, but she is excited about having a chance to create her own building.

Christy will enjoy the article we are writing about the artifacts that were discovered in the attic. Basically paper items, protected by several layers of sand, the superintendent of the removal of the building is Tom Bozdog, fortunately for the historic importance of the dated material he donated it to the Boulder City Historic Association. It included the sign attached to the Manix Department Store. See related story.

Apartment and condominium fire safety

By Engineer Dean Molburg

Responsibility for firesafety of any apartment or condominium complex lies with each and every resident. To keep your building as firesafe as possible, you must learn the right thing to do if fire breaks out.

How do most apartment and condo fires start? Smoking is the number one cause of all fatal apartment fires, and nearly a third of them are caused by smoking in bed. Another common cause of apartment fires is heating equipment. Fires start when people leave combustible, such as paper or clothing, to close to heaters or stoves. Improper use of space heaters is another leading cause of fatal fires.

Plan ahead for firesafety in your complex. Devise firesafety plans for your building as a group and know every exit. Keep exits clear of debris. Invite the Fire Department over the help check the building for fire hazards and advise you on fire prevention and escape planning. Focus on four key elements in firesafety plans: prevention, detections, escape planning and practice.

Make sure fire detection systems such as fire alarms, sprinklers and smoke detectors work properly. Know where the fire alarms are located in your building and know how to operate them.

If a fire should break out you need to know the two quickest, safe ways out of your unit and building. This is why it is important to make and practice escape routes. Have a safe meeting place away from the building and have all family members meet them. After evacuating the building, call the Fire Department as soon as possible by dialing 9-1-1. Be prepared to provide your location, cross street and any other information about the fire.

January Employee of the Month Lake Mead National Recreation Area

Susan Warner, administrative tech for the Ranger Division, with the National Park Service, has been selected as the Lake Mead National Recreation Area Employee of the Month for January, according to Park Superintendent Alan O'Neill.

Susan Warner came to Lake Mead in 1974 after working in the County Government and Credit Service in Utah. Susan began as a clerk typist with some collateral duties as a dispatcher. In January of 1980, she took the position of maintenance secretary and in 1983, she accepted her present position in the ranger division.

Susan plays a key role in keeping the ranger office functioning on a daily basis. She not only has to keep up with the demands of the division chief and two assistant chiefs, but also meet the demands of the entire field ranger force. Susan's duties include typing correspondence, keeping time and attendance, tracking budget, answering telephones, dealing with complaints (some obnoxious and irate), and a whole array of other duties from GSA vehicle tracking to MOU's and Right-of-ways.

Susan's adaptability to most every situation and desire to tackle whatever job needs to be done is an asset to Lake Mead. She is exceptionally loyal and dedicated to assuring that where there is a need, there is Susan.

Lake Mead Superintendent Alan O'Neill, right, presents Employee of the Month award to administrative tech Susan Warner.

Words of Wisdom

A diamond cannot be polished without friction, nor a man perfected without trials.

A house is built by hands, but a home is built by hearts.

Anyone who stops learning is old; anyone who keeps learning stays young.

All of us, even those who are not of any formal religion, have need for silent prayer.

A fool always finds a greater fool to admire him.

A clean conscience makes for a soft pillow.

A man who understands one woman is qualified to understand pretty well everything.

All people smile in the same language.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions - horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle, then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

Greek Spinach Pie
Here is a Greek dish that has taken America by storm. Serve with sliced tomatoes vinaigrette and hot bread for a great holiday supper. Serves 4 to 6. You'll need:
1/2 cup chopped onion
1-1/2 cups melted butter
2 10-oz. packages frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
3 eggs
3/4 lb. feta cheese, crumbled
1/2 cup chopped parsley
3 T chopped fresh dill
3/4 tsp salt
1/4 tsp white pepper
1/2 lb. prepared filo pastry sheets
Saute the onion in half-cup butter (or olive oil if you prefer) until translucent and golden. Add the spinach and cook for three minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat. Beat the eggs in a large bowl. Stir in the cheese, parsley, dill, salt, pepper and spinach-onion mixture. Mix well, but gently. Brush a 13-by-9-by-2-inch baking pan lightly with melted butter. Line the pan with eight pastry sheets, buttering each as you go. Spread the mixture evenly. Cover with eight more filo sheets, brushing each with butter. Prick top layer with a fork at 1-inch intervals. Bake 25 minutes in a 350 F. oven until top crust is puffy and golden brown. Serve warm.
Happy New Year to all. I bid you Peace!

BIDS WANTED FOR HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
Sealed proposals will be received by the Director of the Department of Transportation of the State of Nevada at the District 1 Headquarters, 123 E. Washington Ave., Las Vegas, NV 89101, until and opened at 1:30 p.m., local time, on February 22, 1990 for Contract No. 2381, Project Nos. FLH-RS-163(7) and SPS-163(1), construction of a portion of the Secondary Highway System on SR 163 from US 95 to 9.4 miles east, Clark County, a length of 9.17 miles. D.B.E. information shall be submitted no later than the time of opening of proposals as specified above.

SPECIFIC DESCRIPTION OF WORK COVERED BY THIS CONTRACT CONSISTS OF: REMOVING CULVERT PIPE, REMOVING BITUMINOUS SURFACE, REMOVING HEADWALLS, ROADWAY EXCAVATION, CHANNEL EXCAVATION, BORROW EXCAVATION, INSTALLING NEW CULVERT PIPE, INSTALLING NEW END SECTIONS, INSTALLING PIPE RISER INLET, INSTALLING FILTER BLANKET, PLACING FOG SEAL, PLACING BASE AGGREGATE, PLACING PLANTMIX BITUMINOUS SURFACE AGGREGATE AND PLACING PLANTMIX BITUMINOUS OPEN-GRADED SURFACE.

Plans and specifications may be examined and purchased at the office of the undersigned. Non-bidding documents may also be examined or purchased at the Department of Transportation District Offices in Sparks and Las Vegas, Nevada. Plans, form of proposal, contract and specifications may be secured by prequalified bidders through the office of the undersigned. A fee of Twenty Dollars ($20.00) is required for the purchase of each copy of the plans with proposal form. Plans, proposal form and specifications obtained on this basis are non-refundable and no refund will be made. Bids must be on the proposal form of the Department of Transportation and must be accompanied by a bid bond, a certified check, a cashier's check, or cash in the amount of five percent (5%) of bid.

Right is reserved to reject any or all bids. Contractors desiring to bid on this work, if not already qualified under the State Law, shall file with the Department of Transportation at Carson City, Nevada, not later than five (5) days prior to the date for opening of bids, a complete application for qualification on form furnished by the Department.

The minimum wage to be paid on this contract shall be as determined by the Secretary of Labor or the State Labor Commissioner and are set forth in the contract documents.

The attention of bidders is directed to the State Contractors' License Law requirement (NRS 624 as amended to date), that a contractor hold a valid license of a class corresponding to the work to be done. Requests for license may be directed to the Secretary of the State Contractors' Board, 70 Linden Avenue, Reno, Nevada 89502.

This is a Federal-aid project and as such, any contractor otherwise qualified by the State of Nevada to perform such work, is not required to be licensed nor to submit application for license in advance of submitting a bid or having such bid considered; provided, however, that such exemption does not constitute a waiver of the State's right under its license laws to require a contractor, determined to be a successful bidder, to be licensed to do business in the State of Nevada in connection with the award of a contract to him.

The State of Nevada Department of Transportation will on its own initiative, take affirmative action, including the imposition of contract sanctions and the initiation of appropriate legal proceedings under any applicable State or Federal law to achieve equal employment opportunity on Federal-aid Highway Projects and will actively cooperate with the Federal Highway Administration in all investigations and enforcement actions undertaken by the Federal Highway Administration. In conjunction with the above statement, the Department of Transportation will not issue plans to an irresponsible bidder. Subsection (B) of the section 112 of Title 23 United States Code has been amended by adding at the end thereof, the following: "Contracts for the construction of each project shall be awarded only on the basis of the lowest responsive bid submitted by a bidder meeting established criteria of responsibility".
