One Man's VIEW

By Mike O'Callaghan

Residents of Henderson are about to be treated to a big scholastic and athletic rivalry between two large high schools in their city. A few years from now you can bet that what was once the "big game" of the year between Basic and Boulder City or Las Vegas High School will now be Basic High School vs. Green Valley High School. Yep, it will be the Wolves and the Gators on the field of competition.

Also, after the new school is established and has a couple of thousand students, you can be assured that Green Valley High School and Basic High School will be seeing which graduating class gets the most scholarships and who scores highest in academic accomplishments.

The intra-city rivalry can and should be healthy competition which promotes all good aspects of scholastic life in modern day America.

When first moving to Henderson 35 years ago, I couldn't have even imagined the city reaching the status of two big high schools within its boundaries. The time has arrived and it sends a tingle up my spine.

During past weeks I have brought this subject up several times with Basic High School graduates. Almost to a person they said that Green Valley should be a homecoming game whenever possible.

It will take several years before the Gators can develop a loyal alumni so at first a heavy load will have to be carried by the faculty and interested parents.

Wallop 'em Wolves!
Go get 'em Gators!

The interaction between candidates and the conduct of Boulder City elections was what America is all about. It was especially refreshing when compared to the distasteful conduct of both Las Vegas races for city council seats.

It will be months before the odor hanging over Las Vegas is no longer smelled by the residents treated to a new low in campaigning.

Jon Porter, Bob Ferraro, John Pilgrim, Dianne Frogge and Alice Isenberg can all walk away from the Boulder City campaign knowing that they offered their services to local voters and did it with dignity.

There's not a loser among them!

Maybe this is but one more reason it is called "Clean and Green" Boulder City.

$16m bond Ok'd

By Paul Szydelko
Managing Editor

Henderson voters approved by a wide margin Tuesday a $16 million bond to construct a new Emergency Services Building, jail and court facilities.

Yes voters totaled 2,966 (or 70.7 percent) and no voters totaled 1,231 (29.3 percent). A total of 4,197 ballots were cast of 23,356 registered voters, or a 17.97 percent turnout.

The vote authorizes the city to issue up to $16 million of public building bonds to construct and equip a complex of buildings. An expanded court facility and 150-bed jail will occupy the site of the current police station, court and jail. An Emergency Services Building which would house the police and fire departments will be constructed on the site of the Civic Center Gymnasium.

The Civic Center Gym, which will be razed to make room for the new construction, will be replaced by a new gym to be built adjacent to Morrell Park. The municipal facilities project also calls for an expansion to the Henderson Convention Center.

Because of the city's increased valuation, city officials said they do not expect to raise property tax rates to pay for the bond.

Building Committee discusses new gym

By Katherine E. Scott

With plans for the city's new Emergency Services Building starting the construction document phase, the city's Municipal Facilities Construction Committee concentrated on the new recreation center during its meeting last week.

"We're looking at July 1 to start asbestos removal" of the current gym and former school buildings on Lead Street, City Manager Phil Speight said during the meeting. He said demolition of the site, where a three-story police and fire department office building will be constructed, may start in August.

Documents for the building should be ready to bid by mid-August, the committee was told.

The gym is to be replaced by a 38,000 square-foot recreation center at Morrell Park. Committee member Bob Hampton, who sits on a recreation center subcommittee, recommended that it be built within the $2.5 million construction budget.

Schematics for the new recreation center were explained by committee member John Marchiano, a member of the same subcommittee. The committee voted unanimously to recommend the design at Tuesday's City Council meeting.

The Henderson Parks and Recreation Board was expected to consider a similar recommendation at its next meeting, according to information presented to the committee.

According to the preliminary design, six classrooms will be located to the left of the main lobby and three racquetball courts to the right. The main gym is to be located in the center of the building.

The classrooms, which can be opened to make two large rooms, will also have a kitchen. Other parts of the building will include an exercise room, a multi-fitness room, a game room and a conference room.

Neither of the two sets of bathrooms will include public show-

All America City Awards program this weekend

By Paul Szydelko
Managing Editor

A delegation of Henderson residents will travel to San Antonio, Texas, this weekend hoping to capture the All America City Award designation for the city.

Henderson will compete with 29 other finalists in the 42nd annual All American City Award program conducted by the National Civic League. Each of the finalists will make formal presentations to the AAC jury and the 10 winning cities will be named Saturday night.

All America City Award Committee Chairman Neil Twitchell will make the 20-minute presentation Friday afternoon. He plans to speak for a few minutes, introduce a three-minute video on the city and complete a narration reviewing the city's application before a 10-minute question-and-answer session.

The city's initial 11-page application, written by a committee of 38 residents, focused on the 1988 Pepcon explosion and its aftermath, the expansion of St. Rose Dominican Hospital and the growing community's forging of a new identity.

Backing up Twitchell during the question-and-answer segment will be the city's Economic Development Director Ann Barron, Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Gary Johnson, BMI President Bob Ritchey, St. Rose Dominican Hospital executive Hank Costenbader and Emergency Management Services coordinator Jack Finney.

"We think we have a tremendous presentation, we have a good story to tell and we're very optimistic," said Bob Campbell, who headed a subcommittee to prepare the city's presentation.

For the past several weeks, the group has brainstormed questions that might be asked by the jurors and reviewed possible answers.

KVVU-Channel 5 produced the three-minute video to be used in Henderson's presentation. The video incorporates sepia-toned photographs of the city's beginning as a wartime industrial plant town, news footage of the Pepcon explosion and a variety of clips of businesses, youth and community activities.

Doris Femenella and Councilman Larry Scheffler led another committee to design a convention booth which will display photographs and include a television monitor to show the video continuously. The booth, which is not part of the competition, will also distribute promotional material about the city.

Among the city officials who will attend the program are Mayor Lorna Kesterson, Councilmen Lorin Williams, Andy Hafen and Scheffler, City Manager Phil Speight and City Clerk Dorothy Vondenbrink. More than 20 residents are expected to be part of the city's delegation.

Campbell said the award "does not denote a perfect community." The whole concept behind the All America City program is to recognize communities whose citizens acknowledge their challenges and through active involvement, address those challenges, he said, "and not stick their heads in the sand."

The finalist cities include Gadsden, Ala.; Little Rock, Ark.; Duarte, Calif.; Lynwood, Calif.; Modesto, Calif.; Rockford, Ill.; Greencastle, Ill.; Hammond, Ind.; Des Moines, Iowa; Waterloo, Iowa; Baltimore, Md.; Duluth, Minn.; Hattiesburg, Miss.;

Grandview, Mo.; Gothenburg, Neb.; Lincoln, Neb.; Newark, N.J.; Albany, N.Y.; Greensboro, N.C.; Jacksonville, N.C.; Waynesville, N.C.; Columbus, Ohio; Dayton, Ohio; Titusville, Penn.; York, Penn.; New Shoreham, R.I.; Austin, Texas; Winchester-Frederick County, Va.; and Anacortes, Wash.

A 16-member screening committee met for two days of deliberation during which 97 written applications were reviewed.

"It was an amazing mixture of community efforts, ranging from campaigns confronting the problems of drugs and crime to communities demonstrating a broad-based support for families of their Desert Storm troops. But the bottom line was civic involvement and initiative," said Christopher T. Gates, the League's vice president.

Of the 97 applications, 26 had populations of more than 100,000. Thirty-four states were represented within this year's applicant pool and seven state capitals applied.

Cause magazine, residents of Center Point, Ind., counted 9,000 tractor-trailers hauling waste from other states into their town. This was 180,000 tons of waste over a 15-month period going into a nearby landfill. Two-thirds of the garbage came from New York and New Jersey.

This example is but one reason Gov. Bob Miller has attempted to raise the rates for the massive loads of hazardous waste coming into the Silver State from neighboring California.

Today California hazardous waste producers can dump their mess at Beatty, Nev., cheaper than their state will allow them to keep it at home. California charges them $105 a ton to keep it there but charges only a $47.50 export fee if they send it next door to Nevada where they are charged only $20 a ton. It's an additional profit of $37.50 to dump it on their neighbors.

Gov. Miller has been fighting to raise our fee from $20 to $60 a ton so it would cost the dumpers $107.50 and encourage them to keep it at home.

The fight was still going on when this column was written. We will report later whether the people of Nevada or the hazardous waste lobbyists of U.S. Ecology won the day.

The vote of your legislators will also be reported.

Have you heard about the latest gimmick coming out of the 1991 Legislature? It's SB579 which will empower each legislator "to create an advisory committee on current issues . . ."

If this bill becomes law it will be most interesting how each legislator will use this law to his or her political advantage. There's a better than even chance that dozens of friends and other people legislators want to impress will get identification cards. These prestigious cards, according to the bill, "may be carried by the member whenever he appears in the legislative building."

Wonderful! Does this give them equal access to lobby for their company without the necessity to register as a lobbyist?

I don't believe legislators who get around their districts and talk to their constituents about important matters will need such a committee. Nor do I believe card-carrying advisors are needed or a good idea.

There's a great possibility that some cards will be misused or eventually be used to embarrass some legislators. Just ask some past office holders who have passed out badges and other means of identification to gain favors and/or recognition.

Miller signs into law changes to city charter

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

Changes to the Henderson City Charter were approved last week by Gov. Bob Miller, a Legislative Hotline spokeswoman said Wednesday.

The changes increase the number of municipal judges, allows the city to lease residential properties for periods up to a year and prevents members of the city council from city employment.

The law signed by Miller Friday was a second reprint of the original bill, the spokeswoman said. She said that a restriction preventing a city council member from being employed by the Clark County was omitted in the final bill.

The city council passed a resolution in February seeking to restrict employment only with the city.

The city charter also prohibits a member of the council from holding any other elective office with the state or county, except "as a member of a board or commission which is ancillary to the office which he holds." The new law will now permit a city council member to sit on the school district's board of trustees.

The law now allows the city to have more than one municipal judge. Assistant City Attorney Andrew Urban said the city council lacked the power to increase the number of judges under the previous charter.

Urban said projections estimate that within two or three years, a second municipal judge will be needed. The council would appoint a judge, "who then would have to stand for election," he said.

A new Justice Building being designed for the city includes two courtrooms each for Municipal Court and Justice Court. Both currently have one courtroom and one judge. Justice Court, under Clark County jurisdiction, is also expected to expand within a few years.

Gas transfer hearings postponed

By Roy Theiss
News Staff Writer

The Public Service Commission hearings concerning CP National's proposed gas facilities sale have been postponed until July 2.

One reason for the delay is CP National's possible deal with Southwest Gas. At the initial PSC hearings May 7-10, the commission heard testimony concerning CP National selling its facility to Washington Water Power. CP National services more than 10,000 Henderson residents.

The initial hearings were postponed to May 28-31 because of the lengthy testimony. In the interim, Southwest Gas and CP National worked on a stipulation agreement at the urging of the Regulatory Operations Staff for the PSC.

The Regulatory Operations Staff consists of accountants, engineers and economists who prepare testimony independently for the PSC. Kelly Jackson, staff counsel for the Regulatory Operations Staff, said staff was against CP National selling its facility to WWP because of the rates possibly going up.

When the Regulatory Operations Staff reviewed WWP's application, three areas were studied. "We looked to see if WWP was financially fit and we determined that they are," Jackson said. "Then we checked to see if they are operationally fit [can they operate a gas company?] Again we determined that they are."

"But the third area we looked at was the impact on the rate payers. We were concerned whether Washington Water Power could operate as inexpensively as they say they could. We didn't agree with their financial evaluation. The rates that would be put into effect would be higher than CP National's," Jackson said.

If CP National and Southwest Gas can work out an agreement, they will present it to the PSC before the July 2 hearing. That agreement would then be scrutinized by the PSC. If the two gas companies can't come up with an agreement, then the PSC will continue with its original hearing and would cross examine WWP's representatives, Jackson said.

Some residents oppose compromise plan

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

Some Section 27 residents oppose a compromise plan devised by River Mountain Ranch Estate neighbors and a local developer, one citizen said Tuesday.

The issue is scheduled before the Henderson Planning Commission during its regular meeting tonight. The Planning Commission meets at 7 p.m. in Council Chambers at City Hall, 240 Water St.

"There's an opposing view that doesn't support the entire River Mountain [Homeowners] Association," Steve Weber said. He added there are "a few vital things that are very important that are being overlooked."

Weber said he and some of his neighbors in the Lewis Homes subdivision east of Appaloosa want to keep that street 80 feet wide, rather than reducing it to 60 feet.

A compromise developed between Lewis Homes and the homeowners association would reduce the size of Appaloosa and line the western side of the street with 1/3-acre lots, where only single-story homes may be built. Street lights would be omitted to preserve the country atmosphere of the 1/2-acre lots east of Appaloosa.

Several problems with the street changes were related by Weber. "But that's not my major problem [with the entire plan]," he said. "Under their proposed revised plan, they don't want any access from their area to the proposed park or the existing Dooley Elementary School."

He said that ending Colt in a cul-de-sac west of Appaloosa will deny "direct access for fire, safety or any kinds of [emergency] vehicles."

For the proposed plan to pass, Weber said waivers will be needed from city ordinances that require parks to be surrounded by roads. He said the fire department has also been asked to amend their policy for the project.

"This is all in the idea of keeping the River Mountain estates a nice, quiet neighborhood," Weber said. "I can appreciate that, but I think they're missing some ... important questions that I think are going to have an impact on our area."

While the River Mountain Homeowners' Association seeks to prevent Appaloosa from becoming a major route to the future extension of the U.S. 95 (Henderson) expressway, Weber said that when the area is fully developed, "the residents will need a direct access to the freeway."

He agreed that Appaloosa will end in a "T" at Wagonwheel, but said that would be within about a quarter-mile of the freeway entrance. To use Foothills would take residents out of their way, and Magic Way would require motorists to join in heavy traffic on Boulder Highway some distance from the on-ramps, he said.

"More importantly, there are safety features [involved]," Weber continued. Some houses on the east side of Appaloosa face the street and have driveways that have cars backing into the roadway.

"Why compound a problem that is already there by adding 13 more residences on the [other] side?" Weber asked, adding, "And then compound that with no street lighting?"

He continued, "You can't have schools and parks without adequate lighting."

Weber admitted he could have joined the homeowners association after its bylaws were amended to include all of Section 27 instead of only the 1/2-acre estates east of Appaloosa. "I commend them for their organizational efforts," he said, but added, "The River Mountain Association isn't representing everybody out here."

He said that the isolation of the area cannot continue, adding, "We can all be one happy family." However, he said, "We're not in the country anymore."

"I appeal everybody who doesn't agree with the River Mountain ideas to show up [at the Planning Commission meeting tonight]," Weber said. "They're going to be the majority because of the efforts they put into organizing."

Others, he said, "need to show up to show that the River Mountain Association doesn't have the best interest. I think they have a good interest, but I think they can improve on it."

Halteman praised as Writing to Read teacher

Editor's Note: Joyce Nunes submitted the following story as a tribute to Myrna Halteman, a teacher at Hinman Elementary School who is retiring this week.

By Joyce Nunes

Hinman Elementary School
A kindergarten teacher's formidable job is to open the doors to learning in the first experience of a child in a formal school setting. There are as many ways to approach teaching kindergarten as there are kindergarten teachers. One novel way to enhance the learning process is the Writing to Read program, taught by veteran teacher Myrna Halteman at Edna F. Hinman Elementary School, a program that is a Point of Pride in the Clark County School District.

The Writing to Read program (a trademark of the IBM Corp.) actually teaches children to write before they are able to read. IBM and the Educational Testing Service found that after rigorous field testing of the Writing to Read (WTR) program among 10,000 children, learning to write is the first step in understanding what reading is all about.

When children have mastered the 42 sounds (phonemes) symbolized in 26 letters, they are able to write any word they can say, by converting sounds he or she already speaks into sounds written down. It's a method that teaches children to write before they are able to read regardless of economic level, ethnic group, race, class or gender. It permits children to create and compose original sentences and stories in a few months.

Children enter kindergarten competent, to some degree, as speakers and listeners. With this in mind, Halteman takes those same stages of learning to talk and transfers them to the stages of writing.

"We know that as speakers, we learn with encouragement, a risk-free environment, models and practice," Halteman said. "Our children then are provided with an environment of self-paced instruction, a supportive surrounding, models, help, and practice.

"In our classroom, we spend a great deal of time on thinking about what the children want to talk about, then verbalizing and organizing it, then, with a lot of help at first, they begin to write it. Then they type it and they read it. We feel we cover just about everything when our children leave us — thinking, listening, hearing words, then sounds, then writing, typing, and consequently reading slips in the backdoor."

This enthusiastic teacher is referring to the four basic learning stations that make up the WTR program: the computer, electric typewriter, audio and writing stations. The stations themselves are not new; it is how they are used that distinguishes them. The computer program acts as a tutor to a pair of students and is a self-paced learning manager to the children, introducing and reinforcing the learning of groups of phonemes. The computer is audiovisual. The typewriter allows the child to see the letter on the keyboard in perfect physical form, and transfer the phoneme (sound of the letter) that is in his or her mind into paper in the typewriter. The speed of the electric typewriter lets the child remember what he or she is trying to say easing the way into creative writing, without the hassle of

Competition may promote city unity

On a night when high school-age players from Henderson proper faced off against players from the Green Valley neighborhood for the first time, it was appropriate that the teams wore virtually the same color of uniforms.

After all, they are all Henderson residents.

Yes, the budding of what promises to be a great rivalry occurred Tuesday night at sparkling Burkholder Field. The Timet (Basic High School) Wolves defeated the Green Valley (Green Valley High) Gators, 11-1, in early-season American Legion action. Both teams wore gray pants and dark blue jerseys.

In the fall, the Gators will put on green, blue and silver uniforms for a football game against the blue and silver Basic High Wolves. That there are two high schools in the city of Henderson demonstrates the city's remarkable growth.

Henderson will have three high schools before the decade is over.

Good, clean, healthy competition between Basic High and Green Valley High may even help to unify the city. The schools will strive to make each other better in both the academic arena and athletic fields, they will fight hard in front of raucous crowds but, in the end, should take pride in each other's accomplishments.

Accept emotionalism; make Henderson safe

Editor's Note: The following editorial was presented on KTNV on May 15 by Jim Behling, vice president and general manager of KTNV-Channel 13.

Some politicians and newspaper editorial writers are telling Henderson residents not to be so emotional about the recent chlorine gas leak.

The trouble with that advice is that the chlorine leak and other industrial accidents in the BMI complex dating back to the Peperon disaster do add up to an emotional issue, especially when the accidents keep happening.

These pictures taken by Channel 13 photographers tell the story of the big scare: Firefighters battling the effects of toxic fumes; senior citizens emotionally and physically stressed out; nervous school children being evacuated from their neighborhoods.

Living in Henderson may be like living in an earthquake zone, where you just wait and wonder when the next one will hit, but with one important difference: Earthquakes are natural phenomena. The BMI disasters are man-made.

Those who really care should accept the emotionalism, then move on to make the long-range plans necessary to make the southeast part of the valley a safe place to live.

We challenge the county commissioners and the state to make that happen.

Covering public citizens and private lives

By David Gergen

At this rate, Kitty Kelley will soon turn into an adjective. Since her trashing of Nancy Reagan first attracted fame and fortune, some mainstream news organizations have been seizing on winks and nods to rip open private lives of both public and private people. Veteran correspondents have quickly found a label to express their disgust: They call it "Kitty Kelley journalism."

Others would say there is nothing new here. After all, four years ago Gary Hart was forced out of politics by revelations about his private life. And 50 years ago Americans were enthralled by a movie called "Citizen Kane," which showed the press hot on the trail of a public man. But between those examples and today's media revelations rests a major distinction: No one is certain whether the recent disclosures—from those in Kitty Kelley's book straight through to those in an NBC expose about Sen. Chuck Robb of Virginia—have even as much truth to them as "Citizen Kane," a thinly veiled account of William Randolph Hearst's life.

The only certainty is that journalists are rushing out with sensational smear stories regardless of guilt. In NBC's accusations that Robb once hung out at drug parties and had an affair with a former beauty queen, there were no smoking guns, just smoke. In its defense, the network argued that since Robb might run for president someday, it had a responsibility to unveil his private life.

That kind of reach to justify feeding frenzies is tricky ground in journalism. Reporters have always accepted that the public life of a public official should be an open book: Pore over the taxpayer-funded frequent flying of John Sununu or the HUD contracts linked to New York's Sen. Alfonse D'Amato. But once upon a time, the private lives of public officials were to remain closed unless circumstances, as in the Hart case, made them relevant. In their efforts to make all private endeavors fair game, some in the media contend that politicians like Robb deserve what they get if they hold themselves out as "family men." That kind of contortion risks diminishing tough reporting about the undeniably relevant aspects of a public figure's public life. Indeed, the titillating details obscured the truly significant news in NBC's story: a secretly recorded conversation in which a Robb assistant threatened the senator's accusers with an Internal Revenue Service investigation.

During the Persian Gulf war, the U.S. military imposed a set of rules on the press. Journalists didn't like them; most citizens did. With the war over, Americans may wonder whether journalists shouldn't impose higher standards on themselves. It's a fair question, given the high expectations the media often have of others. Roger Ailes, who took heat for George Bush's 1988 Willie Horton ads, makes the point that if he treated political opponents the way some reporters have treated recent targets, he would be run out of politics.

Flag of terrorism in parade

WASHINGTON—Susan Cohen wants to rain on George Bush's parade. The June 8 Desert Storm victory celebration here will include a contingent of American troops carrying the flags of our coalition partners, including Syria's. "The Syrians murdered my daughter," said Cohen, who is no relation of mine. The young woman was 20, and a passenger on Pan Am flight 103 when a bomb blew it to bits over Lockerbie, Scotland.

Syrian complicity in that 1988 bombing is conventional wisdom among terrorist experts. The operation was funded by Iran (in retaliation for the accidental downing of an Iranian airliner by the United States), planned by a Palestinian terrorist organization working out of Syria, and executed by some Libyan operatives who managed to put the bomb on the plane. It's inconceivable that Syria did not know what was afoot.

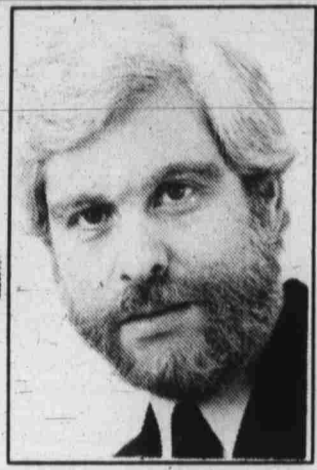

Syria is also blamed for blowing up the Marine barracks in Lebanon in 1983. Taken together, the two incidents cost the lives of 540 Americans—259 over Lockerbie and another 281 in Beirut, making Syria responsible for the deaths of more Americans in the last decade than any other country, including Iraq (260 combat deaths). By that standard, Saddam Hussein should get a float.

I am not one who thinks Desert Storm victory parades are either in bad taste or a celebration of militarism. They are nothing more than expression of pride and, after Vietnam, of relief that more Americans did not die. It can be argued, though, that the celebrations are disproportionate to the victory—a one-sided affair that, had it been a prize fight, would have been called in the first round. It was a high-tech mismatch.

Indeed, the presence of the Syrian flag (and, maybe, its ambassador, too) at the Washington parade is a reminder that we are celebrating nothing more than what, in other wars, would have been a prolonged battle. The Middle East seems less impressed by the trouncing of Iraq than do America's parade organizers. Israel continues to deposit settlements in the West Bank. The Saudis remain as risk-averse as ever. "Free Kuwait" seems intent on showing Saddam Hussein a thing or two about torture and George Bush's modern-day Hitler, "Sad'm," still controls Iraq. Look it up.

As for Syria, it not only remains Israel's most intransigent foe, it also remains on the State Department's list of outlaw nations that sponsor terrorism. Specifically, it harbors the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine's General Command, the terrorist organization suspected of carrying out the Lockerbie bombing. Its chief, Ahmed Jibril, lives in Damascus and is choice of Syrian leader Hafez Assad to replace Yasser Arafat as the head of the PLO.

For the moment, Syrian-sponsored terrorists have taken a leave of absence. Indeed; the widely predicted surge in terrorism, that was expected to accompany the Gulf War, never materialized. Syria, it seems, not only knows where the terrorists are located, but also knows how to sit on them. Maybe a deal was cut—Western aid for a cessation of terrorism.

But this hiatus—and it will probably amount to that—is merely a change of strategy, not of values. If and when Assad concludes that terrorism can again be useful, he will resort to it. That time will undoubtedly come when the Middle Eastern situation once again ossifies and the chance for peace hinges on the conversion of Jewish Israelis to Islam or—about as possible—the conversion of the Arabs to Judaism. Meanwhile, it is in Assad's interest to keep terrorists confined to their bases—but not, tellingly, to jail.

War, like politics, makes the strangest bedfellows. For the sake of building a coalition against Saddam Hussein, the United States embraced Syria. But that war is over and it would be downright wonderful if we could hear an expression of American values from the Bush administration. But to woo Syria, it has stiff-armed the families of the Lockerbie victims, refusing, for instance, to provide them with intelligence data already given Hafez Assad.

And now, the Syrian flag will be carried down Constitution Avenue. No Marine should be chosen for such duty.

Susan Cohen says she and some other Pan Am 103 families might come to Washington to protest. I doubt if that will change anything. This town is intent on having itself one grand time and the Bush administration is in a mood to crow. But the muddle of the Middle East, the essential nature of the Syrian regime and, it has to be said, the moral compromises made by Bush will also be on display when the Syrian flag goes by.

So strike up the band for an odd parade; one that celebrates how much we won and, unfortunately, how much we lost as well.

Legislature framework hopelessly outdated

It comes as no surprise that the 66th session of the Nevada Legislature was still going full-bore as it passed the May 31 deadline for final adjournment last week. Every observer with even minimal knowledge of the process knew when the leadership made that bold announcement in January that only some arcane mix of smoke and mirrors (i.e., miracles) could bring it off.

For by then it had become abundantly clear that the lawmakers would be called on to solve some of the toughest problems the state ever faced. And the only way they could handle them and quit by May 31 without miracles would be through indiscriminate hatchet work on everything from the budget to essential government services — and a flat denial of new revenues to meet them.

The leadership no doubt knew all that as well as anyone. They are all seasoned men, thoroughly familiar with the marverick aspects that make up any legislative session. But they can hardly be blamed for trying to make an antiquated system work better through some experiments to speed up the process and gain both time and efficiency.

What they did may have helped some. But it couldn't be anywhere near enough to meet their deadline because they had to struggle within an ancient framework, long since outmoded by vast changes in the state.

It's a framework that probably worked well enough when it was designed by our forefathers in the 19th century. But so little has been done to upgrade the format to meet changing times that it is bypassing this century completely. Now the system is so out of phase that it has been able only to creak and stagger more and more as Nevada moves toward the 21st century.

Take, for instance, two basic elements guiding regular session: (1) the 60-day limit; and (2) the requirement that the Lawmakers meet in regular session only every two years.

Both went into the constitution 127 years ago next month. They were put there by the 1864 constitutional convention, called for the Territory of Nevada to write a constitution and form a state government to be admitted to the union.

Now note this difference between 1864 and 1991. When that admission to statehood took place on Oct. 31, 1864, the official total population of Nevada stood at 21,406 souls. Today it stands at 1.2 million, or about 60 times greater.

Only one basic, permanent change has been made in that part of the state constitution. Originally, that document limited the Legislature to regular sessions that would have to adjourn after 60 calendar days. By 1955, it became evident even to a conservative Legislature that along with a growing population (then about 275,000) had also come a growth in the state's problems — so much so that a regular session could not adequately handle them within the 60-day limit.

So in that 1955 session, the lawmakers set in motion a constitutional amendment allowing regular sessions to continue after 60 days, but to stop payment to the lawmakers as of that day. It went on the ballot in the general election of 1958.

That was an almost revolutionary year for the conservative people of Nevada, because also on the ballot was an amendment to have annual sessions. Remarkably, the voters ratified both amendments in the general election of 1958. It appeared for a moment as if the people of Nevada had become aware of the need to update its political structure.

Not quite. The 60-day situation remained, but there was only one "annual session." In 1960, the voters removed it from the constitution much faster than they put it in. Yet by that time the statewide population had reached 285,278 — an increase of 78.2 percent over the 1950 census.

Now we come to 1991. Thirty years after the voters dropped the annual session idea because the population had gone a little over a quarter of a million, we now count four times that number in the 1990 census. And, as has been the case for the last five legislative sessions, we have seen longtime Assemblyman Bob Price, a North Las Vegas Democrat, introduce legislation to require annual session. And every time it has failed.

A major reason for that failure with the opposition of many powerful lawmakers themselves. Arguments against it range from a conviction that annual sessions would not cut costs to the fear of adverse public reaction that grips so many lawmakers.

Yet the latest polls show that 61 percent of the respondents favor annual sessions, and 64 percent said there should not be a deadline for adjournment, such as that set up by the current leadership.

But the nightmare of an angry electorate still haunts the present session. And the debate over whether annual sessions would be a real answer goes on, with no answer either way, and no better alternative in sight. All we know is smoke and mirrors won't do the job.

Tax burden increases

Editor:-
Except for the News, Clark County's news media, both print and electronic, fails to keep Nevadans informed as to whether local taxing entities serve the best interest of the taxpaying public. Identical trite boiler-plate news-services articles fill the two major newspapers and are parroted as "local" news by our three network affiliates.

A front page article by our relatively new, and welcome, News Managing Editor Paul Szydelko, clearly informs us of a "phenomenal" 32 percent increase in assessed property valuation to be spent on a new Emergency Services Building, courts and a 150-bed jail. Of the proposed 52 additional full-time positions to be filled, 28 will be for additional fire and police positions, and only two will be for Parks and Recreation. The rest will be used to increase the local bureaucracy. None of the increased government income, because of laissez-faire approach of residents, was even considered for lowering property taxes.

For those property owners who aren't aware, during the last three "non-appraisal" years, Henderson City's tax has increased 60 percent, from $17.23 to $104.43 per annum per household! My property taxes have been increased by $225 and combined with other mortgage costs have raised my payments $50 per month from a fixed income. I dread what the taxes will be increased during the forthcoming "appraisal" year. "We the people" must exercise our right to vote in order to reverse the ever-increasing tax burden and require that revenues dictate government budgets as the taxpayers must do. At a minimum, the public interests and safety must be visibly served including immediate city street improvements and proper maintenance, safely designed roads, improved traffic flow, coordinated signal lights, especially on Boulder Highway, and reversal of the "tax-and-spend" mentality.

City street maintenance and/or improvements on major traffic-bearing roads, such as Horizon, Pacific, Van Wagenen and the Boulder Highway frontage road, have been non-existent, not even the repainting of lane-divider stripes. For years, only inept pot-hole patchwork has been done resulting in car-rattling cobblestone effect roads, especially on Van Wagenen.

In the article, Finance Director Steve Hanson states "the city's growth will pay for needed improvements, including a new E/S Building, courts and a 150-bed jail." It might come to your attention that the only item on the city's June 4 ballot was a bond question for $16,000,000 for "constructing and equipping an emergency service center, a jail and court facilities." Sound familiar? Those of you who don't exercise your right to vote have voted for the present state of government representation.

Wynn's water fetish

Editor:
Steve Wynn wants to waste one million gallons of water to flood canals in downtown Las Vegas! This man has water on the brain! Commissioner Christiansen wants homeowners to stop watering their yards in the afternoon to save water. Some restaurants do not serve glasses of water unless the customer asks for it. Does all this make sense to you? It doesn't to me.

The media reports that Clark

County wants to get water from the northern cow counties, yet Steve Wynn constructs a huge dolphin tank full of water and indulges in massive fountains that feature waterfalls.

Does this make sense to you? It doesn't to me.

I believe Steve Wynn has a water fetish and would be happier if he moved to a place where it rains every day.

Think safety first

Editor:
I have been reading and seeing on TV about all the problems the Henderson's plants have caused. Some people want them to be moved out. Will the protesters pay most of the cost to move the plants? Will they give the people jobs who will lose their jobs?

How many places that have accidents would be asked to lock their doors if there is a fire, someone killed or someone was maimed in their business? I know every type of business has acci-idents. Do the same people protest when a drunk or a speeder runs a red light causing a wreck and someone losing a loved one? Do they want the car companies who sold the car to move? Or the store who sold the alcohol shut its door?

I know the plants teach safety first. My husband Walter had worked for Kerr-McGee for 35 years before he retired.

Let's all think of safety first in our homes as well as our jobs.

Solve problems here and now

Editor:
I have finally had it! I am sick and tired of hearing complaints about "The Plants."

What people don't seem to realize is that their residential areas were built around the plants. Not vice versa.

Green Valley residents seem to be making the most noise. But who are they?

I live in Henderson, had damage done to my home when Pepcon blew up and my family was affected by the Pioneer leak.

I am just as concerned as they are. But is locating the plants in another area going to solve our problems? Maybe we won't be affected but in the years to come someone else will. Sure, they move the plants to Apex, builders construct homes around that area. Then what happens? Here we go again!

Let's not push our problems on someone else. Let's solve them here and now.

Math Institute offers unique opportunity

By Bill Hanlon

If programs are to be judged by results, then the Math Institute has to be seen as a success.

On Saturday, May 4, the Southern Nevada Math Council sponsored its annual mathematics contest. Each school sent their three top students in Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, and three students for a comprehensive test. These students compete against each other in their subject area. In the Algebra II test, students from the Math Institute finished first and third. That alone demonstrates the effectiveness of this new program.

The Clark County School district, responding to President Bush's call for achievement in mathematics, second to none, established the Math Institute last year. The idea behind the institute was spearheaded by school board trustee Lois Tarkanian, with the support of Board President Mark Schofield and Superintendent Brian Cram. Without their vision and direction, students in Clark County would not have this unique opportunity.

The Math Institute provides the most challenging of classes found anywhere in the United States. Students receive approximately 40 percent more instruction than is currently possible in public or private school settings. This added instruction allows our students to reap the benefits of a more rigorous course of study that emphasizes the development, theory, and application of mathematics.

This program is not for everybody — only the most dedicated students are admitted. Students are required to take a full load of classes at their home school and then return to an alternate site to receive their math instruction from the institute. The average grade point averages range from 3.5 to 4.65. The competition is very strong and seats are limited to the highly academically talented students.

The most common questions asked are, "What are the benefits of this program?" and "How is this program different from those offered in the regular high schools?" A very simple answer is we have more time to develop and explain concepts, which allows students the understanding needed to apply mathematics.

A simple example might illustrate this point. All of us know how to divide fractions; we invert the divisor, then multiply. Now doesn't that sound ridiculous? Why would anyone want to flip a number upside down and multiply when they are directed to divide? Although most students can do that problem, few would know why it's done that way.

The same applies to advanced math courses. Students can do problems, but they do not understand why they are done the way they are or how to apply them.

Many of us have experienced the "where did that come from" phenomena in math. The Math Institute has the time regular schools don't have to develop those ideas so math does not look like magic.

Students chosen to participate in this program are accepted based upon their ability, previous classwork, attitude toward school and a parent/student interview.

If your son or daughter has an interest in excelling in mathematics, and you would like more information on how to enroll them in this very competitive program, then call 799-8650.

Personal life — private, no trespassing

By Jeannie G. Reeser

Most of us believe that when the workday ends and we head home, we are on our own time: What we do during non-working hours is our business, nobody else's. Whether that means having a beer, enjoying a steak, smoking a cigarette or riding a motorcycle, legal, after-hours activities are not the boss's concern.

Unfortunately, not everyone agrees with this. Many employers are taking it upon themselves to dictate employees' lifestyle choices.

Employers increasingly are refusing to hire — and are even firing — workers because of personal, legal lifestyle choices made at home and away from work. As far as I'm concerned, this is discrimination, plain and simple — and, sadly, it is becoming more and more widespread.

If such invasions of privacy are not addressed now, what next? Soon, any activity could be grounds for discrimination — even eating jelly donuts, drinking coffee or choosing to shoot the rapids on your vacation.

The old saying that you shouldn't take your job home with you has become the battle cry of some Americans forced to abide by employer-imposed codes of behavior during non-working hours.

In fact, a poll released recently by LEXIS/National Law Journal indicated that a quarter of all respondents felt they had experienced workplace discrimination, and more than three-quarters of those polled believed that most or all employers practice some form of discrimination in hiring or promoting employees.

Another survey, conducted for Equifax Inc. by Lou Harris and Associates, found that Americans overwhelmingly believe employee privacy should be respected. Eighty-five percent of the poll respondents thought it inappropriate for an employer to check into the lifestyles or political associations of job applicants. A survey by the National Consumers League found that 81 percent of Americans believe that employers have no right to refuse to hire an overweight person. Seventy-six percent of the respondents said it was wrong to refuse to hire a smoker.

Many state legislatures are committed to protecting employees' rights of privacy. Eleven states, including Colorado, Kentucky, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and, most recently, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Dakota and South Dakota have passed legislation to protect employees from discrimination with respect to non-work activities.

I sponsored legislation — which is now law — in the House of Representatives in my state, Colorado. I'm proud that Colorado has served as a leader on this important issue. And many other states have since followed suit.

It's a sad commentary that the situation necessitates legislation. We shouldn't have to pass laws that post "Private, No Trespassing" signs on the personal lives of employees. Unfortunately, the current climate, with all its Big Brother overtones, demands that legislators take this action before we lose one of the most fundamental rights Americans enjoy.

Jeannie G. Reeser is a Democratic state representative in the Colorado legislature.

More than just cyclists' safety

Gov. Pete Wilson took an important step toward reducing carnage on California's roads recently when he signed a law requiring motorcycle riders and their passengers to wear crash helmets.

When it takes effect Jan. 1, 1992, the law, sponsored by Richard E. Floyd, D-Carson, will require motorcycle riders — as well as motor scooter and motorized bicycle riders — to wear state-approved safety helmets on streets and highways. Those refusing to do so would face a maximum $100 fine for a first offense.

The legislation makes California the 24th state requiring helmets for all riders. The law replaces a previous state law that mandated helmets for motorcycle riders 15-1/2 years old and younger and all riders using off-road vehicles.

Opponents of the law say that it is an infringement on freedom of choice. Some motorcycle enthusiasts will continue lobbying the Legislature to have the law reconsidered. Some have vowed to resist the law by refusing to wear headgear. Others have threatened court action.

But individual freedoms don't exist in a vacuum. The courts have clearly stated that individuals who ride without a helmet incur risks that extend beyond themselves. In 1972, a federal court ruled — and the U.S. Supreme Court agreed — that society has an interest when someone is injured on a public highway: "From moment of injury, society picks the person up off the highway; delivers him to a municipal hospital and municipal doctors; provides him with unemployment compensation if, after recovery, he cannot replace his lost job, and, if injury causes permanent disability, assumes responsibility for his and his family's continued subsistence."

In California, the medical bills for an injured motorcyclist average more than $17,700, according to a UC Davis study, and 82 percent of that amount is publicly funded.

Of course, motorcyclists should not bear the burden alone. The Legislature must now toughen enforcement of state laws that require automobile passengers to wear seat belts.

GARAGE SALE! Wouldn't it be nice if the people who put out the boxes and signs advertising their sales would take them down at the conclusion of that sale?

We, along with many others, have driven many needless miles,

Reflections on our divergent communities

By David M. Sanchez

"If you're going to walk on thin ice, you might as well dance." This thought occurred, the other day, as I reflected on the fact that my tenure as president of the Green Valley Community Association is coming to an end. The GVCA has been accused of non-representation of the Green Valley residents. Our efforts at rallying the neighborhood have often fallen short. Perhaps we have not been as effective as we could have been.

Those who live in Green Valley have been labeled as upscale yuppies who only care about what occurs behind the walled sanctuaries of their homeowners associations. Nobody seemed to care enough to come out to vote recently. We in Green Valley have been told to leave the "plants" alone. It seems that everybody else was here before we moved in! Our collars are too white to be accepted by long-time residents with long memories.

However, a small band of residents who care enough about this community forged the GVCA out of a vision for this new territory known as Green Valley. The members and officers of the GVCA have been looked upon suspiciously, frowned upon, insulted and intimidated. They have persisted. Gradually there is a new perception growing. Has there been a community civil war in our midst? Is Henderson destined to be an aggregate of communities? Change is rapidly changing the complexion of Henderson. It will never again be the sleepy town south of Las Vegas. The residents of Green Valley are not going to move to Apex! The GVCA is not going to go away. We will immerse ourselves in every facet of the city of Henderson: politically, economically, socially. Many GVCA board members may step aside and allow others to participate. Some will continue to serve. The organization will continue, in spite of the obstacles of indifference, ignorance and apathy. There will be future members who will seek the better angels of our nature. There will be those who join the Green Valley Community Association for a walk on thin ice. Some will dance with us.

Questions or comments on GVCA activities are always welcome. Please mail them to: Green Valley Community Association,

Murder suspect trial starts Monday

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

Amber Lynn (Harvey) Adams, 22, is scheduled to stand trial Monday in Las Vegas District Court for the Nov. 4 murder of a local adult-oriented video and novelty store clerk.

Adams and 24-year-old Lance Matthew Reberger are charged with murder, robbery and burglary for the death of 22-year-old Denver Duane Turner inside Fantasy Video Plus last year. Reberger faces a June 18 preliminary hearing in Las Vegas Justice Court.

A motion to suppress evidence was denied last week, and Adams' court dates still stood as of presstime, according to court records. A calendar call is scheduled today.

Adams and Reberger were arrested on Nov. 9 in Coos Bay, Ore., after police there received a bulletin from Nevada that they were suspected in a murder here. Oregon officers recognized the couple from a child-neglect investigation a day earlier regarding Adams' young son.

Both waived extradition, and Adams also waived her preliminary hearing. She was later found competent to stand trial following a psychiatric evaluation ordered by Las Vegas District Court.

She was remanded to Justice Court for a March 18 preliminary hearing, then was bound over for a jury trial, scheduled to begin on Monday.

United Methodist Church to host first craft festival

By Roy Theiss
News Staff Writer

While the United Methodist Church is still under construction, preparations have already been made for its opening this summer. Realizing the new church will be without numerous amenities—carpet, cabinets and temporary partition walls, churchgoers have organized to raise funds to acquire them.

The bank loan did not cover everything, said Lee Venable, building committee chairman. The church was able to get a $609,000 loan for the mortgage and the total construction costs.

To help raise funds, the church will conduct an arts and craft festival with a children's festival from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday in the Albertson's parking lot at the corner of Green Valley Parkway and Warm Springs Road. There will be 42 vendors on hand.

At the numerous booths, there will be talking balloons, removable tattoos, lithographs created by a local artist afflicted with Muscular Dystrophy, stone and wood carvings, hand crafts and much more.

There will be a bake sale and drinks available. The proceeds from the space rental and the concessions will go directly back to the church. The proceeds from the carnival will go to the Green Valley United Methodist youth

Children's theatre group to perform

The Rainbow Company, a Nevada children's theatre group, will present "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" Friday through Sunday at the Silver Springs amphitheater in the Green Valley neighborhood.

The Rainbow Company has performed in 11 states nationwide and appeared on 14 national television programs.

This special performance of "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" is free to the public. Tickets must be picked up in advance at the Silver Springs Recreation Center or call 435-3814.

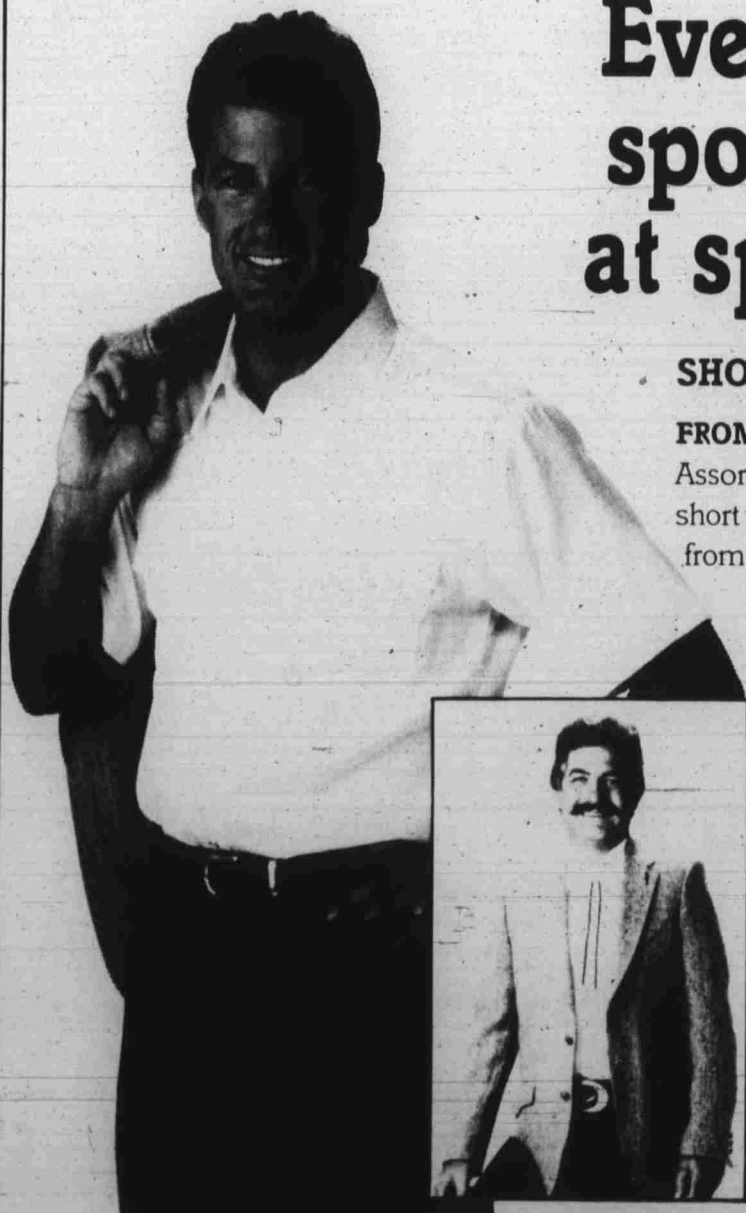

group, said Michele Beideman, chairwoman for the craft festival. The money will be used to buy books and to help fund various youth activities.

Beideman said the idea for the festival came after a couple of church members sat down and tried to think of ways to make money for their church. "At a rummage sale, the crafts sold so well that we decided to have a craft sale."

Beideman said she hopes this festival will be productive so the church can get on its feet. "We want a good showing so we can do it again next year. If it goes over well, we'll have more vendors next year."

Beideman was grateful for the Green Valley residents for making the carnival possible. "If it wasn't for the people in Green Valley, we wouldn't be able to have this."

Will Henderson be All America City?

By John Flaherty

Will Henderson, Nevada, become the first All America City in the state's history? We will all know the answer in just three days.

Bob Campbell heads up the presentation committee. This group will offer a 10-minute oral and visual presentation on Friday afternoon in San Antonio, Texas. They will highlight Henderson's citizens pulling together after the rocket fuel plant mishap and helping to reshape our community. St. Rose Dominican Hospital's expansion and the Community College, Henderson campus, will also be emphasized in the presentation.

Doris Feminella's exhibit group will put together a display booth for viewing by the judges and other competing cities on Friday evening. The exhibit will feature photos of activities by our citizens, a three-minute video about our city, an impressive balloon display and free samples from some of our local businesses and institutions.

The 10 winning All America Cities 1991 will be announced at a special presentation banquet Saturday evening. There will be at least 30 Henderson residents and committee members traveling to San Antonio to take part in this unique event. Neil Twitchell has done an outstanding job of chairing this group.

Mayor Loma Kesterson has suggested that the All America City Committee continue on after the competition is over. The committee members were selected from a cross-section of the entire city. There are people from all walks of life and who have many different perspectives of our town and what it could be. In total there are almost 40 citizens on this panel that could act as a sounding board for the various issues facing Henderson.

I feel the mayor has made a wise suggestion in that we keep this committee intact for the future.

This All America City quest has brought together people from private industry, education, local government and from other walks of life. These people have already brought Henderson honor just by being selected as one of 30 finalists to be considered for this award.

Clark County also applied for the All America City award. However, Henderson was the only Nevada city selected as a finalist. That in itself is quite an accomplishment. Maybe, by this time next week the headlines will read "Henderson named as All America City 1991."

Sign Design at Gibson Library Wednesday

Sign Design Theater will appear at the James I. Gibson Public Library at 4 p.m. Wednesday, as part of the library's summer reading program for children.

Sign Design is a local organization of hearing and hearing-impaired youngsters who combine sign language and song. They sing, dance and sign at the same time. The group formed as a way of promoting understanding of the deaf world.

Children who are interested in observing and learning a little sign language and fingerspelling are invited to the free program. No registration is necessary.

Think "No Points-No Fees" is a thing of the past?

Call BofA.

If you've been prospecting for a home equity line of credit lately, you might think "no points-no fees" has become an extinct species at some banks.

Well, at Bank of America Nevada the species is alive and well. We still help people take advantage of the equity in their homes without lots of annoying charges. That's why our CustomLine Equity account* is so popular. It's a revolving home equity line of credit with instant access to the funds you need simply by writing a check. And, of course, no points or fees to open your account.

So drop by or call us today. We'll show you that a great home equity line of credit isn't a thing of the past.

Senior Center Highlights

Anderson Volunteer of the Month for June 1991

By Chuck Colletta

Roy Anderson, a kind, helpful, and caring senior has been selected as the Henderson Senior Center Volunteer of the Month for June, 1991. He is a dedicated volunteer who serves with the nutrition and bingo programs. He helps make coffee for the center, assists the handicapped and participates as needed.

Anderson is 71 years young. He and Ona have been married for 46 years. They have one child, one grandchild and one great-grandchild. Their grandson is a strength coach at Northwestern University. Roy and Ona have been regulars at the center for more than three years. They moved to Henderson from California in 1963 to enable Roy to take a job here. He has worked as a driver, a glass blower, a security guard and a bartender. He retired in 1981. Anderson was born in Arkansas and was raised in Texas. He served in World War II, and then moved to the Pomona area in California where he met and married Ona.

The staff and volunteers of the center are proud of you, Roy Anderson. You are a very special person. Your warm and friendly personality help make the center a good place to come to. Thank you for all you do.

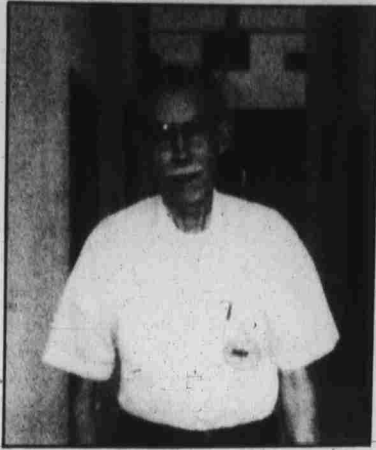

Stress Management Seminar

The pressures of this life cause stress in most of us. If it affects you, you should attend a free seminar to be held at the center on Wednesday, June 12 from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. This Stress Management Seminar is sponsored by the Clark County Health District. Attendance is limited to 30 persons, so registration is necessary. Jean Palmer and Sheri Foster will conduct the seminar. They will discuss the causes of stress and teach techniques to reduce and overcome this very common and very serious problem.

For Seniors Who Do Drive

All seniors are reminded that Department of Motor Vehicle personnel provide service at the center on the second Thursday of each month. The next scheduled visit is June 13. DMV personnel will be available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to renew Nevada driver's licenses, process changes of address and issue senior identification. While they do not renew out-of-state driver's licenses, they do issue the DMV Handbook which is needed to obtain a Nevada drivers license. Seniors are reminded they can renew their driver's license within six months of the expiration date without change of date of issue.

The DMV service at the center features no wait, no line and easy parking access. If your Nevada driver's license expires within the next six months, come to the center on Thursday, June 13, for a pleasant experience.

For Seniors Who Do Not Drive

At 1 p.m. Monday, June 10, Christie McCarty of the Nevada Taxicab Authority will be at the center to register seniors to qualify them to purchase subsidized transportation coupons by mail. This special registration eliminates the need to go to the T.C.A. Sahara Avenue office. Registration enables the senior to periodically purchase taxicab coupons at half price. If you do not drive, and are not registered with the Taxicab Authority, attendance on June 10 is essential for your benefit.

Special Events

On Friday, June 14, the center will celebrate Father's Day with a special menu and entertainment by the Young at Heart Senior Band. Prizes will be awarded for several categories of fathers.

The American War Mothers are scheduled to meet at the center on Monday, June 11, after lunch.

A bus trip to Laughlin, is available on Friday, June 14. There is a $2 non-refundable charge to register for this trip. The bus, sponsored by the Happy Travelers, leaves the center at 8:45 a.m. and returns at 6 p.m.

Scheduled Activities

The scheduled activities and events for the week are:

Monday, June 10: Assessor at 8 a.m., bridge at 8:30 a.m., tap dance class at 8:30 a.m., aerobic dance at 9 a.m., art class at 12:30 p.m., transportation for grocery shopping at 12:30 p.m., Senior Ride Coupon registration at 1 p.m. and cribbage at 1 p.m.

Reid blasts Bush plan to use exercise test

U.S. Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., recently blasted an effort by the Bush Administration to use an unreliable exercise test that is supposed to identify heart disorders. Reid is a member of the Senate Special Committee on Aging.

The Administration wants heart patients seeking disability to pedal a cycle or walk on a treadmill to qualify for benefits. Last year, the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York concluded that the test is unreliable more than one-third of the time in diagnosing ischemic heart disease, accounting for 60 percent of cardiovascular illness in the U.S., a spokesman said.

The Administration hopes to save money by using the controversial test, which is expected to disqualify thousands of heart patients who would have otherwise qualified for disability. The change has been criticized as unfair, since the test is so unreliable.

In attacking the controversial test, Reid said: "This is another example of bureaucrats in the Bush Administration being penny-wise, pound-foolish and reckless. I consider myself a fiscal conservative and want to save money wherever possible, but this test is about as reliable as going to a witch doctor or reading your horoscope to get a diagnosis for a serious health problem. If the bureaucrats get their way, thousands of sick people could be denied necessary help."

"If the Administration really wants to save money, they should give Social Security enough staff to process the current workload, so they stop sending checks to people who have passed away and other unnecessary payments."

handwriting time-consuming and often frustrating letters. The audio station presents well-known and loved children's stories that students listen to using earphones, accompanied by the companion book, from which they may follow along. The writing station, though requiring the most effort on the part of the child and teacher, is a great source of pride and accomplishment. Here they create and put to paper using special soft-leaded pencils, their original sentences and stories.

"Each child is given a journal at the beginning of the year," Halteman said. "The teacher makes the journal available to the child as he/she moves into and strengthens his or her skills in each stage of writing. The child then has a recorded memento of his or her early writing with illustrations and dates."

Does this sound like a mere kindergarten class? This is an innovative, multi-sensory program that simultaneously challenges and self-paces each student. Last year, 103 kindergarten students moved through as many stages of writing as they were comfortable with. The Hinman program consists of 15 minutes of opening, one hour in the WTR classroom and one hour in the Mathematics Their Way and Hands on Science program.

"With the coming of whole-language instruction, we found that the two philosophies could be a very complementary process," Halteman said. "The children listen to a story read every day. The year begins with a theme unit on nursery rhymes. We move on to favorite children's stories. Our classroom is surrounded with products of our literate culture. Available in our classroom are not only paper, markers, stamps and stamp pads, but a puppet stage, a gutted TV cabinet, a haunted house, settings for seasonal stories (a bean stalk for Jack to climb, a bamboo hut for the three pigs), easels, blackboards, scenery so that their stories can be presented, not just read, and so the students develop reading skills through their own writing.

"Children are encouraged to write what is near to their hearts.

Myrna Halteman

During the Pepcon blast, our class wrote reams. The pictures were graphic. Channel 8 interviewed the students and telecast their work. These stories now rest in our school time capsule to be opened in the year 2013. Parents are encouraged to drop in or volunteer as an aide. On Grandparent's Day the children wrote about their grandparent or a borrowed one. Guests are always welcome and are encouraged to take part in the writing process."

Halteman has taught the WTR program for the past seven years. She is a fourth year consultant for IBM, conducting in-services, yearly seminars and conventions. She is the only WTR consultant in Nevada, serving the Nome, Alaska, to Las Vegas area, which encompasses Seattle, San Francisco and Northern California, Utah and Idaho. Summers and many weekends are spent as a consultant for WTR and IBM has offered her a full-time job upon her retirement this year from the school district.

How did she become so deeply involved in the project? She was one of three strong kindergarten teachers trained the first year, while she was teaching a Chapter I-funded extended kindergarten. The children would attend a normal kindergarten and then complete an additional session using the WTR program. "Within two years, we had impacted the students, their level of success and gained the good will of the community," she said. "Our program took the national honor of one of the best disadvantaged programs in the United States for the year 1986-87. For the past eight years, I have worked with my present program and expanded it as we have moved into the whole-language philosophy. I have found that the children have gained confidence in writing. First grade teachers are delighted with their skills, parents are in awe, and older former students in the school wave to me in the hall and beam."

Halteman is the devoted mother of four young adults. Her plans are to travel with her husband in their motor home.

She is the recipient of many awards, among them, the Excellence in Compensatory Education from U.S. Secretary of Education, William Bennett (for the education of disadvantaged youth); and the Southern Nevada Teachers of English Teacher Recognition Award (for elementary school teachers) in 1990. She is the first kindergarten teacher ever to win the award.

In November 1990 she was selected as the outstanding educator at Edna Hinman Elementary School. The award is presented to one educator at each of the Henderson schools by the Henderson Chamber of Commerce.

May her travels be as rewarding as her teaching career.

SILVER STATE DISPOSAL Recycling News

Important recycling tips!

The cycle begins with you.

■ Thank you, Las Vegas, for your overwhelming participation in Silver State Disposal's recycling program. Roughly 75 percent of Las Vegas-area households are actively recycling. That's good news for the environment and for Southern Nevada!

On the curb by 7a.m.

■ Recyclables must be on your curb by 7a.m. on your scheduled recycling pickup days. Recycling is in addition to your regularly scheduled trash service. Recyclables are not picked up at the same time as your regular trash.

Important tip for newspapers.

■ On windy days, please tie newspapers in bundles or place them in bags before placing them into the white collection bins, which should always be stacked in the middle of the red and blue bins. This will prevent them from being scattered by the wind.

For info. call 735-5151.

■ Silver State Disposal Recycles Nevada is working hard to make sure that recycling goes smoothly. If you have any questions about recycling schedules or procedures, please call 735-5151. Thank you for your cooperation.

Major league teams hunt for Wolves in draft Sledge, Strehlow, Brady selected

By Pat McDonnell
News Sports Editor

For a trio of players with ties to Basic High School, this week's major league baseball draft was a dream realized.

Two regulars on the 1991 Wolves, senior shortstop-outfielder Chris Sledge and senior center fielder Robbie Strehlow, were selected by pro teams in the three-day draft of amateur players. Former Basic High second baseman Doug Brady, who played college-level ball at Liberty University, was also chosen.

Sledge, who hit .379 and stole 21 bases in his senior season with the Wolves, was picked Monday in the 11th round by the Los Angeles Dodgers. If he signs a pro contract, Sledge will report to Vero Beach, Fla., for a rookie-league camp.

"I thought, in a way, it would be [in a] lower round, but I didn't know," Sledge said Tuesday afternoon. "I got my foot in the door."

Brady, a member of the 1987 Class AAA state champion Wolves, was taken Monday by the Chicago White Sox in the 12th round. A regional award-winner at shortstop with the NCAA Division I Liberty Flames, Brady will likely sign a pro contract and begin minor-league play with Utica, N.Y., in the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Strehlow, a senior team leader with the 1991 Wolves, was selected Tuesday in the 22nd round by the St. Louis Cardinals. If the Cardinals are successful in their bid to sign Strehlow, the speedster is apparently headed for Peoria, Ariz., where he would compete for one of St. Louis' Rookie League clubs.

"It's nice to see your kids go on [to the next level of play]," Basic High baseball coach Gary Chaires said Tuesday. "That's the ultimate that our program can do."

H. Dan Taylor, a Western regional scout for the Chicago Cubs, said the Dodgers gained a strong prospect in Sledge, a player noted for his quick bat and excellent speed.

"The Dodgers were fortunate in getting Chris," he said. "He's a good athlete. I expect big things from him."

Another former Basic player continued to move up the organizational ladder with the Cardinals. St. Louis scout Manny Guerra said 1988 Wolves graduate Scott Baker, a left-handed pitcher, was recently promoted to the team's top Class A minor-league club, the St. Petersburg, Fla., Cardinals.

MAKING QUICK STRIDES—Basic High shortstop-right fielder Chris Sledge was nabbed by the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday in the 11th round of major league baseball's free-agent draft. Some pro scouts speculated Sledge would be selected as high as the third round in the three-day draft.

GV held to one hit

Pugh, hot Timet bats push Wolves past Gators

By Pat McDonnell
News Sports Editor

The first baseball game between the Timet Wolves and Green Valley Gators was marked by extremes.

That's extremes, as in extremely good pitching, extremely hot hitting and a vast difference in the final score.

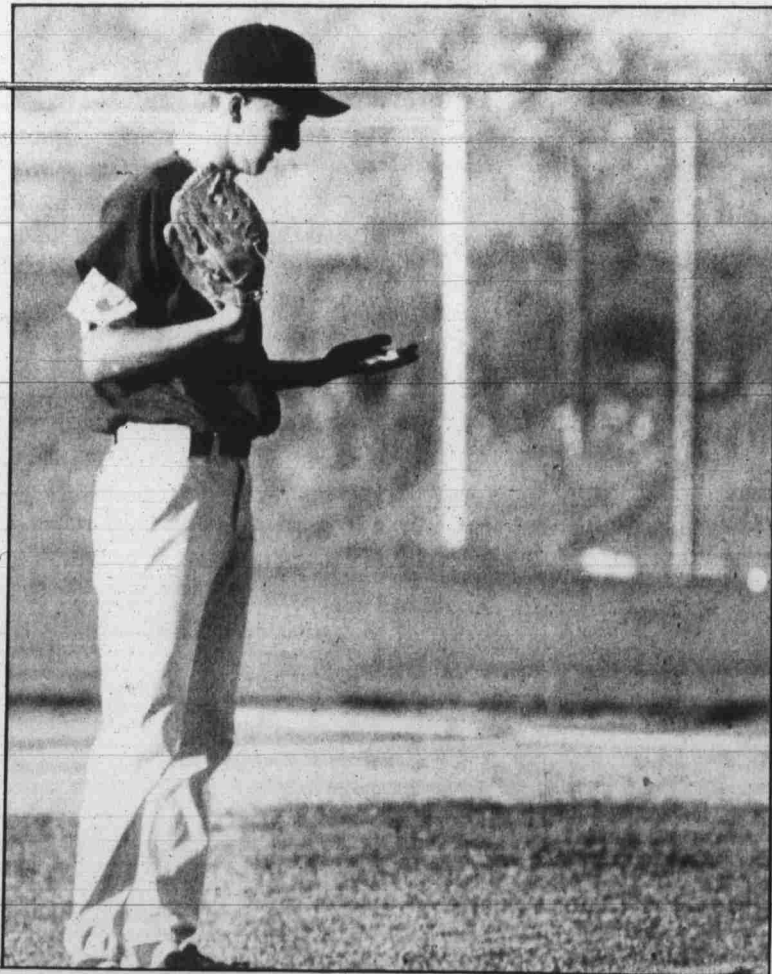

Timet gained an 11-1 six-inning American Legion triumph against its city rival Tuesday at Burkholder Field, scoring three times in its last at-bat to win by the 10-run rule. The Wolves were aided by a one-hit pitching performance by Danny Pugh and an explosive offensive attack that produced seven runs in the first three innings.

With the win, Timet improved to 5-0 overall and 3-0 in league. Green Valley is 1-3 in four league games.

The middle of the Timet batting order accounted for most of the damage versus Green Valley starting pitcher Tom LaRosa and reliever Chad Stevenson. Wolves cleanup hitter Kevin Clark had three hits, three runs scored and twice drove in runs with singles. Shane Wilson, the fifth-place hitter, was 3-for-4 with a run scored and three runs batted in. Wilson brought home the game-winning runs in the sixth with a single.

A poor defensive effort appeared to unnervethe Gators in the late innings. Green Valley fielders committed one error in the third, fourth and fifth innings and misplayed the ball twice in the sixth. Head Coach Sam Thomas said the Gators cannot improve unless they become more alert in the field.

"We're hoping to get better every game," he said. "They took a step down instead of a step up. We've got to be more aggressive."

Pugh had little trouble attacking the Green Valley batters, as he held the Gators hitless for the first five innings. Pinch hitter Stevenson recorded Green Valley's first safety with a bloop double to open the sixth. For the game, Pugh totaled eight strikeouts and walked just two Gator batters.

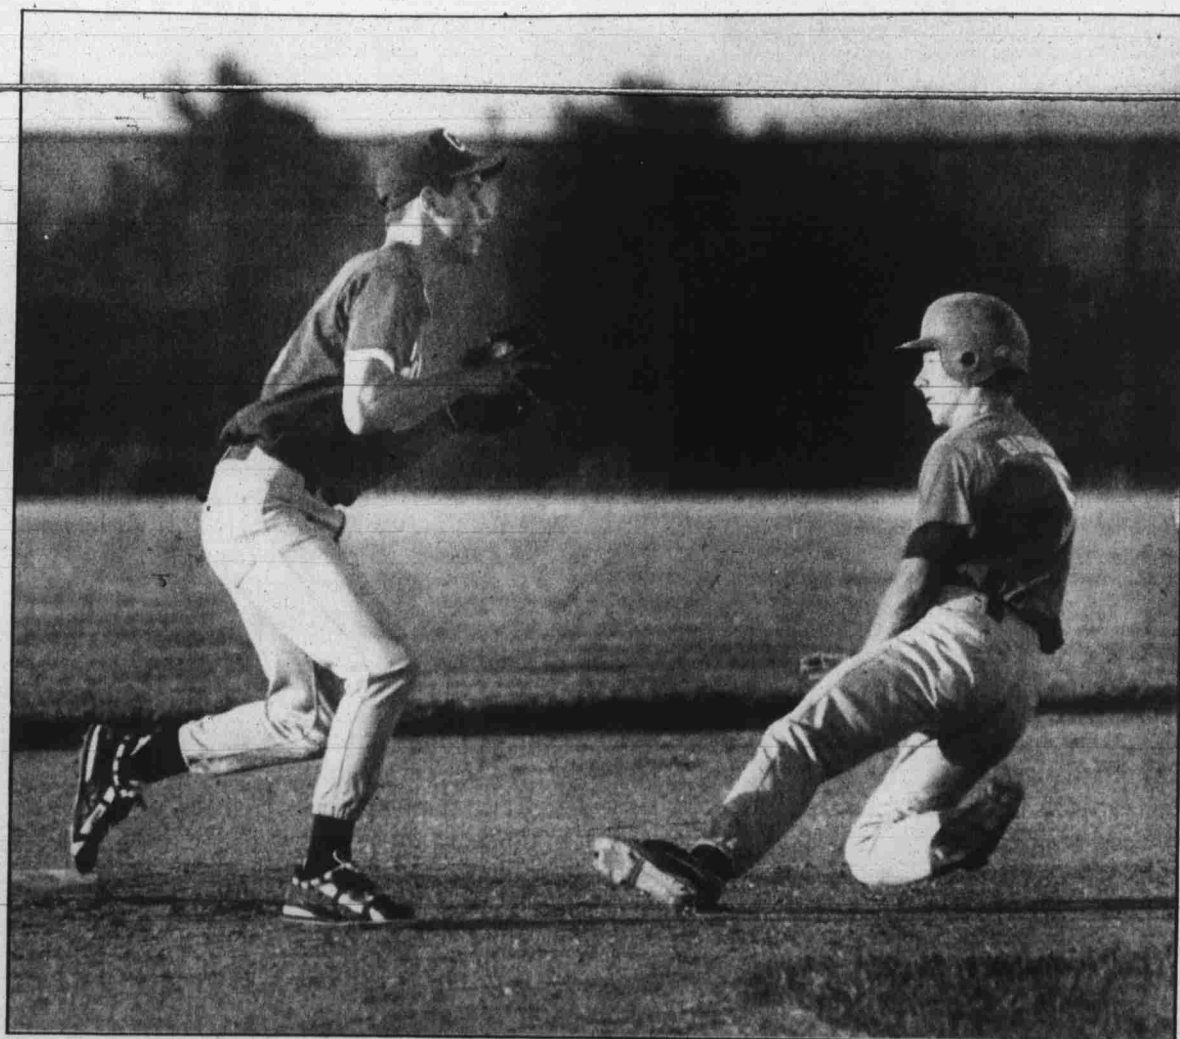

"I've been getting better and I'm throwing harder," Pugh said. "That's the fastest game I've ever thrown."

With one out in the home half of the first, the Wolves used four consecutive singles to score their first three runs. With runners on first and third, Timet first baseman Matt Kilar tripled in two runs to cap the rally and give the Wolves a 5-0 lead.

In the third, Timet's Dennis Crine singled home Clark, who had doubled to start the inning. After Crine's hit increased the Wolves' margin to 6-0, Timet tallied again when Green Valley first baseman Brett Primack could not handle LaRosa's pickoff attempt. On the error, Crine scored from third.

The Wolves upped their lead to 8-0 in the fourth with two more hits. Biddinger opened the inning with a double and he scored on Clark's single to center field. Stevenson's leadoff hit in the sixth gave the Gators just their fourth base runner of the night. One out later, LaRosa reached on an error and Stevenson moved to third. Green Valley's Steve Stith then hit a grounder to short, which was bobbled for an error by Timet's Wes Brasher, allowing Stevenson to score.

The Wolves' Ed Bustamante began Timet's winning rally with a double to center. Brasher was hit by a pitch and Clark reached on a double error by third baseman Isaac Gornichec, scoring Bustamante. With men on second and third and no outs, Wilson lined a single into the outfield to score Brasher and Clark with the decisive runs.

Timet Coach Gary Chaires said Pugh continues to improve on the mound.

"He's gonna be a dandy pitcher at this level and I think he can pitch on the collegiate level," Chaires said.

Many of the senior-class Wolves will participate in Friday's 3:30 p.m. Optimist High School All-Star baseball game at Cashman Field. Timet's next Legion action comes Saturday, when the Wolves play an evening doubleheader at Sunset Park. The opening game of the twinbill starts at 5:30.

Lines from the lanes

By Ruth Soehlke

SENIOR STRIKE FORCE AT SHOWBOAT LANES: The opening day for the big Professional Bowlers Association Seniors Invitational at the Showboat Hotel and Casino was June 3. The event is big for toumey entrants, as more than 350 bowlers are vying for first prize. It is the largest tournament field in a PBA event since 1984 and the most popular senior event ever.

Because of the throng of participating bowlers, it will require 46 total games to get to the finals, as opposed to the normal 36 games.

Match play begins today with the top 24 qualifiers bowling two six-game blocks at 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. The top five bowlers after match play will advance to Saturday's nationally televised stepladder finals, which begin at noon. The championship will be broadcast live on ABC-TV.

Bowling fans will enjoy watching some of their favorite keglers from the past returning to action. Among the notable bowlers expected to compete are: Dick Weber, Earl Anthony, Dave Soutar, Wayne Zahn, Bill Bunetta, Don McCune, Tetea Semiz, Las Vegas' Don Johnson and John Hricsina, last year's senior bowler of the year.

JOINT RULE BOOKS SET FOR WIBC AND ABC: During the annual meeting of the Women's International Bowling Congress April 22-24 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, WIBC delegates adopted an amendment allowing WIBC and the American Bowling Congress to publish a joint rule book for use by their members in the upcoming season.

"This is a great way for WIBC to celebrate its 75th anniversary," WIBC Executive Secretary-Treasurer Flora Mitchell said. "This shows our delegates are prepared for the future."

WIBC delegates also adopted the following resolutions:
 1.) Support WIBC's involvement with the Special Olympics.
 2.) Give interim authority to the WIBC Board of Directors to amend the lane dressing inspection procedure.
 3.) Provide the WIBC Board of Directors with the authority to issue

WIBC membership cards and provide some WIBC services to bowlers competing in non-certified bowling centers.

Summer is here, if not according to the calendar, at least according to the boxing schedule.

There are always plenty of fights during the summer months. The June 1 Terry Norris-Donald Curry/Meldrick Taylor-Luis Garcia card in Palm Springs, Calif., kicked off the slate of top boxing matchups. Two days later, the Virgil Hill-Thomas Hearn/Humberto Gonzalez-Melchor Cob Castro/Troy Dorsey-Alfred Rangel card at Caesars Palace offered further action in the ring.

One of the next world title fights in Las Vegas takes place June 29, when new International Boxing Federation Middleweight Champion James Toney, the fighter who upset previously unbeaten Michael Nunn, puts his title on the line against Reggie Johnson.

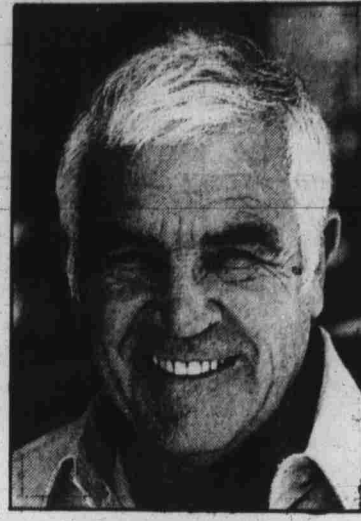

Still close to home, area fight fans can see IBF Junior Lightweight Champion Tony Lopez putting his crown up for grabs against Lupe Gutierrez July 12 at a Lake Tahoe location. Lopez is meeting Gutierrez and passing on a rematch with World Boxing Association Junior Lightweight Champion Brian Mitchell, whom Lopez recently fought to a draw. The Lopez-Mitchell matchup had been set for an undetermined July date in Sacramento, Calif.

Also scheduled next month in a city to be named is a title defense by IBF Light Heavyweight Champion Prince Charles Williams.

Other world title fights slated for this summer include: World Boxing Council Super Middleweight Champion Mario Galvano facing off with Ronnie Essett, WBC Strawweight Champion Ricardo Lopez going against Kyungyun Lee and WBC Featherweight Champion Marcos Villasana meeting Paul Hodkinson. If Villasana defeats Hodkinson, he is scheduled to meet Ricardo Cepeda.

In the next few months, Tom Johnson is also slated to get a crack at the IBF junior lightweight title.

At the end of the summer, there is a good possibility that championship action will include former WBA Junior Lightweight and WBC Super Lightweight Champion Roger Mayweather, of Las Vegas, against Rafael Pineda for the IBF junior welterweight championship. Other late-summer matchups may include Kennedy McKinney, of Las Vegas, against Luis Mendoza for the WBA junior featherweight championship, and a title defense by IBF Junior Lightweight Champion Michael Carbajal. A scheduled June title defense for Carbajal was postponed due to an injury.

can recall people like this who ask you to go fishing only to show you what a great angler they were. To you it was to be an enjoyable fishing trip to get away from it all; to them it was an ego trip as they tried to prove to you what a great angler they were.

To me, fishing should always be enjoyable. After all, it's a hobby like golf, bowling, tennis or many other sports. Currently fishing is the fourth most popular sport in America. Some 70 million anglers pursue this pastime and each year its following grows by leaps and bounds.

How many good friends or family members do you have that you would just like to sit down with and talk to about things important to both of you — goals, dreams, problems or just spending some quality time together? This can happen on any fishing trip. It starts with the ride to the lake or your favorite stream. Making a list of the things you need for a week-long trip or just for a day takes some planning.

When was the last time you really listened to what your wife, son or daughter really had to say? There is no better time to listen what these loved ones have to say than sitting either on or near your favorite fishing spot. How about that friend or buddy that you kind of drifted away from, but really would like to spend some more time with? It's easy. Just pick up the phone and say, "Let's go fishing." Chances are they will jump at the chance, not so much for the catching as for the time together.

Fishing remains slow, both in the Lower Basin and on the River. Those experiencing the best success are those fishing outside structures and chumming for stripers. The bass have finished their spawn and have moved from the shallows back to the outside points. Keep your hooks sharp and good fishing!

Many people take fishing too seriously and then wonder why they don't enjoy it. Going to your favorite lake or stream with friends or family members in order to compete against them only adds additional pressure and many times turns friends or loved ones away from wanting to fish with you anymore. I'm sure if you think about it you

I'd Rather Be Boating

By Don Holladay

O.K., so the boat is all ready to go. You've cleaned her top and bottom. That steering problem seems solved. It cost you a couple of hundred to have her tuned, though he had told you only a hundred. Oh well, he did find and fix the oil leak. All the life jackets, fenders and line, including adding 50 more feet to the anchor line, are aboard, and the VHF is finally fixed and back in after it kept cutting out. A couple of things didn't get fixed, but they're minor, you can do those later. However, if you need this space to tell you to put gas in the boat, call this newspaper and ask for classified. Now let's see, have a government chart of the lake, radio in good shape, family is certainly ready to go, but above all, the weather (including temperature) is right. No doubt about it. It is time to go boating!

Start by looking at your charts of the various Lake Mead areas. To some "salts" who have found the lake by exploring, this may seem like a waste of time, but to the newcomer, this is the best way to learn the 700 miles of shoreline called Lake Mead.

The lake is divided by Boulder Canyon into the upper and lower basin. Find that canyon on your chart and then figure where you want to go. Take part of your time this summer to explore Lake Mead. With the use of your chart, plus a cove map that is available, spend some time searching those areas that only the sheep, burros, and coyotes and bass fishermen keep to themselves. I too hate to see our lakes becoming so crowded, but then we all should enjoy the adventure.

Prior to going to the lake, sit down and decide which area you would like to start exploring. Don't try to cover too much lake on one trip. If the weather report looks good, shoot for the far reaches of the upper basin and enjoy Echo Bay or Temple Bar. If the weather is unpredictable, stay closer to your marina or launch area. Pay attention to coves, inlets and beaches as you head for your destination. This is how we have all learned the lakes whether we be adventurer, fisherman, skier or scuba diver. Take time to learn the proper cove, island and bay names, according to the chart, of each area you visit. One day it may save a life in answering a call for help.

As one of Lake Mead's top skippers, Leon Critz advises you to "Memorize the shoreline silhouettes for moving at night, the coves and bays for needing help at anytime, but only figure the depths on a trip-to-trip basis, because your depth on Lake Mead is a constant change."

We are into National Safe Boating Week across these United States June 2-8. Boating safety starts with you, the Skipper. However, there are some very dedicated people in Clark County and across the country who should receive credit for making special times, such as Safe Boating weeks possible.

Wilderness Society sets park goals

Reductions in traffic and air pollution, reform of concessioner policy, reintroduction of lost species and creation of new parks are five of the goals that the Wilderness Society set for the National Park System as the system celebrates its first 75 years.

"Other cultures are known for their art, their architecture or their music," said Wilderness Society President George T. Frampton, Jr., in releasing the report. "Our country is famous for its landscapes. An earlier generation had the good sense to protect some of them as national parks, and it is now up to us to make sure they are not spoiled."

"Unfortunately, we are not doing a very good job," Frampton said. "Our parks are being forced to swallow too many cars, their views are being damaged by pollution, and their wildlife is losing ground. As we look ahead 25 years to the park system's centennial, we must rededicate ourselves to protecting this natural legacy."

The National Park System and the National Park Service were created by a law signed Aug. 25, 1916, by President Woodrow Wilson. At that time, there were 11 national parks, the oldest being Yellowstone, established in 1872. Today the system consists of 357 units covering more than 80 million acres, and the number of recreation visitors is nearing 275 million a year.

The Wilderness Society report called for establishment of four new units, in California, Oregon, Kansas, and St. Croix. In addition, the document urged that very serious consideration be given to designating park sites in Massachusetts, Nebraska, Alabama and the northern forests of New England.

"Meantime, we should put all the biological pieces back together in existing parks," Frampton said. For example, the report proposed reintroducing the California condor in Grand Canyon National park and the Mexican gray wolf in Big Bend National Park, located in Texas.

The Society criticized Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan's report to Congress, in which he laid out a long-awaited plan for reintroducing the gray wolf in Yellowstone. "This plan is supposed to be a road map for recovery," said Frampton, "but it looks more like a roadblock." Arguing for reform of the Concessions Policy Act of 1965, the report said, "The time has come to decide that the national parks will be a breed apart from amusement parks. Commercialism must be scaled back."

Other goals spelled out in the document are:

- Designation of more of existing national park acreage as wilderness so that roads and structures would not be built;
 - Greater funding of science and research;
 - Managing the parks as part of ecosystems by coordinating management with nearby jurisdictions;
 - Restoration of ecologically damaged areas; and
 - Increased support of the interpretation program.
- The report called current funding of the parks inadequate. "This year's Park Service operations budget amounts to one Stealth bomber ($862 million) with a $15 million cost overrun," it said.

The Wilderness Society, founded in 1935, is a national non-profit group that specializes in public lands issues. It has 390,000 members and 16 offices.

'Free Fishing Day' Saturday

By David K. Rice

Gov. Bob Miller has proclaimed Saturday as "Free Fishing Day" in Nevada, urging anglers, "...to participate in this special day and discover the mental and physical benefits of the day spent fishing."

On Saturday only, anyone in the state may fish without purchasing a license and trout stamp. However, all other laws and regulations pertaining to fishing apply, including limits, bait and tackle restrictions and area closures as contained in the Nevada Fishing Seasons and Regulations brochure.

In his proclamation, Miller said that sport fishing provides healthful recreation for more than 150,000 Nevada residents and visitors annually. "Fishing also promotes respect for our state's precious waters, wilderness and wildlife," he said.

A no-license "Free Fishing Day" was authorized by the 1987 Nevada State Legislature, with the June 8 date approved by the Nevada Board of Wildlife Commissioners.

With the passage of the enabling legislation, Nevada joined more than 35 other states where one or two days a year are set aside to emphasize the values of fishing and to encourage families to participate in the sport of angling.

according to Nevada Department of Wildlife.

Anglers taking advantage of "Free Fishing Day" can expect favorable success at most streams, lakes and reservoirs, despite the drought, according to NDOW. Releases of hatchery-reared trout began in early March this year due to low precipitation levels and corresponding low water levels expected at most fishable waters later this year.

Information on fishing conditions, recent releases of trout, boating and boat launch status is available though NDOW's Reno office, as well as offices located in Fallon, Elko, Ely and Las Vegas.

Hoover Dam tours change to longer summer schedule

Hoover Dam tours will be conducted daily from 8 a.m. to 5:45 p.m., Project Manager Ben Wilkinson announced recently.

The extended tour hours will continue through Labor Day, Sept. 2, at which time the 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. winter schedule will be resumed, Wilkinson said.

Charges for the 35-minute guided tours remain $1 for adults and 50 cents for bearers of Golden Age or Golden Access Passports. Children under 16 years of age are admitted free.

More than 27 million people have toured the dam and powerplant since Jan. 1, 1937, when the tours began.

Free shuttle bus service from outlying parking areas is being provided to ease congestion while the visitor center construction program is under way. Construction is scheduled for completion in 1993.

The Las Vegas Power Squadron and the local Coast Guard Auxiliary deserve much more credit than local boaters give them. An even sadder situation is that so many boats have been sold by dealers—dealers who do not advocate any great safety procedures aboard their boat.

With most dealer sales, and in all private sales, the boat buyer is not urged to look into organized safety classes, or even shown too many proper procedures of safely for skipping his boat. One often finds the wife, his second mate, not so laid back when it comes to the safety procedures aboard their boat.

And so to all members of the Las Vegas Power Squadron Flotillas and the Coast Guard Auxiliary here in Las Vegas, a heartfelt "Thank You" for being able to convert many somewhat "careless" skippers into concerned and attentive Lakes Mead and Mohave captains. This is accomplished through your classes on boating safety, plus your uniformed presence at the marinas and on the lakes.

"See you on the lake...."

Lake Mead Yacht Tours has been conducting tours to Hoover Dam from Lake Mead Marina for many years. Recently, it was announced that the company was changing the name to Lake Mead Cruises.

with visitor safety and park resources protection.

"Larry is always ready to respond to whatever comes, day or night, whether it be a motor vehicle accident, a boater in distress or a visitor requesting information or assistance," said Park Superintendent Alan O'Neill.

Hanneman began his career with the National Park Service in 1961 on the Natchez Trace Parkway.

His career has taken him to jobs of increasing responsibility in Great Smoky Mountains National Park, Dinosaur National Monument and Badlands National Park before his promotion to Overton District Ranger at Lake Mead in 1974.

Over the years, he has been recognized with awards for his efficiency and dedication to duty, a spokesman said.

Chief Ranger Newton Sikes said Larry is "the kind of person who brings pride and respect to an organization."

Additional information may be obtained by calling Associate Professor Porter Troutman in UNLV's College of Education at 739-3369.

The company will still conduct the same cruises to Hoover Dam at 10:30 a.m., noon, 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m., and also chartering the boats to private parties for swim and barbecue cruises. For more information on cruises, call 293-6180.

Cattlemen's 'Ride Herd' on public lands debate

The Western livestock industry this week unveiled a massive public education effort aimed at showcasing the economic and environmental benefits that flow from the practice of grazing cattle on public lands.

The national effort is being undertaken by the National Cattlemen's Association, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the Association of National Grasslands, the American Sheep Industry Association and the Public Lands Council.

Joe Etchart, president of the Public Lands Council, and Jack Metzger, vice chairman of the Public Lands Committee of the National Cattlemen's Association, kicked off the livestock industry program in Nevada Monday. They and their colleagues will visit seven states by mid-June, including Arizona, Utah, New Mexico, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

"We western ranchers are often referred to as 'The Quiet Conservationists,'" Etchart said. "Well, we may be quiet, but we intend to be heard on the issue of public lands."

As part of their national education program, Etchart, Metzger, and their colleagues are distributing a 30-page report on the economic and environmental impact of the public lands grazing fee, as well as fact sheets, brochures and other literature. The livestock industry also plans to distribute informational videos, conduct briefings for Congress and participate in local news and public affairs programs throughout the country.

"We want to put straight some points obscured or typically misunderstood about the Western cattle rancher. Who we are. Our contribution to the environment. Our contribution to our industry, our states and, ultimately, our country," Metzger said.

"No one is more concerned with the viability of western public rangeland resources than the ranchers who are its stewards," Etchart said. "All of us, ranchers and non-ranchers alike, depend on this partnership — one that benefits the West, the western range environment and the nation as a whole."

20TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

NEW LIFE ANNIVERSARY—New Life students and visitors from all over the world will attend New Life Foundation's 20th Anniversary celebration this weekend. Special talks and entertainment are planned, along with a buffet luncheon. All area residents are invited to attend. Dress is casual. Call 293-4444 for more information and cost.

Special events this weekend at New Life

"New Life cordially invites friends and visitors throughout Nevada and neighboring states to attend its 20th Anniversary celebration in Boulder City," New Life spokesperson Joan Philips said. "Helping People For 20 Years" is the theme for special activities planned this Friday through Sunday. Dress is always casual at New Life events.

Actor Desi Amaz Jr. and his wife Amy, operastar Nancy Shade, motivational author Guy Finley, and popular writer and lecturer Dr. Jesse Freeland are among the student celebrities who will be there. Doctors, counselors, psychologists and educators from across the U.S. are planning to attend festivities to honor New Life founder and director Vernon Howard.

The celebration will be held at the Foundation's headquarters at 700 Wyoming St., at the corner of Utah Street. Visitors from out of town can take Boulder Highway into Boulder City, turn right at Wyoming Street then proceed to the five-way stop. The New Life building is on the left.

Vernon Howard, whose inspirational books have helped thousands of men and women throughout the world, will speak at 7 p.m. Friday. At 9 a.m. Saturday psychiatrist Dr. Jesse Freeland, psychologist Dr. Ellen Dickstein and bible scholar the Rev. Jim Serada will lead an informative and lively discussion on "Finding A True Source of Help." An all-you-can-eat buffet luncheon will be served after the talks, along with a large assortment of desserts.

In honor of the 20th Anniversary, the entertainment by students will feature 20 favorite acts from New Life banquets, including a selection from "Carmen," sung by internationally famous opera star Nancy Shade, Scottish dancing by the Thundercloud Brothers, the New Life Barbershop Quartet singing All-American favorites, a Broadway song and dance by the Sunbeam Sisters, a tango performed by Jeannette and Tony Marcoaldi, the Russian Dancers, folk dancing by the New Life Pretties Dance Ensemble, and The Tappers. Between each performance five-second jokes of good, clean humor will be acted out. The show is fast-paced and exciting—enjoyable for all family members.

Inspirational author Howard will speak again at 9 a.m. Sunday. Call 293-4444 for more information and cost.

New Life Foundation is an internationally recognized non-denominational learning center for studies in spiritual psychology. Howard's books have a worldwide audience of over seven million readers in eight languages including German and French.

Informal classes are held at New Life Foundation each week at 7 p.m. Wednesday and Friday and at 9 a.m. Saturday and Sunday on a donation basis.

We Did It Before and We Can Do It Again . . .

Last year more than 600 needy or handicapped children went to summer camp because you cared. You helped bring joy to the hearts of these boys and girls and it was deeply appreciated.

We are hoping to send more youngsters to camp this summer but we cannot do it without your help. We earnestly solicit your support again this year. Campership costs an average $150 per child. Can we count on you?

Just so you know how your money is spent, here is the report from last year.

Work of Nevada inventors reviewed

By Phillip I. Earl

Nevadans have always been of a creative bent, but few have been accorded the recognition they deserve for some significant contributions to American society.

Phillip Deidesheimer, designer of the famed square-set timbering system in use throughout the world, remains almost unknown today, as does Andrew S. Hallidie, inventor of flat-wire cable, who is remembered only in San Francisco where the large Bay Area Rapid Transit station at Powell and Market Street bears his name. H.L. "Hub" Cummings, a shop foreman for the Nevada Northern Railroad, Ely, should somewhere be honored as the father of the diesel turbine engine which bears his name, but he remains in obscurity.

For the most part, we have only a vague notion of what many Nevada inventions consisted of and how they looked. What does the "new and improved" telegraph key patented by H.A. Waldo of Reno in 1889 look like, or the "Improved Repeating Telegraph" patented by George Palmer of Reno in 1905 while working for Western Union in Elko? Perhaps the means of sending telegraph messages from moving trains invented by Renoite Dwight Jones in 1908 is still in use somewhere. We could all benefit from the "Grasshopper Harvesting Machine" developed by J.I. Jones of Fallon in 1915.

The "All-In-One Adjustable Golf Club" invented by the Reverend Alphonse Gavin in Goldfield in 1925 and manufactured by Novaclub Inc. might still be found in someone's bag today. What about the "Automatic Money Changer" perfected by C.R. Dodge of Reno in 1910, the "seed cleaning machine" patented by Harry R. Warren, Yerington, 1925, or the wagon powered by a "crank gear" built by the Reverend J.W. Pendleton of Unionville in 1878? In the same vein, whatever became of the "new type of fire escape" patented by James Lee Gregory of Washoe City in 1894, the "Wire Hot Plate Lifter" invented by Frank Parson, a Nevada State Prison inmate, in 1878, the "Protective Top For Chimneys" designed by John Newmark of Reno in 1901 and the paper horseshoes for racehorses invented by a Reno blacksmith, Charles Ferrell, in 1900? Is the "Steam Sled" built by Amos Lane of Truckee in 1891 the predecessor of today's snowmobile? What about the "new high explosive" discovered by Beatrice Rudawsky of Reno in 1916?

Many other Nevada inventions have a modern-day equivalent or are related to particular economic activities. In December 1929, George R. Dobbins of Reno announced the invention of a money satchel designed to frustrate bank robbers. The teller or messenger could pull a trigger which would activate a time mechanism. A minute or so later, blank cartridges and a smelly gas bomb would go off, providing the police with a noisy, odoriferous trail to follow. According to the announcement, the Bankers and Underwriters Protective Association had bought the rights to market the device. The "Potato Digging Machine" invented by Thomas Saddler of Glendale sounds practical, as does the "improved winch" for moving houses put on the market by Jerome Alber of Reno in 1900, the "Sun Powered Motor" invented by a Captain Erickson of Winnemucca in 1888, Robert Baker's "New Improved Windmill," 1890, and the "Diamond Drill Well Sinking Machine" designed by mining engineers Gilbert M. Ross and Daniel Grant of Virginia City in September 1883.

Mining is also represented by an "Improved Miners' Candlestick" patented in April 1883, by John C. Martin, George T. Redsell and William M. Rogers, Tuscarora, the "Metallode" perfected by Renoite S.L. Stoner in 1907 which would supposedly detect underground gold and silver deposits and the "Patent Cage and Life Protector," a safety device to be used on mine cages which was invented by Larkin Richardson of Virginia City in May 1891. The automatic cage stops, could be activated by the men on the cage and were reported to be entirely independent of the control of the hoist engineer. E.K. Ray's removable points for miners' picks, 1882, sounds innovative, as does a process invented in 1920 by George Wingfield, Walter Trent and other Tonopah men to produce commercial fuel from the low-grade coal found in Nevada.

In the realm of household technology, Halleck Mayer of Elko is credited with the invention of a "reproduction funnel" to control the sound of phonographs. A Sparks railroader, G.H. Cooper, held the patent on a reel for electrical cords; W.W. Baldwin, Reno, was the inventor of the "Non-Refillable Bottle;" Miss Maggie Griffin of Carlin was once known for her design of a new type of electrical wall fixture, and Mrs. K.H. Rawles of Fernley perfected the "Kleenland Prepared Stove Cloth" in 1923. A "Fountain Pen Lamp" was invented by H.E. Blaisdell and J.W. Simpson of Sparks in 1905, and Sam Johnson of the rail city is credited with creating the rubber bathtub mat which prevents slipping in the shower. Miss Bessie Murphy, Carson City, was the inventor of the "Perforated Pot Lid" which enabled housewives to draw off water from a pot without lifting the lid.

And there are inventions which might well be hoaxes of some sort. Frank Osbiston's "Combined Butter Chum and Accordian" for example. The cream was to be poured into the lower portion of the instrument and wooden attachments on the keys would chum the butter as the player performed. Dan DeQuille's "Explosive Boot Jack" to throw at the cats which disturbed his sleep surely falls into this category, as does the beer glass invented by a Comstock saloonman which had a large frosted concave bulge in the bottom so the customer got only a half-glass of beer for his money and was none the wiser when he left. Father Thomas McGrath, a Comstock Methodist clergyman, was said to have perfected a register to be attached to the collection plate. Each coin dropped in would ring a bell and register its own denomination. He believed that this would "circumvent any design which the man taking up the collection may have on the exchequer of the Lord." The editor of the Virginia Evening Chronicle of July 24, 1878, agreed. "No well-regulated church should be without one," he commented. And so it was.

Weekly Sermon

'Our potness'

By Rev. Dr. Phillip A. Hausknecht
Christ the Servant
Lutheran Church

Sometimes I discover solace in and wonder at the majesty of life in fellowship with people who are not connected with any church. These people are so full of marvelousness of the gift of human life. And I wonder why we all do not reflect this same treasure of living life. At the same time, I marvel at the emptiness in living that we sometimes communicate.

What is it all about? That ancient Saint and sinner, Paul, wrote: "... we hold this treasure in pots of earthenware, so that the immensity of the power is God's and not our own" (2 Corinthians 4:7). Yes, we hold a treasure — life itself. By the grace of God every human being is created to hold this special treasure. Every person is a unique treasure, loved by the creator.

If God is the potter, we are the clay pot (Isaiah 64:8). The question, then, is what we are going to hold with our pot of life that God has gifted us. Are we going to reflect the marvel and joy of the creation of life in us? Or are we going to be just a clay pot where the treasure does not grow and bloom?

We are created free by God, but we often distort the life our pot holds. We have not heard or do not believe the good news that we are loved. So our clay pot of life grows weeds instead of flowers.

For some of us an earthenware pot exists just as a common container that is just a catch-all for anything and nothing in particular. We have some of those gathering dust in the garage or out behind the building. For others, this earthenware pot glows with harbor: "We are subjected to every kind of hardship, but never distressed; we see no way out but never despair; we are pursued but never cut off; knocked down, but still have some life in us" (2 Cor. 4:8f).

These are persons who know that their pot of life, their potness is a gift. They realize that their pot is not everything. Rather, their pot reflects the grandeur and glory and joy of the gift they hold: "we carry with us... Jesus so that the life of Jesus, too, may be visible in our body" (Ibid., verse 10).

The life of Jesus reflects His Spirit which is freedom — freedom to make good decisions, freedom to believe the good news. And the Spirit of Jesus "produces love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, humility, and self-control" (Galatians 5:22) — all that in an earthenware pot, our lives.

Our life may seem like a disaster. We may be part of the walking wounded. We may be overweight or lonely or friendless or unemployed or ill or whatever — and most of us have some kind of whatever. But God in grace has gifted us with the "treasure" within us. We do not have to be slave to whatever or whomever prevents us from really being alive.

The spirituality that we hunger for is freely available in the Word of God and the food of the Sacrament of the Altar. We can be refreshed and nourished as we gather with all the other pots who gather to believe the good news. You will be welcome by all who hold this treasure of life as they gather in worship and fellowship. Worship at the church of your choice this Sunday and believe the good news about the treasure that you hold in your pot.

beauty as it holds and displays plant or flower life.

What the pot of our life holds reflects the spirituality of our life. In the film "Pretty Woman," The heroine is a prostitute off the streets of Los Angeles. In an intimate moment when she tells her story of how she resorted to this lifestyle in order to survive, she is honestly told the good news that she is a unique and special person; she has many gifts. She retorts that she wants to believe this, "but it's easier to believe the bad news about yourself."

The good news is that in the film, the good news wins out and she blossoms as a person. The good news is that in graciousness God has given us the "treasure" of life. "We hold" it so that it may grow and bloom. Everyone needs to hear this good news — that we hold this treasure of life; that we hold this treasure: that we hold this treasure.

It is often the case that persons struggling with poverty or illness or grave problems value and express the "treasure" of life the most. They are alive and a joy to be around. They have discovered the core of the "treasure" they

Chief Justice Mowbray honored

John C. Mowbray, chief justice of the Nevada Supreme Court, was honored by his peers following a keynote address May 30 to delegates at the State Bar of Nevada Annual Meeting in Laughlin.

Mowbray, who has served on Nevada's highest court since being appointed by then-Gov. Paul Laxalt in 1967, was honored for his selection by the American Bar Association as recipient of the prestigious 1991 Liberty Bell Award.

The purpose of the Liberty Bell Award program is to recognize community service that has strengthened the American system of freedom under law, a spokesman said.

A cum laude J.D. graduate of the University of Notre Dame Law School, Mowbray has made several key changes to Nevada's legal system during his 32 years as both a District Court and Supreme Court judge. He established Nevada's public defender system, installed a master calendar system in Clark County which eliminated a one-year logjam of civil and criminal cases, reorganized the central legal staff of the first child anti-abuse law and the enabling act permitting cameras in the courtroom.

Mowbray and his wife Kathryn have four sons.

Museum accepts mining contribution

The Clark County Heritage Museum recently accepted a $2,500 contribution from the Independence Mining Co., which will be used to support the museum's mining exhibitions.

The museum, which is a part of the Cultural Division of the Clark County Department of Parks and Recreation, is devoted to exhibitions about the three industries that built the Silver State — mining, gaming, and railroading. Since 1979, the museum has been very successful in drawing both residents of Southern Nevada as well as many tourists, a spokesman said.

Museum Curator Mark Ryzdyski anticipates that the funds from IMC will be used in a number of mining-related displays, including the production of the "Desert Treasures" program for 1992. This year's "Desert Treasures" traveling exhibit, entitled "125 Years of Mining in Nevada," was so successful that at the suggestion of the Nevada Attorney General's Office, the museum plans to expand it next year to include sections on the contemporary technology used in mining. Concurrent to this program, a lecture series on various aspects of mining will be offered.

"The museum welcomes the support and partnership of the Independence Mining Co. IMC and members of the Nevada Mining Association have made a major commitment to quality museum programming and education at the Clark County Heritage Museum. The museum's goal will be to continue to collect, preserve and report on the role of mining in our heritage," Ryzdyski said.

Joseph W. Murray, president of Independence Mining, said: "The success of the museum is especially gratifying to those of us in the mineral industry. Its educational value is inestimable, presenting a factual yet fascinating history of mining's contributions to Nevada. Not everyone is aware of the significant role mining has played and, more importantly, continues to play in the welfare and growth of our state. We feel the museum is helping to change attitudes about mining and we're glad to have an opportunity to assist."

Canned food drive this month

The Salvation Army and Clark County are conducting a canned food drive during the month of June to help provide food to needy families in Clark County.

At the urging of County Manager Donald L. Shalmy, Clark County's 3,500 employees are being encouraged to give at least 10,000 cans of food to the Salvation Army in the next 30 days.

"We are very grateful for this drive because we have been on the verge of running out of canned goods since late April and have been worried about how we were going to get through the summer months," said Major Jim Sullivan of the Salvation Army.

County Commission Chairman Jay Bingham said he is excited to participate in the food drive because local governments should play a larger part in helping non-profit organizations serve the needy.

"Usually, we receive 90 percent of our donations during the Christmas season which lasts until the next holiday season," Sullivan said. "But because of the increase of local families in need, we are forced to change our policy and conduct canned food drives all year around."

Widowed Persons Service awards luncheon June 15

The Widowed Persons Service of Southern Nevada will hold its first awards luncheon at 11 a.m. Saturday, June 15, at the Museum of Natural History on the UNLV Campus.

Gov. Bob Miller has proclaimed June 15 as WPS Day in Nevada and the proclamation will be presented at the luncheon.

Since its inception on May 1,

1990, the WPS program has assisted more than 150 persons who have lost their spouses.

In addition to one-on-one outreach, which is the major goal of WPS, the program offers monthly support sessions, educational programs and social activities.

Sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) and co-sponsored by the Catholic Community Services of Nevada, WPS works with local religious organizations, social services and mental health agencies, funeral directors, businesses and other local groups. The program is governed by a board of directors.

WPS offers a variety of volunteer opportunities to adults of all ages. WPS volunteers who work directly with the newly widowed must be widowed themselves and have successfully completed a 15-hour training.

For additional information about the WPS program or the awards luncheon, call WPS of Southern Nevada at 385-6922.

Presbyterian topic: 'Do not lose heart'

Pastor Dr. R. Dixon Jennings will preach a sermon entitled "Do Not Lose Heart" at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship services Sunday at Henderson Presbyterian Church. His message will be based on II Corinthians 4:13-5:1 in which Paul exhorts the Corinthians to have faith in what they cannot see.

During the summer months, the 11 a.m. worship service will be a Praise and Celebration Service. The format of the worship will be focused on praising the Lord through song, personal testimony and prayer.

The 8:30 a.m. worship service will continue with the current format.

Sunday church school for all ages is at 9:45 a.m.

There is a nursery for pre-school children at the 11 a.m. service.

The Daytimers monthly potluck luncheon will be at 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday.

The Presbyterian Women's Bible Study group will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Call the church office for the place.

The church is located at 601 N.

Major Ave., next to Morrell City Park.

For further information, call the church office at 565-9684.

LVHS '60s' reunion set

Las Vegas High School's Reunion of the '60s has been slated from 7 p.m. to 2 a.m. Friday, June 28, at the Vacation Village No-Host Bar. Anyone who attended a Las Vegas-area high school from 1960 to 1969 may attend. The cost of admission is $10.

For more information, call 384-8170, Ext. 5.

Professor to speak about sex and love

Stanford professor Herant Katchadourian, author of a classic textbook on human sexuality, will speak at UNLV Friday on the topic of "Keeping Sex and Love Alive."

Katchadourian is scheduled to speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Thomas T. Beam Engineering Complex, Room A107. His talk, which is sponsored by the UNLV psychology department and the Stanford Club of Southern Nevada, is open to the public.

A professor of psychiatry and behavioral science, Katchadourian is the author of "The Fundamentals of Human Sexuality," "The Biology of Adolescence," "Human Sexuality," and "Fifty: Midlife in Perspective."

Katchadourian has been a member of the Stanford faculty since 1966. More than 10,000 students have taken his popular course on human sexuality, which usually attracts overflow enrollments.

He has been selected four times as Class Day speaker by Stanford seniors. In 1984 he received the Richard W. Lyman Award for outstanding service to the university.

'This great day' sermon topic

At First Henderson United Methodist Church Sunday, Dr. Douglas A. Harrell, interim pastor, will preach on "This Great Day!"

Worship services are held at 8 and 10:45 a.m. each Sunday with Sunday School classes for nursery, children, youth and adults at 9:15 a.m. Four-year-olds through sixth graders begin their Church School hour with an opening worship service in the Sanctuary. Nursery care is provided during both worship services and the Sunday School hour. The Sunday Evening Worship Service (Vesper) begins at 7 p.m. in the Sanctuary.

Weekend activities at First Henderson United Methodist Church include a Weight Support Group at 7 p.m. Monday, a Bible Study at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Chancel Choir rehearsal at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday and youth activities on Sunday afternoons.

BACK TALK

Dr. J. "Jim" Cocks

Our Patients Write...

I met Dr. Jim Cocks at a Health Fair he conducted approximately four months ago. At the urging of my husband and daughter, I made an appointment at Henderson Chiropractic, and had X-rays and a consultation. After all the explanations, I began treatments.

Since beginning my treatments, Dr. Jim and his staff have almost stopped the headaches I have had for the last 16 years. They have always been more than helpful when I have had to come in extra times.

I am now a believer in the benefits of Chiropractic treatment because it has really worked for me. I strongly recommend that anyone suffering from problems that the "medical community" cannot help, try chiropractic and see if it can't help them like it has helped me.

POPULATION: 14,786,000
LANGUAGES: English, 50 tribal languages
GEOGRAPHY: Mostly low plains divided by rivers and Lake Volta; grassy plateau in north.
GOVERNMENT: Military
OVERVIEW: Ghana is a former British colony that for more than 100 years was known as the Gold Coast because of its valuable deposits of gold, diamonds and other minerals. Several European powers moved in to exploit this wealth, and in the late 1800s the British finally gained control of the Gold Coast area. Nearly all Ghanans are black Africans and the Ashanti are the largest tribe. Most of them live along the coast and grow cacao (for making chocolate), coffee and other tropical crops for export. Ghana has a modern capital but most of its people live in mud huts in rural villages. In the 1970s, dropping prices for cacao (Ghana's main export) forced a mass exodus to Nigeria where Ghanans found work in its oil industry. In the 1980s falling oil prices prompted Nigeria to order 1 million Ghanans to leave, throwing Ghana into a new economic crisis. Ghana became an independent republic in 1957, but a series of military coups have crippled efforts at democracy.
DID YOU KNOW? Ghana was the first member of the British Commonwealth of Nations to be governed by black Africans.

OVERVIEW: Guinea is sometimes called the Switzerland of Africa because of its beauty. Though its mountains are much smaller than Switzerland's, they abound with rivers, waterfalls, tropical forests, game preserves and bird sanctuaries. Two of Africa's major rivers, the Gambia and Niger, begin in Guinea. Much of the country is undeveloped, but it has large reserves of bauxite (aluminum ore), gold, diamonds and iron ore. The largest ethnic group is the Fulani, a Moslem group from the north that invaded in the 1700s. Most Guineans live in mud huts and grow a variety of crops including coffee, tropical fruits and peanuts. Guinea was once part of the ancient West African kingdoms that introduced farming. European ships arrived in the 1500s and began dealing in gold, ivory and slaves. It became a French protectorate in 1849. African nationalist Sekou Toure led its fight for independence in 1958 and ruled until his death in 1984.
DID YOU KNOW? After a failed Portuguese invasion in the 1970s, thousands of Toure's foes were jailed, tortured and killed.

UNLV seeks older men for study

UNLV's exercise physiology lab is looking for men over 60 years of age to volunteer for a study of body composition. Each participant will be weighed and measured, including underwater weighing to determine body-fat percentages. Everyone who takes part in the study will receive personalized results indicating their percentage of body fat and target weight. Men over 60 who would like further information about the study may call the exercise physiology lab at 739-3767.

Report debunks political 'apathy' myth

A new report shatters the conventional wisdom about why Americans are increasingly alienated from politics. It looks behind declining voter participation and other well-known symptoms of political disaffection to reach a surprising, and optimistic, conclusion: Americans are not apathetic about politics, but are abstaining from a system they feel has shoved them out.

The study, "Citizens and Politics: A View from Main Street America," commissioned by the Kettering Foundation and conducted by the Harwood Group of Bethesda, Md., is based on focus group discussions in 10 U.S. cities. The report's three principal findings are:

- Americans are frustrated about politics — at a depth not previously revealed — and feel pushed out of the whole process. "Many Americans don't believe they are living in a democracy," said Kettering President David

Mathews. "They describe the present political system as impervious to public direction."

- Civic duty in America is far from dead; citizens are still actively participating in public life, but on a local level where they believe they can make a difference — and they're not calling their civic actions "politics."

- Americans do not believe the primary solution to the country's grave political ills is the "quick fix" of campaign finance, term limits or ethics laws currently being considered, but they want to change the whole way politics is practiced.

"Among the avalanche of negative talk about politics in America should be optimism" concludes the report. "This study reveals that Americans now yearn for a place in politics," said Mathews. "But if we think the problem can be solved by legislative reforms, we're fooling ourselves."

Political humorist returns to Las Vegas

By popular request, the Friends of Channel 10 will present well-known political humorist Mark Russell in a return engagement at 8:15 a.m. Saturday, June 16, in the Cashman Field Theatre.

After a two-year absence from Las Vegas, the PBS (Public Broadcasting Service) performer, will return for "An Evening with Mark Russell" to comment on the national and local political scene.

In addition to his bimonthly Channel 10 public television comedy specials, Russell writes a nationally syndicated column which is carried by more than 100 newspapers. He notes that he is "the eighth grade kid poking fun at the teacher behind her back." His humor is based on the days' news in the form of original song and verse, as well as witty one-liners.

A sellout Las Vegas audience in March 1989 heard Russell's jabs at the president, Congress, IRS and even local politicians.

Mike Dias, event chairman, said, "Mark Russell's return engagement will surely put all of today's news into a more light-hearted perspective."

Tickets and information about the event may be obtained by calling 384-4905, or the Artemus Ham box office. Tickets are priced at $20, $35 and $75. The $75 ticket includes a reception following the performance where patrons can meet Russell.

All proceeds from "An Evening with Mark Russell" will benefit the public television affiliate, KLVX Channel 10.

'Nevada SunSmarts' program offered

Nevada has one of the highest skin cancer rates per capita in the nation. Annually, about 600,000 people in the United States are newly diagnosed with skin cancer, making it the most common form of cancer.

This doesn't mean that Nevadans have to stay out of the sun altogether. The Clark County Unit of the American Cancer Society will help educate the community on the hazards of the sun during its "Nevada SunSmarts" program in June and July. There will be four programs held at area hospitals which will consist of a lecture, a video presentation, and free skin cancer screenings. The dates of these programs are as follows:

June 15, University Medical Center, Saul Schreiber D.O.; June 22, St. Rose Dominican Hospital, Harold Boyer M.D.; July 6, Boulder City Hospital, Douglas Thomas M.D.; and July 13, Humana Hospital, Kenneth Landow M.D.

All programs will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Skin cancer, which is linked to repeated exposure to the sun, can be largely prevented by using a sunscreen to filter the sun's damaging rays, avoiding artificial tanning lamps, beds and booths, covering up by wearing a hat, sunglasses and a long sleeve shirt and staying out of the sun between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

No one is immune to skin cancer, but some people are at a greater risk. People with blue eyes, sun-triggered freckles, blonde or red hair should take extra precautions when out in the sun. Seating is limited at the "Nevada SunSmarts" programs and reservations must be made. Call 798-6877 for details and reservations.

Diabetes fundraiser June 15

The Southern Nevada Building and Construction Trades Council of the AFL-CIO will hold a major fundraising event this month to benefit the Diabetes Research Institute.

Dollars Against Diabetes (DAD) will take place on Saturday, June 15, Father's Day weekend. Union members throughout the area will join together with their families and friends to raise money to be contributed to the Diabetes Research Institute at the University of Miami in Florida.

"We're expecting over 400 volunteers to be working from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to help raise money to defeat a disease that threatens the lives of so many of our friends," said Mike McGinty, chairman of the DAD's Day fundraiser. "Since Dollars Against Diabetes will take place during the Father's Day weekend, we expect our members to be working in force to make Dad's Day a tremendous success," McGinty added.

"We'll have volunteers at various intersections, and we believe by the end of the day, that we will raise $40,000 to help cure diabetes," McGinty said. "There are over 300 cities participating in Dad's Day fundraisers on June 15, and I believe we'll raise more money than anybody thought possible. Our unions want to beat diabetes, and we'll continue to raise money for research until there's a cure," he concluded.

For more information about specific areas in which volunteers will work June 15, contact McGinty at 452-1520 or Co-Chairmen Carl Henderson at 453-2206 and Glenn O'Cull at 452-4440.

Gov. Bob Miller, city of Henderson Mayor Lorna Kesterson and city of Las Vegas Mayor Ron Lurie have all declared Saturday, June 15, as Dad's Day.

Insurance classes offered

UNLV is offering basic insurance classes for agents, brokers and solicitors who need to fulfill pre-licensing educational requirements.

"Life and Health Basics" and "Property-Casualty Basics" are offered regularly on the UNLV campus.

Presented by the insurance program of the finance department in the College of Business and Economics, "Life and Health Basics" covers general principles of life and health insurance.

The next session is set for June 11-July 23. Classes will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays, 5:30-8:30 p.m., in Frank and Estella Beam Hall, Room 214.

For more information on fees and registration, call Ed Goodin at 739-3540.

Newton to host CCS fundraiser

On Father's Day, June 16, Wayne Newton Ranch, Casa De Shenandoah, will be the site of the Catholic Community Services "Family Fun Honoring Fathers." The event, which will be held from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., will include tours of the grounds, Arabian Horse Demonstrations, entertainment, games for the kids and food booths. All proceeds of the event will benefit the 25 service programs presently operated by the Catholic Community Service.

Wayne Newton

Community Services opened its doors in Nevada. The festivity is one of the events helping to celebrate the Golden Jubilee Year of the non-profit organization.

The Family Fun activities include prize giveaways, a magician, organized games for children, live music and the music of KFM Radio, the official sponsor of the event. The Arabian Horse Demonstrations will be held at 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. An auction will be held to raise additional funds.

Since parking is limited near Casa De Shenandoah, old fashion trolley cars will shuttle people to Casa De Shenandoah from a security parking area set up at the business complex of Park 2000 at Sunset and Eastern.

Advanced purchase of tickets is suggested because the event is expected to sell out. Admission is $15 for a family group of four. Each additional child is $1. Children under six will be admitted free. Tickets are available at all three branches of Pioneer Bank and at the Catholic Community Services, 385-2662.

University Summer Theatre offers a rotating repertory

University of Nevada, Las Vegas' Department of Theatre Arts will launch another season of plays this month in the air-conditioned comfort of the Judy Bayley Theatre.

The first in the rotating repertory season is Rand Higbee's moving play, "Too Short a Season." The play is about Danny Thompson, the struggling young shortstop for the Minnesota Twins. The play is directed by Larry Stahl; set design is by Stephen R. Woody; costume design is by Gail M. Lehtinen and light design is by Noelle Mleccko.

Performances are at 8 p.m. June 12-13, 21-22 with a 2 p.m. matinee June 23 in the Black Box Theatre.

Performances are at 7:30 p.m. June 4-8, with a 2 p.m. matinee June 9 in the Judy Bayley Theatre.

The first in the rotating repertory season is Rand Higbee's moving play, "Too Short a Season." The play is about Danny Thompson, the struggling young shortstop for the Minnesota Twins. The play is directed by Larry Stahl; set design is by Stephen R. Woody; costume design is by Gail M. Lehtinen and light design is by Noelle Mleccko.

Performances are at 8 p.m. June 12-13, 21-22 with a 2 p.m. matinee June 23 in the Black Box Theatre.

"The Conceited Terrorist," adaptation of Plautus' "Miles Gloriosus," takes place in the Middle East with CIA agents and Israeli spies, all reminiscent of a Three Stooges comedy. Any similarity to persons living or dead is purely coincidental. Direction and set design are by Stephen R. Woody, costume design is by Lois Carder and light design is by Noelle Mleccko. "The Conceited Terrorist" opens 8 p.m. June 14 and runs June 15, 26-27 with a 2 p.m. matinee June 16 in the Black Box Theatre.

John Newsom's "Scattered Kingdoms" is a Chekhovian portrayal of the disintegration of a Texas family in 1917. Direction is by Davey Marlin-Jones; set design is by Stephen R. Woody, costume design is by Lois Carder and lighting design is by Noelle Mleccko. The production opens 8 p.m. June 19 and runs June 20, 28-29; with a 2 p.m. matinee June 30.

An extra added attraction for two nights only, 8 p.m. June 24 and 25, is Red Shuttleworth's solo performance piece with the author as actor in "Altered Bats, One Dog Leash to Go, and the Day Elvis Died." The production, directed by Davey Marlin-Jones, focuses on minor league baseball.

General admission tickets are $6; with discounts for students and senior citizens. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster Ticket Centers including Smith's, May Company and Tower Records. To charge by phone call 474-4000. UNLV and group discounts are available at the Performing Arts Box Office only.

Governor's Arts Awards entries solicited

The Nevada State Council on the Arts (NSCA) will consider artists' submissions to produce artwork for presentation as the Governor's Arts Awards in 1992. An honorarium of $2,500 will be paid to the winning artist to produce five pieces reserved for council use only.

Interested Nevada artists should submit from six to 10 slides of relevant recent work, and a brief

(one page maximum) proposal for the award, which may be in any two- or three-dimensional medium. However, since 1992 marks the 25th anniversary of NSCA, proposals that utilize or address "silver"—literally or metaphorically—are encouraged.

Application materials must be postmarked on or before July 15.

Submissions will be reviewed in late July by a committee of NSCA Council members. Artists will be notified in early August and the winning entrant will have until Nov. 15, 1991 to complete and deliver the finished artwork to NSCA.

Application materials should be sent to: Governor's Arts Awards, Nevada State Council on the Arts, 329 Flint St., Reno, Nev. 89501.

For further information, call Kirk Robertson, 688-1225.

Trombonist Grey to perform

Famed trombonist Al Grey, a veteran of many of the most acclaimed big bands, will be featured in concert Saturday as "Jazz in the Park '91" continues at Winchester Center Park. The park is located at 3130 S. McLeod, just north of Desert Inn Road. Virginia-born Grey has played with Dizzy Gillespie, Lionel Hampton and Benny Carter. His association with Count Basie covered two decades. Grey has also performed as a studio musical with Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby, Tony Bennett, Sarah Vaughn, Ella Fitzgerald and other musical greats.

Grey's work in motion picture sound tracks includes "The Color Purple," in which he plays the solo for "Celine's Blues." As an internationally known musician, he spends the greater part of the year touring in Europe.

Opening for Grey at 7:30 p.m. will be pianist Tom Ferguson and his group. Ferguson is head of the music program at Clark County Community College. He is well known in local jazz circles and performs frequently at Las Vegas clubs.

The free concert series, which is hosted by jazz impresario Alan Grant, is sponsored by the Cultural Division of the Clark County Department of Parks and Recreation, the Four Queens Hotel and Casino and Centel. For information, call 455-7340.

Folk music to be performed

Progressive folk musician Jennifer Berezan will perform in concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, June 15, at the Charleston Heights Art Center. Berezan's musical style blends folk, rock and raggaie, offering something for everyone. Berezan was the 1989 recipient of Hotwire magazine's Readers Choice Awards for both new performer and current song.

This will be Berezan's second performance in Las Vegas and she will perform songs from her first album, "In the Eye of the Storm," as well as many new tunes. Tickets are $8 for general admission, and $15 for sponsor seating. Proceeds benefit the Domestic Crisis Shelter. Call 646-4981.

Evening Aglow to hold meeting

Evening Women's Aglow Fellowship will hold a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Port Tack, 3190 W. Sahara. Cost of the dinner is $10, a spokeswoman said. Pastor Barry Diamond will speak. For reservations, call 870-0752, 438-5572 or 645-2360.

THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF HORSES
STARRING THE
ROYAL LIPIZZANER STALLIONS

$595 including tax

For four hundred years, these horses were trained for war. Now they do ballet. The Lipizzaner Stallions are horses of nobility — the ultimate expression of an art form dating back to the 16th century. These magnificent stallions perform acrobatic maneuvers unequalled by any other breed. And now, they are appearing at Excalibur. Don't miss this rare chance to see their afternoon performances.

NOON & 2PM daily except Friday

Dear Debbie

By Deborah White

Dear Debbie: I have been married for 2-1/2 years. My problem is that my husband constantly puts me down, unless I do everything his way. I like my hair short; he likes it long. He tells me I've gained weight, yet I weigh three pounds less now than I did when we were married. I spend too much money, throw away too many leftovers, don't discipline the children correctly; etc. I have little, if any, confidence in myself. I've tried talking to him about it, since he told me we should be able to work anything out, but he just ends up making me feel more guilty or tells me I'm too sensitive.

He has a very stressful job and works 12 to 14 hours a day, so I try to be understanding. I don't know how much more I can take though. He can't stand to hear the baby cry when he gets home, and the TV belongs to him. He also expects dinner right away. He used to romance me and do anything for me before we were married. What happened? I'm always depressed and I'm tired of trying to please him.

STUCK AT HOME

Dear Stuck at Home: The best thing you can do is take responsibility for your own self-esteem. Get out of the house if you can, and do something good for yourself. Take a class, join a club or take part in some kind of activity such as exercising. You should never look to someone else to give you a sense of self-worth. That must come from within, although it is heavily influenced by external forces. Have the strength of character to wear your hair the way you like, despite what your husband thinks.

Then sit your husband down and tell him exactly how you feel. Your husband is being a bully. And the best way to deal with a bully is to stand up to him. You might be surprised to learn he is a lot of hot air. Your husband is being selfish and taking you for granted. You are not his maid, nor his child, nor a slave.

This week's horoscope

By Joyce Jillson

Weekly Tip: Handle personnel problems at work. Get sun or sit under the sun lamp.

Aries (March 21-April 19) Straighten our snafus with friends and stay on good terms. Money from sales or publishing.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You could end up at the top of the success heap. Money from writing, music.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) People from all walks of life influence you this week. Monday is great for brain-storming.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) Define your ideal image of yourself and live up to it. Put some money in your pocket.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Fight through the inertia and get the job done early in the week. Be like a rock.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Work goes well; in fact you'll love being busy. Keep a low profile.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You have definite ideas about what you want in a lover, and you may get it. Sharpen writing skills.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Domestic responsibilities lead to a more mature view of life early in the week.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Develop writing and speaking skills if possible. Better communication with your partner.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When your finances are secured you'll feel secure. An active night out on Friday.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) The satisfaction of personal accomplishments. Eliminate financial chaos. Active career networking.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) Lighten your psychological load. Spend time with those you truly love. Stay physically active.

If You Were Born This Week

Recent personal-growth experiences have you ready to expand your life. Renew contacts with old friends or make new ones this month. Focus on career/financial issues during July, September and January.

Women, find your luckiest sign in Joyce Jillson's new guide to dating, romance and relationships. For a copy, send $2.25 to Dating Guide for Women, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 4426, Orlando, Fla. 32802-4426. Make checks payable to Newspaperbooks.

Once over lightly

By Carolyn Drennan Bishop

There are two kinds of people in the world. Those who eat their meat rare, and the "well donees." I'm a "well done" and I don't mind telling you, it hasn't been easy being married to a man who eats his meat while it is still quivering.

I'm not kidding! This man must have been frightened by a kitchen stove when he was a child. His idea of cooking a steak is a one second blast under the broiler on each side. Meanwhile, my meat has barely settled cozily in the pan. Twenty minutes later, when I'm ready to eat, Mr. Rare has cleaned his plate and is reading the newspaper.

If that isn't bad enough, when

Arts and crafts festival to be held Saturday

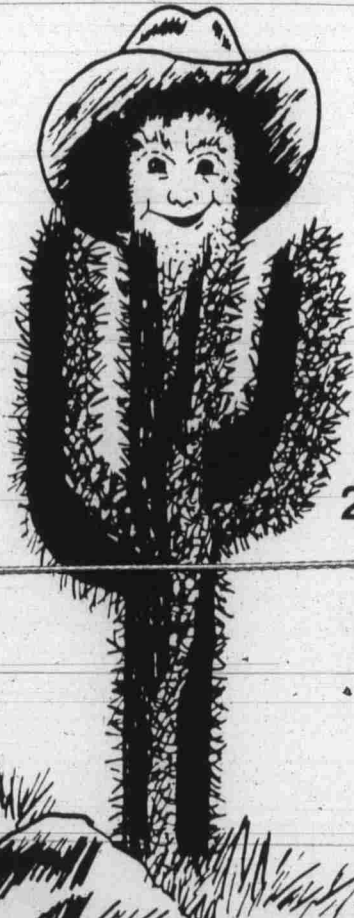

The first annual Green Valley United Methodist Church "Arts Festival and Kids Carnival" will be held from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m., June 8, in the Albertson's shopping center parking lot at the corner of Green Valley Parkway and Warm Springs Road. There will be 35 arts and craft vendors along with clowns, balloons and games.

we're dining out, I am surrounded by would-be gourmands who raise their eyebrows when I order. Even the waiter exchanges amused glances with my husband as he says smugly, "The chef does not recommend well-done, Madam."

What's worse, invariably "rares" are into sushi. Translated, that means raw fish. I can't help it; a gasping, walled fish is not going to flop its last flop on my dinner plate, thank you!

Before you color me hopelessly out of style, I want to tell you the "rares" of this world are in for a big shock. The other night I entered a restaurant and was immediately enveloped in clouds of smoke. It turned out the chef was cooking Cajun food, the latest craze to hit the gourmet world. I couldn't believe my eyes when I was served dinner. For the first time, I was served food that was not only dead, but black and crispy to prove it.

Do you want to know what I say to all those smug "rares" out there? Let 'em eat Cajun!

Medical And Surgical Complications Of Menopause

FREE SEMINAR

Tuesday, June 11, 1991 - 7:00 pm
Humana® Hospital - Sunrise Auditorium

Guest Speaker:
Jordan Goodman, M.D., F.A.C.O.G.
Director of Menopause Medical Center of Nevada

"Menopause is a natural part of a woman's aging process which with proper medical attention should be a healthy and rewarding phase of life."

"Unfortunately, the natural physiological changes of menopause may on occasion result in medical and/or surgical complications."

This seminar will specifically address these issues and describe the medical or surgical measures available for both their prevention and treatment.

For reservations and information, please call 731-8188, Monday through Friday, 8:30 am to 4:30 pm.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle, then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

AMADEUS (Sol.: 9 letters)

A-Austria, Arias; B-Bold; C-Canons, Cheery, Composer, Concerto, Conduct; D-Don Giovanni; E-Europe; F-Face; H-Hardship, Harpsichord, Humor; I-Ideas; J-Jupiter; M-Magic Flute, Minuet, Motets, Mozart, Music; O-Opera; P-Passion, Pathos, Perform, Piano, Piece, Poverty, Prodigy; R-Rondo; S-Salzburg, Style, Symphonies; T-Talent, Theme; V-Variety, Vienna; W-Wild, Wolfgang.

SUNBATHING IS A FRY IN THE OINTMENT

Would You Believe....

In 1986, the U.S. inflation rate sank to a yearly rate of just 1.1 percent.

Queen Elizabeth I became bald after suffering small pox in her late 20s. She always wore a wig after that.

The Baltic Sea has an average depth of just 180 feet. Compare that with the Pacific Ocean, which is nearly 13,000 feet deep on average.

Estimates on the height of Mount Everest vary by as much as 800 feet.

The term "doubleheader" in baseball has its roots in the railroad industry, not the baseball diamond. It's a reference to hooking up two trains as one.

If Jupiter were hollow, all of the other planets in the solar system could fit inside the giant planet.

The full title for Britain's Queen Elizabeth is (whew!) Elizabeth the Second, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom, Northern Ireland and her Other Realms and Territories, Queen, Head of the Commonwealth and Defender of the Faith.

The electric chair has been used as a form of execution since 1890.

The sailfish has been known to swim at nearly 100 miles per hour.

Words of Wisdom

The first phase of parenting involves getting children to talk and walk. The second phase is getting them to shut up and sit down.

Bad judgment leads to experience, but all is not lost considering that experience also leads to good judgment.

Don't return a kindness; pass it on.

Those who get too big for their britches will be exposed in the end.

Reaching for the stars will always keep people on their toes.

Giving advice after the deed is done is akin to administering medicine after the patient has died.

Inherent in the right to choose freely is the philosophy that people also must be trusted to choose well.

Responsibility is the price of freedom.
