Will Henderson Assemblyman J. Coy Pettyjohn turn a loser into a winner or a winner into a loser in his quest for a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives? It just depends on how he gets the voters to view his joining with a criminal when dabbling illicitly in foreign intrigue four years ago.

Pettyjohn, a retired Air Force general, tried to ransom American hostages in Lebanon in 1988. That's when he joined up with Marcus Galliano, a convicted felon, and together they failed to accomplish the mission planned by Pettyjohn.

This week, an article in the daily Las Vegas Review-Journal brought back to the public eye Pettyjohn's role in the hostage ransom effort. It will probably continue to be a matter of political concern during the 1992 campaign unless another Republican candidate defeats him in the primary election.

It was back in October 1990 that Jeff German, investigative writer at the Las Vegas Sun, revealed the entire Pettyjohn fiasco when the retired general was campaigning to become an assemblyman.

German used declassified government documents which had then acting CIA Director Robert Gates writing about Pettyjohn and saying he had "serious reservations about his judgment and accordingly about any CIA dealings with him." Gates went on writing, "I believe we should discourage him

MacDonald receives tentative water

By Roy Theiss News Staff Writer

MacDonald Ranch will enter into an agreement with the city attorney's office stipulating the criteria that need to be met for the 600 acre-feet of water the Henderson City council will allot for the Foothills Project.

Under an agreement discussed at Tuesday night's council meeting, developer Rich MacDonald has six months to submit engineering plans concerning the infrastructure of the Foothills Project. The city then has four months to review the plans. Councilman Andy Hafen was assured by MacDonald that if the engineering plans have not been submitted in time, MacDonald understood he would forfeit the entitlement.

MacDonald had asked the council for 700 acre-feet for the Foothills project but Councilman Lorin Williams cut the number to 600 acre-feet so there would be 438 acre-feet in reserve for the Boys and Girls Club auction Saturday

The Boys and Girls Club of America has adopted "Every Kid Counts" as its theme and the Henderson affiliate is working to see that theme through to fruition by raising funds during the 13th annual Henderson Boys and Girls Club auction at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Henderson Convention Center, 200 Water St.

The entrance donation for the charity auction is $15 and provides a bid card and complimentary hors d'oeuvres. All proceeds from the auction will help support the Boys and Girls Club, which does not receive any funding from the Las Vegas affiliate.

Approximately 100 items, goods and services, donated by area merchants, will be on display in the silent auction starting at 6 p.m. Tools, stuffed animals, dinners at area restaurants, golf at area courses, furniture mirrors and artwork from local artists will be among the many items to be purchased during the silent auction.

Immediately following the silent auction, at approximately 8 p.m., noted auctioneer Guy Diero will begin the live auction. Among the live auction items will be a video poker machine, season tickets to the Las Vegas Stars baseball games, a day of pampering for the ladies at Neiman Marcus, a trolling motor for a bass boat, a rack stereo audio home entertainment system, a basketball autographed by the 1990 UNLV Runnin' Rebels National Championship team and a six-day, seven-night Hawaiian vacation package.

In addition to public participation, local merchants and companies have reserved tables as

History of Boys, Girls Club

What is the Boys and Girls Club and how did it start?

Started in 1954 with 129 members, the Henderson Boys and Girls Club, then known simply as the Boys Club, started as a boxing club with instructors such as Pat Winters and then-Basic High School teacher and later two-term Gov. Mike O'Callaghan. At that time the club was located in an old bowling alley next door to what is now the Old Tavern. It remained there until moving to Victory Village in 1958.

It wasn't until 1964 that the Boys Club hired its first fulltime director, Ron Hubel. The Proceeds from the auction will help provide programs and services for more than 1,600 Henderson youths at three separate locations. The Henderson organization will soon open a fourth site in the East Las Vegas area. These sites are all in or near low-income housing areas. Approximately 75 percent of the members' family income is near poverty level.

The Boys and Girls Clubs provide a safe, adult supervised haven for the area youth. They receive a nutritional snack daily and become involved in at least one of the more than 40 programs and activities offered by the club.

Justice Center to solve neighborhood disputes

By Katherine E. Scott News Staff Writer

As soon as the telephone lines were connected two weeks ago, calls started "coming in fast and furious," said Ruth Urban, division manager of the county's new Neighborhood Justice Center program.

"We've been getting 50 to 60 calls a day," she said. With publicity, distribution of brochures and word-of-mouth, Urban said the public is quickly learning about the fledgling NJC program and is eager to use its services.

At no cost to citizens who use it, NJC will provide mediation to help resolve conflicts ranging from consumer/merchant disputes to disagreements between neighbors. It is also available as an alternative to court action.

With mediation, persons involved in a dispute have the opportunity to "resolve their differences and reach a mutually satisfactory agreement with the help of a trained, neutral third party," according to an NJC brochure.

Some of the new clients have been referred from courts includ-from pursuing these activities, and then have no further contact with him."

Although never charged with a crime, Pettyjohn's questionable past activities didn't keep him from being elected in 1990. Evidently, the Justice Department felt like Gates, who in another memo wrote that when discussing Pettyjohn in a meeting with Gen. Colin Powell, "I said I didn't know whether he as working on a private agenda for gain or whether he was simply a sincere American trying to do the right thing.'

I was willing to give Pettyjohn the benefit of the doubt about his competence and sincerity. At the time it appeared to me that the efforts of the government to drag him into the criminal aspects of Galliano's trial might have been a matter of jealousy on the part of some State Department

Following Galliano's 1990 conviction for passport fraud, I questioned the actions of the State Department. "A typical example of this jealousy," I wrote, "was revealed in a swom statement by Kamel Beyoghlow, a State Department bureaucrat, who in a swom statement did everything possible to discredit Pettyjohn, but failed to say that the retired general attempted to pass himself off as a government-approved agent."

What Nevada voters must determine in 1992 is whether or not they are willing to trust his judgment in Congress. Gates, now head of the CIA, had "serious reservations about his judgment" back in 1988. During that period of time in another memo, Gates wrote, "I told him (Pettyjohn) that he was engaged in a very highrisk undertaking that had the potential of getting him into trouble." In the same memo he wrote that Pettyjohn "is into some of these things way over his head."

Pettyjohn escaped some of this trouble when a Las Vegas jury believed him and not Galliano. What remains to be seen is whether or not serious questions about his judgment will hinder his attempt to jump from Carson City to Washington, D.C.

Assemblyman Pettyjohn's opponents may find that his activities, and in some cases lack of action, in the 1991 Nevada legislature are more damaging than the games he played in foreign affairs back in 1988.

Basic Management Inc. is doing an excellent job of convincing all of us that it wants to become a good neighbor. The transfer of 14,000 acre-feet of water to the Southern Nevada Water Authority and a request to be annexed by Henderson are both good moves. Combine these actions with a schedule of planned growth improvements and you have a winner.

On the other hand, within the BMI complex, Titanium Metals Corp. is using out-of-state laborers building plant improvements. This is the poorest of public relations when a high percent of skilled Nevadans are out of work.

Nevadans are fed up with the use of labor from Utah and Arizona who take their pay checks back home every weekend. This Timet actiondoesn't say much for that corporation being good neighbors to workers or local merchants.

Latest reports that officials of REB Real Estate Concepts haven't told Boulder City leaders they are ready to proceed with a manufacturers outlet mall may be good news for local merchants.

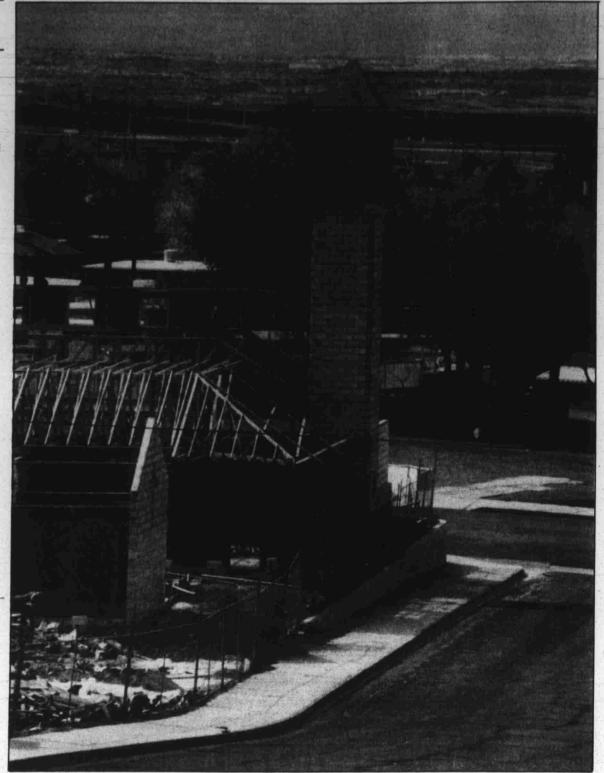

A manufacturers' outlet mall can only hurt both large and small retail merchants. REB has until May 15 to notify the BC City Council that it has the money to move forward.

Right now, no news is good news.

Navajo Indians from out-of-state will be allowed to pay lower in-state tuition rates at UNLV if John Lujan has his way. He wants to increase the percentage of Native Americans on campus. Lujan, UNLV's affirmative action director, may have a good idea despite the cries of cash shortage from the mouths of school officials.

John, how about Hopi Indian students who want to come to UNLV? Better yet, what about lowering the in-state tuition rates for Nevada

Marshall bail stays at $50,000

By Katherine E. Scott News Staff Writer

Henderson Justice of the Peace Rodney Burr ruled Tuesday that Tina Louise Marshall, 17, of Las Vegas will remain in Clark County Jail with bail set at $50,000.

Marshall, who waived her p liminary hearing on Monday, has an April 27 arraignment set in Dept. 8 of Clark County District Court. Burr was told by the attomeys involved in the case that Marshall will plead guilty to a charge of mayhem in exchange for a count of attempted murder being dismissed.

Her attorney asked Monday that Marshall be released on an inhouse arrest program or else have bail reduced to reflect the lesser charge. He said the former alternative would be safer for his client because of bad feelings between two groups, including Marshall's friends and friends of the unidentified victim.

A Justice Court spokeswoman said bail remained at the amount for attempted murder because the charge has not been dismissed.

ing Henderson Justice Court. Urban said that Las Vegas Justice Court "is putting a message on their recorder in small claims that is encouraging people to call us before filing a small claims action."

Mediation won't work for everybody, and there are some cases the NJC will not handle. Urban said that both persons (or groups) involved must be willing to participate or the program will not work. Any dispute involving violence or gang activity will not be accepted, she said.

Although branch offices eventually will be set up in areas including Henderson, Laughlin and Mesquite, the program is taking root in Portable Building No. 4 behind the Clark County Health Department on Shadow Lane.

This is the "first NJC in the country to be under the auspices of a social services agency," Urban said, adding it seems most appropriate there. "Once you scratch the surface of a dispute, oftentimes there's social problems that need to be addressed," she

In addition to helping adversaries, Urban said mediators will provide referrals for things like legal advice, zoning issues or temporary protective orders. "We'll do some of the troubleshooting to see [what] is most appropriate rather than give them a 'laundry-list' to call," she added.

The oldest Neighborhood Justice Center in the U.S. began in Atlanta 14 years ago, Urban said, noting the American Bar Association began a pilot program in three cities in 1982.

Last year, the Nevada Legislature enacted a law to establish NJCs in counties with populations more than 400,000. "The center must be closely modeled after the program established by the American Bar Association for ... the resolution of disputes," the law states.

Mediation "is especially good for people who have to maintain relationships, like neighbors, family members, business associates," Urban said. She added that "with Henderson as small as it is, you can't help but run into [people]." Tension from such an encounter can be avoided "if you have the option to resolve [disputes] through mediation."

The NJC has a small staff but is compiling a large list of volunteers for mediation. The first group of some two dozen volunteer mediators began training this week.

Urban said temperament and personality are more important than experience when persons are selected as volunteers. She said the mediator must "let the parties make the decision rather than tell somebody what to do."

Among persons applying as volunteers have been attorneys and other professionals, she said. "Some of the best [suited] are homemakers, who have been mediating with children for years," Urban added.

Among the benefits of having a dispute mediated is that it may be resolved faster than if it were handled in court, she said. According to the NJC's brochure, the process is personalized, issues are discussed in depth and the people involved control the outcome, rather than having a decision made for them.

Still, mediation does not always work. "Even if they don't come to some kind of resolution," Urban said that communication has been opened between the parties. Because of that groundwork, she said that "down the road they could work it out [themselves]."

Any persons interested in contacting the NJC either for mediation or to volunteer may call 455-

Urban brings experience to mediation

By Katherine E. Scott News Staff Writer

Mediation is no stranger to Ruth Urban.

Before becoming division manager for the county's new Neighborhood Justice Center (NJC) program last year, Urban headed the Clark County Child Custody Division for more than six years.

"When I became the supervisor there in 1985, I changed the whole philosophy ... to move [the approach] away from the adversarial mindset," she said in a recent interview.

Urban became a child custody investigator in 1974 after working two years in Clark County Juvenile Court. She said the job description was later changed to "specialist" because that "reflects the duties as both a mediator and evaluator and moves away from the adversarial language that 'investigator' connotes."

Although the Neighborhood Justice Centers will be equipped to handle family disputes, the Child Custody Division will continue to attempt mediation in disputed custody and visitation issues that are referred by the courts, Urban said.

She found that parents arguing about custody and visitation of their children were more likely to be satisfied with decisions made by themselves than those ordered by a judge.

Since moving to the Neighborhood Justice Center program in November, Urban said she has found many people cannot separate her from her previous position. While she intends to mediate some cases "to keep up my skills, as well as based on the demand,"her duties now include overseeing the county's entire NJC mediation program.

"I loved my old job," she said, but noted her background was in social work. She received her bachelor of arts degree in social work and master's degree in counseling, both from UNLV. She has lived in Southern Nevada 33 years, and graduated from Las Vegas High School in 1967.

Urban and her husband Andy have lived with their young son A.J. in Henderson's Green Valley neighborhood for three years. The couple married 10 years ago, and Andy became Henderson's deputy city attorney two years later.

"We love Henderson; we couldn't be happier," she said.

Adjusting to her new job "has been a lot of fun," she said. "To see a program start from the ground floor ... is a very challenging experience for a man-

Once it is firmly established in Las Vegas, she will begin setting up branch offices in areas such as Henderson, Laughlin and Mesquite.

Industrial Days festival for all

"Henderson Salutes America" in the 41st annual Industrial Days celebration beginning tomorrow. A full calendar of events appears in a special supplement published in the News today.

The festivities will kick off with the Beauty Pageant at 7 p.m. Friday in the Henderson Convention Center, followed by the Mayor's Dance. The Queen, selected out of 19 candidates, will reign over all of the activities.

A softball tournament at Morrell Park and the eighth annual Chili Cook-off, fourth annual Car Show and a concert at Titanium Field on Sunday will highlight the first weekend.

Inland Empire Shows will conduct its carnival at Titanium Field beginning Wednesday night.

The Industrial Days Talent Contest will be at 7 p.m., Thursday, April 16, and the Parade down Water Street will begin at noon Saturday, April 18.

Industrial Days is a time for reflecting on the community's past and celebrating its future. All Henderson residents, from Townsite to Green Valley, from Pittman to Mission Hills, should come out and be part of our city's celebration.

Busted candidate

There could be no greater contrast to the insanity of New York City than the planned community of Irvine, placid and orderly. What two U.S. cities could be more different, physically or psychologically?

But in what has to be one of the truly ironic campaign footnotes of this topsy-turvey presidential election year, there was Larry Agran, Irvine's former mayor, being dragged off by New York's finest for allegedly raising a ruckus in his quest to be heard at a presidential candidates' debate at Lehman College.

This, mind you, is a candidate hailing from a city where even the ducks in the man-made lakes seem to know their place. As mayor, Agran was a pioneer in the fine art of ensuring order. For example, the curbside recycling program he instituted even leaves reminders for erring residents if they happen to put plastic containers in the wrong bin.

Isn't there enough serious crime in New York to keep police occupied? After all, even though Agran had been excluded from the debate, he bought his own ticket and asked respectfully to be heard. Earlier in the day, he actually had appeared as a guest speaker at Lehman.

As a minor presidential candidate this season, Agran no doubt has grown increasingly frustrated as he has challenged debate organizers and Democratic Party leaders about who gets to be on the dais. But something's weird when the former mayor of perhaps the most orderly city in the country is busted for disorderly conduct in the most disorderly city in America.

Nevada must fight 'dumping ground' image

A conversation among hazardous and nuclear waste experts probably doesn't go precisely this way, but it seems likely:

"So, where in the world are we going to dispose of this waste?"

"Why, Nevada, of course. That's where we're going to dump all this rotten stuff."

The idea that the Nevada desert is the ideal place—and perhaps one of the only places—to store hazardous and radioactive waste surfaced again at a recent Energy Department workshop in Las Vegas. Federal officials said they'd like to use the Nevada Test Site to bury up to five million cubic feet of waste.

The federal government needs a state permit to do so—and Gov. Bob Miller isn't inclined to immediately provide one. He says he is concerned about a message going out that every time someone wants to dispose of these materials, they think of Nevada as a dumping ground.

The governor is correct to raise this concern. One of the biggest problems this state faces is to somehow control the amount of unwanted waste being exported here. Unfortunately, Nevada is quickly attaining the image of being one of the only places to go for this type of disposal. It is an image all Nevadans must continue to try to repel.

Ozone-depletion problem needs more attention

The USA, after years of playing catch-up in a race to patch the Earth's depleting sun screen, now has a chance to jump ahead.

President Bush recently wisely fell into line with the scientific consensus. He pushed up by five years, to 1995, the end to U.S. production of ozone-eating solvents and refrigerants.

But a great deal more can be done right now. Twenty-eight percent of the job could be done simply by plugging refrigerant leaks and improving recycling.

Federal rules for repair of leaky auto and home air conditioners and safe recycling of their refrigerants are stalled. They should be put in place before another air-conditioning season begins.

Not only can those rules pare pollution, they can reduce demand for chemicals. That's true especially for autos. Most new cars will be equipped to handle an ozone-safe substitute by 1995.

Other ozone eaters can be phased out of production even faster.

The world has enough halons, used by firefighters, to last for Government news coverage shifts priorities

ots of talk goes on these days in and out of the media (including this column) about the American public's seething disenchantment with politics and government. The timing of the weird procedures in the Congressional bank and post office has uncovered rich resources of new ammunition for us to fire at the major targets—mainly incumbents.

Oddly, the whole uproar has also been helped by the media, which are telling us less and less about the daily work of government. Newspapers, magazines and television have slowly been diminishing their coverage of government in both Washington and state capitals. The convenient excuse, of course, is the recession, which is fueled by rising costs.

Only partly true. More important has been the observation by journalistic powers-that-be that the public is bored with government, period. Boredom is a no-no in present American society. And today society's whims get a higher priority in the media than its needs.

The title of an article in the current issue of the Washington People, By the People, Bore the People." Carl Sessions Stepp, the story's author, reports that several Washington bureaus of small regional news services have shut down completely. Some of the major, big-time bureaus are cutting way back on staffs.

extraordinarily complex mechanism known as government is really doing. One of the remaining correspondents covering the nation's capital for two upstate New York papers, gave a bold example to Stepp of how that gap comes about:

"There's less desire for nuts-and-bolts government news. This year I decided not to cover a single appropriations story until the final bill passed, and nobody noticed."

But a huge number of people do notice. That's a major reason we have the current wholesale public hammering of Congress and state Legislatures. After all, to publish only the final results of what's being done with their money naturally makes taxpayers conclude that hanky-panky is going on behind their backs. Yet such short cuts in reporting have become so widespread that we are all hard-pressed not to assume that everyone in public office is a crook.

Let's put this trend in the perspective of the craft known as journalism. Just a few years ago it would have shocked every newsroom in the country to hear a reporter blandly admit he had not covered the nuts and bolts of government, boring or not. Indeed, he might well have been fired for not doing his job. The rule then was simple: if it's news,

No longer. Selective reporting of government has now become the rule rather than the exception. Said Stepp:

"Many journalists readily concede there is less government coverage today...At least three reasons account for this: the shrinking news hole in many papers, the increased attention to topics such as lifestyles, leisure and science, and the perception that the public lacks an appetite for mundane copy about government."

Most children lack an appetite for mundane classroom study, too. That hardly keeps parents and teachers from hounding them to pay attention to their studies and homework instead of dreaming abut the

At least that used to be the case. Current figures on dropout rates Journalism Review sums up this sorry situation succinctly: "Of the and the abysmally limited knowledge of high school graduates indicate that school kids have become as spoiled as their parents by fun and games. If adults can legitimately be bored by government, what's wrong with being bored by dull classes?

Fortunately, there may be a glimmer of light. Much of journalism Thus bigger and bigger gaps appear in our knowledge of what this is actively trying to do something about it, and Stepp urges them on:

"Journalists must take greater responsibility for helping sort out the truly relevant from run-of-the-mill," he writes. "To ensure an attentive readership, journalists also need to choose topics more thoughtfully, explain them more skillfully, and present them more compellinglyefforts now under way in many papers around the country...

"The best-case scenario is to trade quantity for quality. Wellplanned, well-executed coverage might actually inform citizens better while occupying less space. 'My answer,' says author Neil Postman, 'is that newspapers should go into the meaning business.'...

"Don't rule out a period of retreat during which resource-hungry publishers defang watchdog journalists and snatch reporters and space from the government desk," Stepp warns. "But such an approach stands to be temporary and self-defeating. The notion of social responsibility is too ingrained, too vital and, in an information age, too

Riding subway always an education

T EW YORK—I take the subways when I'm here. I do so for a number of reasons. They're swift, not to mention relatively cheap. Another reason is, they were my friend when I was a kid, the way I traveled all over the city. But that old song has a message. Nighttime is more than for huggin' and kissin'. It's also a good time to take a cab.

But I have a third reason, and that one is harder to explain. It has to do with an apprehension that as I grow older and less bold, I will retreat into a cocoon of affluence. Cars and cabs do that sort of thing to you. They're more than transportation. They're barriers.

It just so happens that I do my own grocery shopping and so I know about checkout scanners. When President Bush apparently did not, the media made much of his ignorance. It's hard to know what to make of this except, of course, what we already knew. The president does not do the shopping. He lives in a kind of cocoon.

The New York subway de-cocoons a person. I have only to look up at the advertisements. The first thing I learn is that English is just another language—at least the advertisers here think so. Spanish is another. Then you learn something about misery and desperation. Here are ads for abortion services, medical services, lawyers on the cheap-for drug counseling, sex counseling, AIDS counseling, pregnancy counseling, immigration counseling. Stay in School. Use a

Then I look around at the people. It's a Saturday, late afternoon, and so what I have on this train are some shoppers, but mostly what looks like poor people commuting to one job or another. They look beat. Give them a moment's peace—a long stretch between stations—and their heads will hit their chests. I study one man in particular. He is wearing work boots, a dark heavy garment like a pea jacket. He is 40, 45, and his face, deeply black and deeply lined, looks as if it has not smiled in years.

unshoulders a large canvas bag and takes out a portable telephone. "Five dollar!" he yells. "Five dollar!" Having found no takers, he moves to another car. Next comes one beggar, then another, jangling coins in their cups.

I am resolute. I will not be played for a patsy. And neither will my fellow passengers. The two beggars get not a penny. I am not surprised. These are poor people, the so-called working poor you may have read about, and while they have many burdens, one of them is not liberal guilt. No. Of that I am sure. I rely on them to be unmoved by the beggars, no matter how cloying their pitch, no matter how pitiful their appearance. These are the hardened people of the New York subway, the ones in need of ABOGADOS and cancer cures, whose feet ache with corns and bunions.

A legless man enters the car. He pulls himself along by his arms, the stumps dragging a bit until he swings them under him. He pulls and swings, pulls and swings. He is a black man, around 30 or, on second glance, 50, or maybe 150. It's impossible to tell.

The man in the boots and the heavy garment spies the legless man out of unfocused, drowsy eyes. I know he will not react. By now, I have invented a job for the man in the heavy coat: construction. He has been doing heavy, physical labor all day, and is weary, and hurting. To give to a beggar is to give away a piece of the day, and he will not do that. As if in his sleep, though, he reaches into his pocket and leans forward. He gives the legless man a dollar.

He is just the first. As the legless man pulls himself through the car, the poor give to the poorer. I am stunned. Where is their cynicism? Where is their fear of being ripped off or of saying, as I've been doing in my own mind, that there must be government programs for such people? Yes, of course. Government programs. No need to beg.

But I give the legless man a dollar when he gets to me. I do so because people a lot poorer than me have done so. And they do so, I think, because they don't live in a cocoon, but in the suburbs of misery, a neighborhood of near bad luck, and they know real need when they see it. Their dollars, worth more to them than mine to me, It's hard to sleep in this car. First an Asian man enters. He make me feel cheap and insensitive, a regular Bush, so unaccustomed to life in the express lane (Nine Items, or Less) that I mistake a scanner for a Brave New World.

This is my third reason for riding the subways. It's always an Recently an article was written about Judge Gates and his presentation at Basic High on Feb. 21, Black History Heritage Week. The article in my opinion was written in poor taste from one person's view.

There are two sides to every story. It stated many things I disagree with. He declared Feb. 21 a disaster. Just because of Gates' talk. Much more took place on this day. Many guest speakers came out and left us all something to think about.

What Gates had to say in my opinion was the truth, something we today are not used to hearing. Gates states that there are two different value systems in America, one white and the other minority. He shared his experiences about an America that just 30 years ago considered blacks

It took 400 years for people to see slavery was wrong. How long will it take before America treats everyone the same? His comments made the students uncomfortable, and instead of listening, they shut him out and became irate. The affirmative action topic was also brought up. People are quick to holler reverse discrimination when blacks, who have never had a fair shake, get an advantage. If affirmative action didn't exist, blacks would still be disregarded when it comes to many jobs and colleges.

RETURN TO THE BATCAVE TAVERN

The Supreme Court's decision last week may allow the Clark County School District the options it needs to better serve the student populations in our own neighborhoods.

The concern that needs to be addressed is "quality" of the education received, not with whom it's received. The school district is under court order to integrate our schools using the sixth-grade centers. The sixth-grade centers place the burden of busing on the black community. Students from the west side are bussed 11 out of 12 years; the white are typically bussed only in sixth grade. Hardly equitable.

While many would argue parental involvement is a necessary ingredient to improve education, those same people should realize that the extra burden on both student and parent of being bussed across town for 11 years hinders that involvement.

Other concerns that I'm sure will be brought up are the quality of the facility, staff and availability of supplies. Or as some might see itequality of education.

The concept has to be understood: Some might think an equal educational opportunity means that the same resources are available at all school sites. In other words, all schools receive the same amount of dollars. This cannot be.

In mathematics, we learn equals added to equals are equal. We also learned equals added to unequals are unequal in the same order. That means, if we have student populations that need a greater level of service and we treat them the same way we treat a student population without that need, we will not achieve educational equality.

School district officials have demonstrated their awareness of this fact. They have identified "at risk" school populations and have allowed the principals of those schools to have first choice when considering new hires. That is a very positive step.

Another step that should be seriously considered is incentive pay for teachers that choose to teach in schools where there is the most need. That incentive should be offered to bona fide "master" teachers—not just any teacher looking to earn more money. Schools that service many "at risk" students need some mechanism to keep good teachers at their schools. Teaching at a school with greater needs should be seen as a credential of a master teacher.

The elimination of bussing could literally save the school district millions of dollars per year and it has the potential of using the neighborhood school as a catalyst to involve many more parents in their child's education and enhance school pride because of that feeling of ownership.

I have to believe that school security would also be affected. Students are less likely to vandalize their own neighborhood school. They would also be less likely to be involved in mischief if everyone knew who they were and mom or dad could respond to a school's call immediately.

It'll be interesting to see how the school district and community respond to the Supreme Court's decision.

Bill Hanlon is a teacher in the Clark County School District.

Demobilizing Defense Plants

Over the past six years, more than 78,000 defense suppliers have gone out of business or converted to commercial contracts as a result of cutbacks in defense spending. More than 300,000 jobs have already been lost, and prospects for another 1,000,000 are likely. The economic impact of the drawdown will be felt even sooner for subcontractors and vendors as new orders for long lead items dry up.

The latest Department of Defense plan is to maintain robust research and development programs with limited production of advanced technology prototypes. However, these prototypes will not be fielded unless necessary. Free market forces will be allowed to determine the size and structure of the smaller defense industrial base. This approach will not preserve the critical skills in the work force that would be needed in a crisis. Nor will it allow our highly regulated defense industries to compete in domestic and international markets. The success of critical defense industries will depend upon decisions by the government to help them survive.

There are no quick and easy solutions to these problems, but it is imperative that we do what we can to preserve some production lines in critical defense industries. To get there, maybe we should start with some effort to reform the Defense Department's research and development and procurement systems. That alone could achieve greater efficiencies and allow continuation of some programs now scheduled for termination.

For another thing, the Department could shift some funding from research and development to procurement for the purchase of new systems or modernization of older systems to keep some critical production lines open and the skilled work force in place.

Finally, increasing defense exports would help keep production lines open, secure jobs and income for many American workers, improve the balance of payments and assist friends and allies in their defense. For every $1 billion in foreign military sales, an estimated 50,000 American workers are employed. With an estimated $120 billion market over the next 10 years, the possibilities are not trivial! Defense Report

The scorched-earth candidate If Jerry Brown is the answer, then the question must be awfully weird. Something like: Do you want a president who talks-and liesout of both sides his mouth? Gov. Brown worked with Mother Teresa, so that poor, saintly woman must be doubly ashamed of this man's record of deceit, dishonesty and perfidy.

Brown presents himself as an outsider who wants to recapture government from the Washington insiders-those prisoners of big contributors and special interests. Symbolic of his rejection of the "system" is his pious refusal to accept campaign contributions of more than $100 and his use of an 800 number. This is the same Jerry Brown who testified in a California court two years ago against the $1,000 cap on individual campaign contributions. Not only do limits do "nothing to lower corruption," he said under oath, they "breed corruption" and should be raised. "So you want more money in political campaigns?" he was asked. "Yes," he insisted. The limits "make the democratic process less honest, less robust and less open."

Jerry Brown has spent years shaking the bushes for big contributors, raising some $20 million for his various campaigns. He has not been all that fastidious about it, either. For example, Brown has solicited funds from prospective judicial candidates. He says he is not beholden to special interests, but he has gone on bent knee to labor leaders for support. He accepted thousands of dollars from S&Ls in his 1982 campaign, having himself signed into California law the anythinggoes deregulation that made the Charles Keating affair and other S&L debacles possible. Now he disingenuously denounces others for deregulating S&Ls.

It gets worse. Brown attacked Bill Clinton for funnelling money to his wife's law firm, citing a Washington Post story that, in fact, said nothing of the sort. All it said was that Hillary Clinton was a partner in a leading Arkansas firm that has done business with the state like other large law firms—and that she refused to accept any income from such state-related business. Brown must have been looking in the mirror. It was his law firm, Fulbright and Jaworski, that billed California taxpayers nearly $200,000 for arguing the Democratic party's case against limits on campaign contributions.

The same cynicism is manifest in Brown's so-called silver-bullet tax plan. He suggests that America's 4,000-page tax code is an attempt to confuse and plunder the average citizen—especially the working class and poor whom Brown purports to champion. Yet it is his own proposal of a 13 percent flat tax, coupled with a 13 percent value-added tax (VAT), that would hurt the poor and the middle class. It would plunder middle-class Americans by making them pay 31 percent more and further enrich the wealthy by cutting taxes in half for the top 1 percent of U.S. families. For poor people, "Jerry's tax," as Clinton has labeled it, would be a double whammy: Their income taxes would rise 20 percent; the VAT—in effect, a 13 percent national sales tax would hit them relatively harder than other groups because the poor spend virtually all their income on necessities. Brown's regressive tax plan, in short, is a fraud that would also increase the budget deficit by $200 billion.

They have his number in California, where they know him best. There, he campaigned for reform, then stomped all over it after he won. He presided over an increase in unemployment from 7.3 to 9.9 percent and turned a $500 million budget surplus into a $1.5 billion budget deficit when he left office. In a matter of days, he vetoed a bill authorizing $18 million to keep libraries open, but approved a $20 million tax break for horse racing. No wonder he was forced to abandon his run for the Senate and chose to run for president instead.

His current record continues his doublespeak. A longtime advocate of the North American free-trade agreement, he attacked it when he needed to pander to the auto workers in Michigan. He supported freedom of choice for women but says he is against abortion as "the killing of the unborn," and "crazy." He has flip-flopped so often and so cynically on so many issues that if he were the first politician in space, NASA could test the effect of weightlessness on weightlessness. As one critic happily depicted his reversals: "That was Zen. This is Now."

Brown has said one true thing in the campaign: America is being ripped off and lied to. Yes, and Jerry Brown is the one doing it.

Alerting teenagers to driver's responsibilities

If you're the parent of a teenager, you should know this. Teens are at greater risk of dying in a motor vehicle crash than from any other cause. You can lower the odds, but consider the facts:

Forty percent of all 16- to 19-year-old deaths occur in motor vehicle crashes-the No. 1 killer of young Americans.

Every two to three weeks, the equivalent of an entire senior class at a typical high school is killed in motor vehicle accidents-more than 6,000 teenagers last year alone.

During the past decade 74,000 teens died in automobiles, more than from all diseases combined.

Male teenagers are twice as likely to die in automobiles as their female counterparts, and more 19-year-old males are killed in automobiles than any other group of Americans.

Tragically, the "why" is not difficult to understand. Young drivers often lack maturity and experience—too often a deadly combination. They also have curiously mixed attitudes on driving. While it is important to them-representing freedom, adulthood, and status, they can also be ambivalent about the dangers. Young males in particular have a strong sense of invincibility. They're quite certain it can never happen to them, but unfortunately the statistics show that it obviously can and does. What can a parent do?

For one, our adult attitudes toward driving are often much too casual. We do it every day, it's routine, and it's not a "big deal." That's a serious flaw. It is a big deal, and transmitting a casual attitude to teen drivers is the worst thing possible. The 16-year-old with a new license is accepting one of the greatest responsibilities of their young lives. Obviously, from the statistics, it is a responsibility for which many are ill-prepared. Parents can change that.

What can you do? How about:

·Set the example. Let your teen know by the way you drive that it is an important activity deserving full attention and respect. Tell them it's serious business.

•Insist on seat belts. It's the single most important safety precaution any driver can take.

•Restrict night-time driving. Forty percent of all teenage driving deaths occur between 9 p.m. and 3 a.m.

·Be strict on drinking and driving. Impress on your teens that underage drinking is illegal. If they encounter problems make sure they have a safe alternative.

•Talk to your teen. Let them know you care about them, and that you care about their safety in an automobile. Remind them that driving is serious business.

Remember, parents are not alone. Driver education programs are important. School, health care and traffic safety officials are glad to help. Many law enforcement agencies offer "ride along" programs where teens can see the importance of traffic safety first hand, and student organizations such as Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD)

Your insurance company can also assist. For example, Farmers Insurance Company launched its Youth Education and Safety (Y.E.S.) program this month, which will send 16,000 agents directly into homes to offer counseling to customers' newly licensed teen drivers. This program demonstrates one company's concern about reducing the tragic loss of teenage lives on our highways. When your teen receives his or her driving license, it's a scary situation. You're concerned, and with good reason. But by thinking, talking and setting the example, you can help your teen beat the statistics. After all, there are many good teenage drivers out there. Shouldn't your son or daughter be one of them?

Education dependent on business

By John Flaherty

Business needs to take more of an interest in education. Everyone on this planet is an expert when it comes to schools and education. We want the schools to produce graduates who can read, write and do arithmetic. Back to the Basics is a call that we hear every five years or so. We, in the business community, blame the parents, the teachers, the kids or whoever else comes to mind for not producing the type of graduate needed in today's work force.

When I went to high school everyone had to learn a trade. It really didn't make any difference if you were college bound or not, you spent four years in industrial arts. I chose to study printing for four years. Unfortunately, the printing presses at the school were antiques. I learned to set type by hand and to read upside down. The reason for this was the fact the school district did not have the funds for buying state-of-the-art offset presses and plate-making equipment. I received an excellent education in the way printing was done two generations ago. So when I graduated, if I had chosen to go into printing I would have had to go to a commercial trade school to learn modern printing skills. Donations of equipment, and advice to the teachers as to what skills were required at that time would have given the teachers invaluable advice as to what to teach the kids.

Business has to lead the way and communicate with our educators. In our business it is essential that employees know how to figure GMP or gross margin of profit. They also need to know how to use a profit wheel for computing costs and profits. I have never seen GMP, or a profit wheel discussed in a business math book. In fact it is very difficult to find a calculator with a GMP function. Why is this the case? The answer probably is that nobody in the wholesale, retail trade has ever brought this subject up to educators or text book writers.

Educators and school systems have to work with the resources and equipment that they have or can afford. They need to be able to teach word-processing with programs like Word-Perfect or Word. For math and statistics they need Lotus 1-2-3 or Excel. If a school is teaching graphic arts the knowledge of the Macintosh system is almost essential. This is just an example of some of the assistance that our young people and educators need. Much of this help needs to come from the business community. We have at least one company that understands the plight of education and is doing something about it. That company is Timet. As business and professional people we need to offer more assistance to education and a lot less criticism.

Burkholder to provide food for needy seniors

By Chuck Colletta

Burkholder Middle School students, under the guidance of instructor Curtis St. John, have begun a project to provide Easter food baskets to needy seniors. These outstanding youngsters are spearheading a program to collect food, raise funds and to assemble food boxes. The Henderson Senior Center and the Black Mountain Senior Nutrition Program are assisting in this project by providing the names of needy seniors and volunteers to deliver the food. The target date for delivery is Friday. If you would like to contribute to or assist with this project, call Curt at 799-8080 extension 44, or Bud or Chuck at 565-6990. Love a Parade?

Join with the Henderson Senior Center to participate in the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Days Parade on Saturday, April 18. The center will enter a threevehicle cavalcade to include the Black Mountain Senior Nutrition Program van, the Henderson Senior Center van, and a large city truck featuring the Young at Heart Senior Band. The Young at Hearts will play amplified music from the truck at all stops. Seniors are invited to join in decorating the vehicles starting at 9 a.m., and to ride in the vans during the parade.

Never too old Dr. Herman Van Betten, the dean of the Henderson campus of the Community College of Southern Nevada, will be at the center at noon or Tuesday to give a presentation. He will discuss the wonderful opportunities available to seniors through CCSN. Dr. Van Betten heads a staff of 15 full-time and 100 adjunct professors at the Henderson campus. They offer courses in all university transfer subjects and complete programs including ornamental horticulture, computer information, mechanical technology, business management and many other subjects. Seniors ages 62 and older may enroll free. The recently enlarged Henderson campus is located on College

Green Valley shuts down Wolves 7-0

A four-hit shutout thrown by Green Valley's Tom LaRosa left Basic coach Gary Chaires frustrated Tuesday after a 7-0 league loss to the Gators.

Each squad recorded three errors, but Basic's fielding woes cost them a three-run deficit in the opening inning at Green Valley High School. After three scoreless rallies, the Wolves' offense submitted to LaRosa's mix of curves and placement.

"We struggled with guys in scoring position. We needed a big hit at a key point to get the psychological edge after they jumped out to an early lead," Chaires said. "Our bats are just so darn anemic! It's baffling to me."

The Wolves (6-3 overall, 1-1 in Sunrise Division) collected four hits to the Gators' seven. But the Basic team also struck out nine times and flied out six times. Wolves' shortstop Wes Brasher had two hits Tuesday. Charles Anderson doubled in the second inning.

Green Valley (9-1 overall, 2-0 in division) got key hits early in the game, including a bad-hop single past Basic third baseman Mike Marshall. The Gators also had doubles by LaRosa and Shaw Casey.

Basic hurler Erik Oliver (1-2) completed five innings against the scrappy Gators before Aaron Raeder came on in relief. Oliver allowed four earned runs on seven hits, striking out five and walking and struck out nine Wolves.

During Basic's biggest scoring attempts in the second and third innings, the Wolves left five runners on base. In the second, Dennis Crine reached first on an error, and Anderson sent him to third with a double. But LaRosa got Cory Frehner and Mike Marshall on called third strikes to end the threat.

Wolves outlast Chaparral

After playing to a draw in their league opener Friday, Chaparral handed Basic a 4-3 victory in eight innings Monday afternoon.

During Friday's portion of the extended, suspended battle, the Cowboys pulled ahead of Basic in the sixth and seventh innings with a run during each at-bat. But the stubborn Wolves tied before the game was suspended after seven innings late Friday, Chaires said.

When the eighth inning was played Monday, Anderson started things for Basic with a single. Chad Brandon advanced Anderson to second with a perfect sacrifice bunt, and Jeremy Brandon was intentionally walked to set up a possible double play with one

Marshall singled sharply to left field to load the bases, and Dave Biddinger collected an easy RBI when he was walked to conclude the game, Chaires said. R H E 000-000-0 0 4 3 Green Valley 310-030-X 7 7 3

Wolves: Bad day at Black Mountain

By Terry Carter News Staff Writer

Barry Courtney had the hot hand for Basic Tuesday, but the Wolves' golf team failed to nail down their first win this spring.

Before the Eldorado Sundevils arrived at Black Mountain Golf and Country Club, Basic Golf Coach Dennis Smuskiewicz knew his Wolves could gain some confidence with a midseason victory over a weak Eldorado squad.

But the Wolves (0-6, 0-5 in the Sunrise Division) struggled on the final holes to drop a 222-228 decision to Eldorado. The Sundevils' Ken Templeton shot a 40 to take the medalist honors, but Basic's Courtney was close with a seasonbest 41.

Typical of Basic golfers this spring, Courtney encountered immediate problems on the first hole. He four-putted the initial green for a triple-bogey seven, Smuskiewicz said.

He came back with a birdie on the 170-yard second hole to turn his game around. And except for a double bogey on the seventh hole, he parred in.

"Barry showed marked improvement. It was a nice, solid effort for him," the Basic golf coach said. "But overall on the last three holes, everybody folded Shane Taylor and Ben Browning, Basic's traditional medalists, both finished at 43 as Taylor had trouble with his short game, and Browning finished with a doublebogey and a bogey.

Rob Warren's 47 and Johnny Williams' 54 also counted on Basic's team total

HOLD UP— As Dennis Crine rounds third on a double by Charles Anderson in the second inning Tuesday, Basic coach Gary Chaires lets Crine know to stay at third against Green Valley.

Little League holds opening ceremonies

The Henderson Little League held its opening day ceremonies Saturday at Morrell Park, with a little help from Basic High School students and members of the community.

Seniors Candie and Christine Dirk sang the national anthem and the Basic High School Reserve Officers' Training Corps presented colors.

Mike Martin of the Las Vegas Baseball Academy, Officer Chris Smith of the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Dept., and Dave Ruegge, representing the Vegas Valley Umpires Assn., were guest speakers for the event.

Leagues began this week and continue through June 13. Allstarteams will be announced June 20 and the Henderson Little League will host a valley-wide all-star game for the Major league (11-12 year-olds) in July.

Edholm's four RBI lead Lady Gators to 12-6 league win over Lady Wolves

By Sal DeFilippo News Sports Editor

Kristin Edholm went 4-for-4 Tuesday, incuding a bases-clearing double, and had four RBI as the Green Valley Lady Gators defeated the Basic Lady Wolves 12-6 in a varsity softball game at Green Valley High School.

Basic trailed 2-1 in the fourth inning when a double steal by Donna Acuna and Stephanie Gottschall produced a run to tie the score. Jenifer Ebert followed with a triple, scoring Acuna to give the Lady Wolves the lead.

In the bottom of the fourth, GiGi Burrought, Carolyn Ragusa and Michelle Gutierrez walked to set up Edholm's three-run double.

"We've always been a comeback team," Lady Gators Head Coach Alma Randolph said. "We started out slow again today, but I was confident we could come back on them."

Ragusa (3-2) pitched a complete game for Green Valley. She allowed eight hits, and had four strikeouts.

"She hung in there for the whole game. She got a little frustrated in the late innings, but she pulled through for us," Randolph said.

The Lady Wolves (2-6, 0-2 in the Sunrise Division) cut Green Valley's lead to 5-4 in the fifth when Ragusa walked Gottschall with the bases loaded, scoring Kelley Haney. But Ragusa escaped the jam by retiring Acuna on a force play and striking out

"Our defense was much better today, and we struggled a little on the mound," Basic Head Coach Barbara Gillaspy said. "We did better today than we have been. Our defense stayed in the game and that's a positive. But we had (Ebert) look at a third strike with the bases loaded, when the time before that she hit a triple. That wasn't a very aggressive at-bat, and that's the kind of young mistakes we make."

Green Valley (5-4, 2-0) scored four runs in the fifth and three in the sixth to put the game out of

"In our last four games we've been behind by a considerable number of runs in the third inning, so our goal today was to make it close early, and the girls did exactly what we asked,"Lady Gators Assistant Coach Craig Ciarlo said. "Kristin has hit in the clutch for us all year. She was 4-for-4 in our win against Bonanza, too. We are really coming on now and if we can keep it together, we'll be

Basic dominates three-team meet

By Terry Carter News Staff Writer

On a perfect spring day, the Basic Wolves dominated Las Vegas and Green Valley in a trimeet held at Green Valley Tuesday. The Lady Wolves also posted a victory in a much closer race.

The Basic boys scored 1001/2 points to 55 for Las Vegas and 231/2 for Green Valley. In the girls' competition, the Lady Wolves earned 66 points, Green Valley 57 and Las Vegas 43.

Standouts for the Wolves included double winner Jamie McGeahy in the 800- and 1,600meter races. McGeahy has been steady in the 800 for several weeks, and he covered the distance in 2 minutes, 1.2 seconds Tuesday. In the mile, he continues to cut his time as the Basic senior ran a 4:26.8.

In the field events, Basic's Chris Potvin won the shotput with a throw of 42 feet, 11/4 inches and teammate Robert Edmundson won the discus with a 129-3 toss. Lucia Chan won both hurdle events and the triple jump to give the Lady Wolves a narrow win

In the 100 hurdles, Chan ran a 17.8 and complemented that with a 50.7 in the 300 hurdles. She also won the triple jump with a 28-8 3/4 flight.

Becky Puleo won the 1,600 in 5:55.2, and Laura Briggs won the 3,200 in 13:34. In field events, recent recruit Karen Morris won the discus with a 76-3 toss.

UNDER THE TAG-Green Valley's Michelle Bellotti is safe at home as Basic's Stephanie Gottschall applies a late tag during the sixth inning of the Lady Gators' 12-6 win over Basic Tuesday at Green Valley.

What they found was a sample of the history and artistry of Native American arts, crafts and cultures. A craft market featured the work of nearly 20 artists, including basket weavers, bead workers and potters.

Fry-bread and Navajo tacos allowed visitors to "enjoy a taste of Native American culture," said museum curator Mark Ryzdynski.

Guest lecturers Catherine Fowler of the University of Nevada, Reno, and Linda Eaton of the Museum of Northern Arizona spoke of "Southern Piaute Art, Crafts and Tools" and "The Hear and Now in Southwestern Indian Art," respectively.

Dance performances by Moapa Piaute Hoop Dancer Chris Anderson, the Morning Star Performing Arts Group and the Moapa Band of Paiutes Performing Group also highlighted the weekend.

The featured exhibit of this year's festival is the Owen Pauff Collection of Southern Paiute Basketry, the largest of its kind in Nevada, dating to the turn of the century. The basketry will be displayed at the Heritage Gallery through May 3. Other contemporary and traditional Native American arts will be available for viewing and purchase.

One of the most critical factors in determining where to look for fish this time of year is water temperature. Even a one-degree difference will mean fish will be in different areas. On Lake Mead, the northern-most coves warm first and attract the spawning female bass. The spawning process for bass usually starts at approximately 60 degrees and peaks at 65 degrees. Striper spawning takes place in waters some 65 to 70 degrees and usually peaking in May.

Turbid water warms sooner because of its ability to collect and hold heat. In turbid water the fish are less spooky and are easier to get near. The flipping technique works well in turbid water, especially if brush or trees are on or near the shore line.

Looking at a large stand of partially-submerged brush or trees will leave you scratching your head and wondering where to start. Since this structure produces oxygen it's a good idea to start with the largest bushes or trees first. The bass can be holding tight to the base of the structure or suspended in the limbs. If a cold front is in effect, or just passing, the bass will be holding very tight to the structure. If it's been sunny and warm for a few days, with a high barometer, then the bass may be from the structure searching for prey.

A half-ounce weedless jig with a pork frog trailer or artificial crayfish trailer works well this time of year. Throw your lure right into the middle of the structure and work it slowly through the limbs to the base of the tree or Watch your line intently as you may not feel the strike and only see the line jump. It's important to be aware of the water depth at the structure. If, for instance, you are in 6 feet of water and your line jumps at anything less than 6 feet it most likely is a fish. Seven-toeight foot flipping sticks matched with a heavy duty reel locked down on the drag or with the flipping gearengaged allows for a good hook set.

Twenty- to 30-pound line is necessary to move the bass through the structure and to the boat. You will be amazed at how close you are to these fish in turbid water. Many times having only approximately 10 feet of line or less between your rod tip and the fish. Slow and deliberate is the best method. It's possible to take several fish from the same bush.

Striper fishing continues to be slow with lots of small stripers in the 10-inch size being taken on the outside point of Gypsum Wash. Many anglers are concentrating their efforts on catfish, fishing on the bottom in 20 to 60 feet of water with small pieces of shad or anchovies.

Keep your hooks sharp and good fishing!

I'd Rather Be Boating
By Don Holladay Boaters have a habit of boating

Aside from the Coast Guard requirements you have on your boat, there are two other items you should have, when boating on Lake Mead and Lake Mohave.

If you plan to boat at all during this coming season, get a VHF radio. Those radios are not for just the larger boats. All boats spending any time on the lake should have one, and know how to use it. It could save you, someone in your family or your boat, and you might be able to save somebody else, their family or their boat. There are situations that come up nearly every weekend in which that VHF radio band plays a major role. And it isn't always the other guy who needs the help.

The range of the Park Service tranceivers on Lake Mead puts you in contact from nearly any position on the lake. They are even going to improve that situation. When you are in trouble however, you want to hear from anybody who might "have their ears on," especially if there is injury or sickness aboard.

Alongside that VHF radio you must have a U.S. Government official chart of that lake. Lake Mohave is not so bad in explaining your location, but the 700 miles of Lake Mead shoreline is a lot of shoreline when the captain is unable to tell the boat trying to help him where he is located. I think the cost for that chart is about $16. Don't give it a thought. Buy it.

with close friends. They all start calling a given cove by some pet name. That means that maybe a half dozen boats would recognize the location if heard on the VHF, but the other 20,000 boaters have no idea where you are. With the chart, not only Park Service, but the VIP group and most of the other boaters who are listening, will be looking at the same chart along with you. If you don't have a chart, pass these thoughts along to your first mate and see how quickly you have one aboard. Great idea for a skippers gift. I think the cost is still less than $20.

The third, and even more important item is to take the time and teach that first mate how to operate the radio as well as the boat. She doesn't have to do repairs, but put yourself in her place with you taken sick or hurt, and she doesn't know step one how to call for help or start the boat moving for a marina. Don't underestimate her, give her some time to be taught and she could save all of you. I've seen some of the most genteel with a little time learning that boat and radio, do a great job. Man or woman, that is a big lake, and without knowledge of running the boat or how to call for assistance. it can become panic. Toss in a couple of small children for her to also feel responsible for, and then she may put an end to all future boating. I've also seen that happen before.

The last requirement is your "skipper" attitude to always be ready to help the boater asking for assistance. It is not a matter of having to tow a boat back to a marina as your weekend is starting, but at least offer assistance. You never know when you might need help.

I have found that good skippers have their minds in three places, at least when they are underway. Their boat and those aboard, the weather, and noticing the condition of each boat that comes into their view. Is that your frame of mind when underway?

Don't forget the monthly meeting of The Lake Mead Boat Owners Association on April 26. It is an election meeting. Want to be heard and recognized by other boaters? Plan to be there whether to join and vote, or to exercise your right to vote.

BLM looks for adopted mustangs

The Bureau of Land Management is looking for a few mustangs with no papers—ownership papers, that is. After one year of care, adopters of wild mustangs should apply for permanent title to their horse.

"Without an official title from the BLM, the status of the horse remains in question, and legal transfer of ownership is not permitted," said Bruce Sillitoe, wild horse specialist for the BLM's operative agreement with the Stateline Resource Area. The "Big Fight Of The Month" (Foreman vs. Stewart which was preceded by Barkley vs. Hearns in March and will be followed by Norris vs. Taylor in May and Holyfield vs. Holmes in June) is Saturday in Las Vegas, at the Thomas and Mack Center. The action next week takes place elsewhere.

The most important fight happens in Atlantic City on April 22 when Reggie Johnson and Ron Collins meet for the vacant WBA middleweight championship.

I wonder if the winner will face former WBA middleweight champion Mike McCallum, one of the best fighters in the world today, who was stripped of his crown for fighting IBF middleweight champion James Toney instead of going in against an opponent rated by the WBA.

Some other upcoming fights include a title defense by IBF junior flyweight champion Michael Carbajal. He'll fight in Albuquerque, N.M., on April 30 against an opponent to be named later.

On May 30 in Korea, WBC Strawweight Champion Ricardo Lopez puts his crown on the line against Kwangsoo Oh.

It looks like the race is on to see who'll be the first fighter from what was the Soviet Union to hold a professional world championship. That should be either cruiserweight Andre Rudenko or flyweight

Yuri Anachakov. Rudenko is scheduled to go against WBC cruiserweight champion Anaclet Wamba while Anachakov is scheduled to face WBC flyweight champion Muangchai Kittkikason. The winner of the Wamba-Rudenko bout will put his title up for grabs against Orlin Norris, brother of WBC super welterweight champion Terry Norris.

Finally, there's a new young heavyweight training here in Las Vegas and he's looking good!

That's Tai Gilroy, a 22-year-old from Honolulu. His work in the gym and in his seven pro fights in Hawaii show he has the skill and talent and at 6-foot-5, 235 pounds, he has the size.

He's under the supervision of former world ranked contender Sterling McPherson and is being trained by veteran Panama Lewis.

Like several other fine young prospects here in town, Gilroy is one to keep your eye on!

NDOW to conduct early trout releases

By David K. Rice

In anticipation of low water levels by the end of June, the Nevada Department of Wildlife has begun the release of hatcheryreared trout in the drought-stricken western portion of the state.

Six years of extremely low precipitation levels have resulted in a decision to accelerate fish releases into waters of northwestern Nevada, including the Truckee, Carson and Walker River Systems.

"During a normal year, we would not stock our larger rivers until late spring when the majority of the runoff had occurred," said Jim Curran, NDOW chief of fisheries.

"However, this year there will be little runoff, and in anticipation of low water flows and high water temperatures by early summer, we began the release of trout into some northwestern Nevada waters in early March."

Plans call for the release of approximately 476,000 rainbow and 57,000 brown "catchable-size" trout into the waters of northwestern Nevada. "With this amount of fish, anglers can expect good to excellent fishing success, but we advise that they begin their fishing early this year," he said.

Low water levels in most rivers and streams results in increased water temperatures which precludes the release of the cooltemperature loving trout, according to Curran. The situation is a little different at lakes such as Topaz and Tahoe where releases can be conducted later in the year.

"The first releases into the Truckee River this year were completed March 16, and Renoarea anglers will be happy to hear that Virginia Lake has been stocked. Additional releases into the Truckee have been made since that time.

"Fish will be released into other western Nevada waters on a regular basis through the middle of June. Once we have the planting schedule completed, we will make specific information available to the public," Curran advised.

Other waters in northwestern Nevada that were stocked with rainbow trout during March include the Topaz Reservoir, Indian Lakes (near Fallon), Lahontan and Squaw Valley reservoirs.

Lakes Mead and Mohave in southern Nevada are currently being stocked with catchablesized rainbow trout from the Department's Lake Mead

Other southern Nevada waters, including ponds on the Wayne E. Kirch Wildlife Management Area and Echo Canyon and Eagle Valley reservoirs, will be stocked beginning in early April after the ice is off these waters.

According to Curran, a total of 1.7 million trout will be released this year throughout the state. In addition to the rainbow, catchable size brook, brown, cutthroat, cuttbow and tiger trout will be planted at various waters this year.

By Ruth Soehlke DUCKPINS DUELS WITH JOUSTING IN MARYLAND: Did you know the sport of duckpins was born in the spring of 1900 at the old Diamond Alleys on Howard Street in Baltimore? The center was owned by two former Baltimore Orioles of the old International Minor League, Wilbert Robinson and John J. McGraw. They asked John Dittmar, a noted Baltimore woodworker, to use his lathe to turn down a set of old, battered tenpins into "little pins." Dittmar matched that by turning down a few bowling balls made from a dense tropical wood called lignum Robinson's and McGraw's other hobby and sport was duck hunting. When they saw the little pins fly into the pit they were reminded of a flock of flying ducks. A sportswriter, Bill Clarke of the Baltimore Morning Sun, wrote a column on the unique new game with its "flying ducks" and christened them "duckpins." The name has stuck ever since.

vitae into six-inch balls.

Jousting, which is Maryland's state sport, goes back to the medieval days when knights on horseback dueled with lances. Today's jousters have toned down the sport by spearing a ring on a string instead of one another.

There are about five jousting clubs still in the state, with about 60 members in each club. From May to October about 40 tournaments are held, with several hundred jousters participating around the state of Maryland.

Proprietors of duckpin bowling center throughout the state of Maryland have been handing out petitions for several months for their bowlers to sign in order to promote duckpin bowling as the official state sport.

With more than 250,000 sanctioned league duckpin bowlers in the state, plus thousands more open-play bowlers who bowl every day of the year for recreation and relaxation, the coalition called "Marylanders for Duckpin Bowling as a State Sport," believes the proposal to make duckpin bowling the state sport officially has every chance to be passed by the Maryland general assembly.

PENNSYLVANIAN BOWLS
AT 97: Mary Hertach wields a bright orange bowling ball. She lays it down with a crack on her lucky lane, number 14, and it rolls to the pins in slow motion. Down at the end, the pins quake and falter. The ball is only 10 pounds, but it's all elbows.

At 97, Hertach can be forgiven the odd gutter ball during her three weekly games in suburban Philadelphia. The 5-foot woman with an 84 average is the oldest female league bowler on the East Coast, at least as far as the Women's International Bowling Congress can tell.

Hertach is the toast of her league. She started factory work at 14, married a Navy man at 20, raised three girls, and was widowed 30 years ago.

What keeps her going? "Just bowling, and I love it," she said. LADIES DAY LEAGUE: 2

Massimino was the right move

A new coach at UNLV took most by surprise. It really shouldn't have, because criteria called for a highly visible individual with a strong academic commitment.

Rollie Massimino said goodbye to the heat of the Philadelphia press and hello to a UNLV program which will have to be reassembled. Five years, the length of his contract, and he'll be saying hello to the mailman delivering his retirement checks.

In the interim, though, his work is cut out for him. The in-fighting alone could wear him down not to mention the fractious atmosphere he enters with the Jerry Tarkanian

The choice of Massimino was a good one and now the hope is that the needle and thread he brings along is sufficient to sew together again a promising program.

NOTES OFF THE CUFF—The National Hockey League has enough problems without losing the Stanley Cub playoffs to a strike. In its 75th year this season, the NHL had the potential to bring the pucksters into the limelight.

By Jim Brann

That's shattered now, whether the season can be saved or not. Bigtime television, or lack thereof, hurt the NHL. If the New York Rangers could have skated off with the Stanley Cup you can bet television contracts would be drawn up for next year's schedule. That's out the window now.

The Masters is underway, another sure sign that spring is at hand. The hallowed Augusta, Ga., course can tear the heart out of a player while bringing greatness to others. Those wearing the coveted green jackets are in a most selected circle in sports.

This year's hottest golfer will have a lot to prove this week as he seeks to add a major title to his resume. Aftertaking a week off to take in the Final Four at Minneapolis, Fred Couples should come to Augusta well rested. For that reason I like Couples to win and go on to have the greatest year ever by a PGA player. Still, the Masters, with its dominant foreign field, is just one top notch tournament. But it's one that can put a player in the limelight for a long time.

As the month progresses we'll be hearing more and more of the Kentucky Derby to be run May 2. Azari, runaway winner of the Breeders Cup juvenile, has been the odds-on favorite since December. His first race is this week and then he'll come to Louisville. Sort of an odd training regiment according to most race observers.

Meanwhile A.P. Indy made a strong showing last weekend in capturing the Santa Anita Derby. West Coast bettors will be chucking the money in on him but I'm looking strongly at Casual Lies, who finished third in the Santa Anita Derby.

Shelley Riley, who owns and trains Casual Lies, took a lot of heat for entering the Santa Anita Derby instead of the California Derby this week at Golden Gate. But off the yearling's performances Casual Lies can be considered a legitimate threat. In addition to getting an extra week off in tuning up for the Run for the Roses, Casual Lies got an important run at the proper time in training.

If Casual Lies goes in the Kentucky Derby the publicity mill will be working overtime. In addition to Riley, who is female, jockey Alan Patterson will draw much interest.

Patterson, at 42, has only a few wins at Golden Gate where he hangs his tack. It will be his first Derby and Casual Lies will be cast in the spoiler category.

Though a late foal, Casual Lies won't be three until May 22. He has to be given a chance. Besides, how can you lay 2-5 at race books and expect to remain sane?

And, that's as far as I go.

Scottish ancestral search tips provided

By Ralph T. Briggs Genealogist & Historian Ancestral Search Scotland's Outer Hebrides Islands-Heretofore little has been known of the Outer Hebrides Islands, because they are not easy to reach. These islands consist of Lewis, Harris, North Uist and South Uist, situated west of Scotland with an area of 2,900 square miles and a population of about 75,000. We now learn that in the last 200 years virtually every household has been researched and more than 17,500 family group record sheets and pedigree charts have been obtained. In addition, details of many emigrant families in Canada, USA and elsewhere have also been traced. With this resource it is possible to trace families back to the generation born about 1750-1780, and data to assist in locating ancestors would include the island of origin, place or original emigrant settlement, local census entries, family naming patterns, etc.

To obtain this data, first try the nearest LDS Family History Center Library, then you might (for a fee) write to: Co Leis Thus, The Old School House, Northern, Isle of Harris, Scotland PA853JA. It should be noted that the latter service is not free and a fee is required after you have written to Scotland and obtained an estimate of the charges. In responding be sure to enclose International Postal Coupons.

Germanic Computer Register-A new source has been created for locating origins of Germanic emigrants. A large computer database has been established with information covering the entire former German Empire for emigration years 1820-1918. Further information may be obtained by contacting: Germanic Emigrants Register, P.O. Box 1720, D-(W) 2840 Diepholz, Federal Republic of Germany.

U.S. Census Age Search Bureau Moves-A notice from the Census Bureau states that effective since August 1991, applications for age search should be addressed to: Bureau of Census, P.O. Box 1545, Jeffersonville, Ind. 47131. This is a move from the present site at Pittsburgh, Kan. Application forms (BC600) for age searches should be obtained from the new address.

Family History Center in SLC Expanded-During your author's visit to the Salt Lake City FHC in December 1991, the library closed for three days during which two floors were rearranged to accommodate more patrons and consolidate films and readers on the second floor and all U.S. and Canada books on the main floor. and addition of about 150 film readers to the second floor (U.S./ Canada area). When the new LDS FHC was opened in October 1985, it was built with the provision of adding one to two more stories for future expansion. However, FHC officials now feel adding one/two more floors would overshadow the next door LDS Museum building—the same height as the FHC. They now plan on using the first two to three stories of the former Hotel Utah building (now under renovation) for a new beginner's and computer facility, to open in early 1993. The Hotel Utah is just one block east of the FHC building.

Business Week sign-ups now

All Nevada high school sophomores, juniors and seniors are now eligible to sign up for Nevada Business Week June 14-20 on the University of Nevada, Reno, campus.

Under the Nevada State Senate Business Week Scholarship Program, students from all over the state will be chosen to represent their State Senate District. The scholarships are provided by businesses throughout the state. The only cost to students is a $25 registration fee and their transportation to and from the UNR campus. All activities, lodging and meals are provided by Business

During the week, students will learn about the free enterprise system, get involved in computer games, visit local businesses and enjoy an array of social and recreational events, as well as experiencing college life for a full week.

All students may sign up at their schools today. The deadline for registration is April 24, and students will be notified of selections by May 15. Contact the school principal or counselor, or call Nevada Business Week at 786-8828 in Reno for more information.

County Registrar of Voters Deborah West announced.

The previous record for voter registration was set in October 1990, before the General Election, at 297,792 voters. Of the 300,637 voters now registered, 138,776 are Democrats; 118,306 are Republicans; 42,793 are non-partisans; and 772 are registered as Libertarians. Over 22,000 voters have been added to the voters rolls since the election year began in January, increasing the percentage of the voting age population registered to 48 percent. A majority of registrations continued to come from the Motor Voter program, which allows votersignups at any Department of Motor Vehicles office, while more than 8,700 voters have used the new mail-invoter registration program.

"Interest in registering and voting always peaks in presidential election years, but to have this phenomenal registration so early in the election year is unprecedented and we hope will translate into a record turnout in the upcoming election," West said.

West said many voters are updating their existing voter registrations by changing their addresses with her office. Any voter who moves after registering must provide a change of address to the Election Department 30 days before the election to prevent their vote from being challenged. Voters may call the department at 455-4055 to request a change-ofaddress card.

Systems of linear equations

By Bill Hanlon

When you solve two equations at the same time, we call that solving the equations "simultaneously," or solving a system of equations. What we are doing is looking for a solution (answer) that satisfies both equations. The geometric interpretation is we are funding the point where two or more lines intersect. A point that is on both lines.

There are two methods of solving equations simultaneously, LINEAR COMBINATION and SUBSTITUTION. Either method will produce correct answers. Generally, I like to use linear combination.

The strategy for solving equations by LINEAR COM-BINATION is to add the equations together in such a way as to eliminate a variable. Then you solve the resulting equation and voila-You're done. Piece of cake.

Let's write an algorithm that will help us accomplish that strategy.

1. Multiply one or both of the equations by a number that will make the coefficients of one of the variables the same, but opposite in sign. i.e. 2X, -2X or 5Y, -5Y.

Add the two equations together (that eliminates a variable).

3. Solve the resulting equation.

Plug that value back into either of the original equations to find the value of the other variable.

EXAMPLE
$$3x + 10y = 2$$

 $x - 2y = 6$

First, I have to determine what variable I want to get rid of. If I multiply the bottom equation by (-3) and add the equations, that will get rid of the x's. OR I could multiply the bottom equation by 5 and add the equations and that will get rid of the y's. IT DOES NOT MATTER WHICH YOU CHOOSE.

I'll multiply the bottom equation by (-3).

$$3x + 10y = 2 \rightarrow \rightarrow \rightarrow \rightarrow 3x + 10y = 2$$

 $x - 2y = 6 \rightarrow \text{mult by -3 } -3x + 6y = -18$
Adding $16y = -16$
Solve $y = -1$

Now we plug that value back into either of the original equations. The second equation looks simpler, so I'll plug in it there.

$$x - 2y = 6$$
 Plug in $y = -1$
 $x - 2(-1) = 6$ Simplify
 $x + 2 = 6$

The answer is the ordered pair (4,-1). That's the point where these two lines intersect. It's called an ordered pair because there are two numbers and they are written in alphabetical order. Again, the strategy is to add the equations together to eliminate a variable. Yes, I can hear you. You love math, math is your life!

EXAMPLE

$$2x + 3y = -4$$

 $5x - 2y = 9$

First, I have to determine which variable is easier to get rid of. Oh boy, in the last equation, all I had to do was multiply one equation by a number to get the coefficients the same. This time I'll have to multiply both equations.

I can multiply the top by-5 and the bottom by 2, that will bet rid of the x's ORI could multiply the top by 2 and the bottom by 3, that will get rid of the y's. I'll choose to get rid of the y's.

I'll multiply the top equation by 2 and the bottom equation by 3.

$$2x + 3y = -4 \rightarrow \text{ mult by } 2 \rightarrow 4x + 6y = -8$$

$$5x - 2y = 9 \rightarrow \text{ mult by } 3 \rightarrow 15x - 6y = 27$$

$$Adding \quad 19x = 19$$

$$Solve \quad x = 1$$

Now plug that value for x back into either of the original equations. Using the top equation:

$$2(1) + 3y = -4 3y = -6$$

The answer is the ordered pair (1, -2). If you chose to get rid of the x's first, you would have gotten the same answer.

The other method used to solve systems of equations is SUBSTITUTION. The strategy is to solve one of the equations in terms of the other, substitute that into the OTHER equation and solve the resulting equation, then play Mr. Plug-in as in the last problem.

The algorithm for SUBSTITUTION

- 1. Solve one of the equations for one of the variables.
- 2. Substitute that expression in the OTHER equation.
- 3. Solve the resulting equation.
- Plug that value into either of the original equations to find the other variable.

Let's redo the first example using this method.

EXAMPLE
$$3x + 10y = 2$$

 $x - 2y = 6$

First, determine which equation has the easiest variable to solve for x in the second equation is cake.

x - 2y = 6, solving for x, x = 6 + 2y Everywhere you see an x in the OTHER equation, substitute 6+2y. The other equation is:

$$3x + 10y = 2$$
 Substitute $6 + 2y$
 $3(6+2y) + 10y = 2$ Simplify
 $18 + 6y + 10y = 2$
 $18 + 16y = 2$
 $16y = -16$
 $y = -1$ Solve

Plug that back into either of the original equations, you find x=4. JUST LIKE BEFORE.

Generally I'll use LINEAR COMBINATIONs to solve systems of equations. I only consider SUBSTITUTION when one of the coefficients of one of the variables is 1, as in the first example. When the coefficients are not 1, as in example 2, I'll use linear combination.

Try this one both ways:
$$2x + y = 11$$

 $3x - 2y = -1$
Solution (3,5)

Yes, God can use even you

By Pastor John Mark Simmons

Highland Baptist Church Perhaps one of the strangest heroines in the Bible is the prostitute Rahab. We find her story in Joshua 2:1-24.

Rahab was the woman who hid the Israelite men sent out by Joshua to reconnoiter the land of Canaan before the army advanced.

Somewhere along the way Rahab came to believe in the God of the Israelites ("for the Lord your God, He is the God in Heaven above and on earth beneath" Josh 2:11) forsaking her own religion and even her own people. She seemed to know that God would provide for her. Because of her great faith the writer of Hebrews lists her with the likes of Abraham. Joseph and Moses as people of great faith (Hebrews 11:31).

Immediately, we need to recognize that God can redeem anyone. Many times I will talk to individuals who think they have committed sins so bad that they have a hard time believing that "the God of heaven above and earth beneath" could still love them. They want to do something to earn God's favor.

person must work their way to heaven. As a church leader this is an attractive lie to propagate because it would make the volunteer positions in our church easy to fill. But this is against the teaching of the Bible (Ephesians 2:8-9). God sent his Son to die for us because of His grace, unmerited favor, not because of what we could or will do for Him. All we have to do is have faith in Him, like Rahab. Is your faith as strong as hers?

The second lesson worthy to note is God wants to use us for His kingdom's work no matter our checkered past. We can actually be a part of Christ's great work Many religions teach that a here and now regardless of what we have done or have not done with our lives. What is interesting about Rahab is that not only is she cited as an example of faith in Hebrews, she is given as an illustration of faith that results in works in the book of James. (2:21-26).

James submits to his readers that true faith will result in good works, not vice versa. As a case in point he mentions Rahab. God can use anyone or in the case of Balaam, any animal. Balaam was a prophet of God about to be caught up in pleasing a king that would give a generous donation to his ministry if he preached a false message. God used Balaam's donkey by opening his mouth, to save Balaam from committing a sin against the Lord.

One moral of that story is that God can literally use anyone. Jesus himself confounded the church leaders of His day by calling uneducated rough and tough working men to be his disciples. To be used in God's work it is not a matter of what one has done or accomplished as much as a willingness to submit to His Lordship. God will do the rest, if we are willing. Are you willing to be used by God?

A third thing we can learn from the story of Rahab is that if God has asked us to do a task He has prepared the way. God wanted His chosen people to reside in the land of Canaan. The first group was disobedient to Him because they did really believe He would provide for their victory of the Canaanites. The Israelites had come to the river Jordan once before, 40 years earlier, to take the land. But the people's fear and lack of faith in God stopped them. God had already prepared the land. In verse 11 of Joshua Rahab says the Canaanite's courage had "melted away." They were already beaten because they believed, and rightly so, that they could not fight and win against an army whose God could deliver the people from the great power of Egypt parting the Red Sea in the process. What is it God has asked you to do, but you haven't believed it possible even though He has prepared the way? Finally, Rahab teaches us of the incredible blessings that await those who follow the Lord. You see, Rahab's reward was to be included in the lineage of Jesus (Matthew 1:5). Only in God's infinite mercy was this possible, but Rahab left her former life and went on to be included in the line of David, which is the ancestry of What blessings are awaiting you, if you will only have faith in God, and allow Him to use you in a way that He has already prepared?

A revised second edition of "Nevada, a Colorful Past," Vol. I, first published in 1975 by native Nevada author Doris Cerveri, is now available.

The book is an anthology of her column of the same name, which appeared every Saturday in the Reno Evening Gazette for 10 years. Thirteen illustrated chapters cover a series of vignettes concerning early business ventures, has traveled the state, visited and photographed ghost towns, and collected first-hand information about many small communities, the people there and those long gone.

A revised second edition of the other half of the Reno column, Vol. II, was published in 1990. Both books are being distributed by the author, 363 S. Lawndale Dr., Elko, Nev. 89801.

HENDERSON PLAZA IN HENDERSON, NV

A visit from the Memphis Belle

By Phillip I. Earl

The Changing Gallery of the Reno Museum is currently featuring an exhibit on World War II, "World War II in Nevada: The Homefront."

On Sunday, July 11, 1943, Las Vegas was honored with a visit from the Memphis Belle, the famed B-17 Flying Fortress which had only recently returned to the United States after completing 25 missions over Germany and occupied Europe. Her crew of 10 included Capt. Vince B. Evans, the bombardier, whose wife of less than a year was the former Dynusa "Dinny" Kelley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Kelley of Las Vegas. Also aboard were three gunners who had trained at the Las Vegas Army Air Corps Gunnery School in 1942, Sgt. John P. Quinlan, Sgt. Clarence E. Winchell and Sgt. Casimer E. Nastal.

The Belle and her crew had been back in the states less than a month when Air Corps officials called them back from their furloughs and sent them out on a public relations tour, Las Vegas and the nearby Basic Magnesium Inc. facility being the first stop. Due to arrive from Dayton, Ohio, at 4 p.m., they were an hour early and air traffic controllers at McCarran Field ordered Major Robert K. Morgan, the pilot, to circle the valley a couple of times before landing. Sweeping low over Fremont Street, Morgan informed the controllers that he was low on fuel and had to come in. The landing was perfect, but his engines were beginning to sputter when he taxied to the Western Air Lines terminal where the plane was to be on public display for the next two days. Painted on the side of the nose were 25 bombs to indicate the number of missions and eight swastikas showing the number of enemy planes shot down. The ground crew and other personnel from England had also scratched their names and hometowns into the flaking paint on the sides.

On hand to greet the crew were Col. P.O. Brewer, commander of the Las Vegas Army Airfield, military officials from Victorville, Calif., and several hundred troops from the Las Vegas base and from Camp Williston, Boulder City. After introductions all around, the men were escorted to the base to clean up and change clothes. At 7 p.m., they were driven downtown for a parade in their honor. Led by Harve Perry, president of the Chamber of Commerce, the procession included representatives of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Spanish War Veterans, the Elks Club and city officials from Boulder City. The band from the Las Vegas base provided march music and the men of the 715th Military Police Battalion, Camp Williston, were also in the ranks.

At a gathering in front of the Courthouse, John F. Cahlan of the Las Vegas Review-Journal acted as master-of-ceremonies, reading a message of welcome from Mayor Ernie Cragin, who was unable to be present. Other military officials paid tribute to the crew and the men were honored at a reception held in the Canary Room of the Last Frontier Hotel later in the evening. Maj. Morgan introduced his crew and each spoke briefly on his experiences in Europe.

Next morning, the flyers spent a couple of hours talking with the men at the gunnery base on actual combat operations before departing for a tour of the Basic Magnesium facility at Basic Townsite. F.O. Case, general manager, met them at 10:30 and J. Ray Coulter, production manager, arranged for a two-hour tour of the facility. Work stopped in each section as the men came through and the employees took time to chat with

That night, the men enjoyed a buffet at the Last Frontier hosted by BMI officials. At noon the next day, they flew out of Las Vegas bound for the Air Corps base at Kingman, Ariz. From there, they would work their way back to Washington D.C. They were scheduled for a month's leave thereafter and later assignments as instructors at training facilities all across the country.

Host families interviewed

Doug Moran, regional director for the Academic Year in America program of the AIFS Scholarship Foundation, has begun interviewing area families who would be interested in hosting an international student on the AYA program during the 1992/93 school year.

Moran has the applications of several boys and girls who would like to live in this part of Nevada next year. AYA students are between the ages of 15 and 18, have solid academic records, at least three years of English and the maturity and flexibility required for a year abroad.

A family can select a student from Germany, France, Brazil, or any one of 30 other countries around the globe. AYA students have their own spending money for personal expenses and full medical insurance. Their host families are asked to treat them just like their own son or daughter.

Students arrive next August to begin the school year with their American classmates. They attend the local public high school, carry a full course load and join clubs, sports and other activities. The cross cultural learning is returned two ways. A student comes to understand how Americans really live, work and think. The host family discovers how holidays are celebrated in the student's homeland, learns a few phrases of his language and experiences a new way of looking at things they have long taken for granted.

Interested families should call Moran at Academic Year in America national office in Connecticut at 1-800-322-4678.

Yucca Mountain oversight committee to meet Friday

Scientists and engineers working for the Nevada Nuclear Waste Project Office will present their work on the proposed Yucca Mountain high-level nuclear waste dump at a Nevada Commission on Nuclear Projects meeting Friday in Henderson.

"The commission's charge is to advise the Governor and Legislature on the Department of Energy's dump project," said Michon Mackedon, vice chairman of the commission. "Part of our work involves review of the technical and safety issues investigated as part of the state's oversight of the project."

The commission's finding and recommendations are published in biennial reports, the next of which will be issued late this year. Scientists and engineers will water hazards, faulting and earthquakes, volcanism, mineral resource potential, and project engineering, all factors which affect the suitability of Yucca Mountain to safely isolate nuclear waste for thousands of years.

Comments from local governments and Indian tribes are expected, and Mackedon said the commission also will solicit comments from the public. "Anyone wishing to make a statement about or comment on the Yucca Mountain project should feel free to attend the meeting and let his or her views be known," said Mackedon.

The commission, comprised of seven members appointed by the governor, will convene at 10 a.m. in the Henderson City Council discuss topics including ground- Chambers, 240 Water St.

Dear Debbie By Deborah White

Dear Debbie:

I am 20 years old and the guy I am dating is 19. We have been going together for almost three years.

The first year and a half was great, until he turned 18 and received money from the passing of his mother. Then all of a sudden he changed.

He wasn't there for me anymore, and he wanted me to bow down to him like he was a king. I refused, so he started messing around. He always lied that nothing was going on. Then the girl started calling my house. He made her pregnant, but she didn't have the child and he promised me it would never happen again.

He has asked me to marry him, but I'm scared he's only going to hurt me. I really love him and I want to marry him. What should I do?

SCARED, CONFUSED AND HURT

Dear Scared:

Follow that little voice in your head that says, "He already hurt me and will do it again." You may love the boy he used to be. But the man he has become cheats, lies and has no respect for you.

Does that sound to you like a happy marriage? If you had a girlfriend in the same situation what would you tell her? I would tell her to break off with him if she can, date him a while longer if she must, but not to marry him.

Dear Debbie:

I have been going with this guy since 1986. He's in the Army. He is the guy I want to marry and have kids by. I love him so much. But I feel I'm wasting my time waiting for him.

He only comes home maybe once or twice a year. I get really lonely when he's gone and I see other people. But I don't let those relationships get too serious because I'm afraid of losing him.

I feel I've lost him already...to the Army. What should I do? ARMY LOVER

Dear Army Lover:

By this time you should have an understanding with this man about your future. You have waited long enough.

People in the Army are allowed to marry and bring their family with them. If this man is using the Army as an excuse, he's just stringing you Write him or wait until he comes in and discuss it. Tell him you love him, but you have put your life on hold long enough. Then base your decision on what he says. If he doesn't give you a ring or indicate he will soon, move on with your life.

You didn't lose him to the Army, dear. You never had him. Send letters to Dear Debbie, P.O. Box 119, Orlando, Fla. 32802-4367.

Weekly Tip: Take a few moments to "smell the roses." Be careful what you buy.

Aries (March 21-April 19) Enjoy simple pleasures. Ignore rumors and double-check all instructions from the boss.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) An old friend is in the picture; take plenty of time, even if plans must be changed. Old business concludes. Gemini (May 21-June 21) Complete according to plans and you'll find you're ahead of the game. A smile puts you on top.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) Mate or love is difficult, friends need coddling, too. Be the strong shoulder. Next weekend, cook or otherwise show off home skills.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Forgiveness is one of your gifts; exercise it. Routine duties get tangled in error or red tape.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If playing host, you're a big success. You get all the breaks, and lots of invitations besides.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The crowd you work with is fun, but enjoy lunch with one special friend. New romance ahead.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Lover's plans are the ones you'll be glad you did. Week is best for travel, writing and communications.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Tasks you left behind are still waiting, so take care of them. Win your detractors over with charm. Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Children are a big help. Give a new romance every chance. Skip the risky stuff. Next weekend is delightful for socializing.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Protect an idea from possible misuse by others. New social status helps career. Your ex tries to get back in good. Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) Watch diet at today's parties; extra sleep

Once over lightly

By Carolyn Drennan Bishop I've been considering holding a garage sale. Let me set the scene. It all began the other day when I celebrated my birthday.

There were lots of gifts to open and I really don't want to be picky, but I ask you, what am I going to do with a "Squirrel Crossing" sign formy back yard? Yes, that's what I said. Think about it. How many squirrels does a person like me meet in the daily course of my life? And, more to the point, am I likely to run into any that go around reading signs?

While I'm on the subject, I might as well mention the painted cockatoo perched on a swing and the oven mitt in the shape of a wall-eyed bass. If that boggles your mind, get ready for this. My husband gave me a bikini! Where, I ask you, am I going to wear it? Including the inspection tag, it would fit a very small squirrel. But, like I said, I don't know any squirrels.

©1992, Tribune Media Services

These are but a few examples of gifts I've been receiving lately. Between you and me, I think my family is becoming weird. I mean, do I seem like the kind of person that lusts after the bizarre?

I was complaining to my mother about this the other day when she pursed her lips in one of those "mother looks" and pointed to the window sill in her kitchen. There sat three gray ceramic mice. They'd obviously been designed by a drunken potter. "You gave these to me when you were 13," she said.

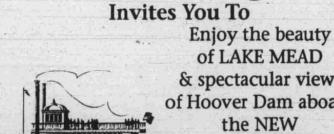

It turned out that she'd saved other treasures, I couldn't believe it when she unearthed a magenta beaded hat and a tube of "Rascal Red" lipstick I'd given her the summer I was 40. Was my mother really a beaded hat sort of person? No. But she let me think so when she opened my Now that I think about it, I guess there are worse things than being considered a bikini-type person who likes squirrels and cockatoos! I've canceled my plans for a garage sale.

I'm not going to have a garage sale after all.

Docket No. 92-1067

NOTICE OF HEARINGS

Nevada Power Company ("NPC") has filed an application and a supplement thereto, designated as Docket No. 92-1029, with the Public Service Commission of Nevada ("Commission") for authority for disposition of its twenty-first deferred energy adjustment period beginning March 1, 1992. NPC seeks to clear the accumulated balance of $13,528,190 mission") for authority for disposition of its twenty-first deferred energy adjustment period beginning March 1, 1992. NPC seeks to clear the accumulated balance of $13,528,190 in its deferred energy account. NPC proposes to clear this balance through a surcharge of $0.00114 applied to each kilowatthour of electricity used during the twelve months period beginning March 1, 1992 for all residential sales and a surcharge of $0.00164 applied to all other jurisdictional sales beginning March 1, 1992 and continuing for twelve months. NPC also seeks to adjust its base tariff energy rates. NPC proposes to recover its experienced energy costs through a base tariff energy rate of $0.02156 per kilowatthour of electricity used beginning March 1, 1992 for all residential sales and a base tariff energy rate of $0.02619 for all other jurisdictional sales beginning March 1, 1992.

As a result of a stipulation reached by the parties and accepted by the Commission in Docket No. 91-11035, NPC seeks to recover in Docket No. 92-1029 $1,444,711 plus interest which it has agreed to pay to Southwest Gas Corporation ("Southwest") as its allocated share of take-or-pay liability assessed against Southwest by the El Paso Natural Gas Company. Docket No. 91-11035 is a tariff filing by Southwest in which Southwest sought, among other relief, to recover its share of this take-or-pay liability.

Docket No. 91-5055 is NPC's most recent general rate case which has already been decided by the Commission. In that docket NPC applied for recovery of part of the $6.9 million payment to its partner at Reid Gardner Unit No. 4, California Department of Water Resources, to facilitate the common coal stockpile agreement. The Commission determined that stockholders and ratepayers benefit from the common stockpile agreement, and the payment should be allocated in proportion to the benefits received.

The Notice of Application issued on February 10, 1992 stated that this payment should be allocated in proportion to the benefits received until the payment is at which time interested persons may appear and be heard. If necessary, the hearing will continue through Saturday. May 16, 1992, at the same location, The Commission will receive evidence pertaining to the propriety of the relief sought by NPC in this application. The specific statutes and regulations involved include NRS 704.110 and NAC 704.023 -704.195, inclusive.

At the hearing, the Commission may also consider issues related to the provisions of 704.195, inclusive.

At the hearing, the Commission may also consider issues related to the provisions of Chapters 703 and 704 of NRS and NAC, may discuss public comments and may make decisions on the procedural and substantive issues raised at hearing. The Commission may vote at the hearing to grant in whole or in part the relief requested by NPC.

The Commission has consolidated Docket No. 92-1029 with Docket No. 92-1067, an application by NPC for approval of a change in general rates for electric service to all classes of customers throughout its service area. NPC estimates that its proposed rates would increase its overall Nevada jurisdictional revenues by approximately $38,593,330, or approximately 6.72 percent on an annualized basis.

In support of this application NPC asserts that its present rates provide a rate of return approximately 6.72 percent on an annualized basis.

In support of this application NPC asserts that its present rates provide a rate of return of 8.00 percent on its rate base at October 31, 1991, with adjustments to reflect known and measurable changes during the Certification Period ended February 29, 1992. NPC also asserts that revenues from its present rates are not sufficient to cover its operating expenses, provide a fair return on its investment and attract the capital it needs to assure reliable service to existing and future customers at a reasonable cost. NPC's proposed rates are designed to provide NPC an opportunity to earn a rate of return on rate base of 10.47 percent.

Based on annualized revenues for the year ended October 31, 1991, the estimated effect that approval of NPC's application for an increase in rates will have on the rates paid by each class of customers is set forth in the application, Volume 1, Tab 3, Exhibit D, as shown

In its application NPC asserts that the components of its requested increase are as

Total	45.7	1187

Revenues from Increased Sales	(7.1)	(18%)
INCREASE IN REVENUE REQUIREMENT	$ 38.6	100%

NPC asserts in its application that the increase in operation and maintenance expenses is primarily due to contractually agreed upon increases in wages, increased salaries for non-represented employees, full amortization in 1991 of the transition gain arising out of the 1986 adoption of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 87 and, in general, the impacts of customer growth and inflation on the amount of and the prices for the goods and services NPC must purchase in the day-to-day conduct of its business. The increase in depreciation expense reflects the depreciation rates approved by the Commission in the last general rate case and additions to plant from February 28, 1991 through February 29, 1992. The increased investment, the associated financing and Federal income taxes account for the remaining portion of the increase in NPC's gross annual revenue requirement.

NPC asserts that this current application shows that the rates approved in Docket No. 91-5055 do not provide NPC the rate of return the rates were designed to produce. NPC asserts that BTGR rates should be designed to provide an overall rate of return of 10.47 percent.

Therevenue increases and rate designs contained in the application are proposals by NPC and may be contested by parties who are granted intervenor status. The Commission may adopt rates which will result in charges to individual customers either higher or lower than the charges currently proposed.

the charges currently proposed.

The Commission has legal authority and jurisdiction to hold a hearing in this pursuant to NRS 704.110 and 704.120. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Convill hold a hearing in Docket No. 92-1067 as follows:

Pursuant to NRS 704.110, the Commission will receive evidence pertaining to the propriety of the rates and charges proposed by NPC. Pursuant to NRS 704.120, the Commission will also receive evidence pertaining to whether the rates and charges proposed by NPC are just, reasonable, not unjustly discriminatory, preferential, or otherwise in violation of any of the provisions of Chapter 704 of NRS. The specific statutes and regulations involved include NRS 704.110 through 704.130, inclusive, NAC 703.2201 through 703.2481, inclusive, and NAC 704.650 through 704.680, inclusive.

DECLARATION OF STATUS

I Richard C. Frazier, declare that I am a natural born native American inhabiting an area known geographalcally as NEVADA State; I am a Non-Resident to the United States [26 USC 865 (g) (i) (B)]; I have never worked for a domestic corporation within the United States; I have never filed Form 1078 or an equivalent as prescribed in 26 CFR 1.1441-5, that would rebut my non-resident status [26 CFR 1.871-4 (b)]. I never had any gross income attributable to 26 USC 872 (a) (1) or (2); I am excluded from being required to obtain and submit an identifying number (26 CFR 301.6109-1 (g), the SSN number that I did apply for was by mistake. Should I have income from sources from within the United States, I am still not subject to withholding of any kind as it is not deemed to be income (26 USC 861 (a) (3) (c) (i)).

therefore, I am neither now nor have I ever been subject to the jurisdiction of the statutory United States for "internal revenue" purposes. I have never knowingly, intelligently and yountarily entered into an agreement with the statutory United States, its agencies or instrumentalities for said above purpose. DECLARATION OF STATUS

If, for any reason, the federal government (statutory United States) or any of its agencies or instrumentalities has any lawful reason to rebut my Status as set forth in this, my Declaration, you are hereby given 30 days from the date of this public Declaration of Status to step forward and state your lawful claim. If not, any/all claims against me or my Declaration of Status will be without merit and be with precludice.

Despite last year's fire at the Burkholder Junior High School gymnasium, the traditional site of the annual Miss Henderson Industrial Days Beauty Pageant, the show will go on.

The Henderson Convention Center will host the Pageant this year, the first time in more than 25 years the show will not be at Burkholder.

Both the Pageant and the Mayor's Industrial Day Dance will be Friday, April 10, at the Convention Center, 200 Water St. The Beauty Pageant will begin at 7 p.m., followed immediately by the Mayor's Dance.

The Pageant traditionally has a large attendance, which is more than the capacity of the Henderson Convention Center, so the Henderson Chamber of Commerce is selling advance tickets for the Pageant only, officials said.

The $2 tickets must be purchased in advance at the Henderson Chamber of Commerce, 100 E. Lake Mead Dr. Tickets will be limited, officials warned, and will be sold on a first-come, firstserved basis.

REIGNING QUEEN-1991 Industrial Days Queen Amy Barber will relinquish her title this year's Queen.

Softball tourney begins Friday

Among the many Henderson Industrial Days activities is the annual softball tournament, which will be held Friday and Saturday at Morrell Park and Wells Park.

At presstime, the Henderson Parks and Recreation Dept. expected to complete the 24-team field, although there still were openings for teams.

The adult men's tournament is sanctioned by the United States Slow-pitch Softball Association, the national governing body for men's slow-pitch softball.

However, teams do not need to be previously sanctioned to enter the tournament. The tournament is open only to Men's 'D' division teams. The defending champions are not allowed to participate, providing a new champion each year.

Play will begin at 6 p.m. Friday and continue all day Saturday. Among the prizes awarded are ice chests to the winning team, bat bags for the second-place finishers and T-shirts to the first, second, and third place teams.

For more information about the tournament, call Gene Trombetti at 565-2116.

Teresa Stacy Neilson and Kathy Lee Kline will coordinate the 1992 Industrial Days Beauty Pageant, scheduled for 7 p.m., Friday, April 10, at the Henderson Convention Center

Neilson, a local resident and professional model, graduated from Basic High School and is a former president of Universal Models. She has experience in many aspects of modeling, including fashion shows, conventions, commercial advertising, and character and photography work. Most recently she was a spokeswoman traveling and modeling for a New York-based company.

Neilson is a local businesswoman and mother of four. She resides with her husband Curtis in Henderson, where she owns and operates an interior decorating and plant service business. Kline has been a resident of Henderson for 26 years. For the past 10 years she has held the Henderson Cinderella Girl Pageant, which is designed to promote young people to be achievers through their dreams, she said.

Kline has participated and held many titles through the years. She owns and operates an aerobics and dance studio, and coaches girls for various pageants.

Wooley to provide music for events

Bob Wooley, a Henderson resident since 1985, will provide music for both the Industrial Days Beauty Pageant and the Mayor's Industrial Days Dance on Friday, April 10, at the Henderson Convention Center.

Wooley moved to Henderson from Burbank, Calif., where he lived for nine years.

"I picked this area because of location and affordability," Wooley said. "My house is convenient to both the Vegas Strip [where he entertains] and Lake Mead [where he keeps his boat]."

Wooley's involvement with the Henderson Chamber of Commerce prompted him to write a song (with long-time associate Jerry Sun) for the city. "The Henderson Song" debuted at the chamber's 1991 Installation Banquet.

Wooley, who has a wife and two children, will be the entertainer and disc jockey at both the Industrial Days events. "I'm really going to enjoy these two events. They are back-to-back.

"I'm going to play the live background music for the Beauty Pageant and immediately following that we will start the Mayor's Dance, where I have so much music to play or sing for everybody that I can't imagine anyone not having a good time."

Wooley suggests that participants bring their favorite cassettes or compact discs of songs which would be appropriate at a public dance and he will play it.

"I like doing whatever I can to please my audience," Wooley

Henderson salutes America: Making a difference

By Katherine E. Scott

Five hundred years after the American continent was discovered by Columbus seems an appropriate time for communities across the nation to honor our country.

Throughout history, the United States of America, as well as other lands, has gone through high points and low points. Although the country is currently in a recession, we know that when it ends the plight of our people will continue to improve.

Yes, struggles will continue. No, America will never be perfect. But in our quest for advancement we improve, step by step.

Our legacy begins 500 years ago when our land was discovered with funding from a kingdom that brutally tortured any persons who did not worship God in the manner they deemed proper.

Nearly 400 years ago individuals seeking freedom of choice regarding their religion established colonies in which they discriminated against refugees still seeking a homeland after their ancestors fled from the Spanish Inquisition.

Some 300 years ago, our forefathers were importing human beings as property—merchandise for sale and ownership.

And 200 years ago, our newborn country began its journey to bring us where we are today, with guidelines to continue improving decade by decade, year by year.

By 100 years ago, slaves were freed and began their climb to become substantial citizens, while women were still considered the property of their husbands and Jews still face prejudice, women may be treated as second-class citizens, the working class is losing benefits, the elderly face poverty and roadblocks, children are often lacking in education.

On the other hand, prejudice has diminished over the years and continues to be reduced. Women are becoming accepted as equals. The working class has the right to fight for its demands and programs have been placed to help those in need.

Historical highlights of Basic Management, Inc.

The industial area currently known as the Basic Management Inc. complex, although located in Clark County-controlled land, is closely associated with the development of the city of Henderson. The following is a historical overview:

 During World War II, Basic Magnesium Inc. (BMI) was built by the U.S. Government's Defense Plant Corp. (DPC) to produce a much-needed supply of wartime magnesium. BMI was a partnership between the DPC, which financed the construction of buildings, equipment, housing and utilities to the tune of $130 million; Magnesium Elektron (MEL), a British firm which furnished plant design and expertise; and Basic Refractories, a Nevada mining firm owned by Howard Eells, which produced a virtually endless supply of magnesite.

• A metal two-thirds the weight of aluminum, magnesium was incorporated into the structure of airplanes to greatly enhance speed and maneuverability. This strategic metal was also used in incendiary bombs, flares and tracer bullets.

 Considerations such as waste disposal, prevailing winds, topography and adequate housing and schools all entered into the decision on exactly where the BMI site should be built. After determining that Boulder City and Las Vegas were unsuitable because of a lack of housing and schools, the government decided to put the plant midway between Boulder City and Las Vegas.

They built a 1,000-home town (Basic Townsite) and a 500-unit apartment complex (Victory Village), thereby creating what later became known as the city of Henderson on January 1, 1944.

· Construction on the BMI plant site began on Sept. 15, 1941, and by March of the following year, there were 9,700 people working at the site. By July 1942, there was a project high of 13,000 men and women working at BMI. Considering that the total population of Las Vegas prior to the 1940s numbered only 8,500, the influx of construction workers and their families more than tripled the population. With weekly paychecks totaling $1 million, the Las Vegas economy received a tremendous economic shot in the

• The power lines from Boulder Dam delivered more electricity to BMI than the amount of electricity consumed by the four western states of Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming combined. More construction steel was used to build BMI than the Empire State Building.

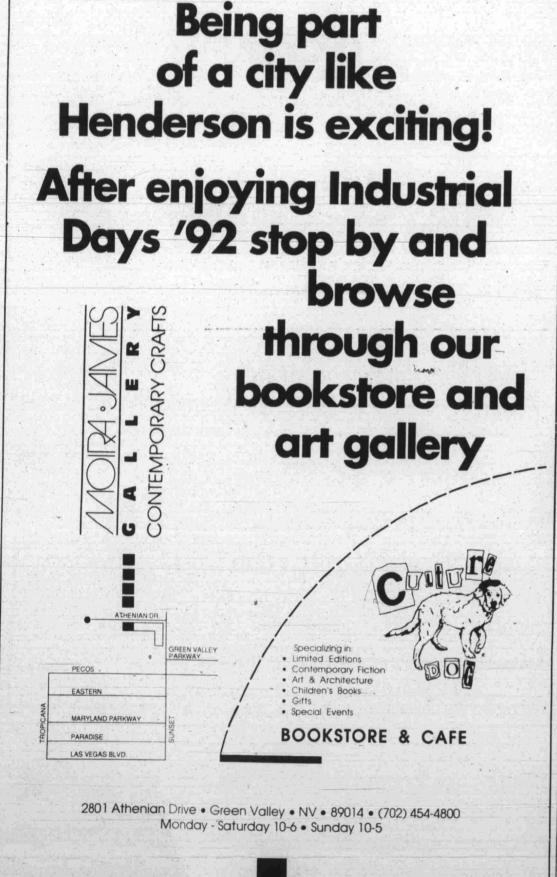

• Persuaded by the federal government, the Anaconda Copper Co. took over the operation of BMI on Oct. 27, 1942.

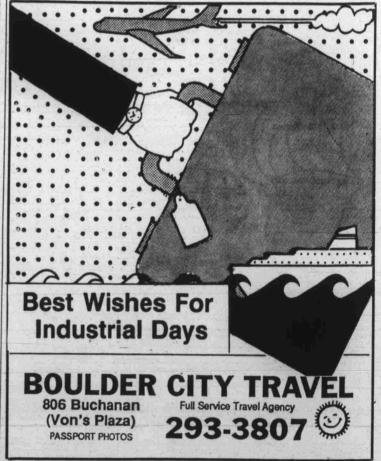

•During its 26-month operation, BMI produced 166,325,000 pounds of magnesium, more than the rest of the world produced in 1939 and 1940 combined. In 1943, BMI made 39 percent of the nation's magnesium, even though it went into full production only in July of that year.

By the end of the war, BMI and other wartime factories produced more magnesium than needed. The government was forced to order a complete halt to magnesium production in November 1944. Although magnesium output was terminated, the government requested a substantial increase in the factory's chlorine output for making products such as paper, textiles, metals, plastics and varnish. The company also continued making caustic soda, which is used in manufacturing chemicals, soaps and petroleum.

• The end of magnesium production was a heavy blow to the local economy. BMI's industrial facilities and the neighboring town of Henderson, however, offered the prospect of accommodating future industrial growth. Another significant effect of the project was the realization of Las Vegas businessmen that gambling had great potential as big business.

• During the war, California allottees who had first call on power generated at Boulder Dam, relinquished their water rights to BMI at the government's request. But once the war was over, BMI no longer had any legal rights to 90 percent of what it used. Beginning in late 1945, the federal government, the Colorado River Commission of Nevada and the California power allottees entered into difficult negotiations which ultimately kept the power flowing to BMI.

As wartime production diminished, the Defense Plant Corp. was abolished, leaving its parent company, the Reconstruction Finance Corp. (RFC) in charge of BMI. In May 1945, the RFC appointed J.M. Montgomery Co. of Los Angels as BMI's manager, replacing Anaconda Copper, and eventually changing the name to Basic Magnesium Project (BMP).

The Stauffer Chemical Co. took over production of chlorine and caustic soda. In addition to Montgomery and Stauffer, there were only two other businesses at the plant: the New York and Ohio Chemical Co. and the Cornwall Warehouse Co. BMP's potential to be the most productive chemical plant in the western United States was obviously not being maximized.

• In November 1946, the government shifted responsibility for BMP from the RFC to the War Assets Administration (WAA), which appointed the Guy F. Atkinson Co. of San Francisco to replace Montgomery Co. as manager. Although the WAA was successful in securing 17 leases by mid-1947, the businesses were small and total employment at the plant numbered only 600.

• Warned that millions of dollars would be lost if the plant were closed, Nevada's legislators accepted an invitation to visit the site from the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce President Carl Hyde. Within 10 days of their visit, the legislators unanimously approved a bill giving the Colorado River Commission of Nevada the authority to negotiate with the federal government for the acquisition of the plant.

The state of Nevada took control of the facility on April 1, 1948. Although terms of the sale required the payment of operating profits for 20 years, up to a maximum of $24 million, Nevada paid only $6 million toward the purchase.

• Nevada Gov. Charles Russell recommended that the plant be sold to private industry to generate tax income and to free the state from managerial duties. A group of tenants, operating under the name Basic Management, Inc. (BMI), was incorporated on Dec.

On May 23, 1952, the group purchased the plant from the state. They and/or their successor companies are Chemstar Lime, Kerr-McGee Chemical Corp., Pioneer chlor-Alkali Co., and the Titanium Metals Corporation (Timet).

 Although each company manages its own operations at the site, BMI owns and operates the water system which delivers water from Lake Mead to the BMI complex, the city of Henderson, the state of Nevada Fish Hatchery and the National Park Service at Lake Mead. BMI also owns and operates two electrical distribution systems within the BMI complex. As a major property owner in the southeast Las Vegas Valley, BMI owns approximately 3,400 acres of undeveloped land.

· Today, BMI and its four major chemical companies employ almost 1,200 people with an annual payroll of nearly $43.5 million, paying local property and sales taxes of about $3.8 million. The neighboring city of Henderson has steadily grown from 5,700 residents in 1950 to a population of more than 55,000 today.

Stop by and say "Hi"

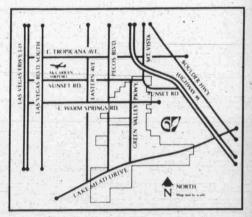

We put an Olympic-sized pool in everyone's backyard.

Some people might think that giving all of our residents a pool is a bit excessive. But it's not that surprising when everyone's backyard is actually a 8,400-acre master-planned community. Complete with the private 112,000-square-foot Green Valley Athletic Club.

In fact, that's exactly where we've put our indoor and outdoor pools. Along with racquetball and basketball courts. An indoor/outdoor tennis complex. A sand volleyball court. And a full-service strength and cardiovascular training facility.

We also have plenty of parks. Two 18-hole golf courses. Jogging and bike trails. And the Silver Springs Recreation Center complete with a gymnasium, diving tank, tennis courts and a swimming pool.

With all there is to do, you'll only have to use your own backyard for one thing. Relaxing.

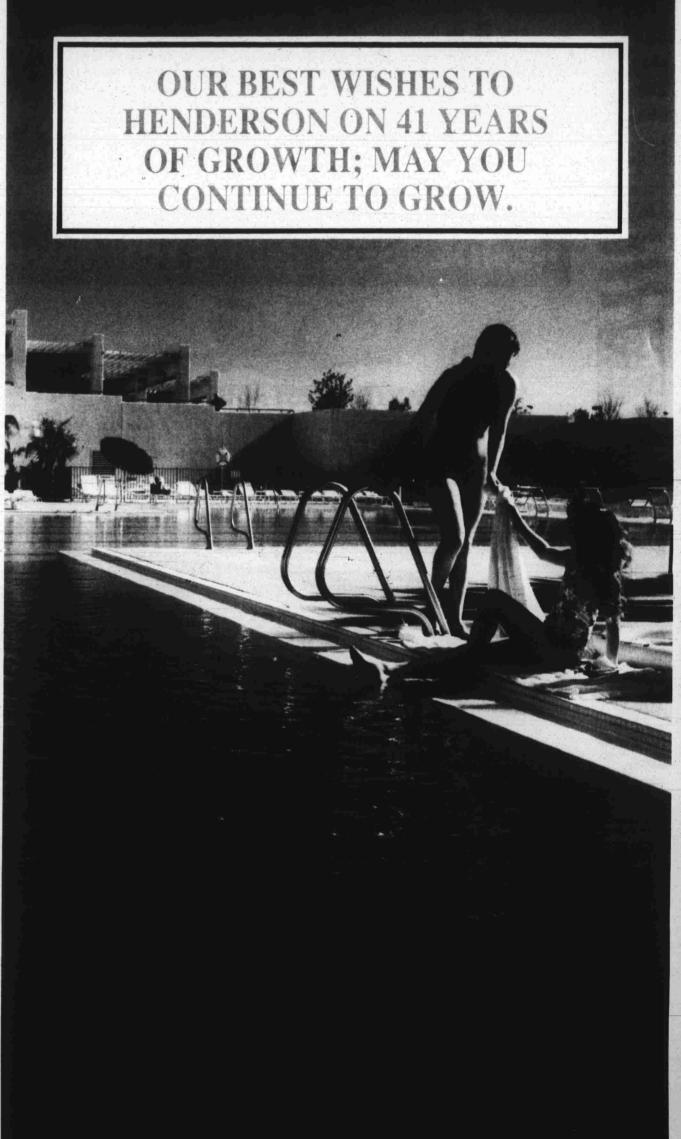

All that a community can be.

BMI companies employ 1,200

By Roy Theiss News Staff Writer

Built during World War II to aid the nation's war effort, Basic Management Inc. is today home to four of the nation's leading chemical and metal manufacturers. The plants employ approximately 1,200 people.

Four companies-Pioneer, Kerr-McGee, Timet and Chemstar Lime—own shares in BMI stock. Although each manages its own operations at the site, BMI owns and operates the water system and two electrical distribution systems within the complex.

Titanium Metals Corp.

Titanium Metals Corp. is Nevada's largest industrial employer with approximately 550 employees, 400 of whom are members of the United Steel Workers of America Union 4856. The company is owned by the Tremont Corp., of Denver, and was incorporated in 1951.

Timet is the largest completely integrated producer of titanium in the world. Titanium is a light, strong, heat- and corrosion-resistant metal of wide applications. The metal is used in airplanes, helicopters, the space shuttle, body replacements such as the Jarvik artificial heart and hip joints, water skis and tennis rackets.

Locally, the company's payroll is $20 million and it pays $2 million in property and sales taxes, said a Timet spokesman. Timet's purchasing expenditures amount to $70 million, of which $18 was paid to other Nevada businesses, the spokesman added.

Between April 1991 through December 1992, Timet modernized its plant costing approximately $90 million. The plant replaced a 95,000-square-foot multi-story building with a 84,000-square-foot single story manufacturing space.

The environmental impact of the modernization includes reductions in air emissions, reductions inleaching acids by 70 percent and lessened required waste pond space by 10 acres, the spokesman said.

Pioneer Chlor Alakali

Pioneerhas been owned by Pioneer Chlor Alkali Investments of Houston since 1988.

Pioneer produces liquid chlorine, which is used in gasoline, steel, plastics, detergents, rocket fuel, watertreatment, mining, food processing and textiles. The company also produces sodium hydroxide, which is used in pulp and paper products, vegetable oils, cosmetics, food processing, aluminum, mining and rayo). Pioneer produces hydrogen, which is used in boiler fuel and muriatic acid manufacturing, and muriatic acid, used in rocket fuels, exotic metals, water treatment, pickling, mining, dyes and titanium.

The company employs 165 people, 100 of whom are represented by unions. The local payroll is $5.4 million and purchasing expenditures total $39 million, of which $18 million was paid to Nevada businesses, a spokesman said. The local property and sales tax is $850,000.

The spokesman said Pioneerhas one of the lowest workers' compensation claim rates in the state. Pioneer boasts a safety record of more than one million per-person work hours without a lost-time accident, the spokesman added.

The plant has reduced airemissions by 96 percent since 1987, the spokesman said. A groundwater treatment system was installed in 1983 to remediate benzene contamination from previous operations, the spokesman added. The site contamination is from previous operations and was removed in the early 1980s

Pioneer is now involved in voluntary site remediation with the Nevada Division of Environmental Protection, the spokesman

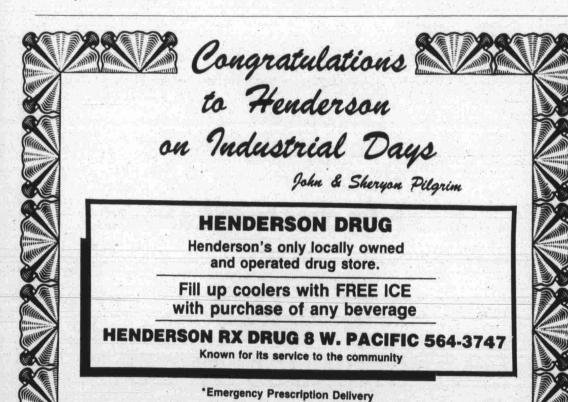

Kerr-McGee Chemical

Kerr-McGee Chemical is a wholly owned subsidiary of Kerr-McGee Corp. and employs 280 people, 120 of whom are covered by a collective bargaining agreement with the International Chemical Workers Union. Kerr-McGee purchased the facility at BMI in 1967.

The local payroll is $10.1 million and the company's purchasing expenditure is $18 million, of which an emphasis is placed on purchasing from other Nevada businesses, a spokesman said.

Kerr-McGee produces sodium chlorate, used as a cotton defoliant and paper whitening agent. The company also produces ammonium perchlorate, which provides oxygen to fire space shuttle boosters and military rockets. Manganese dioxide, used in dry cell batteries, is produced at the plant as is boron trichloride, used to make high-strength boron fibers for aircraft wings, golf clubs and tennis rackets. Kerr-McGee also produces elemental boron, used in car safety air bags and boron tribromide, a component of Kerr-McGee has built a $45 million facility at Apex to cross-blend and store ammonium per-chlorate. A $3 million vapor compression unit was completed in 1990. The unit allows the facility to reuse more than 95 percent of its process water, thereby significantly reducing the volume of wastewater sent to evaporation ponds, a press release stated. The plant has also reduced chlorine emissions from 20 pounds an hour to 10 hours a day."

Chemstar Lime

Chemstar Lime is the leading producer of lime and lime products in the western United States. The Henderson facility is the world's leader in Type S lime quality and production, a spokesman said.

Chemstar Lime produces Dolomitic Quicklime, used in fine glassware, acid and soil neutralization, steel production, stack gas desulfurization, mining and soil stabilization. The company also produces lime used in stucco, mortar, plaster, acid neutralization, masonry products and mining. Dolomitic Glass Flux, used in the production of glass products, and stack gas desulfurization is also produced by Chemstar.

The company is owned by Chemical Lime Group, Fort Worth, Texas, and employs 73 people, including members of the United Steel Workers of America, Teamsters, and the United Cement, Lime Gypsum and Allied Workers.

The local payroll is $2.2 million and the company's purchasing expenditures totals $6.62 million annually, of which $4.41 million was paid to other Nevada businesses, a spokesman said. The company paid $238,790 in local property and sales taxes.

Saguaro Power Co.

The most recent addition to the BMI complex is the Saguaro Power Co., which produces 100,000 kilowatts of electricity, enough to supply 35,000 homes. The company also produces 140,000 pounds an hour of steam for Pioneer Chlor Alkali. The energy source is natural gas.

Saguaro has 22 operating personnel and contributes $10 million to the local economy.

The company has the best available control technology as determined by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Clark County Health District, a spokesman said. There has been a major reduction in nitrogen oxides emission, the spokesperson added.

Water conservation is designed into the plant. The water is either recycled or reused in process. No waste water is discharged, the spokesman said.

Jones Chemical

Also located within the BMI complex is Jones Chemical, an industrial chemical distribution center which also produces liquid chlorine. It employs three people.

found in any common cause. Some feel the government should continue to attempt the "trickle-down" theory in which the wealthy are favored so that their money works its way through the ranks; others seek to tax the wealthy in order to provide services for the poverty-stricken in our country who have no medical benefits, no housing, no food.

Issues rage across the country as opponents face off, each trying to convert others to their beliefs and many trying to force others to obey their own demands. Abortion, segregation, ecology: each has vehement supporters on both sides of the issue.

All of this is our identity. America has agreed to disagree. And as a result, we continue to improve.

When we salute America, we're saluting all of those who fight for a cause as well as all of those who work to support the country. From auto workers to farmers, health care employees to scientists, America is filled with individuals who make a difference.

For wherever we are now, we will proceed to better achievements in the future. In another 100 years we may succeed in abolishing poverty, or discrimination, or oppression.

When we salute America, we salute Americans who make a difference.

Henderson Senior Center popular hangout

Among the public facilities available to residents of the Henderson area is the Henderson Senior Center at 27 E. Texas Street, just east of Water Street.

According to Chuck Colletta, administrative coordinator, anywhere from 250 to 300 senior citizens visit the center each day to access a number of social services and recreational opportunities.

"There's never a dull moment at this center," said Colletta, who is the only full-time salaried employee at the 11,000-square-foot facility. "I think this is the finest and most attractive social facility for seniors in the state. And the people who come here are really nice people. In fact, some of our most popular programs are here because of the efforts of anywhere from 80 to 100 senior volunteers from the Henderson community."

offered include medical forms assistance, senior employment. pro bono legal services and the Senior Law Project. On-site counseling is also available on a regular basis through representatives of the Clark County Assessor's Office, Social Security Administration, Veterans Affairs and the Department of Motor Vehicles. For example, seniors can avoid the long lines for license and registration renewal at DMV by visiting the center on the second Thursday of each month.

Periodically, free health screenings are also held at the center. Colletta said during the October 1991 Health Fair, where 23 free services were provided, more than 1,200 seniors came through the center in a single day.

"Our goal is to keep our seniors as active as possible, whether that means aerobics and dancing or just visiting and playing cards," Colletta said. "Social interaction is a big part of maintaining good health and we provide plenty of activities and opportunities for socializing here.'

Colletta said the center has an uncommonly high ratio of men who take advantage of the facility's services.

"The pool room and the library seem to be most popular with the guys, he laughed. "When they're not competing with each other at the billiard tables, they can generally be found 'solving the world's problems in our library."

One of the most popular activities at the Henderson Senior Center is the nutrition program provided through Catholic Community Services of Nevada. A hot lunch is served to seniors on Monday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The meal is free to individuals over 60 years old, although the center will accept a donation of $1.25 from those who can afford to make one. For people 50 to 60 years old, a $3 charge is requested. Colletta said the center typically feeds about 120 senior citizens each day, with majority of them well over the age of 60.

Colletta said he is trying to get the word out to more seniors (especially Green Valley neighborhood residents) about services the Henderson Senior Center offers.

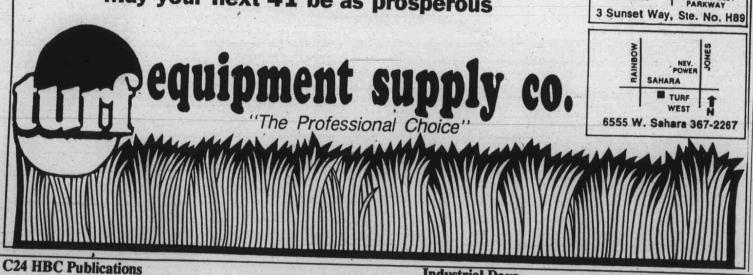

"The center belongs to the Henderson community, which certainly includes Green Valley," Colletta said. "I'm happy to say that we are beginning to see more seniors from the Green Valley area and we look forward to meeting even more of them as they hear about the services and programs we offer."

There are no dues or membership fees charged to seniors (age 50-plus) who use the facilities of the Henderson Senior Center. The facility was constructed more than two years ago and is funded primarily through the city of Henderson. For more information, call 565-6990.

Hubel to organize Henderson reunion

By Mary Hubel

"When I came to Henderson in 1946, the town was like a movie set," said Phil Hubel.

The long-time resident and businessman came to Henderson from Southern California where he had worked as a musician in the movies so he could easily see the resemblance between the two.

"The area was so desolate with primitive buildings that looked old even if they were new. The only police was a sheriff's deputy and he was always drunk."

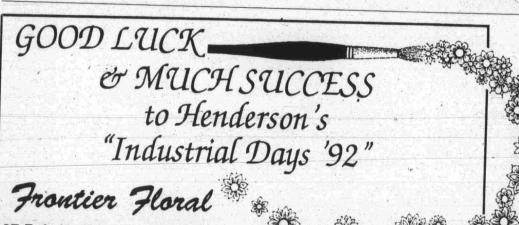

Hubel said he could go on and on with stories of the early days in Henderson-Pittman so he, along with his wife, Dan and Tillie Taylor and John Winlow, would like to get as many of these earlyday residents together for a "reunion" to swap stories for their children, grandchildren and historians.

"We need to hear from as many of these people as possible," said Dan Taylor, "before we lose them and the recollections are gone forever."

The committee is planning a "reunion" with those interested who have lived in Henderson anytime between its inception and incorporation on June 8, 1953.

Since many have moved, information as to their whereabouts would be greatly appreciated also.

Henderson, We Salute You!

Henderson Industrial Days 1992

In June of 1953 the township of Henderson was first established.

Since then we have seen tremendous growth. From its early industrial beginnings to the city that's "shinning with pride".

for more than 25 years we've been a part of this growing community.

In that time we have gained the reputation as the "Friendliest Casino", not just because of our many smiling faces, but because we try to treat each and every one of our patrons as neighborly as possible.

The Skyline, along with Henderson's many other fine businesses, proudly salute our city.
