One Man's VIEW

By Mike O'Callaghan

This week, Henderson's Basic High School is celebrating its 50th anniversary. This columnist wasn't here when it started but did join the faculty 14 years later.

It was 36 years ago last spring in Moscow, Idaho, that J. Harold Brinley pulled a contract with my name on it out of his pocket. Handing it across the table, he told me, "Sign this and I know you will like teaching at Basic High School. John Dooley, the principal, and you will get along fine."

I looked at the contract and noticed that the confident Brinley had already made certain my name was typed on it. The teaching contract was for $4,800 a year. The Nevada contract was exactly $1,200 more than I had been offered to become a junior high school vice principal in Twin Falls, Idaho.

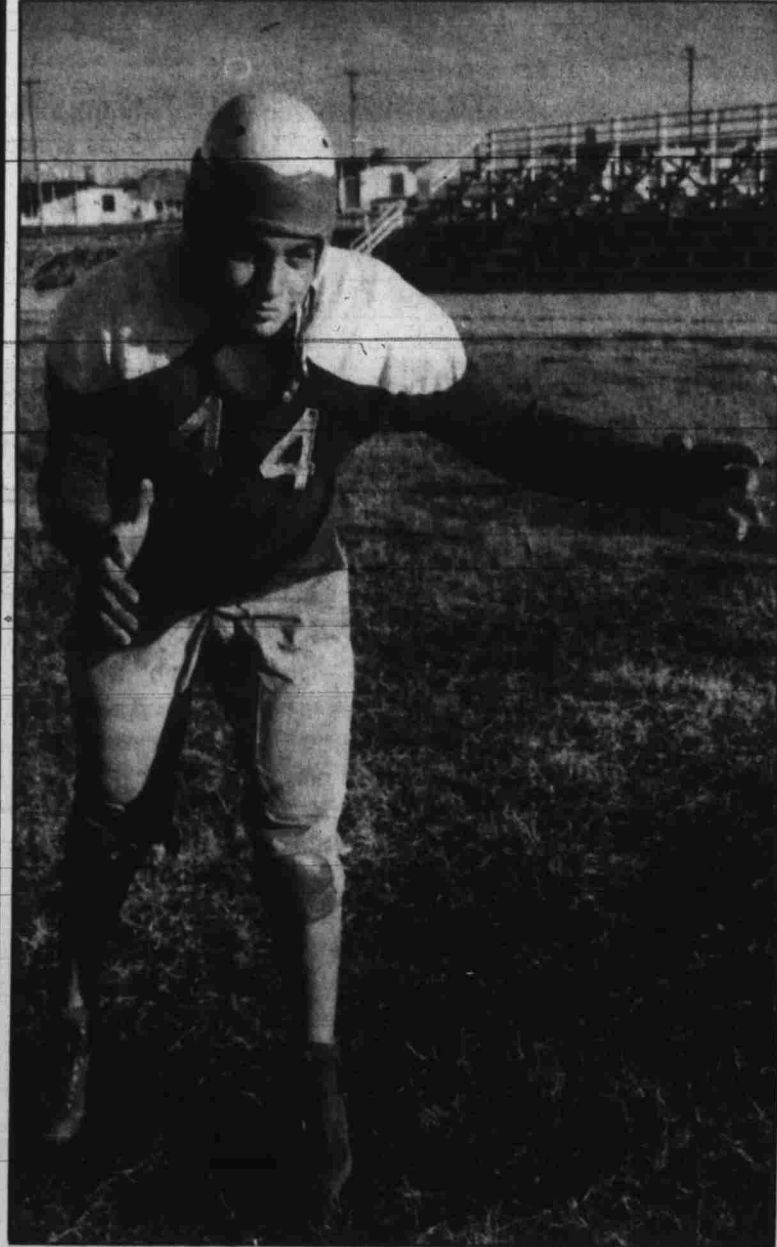

Brinley, the kind of man who gave new teachers confidence, knew everything about my personal and academic records. From the moment I sat down with him, I felt comfortable and as the years passed, he became a personal hero of mine. Even when I challenged the Clark County School District over the use of dollars I thought belonged in teacher salaries, he remained my friend. He always treated me as one of "his teachers."

I didn't know where Henderson was except that it wasn't too far from Las Vegas. We didn't have enough money for me to travel to Nevada to learn about Basic High School or

At noon, the Wolves will take on the Rancho High Rams during their Homecoming game.

Lineman recalls Basic's first football squad

By Terry Carter

Times have changed on the football fields near Henderson. Since the creation of Basic High School in 1942 when every play ended in a cloud of dust, Alex "Little" Coroneos has been in Henderson. A muscular, all-state lineman in high school, Coroneos played football for Basic for three years. He probably would have played four, but the new school opened in his sophomore year.

In three seasons of pigskin fun, Coroneos recalls missing only two quarters in approximately 20 games. He remembers it as a

Basic has operated at three locations

By Tanya J. Chiatovich

The year was 1942. "Here's looking at you, kid" was first heard in the theaters everywhere in "Casablanca." Anne Frank began filling pages of a diary. World War II had everyone making sacrifices for their country and Bugsy Segal had not yet built the Flamingo. Meanwhile a brand new school was constructed in the center of a town that was later to become known as Henderson.

Thirteen teachers opened a 12-room, one auditorium school between Water and Lead Streets and Atlantic and Basic Streets in 1942 with 1,000 students enrolled for grades one through 12. It is unclear when "Basic High School" was first used to describe the upper grades, but the school was named after the Basic Magnesium Plant operated by the federal government to support the war effort

By January enrollment grew to 1,322 with still only 13 teachers. Additional teachers were hired in February to complete the staff.

Classes were held in every available space in the school. The gymnasium was used to hold up to six classes at one time, while other classes were held in custodial rooms, storerooms and even the superintendent's office served as high school classroom space.

Money matters posed another major problem when funding from the government consisted of only the cost of the construction on the 16.5-acre site. The new school board was forced to take out a loan to pay each teacher a salary of $1,900 a year.

In the early 1960s Henderson began to grow rapidly and it be-

Henderson. There was only three months left for me to finish my master's degree and to get a full summer of post-graduate work in Colorado before driving to the new assignment.

It took but a few minutes for the understanding Brinley to sweep aside my concerns. He knew that I had been out of an Army hospital only two years and had been carrying as many as 20 and more semester hours to complete both degrees in May 1956. "You will like Basic High School and the people there will like you," he reassured me. I signed.

In August we arrived in Henderson following a hot daytime drive across the desert. Carolyn, my wife, son Michael, and I along with our dog and everything we owned in our Chevy found a motel in Pittman. The air conditioning wasn't working and the plants were releasing fumes which made it a long night.

The next day, with the help of Ellen and Dalby Shirley, both friends from college, we found a rental on BMP Road across from the plant. Later, BMP became Frontier Highway and is now called Lake Mead. Not long after this, we purchased a home just down the street and lived there for seven years.

Mr. Brinley was right! I liked Basic High School and principal John Dooley the moment I walked into his office. Not only did he and his assistant, Estes McDoniel, make me feel at home so did the members of the faculty. Especially impressive was basketball coach Bob Lunt who was assigned to help me over any rough spots. It took but one afternoon with him and some fellow teachers up at Mt. Charleston for me to determine there weren't going to be many rough spots for me.

The biggest surprise was the large number of students who came to learn. A small number of youngsters came to class with other things on their minds but it didn't take long to get their attention. Even more rewarding was the interest the Henderson parents had in the conduct of their children at school. When compared with what is happening in many of our nation's schools today, Basic High School 36 years ago was a paradise for this teacher.

At that time, we expected families to take at least one long weekend to go hunting in Nevada or Utah. The students in my class always made up any work and I gave them assignments before they went hunting.

Young Ernie Lompfrey and Bernard Cannon sometimes arrived a few minutes late for their fall classes. They would be down at the Vegas Wash area below Pittman before daylight waiting for the ducks. I could hear their shotguns about daybreak. Ernie also ran a trapline over this area all the way down to Searchlight.

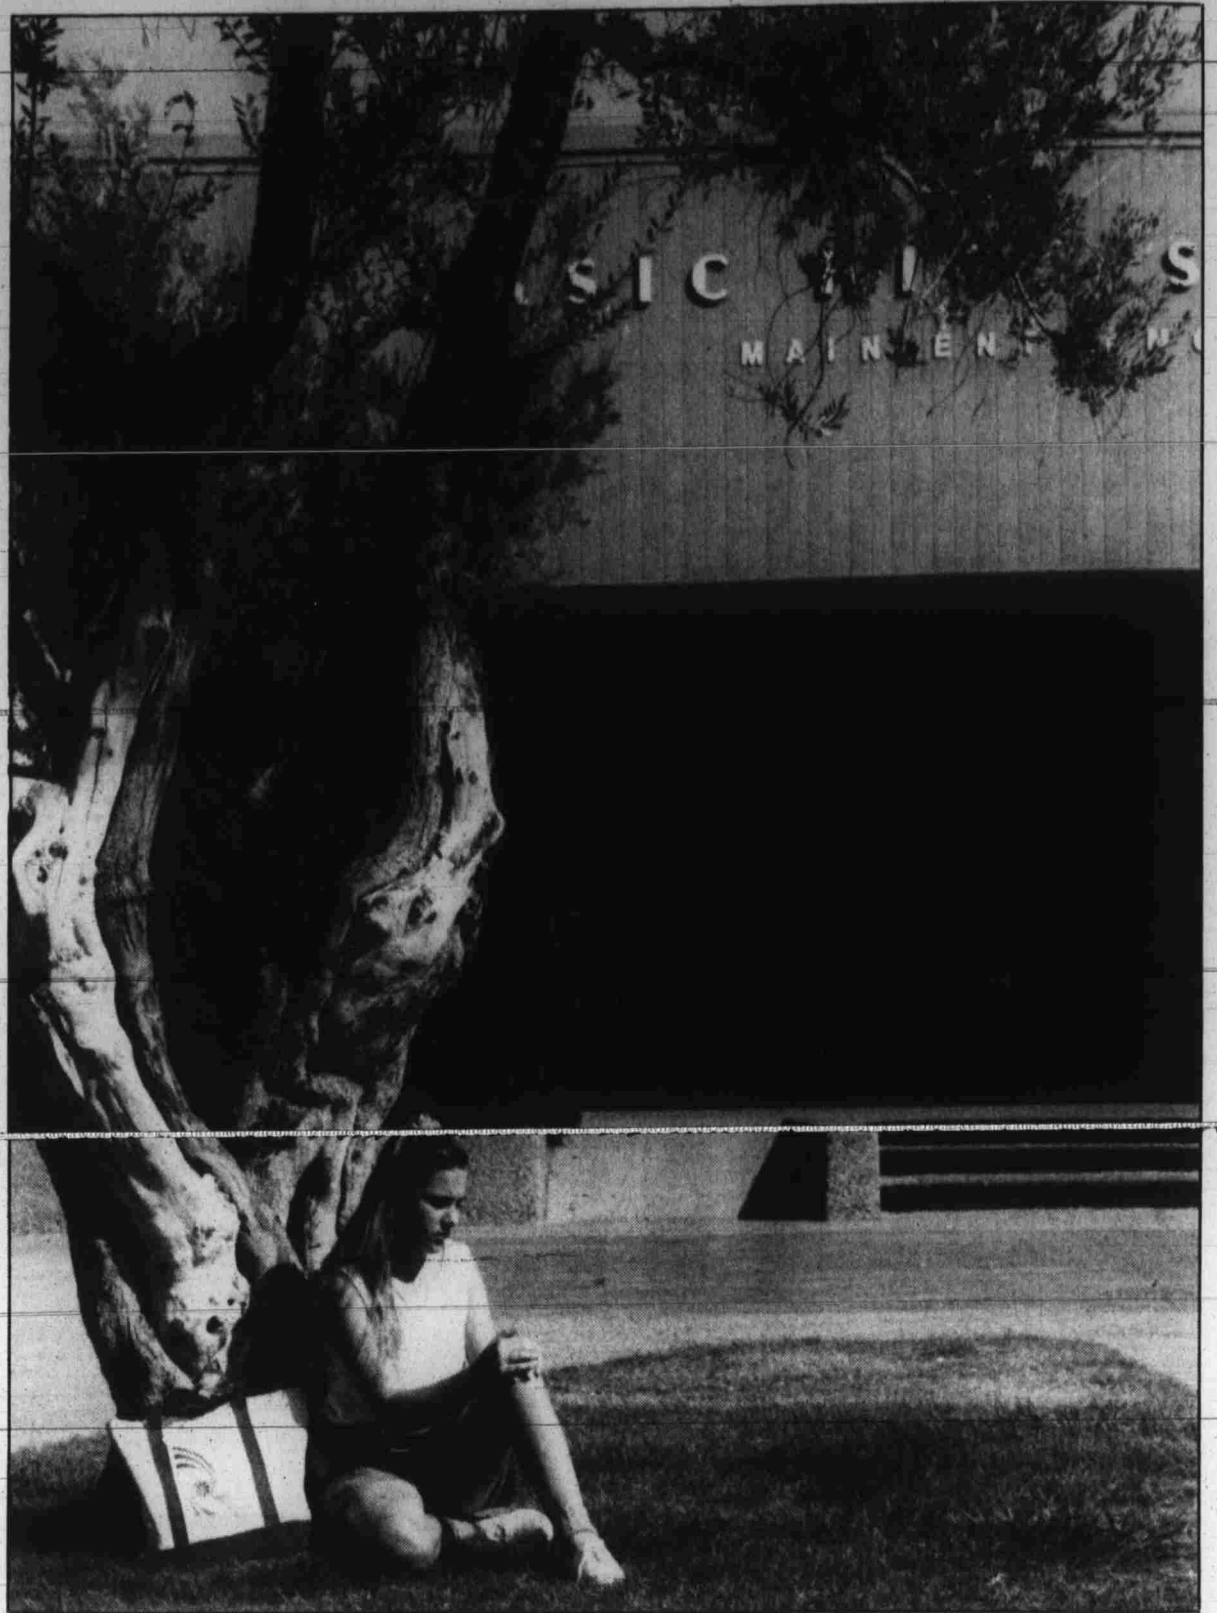

The big football games every year were with Boulder City and Las Vegas High School. Both were well-coached teams loaded with talented athletes. When it came to basketball, there weren't very many teams that measured up to Bob Lunt's state champs!

Many of my evenings were spent with Pat Winters training boxers at the Henderson Boys Club in old Victory Village. A combination of local youngsters and some from Las Vegas made HBC the toughest amateur team in Nevada. At least four or five championships came back to Victory Village every tournament. Young men who later became union leaders, doctors, teamsters, businessmen, plumbers, public administrators and even a U.S. senator were among the boxers. Most of them were also my students at Basic High School.

Looking back at those rewarding days, I'm impressed but not surprised, by the success of these youngsters from middle class America. They have earned some of the highest honors in television, writing, medicine and law. They became the best because we expected them to compete and succeed when leaving what Mr. Dooley called "the best little school in the West."

These same students and their parents also gave this young teacher some of the best days of his life. J. Harold Brinley had brought me into a life that had made all previous setbacks worth the pain and effort.

May Basic High School remain for another 50 years so other young teachers and students can reap the same rewards.

'Camaraderie' keeps librarian at school for 35 years

By Roy Theiss
News Staff Writer

When you have found a good thing, you stick with it, is the philosophy of the longest working faculty member at Basic High School. Ilene Bittle, who has been working at the high school for 35 years, said she has always liked working in Henderson.

"I've always been happy with what I've done. If you're happy with what you do, why go somewhere else. The people I've worked with through the years have been great, now and then. Camaraderie is the key. The feelings made it a place where you wanted to be," Bittle said.

She started teaching English, U.S. History and social studies in 1958. Bittle comes from a long line of educators in her family. Her father was superintendent at a school district in Iowa. Her mother, grandmother and all her aunts on one side of her family were teachers.

After a nine-year stint as a teacher, Bittle decided to become a librarian. She was about to work on a master's degree and noticed at a friend's house an article in a local paper mentioning that 10,000 librarians were needed in the United States. "So I went ahead."

As with being a teacher, being a librarian can be a challenge, Bittle said. "In the library, two days are never the same. It's not just Basic's library. We have Fallon, Boulder City, Winnemucca and Henderson connected to it. It's a challenge."

Over the years, the biggest challenge Bittle has had to tackle is technology. "Three years ago, I didn't even know how to turn a computer on. Now we're completely computerized. I didn't think I could do any of this.

"But we can't be in the dark ages. We have to move. It's a great challenge and a fun one. Part of our job is to train students for the future. Using tray cards, you're just not doing it."

Modern times have brought advances in technology, but progress and growth can be a disadvantage. In the late '50s and early '60s, Basic's enrollment stood at about 800 students. Now the school is bustling with 2,600 students.

"Back then we had a small school. Everyone knew everyone. It was a distinct advantage," Bittle said.

Nowadays, teachers have a tough time getting to know one another. Being a librarian, Bittle is in a unique position because she is able to meet all the teachers. "I get to know everyone [teachers]. Teachers don't always get to know everyone [faculty]."

Ilene Bittle

Bittle has met numerous teachers in her tenure and John Beatty is the one that stands out in her mind. "John Beatty was my all-time favorite. He was in a category all unto his self. He was a great person and a marvelous teacher. It was a badge of honor to have taken Beatty's English class and do his research paper." Beatty, along with a number of other Basic High teachers through the years, has an elementary school named in his honor.

One benefit of working at the same school for more than three decades is reflection. "In looking back, I realize there have been a lot of good things people have done," Bittle said. "It's fun to see someone in a class from 25 years ago or even someone from the library three years ago and recognize them."

"It's one of the joys of being a teacher. You run into people from coast to coast. It's nice to see how they have progressed."

Bittle does not give much thought to her being the matjarch of the calendar at Basic High School. "I don't really think about it. It doesn't make a difference. I may be able to answer questions others may not but I haven't got time to dwell on that kind of stuff."

"I've always been happy with what I've done. If you're happy with what you do, why go somewhere else. The people I've worked with through the years have been great, now and then." Camaraderie is the key.

Seven principals have shaped school

By Roy Theiss
News Staff Writer

From the very beginning, state educators knew it would be difficult to provide a school in such a desolate place in Southern Nevada. In 1942, Roy G. Petrie was appointed as the first superintendent of the Henderson School District, knowing there wasn't any money and he would be understaffed because he had no idea when money would be available.

Ben Church became the second superintendent of the Henderson School District in 1943. A year later, Lyl Burkholder, a graduate of Ohio State University, was selected as the first principal of Basic High School.

In 1945, Burkholder resigned to join the American Red Cross for two years. Gordon McCaw was appointed to serve as administrator of the upper elementary and high school grades. When Burkholder returned from the Red Cross, he was reappointed as principal.

Upon the death of Church, Burkholder was appointed to serve as superintendent of the Henderson School District in 1951. John Dooley became principal of Basic High School and served from 1951-1972. He helped design the new school on Van Wagenen Street.

In 1956, Dooley, assistant principal Estes McDoniel, and Burkholder helped the Henderson schools make the transition into the Clark County School District. Dooley's passion for the school was probably best summed with his famous quote, "Basic High School was the best little school in the West." Upon Dooley's retirement, McDoniel took the helm in 1972.

Frank Brusa succeed McDoniel in 1974. He was the first non-Henderson resident to be appointed as principal of Basic High School. In 1978, Lanny Lund, known to many as Uncle Lanny, became the next principal and he served for 11 years. In 1989, Joanne Pughley was hired as the seventh principal of Basic High School.

Basic High School graduate Chris Maestas of the Henderson District Public Library contributed to this story.

Basic alumni teachers reflect on many changes

Former students choose to spend careers at BHS

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

Although Basic High School seems to be treated as "just another school" in the district, its atmosphere is unique, said Stephanie Wurzer, a 16-year-employee at the school who graduated in 1963.

"I don't care what anybody else in the Clark County School District says, Basic High School is still a community school," said Wurzer. She paused while applause from her houseguests died down.

"They like to think that we're just another school in the school district," she continued. "We have quite a few Basic High grads working at Basic High School."

And since Henderson proper has a less transient population than other areas of the Las Vegas Valley, many students have shared their alma mater with other family members.

"I went to school with ... a lot of my students' parents," said science teacher Dave Bennion (class of '74), in a separate interview. The two are among 16 current BHS teachers and employees who graduated from the school.

Monday, a school holiday, found several alumni gathered at Wurzer's home. "Dennis [Augsberger (class of '68)] just drove by and stopped. The other two are here to pick me up," Wurzer said.

Augsberger was the only one of the group who does not work at the school, although his wife, Karen (not an alumna) taught there for 23 years until her retirement last year.

During interviews with the three Basic High staff members, Wurzer's daughter Michelle (class of '83) stopped by. And although she wasn't there on Monday, Wurzer's sister, Dana Balderson (class of '65) is a Spanish teacher at the school.

While each person was on the phone, the others teased and kibitzed, calling out advice and memories.

Chris Maestas (class of '84), a frequent substitute at Basic High, said he met the others while a student there. "We have become very good friends—very, very good friends," he said.

He and Wurzer were spending the day with Carol Ryan (class of '71): a teacher, a banker, a yearbook maker. Ryan was advisor for El Lobo, Basic's yearbook, during her dozen years teaching at the school. While attending the school—then as Carol Stapleton—she was sophomore class president.

Ryan currently serves as president of the new Basic High School Alumni Association. She lives in Henderson with her husband and two children. "They both go to Gordon McCaw Elementary," she said. "I went to school there too, only it was called Basic Elementary."

"I taught five [years], took a break, taught for seven more," she said. After El Lobo took repeated national honors, Ryan was approached by the yearbook company Herff Jones.

"I said those famous words: 'I will never quit teaching.' But they made me a good offer, and they convinced me I would still be teaching, but they expanded my classroom."

In addition to Basic High, Ryan aids with the yearbooks at Green Valley and Boulder City High Schools along with several other campuses in Las Vegas and Laughlin. She mentioned William E. Orr Junior High School specifically, "because Orr is Steve Augsberger's school."

Wurzer noted that Dennis Augsberger's brother (Basic class of '67) is principal at that school. Wurzer said she wouldn't work anywhere but at Basic. "They wouldn't put up with my fuchsia hair, my purple hair, my blue hair—all of which I had last year," she laughed. She said she started with fuchsia to match "Carol Ryan's yearbook."

Both of her sisters were working at Basic High when she was first hired by then-assistant principal Don Taylor, Wurzer said. She worked on the switchboard for two years, "then they created the school bank. I'm the first and only banker, so far."

Maestas, senior class president while at Basic High, said that during the past five years, "I have been fortunate that I have been able to substitute in every subject available at Basic High, of which there are many."

Bennion, who teaches biology and zoology, is also happy to be at the school. He began his career with the school district in Las Vegas 12 years ago, but came to Basic a year later. "They had an opening in the science department and I jumped for it; I jumped fast."

He and his wife, Laura Williams Bennion (class of '74) live with their twin daughters in Las Vegas. He said that although they have looked in Henderson, they are happy in their neighborhood.

The Bennions, who grew up together but didn't date until after graduation, began high school at its second campus. "We came in [to the third and current location] as juniors," he said.

"It's a lot bigger [now], it's huge," he said, adding there were some 1,500 students at the school their senior year. "We graduated out of the gym."

Notable graduates share memories

By Roy Theiss
News Staff Writer

When a student reaches high school, he or she has many complicated questions about the future. The school shares a burden of trying to entice the youth into challenging careers. But with students at such a puzzling time in their lives, direction can often be confusing.

At times, high school teachers are able to detect a spark in a child and ignite a passion the child never really knew existed. Such is the case with numerous students from Basic High School.

Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., was encouraged to pursue a law degree when he attended Basic High School in the late '50s. "Dorothy Robinson, [a counselor at the high school] told me to go to law school," Reid said. "I never heard of law school before. I had never met one [lawyer]."

Reid started molding his political career during his high school days. With his friend, Reynaldo Martinez as his campaign manager, Reid became student body president in 1956. Their friendship and careers have grown and Martinez is still managing Reid's political career.

Reid is currently completing his first term as U.S. Senator and is seeking re-election. He was Nevada's lieutenant governor at age 30 and served two terms as a U.S. Representative.

A tri-letterman during his four-years at Basic High School, most coaches and teachers knew what field Norm Craft should pursue. Craft has been the director of athletics for the Clark County School District for the past three years.

"I had a great time during my four years—academically, athletically and socially. Then one day I had to grow up," said Craft. "My saddest day was the day I graduated. All four years were great."

Coach Estes McDoniel was Craft's biggest influence during his high school days. "He had more influence on me than anyone else. We would talk twice a week. He would talk athletics and what it has done for him and what it can do for me. He pushed me into my career."

After Craft earned a teaching degree at Indiana University, he had the opportunity to work with his mentor. "It was a good feeling working with Estes." Craft was coordinator of student activities when McDoniel was at Basic High School.

But the molding of a student's future isn't always specific. John Beatty has been credited with giving direction to many students to pursue the English language field.

Beatty was Linda Phillips-Jones first mentor. She stated in a press release that he inspired her career. She has a doctorate in psychology. Beatty encouraged her to write,

Basic blood, pride pumps through Henderson families

By Elizabeth Rusiecki

As Basic High School celebrates its 50th anniversary, the El Lobo yearbook has become somewhat of a family tree for many Henderson residents. With three generations of parents, children and grandchildren boasting Wolf pride, Basic High is in their blood.

The following are only a few "Basic born and bred" families. Many more are out there. Not only former students, they are also carriers of a legacy and graduates of a wonderful sense of community and friendship that still rings through the halls of Basic High School. Please note maiden names in parentheses.

Wade/England Family
Doris (Wade) Simon graduated from Basic High in 1946, and since then, a son, daughter and two grandsons have followed in her footsteps. With a great-grandchild on the way, it won't be long before a fourth generation wears the silver and blue.

With her brother and sister-in-law going to work at the plant, Simon came to Henderson in January of 1943 during the second half of her freshman year. One of a graduating class of about 15, she recalled the close-knit atmosphere of the original Townsite School. "The whole entire high school was really close," she said. Simon lum has become much stronger since then. "I think Basic has been doing a good job ... keeping up with the demands of technology."

"Life wasn't as hectic when I was in school," said Ryan, who was honored as the CCSD Teacher of the Year last year. "School was our lives; everything we did centered around the school."

Now, she said, "They have jobs, they have responsibilities at home that we didn't have."

"When I went to school, we enjoyed going to school," Wurzer said. "It doesn't seem like [today's students] are self-motivated." She added, "The most prevalent change that I have noticed is the total lack of discipline."

"They don't care about too many things," Maestas said. "They care about outside things." He said that when he was in school, "We cared about what we were going to do in the future ... Their needs are more immediate."

"It is changing, but [the attitude] still doesn't equal the one year I had at Clark 11 years ago," Bennion said. "In Las Vegas they were 15 going on 30."

Bennion said, "I came here because of the type of kids that are out here." He added, "Maybe it's the community attitude, but they still seem like kids."

Parents can assure a good education

Basic High School's 50th anniversary celebration during its homecoming this week serves as a reminder of all the teachers, administrators and students who have been educated in Henderson schools. As Basic High has built its reputation through many years of hard work, dedication and innovation, Green Valley High School is just setting out on the road to greatness in the classroom and athletic endeavors.

But a student's first educational experience is always in the home: Parents and guardians must set the tone and lay the foundation for a solid education. Eugene T. Paslov, state superintendent of public instruction, recently issued an open letter with reminders on what parents and guardians can do to assure a healthy and productive school year.

"We know parents must help their children if the children are to be successful in our schools," Paslov said. "The suggestions I have outlined are simple but require the active participation of a care-giver close to the child."

Here are six "do's" to help children with school:

• Do contact your child's teacher or teachers personally or in writing. Tell the teachers you want to help in anyway possible throughout the school year. Be prepared to follow through.

• Do ask your child's teacher(s) for a homework assignment schedule. School work at home is as critical as school work in school. If an individual teacher does not assign homework, make your own schedule which will support the work your child is doing in the classroom.

• Do designate a place at home or an after-school child care facility and a quiet uninterrupted time every day for your child to do homework. For young children, 30-45 minutes is sufficient; for older children, one to three hours per day is recommended. Personally monitor your child's progress. Sit down with your child and discuss what has been accomplished.

• Do make certain your child goes to school every day possible and is on time. Attendance and punctuality standards begin in school and are carried over into the workplace. You can help your child develop good habits by demanding daily school attendance and punctuality.

• Do read to your child or have your child read to you. Oral reading is a powerful learning reinforcement and it can be wonderfully entertaining. Younger students can read stories; older students may do newspaper articles or chapters in books and provide brief oral interpretations. Pay attention to standard grammar and pronunciation.

• Do pay attention to meals. Your child should have a breakfast before going to school. You should also encourage your student to eat lunch at school. Most schools have a lunch facility. Discourage older children from leaving the school campus at lunch time. It generally does not result in nutritious meals and it may lead to other problems, such as tardiness and unexcused absences in afternoon classes.

Loop denial: What's the truth?

How much did George Bush know about the Reagan Administration's scheme to swap missiles to Iran for American hostages held in Lebanon? Since 1988 Bush has maintained that as vice president he was "out of the loop" when it came to being informed about the crucial details of this effort, that although he was generally aware of the opening toward Iran he didn't know that weapons were being bartered for hostages until that fact became public knowledge. But an increasing body of evidence casts grave doubt on the credibility of Bush's profession of ignorance. Howard Teicher, a former Middle East specialist on the National Security Council, wrote "I participated in several meetings with then-Vice President Bush at which the core elements of the Iran initiative were discussed. There was no ambiguity about the fact that arms sales to Iran were a prerequisite for the release of the American hostages." Earlier Teicher testified to three congressional committees and a grand jury about Bush's involvement.

ABC News recently obtained a secret 1987 Israeli government intelligence memorandum describing a briefing about the arms-for-hostages deal given Bush. The memorandum, written by Amiram Nir, a now-deceased Israeli official who was a key player in Iran-Contra arms sales, makes clear that Bush was told about the magnitude of the deal and Iran's conditions. Nir's record of his conversation with Bush in fact simply supports a memorandum written by Craig Fuller, the vice president's chief of staff, on the briefing Bush received from the Israeli. The Fuller document was written immediately after Bush met with Nir, on July 29, 1986.

These revelations follow other evidence that has recently come to light, including the record of a conversation between former Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and former Secretary of State George P. Shultz, indicating that Bush indeed was fully informed and fully supportive of the arms-for-hostages trade.

Bush's own latest word on the subject was delivered Sept. 25: "I believe I've leveled with the American people, and I have nothing to add to it." But there is now available a compelling body of documentary and other evidence that flatly and, we believe, convincingly refutes that claim. The significance of this evidence is not just that it shows Bush knew plenty but that for four years he has tried to mislead Americans about the extent of his knowledge.

The President says that "trust" is a central theme of his campaign for re-election. Trust means having confidence in another's honesty. The Bush record of candor on the arms-for-hostages deal is increasingly being eroded. The President, by saying he has nothing more to add, ill-serves those whose trust he solicits.

GOP problems in California

SAN FRANCISCO—If, as it is sometimes claimed, things happen first in California, then the Republican Party is about to go into one of its occasional eclipses. The state party is in the hands of political and religious zealots, George Bush is running more than 20 points behind Bill Clinton and the GOP looks like it will lose both U.S. Senate seats this year. Only for the Democrats is California still the Golden State.

The other night, one of the Republican Senate candidates, Bruce Herschensohn of Los Angeles, met his Democratic opponent in a debate here. The Democrat in question is Rep. Barbara Boxer from nearly mythical Marin County. Once she would have seemed like a political feast for the Republicans: Female, Jewish, unabashedly liberal, pro-choice, opposed to the Gulf War, an environmentalist, and ranked 33rd among current members of Congress when it came to House bank overdrafts (143 latex checks). In the most recent Los Angeles Times poll, though, she leads Herschensohn by 19 points.

The Boxer-Herschensohn race provides voters with the sort of contest political scientists are wont to say America needs more of: a clear ideological choice. Herschensohn worked in Richard Nixon's White House and his conservative credentials are unimpeachable. But he has his feet planted firmly in the cement of ideology and he seems not to care that he is soon going to be sending up bubbles as a result.

In the debate here, for instance, he was all poise but, really, almost other-worldly. He pushes a flat tax which Boxer has found just delightful. It would, she says, favor the rich at the expense of the middle class. In a state where the unemployment rate is two points above the national average, there is nary a governmental program of which Herschensohn approves. Over and over, he said he wants the federal government to do no more than absolutely necessary. The voters seem ready to repay his minimalism with some of their own.

When the dust settles in November, California is likely to have two female senators. Diane Feinstein, the former mayor of this always stunning city, also enjoys a nearly 20-point margin over her Republican opponent, incumbent John Seymour. The Clinton-Gore ticket has such a commanding lead that the Bush-Quayle ticket had all-but which she used it. She spoke to the Republican National Convention on Aug. 21, 1984, and the speech was about foreign policy—a subject, she said, the Democrats had hardly mentioned in their convention in San Francisco. For that reason, Kirkpatrick asked seven questions—all of them relating to the Soviet threat. Here is an example: "What would become of Israel if surrounded by Soviet client states?"

Kirkpatrick might as well have mentioned iceboxes, Victrolas and Studebakers. The Soviet Union is no more. It has no client states. The former ones, such as Syria, are now looking to the United States for aid and approval. The raison d'être of the contemporary Republican Party no longer exists. Shorn of its foreign policy, it has to rely solely on an unforgiving and ideologically extreme domestic policy: opposition to abortion, an affiliation with the Christian right, an abhorrence to many government programs and a seeming incompetence in the face of a protracted recession. Without the Red Threat, there is little reason to put up with such nonsense.

California, a little deeper into the recession than most states (defense cutbacks have hurt it badly), is not yet typical. But the chaos of the Republican Party, its Yugoslavian-like enmities (Gov. Pete Wilson, a moderate, refused to attend the recent GOP state convention and Seymour was attacked there for being "pro-choice") is a portent of some things to come and some that have already arrived.

Without the umbrella of anti-communism, without a unifying foreign policy, the party is becoming defined by its marginal constituencies. The same thing happened to the Democratic Party after it enacted its New Deal, Fair Deal and Great Society domestic programs. The dilemma for the GOP is as old as the proverb about answered prayers. In politics, the rewards of success can be failure.

Media love nasty campaigns

The media love nothing better than a really nasty election campaign. It lets them get away with substituting fancy for fact to a much greater degree than they can in more civilized days. It gives them the special OK to pick up any sign that the ugly Willie Horton syndrome of the 1988 presidential campaign is back. They feel free to run with it, even as they are piously deploring dirty politics.

As a member of this weird and wonderful profession (I use the term loosely these days), I must confess we don't even need an election campaign as an excuse to go hog-wild. In fact we are world famous for Saturday Night how easily we fall for phony stories.

"Media pranks," he wrote, "are precariously close to being commonplace in the United States. 'Any jerk can access the media,' says Joey Skaggs, a media prankster... It's done by politicians; it's done by public relations firms; it's done by corporations; it's done by everyone who wants to sell something."

You bet. Hough's piece reminded me of one of my colleagues when I was working in New York years ago. He got fed up with the news business and switched to the more lucrative field of public relations.

But at lunch shortly after he made the move he told me he was having trouble getting started. The main problem: how to publicize his two biggest accounts—the Bronx Zoo and the Yonkers Ferry. Both were well-known and well established institutions, but, he moaned, "It's news only if a lion escapes and a ferry sinks. I need a feature story that somehow combines both clients in a non-disastrous scene."

I wished him luck on that unlikely project and forgot about it—until I picked up the New York Herald-Tribune about two weeks later.

On Page one a remarkable story under a two-column headline reported the escape of a rare, exotic and expensive Tibetan squirrel from the Bronx Zoo. The frantic zoo officials went on a search and sent out bulletins for help. Luckily, "help" came when the squirrel was discovered in New Jersey. It had got there, by strange coincidence, by boarding a Yonkers ferry. Before it would continue its journey away from captivity, it was found safely, just in time for my friend to finish his press release and meet the Herald Tribune's deadline.

A true story? Well, partly. There was indeed an exotic, expensive small animal which escaped its cage. However, it was found in an hour or so on the zoo grounds. With a little elaboration, my friend assured his success in his new venture by satisfying two clients at once.

It's an ability that no doubt came from his reporter background, for, as Hough says in his Toronto piece, "Down deep, the media want to get hoaxed, because it provides such good copy. To a journalist, a 'hot' story works like a half-dozen bourbons: Objectivity is reduced, rationality lessened."

Ways of hoaxing us have become even slicker and more imaginative than what was in style in those days of the zoo and the ferry. It's especially strong in political and government manipulation.

Alice Mundy takes a look at the remarkable progress of that development in the Columbia Journalism Review, under the title: "Is the press any match for powerhouse P.R.?" Not really. She writes:

"The use and abuse of journalists by P.R. flacks and lobbyists has long been a fact of life in Washington. In the past couple of years though, media manipulation has been taken to a new level... (it) has evolved considerably since the days when a well-connected flack could place a story simply by calling up a columnist or editor.

"Power has been diluted among the government and lobbyists, GOP and Democratic factions, and an array of interest groups. And the rise of new media outlets... has made it almost impossible for a single media connection to decide whether a story lives or dies."

This has made the competing entities work harder, and to come up with spectacular results. One of the most remarkable recent news manipulations came from "Nayirah." The 15-year-old Kuwaiti hospital worker claimed she watched Iraqi soldiers as they "took babies out of the incubators and left the children to die on the cold floor."

The story was part of a campaign conducted by Hill and Knowlton, one of the major public relations firms working the Washington scene. H&K filmed a public hearing of the girl's testimony to a congressional committee, had it sent out as a video news release to 700 TV stations, and it got an audience estimated at 35 million.

Since President Bush mentioned it often as a reason for his taking firm action, Washington observers now agree the imaginary story was a major factor in building public backing for the war.

And Nayirah? She was a real person, but not a simple hospital worker. She was the daughter of Kuwait's ambassador to the U.S.

Moral of all this: Before you vote, consider the wild charges and counter-charges we are hearing on both the national and the state scene in this most irresponsible of all election years.

Pleasure of Growing Old

We have learned about life and love sorrow and joy
We know about doing and waiting, giving and receiving
Both of want and plenty
We have traveled far—over winding pathways, through green valleys and rocky deserts
Over mountains, moving slowly onward and upward to the heights of life
Now our journey has reached to a vast golden, expanse of age
Flanked on all sides by memories
Some of love, illuminated by understanding
It's vibrant, mellow, a golden place
Worn beautiful by the years
A wonderful place to be
A wonderful God given time to be alive

Who will pay the piper?

By Bill Hanlon

If we listen carefully, it seems few are volunteering to be first in line. With the continued growth in the Henderson area, there is no doubt there will have to be more schools constructed. Green Valley High School, a full-size comprehensive high school, opened last year only to have portables surrounding the building this year.

With the current growth, the school district will again need more seats for their students—your sons and daughters. Under the last bond election, approximately $700 million was raised throughout the county to pay for new schools. District A, one of seven districts in Clark County made up of Henderson, Boulder City and Laughlin received about one-third of that amount.

A couple of issues that need to be closely examined that can have an affect on your pocketbook are developer's fees and breaking up the school district. One could possibly save the taxpayers money; the other may cost you.

If the school district were to be broken up, new schools would have to be financed by the taxpayers in the district experiencing the growth rather than spreading the expense over the entire county. With the expected growth, the money for new schools would have to be generated by the residents of District A. That's a decision you'll have to make when you cast your vote in November.

Another issue that could affect your pocketbook is the developer's fee. These fees are meant to offset the cost of new school construction. Many of the developers in town are familiar with them because other states in which they do business have them. This will be a legislative issue that has the possibility of taking some of the sting out of new school construction. It's a fair share issue. Again when you go to the polls in November, your decision at that time will affect your taxes on school construction in the next year or two.

Another issue that needs your attention is special education funding. I mentioned it a couple of weeks ago. Special education programs are mandated. School districts have no option but to offer them. The difficulty is that no funds are sent to pay for them. School districts are forced to take money out of the general education fund to pay for these mandated programs. The money you and I thought was going to general education is being depleted to pay for special education programs.

This unfairly pits students with special needs against the average student. Both groups have needs. School districts should not have to rob one group to pay for the needs of the other. Special education programs must receive their full funding.

Bill Hanlon is the administrator for the Clark County School District's Math/Science Institute. He is also a part-time math instructor at UNLV.

Candidates duck key question

Maybe there were too many questioners or too little follow-up. Maybe it was just that the stars had perfected their sound bites. But viewers of Sunday's debate got less than they need in all areas, most notably the nation's deficit. It was barely addressed. Gov. Bill Clinton attacked "trickle-down economics" and talked about "the courage to change." But he changed the topic whenever the deficit came up.

President Bush attacked the "spend and tax" policies of Democrats. But he kept his lips zipped on how spending cuts can eliminate $300 billion deficits.

Ross Perot earned some points for wit, enthusiasm and mentioning the need for "shared sacrifice." But after saying he'd end "business as usual," he sounded like a usual politician by not saying much about what he would actually do.

Here are the facts the three so conveniently overlooked: The government's $4 trillion mountain of debt, $16,000 per person, is chewing up national savings, pushing up interest rates and making it harder to build plants, buy equipment and train more productive workers.

Today's workers may sense wage stagnation; tomorrow's will see double the taxes and half the opportunities.

Today's needy may sense a decline of programs to aid them; tomorrow's may have no programs at all.

Today's leaders may sense a jittery public; tomorrow's leaders could face class and generational warfare.

If voters tuned in Sunday expecting they'd get a recipe to change that scenario, they got canned rhetoric instead.

Tonight, the candidates will be back. It would be nice if they didn't give us the same pat answers.

Rural smog checks vital for Washoe

People in the rural counties don't like smog regulations, but they drive here, they help pollute our air, and their cars should be required to undergo efficiency tests.

Rural residents argue that they have relatively few cars and that our problem is not their problem. They also say we profit handsomely when they shop here, and that we shouldn't slap the golden goose in the beak.

Well, we do profit. But at the same time, we provide goods and services that they cannot get in their small towns; and when you hop in your car in Fallon, it's a much longer haul to Sacramento than to Reno. One would think that this is not a trip rural Nevadans would want to make on a regular basis—or would make. So the rural-Reno connection creates a mutually helpful arrangement.

Also, Reno and Sparks provide jobs for many people in outlying communities. That, too, is mutually beneficial.

That should be argument enough. But beyond this, the environment is everybody's problem. Smog is not just a difficulty for the Truckee Meadows. Anyone who has ventured down to Carson Valley in the fall or winter—and seen Job's Peak disappear behind a cloud of haze—knows the truth. And if you travel north a few miles, you find that Carson City is becoming a fair-sized town. It, too, must recognize that air quality problems are coming.

So Washoe is not being unreasonable when it asks for mandatory auto-emission checks within 60 miles. Many of the cars that drive here—and pollute here—come from the smaller counties. Brian Jennison, air quality division director for the Washoe District Health Department, estimates that 25% of our traffic involves commuters. That is a ton of cars. So it is imperative that these cars undergo smog inspections.

Understandably, this proposal is not popular with the state legislators who would have to adopt it. But the need is there. Sooner or later, the change must be made. And the sooner the change is made, the better.

Darman writes own history

To prepare President Bush for the debates, the role of Bill Clinton is being played by White House Budget Director Richard Darman. This only seems fair; Darman has already done so much to get Gov. Clinton elected.

That's the conclusion we draw after reading a four-part Washington Post series by Bob Woodward. The series, which is the talk of Washington, is transparently Dick Darman's attempt to set the tone of all future histories of economic policy during the Bush years. Accordingly the articles cast the budget director as an heroic Henry V, but the effort is so unsubtle that he ends up looking more like Richard III, the mad-genius usurper. Bush is depicted, in one memorable insider quote, as having the presence of "a log floating on the turbulent sea," while Treasury Secretary Nick Brady is cast as Falstaff, without the sense of humor.

The goings-on are leavened somewhat by Woodward's unflagging economic credulosity. The nature and details of the policy disputes also aren't new. But his anecdotal account is notable for what it reveals about the character and competence of the men who made economic policy in the Bush years. And along the way it reveals why voters seem ready to deny Bush a second term.

Darman is described as believing from the very first that Bush's 1988 campaign promises were convenient lies. The OMB director fought against including the "no-new-taxes" pledge in the acceptance speech, and even before Inauguration Day was seeking a grand bargain with Congress to raise taxes and cut entitlements. The villains of the piece are the "political" types, such as Peggy Noonan and Roger Ailes, who believed in the no-new-taxes pledge not merely as a way to win an election but as a plank in a philosophy of government.

Now, even we might have considered accepting some sort of tax increase as part of a budget deal that achieved something useful—real spending discipline, a line-item veto or a more productive capital-gains tax (if any). Our problem with the Brady-Darman-Bush deal of 1990 was that it traded tax increases three months into a recession for huge spending increases, a judgment that two years' hard economic experience have only borne out. The Mitchell-Gephardt Democrats simply outlicked the Brady-Darman team.

Darman seems to understand this judgment of history, because in the Woodward account he blames everyone else for his failure - Newt Gingrich, Congress, "conservatives," you name it. We are supposed to believe that the failure lies not with those who ran the Bush policy but with those who criticized it.

Bush, of course, called that deal a "mistake" earlier this year, a decision Darman is reported to have called "sheer idiocy" in private. He tells Woodward that he offered to resign shortly thereafter, but Bush refused the offer. Bush was asked about the "sheer idiocy" line on ABC's morning show, he called Darman "a good man" and claimed he was "surrounded by a good team."

This is the same President who is trying to convince voters that his second term will be different, which is to say better, than his first. Darman, meanwhile, has gained power in the Bush White House. He is briefing Bush on the debates and pops up on the talk shows as the campaign's main economic spokesman. He leans to friendly reporters that he covets the Treasury post in a second term. And this week Bush declared that Jim Baker, brought in as campaign chief of staff, will return to State in a second term. Where is the concrete evidence, beyond rhetoric, that anything would be different in a second Bush term?

Three weeks remain in this drama, and Bush isn't a corpse yet. But one of his closest aides is already trying to write his own history of who killed the Bush presidency. It is a sorry spectacle.

Wall Street Journal

Bush acts like Santa as election nears

George Bush is now tossing aside past positions and handing out favors in pursuit of votes like a department store Santa Claus in December.

In his acceptance speech at the Republican convention, he proposed as a "brand new idea" a tax check-off that had been kicking around for some time and that even his Treasury Department had previously described as bad policy; the next week he was urging an expansion of the government's program to aid displaced workers, having urged in his budget in January that part of the present program be killed. Now he has also announced the reversal of a ban on the sale of fighter planes to Taiwan—the F-16s mean jobs in Texas, whose electoral votes will be crucial in November—and some increased aid to farmers.

Bush is hardly the only president to have cast consistency aside or to have tried to trade favors for votes in an election year. But this is the same George Bush who is also campaigning against the Democratic Congress on grounds that it won't give him the line item veto, which he says he needs and would use to curb its legendary appetite for pork—not to mention as the only candidate who can be trusted not to swerve from principle or to vacillate in his positions. He can hardly have it both ways. Nor is the president even being straight with all the people to whom he's distributing those gifts. Some of those boxes are empty; some of the favors that he is trying to palm off are fake.

The other day he went to South Dakota to announce with suitable fanfare a supposed increase in export subsidies for wheat. The program was described as involving $1 billion in subsidies—the use of public funds to help reduce wheat prices that other public funds have earlier been used to increase—to help sell some $3 billion, or 30 million metric tons, of wheat. Pretty impressive, or so it sounded. But it turns out that a lot of that wheat has already been sold (or the government has already agreed to subsidize its sale), a lot of the rest was going to be sold anyway, and most of the remainder likely won't be sold—the president offered to subsidize more than the world is likely to want to buy. This is a continuing program that the "announcement" more described than expanded, and part of the supposed expansion was fanciful padding. "Excitement cooled after analysts realized that a lot of the package includes offers that had already been made to nations such as China," the Wall Street Journal reported from the Chicago Board of Trade.

Insofar as it did represent a slight expansion, moreover, this one, too, was a policy switch.

The announcement as to the F-16s was not false; the F-16 has been on the budget chopping block, and the sale to Taiwan will help to cushion the effect.

The administration is said to be considering a change in the clean air rules as to ethanol. Why not make the Army buy the ethanol to help run the tanks it doesn't need and is having to modernize only in order not to displace the workers who would otherwise have to be helped by the aid program the president has yet to figure out or announce a way to pay for? Sure it's a bad idea, but just you wait.

Alumni association honors student

By Roy Theiss
News Staff Writer
This article first appeared in the News in July

Recognizing that college can be a very expensive endeavor, Basic High School started an alumni association scholarship program. Tricia Marie Williams said she was grateful for being the first recipient of the Basic High School Scholarship Association.

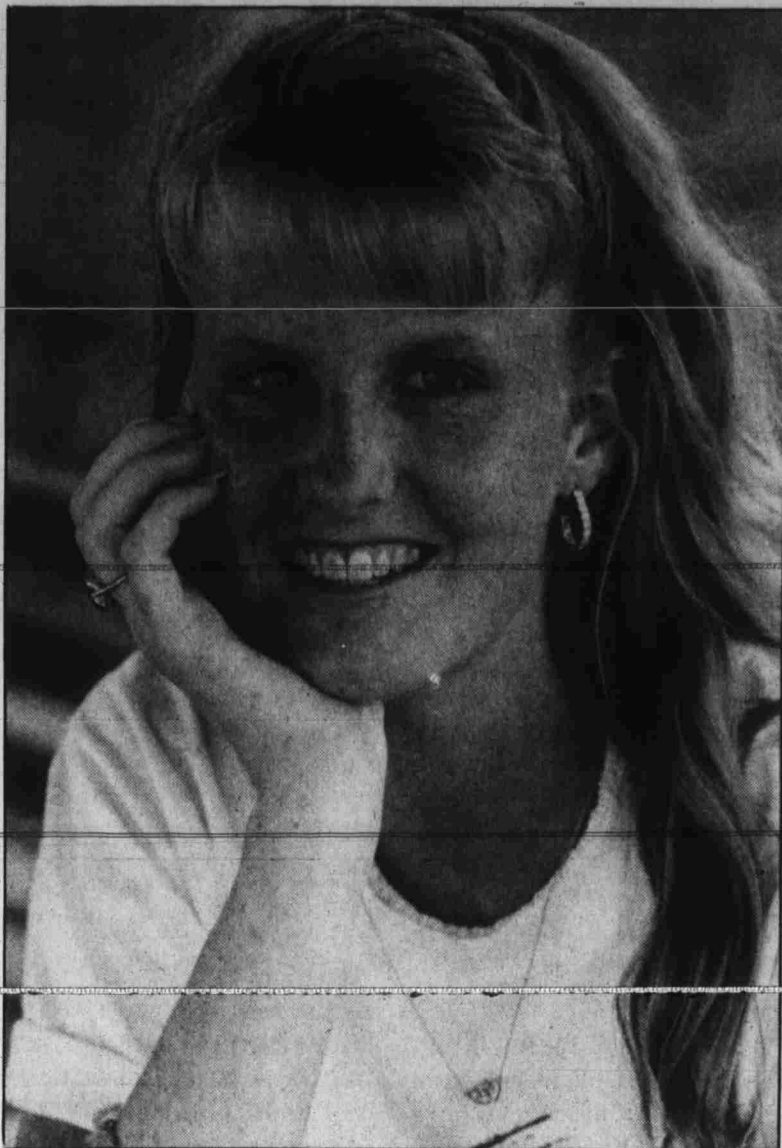

"I'm really excited because I need all the help I can get," Williams said. "I feel honored." Williams received $500 which will be used towards her education at Brigham Young University. She is going to study zoology and wants to become an orthodontist. One year tuition at BYU costs about $10,000.

The scholarship touts the school's history. The first criterion is that the graduate has to have a parent that is an alumnus from Basic High School. Her father also teaches at Basic High School. Other requirements for the scholarship include being active at school and a grade point average of at least a 2.0.

Williams has been a member of the cheerleading team, the golf team, Students Against Drunk Driving, the ski team, the Spanish Club, and the math club.

Williams filed her application for the scholarship June 29 and she was wondering every day if she would win. "I was extremely happy because everyday my Mom would ask if I got it. But I didn't want to get my hopes up."

When the scholarship people tried to notify Williams, she was not at home. "They called but I wasn't there. I was kind of hoping it was good news."

But she has had her share of rejections. She filled out 30 scholarships and most came back rejected. "I could fill them out in my sleep," she said. Williams has also received a $750 scholarship from the Black Mountain County Club and a $200 from the Soroptimist club. Williams said she wants to encourage other Basic High School students to participate in the scholarship program because the amount of the scholarship depends partially upon the dues paid by the members.

Teacher salaries set stage

By Elizabeth Rusiecki
News Staff Writer

1942: An average teacher at the Townsite School earns $1,900 to guide the children of the plant workers in the school's first year.

1947: A new teacher with a bachelor's degree makes $2,600 yearly.

1992: A new Clark County School District teacher with a bachelor's degree but no experience earns $22,265 annually.

Fortunately, some things do change.

This week, as Henderson celebrates the 50th anniversary of Basic High School, the town is filled with graduates and teachers sharing their memories. But amidst the celebration of former students and administrators, a close look at the the original salary schedule can really put the past in perspective.

According to Origin and Development of the Henderson School System by Robert Taylor, when the original Townsite School opened in 1942 to grades one through 12, the average elementary school teacher took home $1,900 a year. The typical high school teacher of math, government, history, economics or language earned the same.

The report also shows educators were better off teaching seventh and eighth grades or physical education—junior high teachers pocketed $2,000 for the same 12 months, while their co-workers leading gym class sported $2,200 annually.

That first year, the superintendent of schools doubled as the high school principal and made $3,000 for supervising kindergarten through 12th grades that shared the Townsite location. The elementary school principal earned $2,500.

As the report progresses, a 1947 schedule shows the district's breakdown for teacher salaries depending on the number of years

Film series, lecture to explore civil rights

University radio station KUNV 91.5FM and the American civil Liberties Union are sponsoring a series of films and a lecture on the UNLV campus during October. The films focus on free speech and the lecture on sexual harassment and civil liberties.

"Silence, Voice, and the Right to Speak" is the title of the film series to be shown every Tuesday in October at 7:30 p.m. in the Dungan Humanities Building, Room 109, at UNLV.

On Oct. 20 women's concerns will be explored with "A Question of Silence," and the series will conclude on Oct. 27 with "Skokie," an exploration of free speech issues.

Nadine Strossen, national president of the American Civil Liberties Union, will speak on "Sexual Harassment and Civil Liberties," commemorating the first anniversary of the Anita Hill/Clarence Thomas hearings.

Strossen's lecture will take place at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Dungan Humanities Building, Room 109.

The film series and lecture are free and open to the public. For further information, call Rob Rosenthal, 739-3877.

Chiatovich is a student at Basic High School. Additional information was provided by Basic graduate Chris Maestas of the Henderson District Public Library.

two colleagues at The Oregonian newspaper in Portland.

Church said he enjoyed public speaking in high school and he wrote skits for school assemblies. Beatty encouraged him to write and is a teacher Church will never forget. "I'll always remember him. He had very high standards. He was a very creative teacher."

State Assemblyman Phil Stout also credits Beatty for helping in his personal life when he was a student. "I really enjoyed my high school days. But I had a tragedy when I was a junior in high school. I didn't know which way to go.

"He told me to try out for the high school play. At the time, I thought it was a woosy thing to do. But he kept at me. Then he picked me out for the lead. He got me back into line and gave me focus. He changed my life in school."

Prior to Beatty's assistance, Stout began to flounder. His father had passed away, his older brother had moved and another brother had quit school. Beatty's counseling helped mold Stout's future.

Stout went on to serve in Vietnam where he suffered a broken neck. Coming back from the war, Stout decided to get involved in politics. He started out with the Jaycees. Later he ran for mayor but fell short in the primary election by 52 votes. He became an assemblyman in 1990 and is running for reelection.

Voice of Democracy program sponsored

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Basic #3848, is sponsoring a Voice of Democracy program at both Basic and Green Valley High Schools.

"Students win more than awards and scholarships when they participate in the VFW Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program," said Commander Vic Vincent and President Elaine Kramer of the Ladies Auxiliary of Basic Post #3848.

Some of the benefits are increased self-confidence and poise, experience in communicating with others and valuable training in self-expression," Vincent said.

Students in grades 10-12 are eligible. Contact Nathan Bassing at Basic High or Alice Dallimore at Green Valley High.

State winners will take a five-day tour of Washington D.C. and the opportunity to make lasting friendships with other state winners, he said.

In the 46 years that the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary have been involved with the Voice of Democracy Program, more than six million high school students have participated. Participants write and then tape-record a three-to-five minute broadcast script expressing their views on "My Voice in America's Future." From among the state winners, national winners are chosen to receive a total of more than $78,500 in scholarships.

Joel and Phyllis Zander are co-chairpersons of the project for the Post and Auxiliary. For further information, call 564-2114.

Three Basic students commended in Merit Program

Basic High School principal Joanne Pughstey announced this week that Christen Whitney, Matt Marino and Wyman Ray have been named Commended Students in the 1993 National Merit Scholarship Program.

A Letter of Commendation from National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which conducts the program, will be presented by the school to these seniors.

About 35,000 Commended Students throughout the nation are being honored for their outstanding performance on the 1991 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, which was the route of entry to the 1993 Merit Program. Commended Students have shown exceptional academic promise by placing among the top 5% of more than one million program entrants, although they will not continue in the 1993 competition for Merit Scholarships.

An NMSC official said, "The high performance of Commended Students in the extremely competitive Merit Program and the school's important contribution to the development of these academically talented youth deserve public recognition. We hope the honor these students have earned will encourage them to take advantage of their opportunities for higher education and will serve as an example for other aspiring young men and women. Our nation will benefit from the fullest development of this intellectual resource."

Scout Expo '92 this weekend

Boulder Dam Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America's Scout Expo '92 will kick off this weekend with Rich Little. The festivities will begin at 9 a.m. Friday at Cashman Field Center.

This annual two-day event is where local Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers have the opportunity to demonstrate to the community what scouting is all about. This year's theme for the event, which is open to the public is "Energy 2000 - Conserve Today For A Better Tomorrow." This year's corporate sponsor is Nevada Power Co.

Scout Expo '92 will begin with a campfire program. In addition to a performance by Little, those in attendance will be treated to traditional Boy Scout campfire songs and stories, a performance by the UNLV cheerleaders and a fireworks spectacular. Scout Expo '92 will continue from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets for Scout Expo '92 are $3 per family and are available from Scouts throughout Southern Nevada or at the Boulder Dam Area Council office, 1135 University Road, across from UNLV. Tickets may also be purchased at the Expo. For more information, call 736-4366.

VFW to host fish fry

VFW Post #3848 will host a fish fry from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday at the Post home, 401 E. Lake Mead Dr.

A $5 donation will be requested for the dinner. Cat fish, hush puppies and cole slaw will be served.

The public is invited. Call 564-5822 for more information.

VFW dinner Friday to aid cancer research

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Basic Post #3848 will host their annual cancer aid and research dinner Friday. Barbara Woods from the American Cancer Society will speak on "Taking Control."

The auxiliary will serve a roast beef dinner at 6 p.m. for a donation of $5. All members are urged to attend. The public is welcome at the post home located at 401 West Lake Mead Dr.

$1 million bail set in random murder

By Katherine E. Scott
News Staff Writer

Bail was set at $1 million Wednesday in Henderson Justice Court for 37-year-old Stephen Knapp by visiting Justice of the Peace R.V. Scott of Searchlight. A hearing to confirm representation by a public defender was set for Monday.

Knapp, who lived in a Pittman neighborhood motel, is charged with murder with a deadly weapon for the apparent random killing last week of a Michigan man who was visiting his family in Henderson.

Joseph Ronald Ciaffone, 47, died at 8:25 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 7, two days after he was shot in the head in a Boulder Highway casino, officials said.

Ciaffone and his brother-in-law were playing video poker machines near the rear entrance of the Skyline Casino about 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 5 when Knapp entered the casino, according to police.

Witnesses told investigators that Knapp looked around for a moment, then took a revolver from its holster, shot the nearest gambler at close range, returned the gun to its place and left out the same door.

Ciaffone's brother-in-law, William Hornbrook, chased Knapp outside and wrested the Taurus .38 caliber revolver from him when the gunman began to draw it again, police said.

Knapp was then taken into custody by security guards at the casino.

The attack "was a random, unprovoked shooting as the victim and suspect did not know each other, nor did the investigation reveal that they had ever had any previous contact," an HPD news release stated.

Bones found in desert

Henderson police are investigating suspected human bones found in the desert between Black Mountain and Lake Mead Drive on Wednesday.

The bones were reported about noon by rockhounds walking in the area, according to HPD Sgt. Richard Perkins.

About half a dozen weathered bones were discovered, Perkins said. "When they were found, they were sticking out of the dirt," Perkins said, adding the rockhounds took them out.

Further information was unavailable at News press time Wednesday.

Public Lands Council nominations sought

The Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Management (BLM) is seeking nominations to fill seven seats on the National Public Lands Advisory Council.

The 21-member council advises the Secretary of the Interior through the BLM director on issues concerning national policies and programs for the management of more than 270 million acres of public lands. The council meet at least three times a year, with meeting locations usually rotated among the 11 western states where the majority of BLM-managed surface lands are located.

People or organizations wishing to nominate individuals to the council should send biographical data that includes name, address, profession, and other relevant information about the candidates' qualifications to: Director (150), Bureau of Land Management, MS-5626, Department of the Interior, 1849 C Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20240.

The next meeting of the council is scheduled for Oct. 16, in Farmington, N.M.

Husband charged with kidnap, battery

A 22-year-old Henderson man was arrested early Tuesday morning on charges of kidnapping and battering his estranged wife, according to the Henderson Police Department.

William Michael Richards "is accused of handcuffing his estranged wife and attempting to suffocate her with a pillow," stated an HPD news release. The incident occurred following an argument at Richards' apartment in the Whitney Ranch neighborhood, police said.

"The incident occurred at about 10 p.m. [Monday]," the news release stated. "The woman fought back, was able to get Richards off her and then was able to convince Richards to remove the handcuffs," it continued.

The victim called police, and Richards was arrested about 12:30 a.m., police said. He is charged with battery with a deadly weapon and kidnapping, according to police.

Lt. Governor Sue Wagner to have spinal surgery

Lt. Gov. Sue Wagner's office announced this week she will undergo surgery Friday at the Minnesota Spine Center in Minneapolis.

The additional surgery is necessary because of the injuries she sustained and pain she has had as a result of being in a plane crash on Labor Day weekend in 1990.

Wagner expects to be hospitalized for two weeks and on a restricted-activity schedule for 6-10 weeks afterward. She intends to be ready to travel again in December to attend her daughter's graduation and the governor's conference on tourism. She plans to be back to a full schedule by the time the Nevada Legislature convenes in January when she will assume her position as president of the Senate.

Hall-Davis

Jerry and Diane Hall of Henderson recently announced the engagement of their daughter Tani Hall to Anthony Davis.

Hall, a graduate of Basic High School is employed at Corona Trucking.

Davis, the son of Ronald and Carol Davis of California, is also employed at Corona Trucking.

The wedding will be Nov. 21 at First United Methodist Church of Henderson. After a honeymoon in San Diego, the couple plans to reside in Las Vegas.

cruise Water Street," he said.

After graduation, England attended Northern Arizona University and joined the Navy. He now lives in Las Vegas and works as a union representative for Washington and Alaska. His two sons, Charles and Ryan, have also graduated from Basic.

"It seemed kind of strange going to my son's first basketball game," he laughed.

"That was kind of weird," said Charles Brook England of his father watching that game. Although Basic's location had changed since his father's reign, he also recalled the intimacy of his class of 1987.

"We were very tight with each other," he added. He still lives in Henderson and is a dealer at the Railroad Pass. In April, his wife is expecting a child.

Sanchez/Maestas Family
Mary (Sanchez) Maestas came to Henderson as an 8-year-old in 1943, when her father went to work at Stauffer Chemical. She graduated from Basic in 1953, and since then, her five children have done the same.

Maestas said she enjoyed school and filled her days with band, chorus and play activities. "In those days, we loved to go to school. I wouldn't dream of missing a day," she said.

In January of their last year, Maestas and her fellow students traveled to Death Valley for their senior trip. Later that semester, her graduating class was the last group of seniors to leave the original Townsite location.

After graduation, Maestas married and eventually went to work in banking. She currently works at First Interstate Bank on Water Street, where she has been a member of the company for some 26 years.

Like their mother, sons and daughter Marshall Jr., Dennis, Randy, Elizabeth and Chris, have all attended Basic. "I thought it was wonderful," she said.

Maestas' first three sons all married their Basic High School sweethearts. Her son Dennis graduated in 1975, and his son Jeremy now plays football for Basic High's junior varsity squad. In addition, her son Chris is a substitute at Basic, teaching in the classrooms in which he was once taught.

Gonzales/Shearin Family
Like her fellow graduate Mary Maestas, Cecilia (Gonzales) Shearin's father also came to Henderson to work at the plants. Her family arrived here from Colorado in 1942, and in 1953, after being active in student council, the girls athletic association and the pep club, she also became a Basic High graduate. Later, she would continue her friendship with Maestas as an attendant in her wedding.

"It just seemed like everyone knew each other," Shearin said. "Everybody seemed to be very close." She added students would strut every weekend in teen dances at the "Wildcat Lair" in Las Vegas, and see a lot of movies.

Her three sons and one daughter,

Stephen, Martin, Jennifer and Andrew also graduated from Basic between 1976 and 1984. With two of her three grandchildren nearing high school age, it appears a third generation of Shearins are about to become Wolves.

As owner of the Baskin Robbins on Boulder Highway for 14 years, Shearin said scooping ice cream is a great way to keep in contact with old Basic friends. "I love it," she said.

Vincent/Skupa Family
In 1942, the Vincent family relocated in Henderson from San Bernardino, Calif., attracted by the plant. Between the years of 1943 and 1964, nine Vincent children graduated from Basic. Add to that their children and the number jumps to 23.

Sharon (Vincent) Skupa, one of the four sisters and five brothers, graduated from the high school in 1961. As Basic's first female student body president and a cheerleader, she remembered state championships in basketball and football and the community enthusiasm and support that went with it.

As the next-to-the-youngest Vincent to sit in a Basic High classroom, she said having to live up to the family name was "sometimes good and sometimes not good." The benefit of having a crew of older brothers definitely made her safe, she said. "I was definitely proud to be a Vincent," she stated.

Skupa added there has been a Vincent family member in the Clark County School District for every year since 1943.

She now has three children and has lived in the Green Valley neighborhood for nine years. Although one child graduated from Valley High School and another currently wears the green as a Gator, she reaffirms her dedication to Henderson and the high school where she was taught. This weekend, as Basic celebrates homecoming in 10-year reunions, five Vincents will partake in the festivities.

"The greatest thing about going to school in a small town... My friends then are my friends now," she added.

The Basic High School song

Hail Basic High School
Hats off to you
Ever you'll find us
Loyal and true
Firm and undaunted
Always we will be
Hail to the school we love
Here's a toast to thee.

The blue and white forever
Shout for victory
For our school and our team
One and all are we
And we will make
The golden school days
A glorious success
Three cheers for

of experience and whether or not the teacher had a degree. According to this schedule, a first-year teacher without a degree began at $2,400 a year and received an extra $60 annually for eight years until they reached a maximum salary of $2,800.

Teachers with a bachelor's degree earned $2,600 a year and received an additional $100 annually for 11 years until they reached $3,700. Surprisingly, those with a master's degree started at $2,800, also received $100 annually for 11 years, and capped off at $3,900. In other words, the salary difference between holding a bachelor's and a master's degree back then was only $200 a year, or less than $17 a month.

Today, in accordance with Clark County guidelines, a teacher with a master's degree and district tenure can make $44,530 a year, while an educator with a doctorate averages $45,030—only $500 more.

Assembly president pays official visit

By Penny L. Swift
Sunshine Rebekah Lodge #41 Peggy O'Hearn of Minden, Nevada, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Nevada, made her official visit Tuesday night to Sunshine Rebekah Lodge #41 of Henderson.

A banquet was given in her honor at the Eldorado Club. The prayer was given by the Chaplain, Helen Louise Washum.

The meeting following was held at the Masonic Temple and conducted by Feme Seifert, noble grand. Dignitaries who were introduced by the District Deputy President Eudora Taylor and Deputy Marshal Helen Leonard were: Harry Leonard; Helen Leonard; Marjie Hall; Bill Walker; Iona Walker; LaVerne Indermuhl; Fay Harrison; Bea Rhodes; and Peggy O'Hearn.

Also introduced were Harry Hall, Eudora Taylor, Dolores Galin and Ardeen Sears.

Noble Grand's Nancy Cain of Oasis #31 Las Vegas and Irene Reynolds of Cactus #40 Boulder City, stood and introduced themselves.

Barbara Sergent was introduced as a visiting Rebekah from Carlsbad Rebekah Lodge #13 Carlsbad, N.M.

O'Hearn was escorted to a seat of honor for a program on "trees," her emblem. While Washum and Christine Morehead were decorating a tree, Swift read about different trees. Sissy Martensen played and sang her songs, and the tree with money was presented to the president.

The president told of her many projects, the scholarship fund, I.O.O.F. Sierra Home, St. Jude's Ranch for Boys and Girls and to plant trees.

Refreshments were served following the meeting. A cake decorated with Sweet Peas and Lilly of the Valley, three trees, and "Welcome Peggy."

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 30. All members are invited to attend.

Civic Symphony to launch sixth season

The Henderson Civic Symphony, under the direction of Mark Laycock, will begin its sixth concert season with a performance at Basic High School at 3 p.m., Saturday. The free concert will feature works by Mozart, Mussorgsky, and Franck.

Highlighting the concert will be the Symphony in D Minor of Belgian composer Cesar Franck (1822-90). An organist, Franck wrote only one symphonic work, a three-movement opus which he completed two years before his death. The Symphony in D Minor greatly influenced the succeeding generation of French symphonists, most notably Ernest Chausson and Paul Dukas.

The concert will also include a performance of "Night on Bald Mountain," a symphonic poem by the Russian composer Modest Mussorgsky (1839-1881). The piece was originally conceived as incidental music to accompany the scene of a witches' sabbath in the opera "Sorochintsy Fair." However, it was later reworked and orchestrated by Mussorgsky's friend Nikolai Rimsky-Korsakov for inclusion in an operatic ballet. Opening the concert will be the overture to "The Magic Flute," the bubbly, kinetic prelude to what is arguably the most popular of all of Wolfgang Mozart's operas.

Sponsored by the Henderson Parks and Recreation Department, the symphony is presenting its first concert under new music director Mark Laycock. Since its inception in 1987, the ensemble has grown in size from a core group of a few string players to a full 40-piece symphony orchestra. The musicians of the Henderson Civic Symphony represent a cross section of the Vegas valley. Ranging from retired senior citizens to exceptional high school musicians, members are drawn from Las Vegas, Henderson and Boulder City.

For further information, call Mark Laycock, 431-2277, or Cindy Herman at the office of Henderson Parks and Recreation, 565-2313.

Senior Center Highlights

Octoberfest at Center Saturday

The public is invited to come to the Henderson Senior Center on Saturday to celebrate an Octoberfest. The fund-raising event will take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. It will feature free entertainment, food and beverages at modest prices, gifts galore for purchase, and drawings for more than 25 outstanding prizes.

Prizes including a new Magnovox 19-inch color TV, a super Nintendo, dinners for two, gift certificates, wrist watches, a painting donated by the art class and a wood carving donated by that class can be won. Winners do not need to be present.

This is a great day to bring the kids, the grandkids, and friends to the center for a fun time. The event is an activity of the Henderson Senior's Auxiliary, a non-profit organization.

55 ALIVE

The popular 55 ALIVE Mature Driving Class will again be available at the center on Monday and Tuesday. The class will be given in two sessions of four hours each. Phil Nico of AARP is the instructor. This class is filled. However, $8 registration fees are being accepted for a Nov. 9 and 10 class. Call Chuck at 565-6990 for more information.

Stroke Club

The recently formed Stroke Club will meet at the center at 12:30 p.m., Tuesday. This support group is for stroke survivors and their caregivers. The meeting is coordinated by Ruth O'Halloran, who is a registered nurse and rehabilitation specialist. Myrtle Bauman, a recovering stroke survivor, and prior president of a stroke club is a resource person for the center group.

Birthday Party

All seniors who have a birthday in October are invited to come to the center for lunch on Wednesday, Oct. 21. A special birthday program is scheduled to recognize and honor the October "birthdays." The Young at Heart Senior Band will entertain and Bud Quinnell has promised a few surprises from the nutrition program.

Social Security

The Social Security representative who was away on vacation last week will resume his normal schedule on Wednesday, Oct. 21. His hours of service are from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. All Henderson residents are reminded of this outstanding service available for them.

Reflexology

On Thursday, Oct. 22, Bill Riggsby a California-certified reflexologist, will provide free services at the center from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. He and his wife recently moved to Henderson and are regular attendees at the center. He says reflexology relieves tension, improves circulation and relaxation through foot massage. A sign-up sheet is available for interested seniors.

Chamber Channels

Tour showed 'mind-boggling' growth

By Jerry Sun
Acting President
Chamber of Commerce

Henderson business and civic leaders who filled seven buses last Thursday afternoon to review the progress of 214 new and nearly new projects had to go home feeling good about what they had just witnessed. It's mind boggling to think that our community is experiencing this kind of dynamic growth at a time when most of the country is in a 'stall mode' due to the sluggish economy.

Lake Las Vegas was just one of the many large projects that leaves you breathless. Watching a 55-foot yacht cruise over the still water of the man-made lake makes your chest pump up with pride and puts visions in your mind of sail boats and luxurious hotels and homes along the shoreline. World-class golf courses also enhance the image of this project and our city.

All of Dr. Bagleys residential developments looked good and his venture into a second career is an asset to Henderson. Congratulations are due all the developers in our community who are committed to 'quality and style' as they shape this town's new image from industrial to resort-residential. Accolades are also in order to the Mayor Lorna Kesterson, the City Council and members of the various planning panels who guarantee all our citizens that all buildings and plans will enhance the quality lifestyles we presently enjoy.

If you missed this bus tour of our expanding city you missed 'the big one'! Plan now to make the next one in October of '93 and start saving money now cause your gonna' have to buy a new hat...one size bigger!

Jazz Festival at Fox Ridge Saturday

A free afternoon concert program titled "Jazz at Fox Ridge" will be held from noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, at Green Valley's Fox Ridge Park on Valle Verde Drive, just north of Warm Springs Road.

Presented by the Las Vegas Jazz Society and the American Nevada Corp., the concert will feature the sounds of the Buddy Charles Concert Jazz Orchestra, Beale Street Blues, and Joe Locatelli's Latin-Jazz Sextet.

The Buddy Charles Concert Jazz Orchestra has performed together locally for nearly five years including several engagements at the Monday Night Jazz Series at the Four Queens Hotel and Casino.

Beale Street Blues is a well-known Las Vegas band with roots in Dixieland music and Swing-erjazz. The group has performed at leading Las Vegas casinos, including Bourbon Street, Showboat, the Sands and Tropicana Hotel and Casino.

The Joe Locatelli Latin-Jazz Sextet delivers an electric blend of bop and swing standards along with Cal Tjader-inspired Latin sounds. A Las Vegas resident since 1963, Locatelli is a veteran percussionist within the local music industry having worked with numerous showroom headliners over the years.

Co-sponsors of "Jazz at Fox Ridge" include the American Federation of Musicians Music Performance Trust Fund, the city of Henderson Parks and Recreation Department, Mahoney's Pro-

Music and Drum Shop and Southern Nevada Music Company.

Throughout the year, many free concerts, plays and cultural events are made available to the community through American Nevada Corp., the primary developer of Green Valley, and numerous community-based organizations.

Blankets, lawn chairs and picnic baskets are welcome at "Jazz at Fox Ridge." Food and beverage will also be available for purchase. For more detailed information, call 458-8855.

ASTD to meet Friday

The American Society for Training and Development, Greater Las Vegas Chapter, will hold its monthly meeting on Friday, Oct. 16 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Bally's Metro Room #1, 20th floor.

The program topic, "Needs Assessment," will be presented by Elizabeth Livingston.

Lunch will be served. Call Phyllis Winkler, 733-3755 for reservations.

Latin Chamber lunch Friday

The Latin Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly luncheon on Friday at the Harrah's Hotel and Casino Center Strip, Convention Area, second floor.

Brian Cram, Clark County School District superintendent, who will address the audience on important issues facing the school district. There will be a no-host cocktails at 11:30 a.m. and the luncheon will start at noon.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Wolves chasing third straight

Frazier to team: 'This is our playoff'

By Terry Carter
News Sports Editor

Having squeezed past Chaparral and Valley, Basic appears to be atop the Sunrise Division with No. 1-ranked Green Valley.

But Basic head coach Cliff Frazier knows any playoff hopes for the Wolves (2-3, 2-0 in Sunrise) require a homecoming win Saturday against Rancho (1-5, 0-2 in Sunrise).

Typically Basic has not done well against the aggressive Rams, who have lost several games this fall by a touchdown or less. Last week Rancho fell to Chaparral 35-29, a week after the Cowboys had dropped on overtime 20-19 decision to Basic.

Frazier still expects a tough battle with Basic's traditional nemesis.

"We haven't always played a good game against these guys. It's almost been a feeling of 'Why can't we skip this one?' But I think this group of [Basic] kids want to play hard and win this ball game," the Basic coach said.

The Wolves have lost three of their last four meetings with Rancho, and Frazier estimated Basic could claim only three wins in the past 10 meetings.

But with top-ranked GV and No. 3 Eldorado waiting for Basic in the final two weeks of the season, the coach knows this game is a must-win situation. Playoff hopes are still alive at Basic if the Wolves can advance to 3-0 in league with a win in Saturday's noon contest at Basic.

A loss would force Basic to probably need wins at GV and against defending state champs Eldorado to make the playoffs.

"I've been telling the kids this is our playoff game. If we don't win this one, we're going to struggle to get anywhere," Frazier explained.

Basic's defense appears solid now after week-by-week im-

ANOTHER STOP TO MAKE—Basic's linebacking corp. will be tested again this week by Rancho's Jason Mack. Like Chaparral's Willie Granger (21), Mack is a leading rusher in Southern Nevada provements throughout the year. Their pursuit has increased, and coaches Frazier and John Wise seem happy with the team play although Basic is allowing 255 yards per game. More than 232 yards each game is permitted to opposing rushers, and Rancho has one of the best.

Jason Mack is a powerful runner capable of blasting through the middle or breaking outside. He has gained 572 yards in six games this fall and appears to be Rancho's prime offensive threat.

While speed is usually a death warrant for the Wolfpack, Frazier believes his defensive unit can contain Mack and disrupt the Rams' power game.

"I'm tickled to death right now with our defense. Since we returned from California, we've been tackling like dominoes—boom, boom, boom! Defensively we're doing a lot of things we want to," he added. "If we can frustrate their offense Saturday, we'll be OK."

Offensively the Wolves expect a tough time running against Rancho's physical linemen, but the Basic coach expects several strategies to pay off on the ground and in the air.

Players of the Week
Frazier announced the following athletes as Players of the Week Tuesday night.

On the varsity, receiver/kick returner Charles Edwards and defensive tackle Jason Serrano received the top honor. After a 27-12 JV victory last week, receiver Jeremy Maesta and middle-linebacker Jim Petrie received Player of the Week notice.

And although the B-team Wolves fell 22-20 to Valley, running back Jeremy Ledlow and tackle Brandon Bair got top honors.

Football prognostications

The following predictions for this week's varsity prep football contests are being made by former Valley head football coach Dave Gerber and H.B.C. sports Editor Terry Carter. Records are listed next to their names, and exact picks are listed in a third column.

Lady Wolves lose

By Terry Carter
News Sports Editor

The Basic girls started fast and ended in defeat again Tuesday.

Chaparral (8-4, 5-1 in Sunrise) looked more like a winless club than a second-place squad as the Lady Wolves (3-6, 2-4 in Sunrise) dominated the first game.

But serving problems developed into passing and setting difficulties in games two and three as the Lady Cowboys were revived in a 4-15, 15-12, 15-7 victory.

"We lost a match we never should have lost. Our serving really hurt us," Basic volleyball coach C.J. Curry said. "It shows we can play with anybody, and I've always know that. But can we win?"

In the initial game, Chaparral never got closer than 4-2 before the Lady Wolves ran off seven consecutive points as four girls shared the points on serve. The visiting Lady Cowboys never mounted a comeback until Basic ran into service problems in game two.

In the second game, Chaparral hitting came alive although both teams generated a large number of inaccurate serves. Several long rallies surfaced in the second and third games of the match, but Basic couldn't convert enough.

With the loss, the Lady Wolves remain on the bubble in fourth place among Sunrise teams. Only the top four teams advance to the upcoming Southern Zone volleyball tournament.

"Valley lost to Green Valley; so we're still in fourth place. But a lot could turn around in these next five games. We're the masters of our own fate," Curry said.

Kelley Haney led Basic with nine service points. Setter Pearl Savelio had five kills and several aces, and Jen Ebert registered three kills and three blocks.

In the final game, Basic improved its serves, but lost coordination and teamwork and eventually the match as Chaparral gained the momentum and dominated in the decisive contest.

In JV action, the Basic girls played well and earned a 3-game victory from Chaparral. Debbie Whetstone, Darcy Crine and Andrea Wise played well in the close match. After Basic took the first game, Chaparral came back for a 16-14 win, but the JV Lady Wolves retaliated for 16-14 win in the final game.

Basic travel to GV today for three matches at 3 and 4 p.m.

tough three seasons. "It was awful tough to get started. We were a small school. And when you play both ways, you really expose yourself. Heck, we could barely man two teams. There were only about 12 kids in my graduating class," the veteran Basic High fan explained.

As a two-way starting tackle, he weighed a healthy 185 pounds, approximately the same weight as Basic's current Player of the Week, Jason Serrano. Serrano, also a standout tackle, will be a key as the Wolves battle old foes Rancho High School at noon Saturday.

In fact Coroneos and running back George Lindesmith were named as Basic's first All-State football stars after the 1944 season, according to the veteran lineman.

But the game has changed dramatically between the day Coroneos slipped on his leather hat and last week when Serrano tugged on his cushioned, durable helmet.

"We had shoulder pads, no ribs pads, slip-in thigh pads and leather helmets. Those helmets were hard and crude, and those kids hit you pretty good back then too," he explained.

In watching football since his high school days 48 years ago, Coroneos has noticed many improvements in technique, equipment and coaching. But he still admires the game and Basic's involvement.

Despite an 0-5-1 record in 1943, the newly formed Wolves did accomplish what many prep fans considered impossible. They tied unbeaten Las Vegas High School 7-7 in a season when no state champion was declared because of World War II.

Las Vegas and Sparks were the state football powers of the day, and the Wildcats won the state title in 1944 and shared it with Sparks the next year. Coroneos recalls that tie as a highlight for all Basic supporters.

"We played way above our heads that day. They were the toast of the state, and we would have beaten them except for a touchdown that was called back," he said.

He also recalls traveling the Southwest to do battle. Besides playing in Panaca, Kingman, Ariz., and at White Pine, Boulder City's field particularly impressed him.

"When we played there, it was sure sandlot football on every play. But then I was here before Henderson was. It was just a pile of rocks when my dad built a hotel in Pittman in 1942," he added.

LEGAL NOTICES

BEFORE THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF NEVADA

In the Matter of the Application of Central Telephone Company Nevada for authorization to adjust certain intrastate rates and charges. Docket 92-7069

In the Matter of the Application of Central Telephone Company Nevada for Adjustment of Rates and Charges Under General Order 42. Docket 92-7070

NOTICE OF HEARING AND NOTICE OF CONSUMER SESSIONS

Central Telephone Company - Nevada ("Company") has filed an application with the Public Service Commission of Nevada ("Commission") for an adjustment in intrastate rates and charges, pursuant to Nevada Revised Statutes ("NRS") 704.100 and 704.110, and Nevada Administrative Code ("NAC") 703.2501 to 703.2711, inclusive. The Commission has designated this application as Docket No. 92-7069.

The Company estimates that its proposed rate adjustments would increase overall annual revenues by approximately $21,245,204. The Company states that the additional revenue is needed to pay all expenses incurred to provide reliable service to customers, including taxes and depreciation, and to provide a reasonable return to investors.

The Company has also filed an application for adjustment of rates and charges under General Order 42, pursuant to NRS 707.350 and NAC 704.7501 to 704.7591, inclusive, to recover through adjustments in rates $4,224,527, the amount the Company will lose as a result of Federal Communications Commission mandated shifts in revenue from the interstate to the intrastate jurisdiction, which will occur as of January 1, 1993. The Commission has designated this application as Docket No. 92-7070.

The two applications propose increasing annual revenues a total of $25,469,731: $21,245,204 for Docket No. 92-7069 and $4,224,527 for Docket No. 92-7070.

| Service/Service Area | Current Rate | Proposed Rate | Combined Effect with Docket 92-7070 |
|--|--------------|---------------|-------------------------------------|
| Las Vegas, Henderson, Boulder City, Blue Diamond | | | |
| Single Residential Line Service | $ 6.00 | $ 8.98 | $10.00 |
| Single Business Line Service | $15.00 | $19.30 | $19.44 |
| Jean, Laughlin, Searchlight | | | |
| Single Residential Line Service | $ 3.99 | $ 5.97 | $ 6.65 |
| Single Business Line Service | $ 8.18 | $10.55 | $10.55 |
| Nelson (Unit Calling) | | | |
| Single Residential - O Units | $ 2.80 | $ 4.22 | $ 4.70 |
| Single Business - O Units | $ 7.02 | $ 9.05 | $ 9.10 |
| Mt. Charleston (Unit Calling) | | | |
| Single Residential - O Units | $ 3.63 | $ 5.43 | $ 6.05 |
| Single Business - 100 Units | $ 8.18 | $10.50 | $10.60 |
| Service Connection Charges | | | |
| Residential Line Connection | $13.30 | $30.90 | $30.90 |
| Business Line Connection | $18.00 | $31.65 | $31.65 |
| Other Services | | | |
| Maintenance Visit Charge | $15.00 | $35.30 | $35.30 |

For a complete listing of the proposed rate changes, see the Company's application, which is on file with the Commission.

As part of its application in Docket No. 92-7069, the Company is also proposing to offer a new optional local calling plan called "Money Saver 30" for basic residential service customers. Money Saver 30 will be priced at $6.00 per month for the Las Vegas, Henderson, North Las Vegas, Boulder City and Blue Diamond exchanges, and $4.00 per month for the Laughlin, Searchlight and Jean exchanges. The plan will permit 30 outgoing calls per month. Each additional call beyond the 30 call limit will be billed at $1.00. Customers will continue to have the ability to receive an unlimited number of calls at no additional charge. In addition, the Company is proposing to eliminate the requirement that customers be 60 years of age or older to qualify for its Lifeline Assistance program.

The revenue increases and rate designs contained in the applications are proposals by the Company and may be contested by parties who are granted intervenor status. The Commission may adopt rates which will result in charges to individual customers either higher or lower than the charges currently proposed.

The applications were made pursuant to NRS and NAC Chapters 703 and 704. The Commission has jurisdiction over these matters and legal authority to conduct hearings pursuant to NRS 704.100 and 704.110.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing on both applications will be held as follows:

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1992
 9:30 a.m.
 Offices of the Public Service Commission
 Dawson Building
 4045 S. Spencer Street, Suite A-44
 Las Vegas, NV 89158

when and where all interested parties may appear and be heard. Under NRS 704.110 and 704.275, the Commission has authority to conduct the hearing and determine the issues raised in these applications. If necessary, the hearing will continue through Friday, December 18, 1992.

Pursuant to NRS 704.110, the Commission will receive evidence pertaining to the propriety of the rates and charges proposed by the Company. Pursuant to NRS 704.120, the Commission will also receive evidence pertaining to whether the rates and charges proposed by the Company are just, reasonable, not unjustly discriminatory, preferential, or otherwise in violation of any of the provisions of Chapter 704 of NRS. The specific statutes and regulations involved include NRS 704.110 through 704.130, inclusive, NAC 703.2501 through 703.2711, inclusive, NRS 707.350, and NAC 704.7501 through 704.7591, inclusive.

At the hearing, the Commission may also consider issues related to the provisions of Chapters 703 and 704 of NRS and NAC, may discuss public comments and may make decisions on the procedural and substantive issues raised at the hearing. The Commission may vote at the hearing to grant or deny, in whole or in part, the Company's applications.

The applications are on file and available for viewing by the public at the offices of the Commission, 727 Fairview Drive, Carson City, Nevada 89710 and the Dawson Building, 4045 South Spencer Street, Suite A-44, Las Vegas, Nevada 89158. This notice has been posted at the county courthouses in Carson City, Reno and Las Vegas.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that two Consumer Sessions have been scheduled as follows:

SPORTCO PREP ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Danny McHatton

Moneer Scott

Give a sprinter like the Basic quarterback a chance to run, and he will destroy you. Against Valley, McHatton rushed for 154 yards to keep Basic unbeaten in league play. The Wolves won 23-14.

This Green Valley defensive end made more than a dozen big-league stops against mighty Eldorado as the Gators sent the Sundevis home hungry in the football game of the year so far. The Gators rolled 23-7.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF NEVADA

In Re Investigation into the Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity CPC A-615, Sub 4 of LAS VEGAS TRANSIT SYSTEM, INC.) Docket No. 92-10033

NOTICE OF HEARING

An Investigation docket, identified as Docket No. 92-10033, has been opened by the Public Service Commission of Nevada ("Commission"), pursuant to an order issued by the Commission in consolidated Docket Nos. 92-4051 and 88-202. The purpose of opening the docket is to engage in additional fact finding and to review the grant of authority given by the Commission to LAS VEGAS TRANSIT SYSTEM, INC. ("LTVS") contained in Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity CPC A-615, Sub 4, issued to LTVS on March 22, 1983, and to extend and explore other issues which arose at the hearing of consolidated Dockets Nos. 92-4051 and 88-202, including but not limited to whether good cause exists for the Commission to (1) revise, restrict, suspend and/or revoke said Certificate, (2) promote the development of an interagency agreement between LTVS and the Regional Transportation Commission of Clark County ("RTC"), and/or (3) encourage additional negotiations between LTVS and the RTC.

The transportation service to be presently performed by LTVS, as stated in the Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity, is as follows:
 Common carrier by motor vehicle over regular route of Passengers

Within the area of Clark County, Nevada to include the cities of Las Vegas, North Las Vegas, Henderson and intermediate points.

The Commission has legal authority and jurisdiction to hold a hearing in this matter pursuant to Nevada Revised Statutes ("NRS") 703.377, 706.151, 706.156, 706.326 and 706.331.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the hearing in the above-entitled matter will be held as follows:
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1992
 9:30 a.m.
 Hearing Room A
 Office of the Public Service Commission
 Dawson Building
 4045 South Spencer, Suite A-44
 Las Vegas, Nevada 89158

at which time the Commission will receive evidence on the matter. If necessary, the hearing will continue through Thursday, November 5, and Friday, November 6, 1992. Interested and affected members of the public may comment at the hearing.

Before revising, restricting, suspending and/or revoking the Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity of LTVS, or before issuing an order in said docket, the Commission shall consider, among other issues: (1) whether the Certificate of Convenience and Public Necessity CPC A-615, Sub 4 of LTVS should be revised, restricted, suspended or revoked; (2) whether an interagency agreement should be developed; (3) whether additional negotiations between LTVS and RTC should be encouraged; (4) whether additional courses of action should be addressed; and (5) such any and other issues that may arise in the course of the proceeding.

At the hearing, the Commission may also consider any public comments and/or other issues related to the provisions of Chapters 703 and 706 of the Nevada Administrative Code. At the hearing, the Commission may vote to grant or deny, in whole or in part, the revision, restriction, suspension and/or revocation of said Certificate. In addition, the Commission may vote on other relevant procedural or substantive matters.

This docket is available for viewing by the public at both offices of the Commission, 727 Fairview Drive, Carson City, Nevada 89710 and the Dawson Building, 4045 South Spencer Street, Suite A-44, Las Vegas, Nevada 89158. This notice has been posted at the county courthouses in Carson City, Reno and Las Vegas.

I'd Rather Be Boating

By Don Holladay

October, November and then comes Saturday Dec. 12, 1992—the date for this year's "Parade of Lights." Will you be there? I certainly hope you are going to parade. Parading is where all the fun happens. I know it is beautiful to watch, but it is more fun to become frustrated, mad, up-tight and pleased in order to get that boat ready for the parade and judging.

I have done just about everything one can do in that parade since the first annual parade in 1977. It was then called "Annual Wats' Parade Of The Lites." I still have my bottle of champagne Watson Jelkes gave to each of the captains. For a couple of the parades I did nothing, while for two years I was the "Chairman."

The most fun and work is the decorating and parading. That part, of course, is what makes the event happen. Naturally there can be no parade without the skippers and their boats and crews. There have been as many as 45 boats, and as few as 15 boats in the parade. We have also seen as many as 20,000 people watching us from the Lakeshore Road and Boulder Beach.

You and your family should give some real thought to decorating and showing off your boat in this year's parade. A night of great fun along with a 100 or so other boaters, plus a trophy on the mantelpiece can make it a night long-remembered. This following is especially directed to the members of the Lake Mead Boat Owners Association. "Your organization sponsors the event... get into your own parade."

Now that you are asking where to sign up, call Diane Palmer or Al Krisch, 457-2797, or John Harman, 293-1530. They will give you all the details.

Speaking of the members of the LMBOA. All of you should plan a nice drive or boat trip to Callville this Sunday morning. Join the LMBOA meeting in the beautiful Starlight Room.

Alan O'Neil, Lake Mead Recreation Area superintendent, will be the guest speaker. The meeting will start at 10 a.m. There will be no board meeting. If you boat to the Callville meeting from Lake Mead Marina or Las Vegas Boat Harbor, be advised there will be an "off shore boat" racing event between Boulder Beach and Beacon Island. Stay to the north shore from Saddle Island into Callville and you will be OK.

If you have been wondering what some of your boating friends have been up to over the past few months, aside from boating, several have joined the LMBOA. Real nice people such as Vicki Adams, Julius Ashlock, Steve Brown, Harry Davenport, Richard DeCandilo, Helen Erickson, James Hardman, Buddy Hopper, George Mikel, Pam Radke, Ken Steinberg and Thomas C. Wynar.

I'm certainly seeing a lot of boats not leaving the slips. You are wasting a lot of great weather. It seems even nicer this year. In the meantime, the launch ramps are busy and loaded with parked trailers and trucks. People who know when to enjoy the lake. You have spent all that money for the boat, plus a few more dollars each month for slip rental. Get out there and get underway.

Good deer hunting predicted

By Geoff Schneider

Despite six years of drought, Nevada deer hunters should again experience the highest success rate among western states during the 1992 hunting season, according to the Nevada Department of Wildlife.

"Typically, Nevada hunters enjoy a 50 to 60% success rate," said Mike Hess, staff biologist for the Nevada Department of Wildlife. "This is largely due to the tag quota system that was established in the mid 1970s."

Nevada's deer quota system is designed to issue tags based on the number of deer seen by biologists during winter and spring aerial surveys of deer herds. Each year, the number of tags fluctuate as deer populations rise and fall.

Over the past few years the number of deer tags issued by the Department of wildlife has been declining because of the drought. This year 17,957 buck tags and 4,726 doe tags were issued for the general resident hunt, nearly half the number issued in 1988 when the effects of the drought began to impact deer numbers.

Most of the rifle hunts began Saturday, Oct. 3, and end Sunday, Nov. 1. Some hunts open in November and December, with the latest not closing until early January.

The resident muzzleloader deer hunt extended Sept. 5 - 20, with 582 resident and 31 nonresident hunters receiving tags this year for this special hunt.

Archery hunters took to the field Aug. 8 - Sept. 4. A total of 2,475 resident and 275 nonresident tags were issued this year.

During spring surveys, biologists found that there was an average ratio of 24 bucks per 100 does which was slightly higher than last year but significantly below the 40-year average. They also documented that yearling bucks were more numerous than in previous years.

Larry Gilbertson, NDOW supervising wildlife biologist in Elko, said hunters can anticipate good hunting in the northeast part of the state. This is particularly true in White Pine County where habitat conditions have improved during the past year.

"The recent fire in the Jarbidge Mountain Range in Management Area 7 should not severely impact hunting despite the 38,000 acres that burned during the summer," Gilbertson said. "The area has a lot of deer country so there will be ample opportunity for deer hunting."

Gilbertson said the biggest impact of the fire is the destruction it did to deer winter range. The brush that was burned during the fire was an important source of winter forage for deer.

Hunting in the southern portion of the state should show slight improvement over last year because of improving habitat brought about by spring rains, he said.

"Despite the drought and some other habitat problems, hunters should again find that Nevada offers some of the finest deer hunting in the western U.S. Again this year, we expect success rates will be high at the conclusion of the many seasons," Hess said.

Heart Walk Saturday in BC

The Boulder City Chapter of the American Heart Association will hold its first Heart Walk on Saturday.

This event will be implemented across the country by thousands of local AHA volunteers. The Heart Walk focuses attention on exercise as an important part of a heart-healthy lifestyle, while generating funds for research and community education programs about cardiovascular diseases and stroke, a spokesman said.

Co-chairs for the Boulder City area are Ken Richardson and Pam Kramer. Entry forms can be obtained by calling 891-0201 or 294-0007. Each entrant will receive a map of the area designating the Heart Walk paths and full instructions to obtain pledges.

The goal is to have at least 100 walkers from the Boulder City area, who will obtain donation pledges for their participation in the walk. Businesses are urged to form teams.

Humana neonatal unit celebrates 18th birthday

The Southwest Regional Neonatal Unit at Humana Hospital-Sunrise will celebrate its 18th anniversary on Saturday, Oct. 24, with a special party for all babies who received care in the unit.

The party will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. under a circus tent in the hospital's northeast parking lot.

Since opening in 1974, more than 8,100 babies have been admitted to the Neonatal Unit, and all have been invited to attend the anniversary festivities.

The party's theme will revolve around Halloween, complete with trick-or-treat bags and holiday-oriented games. All attendees are encouraged to wear costumes.

Prizes will be awarded to the youngest and oldest boy and girl admitted to the unit, and the boy and girl who traveled the farthest to come to the party.

Humana's Southwest Regional Neonatal Unit specializes in neonatology, the care and treatment of sick and premature infants requiring special medical and nursing care during the newborn period. The unit is one of the most comprehensive medical facilities of its kind in the southwestern United States, and has grown from six beds to 37 beds, a spokesman said.

Boulder City Association Meeting tonight: The Fall Meeting of the Boulder City Women's Bowling Association will be held at the Boulder City Senior Center at 7 p.m. tonight (Oct. 15).

All members of the BCWBA are urged to attend and the league with the most members present will be awarded $1 per member in attendance to be added to the league's prize money. A great incentive, ladies. Be there.

Tonopah lanes close, senior tourney in Hawthorne: Due to the closing of the Silver Lanes in Tonopah, the State Senior Championship Tournament has been scheduled at the Silver State Bowl in Hawthorne. Bowlers will bowl doubles and/or singles events on any squad with squads scheduled Nov. 7, 8, 14 and 15. Entry fee is $10 per bowler for each event with entries closing Oct. 23.

WIBC committee recommends dues increase: The Women's International Bowling Congress Dues Study Committee—comprised of eight women's bowling association leaders, and WIBC Finance and Budget Committee members—will submit dues increase legislation to be considered at the 1993 WIBC Annual Meeting, April 26-28, in Baton Rouge, La.

Since the 1978-79 bowling season, WIBC has lost 1.7 million members equaling $4.7 million in annual revenue, resulting in a deficit budget of approximately $300,000 for the 1991-92 bowling season and has projected a deficit budget of $1.2 million for the 1992-93 bowling season.

Ann Adams, president of the Las Vegas WBA and committee spokeswoman, reported, "It was the committee's determination that a dues increase of anything less than $3.25 would result in only a short-term fix. It would be putting a bandage on a patient who requires major surgery."

"A major dues increase will give WIBC the operational money needed for it to balance its budget, establish a reserve fund, compensate for a drop in membership, maintain current services and fund future programs," said Adams, who is the National Women Bowling Writers president.

"This is not a dues increase," said Adams. "This is an investment. An investment in the future of WIBC. An investment in the future of our sport. Given the time, opportunity and funding, it is an investment that will pay off in the continuation of WIBC's proud tradition of providing members the best quality service available in the sport of bowling."

In related action, the committee unanimously decided to submit a second proposal requesting a 75 cent annual membership dues increase for local women's bowling associations. This increase would raise the maximum dues local WBAs may charge to $4.50 bringing the total WIBC membership dues to $13. This season's total membership dues through the Boulder City Women's Bowling Association was $7. There was no increase recommended for State WBA dues since the current limit is $2.50, but Nevada WBA dues are just $1.25.

The committee's third proposal is an amendment to ease the dollar amount WIBC members are currently obligated to pay the first session of league bowling.

Ladies Day at Sam's Town: The Big Macs are in the lead with 34 wins. Gerry Tucker rolled a 225-576 for high game and series; Linda Stroud 215-562, Vel Norton 545, Anna Waites 210-514 and Carol Shale 207-507. Susie Wolfel converted the 7-9 split and Linda Sterling the 3-7.

Ben Ward League High: Maudes Ceramic tops the wins at 17. Craig Spittell was high man with a 243-202-618, Jim Correll 236-606, Mel Barthemew 224-599, Lyle Thomas 209-594, Marv Radley 220-214-585, Jeff Rinker 210-581, Chester Ahola 204-581, Bob Howard 224-568, Charles Babbish 204-211-566, Les Booth 207-564, Dennis Jasinki 229-557, Leroy Tryon 213-557, Leonard Peterson 555, Morris Seguin 210-554, Bob Shirley 205-553, Walt Judge 548.

379th Bomb Group schedules reunion

Former members of the 379th Bomb Group (Kimbolton, England) of World War II are being sought for a reunion.

This veteran combat organization flew B-17 heavy bombers in the 8th Air Force over the European Theater of Operations from mid 1943 until the end of European opposition in mid-1945.

A 1992 reunion is scheduled to be held in Reno/Sparks Oct. 26-

28. Former airmen members of the 379th Group may get full reunion and/or membership details and reservation forms by contacting the group association secretary, Stan Kircher, 311 Virginia Ave., Phoenixville, Pa., 19460. Persons unable to attend the reunion should contact Kircher to establish contacts with former crew members and to receive group publications.

NFL surprises point to interesting season

The leaves are starting to turn all sorts of burnish colors so that must mean the NFL is well into its schedule. Already there are surprises which point to an interesting season from here on out.

Miami is the only undefeated team at the one-third point; Buffalo has absorbed solid thumpings in its past two games; the Raiders are silencing their critics, at least for the moment; Minnesota is reviving memories of the Purple Gang and San Francisco is proving there is life after Joe Montana.

Philadelphia was brought back to earth by Kansas City while Dallas steamrolled Seattle; Washington, after getting snookered by Phoenix last week, proved that pre-season holdouts do disrupt a team and the New York Giants are bickering among themselves, the media and fans.

Excitement was at an all-time low in Indianapolis where the Colts leveled the New York Jets, 6-3. In overtime. God, give me a break.

The Atlanta-Miami game was a

Brando's Turn

big one and didn't need hype yet it got it with Deion Sanders.

Going from playing baseball to football to baseball in 20 hours is quite a feat. The Falcons, with a banged-up secondary, needed Sanders. He not only filled that need but also saw action as a receiver and kick returner.

Naturally, many thought of Deion's odyssey as a publicity stunt, an attempt to make a ton of money. I disagree. A guy with the talent of Sanders should take advantage of every bit of it and reap the rewards.

Another guy gaining in respect is Todd Marinovich of the Raiders. He seems to be settling into the Raiders offensive scheme and with each game his confidence level will continue to rise.

All in all, the NFL season to date, has had its interesting moments and as playoff positioning starts interest will heat up.

ON THE COLLEGE SCENE—I'm stunned, shocked, shattered. Can't believe it. College selections have made me a nervous wreck. One game (Virginia, -6) had me gloating early Saturday afternoon. I'm ready to head to the payout window at halftime with a 28-0 lead. Clemson would have none of it though as they came back to win 29-28. And Tennessee, the sixth-ranked team in the country, hosting a stumbling Arkansas, gets beat 25-24. Cincinnati also finished up the track but Washington State saved a zeroless day. The 1-3 mark moved the season record to 9-16-1. Have to get this train on track so this week will go with San Diego State (-22) over Texas-El Paso; Georgia (-21) over Vanderbilt; Washington (-17) over Oregon and Texas A&M (-18) over Rice.

IN THE PROS—Found the pay window with the pros by going 3-1 in Sunday games. Had the right side in the snoozer game (Colts) as well as Browns. Falcons covered with the number. Only Saints disappointed. Added the Eagles to the win column from previous week so year's mark goes to 13-11. This week doesn't appear to be much chopped liver on the menu so will go with Los Angeles Raiders (-7) over Seattle; Atlanta (+10) at San Francisco; New York Giants (-1 1/2) at Los Angeles Rams and Chicago (-5 1/2) over Tampa Bay.

And, that's as far as I go.

Yoder honored at Lake Mead

Park Ranger Nancy Yoder was selected by her fellow employees as Lake Mead National Recreation Area "Employee of the Month." Yoder is a temporary employee of the recreation area currently working in the Resource Management Division.

Yoder was recognized for her work in completing a long-delayed plan for fire management required to obtain clearance for resource management research and to obtain funding for the park's fire management program.

"Nancy not only completed the fire management plan, but also worked on resource projects such as burro management, razorback sucker propagation and revegetation," said Assistant Superintendent Gary Bunney in making the award.

"We appreciate Nancy's dedication as well as her cheerful manner in carrying out her tasks," Bunney said.

A Pennsylvania native, Yoder attended Slippery Rock University majoring in parks and recreation management. She participated in a cooperative education program with the Corps of Engineers as part of her coursework and worked at several lake projects in Pennsylvania.

In 1988, Yoder accepted a seasonal Park Ranger position in the Division of Interpretation at Lake Mead NRA. She has returned to work in that position each year, helping in the development of environmental education programs for children and providing public information and programs at the Alan Bible Visitor Center.

UNLV homecoming this week

UNLV homecoming activities will culminate with the annual football game against the University of Nevada, Reno, on Saturday Game time at the Sam Boyd Silver Bowl is 7 p.m.

"Rockin' Rebels Eve" is the theme of this year's homecoming celebration.

A pep rally is scheduled for 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday on the campus' north-south academic mall. The rally will include entertainment by the UNLV Star of Nevada Marching Band and the UNLV cheerleaders. Football coach Jim Strong will speak during the rally.

Also during the rally, homecoming floats will be on display outside the student union.

The homecoming queen and king will be announced during halftime at the football game.

History of BC published

McBride to sign books

Dennis McBride, author of "In the Beginning: A History of Boulder City, Nevada," will sign copies of his newly released, revised and enlarged edition, on Thursday, Oct. 22 at the Boulder City Library, 813 Arizona St.

Two opportunities to meet the author will be offered. The afternoon reception will be from 1 to 2:30 p.m. The second gathering will begin at 7 p.m. with a presentation by the author, which will be followed by refreshments and book signings until 8:30 p.m.

The first edition of "In the Beginning" was published in 1981. It is out of print and sold out. The Boulder City/Hoover Dam Museum agreed to publish the new version of McBride's Boulder City publication. The book has been privately funded and will sell in paperback form for $10 at the museum or at the library on Oct. 22.

Populist Party candidates showcased

The Populist Party of Nevada will host a "meet the candidates" night, 7 p.m. on Oct. 21 at the Huntridge Theater, 1208 E. Charleston, at Maryland Parkway.

The meeting will feature the party's presidential candidate James "Bo" Gritz and his vice presidential running mate Cy Minett.

Included in this meeting will be Harry Tootle, U.S. Senate; Dan Golden, U.S. Congress; Geri McLain, state Senate; Everett Foster, County Commissioner; Dave Carlton, Assembly District #3 and Dan Richmond, Assembly District #4.

CCVA hosts school trustee candidates

The Clark County Vocational Association (CCVA) will hold a political forum (with candidates for Clark County School Board of trustees and Nevada State School Board at 2:20 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 21, at the Southern Nevada Vocational-Technical Center, 5710 Mountain Vista St., in the Adler Dining Room.

All interested persons are invited. Call Roger Routsong, 799-8300, for more information.

Merchant Marines to meet Friday

The High-rollers Chapter of the American Merchant Marine Veterans will hold its monthly meeting at 11:30 a.m., Friday, Oct. 16 at the Police Protective Association Building, 1250 Burnham Ave. (South of Charleston).

All Merchant Marine Veterans are invited to attend, along with members of the Navy Armed Guard and Army Transport Services, who also served on cargo ships. For further information, call Secretary Bill Erin, 293-7438.

years of additional research and more photographs of Boulder City to his revised edition. He has compiled photos of the city taken in the '80s, but he is also excited to share "new old" images he has discovered.

"I'm grateful for the change to add chapters, change photographs, give more precise dates and add new stories," McBride said. He added that most of the photos from the first edition have been replaced. The reason for this he explained is, "There are so many great photographs, I want people to see as many as possible."

"In the Beginning" is not McBride's only publication on the subject of Boulder City/Hoover Dam history. "Building Hoover Dam: A history of the Great Depression" is scheduled for publication by G.K. Hall/Twayne in 1993. This is a joint project he has been working on for six years with Andrew Dunar of the University of Alabama, Huntsville. "Boulder City: Passages in Time" is another joint project McBride published in 1981 with Angela Brooker.

McBride has been publishing magazine and newspaper articles for more than 10 years. Among the titles: "Dragged into Democracy: The Incorporation of Boulder City;" "Among the Lotus Eaters: Class and Caste in Boulder City;" "Elegance Once Removed: The Intimate History of the Boulder Dam Hotel;" and soon to be published, "St. Thomas: Nevada's Mormon Atlantis." His articles have appeared in numerous publications, including the Boulder City News, Nevada Magazine, the Nevada Historical Society Quarterly, the Las Vegas Review-Journal Nevada and the Las Vegas Sunday Magazine.

The author's interest in Boulder City began when he was very young. Born in the original Boulder City Hospital, he grew up listening to stories of those who came to the area to work on the dam. He found that others, new to Southern Nevada, were as interested as he had been to hear the fascinating tales of Boulder City's history, so he began pub-

Source Tax provision deleted

Legislation to prohibit states from taxing the pension income of ex-residents was deleted from a larger tax bill in a joint House-Senate conference last week.

A spokeswoman for Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., who sponsored the "source tax" bill, said Reid remains "strongly committed to this important legislation and if re-elected, will immediately begin work again for final passage."

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, which conferred on the bill, said "there was no consensus among our conferees as to the appropriate course of action" and the amendment was deleted.

Reid has worked for years to end source taxing, which besets retirees with unexpected bills for back taxes, interest and penalties from the state where they spent their working years, the spokeswoman said.

Property tax exemption application help Saturday

Mark Schofield, assistant county assessor, and staff will be at the Meadows Mall, (Penny's court) from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday to accept applications for the Veterans, widows, and blind property tax exemption program.

The exemption program is administered by the county Assessor's Office for Clark County residents. Those who qualify may apply exemption to their property taxes, mobile home taxes or vehicle registration fee.

Veterans should bring a copy of their discharge papers. Veterans must have served during specific periods to qualify. Those dates are as follows: April 6, 1917-Nov.

11, 1918; Dec. 7, 1941-Dec. 31, 1946; June 25, 1950-Jan. 31, 1955; or Jan. 1, 1961-May 7, 1975.

Operation Desert Storm participants who were assigned to active duty or called up to active duty in connection with carrying out public law #102-1 are also eligible to receive an exemption.

Widows should bring a copy of their husband's death certificate.

Blind residents should call 455-3882 for details.

Proof of six months residency will be required for new applicants, a spokesman said. Clark County residents will be able to sign up or renew their exemptions at this time.

Dennis McBride

lishing what he knew and recording oral histories. The transcripts from the Boulder City Library Oral History Project, completed by McBride in 1987, will be on display the evening of his book signing reception. Many of the people he interviewed are no longer living.

McBride received both his B.A. and M.A. in English from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. In addition to teaching, McBride has given numerous public lectures on local history and he publishes fiction under the name D.K. McBride. McBride collects true crime reports and has catalogued records of Boulder City's murders, suicides and violent deaths since 1930.

Family History

1920 census available on microfilm

By Ralph T. Briggs Genealogist & Historian
The Bureau of the Census microfilmed bound 1920 census schedules in 1945 and 1946 and the eighty-third Congress authorized disposal of the original 1920 census schedules. Between 1938 and 1940, the WPA (Works Progress Administration) prepared approximately 51 million Soundex index cards, based on surnames, for all states and territories enumerated in the 1920 census. The 1920 Soundex index resembles the 1910 Soundex/Miracode in format. In 1920, though, the Bureau of the Census used two types of Soundex cards: the "family card" and the "individual card." The individual card gives the names of people other than those in the immediate household (husband, wife, son, daughter) who are enumerated with a family.

The National Archives, not in existence when the 1920 census was taken, has inherited and is the guardian of a series of records that it had no part in creating or originally microfilming. There are some disappointments with the 1920 census. Inherent flaws—the illegible writing of an enumerator, the overlooked household—cannot now be corrected. Yet these schedules are also sure to delight the researcher, providing many with the key link to "lost generations" or the first glimpse of immigrant ancestors arrival on American soil.

Researchers wishing to view the 1920 census or other records held by a regional archives should telephone the facility for accessibility procedures and determine if an appointment is necessary. Nuclear waste opponents praise Bryan, Reid

Citizens Against Nuclear Waste In Nevada (CANWIN), a statewide, non-profit advocacy organization, recently commended U.S. Sens. Richard Bryan and Harry Reid, both D-Nev., for a strong fight against the nuclear industry and Sen. Bennet Johnston's assault on the people of Nevada.

Reid's effort to block the weakening of safety standards for Yucca Mountain was not realized, our senators achieved two major victories this session. They prevented the preemption of Nevada's authority to issue environmental permits during site characterization and also prevented legislation which would have allowed the sting of a Monitored Retrievable Storage facility in a state considered for a permanent dump," said Tom Polikalas, a CANWIN spokesman. "The reality of congressional action this year is that the nuclear industry has lost two out of three lobbying efforts."

position to a nuclear waste dump. "Bryan is leading the fight that 75-80% of his constituents support," Polikalas said. "Apparently Bennet Johnston has difficulty understanding representative democracy. It's also a shame that recent earthquakes at Yucca Mountain didn't shake any sense into Sen. Johnston and his fellow central planners in Washington, D.C."

CANWIN also criticized Johnston's personal attack on Bryan for Bryan's vehement op-

PriMerit Bank wins third mortgage lending honor

PriMerit Bank has received its third consecutive Risk-Management Award for quality mortgage lending from Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corporation (MGIC), one of the nation's leading private mortgage insurance companies.
"This award, which is given only to our highest quality lenders, recognizes PriMerit's continuing achievements in risk management," said Peter van Bever, MGIC senior vice president. "PriMerit's excellent record makes it one of the nation's few institutions to receive this award.
In 1991, PriMerit was named a delegated MGIC underwriter and may underwrite mortgage insurance for real estate loans without having to send the loan package to MGIC for approval. Only 15% of MGIC's business is transacted on a delegate basis and PriMerit is one of only two institutions in Nevada to be awarded this status.
The delegated underwriter designation allows PriMerit Bank more flexibility and leeway in approving its customers' loans and enables PriMerit to offer its customers faster service because the loan is approved right in the local office. As a part of this relationship, MGIC now works more closely with PriMerit Bank and meets more frequently with its team of residential lenders to assure the quality and integrity of this program.

"We are proud that MGIC has recognized PriMerit for our ongoing quality lending practices," said Dan Cheever, president and chief executive officer. "This award shows that we are succeeding in our plan to be a leader in mortgage lending. That is a vital part of our strategic plan, along with taking a leadership role in business banking, major real estate lending, and retail banking with an emphasis on consumer lending."
MGIC's risk-management award was given to only one other institution in Nevada and 27 others in the 13 western United States. MGIC chooses its award recipients from among the top 10% of its lenders meeting certain loan quality performance criteria.
In choosing award winners, MGIC looks at the overall quality of a mortgage lender's loan origination process, including prudent risk management, positive working relationships, staff professionalism, as well as the performance of loans insured by MGIC.

WORD TRANSLATIONS

By Bill Hanlon

Often times the biggest difficulty students face in math is how to translate English to mathematics. Vocabulary is a very important component of algebra. Without knowing what words mean, we'll certainly have difficulty answering questions.

I have listed below examples of statements translated into algebra. It's important that you are familiar with these expressions and their translations so you won't later confuse algebraic difficulties with vocabulary deficiencies.

| STATEMENT | ALGEBRA |
|--------------------------------------|-----------|
| twice as much as a number | 2x |
| two less than a number | x - 2 |
| five more than an unknown | x + 5 |
| three more than twice a number | 2x + 3 |
| a number decreased by six | x - 6 |
| ten decreased by a number | 10 - x |
| Tom's age four years from now | x + 4 |
| Tom's age ten years ago | x - 10 |
| number of cents in x quarters | 25x |
| number of cents in 2x dimes | 10(2x) |
| number of cents in x + 3 nickels | 5(x + 3) |
| separate 15 into 2 parts | x, 15 - x |
| distance traveled in x hrs at 50 mph | 50x |
| two consecutive integers | x, x + 1 |
| two consecutive even integers | x, x + 2 |
| sum of a number and 30 | x + 30 |
| product of a number and 5 | 5x |
| quotient of a number and 7 | x/7 |
| four times as much | 4x |
| two less than three times a number | 3x - 2 |

Be familiarizing yourself with these expressions, you'll look forward to solving word problems. We have seen strategies for solving linear equations in one variable. In word problems, all we do that is different is make our own equations. Piece of cake, don't you think?

How do you start work on a word problem? The answer comes in steps.

1. Read the problem through and determine the type of word problem it is and what it is about. Often times it takes more than one reading.
2. Identify what you are looking for by looking for the question at the end of the problem. Sometimes there is more than one thing to be found.
3. Start every problem with "let x=something." Generally you let x equal what you are trying to find.

4. If you have to find more than one quantity or unknown, try to determine the SMALLEST. That unknown is often the best one to call x.
5. Go back and reread the problem. This time we are looking for relationships, the other unknowns should be written in terms of x.
6. Reread the problem to make an equation, use some fact or relationship involving your variable.
7. Solve the equation and check your answer to the original problem.

During your first year of algebra, you will learn how to set up different types of word problems; uniform motion, age, coin, mixture, geometry, number, and investment. Like anything else, the more you do, the more confident you will become. While often times you cannot go out and use them in your daily life, they do teach you basic procedures which you will be able to use elsewhere.

Study the different formats for setting up word problems. You'll find they have many similarities.

Probably the most important thing to remember is most of us have to read a problem four or five times to get all the information out of it and make an equation that describes the relationship.

If there is any one trick to make your work easier, it's to call the smallest quantity "x," and write the other unknowns in terms of x.

- Other facts to remember
1. TIMES means to multiply
 2. MORE THAN means to add
 3. DECREASED means to subtract
 4. INCREASED means to add
 5. PERCENT OF means to multiply
 6. IS, WAS, WILL BE becomes the equals sign (=).

The easiest and best way to learn vocabulary is read your textbook. See how the words are being used. How you do on standardized tests will often times be determined by your mathematics vocabulary. The ACT/SAT's, the college entrance tests, will use correct terminology so you best get used to it.

St. Christopher's celebrates 60th anniversary

St. Christopher's Episcopal Church invites all residents of Boulder City to join in the celebration on Sunday of the 60th anniversary of the founding of the church.

As plans were being made for the city that would house the Dam workers, sites were designated for four churches, of which St. Christopher's was one. Established in the heart of Boulder City, this church has extended itself to serve the community that has grown up around it. Ground-breaking took place April 25, 1932 and the first service was held at the new church building on Aug. 7, 1932.

The church invites everyone to participate in the ice cream and cake social at the Gazebo in Bicentennial Park at 1 p.m. A donation of $1.50 is requested from those partaking of the ice cream and cake. Tickets will be available at the Gazebo.

Entertainment will start at 1:15 p.m. with music by the Kitchen Kut Ups Band from the Senior Center. After this, there will be a program that will highlight the development and changes that have taken place in the last 60 years. A member of the church will reminisce briefly about each decade, sharing their memories of events that took place. Those who will speak are;

Decade of the 30's: Martha King; Decade of the 40's: Doris Evans; Decade of the 50's: Lee Tilman; Decade of the 60's: Joan Arasmith; Decade of the 70's: Sandy Christiansen; Decade of the 80's: Patricia Duncombe; and Decade of the 90's: Jon Christ.

Each decade will be introduced by the singing of a song or two from that decade. The sing-along will be led by Jim Euler on the accordion and Kay Rohde on the guitar. The mistress of ceremonies will be Patricia Jacobson.

There will be a display of scrapbooks and pictures from throughout the last 60 years. There will also be a raffle to raise money to help St. Mary's Church at Nixon, Nev. Further information can be obtained by calling 293-4275.

Author Goodman to speak

Author Richard Goodman will present a free, public reading and discussion of his book, "French Dirt: The Story of a Garden in the South of France," at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 22, in the White Life Sciences Building Auditorium.

At 2 p.m. Friday, Oct. 23, Goodman will take part in an informal roundtable discussion in Wright Hall's Gold Room.

Interested members of the public are invited to both events.

New York in 1988 to spend a year in France. He spent that year in the small village of St. Sebastien Caisson (population 211), about 450 miles south of Paris.

The critically acclaimed "French Dirt" is about the garden he planted near the 200-year-old house he rented in St. Sebastien Caisson, and about the people of the little town that is "30 years behind" the rest of France.

Goodman's visit to UNLV is part of the Southwest Gas Distinguished Artist Series, funded by a grant from the Southwest Gas Foundation and co-sponsored by UNLV's College of Liberal Arts and College of Fine and Performing Arts.

One of the biggest mistakes made when towing is not matching your trailer weight with the truck manufacturer's specifications. Overloading is the major cause of premature engine and driveline failures. Do not trust listed trailer weight specs provided with your boat, travel or car trailer. Have them weighed empty on a public scale, then add the weight of water, propane, gasoline and whatever other supplies you carry and use this as a basis for how much truck you need. This will help guarantee fewer problems on your trips. Water - 8.4 lbs./gal., propane - 4.25 lbs./gal., gas - 6 lbs./gal.

Vienna Choir Boys to perform at UNLV

Vienna Choir Boys will present a program of costumed operettas, sacred songs, secular and folk music at 8 p.m. Sunday in Artemus W. Ham Concert Hall as part of the Charles Vanda Master Series.

Conducted by George Stangelberger, the Vienna Choir Boys will present Haydn's "Alleluja," Hassler's "Cantate Domino," Mendelssohn's "Laudate Pueri," Verdi's "Vergine Madre," Schubert's "Widerspruch" and a varied program of classic and folk songs. In addition to choral music, the choir will perform Engelbert Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel," a comic opera in one act.

The Vienna Choir Boys were founded by Imperial decree in 1498 by the humanist Emperor Maximilian I to fulfill his wish to have chorists in the Imperial Chapel. From its inception, the choir attracted the finest musicians in the West. Christoph Willibald Gluck, founder of the modern operatic form, spent his most creative years as composer in Vienna and wrote for the Imperial Chapel. Mozart did the same on his promotion as composer to the Court in 1787. The greatest prodigy and most famous choir boy was Franz Schubert, who sang with the choir from 1808 to 1813.

Since their first United States tour in 1932, the Vienna Choir Boys have visited America more than 46 times, and have completed tours of Asia, Australia, South America and South Africa.

KNPR, Public Radio is the official radio sponsor for the Charles Vanda Master Series.

Tickets are available at the Performing Arts Center box office. Discounts are available for students, faculty and staff, military, children, handicapped and senior citizens. The box office is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. For more information, call 739-3801.

Fine Arts Trio to present Concert

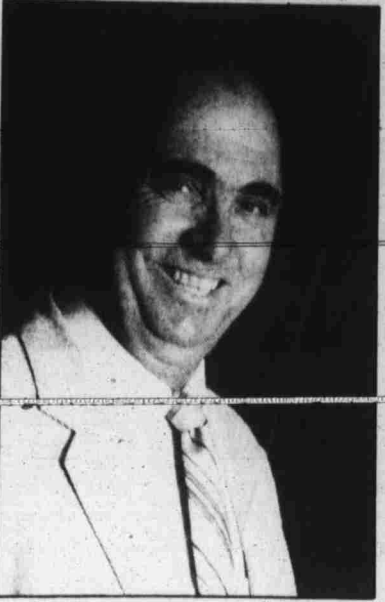

The Nevada Fine Arts Trio, in residence at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, will present its first concert of the season at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 21 in the Judy Bayley Theatre. The concert is free and open to the public.

The program will include The Beethoven trio, Opus 70 No. 1, "Ghost Trio," Mendelssohn's trio in D minor, Opus 49, and selected movements for trio by contemporary composer Henry Cowell.

Mendelssohn's famous trio in D minor was featured in Pablo Casals' landmark concert at the White House.

The trio was formed two years ago. Trio members include Carol Stivers, piano, Rebecca Ramsey, violin, and Samuel Scott, cello. All three are members of the UNLV music department.

REALTOR HONORED—

Robert Widhalm was honored as the top salesman of Berard's Realty & Associates for the third quarter of 1992. Widhalm's honesty and integrity has made this achievement possible early in his real estate career, a spokesman said. He is also working on becoming a graduate from the Real Estate Institute of Nevada.

'Walk to Remember' Saturday

"Walk to Remember," scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday at Jaycee Park, St. Louis and Eastern Ave. in Las Vegas, is dedicated to the approximately 770,000 babies who die each year through miscarriage, ectopic pregnancy, stillbirth or newborn death.

The walk also symbolically joins all the people nationwide who are working to raise awareness on perinatal grief and ensure that sensitive care is given parents who experience the death of a baby, a spokesman said.

The first 'Walk to Remember' was held Sept. 26, 1986, at the fifth national Perinatal Bereavement Conference in Chicago.

October is National Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month.

For more information about the walk or support group, call Nanette Spector, 731-8222.

Pros Goumond: Las Vegas gaming pioneer

By Phillip I. Earl

The recent spate of interest in Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel, builder of the Flamingo on the Las Vegas Strip, reminds us of other gaming pioneers, few of whom have found a large place in history. Among them is Prosper Jacob Goumond, who was to Fremont Street and downtown Las Vegas what Siegel was to The Strip.

"Pros," or simply "P.J." to his many friends, Goumond was born in Hambley, Ind., on Dec. 10, 1875. As a youth, he played minor league baseball and worked as a maintenance man on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. His avocation in life was gambling, which he first took up when he moved west to Colorado's San Juan country in 1890. He gambled and ran small casino operations in Pueblo, Silverton and Durango before moving to Chicago in 1897 where he went big-time. He also plied his trade in Detroit and Cleveland for a time, but the West beckoned and he showed up in Ely, Nev., in 1902.

The focus of a cooper boom at that time, Ely spawned a number of gambling enterprises. Goumond found the pickin's to be rather slim, and he took whatever work he could find for the next several years, including a stretch as a construction foreman on the Nevada Northern Railway. He married Gertrude Belding in 1909. The couple later pursued their dreams in Seattle, Salt Lake City, Albuquerque and in Mexico before returning to Ely in 1922.

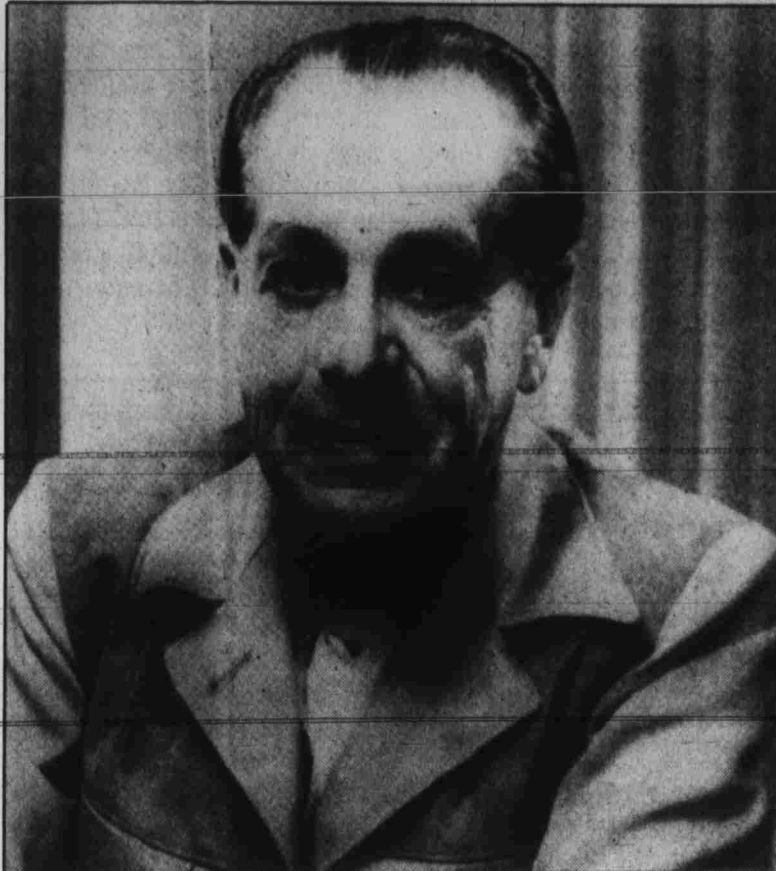

Some forms of gambling were once again legal by the early 1920s, but the copper industry was no longer the booming enterprise it once was. Goumond continued to follow gambling, however, and became associated with Arthur B. Witcher in the operation of several clubs. Witcher was also interested in banking and real estate and Goumond did well for himself. When the construction of Boulder Dam was authorized in 1928, Goumond and Witcher moved to Las Vegas, opening the Boulder Club on Fremont Street on July 27, 1929. As their other partners from Ely died or moved on to other pursuits, they acquired their interests and Goumond was the majority owner when Witcher died in 1944. Both had been active in promotional campaigns after the completion of the dam in 1935, particularly the effort to establish the Lake Mead National Recreational Area, a major tourist draw to this day.

In 1941, Goumond purchased the old Tule Ranch north of town for an initial investment of $1,800.

Abandoned since the end of national Prohibition in 1933, the ranch was run down, only one old adobe building remaining intact. Goumond had the property cleaned up and he, and his ranch manager, Cliff DeVaney, turned it into a working ranch complete with fields of alfalfa, an orchard and a large vegetable garden. He also raised horses, cattle and poultry on the ranch. When he purchased an additional 840 acres, a new water system went in and a large lake was created. He also had two handsome ranch houses built, one for himself and his guests and another for DeVaney, and had an electrical power plant installed.

With the coming of World War II, Goumond extended guest privileges to servicemen from the Las Vegas Gunnery Base. The postwar expansion of casino gaming and the subsequent development of the Las Vegas Strip brought entertainers out, and Goumond converted his property into a divorce ranch. Neat white bungalows were built and tennis courts and trap shooting facilities were added; as were corals for horsebacking. Movie stars, entertainers and the soon-to-be-divorced replaced alfalfa, fruit, vegetables, cattle and poultry as a cash crop and Goumond's cowboys became dude wranglers.

Goumond was an avid fisherman and a fan of the Wildcats from Las Vegas High School. He was also a power behind the scenes in local politics. One writer characterized him in the early 1950s as representing "the old group of a bygone era, the last of the Mohicans. He is generous to a fault, and no one knows except God and himself about his bread on the waters. He will not talk."

In 1950, Goumond leased the Boulder Club to a group of local investors and took up full-time residence at Tule Springs, but he was seen downtown from time to time, the habits of a lifetime following him into old age. In the fall of 1954, his health broke down and he died on Nov. 24, 1954, of heart trouble. A granddaughter, Margo, inherited the ranch. She tried to run it for a time, but sold it to a group of Las Vegas businessmen in 1959 who used the property as a family retreat. In 1964, Las Vegas city officials paid $850,000 for 680 acres and the ranch buildings to be developed into a city park. As a park, Tule Springs did not meet the expectations of the public. In 1977, state officials dedicated Floyd Lamb State Park on the site. Since that time, additional picnic areas, group use facilities and hiking trails have gone in and the park today is one of the premier recreational areas in the Las Vegas Valley.

New West Theatre offers subscriptions

New West Theatre is now offering a mini-season subscription package for its remaining three productions, "Prelude To A Kiss," "A Few Good Men" and "M. Butterfly."

At a 15% savings, the general admission package is $32. For students, seniors and persons with disabilities, New West Theatre is offering a package for $23.

Also available are reduced price play vouchers for any of this season's upcoming productions. A general admission voucher is $11, and vouchers for students, seniors and persons with disabilities, are $8.

For more information, call 656-5000.

Productions this season are sponsored, in part, by Signature Homes, Summa Corp., First Interstate Bank, Lady Luck Casino and Hotel and Assurance Ltd.

New West Theatre is a non-profit theater co-sponsored by the city of Las Vegas, and is funded, in part, by a grant from the Nevada State Council on the Arts, a state agency.

UNLV joins consortium

UNLV has joined with Colorado State University, Idaho State University and Denver University in the Rocky Mountain University Consortium for Environmental Restoration.

Dr. David McNelis, UNLV associate vice president for research, said the consortium was initially formed to respond to environmental restoration issues at the U.S. Department of Energy's Rocky Flats facility.

The consortium was already funded by DOE at the time of UNLV's joining, and tasks totaling about $100,000 in funding over six months have already been identified for the university.

Specific tasks for UNLV researchers will involve the independent review of designs, plans, reports, and analyses of work performed by various entities at the Rocky Flats or other DOE facilities.

Participants for the various tasks are identified from an expertise database maintained at Denver University.

Horoscope

By Linda Black

Weekly Tip: The first part of this week is best for sports, public speaking and running for office.

Aries (March 21-April 19) You'll be at your very best the first part of this week. If you have a game scheduled you'll win.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) A roommate could try to throw his or her weight around. If you feel your territory's being encroached upon, say something.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) Your confidence level will be very high. Write essays, practice sports activities.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) Watch your money the first of the week. You'll have a strong urge to spend it on something.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) The world is your oyster. Cram as many things as possible into your schedule. Get organized.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The first part of the week, a fee for some kind of equipment could destroy your budget.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Club meetings will be a lot more fun than work. A person you run into at one of them could turn out to be a steady date.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) This week will get better for you as it goes along. One of your bosses may be downright insufferable.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) If you're an athlete, you'll love the first two days of this week. That's when you'll be most effective.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you're involved in a business scheme with somebody else, be careful. The other person might buy an item you don't want, and can't afford.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You're most likely to meet an interesting person if you go to an activity that involves travel or sports.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) You may not feel you've achieved the quality level you want. That's because your idea of perfect and your present level of ability are a little out of kilter.

If You Were Born This Week

You could become very involved in social activities this year. You might even run for office, and win! Management skills will be your strongest area.

Dear Debbie

By Deborah White

Dear Debbie: I just got married and my new husband is driving me crazy. He acts like he's still single. He hardly ever comes home for dinner. And on weekends he spends half the time with his buddies. whenever I complain, he says no woman is going to tell him what to do. I've tried the see-through nightie trick. The fabulous dinners trick. Nothing has worked and I'm ready to walk. Any ideas?

-LONESOME WIFE

Dear Lonesome: It takes time for most single people to adjust to married life, but you have a hardcore case on your hands.

Establish some ground rules for mutual respect. Tell him it's not OK to give you two minutes notice if he's coming home for dinner. If he says he's not sure, let him know in advance he will have to fend for himself.

Make plans of your own and leave him a note. A few nights of not finding you home and he'll get the message. Start taking charge of your social life. Make arrangements with other couples.

He'll probably outgrow the buddies thing once he finds less in common with his single friends. But most men continue to enjoy being with other men, and he's entitled to that, just as you're entitled to spend time with your girlfriends.

Remember, the key is to act like another adult and a partner, not his mother.

Dear Debbie: I have been married for 18 years. Soon after we moved into our first home, my mother-in-law came over and walked right into our bedroom without knocking. We can't keep our front and back door locked because our children come in and out.

I love my mother-in-law. But I don't want her walking into my house unannounced. I asked my husband to talk to her, but he doesn't want to do it. Sometimes, when I know she's coming, I lock the door. It just seems to make her mad. She turns the knob as hard as she can, but she won't knock.

-NO PRIVACY

Dear No Privacy: You can discuss this privacy issue with your mother-in-law in a non-accusatory way, but no matter how delicately you put it, she's likely to feel insulted when you change the rules on her after all this time.

she'll probably cry to her son and will stop coming over for a while. Then you'll feel guilty, you'll apologize, and you'll be back to square one.

You can restrict her access gradually, making some excuse or other. But that will take months and will probably make her paranoid. A better way is to answer your door every time, but don't always let her in.

Send letters to Dear Debbie, P.O. Box 119, Orlando, Fla. 32802-4367.

By Carolyn Drennan Bishop

Instead of counting sheep, I often lie awake and compose thank you letters to unsung heroes. When the day dawns, I never seem to get those letters written.

At the top of my list is a thank you to the clerk in the posh Beverly Hills shop who didn't raise an eyebrow when I tried on a chic silk evening dress. You'll appreciate her forbearance when I tell you I sashayed out of the dressing room wearing it backward!

My mailman also deserves a great big thanks. He snatched me from what I thought was either certain death or total humiliation. Listen, do you have any idea what it's like to be stranded on the roof of your house in broad daylight? I mean, think about it. Do you call your neighbors' attention to the fact that in 100 degree heat you've chosen to perch on your roof? Do you wait for your husband or kids to come home and see you? In my case, I was saved when the mailman discreetly assisted me from my perch. What was I doing up there anyhow? Like I told the mailman, I really don't want to go into the whole subject. I just figure all's well that ends well.

Thanks to my five sons who've helped me age with grace and humor. They pretend they don't see me hold the cereal box at arms length to read the fine print. They refrain from comments when I mope around and thumb through my scrapbook of Cary Grant pictures. They believe me when I tell them I walked three miles to school every day in the pouring rain and that I can still run three miles before breakfast.

A special thank you to my husband who never told where I really was when everyone thought I'd taken a day off to visit the beach and commune with nature. I was near water alright. You're not going to believe this, but I'll tell you if you promise not to mention it to a soul. I spent an entire day locked in my very own bathroom! No, I don't know how it happened. I certainly didn't plan on spending a day scrubbing the plumbing and reading the labels on medicine bottles. To this day, I can recite the list of ingredients in a bottle of breath freshener and it goes without saying, that I still can't look a can of Ajax bathroom cleaner or a box of Tidy Bowl in the face.

While we're on an unpleasant subject, I might as well throw this in. It's a no thanks to the excited senior citizen who accosted me early one morning in the supermarket. I'd noticed the Senior Citizen's tour bus in the parking lot. The old "Dears" are taking a tour today, I thought to myself. Are you ready for this? The aforementioned senior grabbed me by the arm. "Hurry, Dearie," she shouted, "You're the last one, and you're holding up the bus!"

I ask you! You know, now that I think about it, maybe I'd be better off counting sheep.

'Pirates of the Mississippi' at Primadonna this weekend

Country music band Pirates of The Mississippi will appear at The Primadonna Resort & Casino on Friday and Saturday.

The Pirates' climb to popularity started with their smash hits "Rollin' Home," "Feed Jake," and "Speak of The Devil." Their second release, "Walk The Plank," came with a warning on the cover, "this album was mixed to play loud."

Pirates of The Mississippi have a new album coming out this week titled "A Street Man Named Desire."

The Primadonna will feature three Pirates of The Mississippi shows; one Friday night at 9 p.m. and two shows Saturday at 8 and 10 p.m. Tickets are $15 (includes tax) or $60 for a room/show package.

For more information, call the Primadonna, 382-1212.

Pirates of the Mississippi

SKYLINE PERFORMER—David St. David will perform at 7 p.m. Thursday, and at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the Silhouette Lounge at the Skyline Casino, 1741 N. Boulder Highway. Playing seven instruments with other musicians, he interjects facts and history of the '50s and '60s rock era throughout his show. The show begins with the earliest of the old rock and roll and goes through rhythm and blues, soul and early hard rock.

New Life rummage sale through Saturday

Famous actor Desi Amaz Jr. and his wife Amy cordially invite bargain hunters from Southern Nevada and surrounding states to the giant New Life Rummage Sale from dawn to dusk Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 700 Wyoming St. in Boulder City. There will be free admission and parking.

"This is the sale everyone talks about," said Amaz, who will sign autographs for shoppers. "You've never seen anything like it. Families from all over, including my own, come here for the money-saving values in quality clothing, furniture and toys. You'll find books, office supplies, jewelry. There's hardware, appliances and tools. Plus collectibles, boutique, TV's and stereos... you name it! It's a fun community event for everyone."

New items will be added daily. Friday is the $1-a-bag day for clothes, books and shoes. Everything else 25 to 50% off. Saturday it's 50-cents-a-bag for clothes, books and shoes, and everything

SALE STARTS TODAY—The gigantic New Life Foundation rummage sale begins today and continues through Saturday at 700 Wyoming St., at the corner of Utah Street in Boulder City. All rummage items are neatly categorized. The sale is held from dawn to dusk, rain or shine, in a covered area. Admission and parking are free. Call 293-4444 for more information.

CCSN to conduct auditions

Open auditions for the Community College of Southern Nevada Theatre production of "Red Hot Cole" will be held at 9 a.m., Saturday and at 6 p.m., Sunday in the CCSN Theatre, 3200 E. Cheyenne Ave.

Roles available are for seven males and seven females, ages 18 and older. Those auditioning should prepare two songs. An accompanist will be provided, but those trying out for parts should wear comfortable clothes "that you can move in," and bring a photo and a resume. Women and minorities are encouraged to audition.

The musical will be the only production of the company this year due to construction which will add a performing arts center to the college's Cheyenne campus, attaching to the current theater area.

The production will be directed by Garold Gardner. Musical direction will be by Ross Saarela. Music and lyrics were written by Cole Porter; the book was written by James Bianchi, Muriel McAuley and Randy Straderman.

Bob Dunkerly, professor of theater and fine arts at the college, said the musical "is a scintillating mixture of mood, music and biography. 'Red Hot Cole' celebrates one of the great masters of melody and the lyric line. It's a performance of melody and wit that only Cole Porter could have created."

For additional information about the open auditions, call 644-7529.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle, then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

LEGISLATIVE ENACTMENTS

On the following pages are measures passed by the Nevada Legislature which placed Questions 1 through 6 on the 1992 general election ballot. Material in brackets would, if approved by the voters, be new language added to the constitution. Material in brackets would, if approved by the voters, be deleted. The term "65th session" refers to the 1989 Nevada Legislature, where the questions originated. Each of these ballot questions were placed on the ballot by passage of the legislative measure.

- Question 1—Senate Joint Resolution No. 11 of the 65th Session
- Question 2—Senate Joint Resolution No. 13 of the 65th Session
- Question 3—Assembly Joint Resolution No. 28 of the 65th Session
- Question 4—Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 of the 65th Session
- Question 5—Assembly Joint Resolution No. 23 of the 65th Session
- Question 6—Senate Joint Resolution No. 12 of the 65th Session

The Nevada Constitution requires that any proposed constitutional changes must pass two sessions of the Nevada Legislature. The questions which will appear on the 1992 ballot were each introduced at the 1989 Legislature and approved by both the 1989 and the 1991 Legislatures (65th and 66th sessions).

NOTE TO VOTERS

THE FIRST SIX QUESTIONS PRESENTED AT THIS ELECTION ARE PROPOSALS TO AMEND THE NEVADA CONSTITUTION. EACH OF THESE QUESTIONS INCLUDES A FISCAL NOTE THAT EXPLAINS ONLY THE ADVERSE STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENTS (INCREASED EXPENSES OR DECREASED REVENUES).

THE MEASURE WHICH WAS TO APPEAR AS "QUESTION NO. 7" WAS REMOVED FROM THE BALLOT BY ORDER OF THE NEVADA SUPREME COURT.

1992 BALLOT QUESTIONS

QUESTION NO. 1

Amendment to the Nevada Constitution

Senate Joint Resolution No. 11 of the 65th Session

CONDENSATION (ballot question)

Shall the Nevada Constitution be amended to require the election of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Nevada by the Justices of the Supreme Court?

Yes
No

EXPLANATION

The Nevada Constitution provides that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court is to serve a 2-year term and is to be determined on a rotating basis according to the length of the unexpired terms of the justices. The justice with the shortest unexpired term serves as Chief Justice after the expiration of the term of the previous Chief Justice. If two or more of the justices have the shortest unexpired terms, the Chief Justice is selected by lot. If this amendment is adopted, the Chief Justice would be elected by a majority vote of the justices of the Supreme Court, would serve a 4-year term as Chief Justice and would be allowed to succeed himself as Chief Justice. In addition, the Chief Justice would be allowed to resign from the office of Chief Justice without resigning from the office of justice of the Supreme Court. Any vacancy in the office of Chief Justice would be filled by a majority vote of the justices of the court. A "Yes" vote is a vote to amend the Nevada Constitution to provide for the election of the Chief Justice by the justices of the Supreme Court. A "No" vote is a vote to retain the current method of determining the Chief Justice.

ARGUMENTS FOR PASSAGE

When the Nevada Constitution was originally adopted, only three justices served on the Supreme Court. Each justice could serve 2 years as Chief Justice, and there were no conflicts because no two justices had the same unexpired term of office. However, under the current five-justice structure, when the Chief Justice is selected by lot, the method is arbitrary. Also, the current system requires the justice with the shortest unexpired term of office to serve as Chief Justice, even if he does not want to or is not suited for the position. Election of a Chief Justice by the members of the Supreme Court would allow the best qualified judge to serve as Chief Justice. This amendment would require a Chief Justice to serve a longer term which would provide greater continuity. The amendment also would provide adequate time for a Chief Justice to become truly proficient at the duties of administering the Judicial Branch of Nevada government.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST PASSAGE

The current method of determining the Chief Justice allows each justice an equal opportunity to serve in that capacity. Two years is enough time for any Chief Justice to administer the court. If the proposed amendment is adopted, and the Chief Justice is elected by Supreme Court members, it may have the potential of introducing politics into the process. The existing method of selection has been in place for over 100 years and should not be changed.

FISCAL NOTE

Financial Impact—No. The proposal to amend the Nevada Constitution would allow administrative changes regarding the election of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. The proposal would have no adverse fiscal impact.

FULL TEXT OF MEASURE

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION—Proposing to amend the constitution of the State of Nevada to provide for the election of the chief justice by the justices of the supreme court.

RESOLVED BY THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That sections 3 and 19 of article 6 of the constitution of the State of Nevada be amended to read respectively as follows:

[Sec.] Sec. 3. The Justices of the Supreme Court, shall be elected by the qualified electors of the State at the general election, and shall hold office for the term of Six Years from and including the first Monday of January next succeeding their election; [Provided,] provided, that there shall be elected, at the first election under this Constitution, Three Justices of the Supreme Court who shall hold Office from and including the first Monday of December AD. Eighteen hundred and Sixty four, and continue in Office thereafter, Two, Four and Six Years respectively, from and including the first Monday of January next succeeding [succeeding] their election. They shall meet as soon as practicable after their election and qualification, and at their first meeting shall determine by lot, the term of Office each shall fill, and the Justice drawing the shortest term shall be Chief Justice. [] and after the expiration of his term, the one having the next shortest term shall be Chief Justice, after which the Senior Justice in Commission shall be Chief Justice; and in case the commission of any two or more of said Justices shall bear the same date, they shall determine by lot, who shall be Chief Justice.]

Sec. 19. 1. The chief justice must be selected from among the justices of the supreme court by a majority vote of the justices. The term of office of chief justice is 4 years. A justice may succeed himself as chief justice.

2. A justice may resign the office of chief justice without resigning from the office of justice of the supreme court.

3. If a vacancy in the office of chief justice occurs, the justices of the supreme court shall, by majority vote, select from among the justices another chief justice to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term.

4. The chief justice is the administrative head of the court system. Subject to such rules as the supreme court may adopt, the chief justice may:

- (a) Apportion the work of the supreme court among justices.
- (b) Assign district judges to assist in other judicial districts or to special-judicial functions which may be established by law.
- (c) Recall to active service any retired justice or judge of the court system who consents to such recall and who has not been removed or retired for cause or defeated for retention in office, and may assign him to appropriate temporary duty within the court system.

[2.] 5. In the absence or temporary disability of the chief justice, the associate justice senior in commission shall act as chief justice.

[3.] 6. This section becomes effective July 1, 1992.

6. The provisions of this section pertaining to the selection of a chief justice and his term of office become effective January 1, 1996.

QUESTION NO. 2

Amendment to the Nevada Constitution

Senate Joint Resolution No. 13 of the 65th Session

CONDENSATION (ballot question)

Shall the Nevada Constitution be amended to clarify the authority of District Courts to issue writs of prohibition and to authorize District Courts to issue writs of habeas corpus on behalf of persons who have been convicted of crimes within their respective jurisdictions but who have not completed their sentences?

Yes
No

EXPLANATION

The Nevada Constitution currently authorizes a judge of a District Court to issue a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of a person who is held in custody in his judicial district. A writ of habeas corpus is used to challenge the legality of a person's confinement, but not his guilt or innocence. The proposed amendment would expand the jurisdiction of the District Courts to issue a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of a person who has been convicted of a crime in his judicial district, but who has not completed his sentence. In addition, the Nevada Constitution authorizes the District Courts to issue such writs as are proper and necessary to the complete exercise of their jurisdiction. The proposed amendment to the Nevada Constitution includes a technical provision that would clarify that such writs include a writ of prohibition, which prohibits a lower court from hearing an action over which it has no jurisdiction or from exceeding its authority in a matter over which it has jurisdiction. A "Yes" vote is a vote to amend the Nevada Constitution to clarify and extend the jurisdiction of the District Courts relating to writs of prohibition and habeas corpus. A "No" vote is a vote to disapprove the constitutional amendment.

ARGUMENTS FOR PASSAGE

Under the existing system, a prisoner has two chances at habeas corpus relief, one in the court of his conviction and one in the court in the district in which he is incarcerated. This amendment would allow the Legislature to specify only one comprehensive process, giving more finality to criminal convictions. By reducing costly paperwork, the amendment would also result in significant savings to the state.

In addition, it may be less cumbersome, more equitable and more efficient to allow the court that originally handled the case also to consider the habeas corpus petition. This amendment would allow the court that is most familiar with the case to hear the petition. Finally, because prisoners are often incarcerated in the smaller rural counties, a disproportionate burden is placed on the courts in those counties to hear petitions for habeas corpus relief. This amendment would relieve that burden.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST PASSAGE

It may be unfair to allow the court that convicted a person to consider that person's habeas corpus petition. The court may have preconceived ideas about the defendant, based on the underlying criminal case.

FISCAL NOTE

Financial Impact—No. The proposal to amend the Nevada Constitution would change the authority of District Courts. The proposal would have no adverse fiscal impact, and may result in savings to the state.

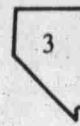

FULL TEXT OF MEASURE

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION—Proposing to amend the Nevada constitution to clarify and extend the jurisdiction of the district courts relating to the writs of prohibition and habeas corpus.

RESOLVED BY THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That section 6 of article 6 of the constitution of the State of Nevada be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 6. 1. The District Courts in the several Judicial Districts of this State shall have original jurisdiction in all cases excluded by law from the original jurisdiction of justices' courts. They shall also have final appellate jurisdiction in cases arising in Justices' Courts, and such other inferior tribunals as may be established by law. The District Courts [] and the Judges thereof shall have power to issue writs of Mandamus, Prohibition, Injunction, Quo Warranto, Certiorari, and all other writs proper and necessary to the complete exercise of their jurisdiction. [] and also shall [] The District Courts and the Judges thereof shall also have power to issue writs of Habeas Corpus on petition by, or on behalf of any person who is held in actual custody in their respective districts [] or who has suffered a criminal conviction in their respective districts and has not completed the sentence imposed pursuant to the judgment of conviction.

2. The legislature may provide by law for referees in district courts.

QUESTION NO. 3

Amendment to the Nevada Constitution

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 28 of the 65th Session

CONDENSATION (ballot question)

Shall the Nevada Constitution be amended to repeal the provision which prohibits withholding the rights of suffrage and officeholding from any male citizen of the United States because of his color or previous condition of servitude?

Yes
No

EXPLANATION

The Nevada Constitution prohibits the withholding of the right to vote and the right to hold a public office from any male citizen of the United States because of his color or because of his previous condition of servitude. A "Yes" vote is a vote to repeal this provision. A "No" vote is a vote to retain this provision.

ARGUMENTS FOR PASSAGE

Article XVIII is an obsolete provision of the Nevada Constitution. It should be repealed because voting and officeholding rights are now guaranteed to all adult citizens, regardless of race or sex, through more comprehensive provisions of both United States and Nevada Constitutions.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST PASSAGE

Article XVIII, although outdated, serves as a reminder of that period in American history following the Civil War. It should be retained, therefore, for historical reasons.

FISCAL NOTE

Financial Impact—No. The proposal to amend the Nevada Constitution would delete antiquated provisions regarding voting and officeholding rights. The proposal would have no adverse fiscal impact.

ASSEMBLY JOINT RESOLUTION—Proposing to repeal article XVIII of the constitution of the State of Nevada which prohibits withholding the rights of suffrage and officeholding from any male citizen of the United States by reason of his color or previous condition of servitude.

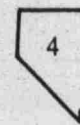

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That article XVIII of the constitution of the State of Nevada be repealed.

TEXT OF REPEALED ARTICLE

QUESTION NO. 4

Amendment to the Nevada Constitution

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 of the 65th Session

CONDENSATION (ballot question)

Shall the Nevada Constitution be amended to remove the limit on the authorized reimbursement of legislators for postage, stationery and other expenses and to remove the additional allowance provided for leaders of the Legislature?

Yes
No

EXPLANATION

The Nevada Constitution allows legislators to be reimbursed for postage, stationery and other expenses incurred during a general or special session of the Legislature in an amount not to exceed $60. In addition, leaders of the Legislature are entitled to receive an additional allowance of $2 for each day they attend the Legislature as presiding officers. The proposed amendment would provide for the payment of such expenses without a constitutional limitation and would remove the additional allowance provided to the leaders of the Legislature. A "Yes" vote is a vote to remove the constitutional limit on the authorized reimbursement of legislators and the additional allowance provided for the leaders of the Legislature. A "No" vote is a vote to disapprove the constitutional amendment.

ARGUMENTS FOR PASSAGE

A member of the Nevada Legislature should be eligible to receive reimbursement for his or her actual official expenses during legislative sessions for postage, stationery and similar items. The existing constitutional limitations, which date back to 1864, are unrealistically low and should be repealed. For example, postage rates are nearly 10 times higher today than they were 30 years ago. Limitations on postage and other legislative expenses should be established by law and not through the Nevada Constitution.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST PASSAGE

The limitations specified in the Nevada Constitution for certain legislative expenses are no longer realistic. However, if this amendment is adopted there will be no specific limitations on these expenditures in the Nevada Constitution.

FISCAL NOTE

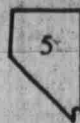

Financial Impact—Cannot be Determined. The proposal to amend the Nevada Constitution would remove the limit on reimbursement for various legislative expenses. The fiscal effect will be determined by what action the Legislature may take with regard to establishing new reimbursement schedules.

FULL TEXT OF MEASURE

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION—Proposing to amend section 33 of article 4 of the constitution of the State of Nevada by removing the limit on authorized reimbursement of legislators for postage, stationery and other expenses and by removing the additional allowance provided for leaders of the legislature.

RESOLVED BY THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That section 33 of article 4 of the constitution of the State of Nevada be amended to read as follows:

[Sec.] Sec. 33. The members of the Legislature shall receive for their services, a compensation to be fixed by law and paid out of the public treasury, for not to exceed 60 days during any regular session of the legislature and not to exceed 20 days during any special session convened by the governor; but no increase of such compensation shall take effect during the term for which the members of either house shall have been elected [Provided,] provided, that an appropriation may be made for the payment of [such actual expense as] expenses that members of the Legislature may incur for postage, express charges, newspapers and stationery. [not exceeding the sum of Sixty dollars for any general or special session to each member; and Furthermore Provided, that the Speaker of the Assembly, and Lieutenant Governor, as President of the Senate, shall each, during the time of their actual attendance as such presiding officers receive an additional allowance of two dollars per diem.]

QUESTION NO. 5

Amendment to the Nevada Constitution

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 23 of the 65th Session

CONDENSATION (ballot question)

Shall the Nevada Constitution be amended to allow the State of Nevada to lend money or its credit to any company, association or corporation, and to subscribe to or have an interest in the stock of companies, associations or corporations, but to retain the prohibition against donating money to private companies which are not formed for educational or charitable purposes?

Yes
No

EXPLANATION

The Nevada Constitution prohibits the State of Nevada from donating or loaning money or its credit to, or subscribing to or having an interest in the stock of any company, association or corporation, except corporations formed for educational or charitable purposes. The proposed amendment would retain the prohibition against donating money of the state to businesses that are not formed for educational or charitable purposes; but would allow the state to lend money or its credit to, and subscribe to and have an interest in the stock of any business. A "Yes" vote is a vote to amend the Nevada Constitution to expand the authority of the state to loan money or its credit to, or invest in businesses. A "No" vote is a vote to disapprove the proposed amendment.

ARGUMENTS FOR PASSAGE

The existing provision was placed in the Nevada Constitution in 1864 to prevent powerful railroad companies from using their political influence to obtain loans and grants from the state. This provision has limited efforts to bring economic development and economic benefits to Nevadans by restricting the state's ability to make loans to private companies. The proposed amendment to the Nevada Constitution will allow the state greater flexibility to invest its money more effectively and to cooperate with private companies to provide benefits to the public. This authority would still be subject to statutory guidelines, including requirements that ensure safety, protection, and disclosure of any such investments.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST PASSAGE

Even though the railroads no longer have excessive political influence over state government, the existing provision has not prevented the state from supporting economic growth or making prudent investments. Also, the provision may still be useful in preventing the state from becoming financially involved in private companies.

FISCAL NOTE

Financial Impact—No. The proposal to amend the Nevada Constitution would expand the state's ability to invest public money in various private enterprises. The proposal would have no adverse fiscal impact.

FULL TEXT OF MEASURE

ASSEMBLY JOINT RESOLUTION—Proposing to amend section 9 of article 8 of the constitution of the State of Nevada to eliminate the prohibition against lending the money or credit of the state to businesses.

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That section 9 of article 8 of the constitution of the State of Nevada be amended to read as follows:

[Sec.] Sec. 9. The state shall not donate [or loan money, or its credit, subscribe to or be, interested in the Stock of] money to any company, association, or corporation, except corporations formed for educational or charitable purposes.

QUESTION NO. 6

Amendment to the Nevada Constitution

Senate Joint Resolution No. 12 of the 65th Session

CONDENSATION (ballot question)

Shall the Nevada Constitution be amended to provide for the establishment of a Court of Appeals?

Yes
No

EXPLANATION

The Supreme Court of Nevada is the only court in this state which has jurisdiction to hear cases that are appealed from decisions rendered by the District Courts of this state. In addition, the Supreme Court hears cases brought originally in the Supreme Court and administers the functions of the State Bar of Nevada and the judiciary. If this amendment is adopted, an intermediate Court of Appeals would be established to hear certain appeals from cases decided by the District Courts. The proposed amendment would require the Legislature to determine the jurisdiction of the Court of Appeals and provide for the review of appeals decided by the court. In addition, the initial three judges to the Court of Appeals would be appointed by the governor. Thereafter, the judges would be elected by the voters of this state to 6-year terms. A "Yes" vote is a vote to provide for the establishment of a Court of Appeals. A "No" vote is a vote to disapprove the constitutional amendment.

ARGUMENTS FOR PASSAGE

Nevada is one of only 12 states without an intermediate Court of Appeals. With the tremendous increase in the population of Nevada, the caseload of the Supreme Court has more than doubled over the past 10 years. If action is not taken, the judicial system may become overloaded and decisions of cases may be severely delayed. The creation of a Court of Appeals would relieve the Supreme Court of many cases, leaving it more able to decide new questions of law and cases of significant public importance. It is anticipated that the Court of Appeals will finally decide the majority of the cases. The Court of Appeals also would expedite the judicial process by relieving the Supreme Court of its burdensome caseload and by screening cases that may not merit consideration by the Supreme Court.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST PASSAGE

The creation of the new Court of Appeals might simply shift the "bottle-neck" from the Supreme Court to the Court of Appeals and would add another step to the process of litigation. Creation of a Court of Appeals also could be costly.

FISCAL NOTE

Financial Impact—Yes. The proposal to amend the Nevada Constitution would allow the Legislature, at some future date, to establish an intermediate appellate court. The state will be responsible for the cost of the court. However, the fiscal effect will be determined by what action the Legislature may take with regard to staffing, equipping and locating the court. It has been estimated that a three-judge court operating similar to the Supreme Court could cost approximately $2.7 million per year, not including facility costs.

FULL TEXT OF MEASURE

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION—Proposing to amend the Nevada constitution to create an intermediate appellate court.

RESOLVED BY THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That a new section be added to article 6 and sections 1, 4, 7, 8, 11, 15, 20 and 21 of article 6 of the constitution of the State of Nevada be amended to read respectively as follows:

Sec. 3A. 1. The court of appeals consists of three judges or such greater number as the legislature may provide by law. If the number of judges is so enlarged, the supreme court shall provide by rule for the assignment of each appeal to a panel of three judges for decision.

2. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, the judges of the court of appeals shall be elected by the qualified electors of the state, at the general election, for terms of 6 years beginning on the first Monday of January next after the election. The initial three judges must be appointed by the governor from among three nominees selected for each individual seat by the commission on judicial selection, and must be appointed for terms of 2 years, 4 years and 6 years, respectively, which must be separately specified in their appointments. In any increase or reduction of the number of judges, the legislature shall provide initial terms of 6 or fewer years so that one-third of the total number of judges, as nearly as may be, is elected every 2 years.

3. The chief justice of the supreme court shall appoint one of the judges of the court of appeals to be chief judge. The chief judge shall serve a term of 4 years and may succeed himself. The chief judge may resign his position as chief judge without resigning from the court of appeals.

4. The supreme court shall provide by rule for the assignment of one or more judges of the court of appeals to devote a part of their time to service as supplemental district judges where needed.

Section 1. The judicial power of this State [shall be] is vested in a court system, comprising a Supreme Court, a Court of Appeals, District Courts, and Justices of the Peace. The Legislature may also establish, as part of the system, Courts for municipal purposes only in incorporated cities and towns.

Sec. 4. The supreme court [shall] and the court of appeals have appellate jurisdiction in all civil cases arising in district courts, and also on questions of law alone in all criminal cases in which the offense charged is within the original jurisdiction of the district courts. The legislature shall fix the jurisdiction of the court of appeals and provide for the review, where appropriate, of appeals decided by the court of appeals. The supreme court and the court of appeals shall also have power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition, quo warranto, and habeas corpus and also writs necessary or proper to the complete exercise of [its appellate] their jurisdiction. Each [of the justices] of the court of appeals may issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of the state, upon petition by, or on behalf of, any person held in actual custody [] in this state, and may make such writs returnable [] before himself [] before the issuing justice or judge, or the supreme court [] court of which the justice or judge is a member, or before any district court in the state or [before] any judge of [said courts.] a district court.

In case of the disability or disqualification, for any cause, of [the chief justice or one of the associate] one or more justices of the supreme court [] or any two of them, [] or judges of the court of appeals, the governor [is authorized and empowered to] may designate any district judge or judges to sit in the place or places of such disqualified or disabled justice, [of] justices, judge or judges, and [said] the district judge or judges so design-nated [shall] are entitled to receive their actual expense of travel and otherwise while sitting in the supreme court [] or court of appeals; or the governor may designate any judge of the court of appeals to sit in the place of any disabled or disqualified justice of the supreme court.

Sec. 7. The times of holding the Supreme Court, the Court of Appeals and District Courts shall be fixed by law. The terms of the Supreme Court shall be held at the seat of Government unless the Legislature otherwise provides by law, except that the Supreme Court may hear oral argument at other places in the state. The terms of the Court of Appeals shall be held where provided by law. The terms of the District Courts shall be held at the County seats of their respective counties; Provided, that in case any county shall be hereafter divided into two or more districts, the Legislature may by law, designate the places of holding Courts in such Districts.

Sec. 8. The Legislature shall determine the number of Justices of the Peace to be elected in each city and township of the state, and shall fix by law their qualifications, their terms of office and the limits of their civil and criminal jurisdiction, according to the amount in controversy, the nature of the case, the penalty provided, or any combination of these.

The provisions of this section affecting the number, qualification, terms of office and jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace become effective on the first Monday of January, 1979.

The Legislature shall also prescribe by law the manner, and determine the cases in which appeals may be taken from Justices and other courts. The Supreme Court, the Court of Appeals, the District Courts, and such other Courts [] as the Legislature shall designate, shall be Courts of Record.

Sec. 11. The justices of the supreme court, judges of the court of appeals and the district judges [shall be] are ineligible to any office, other than a judicial office, during the term for which they [shall] have been elected or appointed; and all elections or appointments of any such judges by the people, legislature, or otherwise, during [said] that period, to any office other than judicial, [shall be] void.

Sec. 15. The Justices of the Supreme Court, the Judges of the Court of Appeals and the District Judges [shall each] are each entitled to receive for their services a compensation to be fixed by law and paid in the manner provided by law, which shall not be [increased or] diminished during the term for which the [shall] have been elected, unless a vacancy occurs, in which case the successor of the former incumbent [shall] is entitled to receive only such salary as may be provided by law at the time of his election or appointment; and provision shall be made by law for setting apart from each year's revenue a sufficient amount of Money, to pay such compensation.

Sec. 20. 1. When a vacancy occurs before the expiration of any term of office in the supreme court or the court of appeals or among the district judges, the governor shall appoint a justice or judge from among three nominees selected for such individual vacancy by the commission on judicial selection.

2. The term of office of any justice or judge so appointed expires on the first Monday of January following the next general election.

3. Each nomination for the supreme court or the court of appeals shall be made by the permanent commission, composed of:

- (a) The chief justice or an associate justice designated by him;
- (b) Three members of the State Bar of Nevada, a public corporation created by statute, appointed by its board of governors; and
- (c) Three persons, not members of the legal profession, appointed by the governor.

4. Each nomination for the district court shall be made by a temporary commission composed of:

- (a) The permanent commission;
- (b) A member of the State Bar of Nevada, resident in the judicial district in which the vacancy occurs, appointed by the board of governors of the State Bar of Nevada; and
- (c) A resident of such judicial district, not a member of the legal profession, appointed by the governor.

5. If at any time the State Bar of Nevada ceases to exist as a public corporation or ceases to include all attorneys admitted to practice before the courts of this state, the legislature shall provide by law, or if it fails to do so the supreme court shall provide by rule, for the appointment of attorneys at law to the positions designated in this section to be occupied by members of the State Bar of Nevada.

PERSONALS Prayer to the Holy Spirit—Holy Spirit, you who are the only one who clears everything for me, you who brighten all paths so that I can reach my ideal, you who give me the Divine Knowledge of forgiving and forgetting the evils that have been done to me and who in every instance of my life are with me, I want, in this short dialogue, to thank you for everything and make sure once again that I never want to be separated from you no matter how big the material illusion may be. I wish to be with you and all my loved ones in your glory forever. Thank you for the mercy you have had for me and my loved ones. Thank you for the received favor. (The person should say this prayer for three consecutive days, without mentioning the favor. Within three days, the Grace will be received no matter how difficult it may seem. Published when the Grace is received). EM. PE
