One Man's VIEW

By Mike O'Callaghan

Nevada legislators, after wandering through a forest of hearings, cocktail parties, dinners with lobbyists and a blizzard of bills, should be getting down to serious business during the next week. Nevadans now must hope and pray they don't start the usual race for adjournment by passing a plethora of bad bills and killing an equal number of good pieces of proposed legislation.

That's when this writer will head for Carson City to give our readers a closer look at what the legislators from Henderson and Boulder City are doing. Until this time, it has been satisfactory to follow their activities by reading the daily records of the Legislature and the proposed bills.

I have gathered a stack of questionable bills separated from the proposed bills. Some will be pushed through and will hurt the people of the state but a large number of them should die the death they deserve.

During the campaign last fall, we had the opportunity to interview every legislative candidate from Clark County. Only one of the candidates from Henderson/Boulder City has signed on to a bill that does what he had told us he wouldn't do. That's not a bad record for the people in this area because 10 others from different parts of the county evidently weren't serious about telling the truth when being interviewed.

Newspaper people have the habit of being open and writing articles that leave a

State releases BMI report

By Roy Theiss News Staff Writer

A report detailing environmental conditions at Basic Management Inc. was recently sent to the Nevada Environmental Protection Division's Las Vegas office for public review.

The report is the culmination of Phase I of the Environmental Conditions and Assessment of BMI. NDEP collected and reviewed documents of BMI since its inception more than 50 years ago. The industrial plants are located in the "donut hole," controlled by Clark County which is surrounded by Henderson property.

"It's a long, drawn-out process," said Edward Basham, environmental management specialist for NDEP. "It's a very complex issue." Each company that has existed at BMI has submitted a report to NDEP along with one for the entire project. Basham said he has an entire book shelf dedicated to material concerning BMI.

The report identifies more than 100 areas which need to be evaluated with possible further research conducted. Some areas may require sampling and some form of remediation.

In addition to the magnitude of the project, the very nature of it tends to slow the remediation process, Basham said. "It takes time. We're dealing with large national corporations which have their own agenda and have high-powered legal firms."

The report will allow NDEP to

HPD issues 1992 annual report

By Katherine E. Scott News Staff Writer (Part 1 of 2)

More calls for police service last year resulted in less time for officers to spend on the road for visibility and crime prevention, police said after the Henderson Police Department's 1992 Annual Report was issued recently.

This is the second year police have kept a record of mileage accrued by patrol vehicles. In 1992, patrol officers drove a total of 520,574 miles, down 57,986 from 578,560 miles in 1991.

"The increase in calls for service has resulted in a decrease in our open patrol time, which has resulted in a decrease of the routine patrol," HPD Lt. Tom Thompson said. "That's cut down on our mileage, because the [officers are] running from call to call to call, from one spot direct to another."

HPD Assistant Chief Kip Botkin said at least five more officers, and as many as nine, could be added soon to the force. "We currently are awaiting word on two grants that would supply six additional officers," Botkin said.

In addition, new police personnel allocated in the city's upcoming budget include five patrol officers, he said.

Two of the six positions would provide "officers that would interact specifically and closely with certain areas of town," Botkin said. "The other four would be used to increase the DARE program."

Botkin said the two officers currently working the Drug and Alcohol Resistance Education program are regular patrol officers with no outside funding. If the full grant is awarded for four officers, the DARE program would be increased and two new officers would be hired to fill the others' patrol positions.

The additional DARE officers "would allow us to get the DARE program into all 21 schools in Henderson," Botkin said. Currently, fifth-grade students have DARE education. Botkin said HPD would like to see the education expanded into junior high and high school.

Police see the DARE program as a preventative measure, hoping its effects will eventually result in a reduction of crime. Results may show in the future, as police continue to issue annual reports specifying police activity and criminal activity in Henderson.

Areas of activity

Police divide the city into four areas of patrol, and began in with the 1991 annual report to determine the percentage of calls in each part of the community.

The 1992 annual report shows the westernmost neighborhoods, including Green Valley, Green Valley South and Lake Mead Drive to the city's west limits, had about as many calls as any two of the other three areas. The 40% of police activity was up 6% from 34% in 1991.

The biggest decrease occurred in the area that includes the Pittman neighborhood and Whitney Ranch neighborhood.

Multi-family study: More input sought

By Roy Theiss News Staff Writer

Residents will have one last opportunity to give their input concerning how the city should grow with multi-family housing during a meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Convention Center. The public input meeting is part of an ongoing series of workshops and meetings since last year.

The multi-family task force meeting will discuss goals and objectives for the future housing of Henderson. "If residents want their concerns part of the proposals, now's the time," said LaVert Lucas, principal planner.

"This is the last time for community input prior to the consultant developing the draft proposal," he added. At the end of May, a meeting is tentatively scheduled to review the draft.

The consultant will present several sketch drawings, including community scale, neighborhood scale and a site scale drawings.

Lucas said the city, staff and the housing consultant are all concerned with the turnout at the meetings. "At the last meeting, more people from old Henderson than Green Valley were there and Green Valley is experiencing the bulk of the problem.

"We're troubled that enough people haven't shown up, as opposed to a planning item when people turn out in large numbers. When it gets down to zoning or an architectural review, the options are much less, but when the options are much broader, there's not much turnout."

Lucas said he feels a bit frustrated with the lack of input from the community. "Participation is not what we hoped for. That's not to say the participation hasn't JUSTICE GROUNDBREAKING — City officials and others involved in developing the city's new Justice Building shovel a pile of dirt imported to the lawn near the building site on Monday for the symbolic groundbreaking ceremony. The building at 243 Water St. that five years ago housed the City Hall, police station, courts and jail is being demolished to make room for the new building. City Hall and the Police Department headquarters have since moved to their own facilities, and the municipal and justice courts are being temporarily housed in the Convention Center. Only the jail remains until construction is completed in the first phase of the project. trail of their observations and thoughts. Likewise they also keep records and have the habit of recalling the promises and actions of candidates and office holders. They refuse to separate what a candidate says from what he or she does after being elected.

So upon my return from Jerusalem next week, I will spend a few days here and then head for Carson City. This week, a fellow member of the media will keep track of legislation for me.

Something even bigger is happening right here at home where city voters must make some very important decisions. That's why attending local gatherings to learn more about municipal candidates and issues is so important. Every issue has some bearing upon residents and the lives they want to live.

Just remember that people get the government they deserve. What they deserve isn't much when less than 80% of the registered voters go to the polls.

Yes, what happens in the primary election on May 4 is very important. This is a vital part of the screening process in several important races. By failing to vote, you may allow the best candidate for office to fall by the wayside.

Incidentally, the News will keep track of the promises made by candidates and will cover the gathering of candidates. This is our job. It's also our job to remember what the successful candidates promised when they were running for office.

Jack McCloskey, a newspaperman for 61 years, is still publisher of the Mineral County Independent in Hawthorne, Nev. He's very conservative, deadily honest and a great Nevadan. Jack is also wise and usually has a well thought-out position on most local, state and national issues.

I read McCloskey's "Jasper" column every week. Americans can only hope that H. Ross Perot, the wealthy national gadfly and presidential candidate, read one of his most recent columns.

McCloskey wrote the following column after hearing from Perot:

We finally heard from the man himself, Ross Perot. At least we think it is a legitimate letter because it is typed (no word processor, fax or other gimmick used for mass mailing) on a letterhead with printed head: H.R. Perot/1700 Lakeside Square/12377 Merit Drive/Dallas, Texas, 7521 and signed: Ross Perot. We are sure there are others who received the same letter because it is an appeal to give Mr. Perot some help, or at least help an outfit called United We Stand America which is interested in government reform.

Usually, we are less than impressed with "reform" movements that depend upon cash contributions from us, but this one seemed different as we are in the business of selling advertising. The first paragraph told us about the big electronic town hall on Sunday, March 21, on NBC-TV and the NBC and Mutual networks, and knowing that Ross Perot spares no dollars when he puts on one of his electronic shows, we figured it would be a dandy.

Next came the announcement that an enclosed ballot was ours to fill out and send in. In addition to our ballot, Ross noted, "millions of ballots will be distributed across the country in TV Guide as well as a number of other ways." The "other ways" whetted our financial appetite as we envisioned Ross finally had decided to reach the "little people" through the "little newspapers" with his personal resources. He even asked us to print the ballot as a public service "so that everyone can participate," adding "it would mean a great deal to your readers who do not have TV Guide to have easy access of this ballot."

Not until we re-read the part about "public service" did we realize that even Ross Perot can be guilty of every thing he objects to when he talks about government officials—hustling freebies. And before we could say no, he had a follow-up paragraph that suggested if we couldn't afford to accommodate his program gratis, maybe our advertising department could put the bee on "local companies" to pick up the tab for advertising expenses.

By then we began to understand why Ross Perot has a lot more money than we have. And knowing how Ross Perot enjoys tossing out "one liners" when talking about poor management in government, we recalled a slogan used by the late John B. Long, long-time manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Association, to publishers who were constantly hounded for free space. Johnnie's advice: "Just remember, newspapers are not unlike other older professions; you can't sell it if you give it away." We hope H.R. Perot understands.

Permanent replacements favored

By Roy Theiss
News Staff Writer

A bill was introduced in the state legislature to insure strikers the right to have a job when negotiations have been settled. Currently, employees who strike may lose their jobs to permanent replacements and the Henderson Chamber of Commerce's legislative subcommittee feels the law should not be changed.

Assembly Bill 374 was introduced and would prohibit an employer from hiring permanent replacements for striking employees.

Jim Gibson, a member of the legislative subcommittee, said he would like to see the current law which allows hiring permanent replacements for striking employees stay in tack.

Gibson said the issue is part of a large body of labor law which has developed over many years. "The environment of business is not the same as the past." If a strike occurs, replacing the strikers may be the only recourse, he said. "We're concerned because we want to maintain a level playing field."

If an employer is prohibited from hiring replacements, he may be forced to close his doors, Gibson said. "In most cases, when labor bargaining comes to an end and the employer cannot meet the demands and a strike follows, the employer closes his doors."

He said that he did not know of any particular business that closed because of a strike. Usually, a strike will be settled before the doors close, he added.

Robert Nard, business manager for Plumbers/Pipefitters Union 525, said he thinks any worker would be in favor of prohibiting hiring permanent replacements for strikers. He said strikes do not occur on a whim. "You have to have a pretty good reason for us to

Sportco robbed Industrial Days winners listed

Henderson police are seeking a man who robbed the clerk of a Green Valley neighborhood sporting goods store at gunpoint Tuesday night.

The suspect entered the Sportco store on Green Valley Parkway around 7:30 p.m., police said. "[He] approached the clerk at the cash register and brandished a small chrome pistol, demanding money," an HPD news release stated.

The suspect fled with an undisclosed amount of cash and was last seen running south toward Sunset Road, police said.

He is described as a white man with blond hair, wearing a white baseball cap, pink shirt and green pants and shoes.

Any persons with information are asked to call the Henderson Police Department, 565-8933, or Secret Witness, 385-5555.

Council denies appeal

By Paul Szydelko
Managing Editor

The Henderson City Council on Tuesday unanimously denied an appeal from American West Development for a zone change on more than 140 acres in the Whitney Ranch neighborhood.

The Henderson Planning Commission deferred the zone change request last December until the applicant could revise its application and submit documentation for a master plan overlay district. City Attorney Shauna Hughes advised the Council that since the item was merely deferred, and not recommended for approval or denial, there was no issue to appeal.

"We don't have any kind of decision to appeal here," Councilman Andy Hafen said.

Attorneys for American West argued that the master plan for Whitney Ranch was approved in 1989 and that they were appealing an administrative decision by Planning Director George Garcia. They also submitted several documents to build a record for legal action against the city.

In other business, the Council:

- Denied a variance to allow a boat-storage structure in a corner side yard at 1545 Plain Sight Ave. in the Whitney Ranch neighborhood. The vote was 3-2, with Councilmen Lorin Williams and Hafen dissenting.

Applicants Corie and Barbara Oviatt said he believed he had all the proper approvals from the city and from American West, and the structure has been substantially completed for five months. A new Whitney Ranch Homeowners Association architectural review committee, however, did not sign off on the project.

Garcia noted that the building permit was issued improperly and a variance request should have been considered earlier. Oviatt currently uses a handicapped ramp to access the structure and would need a variance to install a driveway.

"This should never have gotten this far," said Councilman Michael Harris, who advised Oviatt to meet with the WRHA and the city attorney to negotiate an agreement.

- Approved a use permit for the 3,000-square-foot Nevada Sellers Auction House, 722 W. Sunset Road, in an IG-G (general industrial with gaming enterprise overlay) district in the Pittman neighborhood. One of the conditions for approval was that the building's owner will submit a landscaping plan to the city. The Council will review the use permit in one year.

- Approved a new ordinance regulating above-ground hazardous waste storage.

At 11:30 a.m., the Henderson Police Department will start clearing the route. All cars on Water Street between Ocean Avenue and Victory Road not moved by parade-time will be towed to Army and Texas Streets.

Calls went down 5% from 24% in 1991 to 19% last year.

Another part of Henderson that had a decrease in the percentage of police activity was the area east of Boulder Highway and south of Lake Mead Drive. That area saw a 2% decrease in police activity, from 25% in 1991 to 23% last year.

The final area, west of Boulder Highway and south of Lake Mead Drive up to Green Valley South, had a 1% increase in activity, from 17% in 1991 to 18% in 1992.

Calls for service

According to the 1992 annual report, calls for service in Henderson increased 6,838 last year to 101,166, from 94,328 in 1991. The total calls for service were up 26,018 from 1990.

Of those, there were 30,659 criminal calls last year, up 2,495 from 28,164 the year before and up 8,032 from 22,627 in 1990.

Non-criminal calls numbered 39,051 in 1992, up 2,587 from 36,464 in 1991 and up 12,721 from 26,330 in 1990.

Back-up officers were called in 24,315 times last year, up 829 from 23,486 in 1991 and up 3,628 from 20,687 in 1990.

Traffic calls increased by 927 from 6,214 in 1991 to 7,141, last year, which was up 1,637 from 5,504 in 1990.

Traffic

Not included in the total calls for service 17,657 traffic stops patrol officers made in 1992, down 143 from 17,657 in 1991 and up 4,825 from 20,687 in 1990.

Traffic citations numbered 10,817 in 1992, including 7,363 moving violations and 3,454 parking violations.

The total decreased 789 from 11,606 in 1991, but was up 929 from 9,888 in 1990. The decrease came from fewer parking citations, which were down 395 from 3,849 in 1991 and down 634 from 4,088 in 1990.

There were six more citations issued for moving violations in 1992, with 7,757 issued in 1991. The number was up 1,563 from 5,800 in 1990.

Reports

Police wrote a total of 12,344 reports last year, including 8,347 criminal, 2,545 non-criminal and 1,452 traffic accidents.

Total reports were up 885 from 11,459 in 1991 and up 2,270 from 10,074 in 1990.

Criminal reports increased 309 from 8,038 in 1991 and went up 1,441 from 6,906 in 1990.

Non-criminal reports were up 464 from 2,081 in 1991 and up 584 from 1,961 in 1990.

There were 112 more traffic accident reports from 1,340 in 1991 and a 245 increase from 1,207 in 1990.

The number of field interview cards filled out in 1992 decreased drastically after police realized "we were duplicating the same information in two sections of the computer," Thompson said.

There were 1,298 FI cards filled out in 1992, down 2,440 from 3,738 in 1991 and down 4,493 from 5,781 in 1990.

"In the previous years we were doing a field interview card on every arrest," Thompson said. He said if one adds the number of persons arrested to the number of FI cards for incidents that did not result in an arrest, the numbers would be more in line.

Arrests

A total of 5,028 arrests were made last year, including 3,895 adults and 1,133 juveniles, according to the annual report.

The total is up 172 from 4,856 in 1991 and up 1,262 from 3,766 in 1990.

Adult arrests increased 20 from 3,875 in 1991 and 862 from 3,033 in 1990. Juvenile arrests went up 352 from 981 in 1991 and 400 from 733 in 1990.

In addition, police issued 259 adult criminal citations in 1992, up 62 from 197 in 1991 and up 146 from 113 in 1990.

"The adult criminal citations are non-traffic, misdemeanor citations," said Lt. Thompson. He explained that if a person was to be charged with a crime such as petty larceny, "We don't actually book them into jail, we issue them a citation and give them a court date."

Cases submitted

Police submitted 531 cases for prosecution last year, not including those submitted to the Juvenile Court. The total number of cases was up 67 from 464 in 1991 and up 73 from 458 the year before.

Those included a total of 1,151 crimes, up 230 from 912 a year earlier and up 248 from 903 in 1990.

The District Attorney's Office approved 431 cases, including 951 crimes, in 1992. The cases increased 48 from 383 in 1991 and 64 from 367 in 1990, and the number of crimes approved went up 245 from 706 in 1991 and 256 from 695 in 1990.

One hundred cases were denied last year, up 19 from 81 denied in 1991 and up 9 from 91 denied in 1990. The cases involved 200 crimes, which was down 6 from 206 in 1991 and down 8 from 208 in 1990.

The annual report noted that the figures "indicate the number of juveniles arrested rather than the number of actual charges, which in some cases will be substantially greater. Additionally, these figures cover only the major crime categories and do not reflect the total number of juveniles arrested for all offenses during the year."

know what it is getting into, Basham said. "We have to know what has gone on in the past. This will also give us an idea of where to look at."

Three of the facilities have been ranked by the Environmental Protection Agency for its Superfund listing, he said, but the companies have been deferred to the state. The state can handle the situation more efficiently than the federal government, he added.

Pesticide contamination from Stauffer Chemical Co., and Montrose Chemical Corp., along with a variety of chemical contaminations from Kerr-McGee Chemical Corp., qualified those for the Superfund listing.

The second phase of the evaluation project will include public meetings which are tentatively scheduled for this summer. A draft work plan of Phase II/Phase III will be presented at least two weeks to a month prior to the public meetings.

Before the meetings, NDEP officials will meet with the companies to rank the areas that need to be evaluated. The ranking will be based on the age of the contamination, the type, whether it is active, and several other factors.

provided good information.

"But we're concerned with the community as a whole may miss a chance for input on how the city will look in the future. When you have 24 people out of 90,000 show up for a meeting, that's not much participation."

Although some neighborhoods may be nearly filled, the ramifications of the multi-family study meeting are enormous and long-range, Lucas said. Some of the long-range issues include open space, designing street routes and where multi-family dwellings should be located.

"Very few areas are not within one mile of an underdeveloped parcel of land," Lucas said.

Candidate night attendance needs a boost

May 4 is right around the curve. As patriotic Henderson residents, we're expected to attack the polls in droves to select a new Mayor, City Council Ward 3 representative and a Municipal Judge.

But will we? Do we care anymore? If attendance at the first three candidate nights of the season is any indication, voter interest is definitely waning.

Although our population hovers around 90,000, Henderson's size still allows for community intimacy. Most of us are fortunate to know our current representatives by first name. We can run into our Mayor at the grocery store and talk with city officials at church.

The same goes for our candidates. While two have recently retired from public office and several still serve the city, the group of hopefuls also includes a handful of smart newcomers who are readily available to the voters. They too can be seen at the car wash or pulling up to a fast-food restaurant.

Our town is still tight enough for the candidates to walk up alone to your doorstep. They can be spotted on the sides of our byways struggling to erect their campaign signs. They'll talk to you about city problems at the dry cleaner.

Candidate nights bring them all together. They present their issues and their experience, and they compete strongly for your vote. Recent meetings have averaged between 50 to 100 attendees in addition to the candidates. Unfortunately, a good-sized chunk of the audience is comprised of candidate spouses, children and campaign aides. Still, another slice of the attendance goes to a bunch of locals who have their own specific agendas in mind.

These are the people whose decisions will affect our everyday lives. Whoever is elected will declare whether or not the shopping center goes up next door or if that unwanted parking violation has any merit.

All of the candidates will be rounded up again tonight for a Green Valley Go Vote meeting at 7 p.m. at Gibson Elementary, 271 Leisure Circle, in the Green Valley neighborhood. Attend the meeting. Listen to the hopefuls. Question them on their issues and your own. The meeting is open to all residents, regardless of what side of town they reside.

Three of these people, when elected, will make decisions for us the next four years. Candidate nights offer us the opportunity to make our decision first — to ensure we, the citizens of Henderson, get what we want, and need, out of the next four years.

Four years, 1,460 days. That's a long time. And if we don't like who is sitting in the city's chairs, we have no one to blame but ourselves.

More than one day

For some, Earth Day is just a day of celebration on April 22. Then it is back to business as usual and concerns about the environment fade with the sunset.

Earth Day awareness reached its zenith during its 20th anniversary in 1990. Since then the ceremonies and festivities have waned but a gradual process has begun educating our children as well as ourselves on the importance of protecting the Earth.

Three elements — recycle, reuse and reduce — require thought and effort. The days of wanton use and disregard of the Earth need to be a thing of the past. The Silver State's past is deeply rooted in mining and it's significance should not be overlooked. But the industry should be accountable for its actions and repercussions as should any one else.

Numerous corporations are taking in environmental considerations when implementing new policies. The companies should be commended and supported. But change should not be left to the big corporations.

Every person can make a bit of a difference, no matter what the level may be. The effort takes consideration and time.

Changing personal habits is a gradual process but with foresight in mind, we may be able to leave the world a better place for our children's children.

More POW questions arise

WASHINGTON—the purported report of Tran Van Quang to the Politburo of the North Vietnam Communist Party in 1972 raises some profound questions. The first, of course, is whether it is the real McCoy. The second is whether its details are correct and the third, maybe most important, is what the United States should do if the answers to the first two questions are yes, and North Vietnam killed as many as 600 American prisoners of war.

The Quang report was discovered by an American historian, Steven J. Morris of Harvard University, while doing some research in Moscow. It is a detailed, although perplexing, accounting of Americans then being held in North Vietnam. The prisoners are categorized—by rank and also by ideological orientation. The locations of their prisons are listed, as well as the areas in which they were captured. The document has the air of authenticity.

But if God is in the details, then the ones mentioned in the Quang report suggests agnosticism is warranted. For instance, Quang says, that "three cosmonauts" (astronauts) were being held prisoner and one of them, a "Jim Katlo," is named. But NASA says that no astronauts were ever POWs and there is no record of a Jim Katlo. Similarly, Quang's listing by rank—the numbers of colonels, for instance—does not correspond to Pentagon data. For all of that, though, the report has to be treated seriously if only for its implications: The reason so many Americans remain officially missing is that they were killed by their captors.

That, at least, is the conclusion tentatively reached by Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security adviser. The Polish-born Brzezinski recalled the Soviet massacre of 4,500 Polish officers in 1940 and noted some chilling similarities. Stalin had the Polish officers killed because many of them were members of the gentry or aristocracy, strong anti-communists. Ominously, Quang breaks down the American POWs into three ideological camps. He wrote that 368 held "progressive views and can be freed in the first instance." Another 372 held "neutralist" views about the war but 465, "all senior officers" were not in the least critical of U.S. policy. "We understand these officers come from rich families," he wrote.

Given such language, the comparison to the massacre in the forest of Katyn, Poland, is understandable. But history offers more than antecedents; it offers some cautionary lessons as well. The first is that the Vietnamese Politburo. It's possible that it is either false or not entirely true.

The probability is that we will never know—not soon, anyway. It's inconceivable that Vietnam, now seeking economic ties with the United States and the West, is going to fess up to the murder of American POWs. It's more likely that the report will be denounced as a fraud. That will put U.S. policy-makers in the gray zone where, really, they have been all along.

What should we do? After all, Poland did not break off ties with Moscow after Mikhail Gorbachev admitted Soviet responsibility for the Katyn massacre nor, for that matter, have the Japanese war crimes of World War II stopped us from having excellent relations with Japan. Nations move on—at least some of them do. When they don't, you get a situation like the Balkans, a land of long memories and even longer wars.

But the Clinton administration would be wise to listen to the American people on this issue. The widows and orphans of the Vietnam war are all our neighbors. For them, the spade full of dirt has never hit the casket, the other shoe of certainty has never dropped. Their anguish, their hurt, cannot easily be dismissed. The government owes them an accounting—and that, of course, it has been trying to do. If the Quang report is true, then we cannot do business with the murderers of American servicemen. War is hell, but even hell has its rules.

Vietnam hankers for economic ties with the West. That's understandable. But there is little reciprocal yearning on this side of the Pacific Ocean—no urgent need to establish relations with Hanoi. It is not, after all, Japan and it is certainly no democracy. The Quang report needs to be disproved before we can proceed. If it is false, then it is time to put the war behind us. If it is true then—in the name of too many American families—that time has not yet come.

Masterful political manipulation?

This is being written at about the 90th day of our 60-day biennial legislative session. Yet what has been trumpeted as the second biggest bill in Nevada history has yet to be introduced.

In fact, it hasn't even been drafted. According to rumor, a so-called "skeleton bill" does exist, and has even been placed in the hands of one of the lawmakers. But as far as the Legislature and the public are concerned, it remains a phantom, a "disembodied spirit wandering among living persons."

Assuming this spook ever does materialize, why the delay? Especially since drafting a final product is said to take about a month, and then it must go through the complex process of hearings, amending, arguing, revising, reprinting, and so on, ad infinitum.

At least it would go that route in theory. But several lawmakers privately complain that there is a grand political strategy designed to put them in a position where they will be pressured to bypass all the processes regular bills must go through under the rules.

They have to complain in whispers though. Because, God forbid, somebody might get the impression they oppose reorganizing government. Most of them got elected because they convinced the voters they hate government just as much as anybody else, and by God if there is some way to fix it, you can count on me to go along with it.

But now they whisper bitterly. They feel they have been neatly boxed in by nobody less than reorganization's leader, His Excellency, Gov. Bob Miller.

As one of the whisperers puts it: "He's toying with us, and everybody else. The delay comes right out of the governor's office. They keep tinkering with the drafted skeleton, adding and subtracting. They call it refining it, to help us. Nonsense. It's a tactic to get us to pass it without giving it the attention it ought to have."

If that's true, we are witnessing one of the most masterful political manipulations of the state Legislature in history. Which raises this rhetorical question: If the lawmakers know they are being manipulated, especially by the Executive Branch, why don't they stand up and shout it to the housetops?

One who should be doing the shouting, but isn't, gave a blunt, succinct and direct answer: "We don't have the guts, and the governor knows it." (Note that he didn't have the guts to let me use his name, either). He explained that it's one thing to defy the governor on a plea to raise taxes, and quite something else to stand up to him on so sacred an idea as streamlining government.

But it's a little more than that. Even Miller's critics grudgingly acknowledge that at least parts of the original plan (the only thing on paper so far) do have some sound and workable ideas. One Republican leader felt it was safe enough not even to whisper when he told me, "I think about 80% of this plan is sound."

But he and others in both parties who agree with the Democratic governor in principle said they would like to see these positive aspects separated from the whole and taken up in proper detail and deliberation. That would bypass some of the elements they find alarming, such as the plan to eliminate most of middle management's responsibilities.

Why isn't that a good idea? "Because that's where the people who really run the agencies work," said one harsh critic who wasn't harsh enough to avoid whispering. "They are the trained workers, those who are the most experienced, the most efficient, the people who know how to manage the operation. Does it make sense to get rid of the engine that runs the machine? Not in my book."

But by eliminating the jobs of 200 or 300 state workers, it would meet the current public demand to cut spending. A tempting prospect. Most lawmakers might be a lot more willing to sacrifice other workers than to give the voters a big reason for sacrificing them at the next election. Besides, what's only a couple of hundred state jobs? Peanuts.

One thing all this illustrates is the fact that the Legislature is so easily intimidated it sometimes doesn't look like a separate branch of government. The public's anti-government climate has led to such persistent bashing that an atmosphere of caution, verging on fear, fills the Legislative Building. Everybody has been tip-toeing through this session, speaking softly so as not to stir up that wild mob called voters, the people who put them there but don't trust them.

There have been no bold positions taken, no memorable statements made, no angry outbursts shattering the calm. The frustrated media, which thrives on clashes and conflict, have been reduced to reporting the unexciting but routine work of the session. Sure, vital to our daily lives, but dullsville. Page 27 instead of Page 1, 10 seconds on TV.

So don't expect to hear much static about reorganization from the Legislature. The lawmakers who don't like it still know enough not to come out against motherhood and apple pie. Or against one of the governor's pet projects. So he remains in the catbird seat.

Home is castle

Editor:

I am responding to the letter by James E. Schuyler in last week's edition. I am the owner of this house.

If my luxuriously large four-bedroom home is an alleged apartment building, or as rumor has it, hotel, bed and breakfast, casino, or church, what does that make the other homes in Section 19 that are larger with six-plus bedrooms? The other larger homes are maybe less imaginative on the outside, with the exception of the pyramid house.

Schuyler's accounting of the number of telephone jacks was inaccurate. There are many more than 12. Modern technology and relatively inexpensive equipment has made it possible for one's life to be more convenient and comfortable by having more electrical receptacles, TV, phone jacks and other gadgetry items placed so that if one chooses to move furniture around, one does not have to use fire hazardous and unsightly extension cords in order to keep the modern conveniences.

I happen to like the era in which ornate castles were built, which is why I designed this house. I have built other unique houses—different from the majority of less-imaginative, mundane houses that are usually built. Isn't it said that a man's home is his castle? My castle is my home!

I always fantasized that Michael Anthony from the TV show "The Millionaire," would knock on my door and give me a tax-free check for $1 million, and I would be able to build a big, beautiful house and it would be featured on "The Rich and The Famous" TV show. Your letter has given me, in a small way, fame. Could you perhaps really be Michael Anthony, in disguise, going to give me one million dollars?!

If you are jealous of my home because it is bigger than yours, maybe you need to consider getting a job, or an additional one, to make enough money to build a larger one. Or, if it's not jealousy, but just an excess of spare time, perhaps a hobby to occupy your time and mind would be helpful. A beautiful, innovative home can only increase the value of others in the area.

I have worked long and hard hours for many years to get where I am today to be able to afford to build "My Castle." My hope would be that others would appreciate my creativity and the right to express it. As an artist creates a piece of art on canvas, my intention is to create a piece of art in construction. Please, Mr. Schuyler, and any other concerned homeowners of Section 19, try to enjoy my home, my piece of art, for which it was intended.

All of us together on education

All of us together. The campaign to unit us, a campaign to remind us that we all have more that makes us the same than makes us different.

I believe that is a correct assessment. Sometimes, however, the things we want, the things that we see as important to us, are not that important to others, those things tend to divide us.

For instance, I was a strong supporter of Gov. Bob Miller during the last legislative session. I still believe he's doing a good job.

In fact, if the election were held today, I'd vote for him. However, the teacher re-licensure issue is an important educational issue, an issue that affects every child we send to school, an issue that costs no money. That issue has put me on a different side: It divides us.

The teachers union, NSEA, has used its political clout over the years. Am I opposed to the NSEA? If you've read some of my more recent articles, you might think so. The fact is, I am a member of NSEA and have been for 17 years. There are many issues on which I am in agreement with them, there are others that I am not. I'd like to see that professional organization out in front of issues. Instead of saying no, I'd like them to find a balance of protecting and working for their membership while helping kids very much like Bob Broniecki does with the Clark County's Teachers' Association.

Regarding the Homebuilders Association, there is no doubt we need homebuilders. And they have every right to live the American dream, make as much money as possible by packaging their products. I just think it's more appropriate for them to not only pay for what I believe is their fair share on impact fees—but I personally would like to have all their developments have low income housing mixed in, maybe 3%, maybe 5% of each development. It's clear to me if we don't want areas of blight, we have to integrate our neighborhoods with rich and poor. The poor need the ability to network as do the rest of us. Putting the poor in one corner of the city without the ability to make contacts, then wondering why a whole area is not kept up, with no businesses, without jobs, solves no problems.

Our local governments are asked to perform miracles, and for the most part, they do a good job. Yet, that has never stopped me for criticizing them over zoning issues. It strikes me that they are unduly influenced by a before-mentioned group. That does not mean they are not doing a good job trying to manage what some might see as an unbelievable period of growth.

Other issues that have the attention of the community include the Cities in Schools program, UNLV, the Prime 6 plan, the gaming industry's desire to go outside the state, and the nuclear dump site.

All of us together, that's pretty hard to remember when you are on one side of an explosive issue and the guy down the street doesn't have the same values, concerns or interests you do.

It's even more explosive when the disagreements are with people we have close ties to. You need look no further than the family; whether it be politics or religion, divisiveness comes easy.

A look at the former Soviet Union tells us the beauty of living in America is democracy, it's also a price that we all must pay—together.

Hanlon, a Las Vegas resident who writes a column about education, sits on the state Board of Education, is the administrator for the Clark County School District's Math/Science Institute and is a part-time instructor at UNLV.

Turning city into slum

Editor:

It has come to my attention that the Henderson Housing Task Force has been formed by our present City Council to make Henderson a slum.

This task force is playing with population densities and considering a proposal to build 7,500 apartments and 1,800 compact-lot housing (3,200 square feet per lot) in Green Valley and Green Valley South. (Hello, homeowners in The Fountains.)

Their premise for the compact lot is based on the fact that people do not want standard lots (6,000 square feet) to live and raise our families.

The real premise is: "12 homes per acre."

Here are some other numbers:

MacDonald Ranch, 2,400 compact lots, 900 apartment units; Whitney Ranch, 200 compact lots, 2,000 apartment units; The Lake, 1,600 compact lots, 1,000 apartment units; Mission Hills, 1,200 apartments. (These numbers are low estimates.)

This does not include the possibility of new zoning changes.

This special task force is made up of six developer representatives and six homeowners. One of these homeowners works for Al Collins, and another homeowner indirectly works for Legacy AI.

The last public meeting is slated for 6 p.m. April 28 at City Hall. WE NEED YOUR HELP. Any or all interested parties should call City Hall for confirmation.

Track deserves coverage

Editor:

As a student-athlete at Green Valley High School, I look forward to reading the sports page of your paper each week. However, each week I am disappointed due to the lack of coverage for the Green Valley track team.

As a member of the track team I feel that it is important to tell people how our team is doing.

For instance, both the boys and girls teams defeated Basic, Las Vegas and the Meadows High Schools on Tuesday, April 13, yet nothing has been mentioned in your paper.

Since the beginning of the season every school record for both the boys and the girls has been broken. To date, none of that has been mentioned on the sports page of your paper.

The track team at GVHS is one of the largest organizations our school has. At the beginning of the season there were 140 students out for the team, of which 99% still remain. Granted that track may not be as popular as baseball or softball, but it is still a varsity sport, and we practice and compete just as hard as those athletes of any other sport. Therefore, I think it is only fair that our team receive some coverage in your paper.

Our team encourages people to come and watch just part of our meets and witness the number of students that have made the commitment to do something other than to sit at home and watch TV after school.

No more harmony

Editor:

Our Elder Care Home overlooks the baseball fields of Basic High School. We have lived in harmony and enjoyed the students attending Basic. Now we see graffiti on our east wall. Those days of perfect harmony have drawn to a close. A sad day for the city of Henderson.

Workers Memorial Day April 28

Workers toil in an unforgotten environment of neglect, in a society that values wildlife over worker. Current statistics show that in Nevada a visit from an Occupational Safety and Health Administration inspector is a seldom occurrence, coming on average every 11 years.

Millions of workers, including state and local public employees in 27 states, have no OSHA protection, and no right to seek correction of dangerous workplace conditions.

America's commitment to its workers lags behind its commitment to wildlife. OSHA received $1.16 per citizen in funding this fiscal year. In comparison, the Fish and Wildlife Protection Service receive $4.40 per citizen, while spending for the environment works out to $28 per citizen. Certainly, natural resources need strong protection—but certainly workers deserve as much consideration.

Despite the promise of a safe and healthy workplace made in the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, one worker dies every hour of every day every year—10,000 per year overall. In addition, each year 6 million workers are injured on the job and 60,000 are permanently disabled. Tens of thousands of workers die each year from the long-term effects of such occupational diseases as asbestosis and brown lung.

In the past two decades, OSHA has set standards only on a handful of hazards. For many toxic chemicals, exposures to legal limits cause illness or even death.

This April 28, America's workers and their unions will gather to remember those killed or maimed on the job and to renew their commitment to "Fight for the Living." The focus of this fifth annual Workers Memorial Day is a major effort to correct the flaws of that 1970 law and fight for the OSHA reform so desperately needed by America's Workers.

Clearly the current system for protecting workers is weak and in need of change. There will never be enough OSHA inspectors to ensure that employers comply with the law—so workers must be given more of a voice in their own safety on the job.

Congress is now working on legislation that would move the nation closer to safe workplaces. Introduced last month, H.R. 1280 and S. 575 would require:

- Establishment of safety and health programs and training before job assignments, with annual retraining.
- Establishment of joint labor-management safety and health committees for workplaces with more than 10 employees.
- Immediate abatement of hazards, strengthened criminal penalties and a role for workers and their representatives in the settlement of citations.
- Establishment of a system of oversight and coordination on multi-employer construction projects and an office of construction safety at

OSHA.

• Coverage of state and local public employees now excluded from OSHA coverage in 27 states.

• The right to refuse unsafe work and protection from discrimination for reporting injuries, illnesses and unsafe conditions.

Tragedies can be prevented in many instances. In the absence of legislative reform, preventable tragedies like the fire at the Imperial Foods chicken plant in Hemlet, N.C., and the building collapse at L'Ambiance Plaza in Bridgeport, Conn., continue to occur.

A productive, stable economy depends on a safe and healthy work force. The United States should provide its workers with as safe an environment as it seeks for its wildlife.

NAFTA and a net

Mexico—the next South Korea? Dismiss the idea at your own economic peril. Quietly, without much fanfare, President Carlos Salinas de Gortari has built an Asian-style command-and-control society south of the border that is quickly transforming a sleepy Third World country into a fierce Latin American economic tigre. By keeping wages low for his high-quality labor force, Salinas has attracted $26 billion of U.S. investment in the past five years, half of it in bricks and mortar, generating jobs and income.

Therein lies the rub. Many of those jobs for Mexico's young work force may have come from the U.S., or so a growing number of American labor unions, economists, and politicians argue. Salinas needs the North American Free Trade Agreement to lock in his transformation of Mexico into an open, market-driven economy. The big question is whether America needs it.

It does. The economic imperatives driving American corporations to Mexico began without NAFTA and will continue without NAFTA, but they can be better mediated socially and politically with NAFTA. By going south, American companies have helped boost Mexican gross domestic product by nearly 60% since 1988.

But with all economic change, there is pain, and NAFTA is an opportunity to build a healing mechanism for the future.

In South Korea, it took about 10 years to move from a low-wage economy to a high-wage one—and that was within a military-dominated society. Mexico may surprise everyone and do just as well—or even better.

Whitney Mesa cleanup Saturday

The Whitney Mesa Educational Nature Preserve Committee will hold a cleanup event in the Whitney Mesa large canyon area from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

The area to be cleaned is from Russell Road to Galleria Drive.

Whitney Mesa Committee members have been working for several months to obtain donations from local businesses for goods and services to help the cleanup effort.

The main goal of the committee is to prepare the land, which is owned by the Clark County School District, in this canyon area of the mesa for an eventual "outdoor laboratory" or Nature Preserve for all the students of the Clark County School District, a spokesman said.

It is important to preserve this area because it is the only "ecosystem" of its type left in the area, the spokesman said.

A large-scale cleanup of the Mesa area was conducted in 1991, under the direction of Terre Maize, former Environmental Compliance Manager for the Clark County School District Environmental Services section. Many junk cars were lifted from the Mesa, along with other large pieces of discarded trash.

The area has running water and many species of plants and animals, including a rare species of bird "Phainopepla," which is soon going to have "endangered species" status.

Many of the committee members have met monthly to figure out ways they could create a nature preserve for the students of Henderson and Las Vegas. Money is a big problem, committee members said, since the group has to find outside sources of funding.

The committee has been working closely with the Henderson and Las Vegas schools located close to the Mesa, such as White

Valley High to present 'Godspell'

The Valley High School Little Theatre, 2839 S. Burnham Ave., will present "Godspell" at 7 p.m. April 22, 23, 29, 30 and May 1.

Admission is $5 in advance and $7 at the door.

Conceived and originally directed by John-Michael Tebelak, with music and new lyrics by Stephen Schwartz, Godspell will be directed by Linda B. Cacioppo.

A celebration of the Gospel as told by St. Matthew, "Godspell" features pantomime, children's games, charades, puppetry, vaudeville, the question-answer techniques of minstrel shows, tap dancing, songs and music.

Middle School, Green Valley High School, Treem Elementary School, Thorpe Elementary School and Vo-Tech High School.

Saturday's clean-up will remove small debris, such as broken glass, aluminium cans, papers and other garbage that remains in the main wash area of the Mesa. School children will also be involved in the effort.

Committee members would like to thank the following organizations and businesses for their help: Southern Nevada Clean Communities, IT Corp., REECO, Petroleum Technologies, PASCO Demolition, Wackenhut Services, the Department of Energy, Sparkletts, the Clark County Fire Department, Silver State Disposal and Southland Corp.

For more information about joining the Whitney Mesa Educational Nature Preserve Committee or about the cleanup, call Zoe Cichocki, 799-0985.

Health District celebrates immunization week

National Preschool Immunization Week, April 24-30, will be celebrated at the Clark County Health District with a variety of events targeting complete immunization of preschoolers by age 2.

The Health District now provides about 70% of childhood immunizations in the county. Routine immunizations are recommended for eight serious and sometimes fatal childhood diseases. The recommended vaccination schedule begins at 2 months and is completed by age 5, with booster shots later.

While most children complete their vaccination schedule by the time they enter kindergarten, many preschool-aged children are left unprotected—up to 40% of our infants and preschoolers.

The following activities are planned by the Health District:

- Monday: Immunization Day at First Presbyterian Preschool on Monday, April 26, especially for preschool-aged children.

- Tuesday: A new well-baby and immunization clinic site opens on Maryland Parkway. The clinic will be held the second and fourth Tuesday of each month, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 3101 S. Maryland Parkway (north of Desert Inn). Immunizations are free, and no appointment is needed.

- Wednesday: Sandy Miller, wife of Gov. Miller, will visit the immunization clinic held at the Lakes.

- Saturday: The first drive-thru shot clinic opens in front of the Health District. Parents can drive children through the clinic for quick and convenient shots. The clinic will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Preschool Immunization Week, contact the Health District, 383-1301. For more information about

Earthwalker speaks to children

By Roy Theiss
News Staff Writer

A man who walked around the world and is now in the Guinness Book of World Records spoke on Thursday to students at Gibson Elementary School about his adventures.

Twenty-three years ago, David Kunst set out on a 14,500-mile walk around the world which took more than four years. He is the first person verified to have walked around the world.

Although Kunst's trek culminated in October 1974, he still gets excited telling his stories. "I never get tired of talking about it."

Kunst cites two reasons for telling his globe-trotting stories to children. "I tell the children the world is open to them. If you make up your mind, you can do anything."

Kunst starts his presentation displaying a large world map. Then he shows the school children numerous slides from around the world. Kunst's journey included traveling across 13 countries on four continents.

The second reason Kunst gave for story-telling is to show the children how lucky they are compared to others. "I want to give them an appreciation of what they have. I ask them how many have breakfast, lunch and a snack after school."

"I tell them about the children

in India who probably had no breakfast or lunch and definitely won't have a snack after school because they don't have a school to go to." Kunst, who lives in California now, said he likes the schools in the Green Valley neighborhood.

By Chuck Colletta

Ticky Tacky Punch Party

Get out those old grubbies including worn out bathrobes, big fluffy slippers, holey overalls, the atrocious hat you have never worn, hair curlers, shirts loud enough to be heard, plaid pants, neckties that would stop a clock, and old leisure suits.

Put them on and come to the Henderson Senior Center at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, April 28, for the first-ever Ticky Tacky Punch Party. Featured will be entertainment by the Young at Heart Senior Band, a special punch to commemorate the day, and a parade of the most tickiest tackiest dressed people in the whole world. ## Fired up Wolves torpedo Cowboys

UP AND DOWN — Basic's Anthony Liscio chips to the flag on the third hole at Black Mountain Tuesday. Liscio used consistency to score his best tournament round of the year, a 37. Besides medalist honors, he led the Wolves to a 204-213 upset victory over favored Chaparral.

Personal-best scores startle Chaparral, Basic coach as Basic posts 204-213 upset

By Terry Carter
News Sports Editor

On a perfect day, Basic golfers played the perfect host to Chaparral at Black Mountain Golf and Country Club.

In short, the Wolves (4-4 overall, 4-2 in Sunrise) carded three personal-best, tournament scores and the team's lowest team score by far. What shocked Basic golf coach Dennis Smuskiewicz more than anything else were his two low scores.

"In my wildest dreams, I didn't think we could shoot like this and beat Chaparral! All along, I've known we couldn't touch Chaparral and Green Valley," Smuskiewicz announced. "Anthony [Liscio] and Jay [Ensworth] both were six or seven shots better than a typically good round for them."

Liscio consistently hot
Liscio shot a sterling 1-over-par 37 at Black Mountain to take the medalist honors for the first time. Chaparral's top scorers, normally shooting close to par, were Jason Doolen with a 40 and J.L. Rubenstein's 41, Smuskiewicz added.

Typically averaging 43 on Basic's home course, Liscio used a deliberately soft swing to open with eight straight pars. With the deliberate swing, Liscio controlled a fade that can cause him problems.

He handled the normally tricky par-3s without much difficulty and reached his best tournament score easily, despite a bogey on the ninth hole.

"Potentially he could shoot that number, but I didn't expect it," his coach said. "After his match, Anthony said, 'I've hit the ball good before, but this was different. Have you ever hit the ball and had it go where you wanted it to every time?'"

Ensworth fires career best

A serious sophomore golfer, Ensworth fired his career-best 38 after birdieing the first hole like a professional. He boomed a drive down the middle on the short par-4, chipped up and dropped a short putt, Smuskiewicz said.

Putting cross-handed, Ensworth posted an occasional bogey the rest of the way around the par-36 layout to fire his 38.

Those surprise scores vaulted the Wolves over the Cowboys on an off-day for Chaparral. Basic's two most consistent shotmakers, Ben Browning and Jakob Jensen, struggled early but still complemented Liscio's and Ensworth's heroics.

Jensen bogeyed his first three holes and then parred out for a 39, which is his lowest tournament round of the year, Smuskiewicz added. Browning, typically Basic's medalist, hit his first shot out-of-bounds, but he bounced back to fire a 40.

Future goals, dreams

The Wolves' final score came from senior Kyle Watts, who shot a routine 50 to round out the team surge. The total of 204 and the upset win over heavily favored Chaparral both left Smuskiewicz smiling from ear to ear.

"You talk about an over-achieving group. Before we played, I jokingly told the kids we would need 35, 36, 39, 40 from our top kids to beat Chaparral — and they almost matched it," the Basic coach added. "This win was a real key for us in the Sunrise race to get our team to Zone."

With the win, Basic is tied with Chaparral (5-3, 4-2) as the second round of matches continues, and Eldorado (5-3, 3-3), competing with the Wolves for the fourth and final playoff spot, is a game back.

Smuskiewicz figures the Wolves' win over will give Basic a boost over Eldorado in its race for the final team spot.

"It was kind of like the old days when we were 17-1 and everyone worried about us. We can't assume anything though. That's probably what Chaparral did," he added. "It's just unbelievable!"

Basic hitters spank Gators

By Terry Carter
News Sports Editor

Playing at home Monday, Basic dominated Green Valley on the volleyball court for a key 15-9, 15-12 victory.

In a highly competitive Sunrise Division, some called the result an upset. When the teams met in the first round of Sunrise play, the Gators (7-3 overall, 6-2 in Sunrise) won in three games with depth and power hitting.

This time Basic — with the addition of prime-time hitter Matt Campbell since the first Henderson battle — controlled the tempo and squashed the Gators' comeback attempt in the second game. "We did block well, and Green Valley fought really hard," Basic head coach Lance Cooper said. "It was great watching the grins on their faces after we won."

The win puts the Wolves one game behind GV in the Sunrise race. Chaparral (9-1, 7-1) and Valley (10-1, 7-1) are leading the league. The top four teams in each division will advance to the Zone tournament in May.

Basic (8-3, 5-3) middle Chris Wilson turned in one of his best performances of the year with 14 kills and seven solo blocks. Campbell complemented the effort by smashing six kills from the outside hitter spot. In the process, Wolves' setter Scott Bailey had a "tremendous game" setting, the coach added.

Recent addition Matt Meisner also had a good day blocking GV spikes Monday, and Jeremy Brandon passed exceptionally well, Cooper said.

Strategy moves

GV got its big hits from middle Marc Westmoreland, but star player Kerry Sagers suffered a mediocre hitting game. Using a variety of techniques, the Wolves humbled GV by blocking its hits solidly for points.

After the Wolves began blocking well, the Gators began tipping the ball over the net. But again, the Wolves came up with the ball.

Cooper could not recall any serving statistics, but he said his squad missed several serves while attempting to place more difficult shots in the court. The Gators responded by passing precisely to setter Seth Erby on good serves.

TEAM WORKS — Matt Meisner (12) and Jeremy Brandon (11) played a significant role in Basic's win over Green Valley Monday at home. The Wolves came out blocking all Gator hitters and rolled to a 15-9, 15-12 win.

Henderson lady bowlers to meet

A meeting has been scheduled Wednesday, April 28, at 6:30 p.m. at the Henderson Senior Citizens Center, 27 E. Texas St., to decide whether the women league members scheduled to bowl in the two soon-to-open bowling centers in Henderson will remain sanctioned by the larger Las Vegas Women's Bowling Association or recharter and reinstate the Henderson WBA.

The Henderson WBA was disbanded more than seven years ago when it lost its only bowling center.

There are pros and cons to this issue, and all bowlers who plan to bowl at the new Henderson Centers should make plans to attend.

strike." Nard said two main reasons for employees to strike are pay and benefits. "If we strike and they hire replacements, we're permanently out the door even if we decide to work out the strike." He said even during a strike, a company is still making money while the employees are not on the payroll. "They're making money when they're open and we're not."

Nard would even concede hiring temporary workers during the strike. "I can see bringing scabs in but when there's an agreement, workers should have the right to go back to work. After we settle, there's a handshake and we're back to work. We give them eight hours work for eight hours pay." The Chamber's legislative subcommittee opposition is contrary to both state and federal governments' opinion on prohibiting hiring striking employees. At both levels of government, legislation is in the process to change the current allowance of hiring permanent replacements for strikers.

Gibson said business is concerned with President Bill Clinton's proposed changes in the labor laws. "Despite what happens at the national level, we need to avoid what could be the ruin of the state. ...

Bryce: What a grand canyon!

A giant tree frames the beauty of Bryce Canyon, which recently still boasted a frosting of winter snow, above.

The canyon is located just a few hours northeast of Henderson via Interstate 15, right. Lodging, services, recreation and entertainment enlighten the small town which services the rim.

The chameleon-like Bryce Canyon is constantly changing colors throughout the day, as the rising and setting sun ignites the shades of red, pink and orange within the spires, above center.

Mother Nature must like curve balls, and it looks like she indeed had a ball with the Southwest. Arizona's Grand Canyon. California's Death Valley. Nevada's Valley of Fire. Niches in this great Earth so inspiring and awesome, words are limited in their description. Their landscapes challenge human endurance, while their beauty challenges our comprehension of life.

It's almost as if She's daring us to take a jump into their colorful splendor. Scale a ragged cliff. Climb among the harsh extremes. Drink of their dangerous beauty.

Add Utah's Bryce Canyon to that list.

Just a few hours northeast of Henderson, Bryce is a massive canyon wretched into colorful spires by the wraths of wind, rain and erosion.

Mother Nature did a job on this one, for Bryce Canyon is never the same, from hour to hour, day to day, century to century. As the elements continue to swath against and between its walls, the spectacle is forever changing, a little here, a little there. Bryce rearranges its colorful personality with the rising and setting of the sun, and alters its mood to echo the rolls of a thunderstorm or the dementia of the summer blaze.

It is this schizophrenic beauty that makes Bryce Canyon so dazzling, so mesmerizing at any time of year.

With Spring finally here, the warm breezes and wild flowers are beckoning us outside. The flirtatious sun and clear skies can only mean one thing: Road trip! Even our Michels are begging for some excitement.

This is the one time of year we can enjoy touring in the family wagon without sticking to the seats, or cursing ourselves because we left the snow tires in the garage. In other words, it's just time to go!

Bryce Canyon is nestled in the Southwestern corner of Utah, in what is fondly called "Color Country" — a collection of national parks and phenomena which includes Bryce, Zion and Great Basin National Parks, the Grand Canyon, Lake Powell and Kodachrome Basin.

Bryce Canyon, and its neighboring natural delights, are all easily accessible by road: Follow Interstate 15 northeast into Utah and take either one of two scenic routes to the canyon. Highway 9 escorts drivers through the splendor and richness of Zion National Park, and Highway 143 passes through the southern tip of Cedar Breaks National Monument, a mini Bryce Canyon in the midst of Dixie National Forest.

If you've got a few bucks to spare and would rather have a pilot do the driving, give Las Vegas Air a call. The tourist line started daily trips to Bryce Canyon earlier this month.

Whether by plane, car or even mountain bike, the spirals and pinnacles of Bryce Canyon will take your breath, mind and soul far, far away.

I'd Rather Be Boating

By Don Holladay

I have always encouraged the reader/boater to attend and pass the various safety courses offered here in Clark County. On the other hand, I look at the Lake Mead boater's record of accidents and fatalities, they are minimal; especially for the large number of boats seen using those waters.

In 1991 Lake Mead boater-related fatalities were reduced to zero. Boat-related injuries dropped from 35 to 25, while property damage dropped more than 50%. While many members of the Coast Guard and the U.S. Power Squadron might credit their safety classes, I credit the boat owners themselves.

Recent fatalities include a woman assumed falling from a boat, a diver who ran out of air and a boat hitting either a rock or floating object near Willow Beach. Possibly one "skipper" error.

I don't deny boating safety is improved with education, but on the other hand, the regular boater having a large investment plus loves boating, pays attention as a captain, and stays out of "harm's way."

So if one looks back over the past 25 years or so, one sees an area nearly void of boating-related fatalities and accidents. A proud record for that long-time and well-experienced Lake Mead boater.

But now welcome to the 90's. First of all we are about to see an onslaught of "personal watercraft." To this point, watercraft operators are uneducated marine travelers who basically are thrill seekers. They look for the biggest wake on the lake so it can be jumped; thus putting both himself and the big boat in jeopardy. They are not required to take any safety classes. They are sold or rented the vehicle based only upon the ring of a cash register. Basically the same thing most marine dealers have done for years. I have rarely heard a new boater remark that his dealer recommended a marine safety course prior to putting the boat in the water.

This new breed of marine hot rods is a vehicle all boaters, swimmers and scuba divers must be aware of. They will suddenly arrive in your quiet "non-posted" cove, tear up the silence, water and seclusion, and then be gone. If you are a large boat, they will lie in wait as you depart your marina. They want your wake. I know, "why not, nobody else wants it."

It is this group that will do very little, if any, reading or listening on the subject of safety and the courtesies of boating. Of course, the adult "jet skier" who owns the large boat is a different boater entirely. Normally, he is aware of his boating responsibilities.

It is now time for the state of Nevada to start plans for testing and issuing a certificate to those who can qualify as "skippers." One certificate could qualify the person to operate any private pleasure craft being used on the lakes and rivers within Nevada's jurisdiction. This certificate to be issued following a modified class, with minimal charge being taught by the Coast Guard or Power Squadron.

The Lake Mead Boat Owners meeting is at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Lake Mead Marina. I do hope the "Marina" welcomes the LMBOA with more respect and concern than it did for the March meeting. It was a bit insulting to a group of boaters who spend some pretty good bucks at those docks.

The guest speaker for this meeting is Mario Stadlander of the Personal Watercraft Association of Southern Nevada. You see, after the above paragraphs, I'm already in trouble. You know it is going to be a meeting of much discussion and opinion.

In addition, there will be the "Steve Lennon" raffle for a couple of bottles of spirits. And last, but not least, there is a board of directors election Sunday. There are six seats up for filling. On the ballot will be Frank Beers, Judy Critz, Gene Hertzog, Barbra Lennon, Steve Lennon, "Cactus" McHarg, Gordon Mehafy, Carol Reed and John Tourabéne. Nominations will remain open. The board no longer meets separate from the membership, and it has made these meetings more interesting for all concerned, mainly, because all concerned can speak their piece to all attending.

Try to make it this Sunday. It will be fun, controversial and informative. What more could a boater ask for?

Some excellent weather projections are predicting a very hot summer for this valley come June. Though this wind won't settle down, I suggest you plan for your best boating commencing now. Summers can be hot on the lake, but when experts feel it could be hotter than hot, it is time to enjoy and leave July and August to the fish and birds. Regardless...

"I'll See You On The Lake..."

Women's bowling meeting Wednesday

The women of Henderson will once again have their own bowling association with two bowling centers, The MacNamee Mining Lanes and Sunset Lanes which will be open for league bowling June 1 and Aug. 1.

An important meeting to reorganize the Henderson Women's Bowling Association will be held in the Henderson Senior Center, 27 E. Texas, at 6:30 p.m. April 28. It is important that everybody interested in joining a league in Henderson attend the meeting, a spokesman said.

Bud Lang, owner and manager of both houses, has indicated he will attend to answer any questions and help in getting off to a great opening, the spokesman said.

Henderson to host Special Olympics

Special Olympics is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, and the host city for Clark County's 1993 games will be Henderson.

Opening ceremonies and the "Parade of Athletes" are scheduled to begin at Green Valley High School, at 5 p.m. Friday, April 30. The public is invited to attend the ceremonies which will be presided over by Clark County Commissioner Bruce Woodbury.

More than 150 athletes participated in the 1992 competitions, hosted by Boulder City. Early response indicates even more will compete this year, a spokesman said.

The track and field, softball and powerlifting competitions will be held at Green Valley High School on Saturday and Sunday, May 1 and 2. The aquatics meets will be held that Sunday at the Lorin Williams pool facility, next to Basic High School.

The UNLV football team has volunteered to assist and cheer on the participants in the track and field competition. But an event of this magnitude requires many "helping hands." Church groups, civic organizations and private individuals are urged to participate as volunteers, contributors, sponsors and/or spectators. Donations of pizzas, fruit, sodas, etc. are especially needed.

Started by Eunice Shriver with the creation of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation in 1968, Special Olympics is an athletic and recreational program for the mentally challenged, age 8 and up. The goal of the program is to improve the self-image of mentally challenged children and adults through sports and recreation so that this confidence booster will carry over into all aspects of their lives, and enable them to live more independent and satisfying lives, a spokesman said.

Call Leola Foster 451-0150, or Shirley Buck, 293-3379, for more information.

Tiger's offense off to hot start 'Tops in Type' contest Saturday

ODDS AND ENDS FROM A SCORECARD...The baseball season isn't two weeks old and already the Detroit Tigers have scored 20 runs in two separate games. With their fire power it's not surprising. What is surprising is that Cecil Fielder, the majors RBI leader the last three years, drove in only two of the 40 runs.

Games with 20 runs were expected in Colorado but so far the closest is the 19 scored by Montreal.

From the go-figure-it department: Atlanta pitchers allowed only 27 runs in their first 11 games. Yet the offense produced only 24 runs. Going to San Francisco for a four-game set, the Braves lost the opener 6-1, won the second 2-0, lost the third 1-0 and then, on Sunday, erupted for 12 runs only to lose 13-12 in 11 innings.

Congratulations to Sparky Anderson on his 2,000th managerial victory. Seems like only

Brando's Turn

By Jim Brann

yesterday I was sitting in his kitchen doing an interview as he was getting ready to go to spring training as a newly hired San Diego Padres coach. With the story written and laid out prominently on the opening sports page of the Sunday paper which was prepared with a late Saturday afternoon deadline, it was off to the friendly tavern for a well-deserved cool one.

Settled comfortably at the rustic oak bar I was notified of a phone call on the dining room phone.

It was Sparky wanting to know when the story was going to run and I, as proud as a peacock, said be sure to pick up extra copies of the morning edition.

Well, he informed me, there might be a slight change needed as he was leaving town that evening for an important interview. Wouldn't or couldn't tell me where or why but would call as soon as possible.

The story was lauded by all, including the publisher who was located in Ventura, and I felt ecstatic reporting to work on Monday.

Because we were an afternoon paper we were deadlined at noon with only the front page being the exception for a remake if absolutely necessary.

I had a 1 p.m. interview with Dave Stockton, then a rising star on the PGA tour, at his Westlake Village home, so I hung around the newsroom a little longer than I normally would just to kill time.

Notified that I had a long-distance phone call I was surprised to hear Sparky say, "There's a news conference in two hours introducing me as the new manager of the Cincinnati Reds."

What great news and after congratulations, I notified the editor who said, "Give me five paragraphs right away."

As the papers rolled off the press enroute to homes, Sparky was holding his press conference. People in Thousand Oaks, Calif. would know about Sparky's good fortune before anyone else.

The neighborly thing to do.

After his 1978 firing from Cincinnati he took over the Detroit Tigers in 1979. He's the only manager to win the World Series for both leagues and now stands sixth on the all-time managerial list.

Spectacular accomplishments for a guy who played only one season in the majors and most of his career in the International League.

Next week: A look at a wide open Kentucky Derby and this corner's selection which will put some moolah in our pockets.

And, that's as far as I go.

Brann, a Henderson resident, writes a column about the sports world.

Athletic scholarships available

More than 100,000 collegiate athletic scholarships are available each year to male and female high school and junior college student athletes.

Contrary to popular belief, students don't have to be all state to qualify. Much of this money goes unused.

A new publication with forms, sample letters and tables of information is available for student-athletes. It takes them step-by-step through the process of getting an athletic scholarship and includes college and conference listings.

For information on how to get a collegiate athletic scholarship, send a #10 self-addressed, stamped envelope to the National Sports Foundation, 611A Willow Drive, P.O. Box 940, Oakhurst, N.J. 07755.

A scene like this will hit the Green Valley Athletic Club this weekend as the Budweiser 4-Man Volleyball Tour comes to Henderson.

Green Valley Athletic Club to host volleyball tour

The high-speed action of 4-man pro beach volleyball will kick off the summer beach season Saturday and Sunday when the Budweiser 4-Man Volleyball Tour hosts the $35,000 Outdoor Products Shootout at the Green Valley Athletic Club in Henderson.

The tournament is the second of a 12-stop nationwide tour in 1993 offering more than $420,000 in total prize money.

In its third season, the Budweiser 4-Man Volleyball Tour combines the best of the six-man indoor game and the two-man beach game and features a sophisticated offense, long rallies and dramatic digs, a spokesman said.

Five teams comprised of Olympians, current and former National Team members, collegiate All-Americans and beach professionals will compete in round-robin play both days and feature some of the biggest names in the sport.

Two-time Olympic medalist

Scott Fortune will captain Team Ocean Pacific. Fortune, a former All-American at Stanford, earned a gold medal in the 1988 Olympic Games and a bronze in Barcelona as Olympic team captain in 1992. Other two-time medalists (gold and bronze) Doug Partie and Bob Ctvrtlik will lead Team Speedo and Team Champion, respectively. All three also compete on the Italian indoor professional volleyball circuit.

Two-time Olympic gold medalist ('84 and '88) Craig Buck, known as one of the most dominant middle blockers in the world, will also compete along with former U.S. National Team powerhouse Allen Allen (captain of Team Paul Mitchell) and top beach pros Jeff Williams (captain of Team CLUB Sportswear) and Rudy Dvorak.

Among the 12 cities nationwide the Budweiser 4-Man Tour will visit are Phoenix, Clearwater Beach, Fla., and new sites Cape Cod, Mass., St. Louis and Louisville, Ky.

"Pro beach volleyball is enjoying an unprecedented rise in popularity and the Budweiser 4-Man Volleyball Tour is earning its share of fan support," said August Busch IV, vice president of Budweiser Brands. "We are looking forward to supporting the growth of 4-man beach volleyball and to bringing the tour to new sites in 1993."

ESPN has committed to produce a one-hour telecast from each of the tournaments. The shows will air nationally beginning June 9.

In addition to the five team sponsors, other tour sponsors include title sponsor Outdoor Products and product sponsors Evian Waters of France, Bausch & Lomb, Mikasa Sports and Forester Net Systems and local sponsors XTRA-FM and the San Diego Reader.

The tournament will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, with the championship match scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday. The event is free to the public, handicapped-accessible and family-oriented.

Fund-raiser to help Women's Development Center

The Mesquite Club with the Women's Development Center will hold its "Wish Upon A Star" fund-raiser at the Rio Hotel & Casino at 6:30 p.m. April 24.

The honoree will be Lt. Governor Sue Wagner with Deborah Campbell from KVVU-TV 5 to emcee the program. There will be a silent auction, raffle drawing and music by the Jerry Blake Orchestra.

All proceeds from the "Wish Upon A Star" fund-raiser will benefit the Women's Development Center, a non-profit organization founded in 1987. For information and reservations, call 870-6007.

Family History

Family Search now available in public libraries

By Ralph T. Briggs
Genealogist and Historian
 Family Search is now available in 16 libraries, including libraries in New York City, Cincinnati, Fort Wayne, Tampa and Dallas. It is also to be found in some research libraries affiliated with the New England Historic and Genealogical Society, Sons of the American Revolution, Western Reserve Historical Society, and Sutro branch of the California State Library. Other libraries interested in obtaining Family Search may contact GeneSys (exactly as titled) at (800) 222-3762.

Future of Ancestral File Notes: From time to time, we receive reports that the Family History Department is planning to drop support for PAF or possibly discontinue the product. Such reports may stem from the fact that we have not released any upgrade of PAF for several years and production and support for the CP/M and Apple II versions have been discontinued. The Family History Department continues to support PAF in its MS-DOS and Macintosh (both copyrighted) versions. A "maintenance update" for the MS-DOS version, which corrected some bugs in the program, was released in August 1991. Future upgrades are planned and will be announced at a future date. TDD Support—PAF support now offers TDD Service for the hearing-impaired. Those wishing to use this service should call (800) 240-2584.

The other half cover compiled sources or personal knowledge. The following table shows nations with the largest increase of names:

Names in Millions
Nation	1988	1992
Canada	.82	1.45
Denmark	3.37	4.15
England	47.16	56.34
France	1.79	2.94
Germany	18.64	23.01
Ireland	1.11	1.44

Switzerland	1.96	4.00
United States	18.66	31.47
Wales	1.36	2.02

Realignment of New Regions in the 1992 IGI: The regions in the IGI have been reorganized: Africa, Asia, Central America, South America and Southwest Pacific are now separate regions. Ireland is arranged by county but also has an "All Counties" section. Purchasing the IGI: Individuals may now buy microfiche copies of all or part of the index. Order forms are available at the Family History Library and most branch Family History Centers.

Army College Fund increases

The U.S. Army has announced an increase to $30,000 in the maximum amount of money for college available to qualified men and women who enlist for the Army College Fund option.

According to Lt. Col. Wayne H. Stephens, commander of the U.S. Army's Phoenix Recruiting Battalion, this will increase the over $14 million that new soldiers in Arizona and Southern Nevada qualified for last year.

This substantial boost from the previous maximum of $25,200 for a four-year enlistment was initiated, with Congressional approval, to restore the fund's buying power to its fiscal year 1985 level, or when the present Army College Fund started. College money is a potent enlistment incentive for the Army in attracting higher-quality recruits. Last fiscal year 100% of new Army recruits were high school graduates, while 78% scored in the top half of the entrance aptitude test.

The $30,000 amount, like its $25,200 predecessor, is a special incentive which is created by combining money from the Montgomery G.I. Bill ($13,200) with a $1,200 contribution from the soldier, and the remaining $15,600 provided by the new Army College Fund. Similar increases have been made for a three-year enlistment providing $25,000 for college, and a two-year enlistment providing $20,000.

Annual college costs have been rising since the start of the Montgomery G.I. Bill in 1985. A year of college then was about $5,000 for public colleges and nearly $10,000 for private institutions. Currently a year of public college costs an average of $7,600, while a private institution will cost about $16,300. By 1995 these expenses are expected to jump to $11,000 and $23,700 respectively.

As college expenses have increased, so has the importance of a college education to success in many career fields. At the same time, sources for funding a college education have declined. Some have experienced near collapse. A new Army College Fund provides qualified individuals opportunities to obtain guaranteed funding for college.

A soldier who successfully completes a four-year enlistment with the money for college option would have $833.33 per month for each of the 36 months that make up four years of college, based on a nine-month academic year. The money may be used for any schooling approved by the Veterans administration, including vocational-technical trade schools.

To qualify for the increased Montgomery G.I. Bill and the increased Army College Fund, an individual must have a high school diploma, achieve a score of at least 50 on the entrance aptitude test, enlist in a designated critical job skill, have no prior military service, and meet other enlistment eligibility requirements.

Army recruiters in the local area are ready to discuss the increased money for college option with interested individuals. They are listed in the telephone book under U.S. Government.

Campaign finance bill introduced

The first campaign finance bill of the 1993 legislative session was introduced Friday in the Assembly. AB 505, proposed by Secretary of State Cheryl Lau, was referred to the Committee on Elections and Procedures.

Lau's bill would lower the threshold for reporting campaign contributions from the current $500 to $100. The measure also proposes increased regulation of political action committees. In addition, Lau is calling for clearer disclosure on all political advertisements and publications so the voters know who is paying for the materials.

"The Nevada Legislature made a commitment to open campaign laws many years ago," Lau said. "AB 505 continues that tradition and gives the average voter even more say in how campaigns are run."

According to Lau, other campaign measures will soon be introduced by individual members of the Legislature. "We are definitely on the same wavelength, which means Nevada is going to see some good campaign legislation this session," she added.

LOGARITHMS

By Bill Hanlon

Last week we solved "exponential equations." The strategy we used to solve those was to make the bases the same, set the exponents equal, and solve the resulting equation. Piece of cake.

I bet you wondered all this week what would happen if you could not set the bases equal? Well, today we'll find out.

Before we do that, I need to show you another way of writing an exponential. We all know  $5^2 = 25$ . Another way of writing that is:  $\log_5 25 = 2$ . The way we say that is the log of 25 with base 5 is 2.

Oh Boy!! Stay with me, you need to know that a logarithm (abbreviated log) is an exponent. Say that a couple of times. A log is an exponent. A log is an exponent. Let's see if we have it. What's a log?

EXAMPLE: Re-write  $3^4 = 81$  as a logarithm.

Remember, a log is an exponent. What is the exponent? So we can say,  $\log = 4$ .

The log of what is 4? The 3 is the base in the exponential.

Now we have the  $\log_3 = 4$ . That means the log of some number with base 3 is 4. What the number, the only number left is 81. Therefore, we have  $\log_3 81 = 4$ .

EXAMPLE: Re-write  $10^2 = 100$  as a logarithm.

Again, a log is a what? An exponent. Let's identify the exponent; 2 is correct. What's the base? Yes, the base is 10. Therefore we have:  $\log_{10} = 2$ .

What number are we missing? 100.

Let's fill it in, the  $\log_{10} 100 = 2$ .

The important thing to remember is: A LOG IS AN EXPONENT. Keep that in mind when you are doing problems with logarithms and you'll just think they are peachy!

Let's say the same thing mathematically:

If a denotes any positive real number and b any real number except 1, then there is a unique real number, called the logarithm of a with base b ( $\log_a$ ), which is the exponent in the power of b that equals a; that is,

$$\log_b a = n \text{ if and only if } a = b^n$$

EXAMPLE: Re-write  $4^3 = 64$  as a log

Remember a log is an exponent.  $\log = 3$ . What's the base? 4 you say. OK, Let's fill in the numbers. We have  $\log_4 64 = 3$

Can you go backwards? In other words, if I gave you a logarithm, could you write it as an exponential? Sure you could. Look at the patterns we used to go from an exponential to a logarithm.

EXAMPLE: Re-write  $\log_2 8 = 3$  as an exponential.

Now remember, a log is an exponent. Therefore, our exponent is 3. What's the base? Yes, it's 2. We now have  $2^3 = 8$ .

Yes, math is a blast. You want another one. Well, OK.

EXAMPLE: Re-write  $\log_{10} 10000 = 4$

This stuff is so neat.

Now, let's put this in perspective. All we are doing is learning to write an exponential as a logarithm and a logarithm as an exponential.

The reason for doing this is so we can solve equations that we might not have been able to do otherwise.

Let's see what I'm talking about.

EXAMPLE: Find the value of x,  $\log_x 81 = 4$

Converting to an exponential, we have  $x^4 = 81$

$$x = 4\sqrt[4]{81}$$

$$x = 3$$

EXAMPLE: Find the value of x,  $\log_{16} 8 = x$

Converting to an exponential, we have  $16^x = 8$

$$\text{Changing the base } (2^4)^x = 2^3$$

$$\text{Simplifying } 2^{4x} = 2^3$$

$$\text{Set the exponents equal } 4x = 3$$

$$x = 3/4$$

Try this one on your own;  $\log_9 27 = x$

The answer is  $x = 3/2$

Problems involving logarithms are typically converted to exponentials. We then solve those problems the way we did last week.

As usual, I can't make the problems more difficult, I can only make them longer. If you think about some of the rules you have learned previously about exponentials, they you'll have a good idea of what the rules will be concerning logarithms.

Earth Day Picnic Sunday

The fourth annual Southern Nevada Earth Day Picnic, sponsored by UNLV's Environmental Studies Program and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, is set for noon to 5 p.m. Sunday on UNLV's Academic Mall.

The cost of admission is one empty aluminum can per person. Proceeds from recycling the cans will go toward scholarships for environmental studies and science students at UNLV and the Community College of Southern Nevada.

The first 1,000 people will receive a free one-gallon pine tree donated by Davis Nursery and Southwest Gas Corp.

Organizers have planned many educational and entertaining activities for people of all ages. In addition to a number of speakers and demonstrations, the day will include performances by the famous solar-powered band Clan Dyken from California, as well as a number of local groups, all on a solar-powered stage.

Food will be available at the picnic, or people may bring their own. Recognition of Nevada's congressional representatives and distinguished guests and an awards presentation are set for 1 p.m.

A Children's Pavilion will offer kids' activities that are both fun and educational.

Nevada Power Co.'s electric vehicle will be on hand, along with Southwest Gas Corp.'s compressed-gas-powered vehicles.

Tours of UNLV's Harry Reid Center for Environmental Studies and the UNLV Arboretum will be available.

Eureka hit with another flood four years later

By Phillip I. Earl

Continuing our history of the floods which bedeviled the community of Eureka a century ago, the big diversion canal constructed after the flood of 1874, which was successful in saving homes and property in the flood of 1876, became something of a public nuisance in later years.

Although county officials constructed several bridges over the waterway, drunks and absent-minded householders seemed unable to navigate them and several had to be rescued when they fell in. Children loved to play on the banks and they occasionally went in—clothing, bicycles and all. The main problem, however, was sanitary. Residents had taken to dumping garbage in the watercourse and it soon emitted "a most unsavory smell," in the words of a local editor. In his opinion it constituted "a beautiful starter for a first-class cholera season."

On August 20, 1875, the newsman wished for a small flood to clean it out, "one of say a hundredth part of that size," he wrote, referring to the 1874 flood. Six days later, he chided his readers for their lackadaisical attitude, informing them that he had taken a survey of 15 linear feet and found "4 dead dogs, 18 decayed hams, 14 1/2 dozen empty bottles, 17 1/2 pairs of old boots, 1 dead hog, 14 ditto pigs, 4 flannel petticoats, 13 hoop skirts, 8 chignons, 628 oyster cans, 416 fruit ditto, 301 sardine boxes, 18,244 old letters, 17 old hats, 128 pill boxes, 72 patent office reports, 78 1/4 dozen decayed eggs, 15 dead hens and 4 roosters, 6 1/4 cords stable refuse, 17 broken chamber utensils..."

This was only a surface survey, he reported, speculating that there were "at least half a dozen policemen and three or four mule trains" submerged in the lower depths.

In April 1878, a local merchant, Smith Harris, tried to get up a subscription fund to hire someone to clean out the ditch, but he got little response from his fellows and no help at all from property-holders, even those with children. A writer of a letter to the editor on May 3 suggested that it be filled and replaced with a "covered brick sewer" of such a size as to carry off flood waters. A county grand jury meeting in July concurred and appointed a committee to investigate the matter, but another flood just a month later demonstrated the continuing value of the ditch.

The citizenry had watched the clouds building to the south all day on Thursday, Aug. 15, but a panic ensued when the whistle at the Richmond works sounded the warning at 6:30 p.m. Thoughts of 1874 flashed across their minds, and a few men had the presence of mind to warn the residents of Buel and Spring Streets, the sections of town hardest hit four years earlier. The frightened householders grabbed their children and made for high ground.

The wall of water struck five minutes later, dividing just below the Richmond smelter and again being divided by Dr. Bishop's brick building and running down the ditch. Within a half-hour, the flood subsided. No lives were lost, but property damage was extensive. Flooded basements of business houses, tons of lost hay and fall firewood constituted the primary damage. Homes also suffered ruined carpets. The foundation of the Eureka Opera House settled several inches and fences were also swept away. The Eureka & Palisade Railroad depot was saved by a breakwater just south of the property, but three freight wagons and a number of carriages were destroyed. Although cleanup work was under way within an hour, the trials of Eureka's citizens were not over.

August 16, the next day, dawned bright and sunny, but black, towering clouds moving in over the mountains during the early afternoon alarmed residents of Spring and Buel Streets who were still cleaning up and they again removed themselves to higher ground. Panic and confusion reigned elsewhere when the Richmond whistle blew. The ditch was full by 1 p.m. and the rush of water picked up measurably. Dr. Bishop's building partially collapsed when the rushing waters undermined the foundations, and attorney George M. Sabine, who had his offices there, lost his law library and a cabinet of papers and records. Dunn & Kydd, assayers, with offices in the Bishop Building, had two furnaces washed away. Teamster Josh Alderson, caught in the flood enroute to Pinto, had his wagon destroyed, but managed to save his 16-horse team. Damages to the community were estimated at $75,000, but again there were no fatalities.

As it happened, much of the rain that day had fallen in the form of hail, covering Pinto Summit to a depth of 14 inches. Had it come down as rain, the flood would have been much more serious. A teamster on the summit the previous day later said that two-thirds of the flood passed down the other side and it was generally agreed that the particular positioning of the storm the next day also helped to save the town.

The watercourse, so maligned in the past, did the job it was designed for. "Let there be no more talk about filling the big ditch," the editor of the Sentinel commented a few days after the most recent round of flooding. "It was due to the great canal that hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property was not destroyed during our recent watery experience."

The ditch is still there, much neglected and overgrown with weeds when this writer stopped by in August 1990, but apparently ready to serve again. In driving south, I found a driveway blocking the ditch. Hopefully, county officials have taken care of this.

A minister's dilemma

By Dr. Ed Swain
Community Church of Henderson

I am sitting here with a deadline for this article feeling totally inadequate. I know I should be writing something brilliant to help all of us deal with the events that are occurring around us. But I don't feel very brilliant. As a matter of fact, I feel just plain helpless.

Right now, it seems that all the great theological terms like love and hate and hope and joy and all of the terms that a minister can always fall back on in time of crisis are all jumbled together. They are suddenly overshadowed with words like kill and riot and loot and verdicts and as many interpretations of justice as there are people to define it. This is a time when people who have never seen a gun or weapon are standing in line to buy them to protect their homes and families. Common sense is giving way to media-induced panic! Now is the time for all religions to join together and help everyone to find some sane answer to the hate that is born out of fear and ignorance of one another.

I just finished sharing the dilemma and sense of helplessness that I am feeling while talking on the phone with the lady who is soon to be my wife. She asked me the question: What if everyone in the world were color blind? All anyone could see was one shade of grey. Everyone would be the same color. At first that seemed to be the answer but then I thought would that have stopped us from wanting what our neighbor has? Would that have stopped men from enslaving other men, women and children? Would it stop brutality? Would it keep power-hungry persons from doing whatever it takes to gain more power and control over their helpless subjects? Would it stop all of us from cheating on our taxes? Would it stop a baby from being bayoneted in Bosnia or Serbia? This list of evils could go on and on.

The answer to any of these questions and many more is a resounding no! It is not a matter of what color we may be. It is a matter of attitude. So many have lost their self-respect. They have been told by others that I am the boss and you are nothing for so long that they believe it and act it. Then suddenly to finish the Abbot and Costello dialogue they realize: That makes the so-called boss, boss over nothing and that they are entitled to enjoy the same rights and freedoms that the boss has. All of us must remember that the struggle to improve our personal self-image does not give us the right to rob or loot or kill each other. This is true no matter what race, color, sex or creed we may be. We are created by God (no matter what name we call our deity). This means that we are all God's children and like it or not, we are all brothers and sisters and somewhere in the divine scheme of things we are all going to learn to live together and at peace with one another as God's family.

I have always felt that when God created his children, he made one big mistake. He thought that we would be big enough girls and boys to be able to make wise decisions. He gave us the right to choose. From the very beginning and up to the very present we are still making wrong choices. We choose the evil because it looks more attractive than good. We choose hate because at a given moment it can be a stronger emotion than love. We choose brute force because it is easier to destroy than it is to build. We choose war because it is a lot less complicated to kill each other than it is to reason together to find peaceful solutions to our problems. We choose to steal because it is easier than working to earn what we desire. We choose drugs and alcohol because it is easier for us to escape our problems rather than to face them and solve them. We turn our backs or hide our faces in the sand rather than face the serious issues of injustice and inequality and prejudice.

That is not the way that God dreamed that his children would go. That is why in every religion there are words like forgiveness and compassion and hope and love. Maybe not in the immediate future but hopefully, soon, all of us will learn that it is possible to choose good over evil, life over death, trust over distrust, sharing over greed, hope over hopelessness and peace over war and wanton destruction.

If there is any one good that is coming out of the trials and events in Los Angeles, it is this: More and more people of many religious faiths are joining together to strive to find lasting peaceful solutions that help change the existing tolerable or intolerable situations for all time.

"and this commandment we have from him, that he who loves God loves his brother as well."
1 John 4:21

Library Society sponsors pancake breakfast

Local politicians, entertainers, and sports figures will be flipping hotcakes at UNLV Sunday at the UNLV Library Society's first Celebrity Pancake Breakfast.

Set for 8:30 a.m. to noon in the Richard Tam Alumni Center parking lot on Maryland Parkway, the event will help raise money to build a much-needed new library at UNLV.

Organizers are hopeful that a lot of hungry people will show up to eat breakfast and watch some of the better known people in the community cooking flapjacks.

The cost is $2 per person, $10 per family, which includes breakfast and drawings for donated prizes.

Some of the luminaries who have agreed to serve include Attorney General Frankie Sue Del Papa, County Commissioner Thalia Dondero, tennis pros Steve Leary and Dan Knight, singers Bob Anderson and Sonny King, Secretary of State Cheryl Lau, all of the Southern Nevada members of the Board of Regents, entertainment columnist Joe Delaney, the Rev. Jesse D. Scott of the NAACP, state Sen. Sue Lowden and UNLV athletes. The Library Society's event will be part of a busy weekend at UNLV that includes a human-powered vehicle competition sponsored by the UNLV Chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the Earth Day 1993 Picnic.

The human powered vehicle event will begin on Friday, and will culminate with a road race at the Thomas and Mack Center on Sunday morning. The Earth Day Picnic is set for noon to 5 p.m. Sunday on the Academic Mall.

Budgeting for your buy: tips for new home-buyer

By Breese Cousins Rusk

With the warmer months of spring and summer quickly approaching, the thoughts of many cabin-fevered Americans turn to the dream of home ownership. Researched properly, this purchase can be the most joyful investment you ever make.

Although most of us are familiar with basic financing and the necessary down-payment, there are many less publicized costs involved in buying a home.

Many people don't account for the "little extras" and end up disillusioned with a home purchase. It is important to sit down with your real estate agent and make a list of all the costs you anticipate. Your agent can help you ensure that you aren't forgetting anything.

Following are some primary costs to consider when buying a home:

•EARNEST MONEY: In most cases, this is the first actual check you will write and varies from seller to seller. The funds are required as proof of your sincerity and desire to buy the home. Your money is placed in an account and applied to the final sale. If you follow the parameters set by the seller, you may receive all this money back if you decide not to buy the home. But, be sure to check with the agent and seller if your money is returnable.

•MORTGAGE APPLICATION FEES: You can check these costs by calling several lending institutions and comparison shopping. When applying, remember these fees are usually non-refundable. Also, see if a mortgage insurance policy is necessary and what it costs.

•POINTS: The most common method used to calculate a fee for a mortgage, points vary with mortgage programs, lenders and interest rates charged. One point is equal to 1% of the total mortgage loan amount. They are due to the mortgage lender at closing. Fees generally range from zero to five points. By paying more points, you often get a better mortgage rate. Contact lenders for their current rate and/or point structure.

•INSPECTION: It has become standard practice to have any home you are seriously considering checked for construction stability and needed repairs. Depending on the company, inspection costs range from $125 to $300. Request a written report from whomever you select. Your agent can usually recommend someone to provide this service.

•MORTGAGE INSURANCE: Costs vary; check with your lender. Private mortgage insurance can be avoided, however, if the buyer can afford a 20% down-payment.

•HOMEOWNERS INSURANCE: Prices depend on the value and location of the home and size of the lot. Comparison shop and find an insurance agent you trust. If you have any family heirlooms or expensive jewelry/artifacts, an additional rider policy should be purchased.

•TITLE FEES: These range from title search to title insurance and costs vary; ask your mortgage lender.

•DOWN-PAYMENT: This price generally ranges from 10 to 20% of the final sale price of the home but can be as low as 3%. When shopping for mortgages, find out the lender's policy.

•REAL ESTATE TAXES: Taxes can be obtained from the local assessor's office. Anticipate a ten percent increase each year. Payments are generally either made twice a year or integrated into your monthly mortgage payment to the bank. The method of payment is usually up to the buyer.

•LEGAL FEES: Again, these vary upon the lawyer you choose. Consider someone who is well-versed in real estate law and ask friends and family members for recommendations. Then ask the attorney what his or her rate is and how much time is anticipated to be spent on the closing.

•UTILITY HOOK-UPS: Determine what local utility companies charge for both new connections and discontinuing service in your previous residence. Deposits are usually required.

•MOVING CHARGES: Companies charge on an hourly basis by number of movers and distance. Expect to also pay for insurance, cartons and packing materials. Find out all additional charges to avoid a nasty surprise. Expect to call a few moving companies for estimate and get referrals before making a choice. You can save yourself considerable money by packing everything and moving all little packages yourself. Make sure the movers are bonded in case something is broken or damaged.

Don't be caught off guard when it comes time to buy "that perfect house." Sit down with an experienced real estate agent and discuss all the expenses related to purchasing a home. Remember, saving for these costs early in the hunting process is a lot better than being surprised when it comes time to apply for a mortgage.

Lecture to focus on Middle East

Steven L. Spiegel, professor of political science at UCLA, will be the guest speaker for the final event in the Dr. Harry L. Goldberg Jewish Lecture of the Jewish Federation of Las Vegas. He is the author of such well-known books as, "The Other Arab-Israeli Conflict: Making America's Middle East Policy, from Truman to Reagan."

The lecture will take place at Congregation Ner Tamid, 2761 E. Emerson Ave., and will begin at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, April 25. The Series is open to the public at no charge. Professor Spiegel has also published in many well-known magazines and journals including The New Republic, The National Interest, Commentary, Orbis, Middle East Insight, Middle East Review and International Studies Quarterly. He is frequently consulted by reporters for newspapers around the world, and he is interviewed on radio and television to discuss current world events, especially as they relate to American foreign policy in the Middle East.

Beadwork to be displayed

To bead or not to bead. That will be the question posed by the exhibit, "New Directions in Contemporary Beadwork," which will be displayed in the Winchester Center Gallery beginning April 29.

The show, sponsored by the Clark County Parks and Recreation Department and curated by the Center for the Study of Beadwork in Portland, Ore., will open with a reception 5-7 p.m. April 29.

Alice Scherer, director of the beadwork center, will give a public talk on contemporary beadwork after the reception. Partial funding was provided by a grant from the Nevada State Council on the Arts, a state agency.

The show will examine the often-startling range of artwork incorporating beadwork. The artists involved represent a nationwide cross-section of bead workers, and the art takes many forms, earrings, brooches, wall hangings, fine art pieces.

One of the more eye-catching pieces is Edward Derwent's "Purgatory." Inspired by Dante's "Divine Comedy," it is a cartoonish depiction of Purgatory, complete with mythological symbols, skeletons and tortured souls. It measures 84 inches by 54 inches, an unusually large scale for beadwork art.

Many works appear more traditional—the butterfly earrings of Elizabeth Bertuccio, for instance, or the Indian-themed purse by Edgar Jackson, titled "The Scout." Helen Rogers reached back into ancient Egypt for the idea behind "Cat Mummy."

Bead art can often be a vehicle for exploring deeply personal themes. Lindsay Obermeyer's "Cancer Cell," for example, reflects her struggle with that life-threatening disease.

Scherer has championed the beadwork cause for years, organizing the first serious exhibition of bead art in 1987. She also co-authored the recent book "The New Beadwork," a comprehensive survey of bead artists around the nation and world.

"New Directions in Contemporary Beadwork" is presented in recognition of 1993 as the Year of American Crafts.

The Winchester Gallery is located at 3130 S. McLeod Dr., just north of Desert Inn Road. Call 455-7340 for more details.

The show will hang through June 16.

Dear Debbie

By Deborah White

Dear Debbie: I'm so confused. I met this man during a break in a four-year-relationship. I've been seeing him for four months, but it's just a sexual relationship, about twice a month.

Why am I allowing this? And what can I do to change the situation? Is some sex better than no sex until I meet someone else?

—TOTALLY CONFUSED

Dear Totally Confused: It's easy to get hooked into good sex and there's certainly nothing wrong with it. But if it violates your moral code, or you think the man is just using you for sex, then it becomes self-destructive behavior.

You should never, ever allow anyone to make you feel bad about yourself and that's what this affair is doing. Work up your courage and stop seeing this man.

Get through the ordeal by keeping hyperbusy. Go out with your girlfriends, have dinner with mom. Don't be home for a second. It should take you a month or two to get back in control of yourself. Then you can resume your normal life and look for someone new.

Tell the man the truth. He may change things, but trust your own judgment. I do. This is an unhealthy relationship for you. Don't let it ruin even an inch of your life.

Dear Debbie: My boyfriend and I have been dating for four years. Our first two years we did things together, but these last two years it's like he doesn't have time for me.

He works a second shift. When he gets home he reads the newspaper. On days off he goes over to his friend's house to drink. The man is single and keeps all kinds of women there.

Sometimes my boyfriend calls to say he's on the way home and never shows up. The next day he calls and says he got high and stayed with his mother.

Now that I'm pregnant I really need him. He says he's going to change, but he hasn't. What should I do?

—CONFUSED

Dear Confused: When a man ignores you it means he wants out. You know that. Your pregnancy was an act of desperation, but it won't bring back your relationship.

You can't force someone to love you. All you'll get for your efforts is more abuse. Give it up. Have some self-respect and get out of there.

Go live with relatives until you have the baby if you have to. Get a lawyer to file for paternity, so he has to support you and your child. The court will take part of his wages if he doesn't cooperate.

I know you're really hurting now, but once you find someone who really cares you'll be sorry you saddled yourself with this loser.

Send letters to Dear Debbie, P.O. Box 119, Orlando, Fla. 32802-4367.

Horoscope

By Linda Black

Weekly Tip: Social activities conflict with more tedious chores the first part of this week.

Aries (March 21-April 19) You'd probably rather do just about anything than go to work. Find hidden money by talking to the person in charge of loans.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Your mental agility will improve. This gives you an advantage all week. Use it to help you get something you want.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) An excellent week for romance, and not bad for working. Write papers and catch up on your reading, too.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) It might be hard to concentrate, due to the chattering of a friend or lively group. Tell them to take it somewhere else!

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You should be able to soak up information, so do your most difficult job early.

Once Over Lightly

By Carolyn Drennan Bishop

I don't know about you, but I've never had a picture taken of me that didn't make me look like a visitor from a foreign planet.

It all began in kindergarten. Just as the class photo was taken, I caught my braid in the pencil sharpener. Don't ask! My mother has never forgiven me and neither have my classmates. Especially since the photographer was one of those snap and run types.

When I reached high school, every year until my senior year, my name appeared under a blank square. No explanation was necessary for those in the know.

I don't recall why my senior picture appeared. I do remember there was a surplus of unsold annuals that year.

Decades later, I showed that photo to my husband. "If I didn't know better," he said, "I'd swear you were the prototype for E.T."

Every five years when it's time to renew my driver's license, my spirits lift. Maybe this year I'll have a picture I don't have to keep hidden. Believe me, it's no fun living in terror every time you have to show your I.D. I will say that my last driver's license photo

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't spend too much on luxuries. You should be very efficient early in the week.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A good week for working on a creative project. If that's your job, you'll be in heaven! It's also good for shopping.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Take care of bureaucratic paperwork. You'll be in top form, although you may not feel like working.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) A club meeting could bring you together with a new best friend. Romance could result, if appropriate.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) One of your associates could be even more unreasonable than usual. Point out the areas that might not work.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You may feel like you have one foot nailed down all week. Just do the best you can.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) A gift you find could be perfect, but expensive! A primo week for learning new ways to make money. Start your own business.

If You Were Born This Week

Your challenge is to make money at your art! Practice, practice, practice! A partnership you're forming could be The One. Also study business management techniques. You may get to travel.

Judicial applicants sought

Chief Justice Bob Rose of the Nevada Supreme Court recently announced that the Commission on Judicial Selection is accepting applications for a future district court vacancy in the Eighth Judicial District, Clark County. Judge Carl J. Christensen will retire effective June 30, 1993.

Rose said he is hopeful that many attorneys will make application to the Commission for consideration as a candidate for appointment to this judicial position.

"The Commission is made up of lawyers, a judge and laypersons who consider each application objectively and on its merits." He urged that all those eligible to apply consider the matter earnestly.

Applications for the vacancy may be obtained from the Court Administrator's Office, Eighth Judicial District Court, or from the Commission Secretary. Applications will be accepted until 2 p.m., Tuesday, June 1. All applications should be sent to the Commission Secretary, Donald J. Mello, Administrative Office of the Courts, Supreme Court Building, Capitol Complex, Carson City, Nev. 89710.

The Commission plans to hold applicant interviews in late June in Las Vegas. Names of finalists will be submitted to Gov. Bob Miller following the meeting.

When I arrived to pick up the finished photo—a 13x17 portrait, the doors to the studio were closed and locked. My packet was sitting on the door mat.

My husband and I could hardly wait to see the new me. Husband person spoke first. "What on earth did they do to make you look like that?" he asked.

I looked over his shoulder. "I do look different, don't I?"

"You looked better as E.T." He was right. Not only that, the closest I got to looking like a movie star was the flared nostrils and pursed lips of Humphrey Bogart as he steered the African Queen through the swamps.

The next day I went back to the studio to complain. The doors were still locked and the draperies were drawn. A sign was on the window. "Moved—no forwarding address available."

Nevada Symphony Orchestra to feature visiting violinist

The Nevada Symphony Orchestra and Music Director Virko Baley will present a concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 29th, in the Artemus W. Ham Concert Hall on the UNLV campus.

Violinist Yuri Mazurkevich will join the Orchestra for a performance of the Violin Concerto by Sibelius.

A student of the legendary David Oistrakh, Mazurkevich is a winner of the highest honors at the Helsinki, Munich and Montreal international competitions. As a member of the faculty of the Kiev Conservatory, he continued his active concert career throughout Europe and the USSR.

He has toured extensively with his wife, violinist Dana Pomerants, also a protegee of Oistrakh, as the Mazurkevich Duo, throughout the U.S., Canada, Europe, South America and Japan. Mazurkevich is currently professor and chairman of the string department at Boston University. He continues to perform and teach at Tanglewood, the Victoria International Festival and the Johannesen International School of the Arts and has made several recordings and numerous radio and television appearances.

In addition to the Sibelius Violin Concerto, the Nevada Symphony Orchestra will perform the Leonore Overture No. 3 by Beethoven and Brahms' Symphony No. 4.

Audience members are invited to attend the pre-concert lecture immediately preceding the concert. The informative talk on the evening's program will begin at 7:15 p.m. in the lobby of Artemus Ham Concert Hall and is open to all ticketholders.

Ticket prices for this concert are $25, $20, $16 and $12. Tickets are available by calling the UNLV Performing Arts Box Office, 895-3801.

Opera gala concert Sunday

Paul Spencer Adkins, artist in residence, and the UNLV voice faculty will be featured when the University Musical Society Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. James D. Stivers, gives its fourth concert of the season at 2 p.m., Sunday in Ham Concert Hall on the UNLV campus.

The program will consist of opera highlights with a twist. Instead of presenting a series of arias, the singers will be grouped into ensembles.

Most of the great opera composers will be represented: Verdi, Mozart, Puccini, Bizet, and Johann Strauss. Although they all wrote great arias, some of the most sophisticated music for their operas is written for duos, trios and quartets.

This program will give the audience a chance to review the story line of the operas and hear some of the best ensemble music in these masterpieces, a spokesman said.

Adkins is serving this year as the artist in residence for the UNLV Music Department. He has enjoyed an international career including leading roles with many U.S. opera companies and concert performances in Europe. Adkins was a winner in the first Luciano Pavarotti International Voice Competition. Adkins will be joined by UNLV voice professors Carol Kimball, mezzo, and Paul Kreider, baritone, and adjunct instructors Debra Greschner, soprano, Rebecca Kreider, soprano, and Regina Sommer, soprano.

Tickets are available at the Performing Arts Center Box Office and are $6 adult and $3 for seniors, students, and military. For additional information, call 895-3736.

Living in Salt Lake City, Wagner has shown her work all over Utah.

Winning "best of show" at Tivoli Gallery, Salt Lake City, is one of many achievements she has earned.

The artist reception will be from 6 to 9 p.m. Friday, April 23.

Wagner will be in attendance and invites the public to meet her and view her exciting works.

The Kneeland Gallery is located at 4750 W. Sahara, Ste. 21.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle, then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

FEELIN' — FIT! —

Water exercise is fun and beneficial. Furthermore, for those who dislike exercise because they find the discomfort of heat and sweat distasteful, water workouts are easier to stick to because the water acts as a cooling system to dissipate the heat you generate through exercise.

KALEIDOSCOPE OF DREAMS

Cultural differences play a large role in the type of things that people dream about. For instance, researchers have found that different primitive tribes, even those that live close to one another, have different priorities in their dreams. Another study has found that working mothers dream more about male characters and office settings than mothers who don't work.

NO "SALESPeople" AT OUR COMPANY!

Don't you just hate it! Pushy, obnoxious salespeople. Do they think you're so dumb that they can pressure you into buying something?

It's traditional with cars. With Real Estate, it's uncalled for.

What you need is someone to offer you professional help, and their own opinion only when you request it.

WHAT WE DO IS GIVE YOU ALL THE INFORMATION YOU NEED TO MAKE YOUR OWN INFORMED CHOICES.

If you want pressure and hype, try sky diving with a car salesman!!

If you need assistance in buying or selling real estate, try the company that doesn't have any "salespeople."

Sure times are tough. And cutting your advertising budget may seem like a good way to deal with the economic crunch you're experiencing.

But there's one important thing you should keep in mind: The 'hide-your-head-in-the-sand' approach only succeeds in hiding your business from customers and potential customers...until you're soon forgotten! (And wouldn't your competition love that!)

The fact is, when you cut your newspaper advertising budget thinking you'll save money, you end up cutting your best opportunity to:

- Generate customer traffic
- Improve customer awareness
- Increase sales
- And most importantly...MAKE MONEY!

Newspaper advertising helps keep your business going, no matter what the economy.
