Henderson, Nevada

ONE MAN'S VIEW

MIKE O'CALLAGHAN

Who are Ashley Davis, Tim Schafer, Gerald Aldrich, Robert Farrington, Jr., Cheryl Turnage and Shelly Kelly?

You probably don't recognize the names because they weren't and never will be household names in most American homes.

What if I refer to them as Capt. Ashley Davis, Capt. Tim Schafer, SSgt. Gerald Aldrich, SSgt. Robert Farrington, Jr., TSgt. Cheryl Turnage and TSgt. Shelly Kelly?

I'll bet some of you have now identified these men and women. If the name Ron Brown is added to the list, then almost every reader will recognize the Air Force men and women who made up the crew of the ill-fated aircraft that carried them and 29 passengers to their deaths on a remote hillside near the Croation city of Dubrovnik last week.

This little mental exercise has been used to show how we take for granted the daily risk the men and women take when serving our country in uniform. If Secretary of Commerce Ron Brown and several big businessmen hadn't been abroad the aircraft, there would have been but a few paragraphs in most newspapers and all of 10 seconds on national television reporting the fatal crash. There wouldn't have been the more than an hour on CNN showing the return of the bodies at Dover, Del., nor would there have been reams of news copy and columns coming across the wires over the world.

The corporate leaders received very little national mention and Brown's immediate staff received even less notice. Yet each one of these individuals were special people in their own homes and towns. For example, Leonard J. Pieroni, CEO of Parsons Corp. in Pasadena, Ca., rated a special editorial in the Los Angeles Times.

Because Capt. Tim Schafer, 33, had grown up in Newport

Big Brothers/Big Sisters program helps children

D.B. Marciniak

Nothing but laughs and giggles come out of the mouth of Korey Mueller now that he has a Big Brother with whom to share activities.

Mueller, 8, is active in the Big Brothers and Big Sisters program. The Dooley Elementary School student has been with his 'big' for about six months.

"Life before my 'big' wasn't very fun. My father never did anything fun, my sister is too little to play games and my brother cheats on games," he said.

The Big Brother and Big Sister program serves children from single-parent homes by matching them with members of the community who serve as role models. The program is free of charge.

From the roof of the police station, Mueller enjoys watching the skyline of the valley with his 'big' James Green.

Green is an officer with the Henderson Police Department and spends his spare time with Mueller.

"Together we do things I wouldn't normally do," Green said ... "We're buddies."

The two visit Red Rock Canyon often to go climbing.

"He can climb mountains. He scares me. I call him a little monkey boy," Green said.

"The cars are like black widows and the people are like ants from up there," Mueller said.

Green said time spent with Mueller goes fast. The two are always on the go — watching a movie, getting lunch or playing catch together.

Other potential matches are waiting, though.

Pageant draws fewer contestants

Since the inception of Henderson's annual Spring community celebration, a queen has been selected to preside over the week's activities.

However, the number of entrants for the beauty pageant has been steadily declining, despite the city's rapid growth.

This year, only 12 girls will compete for the title of Miss Heritage Days, a drop from 14 entrants last year. All girls entered in the pageant attend Basic High School, although efforts were made to recruit participants from Green Valley and Silverado high schools.

Kathy Kline, the beauty pageant organizer for more than five years, said part of the reason few contestants are entered this year may be due to ineffective means of publicizing the event.

Information on the pageant was sent to local high schools, an announcement was read on the schools' daily announcements, and the information was published in the News. However, many students still were not aware of the event, Kline said.

She said next year radio advertising may be sought on stations popular with teens. Miss Heritage Days 1996 will also be responsible for spreading the word. The queen crowned at this year's event will travel to area high schools to inform local girls of the pageant and encourage their involvement.

Kline said another key to greater participation may be getting the word out sooner. The deadline for the Heritage Days pageant is the beginning of March — long before most people start thinking about the mid-April celebration.

A full month of workshops and other instruction are given to prepare contestants for the competition.

"[The low numbers] are defeating because we put a lot of time into it," Kline said.

She said although participation has dropped, many of the same girls return to compete year after year because they learn a great deal from the experience.

The beauty pageant is one of the Heritage Days events not held in downtown Henderson — it is held at White Middle School — but there is little involvement from residents of the Green Valley area. Kline said one queen attended Green Valley High School, but there has traditionally been little interest in the pageant from the western side of Henderson.

Kline also organizes numerous other beauty pageants. She said there is a general decline in the number of contestants in all beauty pageants.

The Heritage Days Beauty Pageant will be held Friday, April 19, kicking off the annual celebration.

Former publisher Zenoff dies

Former News publisher and editor Morry Zenoff died Wednesday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 85.

Zenoff was born June 3, 1910, in Amhurst, Wis. He was a graduate of the University of Wisconsin School of Journalism and attended law school. He worked as a sports editor and in other journalism capacities, including a time with the U.S. Navy.

Zenoff bought the Boulder City News in 1948. When Boulder City was changed from U.S. government control to an incorporated city, Zenoff was instrumental in reporting all of the transactions enacted by the various committees.

In 1951, he started the Henderson Home News as a special section of the Boulder City News. He later enlarged it to an independent newspaper. He reported on the incorporation of the city of Henderson a couple years later.

Zenoff won the John Peter Zenger award for community service.

During his time as publisher of the two newspapers, he joined with the Washington press corps through the administrations of several presidents when they traveled in foreign countries.

Zenoff sold the Boulder City News and the Henderson Home News to former Gov. Mike O'Callaghan in 1981. After the sale, Zenoff continued to write columns for the Las Vegas Sun and spent much of his time in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico.

"I enjoyed writing for him during the 1950s, and found him a most interesting man who kept up on everything that was going on in our small community," O'Callaghan said. "Ours was an enjoyable relationship."

"He was a real aggressive reporter and editor and he covered the two communities at a time when they were both growing and being incorporated. He had a big influence," former News editor Lorna Kesterson said.

Survivors include his wife Eva Marie; daughter Victoria and son David, both of San Francisco; brothers William of Stevens Point, Wisc., Abe of Chicago, and David of Carlsbad, Calif. A sister and brother preceded him in death. He has three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at noon Friday at Palm Chapel and burial will follow in Boulder City.

Morry Zenoff

The family has requested that in lieu of flowers, donations be made to the Alzheimer's Foundation.

Zenoff farewell

In a farewell column he wrote for the News on Feb. 5, 1981, Zenoff reminisced about his time as publisher:

"My heart goes out to the people of Boulder City and Henderson who has gone along with me for the past 31 years as we concentrated on building the two communities and at the same time the Boulder City News and Henderson Home News.

"We fought the battles gamely and survived almost every type of an obstacle, always shooting for the one day ahead when both cities were firmly entrenched as home-rule governed, and run by more concerned citizens per thousand than most cities of America."

"For me the two cities and their problems and their people have been my life, so to speak, and they gave me the happiness I sought in my chosen field of journalism."

"Let's never quit seeing each other," Zenoff concluded.

CCSD to ask for more money

Bond question to be on ballot

Kathy Streeter
News Staff Writer

The Clark County School District Board of Trustees on Tuesday decided to ask voters for more money for schools, but will vote on the details of a ballot issue at a later date.

According to a CCSD spokesman, the board gave staff approval to move forward on the bond issue, but did not stipulate how much should be requested on the ballot.

Two amounts have been suggested. A $225 million bond would be tax-neutral or would not increase taxes. However, $475 million is a more appropriate amount to meet current needs, according to school officials. A $475 million bond would increase property taxes $25 a year on a $100,000 home.

The board discussed presenting the ballot question in three parts. Voters would be allowed to approve only the tax-neutral bond amount or the entire $475 million. Trustee Jeffrey Burr suggested an option which would allow funding for down-sized schools. The smaller schools may be part of smaller school districts if the Clark County School District is deconsolidated.

The exact use for the 1996 bond money will also be decided by the board at a meeting later in the year. The money could be used to build new schools, upgrade technology or rehabilitate and modernize existing schools.

Beach he also received special notice in the Los Angeles Times. Reporter Geoff Boucher wrote, "Schafer grew up in Newport Beach, where he was a Boy Scout and later ran track for Newport Harbor High, always dreaming of becoming a pilot, his sister said. He attended Orange Coast College for two years before moving to Sacramento, where he got his private pilot's license while going to the state university."

"He joined the Air Force after graduation and earned his military pilot's wings in 1989, going on to fly C-141 Starlifter cargo planes out of Travis Air Force Base in the Bay Area. His performance landed him among the pilots selected to transport 'generals and senators,' Haydon said.

"Six months ago, he and his wife Kathleen Schafer, moved to Germany for his new assignment: flying dignitaries throughout Europe from his post at Ramstein Air Force Base, 75 miles southwest of Frankfurt. He had made several trips into the airport at Dubrovnik, his sister said, so he was familiar with the area where the crash occurred Sunday in a blinding storm."

Everyday around the world U.S. military men and women put their lives on the line for their country. When they die serving us, their deaths are given little notice because we take their service for granted. Yet when they die, some families someplace deeply feel the loss, but for the rest of us, their deaths become a paragraph in a newspaper and usually not even a notice on television.

Secretary Ron Brown, his staff and corporate guests were doing their jobs as were the flight crew members. Late that night, other U.S. military people, in a pouring rain, were combing the hills looking for survivors. The next morning, even more military aircraft crews were landing and taking off from the nearby airfield and hundreds more were picking their way through mine fields north of there. It was just another day of military service Americans were giving you and me.

When all is said and done, there will be more restrictions on corporate CEOs and cabinet members flying in and out of dangerous areas. Ron Brown's untimely death will be recalled this summer at the National Democratic Convention and again a year from now but few Americans will give additional thought to the aircraft crew members. Between now and next April, dozens of other U.S. military people will die serving us and they won't be remembered even as long as those who died with Secretary Ron Brown.

Watching Mike Wallace quiz LDS Church President Gordon B. Hinckley during last Sunday's segment of "60 Minutes" was most interesting. When Wallace got to the question about LDS religious leaders being more sympathetic to men accused of abusing wives and children than they are to the victims, he was asking the right person.

The Mormon leader assured Wallace that the "welfare of women and children is as serious a consideration as that of men in this church, if not more so." This is certainly true if Hinckley's life is any example for the others to follow. It was 15 years ago he wrote "Be Thou an Example." In this book, he recalls as a child a mean neighbor who, at a moment's notice, would beat his children in anger. "I must make a confession: I detested that man," he wrote.

The LDS leader in the chapter titled "Behold Your Little Ones" goes on to discuss and give a lesson about the awful results of child abuse. He writes:

"I have seen the fruits of that neighbor's temper come alive again in the troubled lives of his children. I have since discovered that he was one of that very substantial body of parents who seem incapable of anything but harshness toward those for whose coming into the world they are responsible. I have also come to realize that this man, who walks in the memories of my childhood, is but an example of uncounted thousands across the world who are known as child abusers. Every social worker, every duty officer in the emergency room of a large hospital, every policeman and judge in a large city can tell you of them. The whole tragic picture is one of beatings, kickings, slamming and even sexual assault on small children. And akin to these are those vicious men and women who exploit children for pornographic purposes."

If national television viewers believe that the religious leader was exceptionally smooth in handling Wallace, they are correct. He was being asked questions he has had to answer hundreds of times. When it came to child abuse, Wallace was asking a man who identified the problem and gave solutions for it long before the rest of society gave it much thought.

O'Callaghan, a former two-term governor of Nevada, is publisher of the News.

BIG BROTHERS: Helping children

Burkholder Middle School are members of the Big Brothers Big Sisters S.W.A.T., Special Waiting Activities Team. As team members they participate in group activities while members of the Big Brothers and Big Sisters program screen applicants for the perfect match.

"I felt that both needed a male figure to look up to. Their dad doesn't really associate with them," said their mother Sheril Winters.

She said she found out about the program through a friend. After studying material and discussing the program with her children, they decided to try it.

"I want a nice person to play softball and baseball games with and who will play with my friends," Donald Winters said.

Brad Winters said it will be nice to get a 'big' so he can go fishing and take trips to the mall.

"The mentoring relationship is very powerful. It's a strong bond. Sometimes a bond is all that will keep a child straight," said Nancy Sprague, director/marketing and development official for the program.

The program is needed to help children of single-parent homes, Sprague said. Single-parent children are more likely to have problems growing up without a role model, she said.

A recent study released by the program showed that children who are involved in Big Brothers and Big Sisters are 46% less likely than their peers to start using illegal drugs and 27% less likely to start drinking. Other statistics support little brothers and sisters leading a more healthy life because of the influence from their 'big,' she said.

"Some children are more difficult to match. We want to stress that it is a preventative program. These kids don't have behavior problems," Sprague said.

Waiting for up to two years for a potential match is not uncommon, she said. Applicants are screened several times. Police and personal checks, references, and an inquiry appointment with a potential 'big' are some measures taken by program officials to ensure the best possible match is found.

Currently there are 92 active matches in the valley. Two-thirds of those matched are boys, one-third are girls. There are 87 children who are waiting — 79 boys and eight girls.

Becoming involved with the program is easy, Sprague said. Applicants must be at least 21 years old, a resident of the valley for the last six months, employed and have an insured automobile. Ten hours per month for a minimum of six months are to be spent with a 'little.'

Thirstbusters files suit against city

Thomas Lacy
News Staff Writer

The owners of Thirstbusters Casino have filed a lawsuit to force the Henderson City Council to reconsider a petition that seeks to nullify a prior agreement limiting the casino's gaming operations.

In a May 21, 1992, settlement, Thirstbusters owners Ron Coury and Dan Hughes agreed not to exceed 40 slot machines at their casino, located near Sunset Road and Valle Verde Drive.

But the owners later said the agreement stymied their ability to compete with other Henderson businesses. Moreover, they contend that the increase in gaming operations runs counter to earlier decisions by the City Council.

They cited a 1988 decision in which Council members agreed to discourage gaming establishments in the Green Valley neighborhood of Henderson.

Councilman David Wood later petitioned the City Council to amend the agreement.

At a Sept. 5, 1995, City Council meeting, Coury and Hughes had their request for a re-negotiation heard, but the matter failed to pass after a vote ended in a tie.

Councilman Andy Hafen and Mayor Bob Groesbeck voted to deny the request, while David Wood and Amanda Cyphers voted in favor of a re-negotiation.

Councilman Jack Clark abstained from voting on the issue, citing a conflict of interest. He said his position as a board member on two non-profit organizations to which Coury had donated money may cause a conflict.

The Nevada Ethics Commission later ruled that Clark may vote on issues regarding Thirstbusters without conflict should the matter be presented once again to the Henderson City Council.

Since the city has heard the Thirstbusters request once, a Council member must petition to have it put on the agenda before it may be heard a second time, City Attorney Shauna Hughes said.

In the lawsuit filed April 4, attorneys for Curry and Hughes seek to force the City Council to hear the request for a re-negotiation to the 1992 agreement between the city and Thirstbusters owners.

The suit also asks for the recovery of attorney's fees incurred in the legal fight against the city.

City Attorney Hughes on Tuesday said the city had yet to be served with the newest lawsuit.

"But I think it's pretty clear here," Hughes said. "They (Thirstbusters owners) wanted something. We resolved the issue. Now they come back not happy and want another bite at the apple."

However, attorneys representing Thirstbusters have claimed the first agreement was unconstitutional because the city does not have the power to impose personal zoning restrictions. Rather, zoning regulations must regulate the use of land and not land owners as individuals.

Boat accident sends two to hospital

Two Henderson residents spent Thursday night in the hospital after being injured in a boat accident Thursday, April 4, at Lake Mead National Recreation Area. The accident occurred approximately 12:30 p.m., less than a mile from Willow Beach on Lake Mohave.

Michals Kirk, 34, his wife, Rebecca Hilton, their son, David, 10, and a family friend, Matthew Wolford, 12, were camping at Lake Mohave. They travelled to Willow Beach Marina to purchase ice. According to Kirk's statement, he was trying to adjust his radio frequency and did not see the change in the shoreline. The boat struck a nearly vertical rock wall of the shore.

Although the four on board were injured, Rebecca Hilton was able to call the National Park Service Emergency Dispatch to summon help. Park Rangers responded and provided emergency medical care to the boat occupants. The boat was towed to Willow Beach where it was met by a Flight-for-Life helicopter.

Kirk and Wolford were transported by helicopter to the University Medical Center Trauma Center where they spent the night. Hilton and her son were transported by ground ambulance but were not admitted.

Initial reports Thursday afternoon had listed the accident victims as a family of four. It was not until late that the second boy was identified as a family friend.

At presstime the condition of Kirk and Wolford was unknown.

Helping Hands: Providing needed care

D.B. Marciniak
News Staff Writer

The poor, frail, elderly and those with disabilities can rest assured they have a helping hand guiding them in their time of need. However, the program providing the care is also in need.

Helping Hands of Henderson, a volunteer program offered through St. Rose Dominican Hospital, provides in-home respite care and transportation programs for the needy.

"The clients continue to come in, but the volunteer ratio continues to remain the same," said James Konst, director of Home Health Services.

March saw the program help 101 clients. There are 50 volunteers and 20 regularly active volunteers for the program. Konst said because of the instability of medical insurance for the elderly, services such as Helping Hands are growing in their need for more volunteers, donations of medical equipment and money to fund the program.

"The community has got to take care of its own. This (insecurity about medical insurance) creates a greater need because there are people coming off health care and they need our services," he said.

A goal of 100 volunteers is not unobtainable, Konst said.

Shelley Aguiar, program director, said small home repairs, yard work, grocery shopping, playing cards and keeping company with someone are ways volunteers assist.

A loan closet for medical equipment including walkers, wheelchairs and bedside commodes offers clients affordable access to resources to make life easier, she said.

John Judge/News Staff

HELPING HANDS — Lily Kelly and Janet Waffle of Helping Hands of Henderson help Mildred Bowers to an appointment at the Henderson Health District Office Tuesday.

"You think of yourself as being able to get around, but when you get 80-85 years old, it becomes harder," she said. "They have so many doctors' appointments that they have no way to get to (them)."

Aguiar said the program helps seniors meet appointments, shop and run errands. The success of the program is evident from letters sent by clients and their relatives, she said.

"When people call and thank you it makes it all worthwhile," she said.

Resources at the hospital make the program a success, Aguiar said. When a client needs a doctor's appointment or has a special need, Helping Hands volunteers can find a way to meet their need.

The program was established in January 1995 to provide respite care for the needy. Keeping clients in their homes helps keep medical costs down for families and also gives them a feeling of independence, she said.

Costs for the program are minimal. Most of the program's funding is provided by grants, donations from companies and fundraisers. The client's cost is adjusted according to their income. Typical cost for a client per year is $30, Aguiar said.

Plans for a program in Pahrump are being developed. A facility will open in May. Las Vegas has also expressed interest in bringing the program to that area. Plans for Las Vegas may be developed by the end of the year.

An employee of the Richard Anthony Salon in Henderson was arrested by federal agents at his Las Vegas home Wednesday for allegedly skipping bond resulting from a Michigan drug charge.

Clarence Smith, 52, of 451 Crimson Leaf Dr., was taken into custody by FBI agents and Las Vegas Metro Police officers assigned to the Criminal Apprehension Teams, a joint operation of the Safe Streets initiative.

According to FBI Special Agent in Charge Bobby Siller, Smith was originally arrested at his beauty salon May 26, 1990, in Detroit, when police uncovered 14.5 ounces of heroin.

After posting bond, Smith failed to appear for his trial and a warrant for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution was issued in 1992.

Smith had been living in Las Vegas since 1992 under the alias of Gilbert Vaughn, Siller said. An investigation by Michigan State Police led agents to Smith's new location in Las Vegas.

When he was arrested at his home, Smith denied being the man agents sought and produced identification that said he was Billy Scott.

He was taken into custody and his identity was verified by an FBI fingerprint check.

A spokesperson for the Richard Anthony Salon, located inside the Green Valley Athletic Club, declined to comment on the case.

Smith had used the alias Billy Scott while working for the Henderson salon.

Green Valley Athletic Club Marketing Director Shauna Cuddy said the Richard Anthony Salon is a tenant of the club, and that Scott was not employed by the GVAC.

"I was very surprised by the incident," Cuddy said of Smith's arrest, and added, "He was always 100% cordial to all the customers and guests here."

Following an appearance Friday before U.S. Magistrate Judge Robert Johnston, Smith was being held in the Clark County Detention Center where he awaits extradition to Michigan.

Children's safety tips for parents

The recent allegations of child pornography committed by a Henderson Little League manager have once again brought to the surface the disturbing realization that our children live in a dangerous world.

Although police say none of the children on his team appear to have been victimized at this point, the incident serves as a reminder that parents must be vigilant.

To that end, the News today offers some tips courtesy of the Nevada Attorney General's Office on how to help ensure that your child doesn't become a victim.

Teach your children:

- Their full name and your full name, address and phone number (including area code).
- To never go near a car with a stranger in it.
- A stranger is someone the child and the parent do not know very well.
- To scream "Help, help, I don't know you," if the child is forced to go with someone.
- To leave immediately if the child is approached suspiciously while in a public restroom. If someone tries to stop them, they should scream.
- Never go into someone's home without permission from a parent.
- To tell you if someone asks them to keep a "secret."
- Tricks people use to get them to go with them, and to tell you if someone offers them candy, money or a gift, or wants to take their picture.

Things to know as a parent:

- Don't assume an abduction or sexual abuse can't happen to your child.
- Know who your child's friends are, regardless of the child's age.
- Be involved in your child's activities, regardless of your child's age.
- Question any gifts or money your child brings home.
- Listen to your child. Watch for any strong bonds between an adult and your child.
- If your child does not like to be with someone, find out why.
- Have your child fingerprinted, and keep the card in a safe place.
- Interview all new baby-sitters and talk with people given as their references.
- Be aware that putting your child's name on books, T-shirts, etc. puts the child on a first name basis with a potential abductor.
- Never tell someone on the telephone that the child is home alone.

While safety tips offered here are by no means an exhaustive list of precautions children and their parents may take, they are a good starting point. For more information on how best to protect your children, contact the Nevada Attorney General's Office, 486-3539.

Boost for senior workers

As aging baby boomers face unprecedented job upheavals, the Supreme Court has strengthened the federal law that protects older workers from unfair dismissals. The court ruled on Monday that an older worker has the basis for an age bias suit even if he or she is replaced by someone older than 40. The ruling, coming amid the downsizing of corporate America, means that more older workers may challenge their dismissals based on age discrimination. But proving a case will not be any easier under the new ruling.

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 protects workers aged 40 and older. Courts had ruled in the past that to constitute age discrimination, workers had to be replaced by someone outside the protection class—that is, under 40.

That standard was applied to the case brought before the Supreme Court by James O'Connor of North Carolina. The 56-year-old vending machine salesman was replaced by a 40-year-old after his boss told him he was "too damn old for this kind of work."

Two lower courts had dismissed his lawsuit before trial because the replacement worker was considered a member of a protected class. "The fact that one person in the protected class has lost out to another person in the protected class is ... irrelevant, so long as he lost out because of his age," Justice Antonin Scalia wrote in the 9-0 decision.

The court said the replacement must be "substantially younger" but did not define how much of an age difference was necessary to constitute a presumption of discrimination.

Under federal law, employers can replace high-cost workers for economic reasons but not simply to get a younger force. When does acceptable cost cutting cross over the line into illegal age bias? Many victims of a tight labor market are asking themselves that. At least the court has turned thumbs down on using middle-aged workers as a tool to discriminate against older workers.

RICHARD COHEN

A maturing president

WASHINGTON—It may be odd, but it no longer seems surprising that Bill Clinton took a book about the meaning of death along on his honeymoon. It was Ernest Becker's "The Denial of Death" and maybe too much can be read into this. But Clinton the man, if not his very presidency, seems to have grown sturdier and stronger more grounded and dignified—not on the basis of triumph, but on tragedy, particularly the deaths of many significant people.

The political operative and campaign official, Paul Tully, only 48 and brimming with life, died in Little Rock even before Clinton took office. Hillary Rodham Clinton's father, Hugh Rodham, died in 1993 and Bill Clinton's mother, Virginia Kelley, in 1994. Vincent Foster killed himself, Les Aspin just ran out of heart and someone blew up the federal building in Oklahoma City, killing 169 people there.

Yitzhak Rabin was murdered, Richard Nixon died and Jacqueline Kennedy succumbed—too young, too young. Suicide bombers blew buses and people to bits in Israel and three U.S. officials, tireless workers in the cause of peace in Bosnia, died when their car fell off a mountain road. The sheer waste was incomprehensible.

Each time, the nation and widows, the people and the bereaved, turned to the president and he comforted them. He reached down into something—some faith, some strength—to give the mourning people what they needed, sometimes a hug, sometimes a tear, always some fine words. The other day he did that at a memorial service for those killed in Oklahoma City, meeting with bereaved person after bereaved person, as if he gained strength even as he was giving it away. Whitewater be damned; the law Clinton breaks is one of nature.

And now Ron Brown and the 32 other Americans. Brown was not Nixon or Jackie, public figures whose deaths can require a presidential appearance. He was close, so close he had attended Virginia Kelley's funeral. But once again, Clinton did what he does best. He comforted the families of everyone on that doomed plane and did it, mind you, even though he himself was hurting.

Winston Churchill's father died at 45, Churchill himself at 90. The joke was on Churchill, for he was convinced that he too would die young. So he scampered through life, living two or three of them and doing OK each time.

Maybe there is some of that in Clinton. His father was killed in an auto accident three months before he was born. William Jefferson Blythe was only 28—and his death, as Clinton's gifted biographer, David Maraniss reports, "haunted" the son and made him "anxious." Such a man is likely to be in a hurry. He is also likely to give death more than a passing thought.

Virginia Kelley married five times, once to an alcoholic who became Clinton's stepfather. The children of alcoholics are supposedly good at nurturing, at healing, at growing up fast. Is that why Clinton is so good at grief counseling? Is childhood where he learned how to comfort others? Maybe. But children of alcoholics are some of my closest friends. They are not all the nurturing kind.

This is a different president than the one elected in 1992. He seems more comfortable in the office, more at ease. Risk emboldens a person and Clinton has taken some risks in foreign policy—Bosnia, Haiti. So far, things have gone just fine. Whatever the reason, the president appears more presidential. He trusts himself more.

In just one week, Clinton called on Brown's widow, Alma, spoke to Commerce Department workers, attended the Oklahoma City memorial service and went to the Air Force base at Dover, Delaware, to be with the bereaved as they met the plane that bore the remains of their loved ones. Even the clergy seldom have such weeks.

Such strength, such solicitude, is not the total measure of a man or a presidency, but it is certainly worth noting. I am not talking now of legislative tactics or political ideology or, even, whether the truth has been told about Whitewater. I am talking instead of a part of the presidency that has grown in importance as its public function—usually televised—approaches that of a monarch. We look to presidents for comfort, for meaning, for saying that it will all be OK. Ronald Reagan did that just perfectly after the Challenger blew up.

For whatever reason—a White House aide suggests it is Clinton's spiritual side—Clinton seems to excel at such tasks. Once so young, once so seemingly callow, he has somehow emerged of late as a more solid, custodial figure—maybe not, you might argue, a president for all times, but certainly, you would have to concede, a president for the bad ones.

BILL HANLON

Substantive issues addressed at 'Summit'

Generic, broad and not specific. Those words were attributed to Gov. Bob Miller concerning the state's educational standards.

While I clearly believed that more national goals would come out of the National Governors Association's "educational summit," it turns out that individual states will set their own standards. A clearinghouse will be established so states can keep tabs on what is happening across the country. That, I believe is a very good way of dealing with standards.

President Clinton, in his address at the summit, addressed topics that have a lot in common with ideas that have been introduced in the Silver State. He spoke about not turning very gifted and talented people away from education. While he wasn't specific, I took that to mean that we need to attract these people into education. For me, that translated to alternative licensure of teachers—a bill that went down to defeat on party lines last legislative session.

The president also spoke on the ongoing educational needs of teachers, again a similar bill was introduced last session and was also defeated by a vote on party lines. Right now, the Professional Standards Commission in Education, a board appointed by the Governor, is studying an alternative licensure regulation. Miller might want to express his opinion on this matter.

The comments attributed to Miller might also prove to be the dawn of a new day. Acknowledging that our state's standards are suspect is a beginning. Well over a year ago, the state was chastised over its courses of study in a study completed by the AFT.

Too many people in our state have equated a high number of credits with educational quality. Nevada has the fifth highest credit requirement in the nation for high school graduation. If credits equated to standards, why are our test scores either stagnant or declining? Why are they in the bottom half nationally?

Hopefully Miller will address the watering down of the elementary math curriculum and substitutions in the secondary mathematics curriculum.

Nevada certainly can't have world-class standards or even compete nationally if we only expect kids to add and subtract with reasonable proficiency by the completion of fourth grade when most other states expect them to know the basic facts—add, subtract, multiply and divide—by completion of grade three.

Nor will we be able to compete if secondary students are able to substitute a woodworking class for math credit, a cosmetology class for life science or others.

While addressing core requirements, he might also address the state's colleges of education. Those colleges train our prospective teachers and provide ongoing training for inservice teachers. He might want to make sure they commit to teaching educational strategies that include direct instruction, phonics or the need for basic facts and algorithms in mathematics.

The state looks like it might be heading down a road that many might describe as whole language. In August, the state board will be approving a new course of study in language arts. I don't see a need to repeat the mistakes California made. Hopefully, the governor won't either.

Other issues the governor might address include the need for a capital expenditure bill. His class-size reduction plan is put in jeopardy because we don't have enough seats for kids at schools—never mind reducing class size. That bill should also contain provisions to upgrade older facilities. This is a problem being faced by at least four different counties.

Establishing an ongoing technology budget to purchase hardware, current software and the wiring of schools should also be a priority.

Then there is accountability. Currently, the state has an accountability statute. Unfortunately, the test that is used to report a school's success is a norm-referenced test. That test should be reported by district—not individual schools. A criterion-referenced test should be established in law to be reported by schools.

With those two tests, we can see if the state or district's curriculum are in line nationally, and see how well each school is performing based on what the kids are supposed to be taught. Testing is important. But we must ensure we are using the appropriate test to measure what we are testing for.

I've said it many times, what works is work. With that said I didn't walk away from the educational summit disappointed. If it results in issues, rather than personalities or parties, being addressed, Nevada could be a winner.

Basic to implement new schedule in fall

Kathy Streeter
News Staff Writer

An innovative bell schedule will allow Basic High School students more time to meet with teachers, attend club meetings and use the library and computer labs next year.

When bused students arrive on campus at approximately 7 a.m., they will have a "breakfast period" before school starts. For nearly an hour, teachers will be in their classrooms to help students with their work, the library and computer labs will be open, club meetings will be held, or students can simply hang out with friends and enjoy a nutritious breakfast before they start the day.

"Students can use the beginning of the day to accomplish small objectives," said Dan Reese, assistant principal. "A lot of research shows that if the day starts later, they do better."

He and the school's Learning Improvement Team, which consists of teachers, parents and students, spent many hours researching and developing the new bell schedule.

To get an extra hour at the beginning of the day, the lunch period will be shortened. Students will arrive when they usually do, about 6:50 a.m. Class will start at approximately 7:50 a.m. and the day will end at the usual time, about 1:40 p.m.

Instead of having an extended lunch period at the end of the day, students will have a 15-minute nutrition break between the third and fourth periods. Also, instead of classes running 51 or 52 minutes, they will last 50 minutes.

"With this schedule we won't get students saying 'We don't have time to make up this test' and we can use the full 50 minutes for instruction rather than other things," Reese said.

An additional feature of the new schedule is that every other week on Wednesdays and Thursdays classes will be on a block schedule. An extended block of time (approximately one half hour longer) every other week will enable teachers to enhance their instruction with special programs.

Reese said an English class, for example, may act out a drama, have oral presentations or invite a guest speaker during the extended period. Classes like auto shop and science will benefit from extra time to do projects.

"The intent is to view the block day as the culmination of activities that lead up to it," Reese said. "We will have eight straight days, then a block day. Teachers can use the extra time to apply the knowledge kids learned."

March 12, the alternative schedule was presented to the Basic High School faculty. A 70% majority voted to implement the schedule change.

A series of "town hall meetings" will be held to inform parents of the new schedule and address any concerns. The first meeting will be held the end of this month, but an exact date has not been announced.

Trust fund set up for Silverstein's daughter

A trust fund for the daughter of Galloway Elementary School teacher Debbie Silverstein has been created. Silverstein died March 26.

Donations can be made through the school, Jewish Family Services or Nathan Adelson Hospice.

Michael Robison, principal at Galloway, said the school continues to support the family.

A counselor was on hand to assist former students at the school with the loss. Students handled the news well, he said, and few needed the services.

"On the day of her passing, we tried to deal with the students first. With a few exceptions, they took the news well," Robison said.

Silverstein, 35, died of complications from an inoperable brain tumor. The teacher was attempting to return to teaching after medical leave.

Robison said 30 faculty members went to services at Bunkers Memorial Gardens during a school day.

For information about the trust fund, contact Joan Hedrich, 799-8920.

Local student named fifth-year scholar at DePauw University

Robert L. Tinnell, a senior at DePauw University in Greencastle, Ind., has been selected a Fifth-Year Scholar for the 1996-97 school year.

Tinnell, a music performance major, is the son of Marilyn Tinnell and the late James E. Tinnell of Henderson.

The Fifth Year Program at DePauw offers outstanding students the opportunity to take a fifth year of courses tuition-free in order to broaden their liberal arts education.

After receiving undergraduate degrees in May, selected students are given the chance to take up to four courses each semester during a fifth year. Three of the four courses must be taken outside of the student's undergraduate major.

Hafens on dean's list

Terra Lynn Hafen and Tessa Michelle Hafen of Henderson were named to the dean's list for winter quarter at Southern Utah University in Cedar City.

To be included on the dean's list, students must earn a grade point average of 3.6 or higher for at least 15 quarter hours of academic work.

The Nevada legislature offers a Senior Citizen Tax Assistance/Rental Rebate program to persons 62 years of age or older whose annual household income was $19,100 or less during the previous year. The program applies to any person meeting the age, residency, and income requirements regardless of whether they own their home, rent an apartment or house, or live in a mobile home.

The filing period for the program is January 15 to April 30 of each year. Professionals from the Clark County Assessors Office are available at the center from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday to assist, call 455-7960

Monthly Pot Luck

One of the center's most delicious traditional events is the monthly Pot Luck, held the first Sunday of the month (unless it is a holiday weekend, then it falls on the next Sunday).

The tradition goes back to the early days of the community when Henderson consisted of a two-lane highway, prefab homes and not a tree in sight. Neighbors and friends would get together to share good fellowship and their best home cooking.

As the city grew, so did attendance at the monthly pot luck, and friends stepped in to supply the main course. Beginning with old-fashioned fried chicken, complimented with the best senior dishes, the event has become a time to show off culinary skills, visit with friends and spend a relaxing afternoon.

April's pot luck is at 1 p.m. Sunday, April 14. Special thanks to Judge Kent Dawson, the host of the event. Fix up the old family favorite and stop by to enjoy the company of some wonderful people.

Speaking Of Tradition

The April 20 Saturday Brunch will be a special celebration. Volunteers from Levi Community Involvement Team will help kick off the city's annual Heritage Days celebration.

The brunch is a great way to share memories and brag about all the hard work and caring everyone put in to make the city a fantastic place to live — then and now. Served from 9 to 11:30 a.m., the cost is $1.25.

LANE AND WILLIAMS

THE BIRDCAGE

Robin Williams and Nathan Lane are engagingly funny as the stressed-out gay couple in this energetic, '90s take on the popular French farce "La Cage Aux Folles," now situated in Miami's South Beach. Their unconventional lives are turned upside down when the son of Williams' character suddenly introduces his intended in-law, an ultra-conservative senator and his straight-laced wife (Gene Hackman and Dianne Wiest). Director Mike Nichols and screenwriter Elaine May deliver effective comic setups and punchy dialogue. However, dramatic elements could be better (R)

HOMEWARD BOUND 2: LOST IN SAN FRANCISCO

This so-so sequel finds the three wayward pets (two dogs and a cat) struggling to return to their suburban homes after being abandoned in the big city. This tail-wagger for small fry is essentially the same adventure as the initial outing, only the locations are different. The outcome and encounters with various animal and human characters are familiar by now. Michael J. Fox supplies the voice of the frisky bulldog and Sally Field speaks for the Himalayan cat. (G)

JOHN TRAVOLTA

BROKEN ARROW

Hong Kong director John Woo puts his special spin on this loud, outrageous action saga that involves hijacked nuclear bombs. There's meager credibility in the wake of non-stop explosions, phony shoot-outs and trumped-up stunts. John Travolta stars as the heavy, a renegade U.S. Air Force pilot who masquerades as a daring scheme to demand ransom for the return of the devastating weapons. Co-pilot Christian Slater, helped by spunky park ranger Samantha Mathis, tries to stop him. The cartoonish mayhem loses its punch despite all the fury. (R)

PFEIFFER AND REDFORD

UP CLOSE AND PERSONAL

A TV news star is born in this romantic drama that primarily evolves with shallow plotting and artificial characters. Michelle Pfeiffer looks glamorous as the ambitious reporter who strives for professional prominence under the intense tutelage of a veteran news director (Robert Redford). Their star chemistry reacts nicely, but their roles are barely believable, even though the story is inspired by the real troubled life of network correspondent Jessica Savitch. Stockard Channing co-stars as a snippy TV news anchor. (PG-13)

BERRY AND RUSSELL

EXECUTIVE DECISION

This deplorable political thriller, filled with a hodgepodge of convoluted plot segments from much better action films, falls short in every area. It tells of terrorists who hijack a United States-bound passenger plane and threaten mass destruction with deadly nerve gas. First-time director Stuart Baird fails to resuscitate the lifeless, cliché-riddled screenplay that features a preposterous mid-air docking of a stealth fighter with the jumbo jet. Kurt Russell stars in a flat role as an anti-terrorist expert. Also with Steven Seagal and Halle Berry. (R)

DAV to offer Forget-Me-Nots in fund-raising

During Heritage Days, April 21-27, members of Henderson, Black Mountain Chapter 12 Disabled American Veterans and the DAV Auxiliary will offer the familiar small blue "Forget-Me-Not" flower as a thank you for a donation. Proceeds will be used to help veterans and their families.

The first time DAV members offered the flower to the public was Feb. 24, 1926. The first Forget-Me-Not drive was held to raise funds to support DAV services, and assistance desperately needed by veterans disabled in World War I.

The idea grew out of an image carried home from World War I in the memories of soldiers who had seen spring flowers growing among the graves of comrades and allies killed in the fighting. A man could respond to such a scene with its promise of new life following the sacrifices of so many.

It's no wonder that the DAV adopted the Forget-Me-Not as a way of saying "Please don't forget me" for those who had come home as well as for those who had given their lives.

Lake Mead Motel contracts Carson Construction

Lake Mead Motel has contracted Carson Construction for the reconstruction of its facility located at 85 W. Lake Mead in Henderson, which was destroyed by fire.

The contract for the 16,000-square-foot Best Western facility, owned by Jim and Jean Hanily, is valued at $1.3 million. All 59 rooms will be completely refurbished under the direction of the Best Western Design Department based in Phoenix, Ariz.

Carson Construction's Bob Phillips will serve as project manager, and Bob Brown will serve as superintendent. The project was designed by the architectural firm Alton Dean Jensen.

The expected date of completion is September 1996.

Carson Construction is a Las Vegas-based construction services company with clients throughout the west. Recent projects include Alamo Rent-A-Car, WAVE, and Hughes Buildings 23, 24 and 25. This year, the company celebrates its 50th anniversary of business in Nevada.

For more information, contact Director of Business Development Lori Andersen, 876-6013.

Henderson Police announce Youth Explorer program

The Henderson Police Department is seeking applicants for its Law Enforcement Explorer's program.

An academy will begin at 7 p.m. April 17 and is open to men and women between the ages of 16 and 21 who are interested in the police profession.

Participants will meet weekly for two hours until the beginning of September.

The program offers individuals the opportunity to get a first-hand view of police. Those who complete the academy will be able to ride with Henderson police officers. Additionally, Explorers may assist in training programs and participate in law enforcement programs.

Anyone interested is asked to call officer Nick Walling, 565-2335.

Custom home sites at Calico Ridge Estates

A wide choice of custom home sites priced from $40,500 to $500,000 are available at the Calico Hills, Calico Ridge and Two Crows custom neighborhoods off Lake Mead Drive, three miles east of Boulder Highway.

Located adjacent to Lake Las Vegas, the developments offer home sites ranging up to 2 2/3-acres, many offering panoramic views of the Las Vegas valley and surrounding mountain ranges. More than 300 custom homes have already been constructed in the area. Lots are all fully improved with all underground utilities.

Project manager Hawley Bagley said this is an excellent time for those interested in building a custom home to drive out, visit the sales information center and tour available properties.

"We have something for everyone right now, from affordable home sites within Calico Ridge to magnificent two-acre view lots in the gated Calico Hills development," Bagley said.

"Until recently, this preserved natural setting was known only to a few adventurous hikers," she said.

"The views are—without a doubt—among the best you will find in the valley and the outdoor environment is absolutely spectacular. It is something you really have to see to appreciate. Upon completion, it will be among the most prestigious places to live in Southern Nevada," Bagley said.

To visit, take U.S. 95 to the Lake Mead Drive exit and go east three miles past Boulder Highway to the entrance of the community. The custom homesite sales office is open daily from 9 a.m.

A Navy veteran is this month's "Veteran in the Spotlight." The Veterans of Foreign Wars Basic Post 3848 is proud to present Gilbert N. Medina, a resident of Henderson for 45 years.

Born Dec. 6, 1928 in Bingham, Utah, he enlisted at 17 in the U.S. Navy in December 1945, and was sworn in on Feb. 2, 1946, in Santa Fe, N.M.

After basic training in San Diego, he was assigned to the USS Dixie AD-14 (Destroyer Tender) in San Francisco. The assignment took him to the Marshall Islands and Bikini Atoll where the atomic bomb was tested after the war, and which was responsible for the surrender of Japan on Sept. 2, 1945.

His next mission was on the destroyer USS Allen M. Sumner DD-692, which took him to Japan, China, Guam and the Philippines. It was the first task force fleet to enter Sydney, Australia after the war. Medina served as storekeeper, with the rank of S2/C.

For his Navy services in the Pacific, he received the Asiatic Pacific, American Area Campaign, and World War II Victory medals.

After his honorable discharge in San Diego on Dec. 2, 1947, he continued his education and received a diploma from La Salle Extension University in Chicago.

Medina moved to Henderson in December 1961, and met his wife Susie, on a visit to Chama, N.M. They were married in El Rito, N.M. on Aug. 20, 1954. Their two daughters and their families live in Henderson.

He joined the VFW in 1956

and has been an active member, serving as post chaplain for 19 years. He is now the post service officer and post surgeon, as well as handling hospital equipment for use by veterans and the community.

A VFW Life Member, he takes part in VFW projects, including the Buddy Poppy Drive, Homeless and Senior Citizen programs. He plays honky tonk piano for sing-along gatherings.

A member and officer of the Military Order of the Cooties, he has been a member of the American Legion for 46 years, and served as Post Adjutant for 15 years.

Medina has been a part of the growth of Henderson and served four years on the Henderson Civil Service Board. He is a member of St. Peter's Church and an active honorary member and Past Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus, as well as membership chairman of the National Association of Federal Employees.

He worked at Titanium Metals for five years. After 30 years of service, Medina retired from the Civil Service at Nellis Air Force Base on Dec. 31, 1988.

The VFW is proud to salute Gilbert N. Medina. He served his country well in the Navy, and he has given much time and devotion to his community.

Tigè Boats features unique skiboat

Matt and Ingrid Dettman opened Tigè Boats of Nevada Feb. 2 at 1645-A N. Boulder Highway.

The store features Tigè Precision Watersport Towboats, the only in-board skiboat to feature TAPS, a driver-activated system for adjusting the size and shape of wakes to satisfy the needs of every discipline of skier.

Experienced slalom skiers or novices can enjoy the benefits of wakes diminished to barely a bump at the touch of a button, Dettman said. If you are a big air wakeboarder, the wake can be changed into a huge ramp at the touch of a button, he added.

"If I don't remember your name the second time you visit, I will give you a 10% discount on your next purchase," Dettman said.

The store is open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday.

Gators clip Wolves in volleyball shootout

Bill Bowman
News Sports Editor

Welcome to the Shootout at the O.K. Corral.

In a volleyball match with more kills than the historic gunfight, the Green Valley Gators were left standing when the smoke cleared in posting a 12-15, 15-8, 15-13 victory over Basic on Tuesday night.

Green Valley's Branson Barr and Basic's Andy Campbell put on a clinic that was nothing short of smashing.

"We played well against a very good Basic team. They played well."

Erin Hill,
Green Valley coach

Barr wound up the night with 22 kills while Campbell had 16 kills in the two-hour marathon match at Green Valley High School.

"Both teams wanted to win," Green Valley coach Erin Hill said. "Mentally, we stayed focused. It was a good win for us. We're moving it up a level."

It was the Wolves moving it up a level with a first-game victory, led by Campbell's five kills.

"Both teams were pumped up," Basic coach Darrin Puana said.

The Gators jumped out to an 11-3 lead in the second game and held off the Wolves for the 15-8 victory, setting up the third game.

It was a game of momentum.

The Wolves took an early 7-2 lead before the Gators clawed their way back into the match.

Barr picked up four straight service points — including an ace — as the Gators closed the Green Valley's Bill Masciocchi said.

'Hawks facing tough road in baseball

By the News Staff

Sunset Division play has not been friendly to Silverado thus far this prep baseball season.

With a 10-2 loss at Durango High School on Tuesday, the Skyhawks fell to 0-3 in league play after losing their first two games to Cim-Memorial and Western.

And as if having to start against that trio of teams — who many believe are three of the top five teams in the valley — is not tough enough, Silverado will play host to Gorman today at 3 p.m.

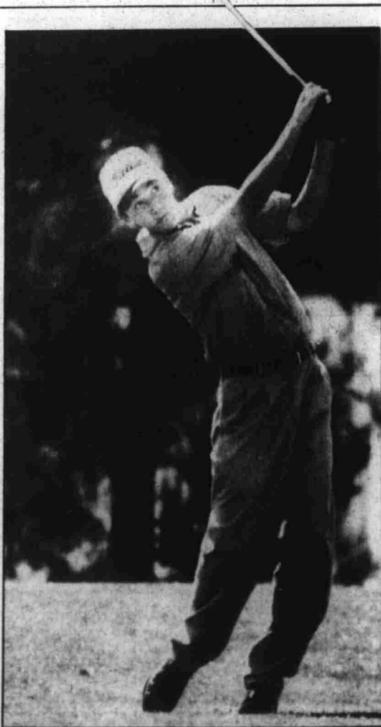

Not only is Gorman 3-0 in the Sunset, but the Gaels are undefeated overall and ranked 19th in the nation.

"There's definitely no break in the action," said Silverado coach Brian Whitaker about having to face the Gaels. "But like I told the kids, you don't get many opportunities to play a ranked team at this level —

Skyhawks earn golf split

By the News Staff

The Silverado boys beat Western 217-219 on Monday to open the week's golf action.

"Western beat us by 25 or 30 strokes the first time we played them so this was quite an improvement," Silverado coach Randy Minagil said.

Jason Rowland and Brad Callihan each had 42s to lead the Skyhawks. Keith Iavazzi came in with a 43, Mark Zabolio had a 44 and Joe Reyes carded a 45.

"We're not breaking any records, but we're playing better," Minagil said. "Last year we were at 245 and this year we're at 217 so it's a great improvement. And with no seniors, it's only going to get better."

On Tuesday, the Skyhawks lost to Bonanza 181-215.

"Anything under 220 I feel good about," Minagil said.

Rowland and Zabolio each shot 39 for the Skyhawks while Brian Almassey had a 46, Iavazzi came in with a 46 while Reyes and Callihan each had a 47.

"We didn't go out there in awe," Minagil said. "We hung in there and did a real good job."

The Skyhawks are 4-6 overall and 2-5 in Sunset.

GREEN VALLEY BREEZES: The Gators posted a 196-265 victory over Las Vegas in boys golf action Monday.

Mike Loudon led the Gators with a 37. Russell Nygard and Casey Hall both fired 39s while Dallas Massey had a 40. Avi Khitri and Doug Brown both came in with 41s.

"We're just trying to keep focused," Green Valley coach Del Sagers said. "We want to work on our short game a little more, the putting and chipping."

The Gators are 7-1 overall and 5-0 in Sunrise.

BASIC GOLFERS FALL: The Wolves fired a 222 total, but lost to Boulder City in boys golf action Tuesday.

Boulder City had a 207 total.

"It was kind of windy," Basic coach Dennis Smuskiewicz said. "It wasn't a great effort, but for a non-division match, we were happy."

Jerry Cram topped the Wolves with a 40. Nick Nelson carded a 42 while Steve Zyla had a 43. Ryan Smuskiewicz had a 44 and Richard Ruane had a 53 in his first varsity outing.

Basic is 5-4 overall and 5-1 in Sunrise.

Basic girls back on track, beat Rancho in softball

By the News Staff

Basic used a five-run fifth inning to beat Rancho 9-6 in girls softball action Tuesday.

"We got some key hits and that helped," Basic coach Barb Gillaspay said of the victory.

Valerie Miller picked up the pitching win for the Wolves. Jen Redding came in and picked up the save.

"The tournament helped us out," Gillaspay said of the Clark Invitational. "It gave us a lot of swings at the ball and that gave us a little confidence. We played well in most of [the tournament games]. Hopefully it will carry over."

Erica Euffa was 2-for-5 for the Wolves with a triple, two RBI and two runs scored. Jen Redding was 2-for-4 with two RBI and Miller also picked up a triple.

Basic is now 1-1 in Sunrise and 5-9 overall.

ANDERSON PACES SKY-

HAWKS: Silverado's LaMeka Anderson struck out 18 batters as the Skyhawks blanked Durango 5-0 in girls softball action Tuesday.

"Meka was pretty much untouchable," Silverado coach Chuck Pope said.

The Skyhawks scored two runs in the first inning and three more in the second and that was more than enough for Anderson.

April Arata had a first-inning RBI and Anderson drove in a second-inning run. The other three runs scored on passed balls.

"We were very solid," Pope said. "We're moving the ball. We're still experimenting [with the lineup], but we're getting there."

Laura Conners had two hits in the Skyhawks' five-hit attack.

The Skyhawks move to 3-0 in Sunset and 17-5 overall.

GATORS ROMP: Joni Scoville gave up just three hits and struck out nine as Green Valley beat Chaparral 9-0 in girls softball action Tuesday.

"They did some good things," Green Valley coach Cindi Davis said.

Terra Pope, Rachel Mohler and Jen Lee each had two hits and two RBI for the Gators. All three had a double.

"The girls were a little more focused," Davis added.

The Gators are now 3-0 in Sunrise and 11-7 overall.

Silverado track teams come up on top

By the News Staff

Silverado's track squad swept both the boys and girls meets on Tuesday at The Meadows.

The Skyhawk boys scored 200 points to top six teams: Valley (133), Spring Mountain (119), Australian Select (56), The Meadows (26) and Trinity Christian (0).

Paul Bingham collected first place finishes in the triple jump (39-7) and the discus (124-7 1/2) to lead Silverado to the win. Matt Shelton also added a win in the 110 hurdles (16.0) and Rick Stubblefield had top honors in the shot put (41-1).

In girls action, Silverado collected 113 points to edge Valley (102). The Meadows (78) took third topping Australian Select (52) and Trinity Christian (0).

Kristi Fries was the only double-winner in the meet taking first in the 1600 and 3200 for Silverado.

Also taking first place for the Skyhawks were Kathryn Hiteman in the 100 (13.3), Danielle Saye in the 110 hurdles (17.8), Day Gang in the pole vault (7-6) and Devon Jean in the shot put (32-5 1/2).

GV BOYS, GIRLS BREEZE

At Green Valley High School on Tuesday, both Gator squads ran to easy victories over Las Vegas and Eldorado.

Green Valley's girls topped Las Vegas 135-29 while Eldorado finished with 16.

The Gators captured first place in 16 of the 18 events as they remained unbeaten on the season against area schools.

Carron Allen collected two wins — 100 (12.9) and 200 (26.3) — as did Autumn Willhoit — 110 hurdles (19.5) and 300 hurdles (54.2).

Sophomore Breanna Coleman set a Green Valley school record with a first place mark of 23-10 1/2 in the triple jump while Julie Kyriacou (12.46 in the 3200) and Katie Barto (2:22 in the 800) also picked up impressive wins for the Gators.

In boys action, Green Valley won 13 of the events as it got past Las Vegas 104-74. Eldorado finished with eight points.

Junior sprinter Brain Reed won the 100 (10.9) and 200 (22.5) as he was Green Valley's only double-winner. Sophomore Jamar Gaspar set a personal best taking first in the 300 hurdles (42.4).

"[Las Vegas and Eldorado] weren't really that tough, but we still ran pretty well," said Green Valley coach Ernie Monfiletto.

BASIC BOYS COLLECT WIN IN TRIANGULAR

At Boulder City High School on Tuesday, Basic's boys ran to a 39-point win over Chaparral while Basic's girls fell to the Cowboys by seven.

Kindle Spears, who is considered the one of the top hurdlers in the state, added a first place finish in the high jump (6-1) to go with his two wins in the hurdles — 110 (15.7) and 300 (41.9).

Also adding first place finishes for the Wolves were Seth Juarez (800), Travis Tilman (long jump), Zach Adam (pole vault) and Brandon Bair (shot put).

Basic's girls fell to Chaparral, 88-81, while Boulder City finished with 15.

Shoshana Erickson paced the Wolves with wins in the 110 and 300 hurdles.

"It was a dirt track and there was a head-wind the entire meet, but we ran pretty well," said Basic coach Larry Burgess, whose squad will compete the next two Saturdays, but not during the week. "Our schedule hasn't been very good. It feels like we're either resting for a meet or recovering from one. We haven't had that much time to train."

Track action set for Saturday

By the News Staff

Silverado High School's track team will play host to the first Skyhawk Invitational on Saturday.

About 15 teams will compete in the meet including area schools as well as teams from California, Arizona and Utah.

Basic will join Silverado in the meet as the two squads representing Henderson. Green Valley was originally scheduled to compete, but withdrew so it could have the weekend off.

Field events will begin at 8 a.m. with running events set to start at 9 a.m.

points, the Gators were poised for the kill.

There was a kill all right, but it was Campbell who rocketed a shot that kept Basic alive.

The Wolves scored a point to make it 14-13 before the Gators put the final point away for the victory.

"Basic was tough," Masciocchi said. "We didn't underestimate them. We just tried to play as a team."

Masciocchi said the Gators "gave the first game away, but we battled back. It was a boost for us."

Puana added the Gators "served and passed a little better and that was the difference. The serving and passing have to be there and it turns out they did it a little better."

Hill added the Gators "were tough when we needed to be. We played well against a very good Basic team. They played well."

Puana wasn't extremely happy with his team's play.

"It kills the momentum," he said of the loss. "It's one of those things. We're a young team and we're not used to the pressure. We'll learn from it."

Green Valley is 5-3 overall and 3-0 in Sunrise while Basic is 1-1 in Sunrise and 5-2 overall.

SILVERADO FALLS:

Silverado jumped out to an 8-4 lead, but Bonanza rallied to beat Silverado 15-8, 15-10 in boys volleyball action Monday night.

"We couldn't pass the ball to save our life," Silverado coach Pam Sloan said. "After we led 8-4, we didn't score another point [in the first game]. They destroyed our service receive."

Sloan said the Skyhawks "made some costly mistakes that just killed us. We started the second game with a service error and just never got going. Mentally, we weren't there. They are just killing themselves. We need to get our confidence back."

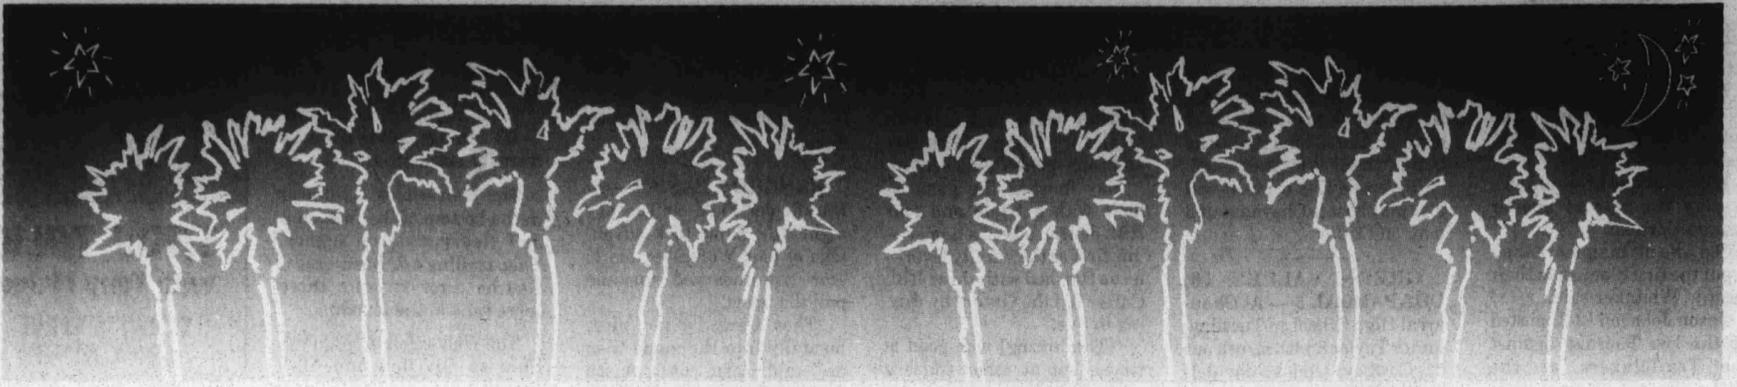

The loss drops the Skyhawks to 5-3 overall and 0-3 in Sunset.

Theater groups make gains in last decade

Thomas Lacy
News Staff Writer

While the Las Vegas Valley has been synonymous with gaming for decades, during the most recent 10-year span, another presence has made itself known.

At present, about a dozen community theater groups regularly present a myriad of productions throughout the year.

While the Spring Mountain Ranch Super Summer Theatre is seasonal, a host of other groups stage plays year-round.

What the new emergence of these groups means for the average theater fan in the valley is an unprecedented infusion of talent and entertainment diversity from which to choose.

A case in point: During the month of March, Actors Repertory Theater in combination with Nevada Opera Theatre presented the much-heralded "Man of La Mancha" to sold-out performances at the Summerlin Library and Performing Arts Center.

Meanwhile, across town in the laid-back coffee house atmosphere of Cafe Neon in downtown Las Vegas, "Taxi Tales" was staged by the recently formed Dark Night Players.

Although the settings contrasted, the two productions shared a common denominator — serious actors putting on a quality production for the growing number of serious theater fans. And in typical supply and demand fashion, groups are continuing to spring up to meet that demand.

Ten years ago, patrons were often content to have even one production to enjoy. How times have changed.

Now it's not uncommon to be afforded the opportunity to select from among a half a dozen productions simultaneously staged at various locations throughout the valley.

Actors Repertory Theater Artistic Director Georgia Neu came to Las Vegas nearly 10 years ago and described the community theater situation then as bleak.

"There wasn't much in terms of theater," Neu recalled. "And the groups weren't talking to each other. I was taken aback because I had grown up in an area where community theater was 50-60 years old and had a great deal of cooperation and community involvement."

Not long after moving to Las Vegas, Neu formed Actors Repertory Theater, which has evolved into perhaps the most successful theater group in the community.

With an ensemble of about 20 actors, ART is now a union house and is a rarity among local groups because it is able to pay actors and provide other employment benefits such as health insurance.

Although Neu acknowledged a good deal of community support for the ART, she said the group has toured Nevada and hopes to evolve into a regional theater group.

As ART and other local theater groups continue to flourish, Valley theater patrons will reap the rewards of an ever increasing supply of quality plays to pick from.

So today, there may be a dozen or so groups and a decade from now, who knows, the number could easily climb to 20 or more.

FLAMINGO AND BOULDER HIGHWAY

LIFESTYLES

Order your pie on the side

Marie Callender's restaurant is at the corner of Tropicana and Eastern. While our usual visits are to pick up a pie for company, we decided to visit for dinner recently.

We were glad to see a new children's menu offering nice-sized meals for kids under 12 priced at $2.49 or $3.99.

Meals offered included grilled cheese and French fries, macaroni and cheese, spaghetti, corn dogs with French fries, pizza, hamburger or cheeseburger, or chicken fingers.

The full children's dinner selections were lasagna or roast turkey, which included a choice of soup or salad.

Daughter Marcie, 9, ordered a cheeseburger and was served a big burger. She commented on how good the fries were. Son Matthew, 6, who had just come from a T-ball party, wasn't too hungry and just kept us company.

The regular menu offers appetizers and soups, some of which we've tried before. Selections include turkey Creole, cream of broccoli, split pea, clam chowder and beef barley. Served with a piece of excellent cornbread, a cup of soup is $2.50 while a full bowl is priced at $4.50.

Salad entrees, such as Cobb salad with grilled chicken, is $7.25 and a Chinese chopstick salad is $6.95.

Regular dinners are served a la carte or with a visit to the soup and salad bar. The many selections range from about $7 to $8 a la carte and from about $10 to $11 when the salad bar is added.

I tried the chicken-fried steak, served with mashed potatoes and mixed vegetables. The food was tasty and filling. My wife Julie, went with a grilled chicken and pasta which was also very good and also included mixed vegetables. She ended up taking half of her meal home.

Other selections included meatloaf, grilled chicken teriyaki, London broil, lemon chicken, lasagna, fettuccini Alfredo, and chicken broccoli fettuccini.

In addition to the dinners, a selection of hamburgers is available, priced from $5 to $7. Adding the soup and salad bar costs $2.95.

By the time we finished our meals, we had no room for dessert, which meant for the first time ever, we would leave Marie Callender's without pie.

The motto of the story: Order your pie on the side—so what if you leave over some of your mashed potatoes.

Goldstein, an attorney who lives in Henderson, writes about his dining experiences with his wife Julie, and young children Marcie and Matthew.

Gov. Miller honors community colleges

Gov. Bob Miller recently declared April 1996 as the "Silver Anniversary of Nevada's Community Colleges" at a proclamation signing in his office in Carson City.

"In the past 25 years, Nevada's four community colleges—the Community College of Southern Nevada in Las Vegas, Great Basin College in Elko, Truckee Meadows Community College in Reno, and Western Nevada Community College in Carson City—have become an integral part of Nevada's higher education system," Miller said.

"Today, nearly 36,000 of the 68,000 students enrolled in Nevada's public higher education system currently attend the community colleges. Thousands of Nevadans improve their professional and personal lives through the education, job training and cultural programs offered by these colleges," Miller said.

Little Wolf is fearless boy

"Where the Buffaloes Begin," by Olaf Baker, (1981, ages 6 and up), centers around Little Wolf, an Indian boy, who, overcome by curiosity, mounts his horse and begins a quest for a strange lake to the South. Legend has it that the lake is where the buffalo began.

Little Wolf not only sees this supernatural herd, but he befriends them, and leads them in a stampede to save his camp from their arch-enemy—the Assiniboins.

Black and white pencil drawings successfully capture the essence of the Indian culture. Especially realistic are the drawings of the buffalo. They are fearsome, powerful and larger-than-life. The reader can almost feel the ground shake as the buffalo thunder through the book.

"The Mountains of Tibet," by Mordicai Gerstein, (1987, ages 7 and up), is about a little boy who loves to fly kites, and who dreams of traveling all over the world. He grows up to be a woodcutter, marries, has a family, and never leaves his village. He lives to a very old age.

After his death, he hears a

LET ME TELL YOU A STORY

voice speaking to him. The voice gives him a choice: You may become part of the universe, or you may live another life—as an animal or as a person.

Born in Los Angeles and now living in Massachusetts, the author decided to write this story after reading "The Tibetan Book of the Dead."

"The Snow Goose," by Paul Gallico, (1968, ages 7 and up), is a poignant story of friendship between a young girl and a lonely painter shunned by everyone because of his physical deformities—a hunchback and a crippled left arm.

Philip Rhayader lives a secluded life in an abandoned lighthouse on the River Aelder on England's Essex Coast. Full of love, compassion and bravery, he spends his days painting, sailing and tending to injured wildlife.

He is a lover of nature, particularly birds. Hunters were never welcome near his home. A young girl, frightened by his appearance, but knowing his devotion to animals, brings a wounded bird to him.

The bird is bandaged and lovingly healed, and a warm friendship develops between the girl and Philip. The friendship continues until World War II erupts, and changes their lives forever.

The heartbreaking classic was first published in 1941. Beth Peck illustrated this 50th-anniversary edition.

Some readers may remember the film adaptation of this story, starring Richard Harris.

Gallico has had many best selling novels including "The Poseidon Adventure."

"Books are ships which pass through the vast seas of time," Frances Bacon. Happy reading!

Spotti, a long-time Henderson resident who is a librarian at Fyfe Elementary School in Las Vegas, makes recommendations on children's literature.

Holocaust topic of lecture

Victor Frankl, in his book "Man's Search for Meaning," forces the reader to look at those who took every means to stay alive during the Holocaust, even betrayal of their fellow prisoners.

There were difficult and painful ethical decisions which Jewish prisoners were forced to take regarding the approach of death. They had little or no control over the circumstances which they faced.

Today, with the improvement of medical science, we too face tough ethical decisions about how we deal with the approach of death. Rev. Suzanne B. Dougherty on Sunday, April 14 will review historical perspectives affecting our understanding of these issues. As she looks at recent trends she will challenge all of us to wrestle with some hard questions such as: how much pain is too much? Who decides when the pain is too much and what about physician-assisted suicide?

The program will take place at 11 a.m. Sunday, April 14, at the Masonic Temple, 2200 W. Mesquite, Las Vegas.

hired him to assist her at the Appeal in November 1879. Eight months later, July 1880, they were married.

Davis took over the operation of the Appeal thereafter, but Nellie continued as business manager and reporter in addition to raising their growing family. In March 1897, she took up sports writing, covering the Corbett-Fitzsimmons heavyweight championship fight in Carson City, another first for a woman.

Sam, like her first husband, also had political aspirations, serving as Deputy Secretary of State in 1895 and winning election to the post of State Controller in 1898 and 1902. In 1907, he was appointed State Industrial and Publicity Commissioner.

Nellie acted a behind-the-scenes adviser during these years and her son, Henry R. Mighels Jr., took over as editor of the Appeal, from 1898 to 1906.

Nellie was also active in community and club affairs over the years, organizing a Carson City chapter of the American Red Cross during the Spanish-American War. She was also an officer of Carson City's Leisure Hour Club when the group affiliated with the Nevada Federation of Womens' Clubs and served as president of both the Pythian Sisters of Nevada and the Custer Relief Corps, an organization of descendants of Civil War veterans.

She was also an active member of both the California Press Association and the Nevada Press Association for many years.

Following the death of Sam in 1918, she retained ownership of the Appeal, leasing the paper to various editors, including her son, Henry Jr., who subsequently owned it, from 1927 to 1932. His wife, Ida B. Mighels, kept the paper running after his death and it was sold to Amos O. Buckner in 1938.

Following two additional ownership changes, the Carson Appeal became the Nevada Appeal in 1947.

Nellie kept her hand in on the Appeal until Buckner took over, thereafter retiring. Reporters writing on Carson City's history would occasionally interview her and she continued to maintain her interest in politics, saying that it kept her "young," and her membership in local civic clubs.

Nellie died on June 23, 1945, three months short of her 101st birthday, and was buried in Carson's Lone Mountain Cemetery between the graves of her two husbands, a life well-lived.

Among the many women who broke new ground for their gender a century ago was Nellie Verrill Mighels Davis, Carson City civic leader and editor of the Carson Appeal, whose life has recently been chronicled in a new publication from the University of Nevada Press, "Equal to the Occasion: Women Editors of the Nineteenth Century," by Sherilyn Cox Bennion of Humboldt State University.

An earlier version appeared in the Fall 1991 issue of the Nevada Historical Society Quarterly.

Born in Greenwood, Maine on Sept. 10, 1844, she came to Carson City to marry Henry Rust Mighels, editor and publisher of the Carson Appeal, in July 1866. Becoming business manager of the paper, she soon learned to set type, write stories and otherwise integrate herself into her husband's affairs, political as well as journalistic.

In 1868, Henry was elected State Printer, completed a two-year term, and was elected as a Republican to the Nevada Assembly in 1876. He served as Speaker of the 1877 session and ran an unsuccessful campaign for Lieutenant Governor in 1878.

When her husband fell ill with cancer in 1878, Nellie took on a larger role at the Appeal, helping him with his editorial work, editing telegraphic items and exchanges and she took over as editor following his death on May 27, 1879.

She had covered the 1877 session of the Legislature as a reporter, the first woman ever to do so, and returned again for the 1879 session.

During the 1877 session, she met Samuel Post Davis, a reporter for the Virginia Chronicle, and

Galbraith/Buckley debate set for April 18 at UNLV

The Barrick Lecture Series informal debate between liberal economist John Kenneth Galbraith and conservative writer and television host William F. Buckley Jr. has been rescheduled for April 18.

The original date of Jan. 9 was postponed when an East Coast blizzard prevented Galbraith and Buckley from flying to Las Vegas.

The debate, titled "Current Events: Perspectives on the World Around," will take place at 7:30 p.m. in Ham Concert Hall.

Tickets showing the January date should be used for admission

"We realize that some people who picked up tickets for the debate back in January may not be able to attend on April 18," said Rick Romito, director of UNLV's Performing Arts Center. "We encourage those people to give their tickets to friends or coworkers so that they do not go unused."

This will be Galbraith and Buckley's second debate at UNLV. They first debated here on Jan.

10, 1983, during the second year of the Barrick Lecture Series.

New Breast Care Center in LV dedicated

Sandy Miller, Nevada's first lady, joined more than 100 well-wishers for the March 20 dedication of the new Sierra Health Services Breast Care Center, which company officials say is one of Nevada's most comprehensive facilities devoted to detecting and treating breast diseases.

Miller, wife of Nevada Gov. Bob Miller, is a long-time advocate of regular mammograms and breast self-exams for women as a means of combating breast disease. To help draw attention to the issue, she became the first woman to receive a mammogram at the center.

After receiving her annual mammogram, Miller congratulated Sierra Health Services officials for opening the breast care center in Las Vegas and helped them dedicate the new facility in honor of Mary Frances Banich, the late mother of the center's founder and medical director, Terence G. Banich, M.D.

The Sierra Health Services Breast Care Center is located in Southwest Medical Associates' Surgery Center, at 2450 W. Charleston Blvd., just west of MSA's main campus on the corner of Rancho Drive and Charleston.

Mediators sponsor training

The Mediators of Southern Nevada, Inc. (MSN) is sponsoring a 40-hour basic mediation course May 13-14 in Las Vegas.

The instructor will be Dr. Peter Maida, J.D., director of mediation services and training at the Key Bridge Therapy and Mediation Center in Arlington, Va.

This first-of-its-kind basic mediation training will give participants the skills to mediate disagreements in the community, including those at work and those involving families. As a form of alternative dispute resolution, mediation is a private, informal, quick and preferred means of resolving disputes.

Mediation has a 75%-80% success rate and the participants have control over the results, a spokesman said.

MSN is a non-profit organization which promotes the use of mediation as a way of resolving disputes. It offers the community information and referral services, a free directory of MSN mediators; a speakers bureau and free presentations on topics related to mediation.

MSN has the largest mediator membership in Nevada. For more information, contact Tom Cronin, training conference chairman, 631-2790.

Boat safety inspections offered

Boaters are being offered a free boating inspection at Lake Mead National Recreation Area to get them off to a safe summer boating season.

Inspections will be available from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, April 14, at the Boulder Harbor at Lake Mead Marina on Lake Mead and at Katherine Landing on Lake Mohave.

The National Park Service has asked the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary to inspect its patrol boats for the lakes and provide the same service to private boaters as well. The auxiliary is a partner with the NPS in providing safety inspections, patrols and visitor assistance on Lake Mead and Mohave.

"Failure to have a properly equipped boat has contributed to many accidents on the water, including fatal incidents," said Assistant Chief Ranger Bob McKeever, who oversees water activities and water safety programs at the recreation area.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

D. R. GEORGE D. WILBANKS

Loss of pelvic support

Your reproductive organs are suspended from the pelvic bones by an elaborate structure of muscles, ligaments and connective tissue. Not uncommonly, parts of this suspension system may weaken with age and stress due to childbirth and/or other factors. This condition is referred to as "pelvic relaxation" or a loss of pelvic support.

Symptoms can include a feeling of heaviness or fullness in the pelvic region (as if something is falling out of the vagina), urinary incontinence or leakage, difficulty having a bowel movement, and lower back or abdominal pain.

Sometimes pelvic support can weaken to the point that one or more of the surrounding organs (the bladder, small intestine, rectum or uterus) protrudes or "bulges" into the vagina. This is known as pelvic organ prolapse. Several treatments are available depending on your age, the severity of symptoms and your future childbearing plans.

Your doctor may prescribe a vaginal pessary, a special device similar to a diaphragm that is worn inside the vagina to hold the vaginal walls in place. Sometimes estrogen replacement therapy is recommended for postmenopausal women to help maintain the quality of pelvic tissues. Special medications and/or bladder training (a scheduled voiding procedure that increases control) may help correct urinary incontinence. In addition, control may increase if you stop smoking and limit your intake of caffeine and other drugs that trigger the urge to empty your bladder.

Surgery may be recommended, but typically would be postponed until after your childbearing is complete. Unfortunately, there is no guarantee it can relieve all of your symptoms.

There are a number of ways to help prevent a loss of pelvic support or to keep it from worsening. The first of these is to strengthen your pelvic muscles through deliberate, regular contractions known as "Kegel exercises." Squeeze the muscles surrounding your urethra, vagina, and rectum tightly for about 10 seconds, 10 to 20 times in a row. Repeat three or more times a day.

You should avoid heavy lifting or other activities that place stress on the pelvic muscles. Take care to prevent constipation through a high-fiber diet. Finally, try to maintain the proper weight through exercise and eating right. That will reduce the abdominal pressure on your pelvic region and help you feel better overall.

It may help to know that many women share your condition. Talk with your doctor about what steps may bring you relief.

Wilbanks is president of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Cancer Treatment at Sunrise

There was a time when a patient heard the word cancer, and there was little or no hope for recovery. However, statistics have shown a dramatic improvement. Currently almost half of all cancer patients survive five years or more. Early detection and treatment have made a dramatic difference in survival rates.

In the Oncology Department at Sunrise Hospital and Medical Center, we're on the front lines fighting this life threatening disease. It means investing millions of dollars in the latest technologies, and recruiting some of the most respected oncologists and medical specialists in the country. It's not an easy task, but it's how we set the standard, every day.

Hummingbirds are fascinating

Hummingbirds are one of my favorite birds to watch. Their beautiful colors, small size, ability to fly backwards and a wing beat of about 80 beats per second makes them quite fascinating.

Hummingbirds will give endless hours of pleasure and attracting them to back yards is quite simple.

There are three important elements; shelter, food and water. Hummingbirds live on spiders, insects and nectar.

Find a favorite design from a variety of hummingbird feeders at the store. Mix one cup of sugar with four cups of boiling water, stir and cool to room temperature.

Do not add food color—this can be harmful. The feeder will have enough red to attract these tiny birds. Place the feeder in a location easily visible in your back yard.

Many times the hummingbird will ignore the feeder for flowers, but eventually they'll use the feeder. Their acrobatic maneuvers are entertaining.

National Park Service

Two aids to navigation at the southern end of the Overton Islands in Lake Mead have been moved according to Lake Mead National Recreation Area Superintendent Alan O'Neill.

The two shore lights are Ramshead Island and Blue Slide. "Boaters on Lake Mead will be noticing a number of aid to navigation changes as the waters of the lake rise," said O'Neill.

"This is the first in a number of changes to be made over the next several months," he said. The Ramshead Island shore light No. 8 is now located at 36 degrees, 15 minutes, 50 seconds north by 14 degrees, 24 minutes, one second west.

Blue Slide shore light No. 9 is located at 36 degrees, 16 minutes, 21 seconds north by 114 degrees, 24 minutes, 42 seconds west. The aid colors have not changed.

The Ramshead Island aid continues to show a red light and the Blue Slide aid continues to show a green light. Both lights display an "FL 4 sec." sequence.

This means it flashes on for four tenths (0.4) of a second and off for three-and-six-tenths (3.6) seconds, after which the sequence is repeated.

Changes in locations for a number of aids to navigation will be made due to the higher water levels in Lake Mead and the expectation of higher levels being maintained over the next few years. Boaters are advised to update navigation charts as the changes occur.

Mind your manners when on the lake

A few weeks ago I was heading down to the Lake Mead Marina and as I turned the corner at the Alan Bible Center, I noticed a string of sail boats sailing along Boulder Beach. What a pretty sight it was with different-colored sails in full display thanks to a brisk wind.

I did not investigate when I reached the marina but I would assume there was a race in progress and it brought to mind what normal marine traffic should do when a race or regatta is being held.

Christmas parades, powerboat races, sailboat races, even events like the swimming competitions are held throughout the year and require a permit plus some patrol picket boats to keep non-participants from the designated route and to assist in any problems that might arise with those craft in the event.

You must obey any instructions given by these patrol boats.

BOATING WITH RAY

RAY EICHER

In addition to interfering with the progress of the race or parade, it is discourteous and rude and could cause injury or damage to a boat by your action of sailing into their established path.

As a veteran of many Christmas boat parades, I have had boats with no lights cruise right up to my boat to take pictures and boats that drove between me and the boat in front of me so they could get to the "on the water" viewing area.

Their wake caused me to bounce around and I expected my tall decorations to snap off any minute. No damage occurred but for a few moments, I lost my Christmas good cheer.

A group of boats headed in the same direction would seem to me to indicate that a race or event is in progress and I take evasive action. Even a crowd on the beach and tents in plain view would be sure signs a regulated activity is going on and you should stay clear or at least approach the area slowly until you can determine what is taking place and obey those patrol boats.

A pair of binoculars is helpful anytime on the lake and especially if you need to find out what kind of event it is before blundering into their course.

When pulling into a beach be certain you come in with no wake. And don't pull in too close to other boats. Beach space can't be reserved or saved but respect the "first-come-first-served" rule. The lake is big enough for everyone and we all can enjoy it more completely if we mind our manners when out on the water.

Hope all you Boulder City and Henderson skippers have called the Community College, 294-0188, to sign up for the Las Vegas Power Squadron boat safety class beginning May 1 through June 12. The classes are held at 700 Wyoming each Wednesday and there is still time to enroll, according to Clint Moore, who indicated classes are filling up, a sign that skipper are becoming more safety-minded.

Until next time...Keep your bilge dry.

Eicher, a long-time valley resident, considers himself a part-time boater and fisherman.

Jazz Society presents Charlie McLean Quintet

The Las Vegas Jazz Society will present Charlie McLean's "Jazz Anthology" at the Winchester Community Center at 2 p.m. on Sunday, April 14. Part of the Society's Nevada Jazz Artists concert series, the event is co-sponsored by the Clark County Department of Parks and Recreation and KUNV Community Radio 91.5 FM. General admission is $7; $5 for seniors, students under 18 or Jazz Society members.

McLean has long been one of the top jazz saxophonists on the local scene. Born near Edinburgh, Scotland, he came to America at the age of 15. In 1960 he came to Las Vegas to join the Billy Eckstine band, and later worked with many other noted jazz artists, including Louie Bellson, Sarah Vaughan, Benny Carter, Peggy Lee and the Harry James Orchestra.

For his "Jazz Anthology" presentation, McLean has formed a seven-piece ensemble comprised of trumpeter Vinnie Tanno, tenor saxophonist Jack Montrose, pianist Tom Ferguson, bassist Billy Christ, drummer Santo Savino, singer Deborah Tompkins, and the leader himself on soprano and alto saxophones and flute.

Additional funding for the NJA series has been provided by a grant from the Nevada State Council on the Arts, a state agency. The Winchester Community Center is located at 3130 S. McLeod Dr., one half-block north of Desert Inn Road.

Alemany is a product of the Royal Academy of Music in Spain. He has just completed his first recording, "Flying Notes of a Piano" which will be released soon.

'Taurofilia' exhibit celebrates bull fighting

The Beam Fine Art Gallery of UNLV will exhibit "Taurofilia" by Mark A. Lohman from April 15 to 19.

A public reception will be held at 6 p.m. April 19. It is the first of a series featuring candidates for the degree of master of fine arts at UNLV.

Lohman's work in ceramic sculpture celebrates the bull and bullfighting, expressing aspects of his Hispanic heritage.

From Cortez, Colo., he holds a bachelor's of arts degree from Ft.

Lewis College in Durango, Colo.

His exhibit has received support from Don King Productions, Showtime, Image-Crafters, Inc., and the Graduate Student Association of UNLV.

A number of exhibited pieces have already been purchased.

"All of my sculptures are about bullfighting," said Lohman. "And with this work I feel I have captured the power, grace, and beauty of this emotionally charged ritual."

"My research goes all the way back to prehistoric cave paintings in Alta Mira, Spain. I also studied the many myths and legends regarding bulls. For example, the Greeks believed the Taurus constellation was the bull which carried Europa across the seas to Crete until she was raised to the heavens by Jupiter."

The Beam Gallery is located on the UNLV campus and is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For more information, phone 895-3893.

INSIGHT TO EYESIGHT

by Joseph Shalev, M.D.
FLOATING CONCERNS

"Floaters" is the collective term used to describe the spot or lines that many people find drifting across their fields of vision from time to time. This phenomena is generally nothing to worry about and is actually a matter of sloughed off retinal cells floating in the jelly-like substance (vitreous) that fills much of the eyeball. Floaters may appear when the head tilts or when a person glances suddenly up or down, causing cellular debris to cross the center of the retina. As benign as floaters usually are, they can signal danger in rare instances. When flashing lights, a sudden onset of floaters, a rapid increase in their frequency (especially if confined to one eye or appearing in large clumps), blurry vision, or partial shading of the visual fields occurs, it may indicate that the retina has (or is about to) come loose. These symptoms should prompt an immediate call to the ophthalmologist or visit to the emergency room.

Without examination by an ophthalmologist, there is no way for a person to determine whether floaters are serious. Floaters may sometimes interfere with clear vision, often when reading, and can be quite annoying. At EYE INSTITUTE OF NEVADA, we stress preventive health care. Your eyesight is priceless. To schedule an Adams Blvd., Suite 101, Boulder City.

LAST WORDS

DEAR DEBBIE

DEBORAH WHITE

Dear Debbie: My father, who is a widower, is dating a woman half his age who is only after his money.

My father was always a saver and lived comfortably but frugally. Now she has him buying new cars and clothes and taking expensive trips. She avoids seeing us because she knows we're on to her, and she has taken my father away from the family.

Whenever we try to discuss it, he gets defensive and accuses us of trying to protect our inheritance. He says he has a right to spend his money and have fun.

We all make a nice living and don't care about the money. We just don't want to see him used. Isn't there anything we can do?

WORRIED DAUGHTER

Dear Worried Daughter: This woman may indeed be a "fortune hunter," but she's giving your father a new lease on life. He apparently considers the money well spent.

I discussed this once with an older, rich man who was always surrounded by pretty, young women. He was realistic about them, and considered the situation a tradeoff.

If you can't stomach the woman, see him without her and don't bad mouth her. Ask a trusted family friend to talk to him about protecting his assets, especially if he decides to marry her.

Dear Debbie: I live with my grandmother. My father is in jail, and my mom has a lot of problems and can't take care of me.

Everything was fine when I was little. But now that I'm 12, it's been a problem because my grandmother is too strict.

She won't let me talk on the phone when I want to, or go out with my friends. She wants to keep me at home and at church. I'm even thinking of running away. What can I do?

TREATED LIKE A BABY

Dear Treated: Your grandmother is trying to protect you. But you'll get along better if she gives you privileges as you earn them. Set up a system to do that. For instance, if you finish your homework before dinner, you can talk on the phone for an hour after dinner.

You'll be better off, too, if you don't have so much time to just hang out. That's what your grandmother is worried about.

Write to Dear Debbie, P.O. Box 4328, Chicago, Ill. 60680.

Toss ironing boards

I've always envied women who are able, in two shakes, to coordinate a classy outfit out of an old scarf, a nightgown and a sweatband they wore in last year's tennis match.

The other evening, for instance, Sharon Stone appeared at the Academy Awards ceremony wearing a $26 Gap T-shirt. Everyone applauded her fresh approach to the fashion scene.

A few months before, another actress wore her slip (and a skimpy one at that) to her wedding ceremony. I call that very practical. She was able to (pardon my pun) slip from the church to her honeymoon with nos tops in between. Fashion designers picked up on it immediately and now you and I can be married in specially designed underwear.

Then there's Michael Jackson. He made wearing a surgical mask the latest in chic. This is a particularly helpful fashion coup for doctors who don't want to waste time changing clothes when they go home from the hospital. Another of Michael's innovations, wearing only one glove, never really caught on, especially in Alaska and Russia.

Thanks to Diane Keaton, we can toss away our ironing boards. I imagine this clever lady must have overslept one morning and dashed out of the house wearing the first thing that came to hand. Everyone was stunned when she arrived at the studio clad in her handyman's gardening outfit complete with muddy boots. From then on, sloppy was in.

Forget about giving up that chocolate sundae, Roseanne eats all she wants and she appears in the best magazines. The other day I spotted her clad in a vibrant red skin-tight gown and, believe me, he was the center of attention.

Listen, I wasn't behind the

HOROSCOPE

LINDA BLACK

Weekly Tip: The sun and moon are both in Aries. That should motivate even the most determined couch potato to get outside for some exercise.

Aries (March 21-April 19). The Sun's going out of your sign with a flourish this year. Do everything you've been contemplating. Balance your checkbook so you can go shopping.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). You're under lots of pressure. It seems like everything's coming due at the same time. Things start changing for the better soon, though.

Gemini (May 21-June 21). What with club meetings, parties and sports activities, you may be tempted to shine on your regular job. Only pull that stunt if you've already lapped the pack.

Cancer (June 22-July 22). Don't get all wiggly if somebody yells at you. Tempers will be short and emotions intense. Either participate or stay out of the way.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). Get out for a run. A tough supervisor will be even more insufferable, so don't bother to argue. Party with friends as much as possible.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You could make a pretty good deal. Check the job board and stop in for a chat with the people who know about those things. You should start feeling more secure, and you'll be downright lucky soon.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You're in for a wild ride. Expect all your buttons to get pushed, by a person you find fascinating and repulsive simultaneously. It's frustrating, but exciting. Discuss financial matters with an expert.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Your workload increases. You'll need every bit of energy you can muster to finish a tough assignment. Share your concerns with a friend who can keep a secret. If you wait too long, a partner may make up your mind for you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). If you're not in love now, you will be soon. Cupid has you in his sights. A situation you don't want to deal with pushes you to make a change. Choose the option that's going to be the most profitable—it will also be the most fun.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You may choose to stay home. If you're not actually sick, consider it preventive medicine. Something there needs your attention, anyway.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You are brilliant. You're generating enough current to read by. Don't bother to sleep during this phase, and get these insights down on paper!

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). Call a friend for inspiration. You'll need it. If you win the lottery, promise you won't spend it all. Great restraint is required, and will arrive soon.

If You're Having a Birthday This Week: You'd better be ready, 'cause you're piloting a rocket to Mars! Don't get lost in space! Make up a budget this year and stick to it. You're making lots of money, so don't waste it all.
