Henderson, Nevada

ONE MAN'S VIEW

MIKE O'CALLAGHAN

The punishment for operating efficiently and spending the money of taxpayers wisely continues to rain down on Henderson and Boulder City. This week the Legislative Interim Finance Committee took its whack at the two cities by delaying even the consideration of flood relief for the damaged Clark County cities. Oh, they did find time and consideration to give $120,000 to Douglas County and $60,000 to Lyon County for similar problems.

Speaker Joe Dini, D-Yerington and Assemblyman Lynn Hettrick, R-Minden represent Lyon County and Douglas County, respectively. There's no doubt that their counties should have received some immediate help and certainly deserve more when the legislators consider it in January. But are we to believe not one cent should have been directed to Clark County?

Some of the discussion among legislators show that even northern representatives are concerned that this action could be viewed as a north-south dispute. One of the northern legislators who voiced this concern was quoted last summer saying that his constituents would have been unhappy if after closing the Northern Nevada Children's Home the one in Boulder City was funded to stay open.

This denying, and now delaying, of state funds for Henderson and Boulder City started with the Board of Examiners made up of Gov. Bob Miller, Attorney General Frankie Sue Del Papa and Secretary of State Dean Heller. They initially denied any help for the Clark County cities and recommended that Lyon County would receive the $1 million it requested and $469,327 of the $571,795 requested by Douglas County. Rather generous treatment from three officials elected statewide.

Wishing for a better tomorrow

Charity basketball game unites Henderson and benefits Make-A-Wish

Wishes can come true. And thanks to the student leadership councils at the three Henderson High Schools, Make-A-Wish Foundation of Southern Nevada is one step closer to fulfilling someone's dream.

The Henderson Home News teamed with the leadership councils from Basic, Green Valley and Silverado High Schools on Tuesday night for the "Inaugural Henderson High Schools' Basketball Game" at Silverado in front of about 700 fans.

All proceeds from the event — featuring media celebrities playing against Henderson-area high school students — benefited the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Southern Nevada.

The students rallied from a 10-point deficit to post a 73-69 victory.

But on an evening that was highlighted by students from all over the community coming together for one cause, the score seemed meaningless.

"We are not better than the kids and we have shown that over the years," said Hender-

Henderson: From the Beginning

1960s mark numerous changes

D.B. Marciniak

From boom to bust then boom again, the happenings in Henderson during the 1960s saw it all.

Changes in Henderson politics, industries, health care, recreation and entertainment marked a decade of adjustments for the sleepy little town of 12,525.

"When I was on the City Council, the city was poor," former City Councilman Paul Marshall said. "Sometimes we'd forgo our salaries because we wanted to pay the workers for their services."

Marshall, who served on the Council from 1963 to 1971, said things were different then. The political climate was tense and change was in the air.

On the political front, many residents were disgruntled over the power of the mayor. Marshall headed a group of individuals to change the city's charter to form a

ONE MAN'S VIEW:

Heller was upfront when telling the people from Southern Nevada, "you're being punished because you've been fiscally prudent." That remark was the most honest statement made by anybody during the meeting. Long ago, counties and cities, like states, have learned that they must save to face economic downturns and other challenges. Instead of being rewarded for their fiscal prudence, Boulder City and Henderson were slapped by the governor, attorney general and secretary of state. If they had spent all of their money and came forward pleading poverty, they would have received some help. Not good thinking and even worse government.

For a group of Nevada legislators to compound this error and allow only a pittance for Douglas and Lyon Counties and delay any help for Clark County, another bad message is delivered. Those sending the message are holding a treasury loaded with dollars like never before. They are the same people, who during the 1997 Legislature, gave $200,000 to an unproven youth program with no strings attached, $1 million for a bridge to a planned industrial complex in Storey County, $190,000 for moving a historic stage stop in Elko County and $800,000 for Mormon Fort improvements. Yes, at least $30 million of pork was passed out last summer. Now they are debating about helping financially responsible cities that deserve aid.

As I pointed out in an earlier column, in addition to only $4 million allotted for disaster assistance, the IFC has a $9 million contingency fund that can only go to state agencies. The so-called "rainy day" fund of $129 million has been set aside for a state economic downturn and can only be used if the governor declared an economic emergency and calls a special session of the Legislature. So, after doling out $30 million worth of pork, the 1997 Legislature tied their own hands so they have only limited funds to help counties and cities. It doesn't seem to bother these same legislators to have a responsible Uncle Sam pump $29,799,879 of disaster relief into the Silver State this year.

As I wrote earlier, natural disasters in Southern Nevada this year show that our local governments are efficient and ready to meet challenges. We have also learned that our legislators had better take another look at the amount of money they set aside for local governments needing disaster assistance. The more our state grows, the more expensive will be the damage natural disasters can bring down upon our towns and cities.

It will be most interesting to see if the IFC, in its January meeting, will give a large share of the available funds to Boulder City and Henderson. At the same time we will learn just exactly how much strength and respect the members of that committee from Clark County have in Carson City. The city officials have done their jobs, now let's see if the local members of the Senate and Assembly can do as well.

City waiting for flood relief

Kevin Ferguson
News Staff Writer

Boulder City and Henderson will have to wait until a Jan. 14 meeting before receiving financial assistance from the state to repair damages to city streets and public facilities caused by the August flash flooding, according to the Legislature's Interim Finance Committee.

The committee met Monday to discuss how to disperse $4 million from the disaster relief fund. Discussing the issue before the meeting, Sen. Jon Porter and Senate Majority Leader Bill Raggio, R-Reno, agreed that the committee should take the next month to complete details of the Disaster Relief Fund (SB218) before allocating the funds.

"We wanted to make sure there was a fair process of allocating the funds and since the flooding occurred before the accurate language [of the bill] was written, we wanted more time to make the process accurate," Porter said.

Boulder City suffered an estimated $3.38 million dollars from the August 10 flooding, and has received $1.2 million from the Clark County Regional Flood Control Assistance. The city also has contributed $540,000 to repair some of the damages.

Boulder City is seeking $1.6 million from the Disaster Relief Fund. Henderson is requesting $510,227 from the same fund.

However, two northern Nevada counties will not have to wait until January to receive its requested financial aid from the state. The committee agreed to give Douglas and Lyon Counties a combined $180,000 to fix up river beds damaged by Jan. 1 flooding.

"Northern Nevada received funding right away so they could prepare for the expected winter storms," Porter said.

City earns spot for home businesses

Henderson was recently ranked the sixth best city in the nation for starting and growing a home-based business by Home Office Computing Magazine.

According to the December article, editors last year reported that Henderson was growing too fast to tell if it was one of the best places to run a business. However, in the December 1997 edition, it reported, "It's still growing fast, but we caught up long enough to hand it a laurel wreath."

The magazine ranked cities based on size (100,000 and more population); population growth; positive economic growth; age, wealth and education levels; industrial diversity, growth and workplace flexibility and infrastructure issues involving telecommunications and transportation; and interviews with city officials concerning zoning flexibility, community support and regulatory streamlining.

Eight cities in eight states earned a Best City crown.

The Best Cities in America for home-based business, according to the annual survey, are:

Plano, Texas; Orlando, Fla.; Tucson, Ariz.; Naperville, Ill.; Chesapeake, Va.; Henderson; Denver, Colo. and Irvine, Calif.

The editors noted Henderson's Economic Development Department's commitment to act as an advocate for small businesses.

Henderson was recently ranked the fastest-growing city over 100,000 in population by the U.S. Census Bureau.

son Mayor Jim Gibson, who coached the media team. "An event like this displays how good the kids are."

Radio personality L.C. from 88.1 KCEP, who played for the media team, echoed the mayor's praise.

"I never bought into the negative stereotypes about kids," he said. "I think it's a small minority of kids who cause the trouble. A big majority of them are good and this event proves it in every way."

Event creator and News public relations director D.J. Allen said the game turned out the way organizers envisioned it.

"At one point during the first half, I looked over to the stands after one of the students scored and saw Basic's cheerleaders, a guy from Green Valley and a guy from Silverado all jump up a cheer," Allen said. "That's when I knew we accomplished what we set out to do."

The Make-A-Wish Foundation receives no government funding, and relies on events such as this to make the program work. Last year, the local chapter made 17 wishes come true. This year they'll help make 31 wishes a reality and next year, they are shooting for 50 wishes.

Make-A-Wish executive director Karla Jacobsen had a grin from ear to ear as she thanked the students for contributing at halftime.

"The students come up with the project and do all the work," she said. "All of our support comes directly from the community. We depend very much on community involvement."

Basic High School student council senior representative Paul Kirk has seen the benefits of community service.

"It's a good feeling to get to help around the holidays," he said. "This is the time for community service, there is a lot of opportunities to help."

Roderick Gibson, one of Silverado's six representatives on the team, was pleased with the event.

"I feel really good because I'm doing something in life for somebody," he said. "I'm happy to have the chance to make someone's wish come true."

GV's student body president Robbie Holbrook saw how easy and fun helping out can be.

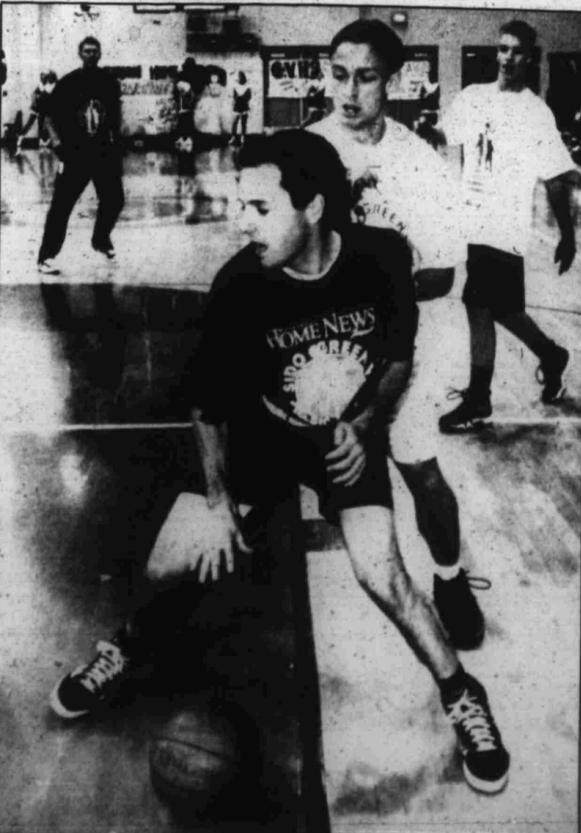

"I think the players are having fun," he said. "All this is to make money for charity. It's really cool. I think we should do it again next year."

ON THE MOVE — Dave McCann, Channel 8 sports director, makes a move to the basket during Tuesday night's game.

Community service is one of the main goals of student leadership.

"We are doing something for the community, not roaming the streets causing problems," Holbrook added. "We are actually out there doing something for a good cause and having fun."

Despite being from different schools all the students in audience were fighting for one cause on the evening. The event also helped students from different areas of town get to know one other.

"When you are out there playing, you are working together," said Silverado student body president Natalie Nelson. "I think that's great. You don't think, 'I'm not going to pass the ball or speak to someone else just because they go to a different school.'"

Councilman David Wood, in attendance at the game, sees how the city is coming together.

"I think we are entertaining all areas of town," he said. "We've established a strong standard ... The students are the ones making this happen."

Wood even gave a little color commentary.

"This is an awesome display of talent ... from the cheerleaders," he joked. "The media is best left for the microphones."

Mayor Gibson was happy to have people from every corner of the city come together.

"You know, the town in a couple of years will have grown and the desert that separates us disappears."

Chad Hermansen, a Green Valley High graduate and current top prospect with the Pittsburgh Pirate organization, stole the show on the court.

He brought the crowd to their feet with two dunks, the first coming on an "alley-oop" pass from KVBC-Channel 3 sports anchor Andrew Smith.

Representing the student council team was Jason Bitsko, Rawly Campbell, Cory Clark, Tim Gansen, Cory Prentice and Eric Wise from Basic High.

Justin Allsop, Melissa Berger, Andrea Eversole, Matt Hansen, Spencer Kiggins and Bryce Porter from Green Valley High.

David Clyde, Roderick Gibson, Tyrrone McNeace, Natalie Nelson, Jessico O'Connell and Sergio Palacios from Silverado High.

On this evening, however, they weren't classified as Wolves, Gators or Skyhawks, rather a group of students who are the future of Henderson.

"That's the good thing, it shows we can all get along without fighting," Roderick Gibson said.

Representing the media were radio personalities, L.C. (KCEP, 88.1), Glenn Boy (KWRN 95.5), Steve George (KNEWS), Jon-David Wells (KBGO 93.1), and Cat Thomas (KLUC 98.5).

Representing the television personalities were Ron Futrell (KTNV-TV 13), Andrew Smith (KVBC-TV 3) along with Dave McCann and Kevin Jamison (KLAS-TV 8).

The Henderson Home News was represented by General Manager Tim O'Callaghan as a coach along with Managing Editor Paul Szydelko and Sports Editor Bill Bowman.

Chad Hermansen, a top minor league prospect with the Pirates and former Gator Taylor Smith, currently in the Toronto Blue Jay farm system, also played with the celebrity players.

57-year marriage still creates sparks

Kevin Ferguson
News Staff Writer

Former state Sen. Hal Smith, who retired from public office three years ago, has lived in Henderson for 43 years. A retired captain of the U.S. Navy, Smith served during two wars and also has dedicated a combined 14 years to the state Assembly and Senate.

But the longest commitment Smith has made spans 57 years, and counting, to his wife, Tina Ball Smith.

They met during the Great Depression, when Smith worked as a bouncer at the Pasadena (Calif.) Civic Auditorium in 1937, where dances were held with big band music on Friday and Saturday nights. One weekend night, Tina came in to dance and a fraternity brother of Smith's introduced the two.

"I knew right there, that was the girl I was going to chase," Smith said. But it took Smith a couple of months to get up the courage to ask her out.

"A friend of mine lived two blocks from Tina [in Westwood, Calif.], and one night I said to my friend, 'Let's go over there. I'm going to ask her out,'" Smith said. "So we dressed in our best Palm Beach attire and walked over there. My buddy came with me for moral support."

When they knocked, Tina opened the door "all dressed and ready to go out on a date," Smith said. "But she offered to cancel and went out with me, instead."

The engineering major at Pasadena Junior College (now called City College) took his date to a Howard Hughes aircraft movie. "Afterwards, we went to a hamburger joint ... and the night went pretty smooth."

Smith said he doesn't know what made their relationship click since they were such opposites. "She was an art major [at U.C.L.A.] and I was an engineering major. I didn't dance and she loved to dance," Smith said. "We'd go to shows like Nat King Cole when he was just starting out."

Smith said once he started dating Tina, he never dated anyone else.

That year, Smith took a class taught by Max Harlow that focused on designing and constructing an aircraft which would be used to train pilots for World War II.

Smith was put in charge of supervising the entire construction of the plane. Afterward, Smith went to work for Harlow Aircrafts to help run the construction part of the company.

Many of their planes were sold to Intercontinental Corp., which worked as an agent in supplying used planes to the China National Airlines, a commercial airlines.

While being on the road for three months for the company, Smith missed his girlfriend. So one night sitting in a New York hotel room, he proposed to her on the phone.

"I was surprised and delighted

[when he asked me to marry him]," Tina recalled. "I had no idea that was coming."

Smith hung up the phone and said, "Finally!" Smith was much more comfortable now that he had a commitment. "It made the homecoming much better."

Smith continued on the road, showing off the planes his class designed for another two weeks, and the two kept the engagement a secret among their friends until Tina's parents threw a party a few days following Smith's return to Southern California.

"My parents were the only ones I told before he got home. I couldn't keep it from them," Tina said.

"When I got home, I had to ask her father for permission to marry his daughter, and that I had honorable intentions," Smith said. "I had to convince him I could support her. This was during the Depression, you know."

Smith said he always had a job that paid well during the Depression. "People who worked under me at Harlow Aircraft made $65 a month. And that was a good wage during the Depression," Smith said.

The engagement party was on Dec. 21, 1939, Tina's 20th birthday and they got married sixth months later. The marriage which spans six decades has withstood two separations because of Smith's military service during World War II and the Korean War.

Right before leaving for his second stint in the military, Smith moved his wife to Henderson in 1951 to be near her parents.

In 1954, his military service ended for good and he settled with Tina in Henderson where they have had a residence ever since.

The 80-year old Smith, who retired from the state Senate in 1994, still serves on 10 local committees, which include the Wetlands Commission, the State Ethics Committee, the Veterans Affairs of Henderson, Operation Godspeed and the Salvation Army.

Dog's life spared, saves family's Christmas

Sharon Jackson
News Staff Writer

The holiday season is the time of giving and one Henderson veterinarian gave the greatest gift of all — life.

Thirty-five-year Henderson residents Edith and Jack Stafford were extremely attached to their Pomeranian dog, Prissy. The dog has been a member of the Stafford family for eight years and was sick with pyometra, an infection of the uterus.

The Staffords are retired and living on a fixed income. They couldn't afford the cost of the surgery to make Prissy well.

The only options they had was either letting the dog suffer a long painful death at home, or having her put to sleep.

Painfully, they took the dog to V.C.A. Black Mountain Animal Hospital Tuesday and told Dr. Randy Winn to put the dog down.

The following morning at about 8 a.m. Edith, 70, received a phone call — Merry Christmas, come and get your dog.

Bridget Lucero, the animal hospital office manager was overwhelmed with emotion, crying on the phone with happiness as she told the happy parents to come collect their dear family member.

Winn performed the surgery Tuesday and it didn't cost the Staffords a cent.

"It was wonderful, perfect for Christmas, I cried. I couldn't believe Dr. Winn did something like that," Lucero said.

"I couldn't believe it, I really couldn't believe it. We had her eight years. She's part of the family. To lose her would have been hard," Edith said.

"When he came in the [waiting] room, I hugged him [Winn] and my grandmother hugged him," granddaughter Mindy Collins said.

Collins said that Winn told Edith he understands, he knows how it feels when you lose an animal, so he wanted to help.

A hospital spokesperson said sometimes you try to help people and you get stung, but there are other times when you know it's an honest situation, this was one of those times.

After they got Prissy from the veterinarian's office they took her to Jack's work and told him to come outside to the car. Jack had thought Prissy was dead, but she was in the car ready to be driven home, thanks to Winn.

AutoNation USA, UBS set blood drive

AutoNation USA will join with United Blood Services of Las Vegas to sponsor a major blood drive effort Friday and Saturday, Nov. 28-29, at 1000 W. Warm Springs Road in Henderson, at the Sunset exit on U.S. 95 South.

Donors will be accepted from 2 to 7 p.m. Nov. 28 and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Nov. 29.

AutoNation USA and UBS will provide refreshments and give T-shirts to donors while supplies last.

The company decided to help UBS in its efforts to meet the need for blood to assist patients undergoing operations, treatment of injuries and organ transplants because of an existing need for all blood types.

UBS of Las Vegas must see 200 donors each day just to meet the demand.

The blood drive is just one of AutoNation USA's unique ways of serving the community. The Henderson facility features a fully equipped and supervised ChildPlay Center for younger shoppers and features a community room that can be reserved free of charge for meetings of non-profit civic groups.

TRAIN: Memorabilia is approved suggested denial of the application because the city fears they would set a bad precedent and take away from the neighborhood's beauty.

Living at at 724 Orleans St, about three blocks west of Magic Way, in the Foothills planning area, the couple hopes to restore the old cars.

"We spent a lot of money to build a home here and we're not going to have a trashy-looking yard," McKinley said.

Planners agreed, saying it is not their intention to restrict the homeowner from housing the memorabilia on his property.

Assistant City Attorney Liza Conroy clarified staff's concerns, saying since the boxcar would become a permanent fixture for the property it was a concern to staff. After additional questioning by planners about why they should rule on something in someone's backyard, Conroy replied that since the boxcar is being built as a retaining wall the city requires it be approved through the application process.

Avid railroad enthusiasts, the McKinleys hope to restore the rare items to their original state and use them for storage space and a retaining wall.

According to city documents, the couple meets all criteria for housing the caboose and boxcar on their property but were recommended denial because they have not demonstrated the memorabilia will be aesthetically compatible with their home and surrounding neighbors. A wall which surrounds their home will shield most of the memorabilia. Only seven feet of the 13-foot caboose and 12-foot boxcar can be seen from the street.

"We moved here from southern Utah and I didn't want a cookie-cutter neighborhood ...," neighbor Richard Leffingwell said. "We wanted freedom to own our own castle..."

Leffingwell said he endorses the railroad cars being housed in the neighborhood and said it is a good memorial to the history of the area's railroad days.

In other news, planners:

• Approved the use of the Pecos Legacy Center, a fitness center at 2570 Wigwam Parkway, in the Green Valley South planning area. The fitness center will operate 24-hours in an existing building within the shopping center.

• Approved plans for Kyoto Bowl, an Oriental restaurant with a drive-through at Parcel 4 of Sunset Village on Sunset Road, in the Green Valley North planning area. A variance for a speaker box within 1,000 feet of residential areas is requested for the business.

Located on one acre, the building will be 3,200 square feet and will feature whisper gray with tan accent colors.

• Approved architectural plans for Champion Village Apartments, a complex south of Lake Mead Drive and east of Stephanie Street, in the McCullough Hills planning area. A total of 24 buildings with 296 units will be located on 18.6 acres. Staff recommends approval of the item.

• Tabled until Dec. 22 plans for a commercial project located on the east side of Eastern Avenue, south of Horizon Ridge Parkway, in the MacDonald Ranch planning area. A convenience store with gasoline sales is proposed.

Applicant Mason Harvey proposes assembling three separate parcels, each 3.6 acres, which are zoned for residential use to form a community commercial center. A city report said the site does not meet the minimum requirements for such a parcel, but an alternate plan would be to approve plans for a neighborhood commercial parcel.

All items heard by the Planning Commission will be forwarded to the City Council for final consideration Dec. 16. Council meetings will be held in the Henderson Convention Center while Council Chambers is being remodeled.

Ultrazone sponsors 'Score a Hit on Hunger'

Ultrazone, the Ultimate Laser Adventure, will sponsor the fourth annual "Score a Hit on Hunger," holiday food drive to benefit Safe Nest (Temporary Assistance for Domestic Crisis) of Las Vegas.

The charity event will take place from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Thanksgiving Day at the Ultrazone Laser Game Arena, 2555 S. Maryland Parkway.

Free laser tag games will be offered in exchange for a donation of one item of non-perishable food. There is no limit on the number of games a play can purchase with donated items.

"Our goal is to fill an entire wall, from floor to ceiling, with donated cans and boxes of food," said Kelcey West, Ultrazone marketing coordinator. "We feel honored and obligated to assist such a charity in their pursuit of a violence-free environment."

Safe Nest, a non-profit agency, runs Las Vegas' only 24-hour shelter specifically designed for domestic violence victims and their children.

Council adds bikes to trail system

The Henderson City Council voted last Tuesday to add a Master Bike Plan to the city's Comprehensive Plan.

The adoption of a plan is the first step in a process that will allow city engineers and planners to include bike improvements as a requirement for development plan approvals. It will also allow developers to include bicycle corridor construction costs in early project cost estimates and to use the plan in marketing schemes.

A formal bicycle facilities plan will add to the city's existing and planned trails system. Henderson voters recently passed a $54.6 million bond to assist the city's Parks and Recreation Department in developing more trails, along with additional parks and recreation facilities.

A public-private cooperative between the city and developers has allowed the city to fast track trail development. Developers have consistently set aside land, at no cost to the city, for future park and trail development.

Michael Tassi, Henderson planning analyst, is confident the city will stay ahead of future development.

"We have developed approximately 22 miles of bike paths along city streets, about 10 miles of off-street bike and hike trails, and designated two equestrian areas," Tassi said. "But this only scratches the surface when compared to the 160 miles of trails that will be available within the next five to 10 years."

City residents will eventually have access to a trail system linking parks, schools and recreation facilities. In addition, as surrounding municipalities follow suit, plans are being made to link Henderson to county trails, national recreation areas and other city trails.

"Right now, the longest trail in Henderson runs between Pecos and Arroyo Grande Boulevard along an area called the Pittman Wash," Tassi said. "The future of our trail system also allows for one-mile loop paths around communities and access paths that could make walking to school, work or to the store more convenient than driving."

Funding for the system is provided by three sources: the recently approved bond issue, federal money acquired for system development, and developer contributions.

In addition, Henderson is incorporating its existing flood control systems and detention basins for trail use. The city's Parks and Recreation Board even recommended the city pursue the idea of using a portion of the railroad right-of-way as a bike trail.

Trail systems tend to produce an atmosphere of community pride and awareness, fostering social interaction between neighbors, a city spokesman said.

Architect and commercial contractor Alex Cordero, principal of Alexander Cordero Land Development Service, Inc., said residents are much more likely to witness neighbors wave, smile and talk to each other while they are taking a walk or riding a bike.

"Sociability between neighbors is reappearing in cities like Henderson because they have a developing park and trail system," Cordero said. "It's a very welcome trend after so many years of people practicing neighborhood isolation."

Mayor Jim Gibson believes programs such as the city's bike and trail systems have made Henderson unique.

"Our community is very family-oriented and our residents place a high value on the quality of life within their neighborhoods," Gibson said. "Our efforts to provide an extensive, user-friendly bike and trail system supports our community's vision for the future."

Wishing you a super holiday

Before the crass marketing gimmicks of December, before the overwhelming pressure of shopping, card-writing and decorating sets in, we have Thanksgiving.

We should be thankful for the holiday itself — it's suddenly upon us today, no real need to fret and plan and spend money. It's just about taking time to give thanks, sharing a good meal and relaxing with friends and family.

Taking a break from the pressures of everyday life is what this holiday is all about. On this day alone, we put on hold the political questions of the day, the tensions that may arise as we go about our daily activities.

We should take a step back to realize and cherish the quality of life we have, without worrying about trying to attain more or even about preserving that lifestyle.

At the same time, we should remember those people who are less fortunate, those who don't have money to put great food on the table on this day or any other day, those who don't have a warm shelter, those who are without friends or family to visit.

It's important to reach out when you can with a smile or a phone call. A gift of time, money or food today and throughout the coming month will be cherished longer than another helping of turkey and dressing.

From all of us at the News, we wish you a safe and happy Thanksgiving.

RICHARD COHEN

Roll the dice

WASHINGTON — Donna Shalala, secretary of health and human services, attributes the birth of the Iowa septuplets to an act of God. It is so, she insists, despite the fact that the mother was given a fertility drug that triggered the production of several eggs and—pardon me—an overdose of bad judgment in everyone involved. Septuplets are not a miracle, but virtually a low-budget biblical plague.

I say this as a twin whose mother—lo these many years later—does not beam with delight when asked to recall her pregnancy, the delivery and, subsequently, what seemed like a decade without sleep. It is her just-yesterday recollection that my sister and I were never sick at the same time—first one, then the other. We did not cooperate with changings either, according to informed sources.

Still, people who should know better have gone absolutely dopey at the birth of the McCaughey Seven. The president has called from the White House and God in Heaven has been thanked for this supposed blessed miracle. But this birth was not a miracle. It was a medical mistake — an accident that should not have happened and, really, should have been prevented.

The chances were very good that some of the children might have been born in some ways physically unable to live a normal life. They have at least a 12 times greater chance of dying in infancy and, down the road, they face a much greater possibility of certain diseases than do children of single births.

As for their psychological health, it is virtually certain that, while they will not suffer as the Dionne quintuplets (born in 1934) did, their lives will certainly be different.

Collectively, they are unique; individually, that might not be the case. I can just imagine the day when they all arrive for their first day of school — and all of their classmates are enjoined to treat them as they would anyone

As a result of these factors, many prospective parents choose to abort some of the fetuses so that the remaining ones have a better chance of a healthy birth and a normal life. The McCaugheys are both devoutly religious and opposed to abortion. They chose to take their chances and I, although in disagreement, respect their decision.

Still, the McCaugheys had other ways of avoiding such a huge multiple birth. They could have waited a month when, most likely, Bobbi McCaughey would not have produced so many eggs, or—yet another alternative—the eggs could have been removed from her body and just some of them fertilized.

Shalala happens to be one of my all-time favorite people, but in this matter she has not spoken wisely. When she says, as she did on Fox television, that she would give "total credit to God" she has joined the claue of cheerleaders who have made a Disney cartoon out of what, shortly, will be a real-life nightmare.

The McCaugheys took an awful risk with the health of their children and at the same time brought more children into the world than they can possibly handle, not to mention afford. This is not the stuff of rocket science or biological weapons in the Iraqi desert. Most of us know something about raising children. Seven at once — eight altogether — is too much.

To celebrate what, really, could have been a tragedy and will certainly become a burden is simply not responsible. Yet I know of no public official who has publicly questioned the judgment of the parents and cautioned others not to follow their example. Nor, for that matter, have I heard any of them question the physicians in this case and ask them if, perchance, they are working on commission or something.

It has become commonplace in this country to use religion as an all-purpose excuse for not using your head. The decision not to "selectively reduce"—the euphemism for abortion—the number of fetuses is one with which I cannot quarrel. But to credit God with what was quite clearly the purposeful decision of the McCaugheys and their medical team is to adopt a sort of peasant mentality—what will be, will be—and is simply a cop-out. An act of God is, by definition, unavoidable. This pregnancy was anything but.

Much of Western society's progress rests on the determination to challenge fate, to seize a better life from the one that was once thought willed by God. Had the septuplets not all survived or had they been born with some grave malady, then we would not be thanking God or talking about miracles. We would be questioning the judgment of the parents and their physicians. This was not an act of God. It was a reckless roll of the dice.

House ethics charade

Nearly two years after news accounts first raised questions about his dealings, the wildly mis-named House Ethics Committee has finally gotten around to opening an investigation into Rep. Bud Shuster, the Pennsylvania Republican who heads the Transportation Committee. But it is hard to have confidence in the vigor of this inquiry.

A complaint filed last year by the Congressional Accountability Project centered on apparent conflicts of interest stemming from Shuster's odd relationship with his former chief of staff, Ann Eppard, who both serves as his chief campaign fund-raiser and represents major transportation interests before his committee. This matter went unaddressed during the committee's partisan gridlock over the reprimand to Speaker Newt Gingrich and the subsequent seven-month House moratorium on ethics enforcement.

In the meantime, new issues have arisen, including Shuster's habit of combining official trips and campaign fund-raising, which creates the impression that his backing for local transportation projects is for sale. In Boston, a Federal grand jury is said to be looking into whether Shuster and Eppard used their influence to help two contributors whose property lay in the way of a major tunnel and road project. Yet the committee has not allowed the Accountability Project to amend its complaint, and remains silent on the scope of its investigation.

Nor is it reassuring that the committee has shied from appointing an outside counsel to lead the Shuster inquiry. It seems intent on repeating the central mistake of the Gingrich case, which was to avoid naming an outside counsel until the panel's credibility had already been shattered.

The Ethics Committee usually does a slipshod job of investigating powerful lawmakers like Shuster. Indeed, it just dismissed a complaint against another Republican leader, Tom DeLay of Texas, without bothering to examine seriously the charges that DeLay, the majority whip, provided legislative favors for lobbying clients of his brother, Randy, and pressured lobbyists to increase their contributions to the Republican Party as the price for access in the GOP-led Congress.

At least the Ethics Committee is not rushing to drop the Shuster case. The investigation has been assigned to a subcommittee led by Joel Hefley of Colorado, a Republican, and Zoe Lofgren of California, a Democrat. Their first decision should be to retain an outside counsel to assure that the committee has a prompt and trustworthy investigation for a change.

Chamber retains consultant for business incubator

CHAMBER CHANNELS

JOHN FLAHERTY

The Henderson Chamber of Commerce has retained J.A. Dohn and Associates to develop a strategic plan for the Henderson Business Incubator.

Consultant Judi Dohn will provide plans for start-up operations, including financial plans detailing business costs, space improvement and equipment costs. She will also provide plans for marketing strategies, including a preliminary tenant recruitment plan and requirements for tenant occupancy. Dohn will provide plans for ongoing costs, support services and staffing needs. We will develop a time line for operations launch and steps necessary to achieve that time line. The Chamber will also seek funding partners to help make this project possible. Dohn will review and do an analysis of incubators with similar size and focus, including what worked and what didn't, to increase our chances of success.

Her career has centered on sales and marketing management. An early entrepreneur in the fledgling micro-computer industry, she is an experienced consultant and has contributed to the success and growth of numerous hi-tech businesses.

We look forward to moving ahead with our business incubator and our new Henderson Chamber of Commerce Business Resource Center.

Admit problem, then fix it

If you can't admit you have a problem, chances are you won't do anything to fix it. Last week, Nevada was identified as a state not having qualified teachers in the classrooms.

The state department, local school districts and teacher associations all took issue with the findings. One district argued that a very high percentage of teachers hold advanced degrees—like that has a lot to do with the content they are teaching in the classroom.

Having a master's in administration probably does not strengthen the math skills of a math or science teacher. The fact is, while there are many very qualified teachers, there are underqualified teachers. Nationwide, less than 60% of the teachers teaching high school math have a degree in math. Last time I checked, about 40% of Nevada's science teachers have a degree in science.

I thought the report did not go far enough when it suggested that being licensed was akin to being competent. Licensure is the result of paperwork required by the state—nothing more. It is not a synonym for competence!

For Nevada, this is not a new issue. Two bills were introduced to the 1995 Assembly, one to address state-identified shortages in math and science, and the other to require teachers to remain current and competent in fields they are teaching.

The state's education governor did not utter a word on the subject. How anyone can claim to be an education governor and not realize the connection between a teacher's knowledge, interest and enthusiasm in the subject they are teaching and student achievement is way beyond my understanding.

The Assembly Democrats who claim education as their issue voted as a block to defeat both bills. Two years later, student achievement continues to suffer because of it.

The nation's colleges of education have been little help. Recent surveys clearly indicate that teachers view public education much differently than parents and public school teachers.

Those who live in Theoryland are not that interested in kids acquiring basics skills. They live in the clouds and emphasize that kids should be lifelong learners. Here's a news flash, kids won't be learners at all unless they have a sound education in the basics.

Listening to education professors complain that they train prospective teachers correctly but after a few short years of teaching, they resort to what they refer to as the old methods. They blame the phenomena on the pressure of experienced teachers. College professors would never admit those adaptations may well be a failing of their own education programs.

Professors from colleges of education also argue content knowledge is not everything, pedagogy is important. I agree. But, I will tell you that there is nothing more important than the content knowledge of the classroom teacher. Nothing! I've said it before and I'll say it again—you can't sing a song unless you know the words.

I'd also like to know what classes in the colleges teach prospective teachers how to do oral drills and recitation to help kids remember what they have learned. I hear too many recent graduates telling me those activities are viewed as bad practice. It's time they got their heads out of the clouds.

Classroom teachers should be able to develop concepts, use correct vocabulary and notation, understand how the material they are teaching relates to previous learning and to future learning, as well as show students how that can be used outside the classroom.

As I pointed out previously, Nevada's Educational Reform Act did not address the issue of teacher standards either, a major failing. Reform takes place in the classroom, beginning with the teacher.

This problem is indirectly supported in the home. Members of the AFL-CIO might be surprised to find out their union leadership financially supported candidates who voted to drop memorization of basic arithmetic facts and procedures, supported substitutions in the core curriculum, and voted against teachers being current and competent in the fields they teach. I'd bet the rank-and-file members believe their kids should receive a sound foundation in the basics.

I can't stay it any plainer, education is about hard work, not the glitz. It's also about passing on knowledge, the content. And that's backed by what teachers request in professional development—more content. It's time to admit we have a problem and work on fixing it.

UNLV classes set for White MS

Registration began Monday, Nov. 24, for two academic credit UNLV courses to be offered at White Middle School, 1661 Galleria Dr.

According to Carrol Steedman, UNLV credit and special interest director, more courses will follow in an effort to make university classes more accessible for people living in the Henderson area.

"MAT 096 Intermediate Algebra" will be held from 5:30 to 7:05 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays, beginning Jan. 26. It is intended to provide a basic foundation for future mathematics needed in business, science, and related areas. Sue Phillips is the instructor.

"MAT 097X Concepts in Math," a review of general mathematics and geometry topics will be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning Jan. 28. It is intended for those who have not recently studied mathematics. Taught by Bill Hanlon, the eight-session course utilizes video tapes for home study.

Each course offers three undergraduate credits, and both are open to those interested in UNLV degree programs. For more information, call 895-3394.

Bartlett sets Thanksgiving Run

Lynne Gronert, a physical education teacher at Bartlett Elementary School, believes the way to show true thankfulness on Thanksgiving is to share with those less fortunate. For the second year, she will help organize a Thanksgiving Day JAWS Run.

"Last year about 250 people ran, and the event raised an astonishing $5,000 from lap sponsorships and direct donations," Gronert said. "We hope to surpass last year's total by expanding the concept to include gifts of clothing, personal items and school supplies."

This year's theme is "Bartlett Holiday Outreach: Children Helping Children." Merchandise and money raised will be distributed to homeless children through the Compensatory Education Department of Clark County School district.

"It is heartbreaking to think that there are so many homeless children," said Melissa Hungerford, PTO committee chairman. "They are truly thankful for basic necessities like socks, shampoo, or backpacks that our students often take for granted."

The entire community is invited to come run and show their thankfulness on Thanksgiving morning from 9 to 11 a.m. at Bartlett Elementary School, 1961 Wigwam Parkway.

Roberts ES elects Council

Roberts Elementary School is celebrating its first year of sponsoring a Student Council through the American Student Council Association, a student service of the National Association of Elementary School Principals. It is designed to foster the ideals of self-esteem, citizenship, and leadership among elementary and middle school students.

Through this innovative program, Roberts ES has witnessed democracy in action by electing officers and representatives. Under its principal Dr. Janice Stromberg, assistant principal Dr. Donna Mahler, and advisors Debra Boodman, Jerry Krasn, Cathy McCaffrey and Jan Mathis, the school's 700 students elected executive officers: president Justin Reiter, vice president Sarah Fakh, secretary Brock Frabbiele, treasurer Chelsea Nelson and historian Ashley Lewis.

An installation ceremony was held Oct. 21, with Judge Donald Mosley presiding.

Correia named to students' Who's Who

Henderson resident Elizabeth Correia will be named in the 1998 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

A student at Westminster College in Salt Lake City, Correia was nominated by campus committees based on academic achievement, community service, outstanding leadership in extracurricular activities, and potential for continued success. Students named to "Who's Who" come from 1,900 institutions of higher education in the U.S., District of Columbia and some foreign countries.

Westminster College, Utah's only private, independent college, prepares its 2,000 students for personal and professional success through a foundation of liberal arts combined with professional programs that include important technical and communications skills.

Choir brightens bank opening

The Bartlett Elementary School Bighorn Choir sang at the dedication of BankWest of Nevada's new regional banking center in Henderson.

About 50 children sang selections including "America the Beautiful," "The River," "I Love You" and "How Bizarre." An art display with more than 25 works created by Bartlett students is in the bank lobby.

"Selma Bartlett has done so much to enrich Bartlett Elementary School," said music director Kathleen McGrath. "The children jumped at the opportunity to brighten the opening of the bank where she works."

In 1991, Clark County School District named an elementary school in honor of Bartlett for her continuing support of education in the Henderson community. Bartlett is a BankWest senior vice president.

Denver Way Craft Fair set

The Denver Way Annual Craft Fair will be held from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 28, and Saturday, Nov. 29.

A sampling of the booths include: baked goods, dried and fresh flowers, woodwork, incense, Creative Memories, canvas, canned jellies, jams, salsa, and much more.

Free balloons will be given to children, as well as hot chocolate and apple cider for all.

A Thanksgiving Message to our friends

Why? Why would anyone in their right mind want to build a home in Henderson. If there is a God forsaken spot on this planet Henderson is smack dab in the middle of it! Once again: Why?

Because of the people that are here!!

My wife and I and our children recently embarked on a monumental task. Building a home in the City of Henderson. For those of you who have survived this ordeal congratulations or maybe condolences are in order.

Back to the people. How could we possibly repay the volunteer labor and love extended by the scores of people that aided us in this task. We couldn't afford it! Hopefully this message will reach it's intended audience and also rekindle in all of us the need to serve one another. If we miss a name please forgive us and accept our appreciation.

THANK YOU FROM THE BOTTOM OF OUR HEARTS!!! TO:

Our children: Jennifer, Ben, Bryon, Sarah, Lauren and Marc. Dean too.

EDUCATION

New Dooley principal honored by position

Clint Phillips
Principal, Dooley Elementary School

I am pleased to be invited to write a column for the Home News. I am the new principal assigned to Dooley Elementary School, and feel very fortunate to be here. I don't think there is a finer group of students, parents and staff anywhere!

I have the honor of following in the footsteps of two wonderful educators and administrators. They are John A. Dooley, for whom the school was named, and Stuart Reid, the principal who opened our school.

Dooley was the head football coach, a teacher and administrator at Basic High School for many years. Reid was a well respected administrator for Clark County for 28 years and is a great golfer.

In comparison, I am an ex-high school head football coach and educator/administrator from Oklahoma, but alas, only a fair golfer.

The most significant thing I share with these two men is the love of children and the desire to see they are well educated at the elementary level, so they will be prepared for continued educational futures.

REPORT CARD

On a more personal note, a little information wouldn't be too boring. I was born many years ago in Yosemite National Park, Calif.

My grandparents settled there, coming from Tennessee in the early 1900s. My grandpa was a logger, as were my uncles and my dad for awhile. They lived in a small town outside of the park named El Portal.

During my early life I moved around a great deal. I lived everywhere from Texas to Newfoundland and many places in between. I attended at least 18 different elementary schools. I credit the many changes in my life for my ability to adapt to almost any situation I may face.

I think it was a natural thing for me to become an educator, since I have a keen understanding of how hard it is for little ones to accept change initially. I also know change is a healthy part of life and we all have to experience it to become well-rounded and successful in our ever-changing world.

So, after spending 18 years as an educator and coach in Oklahoma, my wife and I have begun a new life here in the great state of Nevada. My wife, Cindy, is a GATE teacher at Hill ES. We do not have any children at this time but do have a little wiener dog named Peanut. She thinks she is human and certainly tries to be so at supper time each night.

My hobbies include traveling, fishing, golf, trying new restaurants, reading and exploring the desert. I used to hunt a great deal but have mostly given that up for golf.

My biggest pet peeve is that mankind has lost respect for the earth and we treat it so badly. My two greatest joys are hearing children laugh and seeing the wonders of nature. Both are the purest form of beauty one can experience. As a principal, my goals are to continue and continually improve upon the strong traditions here at Dooley ES.

I have a rather down-to-earth philosophy of teaching children at their level and teaching the basic skills they need, so they will be prepared for each succeeding level. As some wise person once said, "It does no good to build a house if the foundation is weak and full of holes."

Dooley may not appear to be the fanciest of schools but our results will be a solid educational foundation for every student to the best of each student's ability. Our school-wide goal is to have our kids well prepared to enter middle school and be successful there. It may sound cliché, but we believe in the Three Rs and sound instruction in each, before we move on to other areas.

In conclusion, I would like to thank everyone for welcoming me to the Henderson community. I feel very comfortable being a part of a community such as ours. Henderson may not be as small as it was a few years ago but it still has a small town environment that does wonderful things for kids.

I love all of the recreational centers and parks we have. I know change is good in most cases but I truly hope the Henderson community attitude never changes as far as doing good things for families and kids.

ROARING TWENTIES—Rose Delima Hospital workers enjoy a laugh during the Roaring '20s celebration which was a tradition during the '60s. Workers would dress in 1920 period clothes while lip-synching songs, pretending to play instruments and acting skits.

HISTORY: 1960s boom and bust

less rigid style. Then-Mayor William Byrne, who served until 1965, had veto power over issues which came before the Council. By the end of his term, however, the new charter was in place making the Henderson government similar to what it is today.

Newly elected Mayor W.R. Hampton, whose name is still associated with areas of Henderson such as Hampton Court, served until 1969, when Estes McDoniel, namesake for McDoniel Elementary School, was elected.

As city politics changed, so did its community.

The great boom from industries was about to be muted for Henderson as the close of a local mine caused a ripple affect on the area's economy.

Industrial base busts

The year 1961 marked a decline in business for area plants as news of closing the Three Kids Mine rattled the community.

"It was not one big slow-down but a series of lay-offs and rehiring," Marshall recalled of life at the industrial plants.

The plants, though not part of Henderson, were always considered part of the city because most of the people who worked there had to live in Henderson.

Three Kids Mine, which supplied the plants with manganese ore to produce, shut down in July 1961, after a ten-year mining contract ran out. The mine, located off Lake Mead Drive across from Henderson's current Lake Las Vegas area, shut down because of low profit on manganese due to the tremendous cost of producing the ore.

"I can remember my father saying whenever there was a slowdown at the plants, it had an effect on the other businesses in town," said current Councilman Andy Hafen, whose father owned Hafen's OK Tire on Lake Mead Drive.

The business, which is still in the family and at the same location, is among one of the oldest existing Henderson businesses never to move, Hafen said. Through his teenage years during the '60s, he recalled, the plants had a profound impact on the area's economy.

Though work remained for certain industries, the cease of ore production had a substantial impact on the area's economy. Some families had to leave the area, and other workers struggled to maintain their jobs at other plants.

The industrial base which helped support residents of Henderson was weakening, but another kind of boom was on the horizon.

Town begins to boom

"It was still slow there [at the plants], but [the land acquisition] helped the city's future," said Marshall of news Henderson would grow by another 16,000 acres.

In 1963, Congress enacted a law directing the Secretary of the Interior to convey 16,000 acres of raw land to the city of Henderson. This land would later make up portions of what are known today as Green Valley South, parts of Whitney Ranch and much of what today is southern Henderson. Additionally, the land purchase set aside land for areas where today's Calico Ridge neighborhood has been constructed, near Lake Las Vegas.

Though some residents may think Lake Las Vegas is a product of the '90s, actually plans first originated in the '60s as a business man announced plans for Lake Adair.

"I remember one day I was sitting with my babysitter and she was reading the old Henderson Home News about the project and said, 'Yeah, here's another high flutin' idea that will fall through in the city of Henderson,'" Hafen said.

Little did his babysitter realize, 25 years later plans would solidify for the project.

Though Congress's action in 1963 had no initial impact on the city, what it did do was give the city hope for a more grand future.

Despite periodic layoffs at area industries, the city appeared to be headed in the right direction. News of more development of residential, commercial and industrial areas along with resort complexes hit the headlines of the Home News at the time.

Development of Henderson's first major gaming establishment also occurred during the '60s.

The Boyd family came to Henderson and announced plans in 1962 to purchase a small casino called the Royal Casino. At the corner of Water and Atlantic streets, the Boyds would soon announce plans to construct a larger casino and rename it the Eldorado Club.

"It was a real swell casino," said Gwen Wood, a worker of 28 years at the establishment. "When it first opened, they just had slots and a small restaurant."

The Henderson Rotary Club used to hold meetings upstairs in the Eldorado and soon the facility would expand to include Henderson's first live gaming.

"On the Pittman strip, there was some 21 [blackjack] but this was the first in downtown," she said.

"Me and my friend were among the first to play 21 [in the Eldorado]. Working in a casino I never did gamble, but with her help I managed to win some money that day," Wood recalled.

The Eldorado Club was built after the Boyds purchased the Royal and The Wheel, another small establishment across an alley. The club was built over the two to make the Eldorado.

There was a feeling-out period with the Boyds about how the club would operate, Wood and Marshall recall.

Controversy marked the early days of the club as the city fought to keep topless table-dancing from further occurring at the establishment.

"I'm not a gambler and I didn't frequent those places. We were just trying to straighten something out," Marshall said of the city's actions to pressure Boyd from having table dancers.

Recreation grows

While entertainment for adults boomed along Water Street, family recreation began to sprout in Henderson as well.

The year 1963 marked the beginning of construction for the back nine holes for the Black Mountain Country Club. Billed as Henderson's first championship golf course, many residents of the area enjoyed playing at the local course rather than drive to Las Vegas. The first nine holes and a clubhouse were constructed in 1957.

It was during the '60s when the Henderson Boys Club began to evolve from a 129-member boys boxing club to a 560-member recreation center.

In the late '50s, the club moved to Victory Village from its location next to what is now the Old Tavern on Water Street. In 1964 the club hired George Campbell, the club's first president. It was then that the club became affiliated with the Boys and Girls Club of America and club activities expanded.

At the time, most children enjoyed going to the BMI pool which is still located near the intersection of Pacific Avenue and Van Wagenen. Others, however, enjoyed spending time at the Well's Park youth center, still located off Basic Road.

"I probably taught half of Henderson how to paint," said Genavive Smith, an art teacher who taught at the youth center.

"Anybody can paint. I taught them they could do it. If you can draw an A, a B and a C, then you can draw an apple and orange or a banana, I used to tell them," she said.

The painting class was so popular with residents, Rose De Lima Hospital used to display children's pictures on a regular basis, she said.

Hospital gains respect
Hospital life was more than life and death, it was also fun and games as Rose De Lima Hospital began to gain more respect in its community and in the health care profession during the '60s.

"We were one of those rinky-dinky places," recalls Sister Robert Joseph Bailey of the hospital's early years.

Though the hospital was considered small, it took a great leap in credibility as the tallest building in Henderson was erected in October 1960.

Rose De Lima Hospital, bought for $1 by the Adrian Dominican Sisters in 1947 when it was the Basic Magnesium Hospital, built a three-story patient care facility adjacent to its existing building. The addition brought an emergency room, surgical suites, obstetrics unit and additional patient beds to accommodate a growing community.

"We had the only elevator in town. Kids used to come here after school and push the elevator's buttons and run. They used to get a kick out of that," Sister Robert Joseph said.

Joining the sisters in Henderson in 1951, she said the new hospital wing was an icon for the community as it marked progress during what some many term as rough times.

The expanded facility helped serve the rural areas of Southern Nevada better as more doctors were attracted to the hospital because of sisters' dedication to improving Henderson's health care.

The expansion allowed for more services and many of Henderson's earliest born children were held by Sister Marie Daniel, who was in charge of the nursery at the time.

"They started to give us a lot more credibility and realized we were not nickle-and-dimers any more," she said.

Doctors and nurses began to come to Henderson to practice and the hospital, whose name was changed to St. Rose De Lima in the mid '60s, made it a point to celebrate.

A series of plays "The Roaring '20s" entertained residents for several years during the '60s as Sister Robert Joseph helped coordinate a lip-synching event with hospital workers.

"The doctors served the beer and the nurses served the soft drinks," she recalled as St. Rose Hospital helped lead Henderson through the '60s.

Thanksgiving Day dinner at the center

SENIOR CENTER HIGHLIGHTS

27 E. TEXAS ST.
565-6990

The center is open for all activities from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sundays, and from 6 to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

Thanksgiving Dinner

Henderson Seniors' Auxiliary vice president Dorothy Vondenbrink and board member Alicia Davison, HACA director, are organizing volunteers and corporate sponsors to provide a traditional family Thanksgiving dinner for seniors at the center.

Vondenbrink and Davison have received donations from the Eldorado, Rainbow, Tom's Sunset Casino, Railroad Pass, Sunset Casino, Giving Life Ministries and John Kisk.

Ladies from the United Methodist Church will transform these food donations into a delicious Thanksgiving dinner. The young men and women of St. Thomas More and Rainbow Girls, who have made decorations, will serve the meal.

The annual event enables seniors to have Thanksgiving dinner with friends. Dinner will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 27. Reservations are required, call 565-6990.

The center will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thanksgiving Day. It will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday.

Bus trips

Robert Medkiff, of the Henderson Parks and Recreation Department, is organizing trips throughout the valley. The Rock Hound Club will travel in search of gems on Friday, Nov. 28.

Seats are still available for the trip to Lake Mead and the Alan Bible Visitors Center. The van will leave at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 23. Space is also available for the Dec. 3 trip to Ron Lee's World of Clowns and the chocolate factory.

Trips are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Dec. 9 and 16. Call 565-6990 for trip costs and details.

dinner for more than 200 seniors and delivered hot meals to Henderson's homebound seniors. The center thanks the Eagle Scouts for remembering.

The center also recognizes the young men and women of the United Methodist Youth Group and director Liz Trosper, for providing Sunday's spaghetti lunch at the center.

Finally, the center extends a very special thanks to volunteer Leonard Hagar, who did an excellent job coordinating the annual Turkey Shoot. He would have been a winner, but was disqualified when his rifle misfired. Winners were Floyd Sanders and Alma McGovern.

A party

Kyle and Mae Workman, Betty Dukes, and Nona Perryman are planning a party for the Southern Nevada Deaf Seniors, from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 2.

Current members and interested seniors are invited to stop by for a delicious meal and a gathering of friends.

Decorating party

The center will host its annual holiday decorating party from 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 3. RSVP volunteer Leonard Hagar invites seniors to stop by and join in the fun of decorating the center.

The traditional decorating party chili and turkey soup dinner will be served at 3 p.m. for all the helpers.

Pot luck

A Potluck will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 7. Seniors are invited to bring a favorite dish and enjoy this first Sunday of the month event. Rep. Richard Perkins will provide fried chicken.

Sunday lunches will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Dec. 14, 21 and 28 for $1.

Reminders

Stein Mart to help needy kids

Stein Mart, located at 500 N. Stephanie St., is hoping to make Christmas better this season for needy children in the valley.

Three local charities — SafeHouse, Family Resource Center of Henderson and St. Jude's Ranch — will benefit from Stein Mart's "Giving Tree," located inside the store.

Each ornament on the tree will have a child's name, description and wish list. Customers are encouraged to pull an ornament off the tree and purchase a gift for the child.

Customers will then return the gift to the Stein Mart store where it will be picked up by the local charitable organization and given to the child.

Gifts do not have to be purchased at Stein Mart.

"We really try to get involved with the community," said Alexandra Daro, special events coordinator at Henderson's Stein

Mart. "We do things like this pretty much all year-round."

The local Stein Mart — one of 149 nation-wide — is currently the only Stein Mart in the valley. A store on the west side of the valley is scheduled to open in six months.

"Stein Mart is an upscale discount store," Daro said. "We call it the best-kept secret in town."

From designer clothes to shoes, linens to gifts, Stein Mart offers customers a wide variety of selection.

"We probably have one of the most unique gift departments around," Daro said. "We're able to satisfy just about anyone."

Daro said the new Henderson store is happy to be part of the community.

"We believe we're going to be a nice fit for this community," she said. "We really pursue service for our customer."

Custom Cook saves valuable time

D.J. Allen
Contributing Writer

When the holidays roll around each year, time gets more and more valuable.

Wouldn't it be nice if there was a sure-proof way to save time — a lot of time?

Enter The Custom Cook. The Custom Cook, celebrating its third anniversary this month, provides customers with the services of a personal chef right in the convenience of the customer's own home.

"The majority of our clients are business professionals and dual-income families," said David Lessnick, the creator of The Custom Cook. "They're just tired of eating out and tired of eating fast food. They want to eat healthier types of food."

The service is simple. For $295, The Custom Cook will prepare two weeks worth of dinners for two people ($85 per additional person). The food is then frozen and re-heating directions are left for each dish.

"Some of our clients might be a bit skeptical at first wondering about freezing the food," Lessnick said. "We work very hard at developing recipes that work well after being frozen and re-heated."

Lessnick added many people are surprised to find out the cost of the groceries is included in the cost.

"People actually find out we might save them money because they're never throwing food away," Lessnick said. "People are always shocked to hear our price includes the cost of the groceries."

However, just because time and possibly money may be saved, it does not mean the food is a step down in quality.

"We go through a whole food survey before we ever cook," Lessnick said. "When learn all about our client's preferences — even down to what spices they like."

And that's just the beginning of the high quality of service, according to Lessnick.

"All of our [five] chefs are professional chefs," he said. "These are some of the better chefs in the city."

"The chefs love the work because they get the interaction with the clients they that don't get in the hotels. They almost become part of the client's family. A lot of the chefs are very close to their clients."

A stove, oven, sink and counter space is all that is required to be provided by the client, according to Lessnick.

"I think in a few years people won't think twice about using a chef," said Lessnick, who added that 35-40% of his clients already live in the 89014 zip code. "It will be the same as hiring a law service or a maid service. It'll just be another service to help people get through the hectic lifestyle we are digging ourselves into."

Double duty:

Gators' head football coach Larry Thomas adds head basketball coach to his resume

Bill Bowman
News Sports Editor

If you need to talk with Green Valley's Larry Thomas, you might want to wait until spring.

You see, Thomas kind of has his hands full right now.

The 51-year-old Montana native has just come off a 7-4 football season that saw him trying to deal with blitzes, traps and bombs.

Now, as the Gators' newest boys basketball coach, he will have to deal with full-court presses, double teams and three-pointers.

It makes for a long fall and winter, but you won't hear Thomas complaining.

"I missed not being involved in basketball the last two years," Thomas said of his stints as the Gators' assistant basketball coach. "It left kind of a void. I'm ready to get back into this."

Thomas was head basketball coach and a football assistant at Chaparral before coming to Green Valley as the head football coach when the school opened.

Now, he's the head man at both sports.

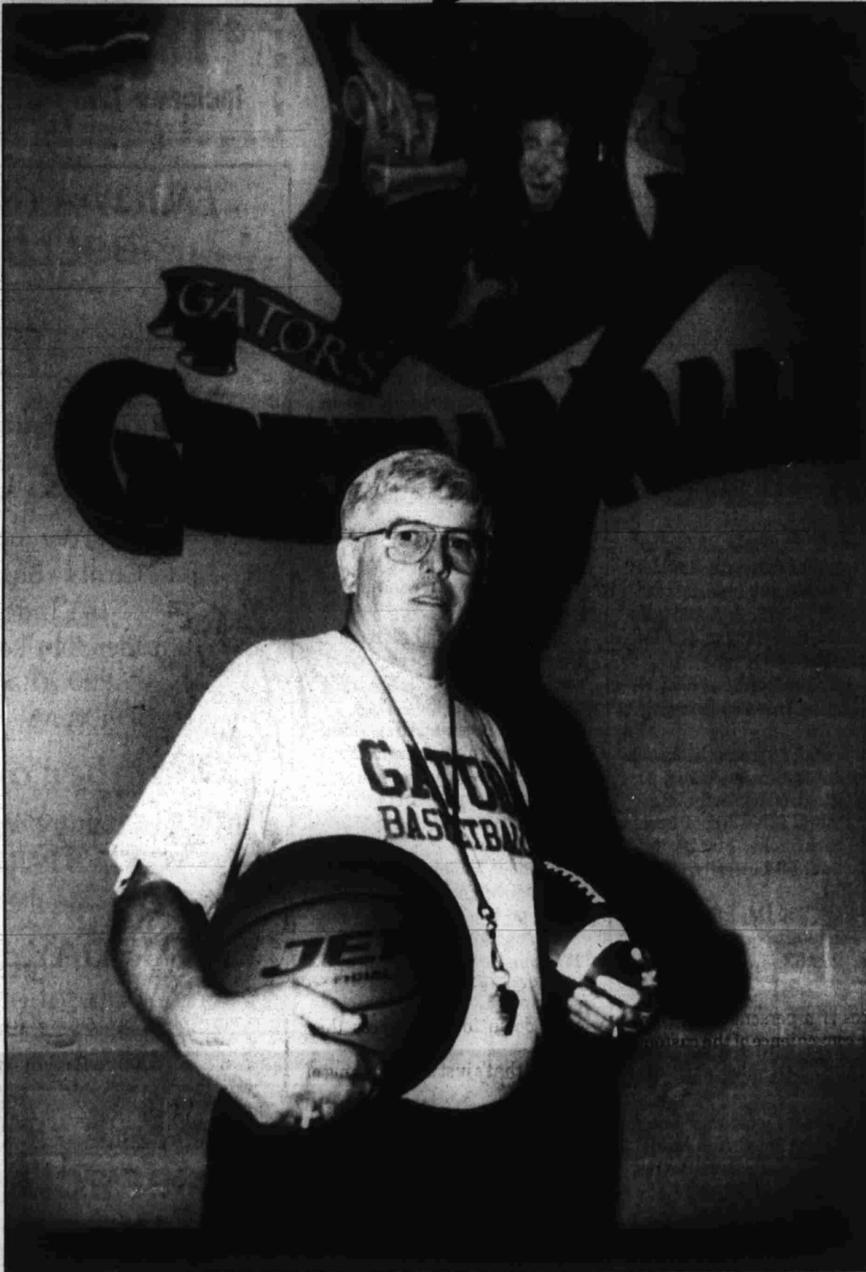

It's going to be a change. A big change.

"[Basketball's] different than football when you're working with one assistant rather than eight and you're working with 13 kids rather than 60," Thomas said. "It appears to be easier, let's put it that way. You just have less things to get done for the number of kids you're working with."

Thomas heads into the basketball season after a vacation.

Well, maybe a mini-vacation.

He is coming off a three-day trip to Montana, and now he's already in high gear with the basketball team.

"I had about a week off," Thomas said after the Gators' season-ending football loss to Western in overtime. "It was enough time to put the football gear away and get organized for basketball."

Plus, take a quick jaunt back to Montana.

"I got a chance to visit mom and dad and my brothers between the seasons," he said. "About the only time I'll have is between the two seasons."

Now, it's full-speed ahead with the 1997-98 basketball season.

"Everybody's kind of nervous and a little apprehensive," Thomas said. "They are wondering 'Am I going to look for the same ability and same skills as coach [Gene] Carpenter?' It's just the little things."

Thomas is optimistic.

"We're just trying to do the things we can to be competitive by Christmas," Thomas said. "I don't know a lot of these kids and it will take some time for me to get to know them and for them to get to know me. That will be a big part of the program."

And the outlook?

"We've got guarded optimism and youthful expectations," Thomas said with a laugh.

Gators' Harbison picks up 300 game

By the News Staff

Ron Harbison, a junior on the Green Valley junior varsity bowling team, rolled a 300 game on Monday to help the Gators' JV team to a 4-0 victory over Valley at the Showboat.

Harbison, who had a 176 average going into the night, saw that move up to 180 after his 689 series that also included games of 176 and 213.

"Everybody on that side of the bowling center stopped," Green Valley coach Esther Anderson said of the action around Harbison. "It was so exciting. I never knew bowling could be that exciting. It was also nice to see the other bowlers congratulate him after his game."

"Everybody on that side of the bowling center stopped. ... It was also nice to see the other bowlers congratulate him after his game."

Esther Anderson,
Green Valley bowling coach

On the varsity side, the GV boys won 4-0 over Valley with Chris Klerk leading the way with a 735 series that included games of 244, 226 and 265. George Palumbo added a 228 game.

The Gator girls won 3-1 as Tanya Field had a 499 series that included a 170 game. Jenn Lee had the Gators' high game with a 175.

The Basic boys and girls both picked up 2-2 splits with Las Vegas on Monday.

The boys were led by Tony Ford who had games of 221 and 204. Kris Close also had a 204 game.

On the girls side, the Wolves' Melissa Stine had a 186 game and Jolene Hodges had a 184 game.

The Silverado boys rolled to a 4-0 victory over Valley in bowling action on last Thursday.

Justin Maxwell had a 586 series to lead the Skyhawks and also had a 236 game.

The Skyhawk girls fell 4-0 to Valley with Samantha Hicks leading the way with a 443 series and a 167 game.

Boys basketball teams gearing up for season

Bill Bowman
News Sports Editor

With tipoff for the boys prep basketball season just a few days away, here's a look at the three area squads.

BASIC

The Wolves' head coach, Mike Dye, is entering his fourth season at the helm and looks for good things from the team.

"We're just trying to get the kids doing the everyday basketball things that will help us be successful," Dye said. "We're getting familiar with the kids. It's a new bunch of kids."

Dye said the early play of D'Auria Mosley, Nathan Muaina and William Clark has been encouraging.

Mosley came back from the JV team and he has been looking pretty good," Dye said. "He and Nathan are both back from the JV team."

Dye said Clark "is going to have to step up for us. He has to lead us into battle."

The coach said he is happy with the teamwork the squad is showing.

"I'm satisfied at this point," Dye said. "Overall, we're doing OK, but we still have a ways to go."

The Wolves open the season on Wednesday at home against Bonanza at 6:30 p.m.

GREEN VALLEY

At Green Valley, football coach Larry Thomas steps in to also take over as head basketball coach.

He's optimistic about the 1997-98 team.

"I think we'll be OK," Thomas said. "It appears we have some kids who are intelligent and who want to be good players."

Thomas said three seniors — Jamar Glasper, Sam Earl and Mitch Kallick — along with junior Cornell Williams will anchor the team.

"Those four have the most experience," Thomas said.

Henderson stands tall — and as one — in charity event

Henderson, take a bow. You've earned it.

Tuesday night's Inaugural Henderson High Schools' Charity Basketball Game presented by the Henderson Home News brought together basketball players from all three high schools to play a media-celebrity team to benefit Make-A-Wish.

The game not only united three area schools — Basic, Green Valley and Silverado — on one team, it also showed great community spirit.

While the students' team posted a 73-69 victory, the outcome was second to the unity all three schools — and the community — showed.

It gave us hope that no matter which school we attend or which district we may live in, that we are one.

The students' team showed great teamwork and there were plenty of high-fives between teammates.

And those teammates didn't just represent

Basic, Green Valley and Silverado. On this night, they represented Henderson.

The idea of the basketball game was simple: Get Basic, Green Valley and Silverado players to go up against a media/celebrity team for charity.

Sounds easy enough.

Think again.

It took plenty of planning and the News' D.J. Allen deserves a lot of credit for getting this event off the ground.

An event of this magnitude doesn't just happen. It takes months and months of planning.

And that's just the start.

You've got to get the players to commit to play, you've got to get the media and celebrities to commit to play, you've got to get a gym, you've got to line up officials and you've got to get fans in the stands.

Add in the great job by the student councils, the cheerleaders and the mascots and you've got a first-rate event.

Now, any one of those tasks can be daunting, but D.J. went above and beyond the call of duty in getting this thing organized.

The game was a small step in bringing a community together.

And it benefited a cause plenty of people believe in.

Green Valley grad Chad Hermansen, a rising star in the Pittsburgh Pirates' organization, was there and was all smiles.

Taylor Smith, another GV grad now in the Toronto organization, took time out to have a little fun as well.

All three television sports anchors — Channel 3's Andrew Smith, Channel 8's Dave McCann and Channel 13's Ron Futrell — thought enough to come out to play.

The News was represented on the court by Managing Editor Paul Szydelko and myself. Henderson Mayor Jim Gibson and the News' General Manager Tim O'Callaghan served as coaches.

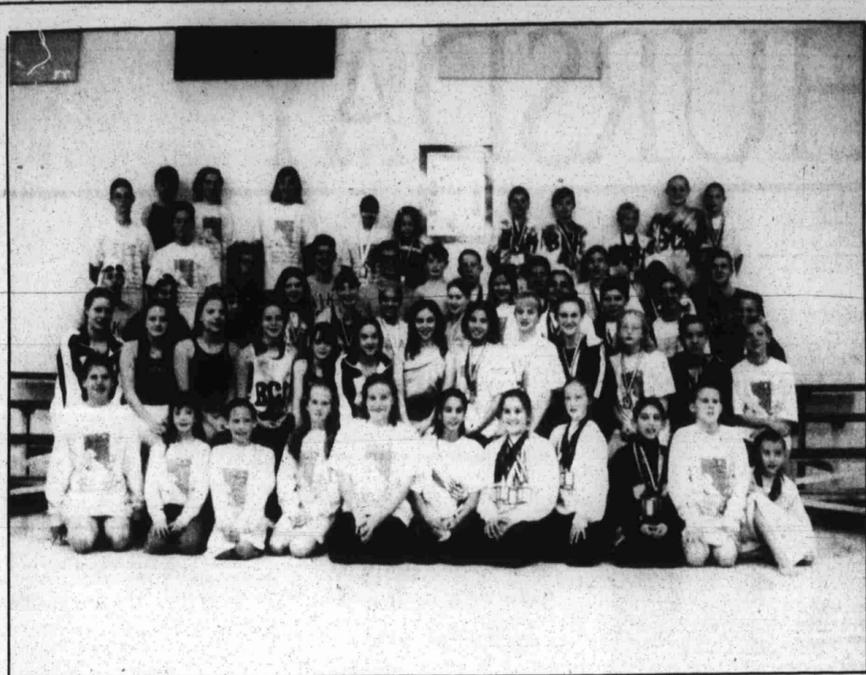

There were also several radio personalities on hand to promote the game.

In the end, there were plenty of handshakes and plenty of smiles as a community stood as one.

It was Henderson at its finest.

I can't wait for next year — it'll take me that long to recover.

Henderson-Boulder City swim team finishes second at state

By the News Staff

Kurt Cady won seven events to help the Henderson-Boulder City Swim team place second in the 1997 Nevada State Short Course Championships recently at UNLV.

Cady, swimming in the 13-14 age group, won the 50 freestyle, the 100 freestyle, the 200 freestyle, the 100 breaststroke, the 200 breaststroke, the 200 Individual Medley and the 400 Individual Medley.

As a team, the Henderson-Boulder City team wound up with 4,289.5 points in the 10-team meet and finished second to Reno which had 4,397.5. Las Vegas Gold wound up third with 3,669 points.

"It's a full team effort, combined with swimmers, coaches and parents during this long four-day event," head coach Mike Polk said.

In all, the Henderson-Boulder City team had a total of 73 swimmers from Henderson.

"The swimmers' long, hard training over the last six months paid off with a lot of great swims," assistant coach Bob Swift said.

Another assistant, Brian Wakefield, added, "It's almost disheartening to think how close we came to winning the state championship this year, but when you realize how far we have come in the last four years, it's quite amazing."

Other winners for Boulder-City Henderson included:

Aldayr Araujo in the 12-year-old age group in the 50 freestyle and Amanda Bakalas in the 10-year-old age group in the 50 backstroke.

The Boulder City-Henderson team also won seven relay races.

Henderson swimmers who placed included:

•Aldayr Araujo (12) — 2nd in the 50 breaststroke, 35.42.

More honors for Gators' Schnitzer

Sophomore outside hitter Allison Schnitzer, a Green Valley High School graduate, was one of three Wellesley College volleyball players named to the 1997 American Volleyball Coaches Association Division III All-Region team for New England.

Wellesley, 36-2 overall, captured the NCAA Division III New England Regional Championship before falling in four games against perennial powerhouse Washington University in St. Louis on Nov. 22.

The coach said the tough part will probably be "adjusting to a new philosophy on offense and on defense. Things I want a player to be able to do versus the things they have done in the past. Basically, I just want them to work hard. I want them to attack the ball at all times."

The coach admits hard work can oftentimes be the difference between winning and losing.

"The best basketball team often isn't the five best players," Thomas said. "It's more chemistry of the kids. They have to understand their roles and play within that role. If that happens to be the five best kids, you're probably going to be a pretty good basketball team."

For now, Thomas is just enjoying the challenge of taking on two sports.

"I'm excited," Thomas said. "It's going to be a lot of work, but it's going to be a lot of fun."

"We're expecting them to step up. At least they have been in the heat of the battle."

The coach added the team "has good overall quickness and we have decent size and speed. But, how does that compare? With other teams, we may be midgets."

Thomas said the Gators' transition to his style of play has been fairly smooth.

"We're on track," he said. "I think the kids are coming to practice in the right frame of mind. We're spending a lot of time finding out what they already know compared to what we want them to be. We might be a little behind in where we had hoped to be, but a change in philosophy will take a while. I don't see it as a problem."

Overall, Thomas said the team "has a great attitude. It's been fun. It's been enjoyable."

The Gators will be at home for their opener, playing host to Durango at 6:30 p.m.

SILVERADO

New Silverado coach Pat Condrion is excited about the upcoming season — and so are his players.

"They are all excited about what's been going on in practices," Condrion said. "They have all been good kids to coach and that are good kids and that's been nice."

Condrion said he hopes to "get the program on track. We want the

'B', JV and varsity teams all doing the same thing so that we are one program and we are not three separate teams."

While the Skyhawks have struggled in the past, the coach feels the team is ready for a change.

"Our main goal is to have a team that competes and gets better throughout the season," he said. "If we can get the players to play their roles and put the team above their individual needs, we can have a decent squad."

Condrion is looking for Andy Saggiomo, Victor McCraney and Jari Washington to be solid performers.

The coach said Saggiomo "Is a good outside shooter for us and a smart player."

For the start of the season, Condrion is looking for consistency. "If we're competing night in and night out and we get some breaks, we'll get better as the season goes on," he said. "The kids have been real good so far. I couldn't be happier with their progress."

The coaching staff has also been a bright spot for the Skyhawks. "We've got some real good coaches at the younger levels," Condrion said. "And the assistant coach I have, Thad Simmons ... you can't find a better assistant. I really lucked out coming to Silverado and getting coaches who are receptive to what we want to do."

The Skyhawks are on the road for their opener, playing at Durango next Friday at 7 p.m.

Youth basketball league signup set

The City of Henderson Parks and Recreation Department has announced that Youth Basketball League's are forming for grades 1-8.

Mail-in registration is accepted Nov. 24-29. Registration forms must be postmarked Nov. 24-29.

All mail-in forms will receive first priority, but additional registration will be held Dec. 1-4 and during player rating sessions on Dec. 6 space permitting.

Registration fee is $20 per player.

The Youth Basketball League is a recreation program designed to teach the fundamentals of the sport and fair play to young players.

Rules and court size are modified to provide maximum participation.

For more information on the league, call 434-4131.

Registration forms are being sent home through all of the elementary, middle and junior high schools.

Buck set to represent USA Softball

Crissy Buck, a graduate of Green Valley High School, is one of nine current and former UCLA softball players chosen to represent USA Softball in preparation for the upcoming 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia.

The players will take part in a training camp in San Diego, Calif., Dec. 27-30.

The announcement of the team is the beginning of USA Softball's most intensive athlete training program and will focus not only on the evaluation and selection of players to represent the United States in international competition, but on the individual training and development of the program's elite athletes.

HPRD facilities closed on Thanksgiving

Henderson Parks and Recreation Department announced all recreation and aquatic facilities will be closed on Thursday, Nov. 27, Thanksgiving Day. Normal hours of operation and full-service programming will resume on Friday, Nov. 28.

The department's full-service recreation centers include: Black Mountain Recreation Center, 599 Greenway Road; Kesterson Valley View Recreation Center, 500

 In the Matter of —, Hyde
 A Minor.
 Petition for Freedom
 From Parental
 Custody and Control.
 Case Number: 19946
CITATION
THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA:
 TO: Kathleen Michelle Hyde
 By order of this court you are hereby cited and required to appear before the Judge of this Court in Family Law, thereof, located at 400 McAllister St.; San Francisco, CA. 94107 on January 12, 1998, at 8:45 A.M., of that day, then and there to show cause, if any you have why the Petition for Freedom From Parental Custody and Control should not be granted. At said hearing, the Judge may read the Petition to the citee, if present, and may explain the effect of granting the Petition, and upon request of the citee, shall explain any term or allegation contained therein and the nature of the proceeding, its procedures, and possible circumstances. The citee and minor, and each of them may have the right to be represented by counsel in this case and the Judge shall advise the citee or minor of this right to counsel. The Judge may appoint counsel to represent the minor. If any citee appears and is unable to afford counsel, the Court may appoint counsel to represent said citee, unless said citee knowingly and intelligently waives counsel. The Court may continue the proceeding for not to exceed 30 days to make an appointment for counsel, or to enable counsel to acquaint her/himself with the case or to determine whether the citee is unable to afford counsel at her own expense.

Anderson's keeps the milk moooving

Dairy has been making milk since 1907

Paul Dodge
Contributing Writer

Buy a gallon of milk, spread some sour cream on your bagel or have some ice cream with your birthday cake. Use any dairy product in the Las Vegas area and there is a good chance you are enjoying the work of the Anderson Dairy, Southern Nevada's largest and only regional dairy.

The plant, 801 Searles Ave. behind Cashman Field, measures more than 37,000 square feet and produces about 46% of the dairy products you see on the shelves of the grocery store. But it wasn't always this large, nor was it always behind Cashman Field.

As you pass through the elegantly decorated reception area and enter into a main hallway, the bright walls are adorned with dozens of photos and framed memorabilia, introducing visitors to the dairy's long history. A huge aerial photograph of downtown Las Vegas, circa 1907, shows the city when the dairy opened.

The interesting thing about the photo is that almost all of it is of grass, plains, rocks and the dark smear of Las Vegas Creek. A creek? And this is the Strip we're talking about?

"When the plant opened, it was mostly farmland and fields all around," said Kim Webster, marketing assistant for the Anderson Dairy. Webster is a life-long Henderson resident, and knows the story of the dairy as well as if he'd been alive in those days.

Today, the recently remodeled dairy belies the heritage it shares with Las Vegas.

"The Anderson Dairy and Las Vegas have grown up together," Webster said.

Harry Anderson owned a dairy farm just south of where University Medical Center stands today. In 1907, he began Anderson Dairy as a larger operation on Fremont Street. Then in 1930, Kenny Searles bought the dairy from Anderson, but chose to retain the name Anderson Dairy due to the success and reputation that had already been earned by Anderson.

"Anderson had done such a great job and was so well-trusted that Searles decided to keep it named in his honor," Webster said.

As a vintage photograph shows, the famous delivery man mascot of the dairy, Andy Anderson, and his bull's eye target sign, were soon erected at the facility. Another picture depicts the World War II-era Anderson delivery men, with their milk trailers attached to teams of horses in order to ration gasoline.

Later, in 1956, the building that the dairy occupies today was built, featuring some of the most advanced technologies for dairy manufacture available at the time.

A popular question asked then that still haunts the Anderson Dairy to this very day: "Why build a dairy in the middle of the desert?"

"Searles had the vision to start this dairy," Webster said. "He looked out at the desert and saw the potential of this area. He saw houses and hotels and casinos. He said 'this town will be something some day.'"

Indeed, both the town and the dairy are something today. Anderson Dairy produces tons of dairy products that serve only Southern Nevada. These include milk, ice cream, sour cream, cottage cheese, creamers and orange juice. Many of the goods go into homes around the city, while a large portion of the produce stocks hotels, casinos and restaurants.

"It was decided long ago that we would stay here in Southern with everything, we buy our milk from local businesses and co-ops, to support the communities in the area."

Kim Webster, marketing assistant for the Anderson Dairy, works on the presentation as students enjoy treats.

Dance patron Diana remembered

Fallen dance patron Princess Diana will be remembered at Community College of Southern Nevada Dance Ensemble's fall concerts at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 5-6, in the Horn Theatre on CCSN's Cheyenne campus, 3200 E. Cheyenne Ave., Las Vegas.

"One of the things that the general public may not be aware of," said dance program director Kelly Roth, "is that among other things, Princess Diana was herself a dancer and a tireless supporter of the art form. As the poor step-children of the arts, we dancers thus felt a special bond with her. We've lost one of our own."

Roth's new dance theater work, "Wisdom," is a reflection on Diana's life and a collage of the strange, tragic and unexpected events that crossed the headlines of the past year. It touches on the Hale-Bopp comet, the Heaven's Gate cult, Elton

John volunteerism and Diana's rebound from royal soap opera queen to global goodwill ambassador, as well as the quiet altruism of Mother Teresa and the invasive din of the media.

Also featured will be the American premiere of Roth's "Diminishing Returns." This work was premiered by CCSN dance students last month at the fourth Continental Contemporary Dance Competition in Mexico City.

Commemorating the 100th anniversary of composer Johannes Brahms' death will be a dance video shot last spring in Zion National Park and set to the fifth movement of the German Requiem. Roth rounds out the evening with a new ensemble work incorporating the music of Gavin Bryars.

Tickets are $8 adults, $5 for students and seniors. For reservations, call 651-LIVE(5483).

DAIRY

So, Webster says, as long as the milk keeps flowing in from around Las Vegas, the Anderson Dairy will continue to provide the area with hometown dairy products and free ice cream tours.

"We can say that our products really are the freshest you can get because they come from right here in Las Vegas."

That's where Webster came in. He helped to produce, along with many of the same crew that create effects for Las Vegas Strip magician shows, a guided tour of the plant for children. The tour is both educational and entertaining, as kids visit a room filled with animatronic barnyard animals, see how dairy products are made and watch an educational video.

"We are working hand-in-hand with the school district to create a tour that is both interesting and informative as well as fun," Webster said.

The "Barnyard Buddies" turn their robotic heads and move their mouths to the special effects of light, sound and speech. Calcie-Yum, the cow-queen of the animals, gives an introduction to the tour and introduces the dogs, owls, chickens and sheep of the barnyard. Then, after the tour and a 13-minute movie, the kids see the end-product of the dairy's work. And they get to eat it too, as the barnyard is also equipped with an ice cream bar.

But don't you need cows to make milk? Where are they? Maybe there were cows in Las Vegas back in 1907, but now they wouldn't quite fit in with the tourist attractions on the Strip.

"The cows, of course, are out in the surrounding areas of Southern Nevada, such as Hidden Valley," said Webster. "As Nevada and stay a relatively small operation," Webster said. "We are proud to do this and we want to keep our tradition of friendly and quality service."

No more than 24 hours, from dairy to shelf — that's how fresh it comes from the Anderson Dairy. The plant employs 175 workers and has more than three miles of stainless steel tubes that funnel ice cream and other products to various parts of the facility.

Homeowners' association questions

HOMEOWNERS' ASSOCIATION Q&A

ELLEN ROSENBAUM

Our association fees increase every year. How can the Board do this? Is there any way to stop these increases?

Your homeowners' association is a not-for-profit corporation. Every time the utilities increase, the directors have no choice but to pass those increases onto the members.

Additionally, the association should have funds in a special account for "reserves." Reserve funds are set aside for future repairs of common elements.

For example, funds should be set aside for major pool repairs, on a monthly basis. When pool repairs are finally needed, the association will not have to levy a "special assessment" against its members for this work. This is good financial planning!

My association sent me a violation for leaving my trash can out after pick up. My neighbor has an unapproved patio cover on his house. Why am I threatened with a fine, but my neighbor isn't?

Are you sure your neighbor isn't in the fine process as well? All the rules in the governing documents are important. To weigh some violations as more important than others is selective enforcement. All violations should be treated in the same manner. Of course, an exception would be if your documents require different fines, etc. for different types of violations.

Ellen Rosenbaum of Benchmark Properties in Las Vegas answers common homeowners' association questions each week. Send your questions to the Henderson Home News, Attn: Homeowners' Association Questions, P.O. Box 90430, Henderson, NV 89009

Vocal, piano students perform Dec. 6

Flo Raymond, director-teacher and professional singer, will present her vocal and piano students at noon Saturday, Dec. 6, at the Green Valley Library, Sunset Room, 2729 N. Green Valley Parkway.

Students from the Coral Cove Musical Arts Studio and from Flo Raymond's classes at the Kesterson Valley View Recreation Center will include holiday music with their regular classical and popular pieces. The students reside in the Henderson and Boulder City areas.

Doors will open at 11:30 a.m. Vocalists will include: Carly Avello, Janae Jeffrey, Erica Dix, Wil Fields, Dennis Dizon, Christine Moore, Barbara and Jennifer Wardlaw and Teri Cyborski.

Pianists will be: Jennifer Aleman, Dennis Dizon, Susan Eisenberg, Christine Moore, Natasha Groitzsch, Gary Scarberry and Kaori Scott.

A reception to honor the students and teacher will follow the student concert with a festive buffet open to students, families and friends.

Flo Raymond will kick off the program with songs and a short commentary on "Music at Christmas-time."

The Hostess Chairwoman is Diane Moore; co-chairs are Margaret Jeffrey and Avilenne Aleman.

Participating hostesses are: Maria Rodriguez, Ute Groitzsch, Susan Scarberry, Teri Cyborski, Sandi Eisenberg and Dianna Dix, along with members of the Studio who offer to help.

Flower arrangements and decorations will be provided through the artistry of Flowers by Lindy, 63 Basic Road.

The buffet is given courtesy of Flo Raymond, students and their families.

The Coral Cove Student Concert will feature Christmas songs throughout the program with a special holiday finale. A selection of classical, popular and musical comedy themes will be presented.

SILVER BELLS — Ringing in the season are Carly Avello and Janae Jeffrey, who will perform a duet of "Silver Bells" by Livingston and Evans. The teenage vocalists will each sing solo on "Let It Snow" by Cahn and Styne and "The Christmas Song" by Mel Torme and Robert Wells.

Realty Executives bring 'Touch of Home'

Last year, Realty Executives agent Laura Worthington and her assistant Patty Mitus wanted to do something for the community, preferably something to benefit children. They found it in the hallways of schools.

"Working in real estate, we see how much having a home means to people, especially children," Worthington said. "We were both overwhelmed when we learned about the number of homeless children within Clark County schools."

"Children are the ones who truly have no choice, they cannot change their situation," she said. "A 6-, 10-, or 12-year-old can't go out and get a job to support themselves or anybody else."

"A Touch of Home" was designed to provide homeless children in the area with toys during the holiday season. Worthington and Mitus acknowledged several agencies and programs providing food, clothing and necessities for homeless families all year long.

They work closely with Clark County homeless education specialist Ina Doorman.

"One of our biggest challenges was getting the toys to the children," said Mitus. "Most of these children do not have an address. A large part of Doorman's job is to keep track of the children since they obviously move around frequently."

According to Doorman, this year's list includes at least 700 registered children, and that number will increase as the holidays approach.

Worthington and Mitus are pleased with the encouragement and support they receive from Realty Executives.

"Laura and Patty are to be commended for their efforts to provide for children who might otherwise be overlooked because of their circumstances," said RE broker/owner Fafie Moore. "The holiday season is enriched when we are able to bring joy and hope while creating a memory for a child to carry throughout the year."

Moore said each of the company's three offices will serve as donation centers for the program.

To participate, purchase new, unisex toys which do not require batteries or electricity. Deliver them unwrapped to Realty Executives, 2920 N. Green Valley Parkway, Suite 811, in Henderson, before Friday, Dec. 12.

BRIEFS

Duncans featured in Nevada Woman

Jewelers Chuck and Diane Duncan of Boulder City were featured in an article in Nevada Woman (November-December issue). Information about their unique, hand-made jewelry called "Fusion — high energy jewelry" was detailed in the state-wide publication.

Diane, who graduated with an art degree, and Chuck, who graduated from the Gemological Institute of America, created a design to market nationally and sales jumped 40% within months, according to the report.

Duncan Fine Jewelers is located in the Red Mountain Plaza, 1629 Nevada Highway.

'Tree of Lights' campaign begins

The Salvation Army will kick off its "Tree of Lights" campaign at the red parking lot at the eastern edge of the Fremont Street Experience at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 3.

Salvation Army officials want to alert the community to the record number of people who will be helped this holiday season.

Laughlin Casino Rewards Adults; Leave Kids Home, Get a Bonus

LAUGHLIN, NV — Remember all those newspaper stories about casinos repositioning themselves as "family entertainment?"

In Laughlin, Nevada, one casino is heading in the opposite direction.

The Azar Corporation's Ramada Express, in a first for the gaming industry, has installed a new policy that gives extra perks to adult guests who come without their children or grandchildren.

Customer's Love It

In a key test last year the Ramada Express set aside one of its two towers for adults only. When customers loved the decision, the casino decided to expand the program.

The resort's entire 12-story East Tower is still exclusive to adults only, but now a portion of the larger West Tower is just for adults, too. Guests in the East Tower can "sleep in," then plug in the in-room coffee pot and get a special breakfast delivered to their rooms for a nominal charge, until 11 a.m. daily.

Adults get the best pool hours, too, and the hotel's huge outdoor spa stays open until 11 p.m.

Favorable Response

"Most of our customers are mature adults," said Susan Murphy, Sr. Vice President and General Manager of the Ramada Express. "Many of them are retired, have no young children and come to Laughlin for an adult experience. When we began to do a little something extra for those people, the response was immediate and quite favorable. They loved the extra perks and service."

40's Entertainment a Hit

Even the entertainment and promotion policies, say Murphy, have been revised to appeal to an older audience. She cites record-breaking crowds at the casino's current "Back to the 1940's" displays of World War II memorabilia, and the runaway success of a show headed by the "Swing Sisters," a singing group that reprises famous songs by the Andrews and McGuire Sisters.

"Back to the 1940's" is a tribute to the men and women who carried America's colors into the greatest war in history. It starts with a flag-raising ceremony at sunrise and includes exhibits of fighting machines, weapons and uniforms, plus a USO canteen with coffee and doughnuts; and vintage movies, all FREE to Ramada Express guests.

Big Band and Jitterbug
Big band music, jitterbug concerts and displays of "Hollywood at War" and the glory days of radio bring back the flavor of the war years. Color guard's, drill teams and military bands perform on selected weekends.

Meanwhile, The Mills Brother, Kay Starr, Buddy Greco and other entertainment stars from the past are also featured in the Pavilion Theater.

"Adults appreciate the new atmosphere and they're wild about our 40's displays," Murphy said.

Rooms from just $17 a Night

Laughlin, a gaming and recreation center on the banks of the Colorado River is 100 miles southeast of Las Vegas. Families flock to the town to enjoy a variety of river recreation every summer. Under Murphy's new policy, it's the adults who get the perks.

The Ramada Express will give you a $17 room ($22 if you prefer the East Tower — exclusively for guests 21 and older). These special rates are good Sunday through Thursday, 1 or 2 people per room, standard rooms only, from now to Dec. 24, 1997, excluding holidays. Some restrictions apply. When stripers hit: Hold on

It is Thanksgiving week, and the weather is more like spring.

Like many area anglers, my husband and I took advantage of the gorgeous weather and took our bass boat out to the lake. We wanted to enjoy a day of fishing together, wet a line and try our luck at catching a few largemouth bass.

After traveling through the construction mess on the dusty bumpy road which never seemed to end, and long waiting periods—part of the road construction routine—using every bit of patience we had, we eventually made it to Lake Mead.

We were surprised that road construction crews would be working on a Sunday. But if that means getting the road project finished sooner, we're all for it.

OUTDOORS WITH BARB

We launched our boat and headed out to a few of the coves where we've caught largemouth bass in the past. Unfortunately, they were not the least bit interested in our presentation of the artificial lures. We decided to switch over to a Hopkins Silver Spoon, and try for striped bass.

Wow! What a great idea that turned out to be. We used light tackle with 10 lb. test line, and were fishing in about 40 to 60 feet of water. The air temperature was in the low 70s and the water around 64-65 degrees.

Our luck seemed to change and we caught stripers weighing about 6-8 lbs. each.

These powerful fish gave us such a fight. When stripers hit, hold on!

My husband hooked on to one that really took off. His pole was bent at 180 degrees. I was waiting to hear a snap—I just knew that pole was going to break in half.

After quite a fight, this particular fish swam into weeds and broke his line. Of course, I am still hearing about this gigantic fish that got away.

Why is it, when we anglers lose a fish, it always ends up to be the catch of the day, the largest and most powerful? Can you imagine how big this fish will be by the time he tells his buddies?

We had an absolutely wonderful day. There is no doubt about my love for fishing. If you're ever given the opportunity to fish for striped bass, do it—I know I'm hooked.

My family would like to wish you and your family the very best Thanksgiving ever. Take a moment and reflect and be thankful for all the wonderful things you enjoy throughout the year. Remember those who are less fortunate and do your part to make a difference. Have a wonderful Thanksgiving.

Until next week, enjoy the great outdoors.

Nominations sought for wildlife conservation award

Nominations for the 1997 Wayne E. Kirch Nevada Wildlife Conservation Award are being sought by the state Board of Wildlife Commissioners.

According to NDOW, an individual, a non-profit organization, outdoor sports club or business will receive the award for achievement of significant results toward the conservation, management or enhancement of wildlife in Nevada during 1997.

Selection will be made solely from the official NWCA nomination form and supporting material. Seven judges will evaluate and assign a point score to each application, and a simple majority of votes will decide the winner.

Last year, the Northeast Nevada (Elko) chapter of Trout Unlimited received the award for leadership and efforts in the coordination and interagency implementation of the Mary's River restoration and management program.

The Mary's River system includes about 180 miles of stream environment from I-80 near Elko to the headwaters in the Jarbridge Wilderness Area, according to Donald Duff of the U.S. Forest Service, who nominated the group.

"The stream system is a national demonstration area for the 'Bring Back the Natives' program instituted by the U.S. Congress," Duff said.

"NNCTU was vital in the coordination with and between area ranchers, Bureau of Land Management, USFS, mining companies, NDOW, water users and a number of other entities for the overall management and restoration of the stream and associated plant life of the stream system," he said.

Duff said NNCTU has been successful in obtaining federal funding to implement critical components of the restoration project on both public and private lands in the basin.

The award is a perpetual bronze and wood plaque designed and cast by a Nevada artist to which each year's winner's name is added. Each winner also receives a smaller version to keep.

The award is named in honor of Wayne E. Kirch, who served on the Fish and Game Commission for more than 25 years, the longest tenure on the board since its inception in 1877. Kirch, of Las Vegas, died in 1989.

Official nomination forms are available from the NDOW, P.O. Box 10678, Reno, NV 89520. Nominations must be postmarked by Jan. 31, 1998.

Make a list for each boat trip

For those of us who own a boat and trailer and park at our homes, almost everything we might need for a day on the water is already on board—locked up or stored out of sight.

This describes my present boat, which also is covered (Got to keep that bilge dry, you know).

But there have been boats where I had to remove everything after a cruise for security. And there have been times I have found myself at the launch ramp and discovered I had forgotten something.

How to avoid making an error? Just make a list.

When I had my little 12-foot aluminum boat, I stored everything in the shed in my backyard. Anchor, lines, tools, motor, extinguisher and more. I made a list and attached it to the shed wall.

The system worked most of the time except once when I just

BOATING WITH RAY

"mentally" checked it and forgot my oars.

Since I didn't get out to the lake much it was predictable I would forget something I would need. Boaters who are on the water frequently probably load up without ever thinking as it has become second nature—but each trip could be different. Making a list makes sense to me.

Checking a list and laying everything out before hooking up the trailer to car or truck should prevent disappointment.

If you boat during the cooler months, do you have an extra sweat shirt or jacket? I know I dress very differently for the Parade of Lights in December than I do in the middle of July. Clothing is a consideration for the list, depending on the weather.

How many life jackets to carry? You must carry at least one for each passenger on board. Bring a throwable device, like a cushion. Other necessities are signaling items like flares, a red flag, a VHF radio, an inexpensive referee's whistle. (Get a plastic whistle. It won't rust.)

Docking lines are handy, not only to tie up at the dock but necessary if you need a tow. Carry at least four half-inch lines in about 20-foot lengths. Coiled properly, they don't take up much space.

I carry a set of jumper cables even though I have two batteries. If I have a problem, I can get a jump, or I might be able to assist another boater with a dead battery.

Certainly, any list depends on what you intend to do on the water and how long you plan to stay out. Your list may be short or long, but if you take the time to make one, you will not have to worry about spoiling your day.

If I was writing a camping column, I could tell you about the time I made an elaborate table for my Coleman stove to take on a deer hunting trip, and forgot to pack the stove! And I did have a list.

My wife Adelle reminds me also of the fishing net I forgot on our fishing trip to Utah this summer. No list on that trip. Am I getting old?

Making a list has to help to keep you safe and legal and that is the most important reason. Don't you agree?

Until next time, keep your bilge dry. Happy Thanksgiving to everyone.

Eicher, a long-time valley resident, considers himself a part-time boater and fisherman.

Boaters urged to update records

Registration renewal forms will be mailed to about 56,000 boat owners in early December. Those who have changed mailing addresses this year are urged to call the Nevada Division of Wildlife as soon as possible to update their records.

According to license and registration office supervisor Patty Wagner, boaters who have moved and not contacted NDOW will probably not receive a renewal package in the mail because the packages are not forwardable.

Boaters should call to update records soon as forms will be mailed in a few weeks. Callers should have their boat numbers available so the change can be accomplished quickly.

To change an address, call the NDOW office in Las Vegas, 486-5127.

Registration period for all boats runs from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31 each year.

Boat Facilities Committee members sought

The Clark County Commission is seeking boating enthusiasts to serve on its Boating Facilities and Safety Committee, which makes recommendations on expenditures of marine fuel taxes.

During the coming fiscal year, the committee will make suggestions on how to expend the estimated $120,000 in taxes that will be generated. Funds are used for various safety programs, equipment purchases and educational campaigns that promote boating and water safety at Lake Mead and Lake Mohave.

The commission will appoint two individuals to two-year terms to begin in January 1998. Application forms are available by calling the Clark County Manager's office, 455-3530. The deadline to submit applications is Dec. 1.

Goose hunting begins

Goose hunting has gotten off to one of its strongest starts ever at wildlife refuges in Clark and Lincoln counties, according to the Nevada Division of Wildlife.

The bright spot for the Saturday, Nov. 15, opener was Key Pittman Wildlife Management Area in Lincoln County where 21 geese were harvested. Six Canada geese were also taken Nov. 15.

Bart Tanner, area manager, said it is unlawful for hunters to harvest white geese in the Pahrnagat and White River valleys. Several hunters mistakenly shot at snow geese Saturday at the refuge.

Duck hunting has slowed at the area and hunters only managed to take 20 ducks on Saturday.

Roy Hornsley, manager of Overton Wildlife Management Area, said 28 hunters were on hand at the area for Saturday's opening day. They harvested five Canada geese, two snow geese, one Ross' goose and 50 ducks.

Currently there are approximately 350 geese and 3,500 ducks at Overton.

NFR Store/Tent Sale kicks off

The 13th annual National Finals Rodeo store/tent sale at the Western Emporium at Sam's Town will take place Nov. 28-Dec. 14.

"With 35,000 square feet of combined shopping, this is our biggest and best sale of the year," said Kathy Ross, Western Emporium general manager. "We have boots, hats, jewelry, gifts, collectibles and a large selection of western wear."

The sale will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Road detour around water line

Construction contractors for the Southern Nevada Water Authority pipeline project from Lake Mead to Las Vegas, began placing line under Lakeshore Road in the Lake Mead National Recreation Area on Monday, Nov. 24.

A gravel road detour is being constructed along the west side of the road to accommodate park visitor traffic during construction.

The detour will begin at the intersection of Lakeshore Road and the access road to the Alfred Merritt Smith Water Treatment Facility and will continue south toward Boulder Beach for about one-fifth of a mile. The pipeline construction across the roadway is expected to be completed within 30 days.

Hot tips for a warm winter

In desert winter months, the largest energy users in a typical Southern Nevada home may be space heating and water heating equipment.

To optimize home comfort and achieve winter energy savings, Ron Bishop, president of Bishop Air Service of Henderson offers the following no-cost, low-cost energy conservation tips:

•It's a matter of degree. The best energy-saving measure is a simple adjustment on the thermostat. Adjust the setting to 68 degrees or lower during the day; and at night or when the home is not occupied, lower the setting to 55 degrees or lower.

•Make a blanket statement. Reduce the heating system thermostat setting and still stay warm and comfortable by throwing an extra blanket or comforter on the bed.

•Be aware of clothing. Wearing several layers of lightweight clothing or simply putting on a sweater can help to reduce the need for heating during cold weather.

•Go for the end zone. With electric heating and thermostat controls for individual home areas, use zone controls for temperature adjustment in different rooms such as bedroom, bathroom, and living areas. Remember to turn off the heating in the living room when retiring for the evening. And don't forget to turn off bathroom heaters when not in use.

•No room to vent. Avoid heating unoccupied rooms, and shut heating vents and close doors. For an electric heat pump system, consult manufacturer's recommendations since certain air flows are required during operation.

•Time for a tune-up. Keep the heating system tuned for peak performance. Before the heating season, check the furnace to make sure it is working properly. Don't forget to change filters regularly. If filters are the permanent type, simply hose them down or vacuum to keep it clean.

Airplanes offer challenges for avoiding infections

A few simple precautions can reduce the possibility of catching a respiratory or other infection while traveling in a crowded plane—or bus or train, for that matter—said the head of Stanford University Medical Center's infection prevention program.

"If you get sick after a plane flight, the likely cause is contact with a seatmate or failing to wash your hands after a trip to the restroom," said Dr. Lucy Tompkins, professor of medicine-infectious diseases. "There's nothing really special about an airplane in terms of infection except that you're in very close contact with people for a relatively long period of time.

"Many people fear that the recirculating air in an airliner is a special culprit in transmitting colds or other viral infections, but colds and flu are usually picked up from surfaces, such as an armrest or a washroom basin," said Tompkins, who offers two useful suggestions for protecting yourself while in flight.

First, be sure to wash your hands after visiting the restroom, even if you just went in there to get a cup of water. "Many viral infections are spread from your hands to your mucous membranes, Tompkins said.

For example, you touch a faucet handle, touched minutes earlier by someone who sneezed into his hands. If you touch your nose or mouth afterward without washing, you're at risk of transmitting a disease to yourself. To be really cautious, use a paper towel to open and close the bathroom door, depositing it in the trash on the way back to your seat.

Second, if you're sitting next to someone who may be "leaking" viruses—by sneezing or coughing—try to avoid touching the armrest or other surfaces where the viruses may have settled.

Bear in mind, however, that just touching the surface isn't likely to spread infection; it's delivering the virus to a mucous membrane, such as your mouth or nose, that causes problems. It may help to use a disinfectant-coated moist towelette or bathroom tissue to wipe off your hands and face from time to time.

Don't stop medication because of one missed dose

Written instructions provided with drugs tell people when to take doses, but most people are confused about what to do when they miss a dose, notes a Stanford pharmacist.

"What you're going to do about it really depends on what medication you missed and what you're taking it for," said Lisa Tuomi, drug education coordinator at Stanford University Medical Center.

For most drugs, the best way to get back on track is just to take the medication in a regular dose at the next regularly scheduled time. As a general rule, don't double the dose to "make up for" the skipped dose.

"But there are important exceptions to that," said Tuomi. For example, with birth control pills the strategy may differ depending on the type of pill and the phase of the menstrual cycle.

"Look at the instruction sheet or pamphlet that came with the pills. It will advise you whether to begin using a backup birth control method, change your medication schedule or double up your dose," she said.

However, Tuomi said, "an extra dose can be dangerous if it's not recommended, so do follow directions. If you have questions, contact your pharmacist or your prescriber."

Some antibiotics also have special rules. Again, ask your prescriber or pharmacist whether to double up on dosage or readjust the schedule in some other way. "It will depend on which antibiotic you're taking, why and for how long you're taking it, and how much you're taking," she said.

"The most important thing, if you do miss a dose of any drug prescribed for you, is not to stop taking your medicine," Tuomi said.

Board members are Linda Bonnici, Lynn Clopriviza, Scott Carlovsky, Paul Dymon, Jim McElhaney, Sharry Han, Pat McRight, Scott Proctor and Doug Smith.

Appointed committee chairs are: Janet Rogers-Blumen and Bob Fisher, legislative; Linda Bonnici, programs; Charli Carter, Hall of Fame and Silver Medal; Elizabeth Casey, membership and publicity; Lynn Corpriviza, hospitality; Paul Dymon, students; Sharry Han, news magazine; Pam Meza, fund-raising; Scott Proctor, club achievements; Doug Smith, Addys '98 and Jim McElhaney, call for entries.

IABC wins international honors

The Las Vegas chapter of the International Association of Business Communicators brought home international honors from Canada on Nov. 14, after winning the "Outstanding Chapter of 1997," the highest honor any of the 111 chapters worldwide can win.

"I had a feeling our 1996-97 board's hard work might pay off by capturing Outstanding Small Chapter of 1997, but it never occurred to me that our chapter would also win the overall competition," said chapter past president Keith Sheldon. "This award represents Las Vegas' coming of age in the field of communication, overshadowing major markets in the U.S. like Chicago, Los Angeles and New York as well as international markets like Australia, Belgium, Canada, Hong Kong and the U.K."

The chapter won the worldwide competition, the largest public relations and business communication competition in the world, by submitting elements of its 1996-97 performance. Categories reviewed included: membership marketing, professional development, financial management, leadership development, communication, and community and education involvement.

Awards were received in all six independently judged categories, including an award of excellence in membership marketing for generating an increase of 100%. It is the fastest growing chapter in the world.

According to Sheldon, additional distinction was captured in the international competition because of the chapter's leadership role in the Southern Nevada Literacy Coalition's Literacy Day Dinner, which honored Nevada's First Lady Sandy Miller and the dozens of area reading program volunteers.

Nevada Power offers tips for space heaters

In cooler weather, many residents use portable electric space heaters to warm individual rooms. If not used properly, however, space heaters can be unsafe. Nevada Power Co. recommends the following safety precautions:

•Always read and follow the manufacturer's instructions and safety recommendations before using space heaters.

•Test smoke alarms prior to using space heaters.

•Never leave a child unattended in a room with a space heater.

•Leaving a space heater on while sleeping is not recommended.

•Use an electric space heater that turns off if tipped over.

•Do not use the space heater near combustible materials, draperies, or beds where blankets may contact the heater.

When using an electric space heater, Nevada Power Co. recommends that using the right appliance for the right area.

Radiant heaters warm a targeted spot and are designed to heat a specific area. Convection heaters have a fan which circulates warm air within a small area and are designed to warm a small room. A typical 1,500 watt electric space heater adds nine cents to an electric bill for every hour of use.

Craft festival this weekend

The 14th annual Great Las Vegas Craft Festival will be held this weekend at the Cashman Field Center, Exhibit Halls A & B.

Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

McCarran opens child center

The Clark County Department of Aviation recently marked the grand opening of a child care facility for children of employees at McCarran International Airport.

"Nearly 10,000 people work at McCarran International Airport," said Randall H. Walker, director of the Clark County Department of Aviation. "Our goal is to make quality child care available to our employees who want to take advantage of it."

McCarran Child Development Center was built by the CCDOA and is operated by Bright Horizons Children's Centers, Inc., one of the most experienced child care providers in the nation.

The center is open to all employees at McCarran, including airlines and businesses operating at the airport, and CCDOA employees.

The 19,000-square-foot facility is located at 1788 E. Russell Road at Spencer Street, one block east of Maryland Parkway and five minutes from the airport.

Child care programs can range from six weeks to 12 years of age.

Cancer Society helps smokers

The American Cancer Society is offering a two-week long "nonsense quit smoking program" from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 2, at the Family Practice Center, 6375 W. Charleston, Suite A-100.

"FreshStart" is a program designed by the American Cancer Society to help people fight the addiction to nicotine that makes them want to smoke. Dr. George Kaiser is the facilitator. The program uses group interaction to address the reasons people smoke: physical addiction, habit, and psychological dependency.

Four one-hour sessions will be held Dec. 2, 4, 8 and 9. Ways to handle the major obstacles of weight control and stress management will be offered. Also emphasized is that smoking cessation is a two-part process: stopping and staying stopped!

To participate in the free class, call 877-3999, ext. 215.

Bill Boyle: Lake Tahoe fishing legend

THIS WAS NEVADA

PHILLIP I. EARL

Just off the Pacific Rim Trail north of Tahoe City, Calif., stands a large white cross marking the final resting place of Bill Boyle, Lake Tahoe fishing legend.

Like many westerners a century ago, he talked little about his past and his friends asked no questions. He once spoke of his old home in Georgia, however, and his accent and courtly manner reflected his Southern origins. He also talked of his early years as a merchant seaman and of visiting many foreign ports over the years, but little else.

About 1896, Boyle showed up in Wadsworth, where he took a position as a maintenance carpenter for the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Two years later, he moved on to Tahoe City where he established a boat shop and built a small cabin near the Truckee River outlet. Over the next several years, he built and repaired boats, took visitors on fishing excursions and himself fished the lake.

He preferred fighting game fish—rainbow trout, steelheads, golden Eastern brook trout and Lochieven—and opposed the introduction of the sluggish Mackinaw, often referring to them as "Lake Michigan Sharks."

His favorite spot was Rubicon Point off the west shore, and he often abandoned his boat business when the fishing was good.

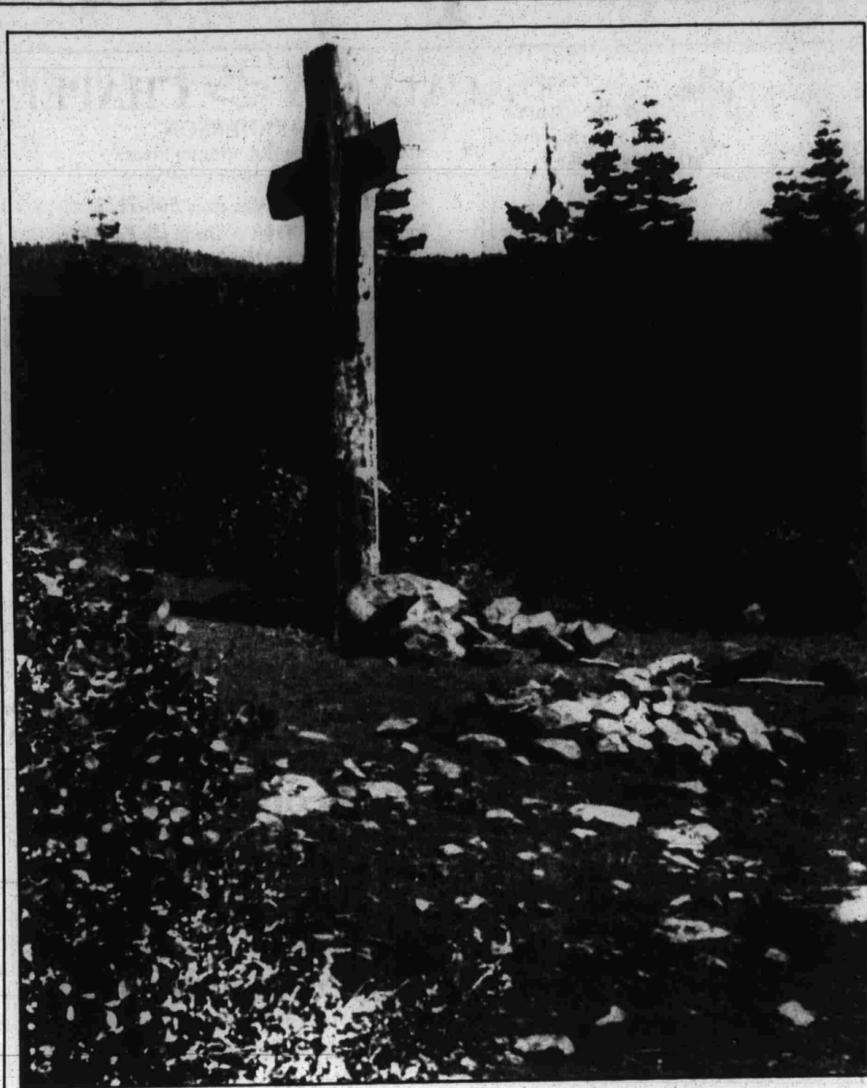

An intelligent, scholarly sort, although self-educated, he loved literature, particularly sea stories, and tried putting pen to paper himself from time to time. He also became fast friends with the youngsters of Tahoe City, introducing them to the joys of angling, and got to know the Washoe Indians during their seasonal visits.

His dry sense of humor and his fondness for the bottle endeared him to locals who hung out at the Customs House wharf, but a bout of pneumonia in spring 1911 confined him to his cabin for several months. His friends, Sarah and Bob Watson, nursed him back to health, but he never felt entirely well thereafter, complaining of stomach trouble.

He had taken to hiking up the mountain north of town where he would sit for hours watching the boat traffic off Tahoe City. When he finally submitted to a medical examination, he was diagnosed with terminal stomach cancer. Toward the end, he told his friends he would like to be buried on the crest of the mountain so his spirit could watch the schools of native trout which came up the Truckee each summer. He died Feb. 3, 1912.

The next morning, 17 of his friends met at the Customs House to remember him and have a few drinks. Several hours later, they placed the coffin on a large toboggan sled and dragged it 500 feet up the mountain. Digging through six feet of snow, they hacked a grave in the frozen earth and buried him.

In August 1913, Bob Montgomery and his sons cut a native cedar and fashioned it into a cross. With a flatbed wagon pulled by a team of horses, they hauled it up Beartrap Road to the gravesite. A few weeks later, Bert Watson whitewashed it. For many years, Tahoe City children made Easter pilgrimages to place flowers on Boyle's grave, but the tradition has died away and the cross today appears to be abandoned.

Boyle has not been forgotten, however, and Ethel Joslin Vernon celebrated his life in verse a few years ago.

INSIGHT TO EYESIGHT

by Joseph Shalev, M.D.

AMBYLOPIA

Amblyopia is poor vision in an eye that did not develop normal sight during early childhood. It is sometimes called "lazy eye." When one eye develops good vision, while the other does not, the eye with poorer vision is called amblyopia. The condition is common, affecting approximately four out of one hundred people.

Amblyopia can be corrected only if treated during infancy or early childhood. Parents must be alert to this visual threat if their child is to see properly in later life. It is recommended that all children have their vision checked at or before age three. New techniques have been developed which make it possible to test vision in infants and young children. If there is a family history of misaligned eyes, childhood cataracts, or other family history of serious eye disease, vision can be checked even earlier than age three. During early childhood years, the visual system remains in a changeable state and continues to develop until the age of nine. Therefore, early detection is important and amblyopia must be treated as early as possible.

At the Eye Institute of Nevada, we stress preventive eye health care for the entire family.

The White Cross on the Hill
The great trees crest the ridge pine-green;
The lake lies wide and blue below,
And on the brush-clad slope between White, fragrant lilacs grow.
Tall, snow-white lilacs stand and look
To where the cross gleams white and still;
They mark the tollers: way they took
Who bore him up the hill.
Unknown to wealth, unknown to fame
Was he they laid to quiet rest;
They hewed a cross without a name
Above his lifeless breast.
But it is said he loved to roam
The winding trails, the hilltop ways
And river woods that hid his home
Through all his lonely days.
And when at last death whirled near,
And black shades gathered grim and still,
He breathed the wish long treasured dear,
To sleep upon the hill.
Thus, through the snow one wintry day
They bore aloft His box of pine,
And where it rested on the way
White, fragrant lilacs shine.

Proofs: Alternate Interior Angles

by Bill Hanlon

bhanlon@accessnv.com

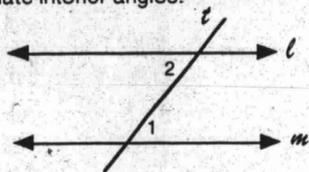

Let's see, we've already learned vertical angles are congruent and corresponding angles are congruent if they are formed by parallel lines. Using this information we can go on to prove alternate interior angles are also congruent if they are formed by parallel lines.

What we need to remember is drawing the picture will be extremely helpful to us in the body of the proof. Let's start.

Theorem

If 2 parallel lines are cut by a transversal, the alternate interior angles are congruent.

By drawing the picture of parallel lines being cut by a transversal, we'll label the alternate interior angles.

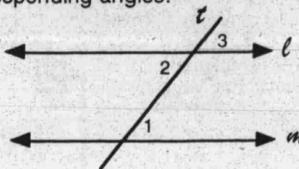

The question is, how do we go about proving $\angle 1 \cong \angle 2$?

Now this is important. We need to list on the picture things we know about parallel lines?

Well, we just learned that corresponding angles are congruent when they are formed by parallel lines.

Let's use that information and label an angle in our picture so we have a pair of corresponding angles:

Since the lines are parallel, $\angle 1$ and $\angle 3$ are congruent. Oh wow, $\angle 2$ and $\angle 3$ are vertical angles! They are congruent.

That means we have $\angle 1 \cong \angle 3$, $\angle 2 \cong \angle 3$, that means $\angle 1$ must be congruent to $\angle 3$.

Using our picture, that's our proof. Now we have to write that in two columns.

Remember, start off with what's given.

Statements	Reasons
1. $l \parallel m$	Given
$\angle 1$ and $\angle 2$ are alt int \angle 's
2. $\angle 1 \cong \angle 3$	Two \parallel lines, cut by t, corresp. \angle 's
3. $\angle 3 \cong \angle 2$	Vert \angle 's
4. $\angle 1 \cong \angle 2$	Transitive Prop

Is there a trick to this? Not at all. Draw your picture, label what's given to you, then fill in more information based on your knowledge.

CASE to hold regional meeting

Time management experts and motivational speakers Stephen R. Covey and Hyrum W. Smith will be among the speakers when more than 500 education professionals gather for the District VII regional conference of the Council for Advancement and Support of Education, in December.

The conference is scheduled Dec. 6-9 at the Riviera Hotel.

CASE is the largest nonprofit education association. Its members include more than 2,900 colleges, universities, independent elementary and secondary schools, educational associates, and suppliers and consultants in the U.S., Canada, Mexico, and 25 other countries.

Individuals primarily work in the institutional advancement field, which includes fund-raising, communications, government relations, and advancement services. Most attendees will be from Nevada, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii and Utah.

Arrangements chair Les Raschko, UNLV's director of publications and reprographics, said, "As the host university, UNLV and its advancement staff have worked closely with the Riviera Hotel in scheduling more than 70 events during the four-day period."

Smith, chairman of the board of Franklin Covey Co., will speak Dec. 8. The author of "The 10 Natural Laws of Successful Time and Life Management" and other books, is also a motivational speaker.

His Franklin Day Planner system is used by more than four million people worldwide. The Franklin Covey Co. serves an international clientele of 750,000, including 82 of the Fortune 100 and more than two-thirds of the Fortune 500 companies.

Covey, the author of "The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People," will speak Dec. 9. He has taught leadership principles and management skills for more than 25 years to leaders in business, government, and education. He is the founder of the Covey Leadership Center, which recently merged with Franklin Quest.

Donald D. Snyder, president of the UNLV Foundation and president of Boyd Gaming Corporation, will speak Dec. 7.

For more conference information, call Raschko, 895-3103.

Walker to donate furniture

For the fourth consecutive year, Walker Furniture, the valley's largest furniture dealer, will bring holiday joy to families in need in Clark County by delivering each of them a houseful of furniture in time for the holidays.

In the past, the company has provided the furniture for 12 families, and this year 15 families will be included.

Those with a family in mind are asked to send a letter to the company describing that family's situation.

All letters will be reviewed by an outside, independent panel, which will select the beneficiary families.

Send letters to Larry Alterwitz, president, Walker Furniture, 3-1 S. Martin Luther King Blvd., Las Vegas, NV 89106, or hand deliver them to the store. All letters must arrive at Walker Furniture by Wednesday, Dec. 10. All nominated families must reside in Clark County.

This is one way we give back to the community each year," said Alterwitz. "We hope to make the holidays brighter for 15 deserving families and we're asking other members of the community to help us by coming forward with their recommendations."

"The staff extends best wishes for the holiday season to everyone in Southern Nevada through the program," he said. "We only wish we could help every needy family."

Deliveries to the families will begin around Dec. 17, and will be completed before Christmas.

Nevada joins action against toy problem

Attorney General Frankie Sue Del Papa announced recently that Nevada has joined with 27 other states in a suit against Toys 'R Us, Inc. and four major toy manufacturers, in an attempt to recover damages suffered by Nevada consumers as a result of a conspiracy that artificially inflated toy prices.

The complaint was filed Nov. 17 in federal court in Brooklyn, N.Y. Nevada is being represented by the Antitrust Unit of the Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Protection.

The complaint alleges that Toys 'R Us, the nation's largest toy retailer, used its considerable market power to pressure major toy manufacturers not to sell popular toy products to warehouse club competitors such as Price Club/Costco and Sam's Club.

According to the complaint, Toys 'R Us brokered an illegal agreement among several toy manufacturers to ensure that the warehouse clubs could only obtain certain popular toys in "combination packs" which cost consumers more and whose prices could not be compared with items sold by Toys 'R Us.

The states claim the low-margin retailers were underselling Toys 'R Us which feared a loss of business from comparison-shopping consumers and damage to its "everyday low-price" image.

The toy manufacturers named in the suit are Mattel, Hasbro, Tyco Industries and Little Tykes Company. The suit says the manufacturers were initially reluctant to restrict supplies to the discount warehouses but ultimately agreed under pressure by Toys 'R Us.

According to the complaint, supplies were cutoff to warehouse club competitors of Toys 'R Us making comparison shopping impossible and driving up prices at Toys 'R Us and its competitors. The complaint claims that this practice is continuing.

"The best guarantee of low prices and good service for consumers is tough competition," Del Papa said.

'Messiah' performance set

The 12th annual performance of Handel's "Messiah" is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 1, at Ham Concert Hall on the UNLV campus.

The performance will be presented by Las Vegas-based Desert Chorale, under conductor Nancy Helm. The Desert Chorale Symphonic Ensemble and members of the Nevada Symphony Orchestra will also participate in the annual event, along with soloists, including alto Rosemary Ricci, a Las Vegas native, now performing with the Metropolitan Opera.

Admission is free to the public. For more information, call Rose Bishop, 255-6301.

Arts Society to present oratorio

The Southern Nevada Musical Arts Society, under Dr. Douglas R. Peterson, will perform Felix Mendelssohn's oratorio, "St. Paul," Op. 36, at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 30, in Ham Concert Hall at UNLV.

Featured will be the 75-voice Musical Arts Chorus and 37-piece Musical Arts Orchestra and guest soloists bass-baritone Neil Wilson of Richmond, Va., soprano Amy Cofield of Elkhart, Ind., tenor Steve Robinson and contralto Lisa Jablonski, both of Las Vegas.

The concert is the second in the Society's 35th anniversary season and marks Peterson's 30th year as director. Wilson has sung throughout the U.S. and Germany, and has been a soloist with the Denver, Rochester, and San Antonio symphonies. His European performances include numerous oratorio, cantata, and recital appearances. This is his sixth appearance with the Society.

Cofield has recently returned from a European tour in which she was featured as "Violette" in Verdi's "La Traviata." She has appeared with numerous choral and orchestra societies including two guest appearances with the Society in 1991 and 1996.

Robinson has performed with the Kansas City Lyric Opera, the St. Louis Opera and the Cincinnati Opera, and have included solo roles in Handel's "Messiah," "Judas Maccabaeus," and Leonard Bernstein's "Songfest," in a premiere arrangement conducted by the late composer. He has been featured in many Society productions including the "Mozart Requiem," "Judas Maccabaeus," the "St. Matthew Passion," "Hymn of Praise" and "Pirates of Penzance." Jablonski is a graduate student in the UNLV music department.

Tickets are $10 adults, $7 students, military and disabled, and are available at the UNLV Performing Arts Center Box Office, call 895-3801, or at the door.

Senior Adult Theatre at UNLV

Senior are invited to become part of the nationally acclaimed Senior Adult Theatre program at UNLV.

An informational meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday, Dec. 1, at the Winchester Community Center. It will include a performance of scenes and monologues by program students, along with information on courses, degrees in theatre, how to audition for plays and more.

In addition to special classes, a wide range of courses are available, from acting to playwriting. Seniors are also invited to work onstage and backstage, and no prior theatre experience is necessary to participate.

"Whatever your interest—ushering, building scenery, auditioning for plays—there are many opportunities available for older students," said director Dr. Ann McDonough.

Spring semester classes begin in late January, and people age 62 and older who meet residency requirements may earn up to six free credits per semester on a space available basis.

The event is free, but space is limited. To make a reservation, call 895-4248.

Jazz combos concert at CCSN

A jazz combos concert will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4, in the Black Box Theatre on CCSN's Cheyenne campus, 3200 E. Cheyenne Ave., Las Vegas.

A student combo, along with the CCSN Faculty Jazz Sextet, will perform jazz works from standards to avant-garde. The concert will include, for the first time, a female vocalist with the student group. Featured will be new arrangements by both the students and Tom Ferguson, supervisor of the combos and chairman of fine arts at the college.

All seats are $5. For reservations, call 651-LIVE(5483).

King Norris to play Club Madrid

The King Norris band brings its on-the-edge style to Sunset Station's Club Madrid at 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6. Tickets are $12 and are on sale at all Ticketmaster locations or at the casino's VIP promotions booth.

Band leader Fred Norris is best known for his daily performances on the Howard Stern show, heard locally on KXTE. He is less known for bluesy guitar playing, writing credits and performing skills with such rock greats as Ray Davies, Roger Daltrey and Ozzy Osborne.

As a fan of the "electric blues," the band takes inspiration from the late Stevie Ray Vaughn. The show is packed with blistering guitar work and a tight rhythm section.

The show includes original material, as well as rock classics.

Past shows have included ballad-like versions of "Rebel Rebel" and the theme from the '70s film,

"Shaft."

For more information, call 547-7777.

Communications award applicants sought

The Desert Sands chapter of the Public Relations Society of America is accepting applications for its fourth annual Communications Teacher of the Year Award.

The competition is open to Southern Nevada high school educators who teach English, speech or journalism, advise debate teams, student newspaper staffs or yearbook activities.

The judges will evaluate each candidate based on the following criteria: teaching, lesson planning and projects, tutoring, mentoring, community involvement and special interests.

For more information or to request an application, call 386-2677 ext. 136, or 791-4268.

Holiday concerts at Clark County Library

Award-winning vocalist Beth Lawrence will perform two holiday concerts on Saturday, Dec. 6, at the Clark County Library Theater, 1401 E. Flamingo Road.

A "Family Holiday Concert" will take place at 11 a.m. and "Ho-Ho a Go-Go: A Musical Wish List from Santa to Sondheim" will be presented at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available at the door one hour before each performance. Admission is $2 for the "Family Holiday Concert," and $8 for "Ho-Ho a Go-Go," free for children, accompanied by an adult.

The "Family Holiday Concert" includes traditional holiday favorites and sing-alongs. All children attending will be receive a treat and will be entered into a drawing to win prizes.

"Ho-Ho a Go-Go" stars the award-winning Lawrence with Robert Gadpaille and pianist Doug Stewart. The program features a mix of holiday classics and Broadway tunes plus a selection of Lawrence's original compositions.

Concert proceeds will benefit Clark County Park and Recreation

Scholarship Fund.

A former Las Vegas resident, Lawrence has opened for various showroom performers including Don Rickles and Bobby Vinton.

The concerts are sponsored by Clark County Parks and Recreation and the Las Vegas-Clark County Library District.

HOROSCOPE

LINDA BLACK

Weekly Tip: The Sagittarius sun brings joy and congeniality to all. That's important to remember when the Capricorn moon places restrictions on many.

Aries (March 21-April 19). Responsibilities clash with your travel plans. You'll soon start finding ways to break free. Your friends demand most of your attention. Don't forget an assignment that must be finished.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). You're doing very well considering the handicap you're under. Finish up a tough job while you still have the advantage. Keep travel to a minimum.

Gemini (May 21-June 21). Pool resources with a friend to get what you want. The same goes for travel. Together you can get there. Study your favorite foreign language with a native speaker. You'll learn something very interesting.

Cancer (June 22-July 22). Your workload is intense, but a partner helps out. Don't get into an argument. It'll only waste time. Pool your resources to get something you both want badly. Find a source of new funding. Research may be required.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). Although your attitude is good, the workload is horrendous. Don't complain. Just get it done. Tackle a tough assignment so you can play with your mate. Delegate a technical assignment to a partner and you'll do better on a tough job.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Make a romantic commitment. That bond helps you handle confusion at home. You might not have time for much, so don't schedule anything.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Read the manual so you can solve a problem at home all by yourself. You'll be so proud once you have. You and your sweetheart can finalize plans.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Pay attention. The skills you are learning could lead to an increase in income. Plan ahead to solve a problem at home. Share the workload and you'll have more time for creativity. Meet with your sweetheart.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Money's tight, especially if you say so. Don't let anybody talk you out of your hard-won resources. Practice new skills.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You're super-efficient. Push yourself to finish an old job quickly. Slick maneuvering leads to an increase in income.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You're under a bit of pressure, but your friends help you out. Let them know what you need, and they'll come up with amazing ideas.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). You and your friends can out-wit an older person. Don't be too obvious about it. The plot thickens. You may discover work you've forgotten to turn in.

If You're Having a Birthday This Week: You're lucky with money. If you study and are aggressive, you'll gain even more. Your perseverance pays, literally.

DEAR DEBBIE

DEBORAH WHITE

Dear Debbie: My ex-boyfriend from high school got married right after graduation. He was married about five years when he and his wife started having problems.

He came to me to talk. I was still in love with him. Then we quit seeing each other and he went back with her. Six months later, she left him for another man. We moved in together. Three months later, he told me they were talking about getting back together and he got his own place.

Now he tells me she's pregnant by him. I didn't step back into the picture until she decided she didn't want him. Now she does. What should I do?

CONFUSED

Dear Confused: Run for the hills, honey. This guy is using you for sex and sympathy whenever his wife takes off.

He told you he still loves her. You should have left then. There's nothing in it for you to continue playing second fiddle. As Cher said in "Moonstruck" "Get over it!" Find someone who loves you and puts your feelings first.

Dear Debbie: My mother is dating this guy who's a real slime ball. He comes on to me all the time and I'm only 14.

We fight over him constantly. I can't stand him. I'm afraid she's going to marry this creep, and I'll never be safe again.

She doesn't believe me about him coming on to me, and tells me I'm selfish for wanting her to be alone.

Trust me on this, I'd be thrilled for her, if the guy was decent. I can't believe she's putting some stranger before her own daughter.

What do I do now?

SCARED

Dear Scared: Since he hasn't harmed you yet, don't call the authorities. You could end up in a foster home.

Instead, make arrangements with your grandmother or a close aunt to stay there temporarily.

Getting another responsible adult involved will do two things: Most importantly give you a safe haven, and hopefully give your mom a much needed wake-up call.

Write to Dear Debbie at P.O. Box 4328, Chicago, Ill. 60680.

Infamous holiday is here again

By Carolyn Drennan Bishop

I know you are all familiar with the famous words, "One small step for man, one giant step for mankind."

I've got a better one: "Today marks one giant leap backwards for womankind." In case you are wondering, these words were muttered by an exhausted Colonial woman moments after dinner on the very first Thanksgiving Day.

I'm not positive but I think this same woman also said, "This is a day that will live in infamy." I may be correct because if memory serves me, on the day Pearl Harbor was bombed, President Franklin Roosevelt quoted her.

While you're mulling all this over, I want you to picture a festive Thanksgiving table laden with steaming bowls of vegetables and mashed potatoes and gravy. In the center, majestic in its beauty, sits a delicately browned turkey.

LET ME TELL YOU A STORY

ALEXANDRA SPOTTI

Frankly, I'm sick and tired of all the hoopla over a big bird with a mind of its own. I don't care how many times Martha Stewart whips a perfectly browned turkey with folded wings and perfectly tucked legs out of her oven. Her turkey can stand up and take a bow for all I care.

If you must know, there must be something wrong with my oven. My big bird goes in fat and plump and lovingly shrouded in cheesecloth while it's lying around in there, I'm conducting long conversations with a perky voiced know-it-all on the Turkey Hot Line.

As near as I can tell, this is a special line something like a suicide prevention line. Perky voice knows that while we're talking, Big Bird is rapidly disintegrating into a lump of spindly bones and will emerge the size of an emaciated sparrow. It couldn't take a bow if it had to.

Now, getting back to the Indians I blame all my troubles on the pesky Indians who started this whole turkey thing.

What did they do? First off, they flung a few over-sized birds and a pumpkin or two over their shoulders and appeared one Thursday in a lonely Pilgrim settlement.

Get this: While the women of the village rushed about plucking feathers, the men smoked a peace pipe and drank a few friendly toasts to one another. This all took so long that when they were through, the turkeys were cooked, the pies were baked, and everyone spent the next several hours sitting around eating themselves silly.

That, my dear readers, is why every November the women of America annually break their fingernails trying to pry the innards out of a frozen turkey and endlessly wait for "one more touchdown" while the soup cools and the whipped cream on the pie melts.

Have a happy Thanksgiving!

The Gingerbread Boy: A perfect recipe

Alexandra Spotti

In Richard Egelski's modern version of "The Gingerbread Boy," (1997, ages 3 to 8), the boy cookie is on the loose in the Big Apple and being chased by a wide assortment of hungry characters.

There's the couple, of course, an alley cat, some construction workers, street musicians and even a policeman on horseback.

With a text that retains its traditional refrain, "Run run as fast as you can," this urban adventure takes the reader down a fire escape, through an alley, across a clothesline, into the subway, through Central Park, and into the zoo, where the clever fox awaits his prey.

This retelling perfectly captures the folktale quality of a beloved childhood story that never grows old.

In "Papa!" by Philippe Corentin

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

CAROLYN DRENNAN BISHOP

(1997, ages 3 to 7), a young boy finds a monster child in his bed and calls out to his daddy to save him.

The little monster child, who is equally afraid of the little boy, also yells out for his dad to rescue him.

First, the monster child is taken and reassured by his family that there are no monsters. He returns to bed, and the young boy is taken and reassured that there are definitely no such things as monsters.

By the end of the story, the boy child and the monster child are slumbering soundly—together.

This tale is guaranteed to help young children with nighttime fears go to sleep a little easier.

In "Incredible Ned," by Bill Maynard (1997, ages 4 to 7), Ned is a kid with a problem. You see, every time he says the name of an object, it appears.

His teacher is not amused with this chain of events and Ned is sent to a long procession of people for a cure.

First the nurse tries to help, then the band leader, the French teacher, and the principal try without success to cure Ned—and then he visits the art teacher.

"Incredible Ned" is a silly, funny tale told in rhyme that young children will enjoy. Happy reading!

Words of Wisdom

A burden can be a bridge for progress.

Pity for others is a recollection of our own troubles.

The first rule for success is knowing where you're going before you start out.

Good nature and good sense equal good manners.

If you have to sing your own praises, you're probably out of tune with reality.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions—horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle; then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over...They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF NEVADA NOTICE OF TARIFF FILING
Nevada Power Company ("NPC") has filed a revision to its Large General Service tariff, designated as Docket No. 97-11007, with the Public Utilities Commission of Nevada ("Commission"). NPC states that the purpose of this revision is to clarify the administration of certain schedules. Large General Service - Extra Large and Large General Service - Extra Large Water Pumping. The clarifications involve (a) NPC's intent to file for modifications to a customer's facilities charge under certain circumstances, (b) its intent to bill a customer a proposed facilities charge before it has been approved by the Commission, with revisions to be made upon approval, (c) inclusion of a customer-specific effective date for facilities charges, and (d) modification of the applicability clauses for these schedules to reflect that the schedules apply to customers whose total load, not incremental load, is estimated to achieve 22 megawatts or 20 megawatts for water pumping. The proposed tariff was filed pursuant to the provisions of Chapters 703 and 704 of NRS and NAC and is on file and available for viewing by the public at the offices of the Commission, 727 Fairview Drive, Carson City, Nevada 89710 and the Sawyer Office Building, 555 East Washington Avenue, Suite 4500, Las Vegas, Nevada 89101. Persons with a direct and substantial interest in the tariff may file Petitions for Leave to Intervene in conformance with the Commission's regulations at either of the Commission's offices on or before Wednesday, December 10, 1997. Interested persons may submit Protests which conform with the Commission's regulations or other written comments at either of the Commission's offices. By the Commission, JEANNE REYNOLDS, Commission Secretary Dated: Carson City, Nevada 11/14/97 (SEAL) H—Nov. 27, 1997.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF NEVADA NOTICE OF TARIFF FILING
Nevada Power Company ("NPC") has filed a revision to its Large General Service tariff, designated as Docket No. 97-11008, with the Public Utilities Commission of Nevada ("Commission"). The purpose of this revision is to move an existing customer, Caesar's Palace, from the Large General Service to the Extra Large schedule. NPC has installed new transmission facilities to serve this customer's 50 MVA customer-owned substation. NPC proposes to charge this customer a monthly facilities charge of $65,100. NPC states that it intends to bill this customer the proposed amount until the Commission renders a decision on this filing, with revisions to be made to reflect any difference between the charge proposed by NPC and that which may be approved. The proposed tariff was filed pursuant to the provisions of Chapters 703 and 704 of NRS and NAC and is on file and available for viewing by the public at the offices of the Commission, 727 Fairview Drive, Carson City, Nevada 89710 and the Sawyer Office Building, 555 East Washington Avenue, Suite 4500, Las Vegas, Nevada 89101. Persons with a direct and substantial interest in the tariff may file Petitions for Leave to Intervene in conformance with the Commission's regulations at either of the Commission's offices. By the Commission,

NOTICE TO READERS
By law, companies that contract to locally move your household goods must hold a certificate from the Nevada Public Service Commission. This requirement ensures that the company carries proper insurance, complies with government safety standards and charges only approved rates. Nevada law also requires these "full service" movers to print their PSC number on their trucks in their advertising. For more information, the PSC can be reached at 486-2600. Chapter 624 of Nevada Revised Statutes makes it unlawful for any person to engage in the business or act in the capacity of a contractor within this State without having a State Contractor's License. All advertising by a licensed contractor shall include the license number. Should a question arise regarding licensed contractors, contact the Nevada State Board of Contractors, 486-1100.
