German Children in Carver Park School

"America is wonderful. Everybody here is wonderful. If you had ever lived in Germany you would understand why I like America," said Mrs. Fink, a German war-bride, whose three children are attending Carver Park School.

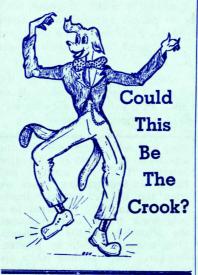

Elizabeth and Gunther are 11year-old twins. Elizabeth speaks English very well. In Germany the twins were in the sixth grade, but are now starting in the first grade and will advance as quickly as they master English. Uda is eight years old. She was in second grade in Germany, but is also starting in the first grade at Carver Park.

The girls are very fond of their teacher. They told their mother that "she is just like another Mama". Master Sergeant Fink helps the girls in the evenings with their reading. They are showing remarkable progress.

Mrs. Fink and the girls made the trip from Germany by airplane. The girls were excited about eating eggs for the first time. It was also the first time they had meat or milk, but the eggs enthralled them the most.

Master Sergeant Fink met the plane in New York City on Noveniber 19, 1948. They traveled West by automobile. It was their first ride in an auto.

People like the Fink family really appreciate America.

Pull up a chair, make yourself homely and listen. Tonight, January 21st, The Language Club is holding its regular bi-monthly meeting. During the meeting, two of the Language Club's talent students will entertain the members. Jerry Kizzia will make the girls swoon with his guitar solo and Jean Dinham will send the boys with a vocal number. Also Mr. Greenfield, club sponsor, will play some of his choice recordings. The refreshment committee promises to have some luscious vittles.

All members and others interested in Language Club are urged to attend.

What will happen at midnight? Just what are the two dastardly villains, Kumzoff, Max Goble, and Putzoff, Chad Combs, up to? With the help of that beautiful but sinister Hatter Mari, Dorene Rauch, it's bound to be a spinechilling and teeth-chattering play.

The whole situation begins when Robin J. Hood, Dwain Lamb, retires to a friend's country home to finish a mystery serial he is writing. The circumstances that follow promise to keep you on the edge of your chair the whole evening.

Other members of the cast are: Dora Goodwin as Silvia, Maureen Powell as Madame Zonga, Johnny Elliot as Hemingway, Lynn Gleason as Elsie, Beverly McGoo as Mrs. Smythe, Sally Rufe as Winona, Allen Cureton as Frank, Janice Hall as Kate, and last, but not forgotten, Herbie Heher as Abner.

The antics of the whole cast along with a superb play make this class project one of the best of the year. The play, under the direction of Mr. Ott, will be given some time in February.

BRAIN FOOD

Among the recent purchases of library books are: New Information Please Almanac 1949 edited by John Kierran, Babe Ruth Story by John Considine, Big Fisherman by Lloyd Douglas, and Best Plays of 1947-1948 edited by John Chapman.

ART??

Are you a doodler? The term, although coined in recent years, describes a practice which must be as old as writing. Everyone loves to scribble in a preoccupied manner. Here in Basic High, the custom is particularly prevalent. Very often the results are quite interesting and humorous, as long as they are confined to sheets of paper, work books, and blotters. However, not all people appreciate the same types of art. Since many different people make use of the desks and walls in the course of a day, we may suggest that doodlers refrain from decorating the school property.

Remember, the best way to keep your name before the eyes of the future Basic students is by performing worth while deeds which will be remembered through the years, rather than by carving or drawing on the desks and walls where it is most often unwelcome.

Our Chevy

Bang! Tinkle! Crash! Pardon the noise, but it cant' be helped. That was our beautiful, old weather-beaten forlornlooking thirty-five Chevy chugging up the hill to our house. My dad comes up the hill about this time every night driving the machine that time and toil have wrecked.

Let me tell you about the time I went to town with Dad to get rid of our ancestral piece. One morning we went out where the wreck was parked and prepared to leave for town. We seated ourselves in the beautiful old junk Only a madman would buy it!

heap and fidigitted around for the key until we found it. My Dad inserted it in the switch and turned on the ignition. Then we tried the starter, but the motor failed to sputter. We went to a neighbor's house and explained the situation to the occupants. They agreed to help by pushing the car. They pushed while we manipulated the mangled instruments. After three or four attempt it started and we were soon rolling at the rate of twenty or twenty-five miles per hour. One hour later, we arrived at our destination, Las Vegas, Nevada. We just made Madman Pizinger's lot.

Time Marches On

Oh, happy days when dates were for eating,

And happy the days when dates were for learning;

But, now you're a teen, there's no retreating,

Dates are for making, breaking, and yearning.

> Christina Pavlaki, White Pine High School

Here's one from White Earth, South Dakota:

The Principal: Haven't you finished washing that blackboard? You've been working on it for over an hour.

Student: I know, but the more I wash it, the blacker it gets.

From the Bulldog Barker, Bunkerville High, comes this daffynition:

Definition of a kiss:

Something made of something, tasting very sweet,

A most delicious compound with ingredients all complete;

But if, as on occasion, the heart and mind are sour.

It has no great significance, and it loses half its power.

There's some good advice to the guys of BHS from Mohave County Union High School:

Early to bed, and early to rise, makes your girl go out with other guys.

Another daffynition is this one from the Streamline, Sparks, Nevada:

Definition of parents: One of the hardships of a minor's life.

Advice to young men in love: Don't tell the girl you are unworthy of her-let that come later, as a surprise.

Eeeeek!!

"Sounds like someone's being murdered," I said. "Hurry! Let's go to the Journalism room." As I ran to the scene of the crime I saw the cops taking the dead copy to the newspaper morgue.sxaT beggel-gnol bodt al

A thought struck me as if someone had poured hot lead down my back. I blazed down to the Basic Dept. store where the murderer was hiding behind a rack of fascinating blouses, which were on sale and going fast. They were going so fast he couldn't hide behind them any longer.

The killer darted from the store and over to the Recreation Center Cafe where I came upon him eating one of those delicious school lunches for 50c.

He shoved me aside and ran out the door.

I could not chase him as I had split my shoe. I hurried over to the Shoe Hospital where my shoe was fixed in a jiffy and I resumed the merry chase.

I followed his tracks to the Victory Village grocery store where he had stopped for groceries and left. The clerk didn't notice which way he had gone.

Then the smell of good food came to my nostrils. I dashed into the Victory Village Cafeteria. There he was, eating a luscious hamburger and drinking a tall glass of Anderson's milk

He darted out and ran back up to Basic High School where I cornered him. He was refreshing himself with a bottle of Coca-Cola.

The cops came and took him away. They said his name was "Kissy-lips" Ybarra.

And so ends the case of the "Dead Copy".

Hi, kids, isnt it wonderful to know that exams are over and you've passed them (passed out, that is). I see that Dora G. is making music with Tomy B., again. I wonder how long this will last? Is that long-legged Texan moving in on you Chuck H.? Meaning Bailey, of course. Friends can be a nuisance, can't they? Chuck G. doesn't seem to be having any trouble lately. Golly, wonder if he changed toothpaste? Poor Lopeman cannot get himself a girl.

Hey, Jean D. and Billie Sue G., all we hear about are Boulder men. What's wrong with Basic guys?

Troy C. doesn't believe in Santa anymore; he didn't get his wollipopp. Maybe you were a bad boy in Mr. Greenfield's study hall. I guess no one in his study hall got one, so don't feel bad, Troy.

Anybody got a red wagon they will loan to Norma W. to carry her engagement ring?

Those Miller kids surely know how to horn in, don't they, Jerry K.? At least that is what Bobby M. is doing to you and Jody G. The beautiful gal and the guy with the drape shape who appeared in the last issue of the Lobo News were Pat Whitehead and Chuck Hansen. Bet you did not guess the right answer, did you? Wilma Gandrud was the only one who did. She received the box of candy.

That is all the corn for this issue. Read the next issue to see if Lopeman has a girl yet. Same time, same price. JANUARY 21, 1949

SPORTS

Wolves Migrate

The Basic Wolves' four-day basketball trip proved to be much more than just that. There were frozen feet and hands, stalled cars, marooned and financially-embarrassed players. All this and much more was a great experience to the Basic squad.

The first game on the Wolves' trip was with the Tonopah five. The Wolves forged ahead in the opening half, but fell behind in the closing quarters to lose 44 to 34.

That night, the Wolves went on to Ely and arrived about three in the morning. They left the next day to encounter the Lincoln County Lynx. The Wolves played a strong floor game and led all the way, only to be edged out in the closing seconds 37 to 35. High point man was Captain Chuck Hansen, who also played a bangup defensive game.

The Basic five arrived in Ely the next morning about one in the morning. The Wolves were invited on a trip through the copper pit at Ruth, eleven miles from Ely, that and it was enjoyed by all the players.

That night the trip began to tell on the traveling Wolves, and they were clawed by a strong White Pine five 49 to 23. The Wolves appeared sluggish thruout the game. The Bobcats held the upper hand and were never threatened once during the clash.

The next day the Basic five rested, hoping to make a better showing. The gym was well packed again, only to see the Bobcats from White Pine trounce the smaller Wolf clan to an almost identical score, 50 to 24. The Wolves never looked like themselves once during the game.

The outstanding player of all four games was Chuck Hansen, high point man of all games.

The Wolves left Ely Sunday morning for home, but after getting only twenty-eight miles from Ely, they found themselves in the middle of a blizzard.

Coach R. Taylor, whose car ran off the road into a snow bank, had to be exhumed. This was the cause of the frozen feet and hands from which Keith Lopeman suffered the worst. The Wolves returned to Ely to stay another night. They were becoming homesick and were getting tired of the white stuff called snow.

The Wolves tried to return again Monday and found it easy going until their arrival at Caliente. The pass between Caliente and Glendale was covered with three feet of snow, but the the Wolf pack had to go ahead because there were no rooms available.

Finally, after the long twelvehour trip from Ely, everyone arriver safely home, only to find more snow in Basic.

OPENING GAME

The Basic Wolves opened the '49 basketball season by walloping a smaller Tonopah five 53 to 24. The Wolves started fast and were never overtaken.

The Wolves dropped their first game of the year to a fast and bigger Barstow five. This was a tri-state game. The score: 35 to 21.

I think that I shall never see Basic win a game again, oh, me!

WILDCATS CLAW WOLVES

The Las Vegas Wildcats easily ran over the Basic Wolves to give them their sixth straight loss. The Wildcats started strong and were never overtaken. The Wolves seemed to be very slow-moving and just couldn't seem to work the ball in. The final score was 49 to 25.

The Wolves showed up much better in the second half, but were too far behind to get back into the game. Both teams were wild in the opening stanzas, but the Wildcats soon found themselves, which the Wolves couldn't seem to do until the closing minutes of a very ragged game.

The Wolves ran into bad luck all the way from the opening minutes. Don Doughty hit the floor hard and was knocked out, but not seriously injured. Next, in the second half, Tommy Sims fell and cut his eye. He was followed by Mel Bailey who twisted his ankle, and was also taken out of the game. The sparkplug of the Basic team was, as usual, Chuck Hansen.

Parties

The class of 7-B had a nice Christmas party. They exchanged gifts and had refreshments. George Ann Miller's father got the Christmas tree.

Class 7-C also had a Christmas party. They bought a pipe for their teacher, Mr. Athis. They drew names, had refreshments and played games.

7-8 had a Christmas party at which they had great fun. The guests were Mrs. Church, Mrs. McBeath and Foster Church. Mrs. Kressler, Mrs. Stephens, Mrs. Mc-Beath, Mrs. Cleppir, Mrs. Church furnished cake and candy. They also had Pepsi-Cola.

The 6-A class had a nice party. They exchanged gifts and played games. Their teacher, Mrs. Bondurant, received many gifts and cards.

On the 30th of December, Pat Brown of the 8-B class had a party in her home. Those attending were Cecilia Gonzales, Shirley Chaffee, Louise Autry, Mary Sanchez, Bill Stitt, Lyndel Berry, Stanley Hickman and Bob Ford who was here on a vacation from California. Soda pop, sandwiches and candy were served for refreshments. Everyone enjoyed the party.

6-3 had a Christmas party at school. They ate their lunches at school and had their party afterwards.

The 6-B class had a party before vacation. They had $2\frac{1}{2}$ gallons of ice cream and 5 cakes. Mrs. Glenn made a chocolate cake with $\frac{1}{2}$ inch of frosting. They had a nice tree.

Classes 8-A and 8-B had a swell evening party before Christmas. It was a big success.

Snow?

but after cet

The weather here in Henderson has been surprising. For the past four years we hadn't had any snow. Towns all around us, such as Pioche, Fallon, Eureka, Ely, Tonopah and Panaca have been snowbound.

During last week the pipes of the drinking fountain in front of room three, froze. The drain froze, water spilled over and became ice.

A few students in Pittman certainly enjoyed the bus breakdown. Some of them made snowmen, ate snow ice cream, and threw snowballs all day long. Boy! What fun!

Goody! Goody! says the kids from Carver Park. They now have six new oil burning stoves. With this cold snowy weather they surely need them.

Monday when we came to school, snowballs were seen everywhere. Everybody was either throwing snowballs, building snowmen, or washing somebody's face in snow.

While we have snow let's enjoy it because there probably won't be any more for the next four years.

First Victory

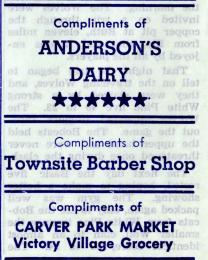

The Henderson Wolverines got their first taste of victory as they romped over Mr. Moran's heavyweights Monday, January 10th. Most of the scoring for the Wolverines was divided among Jim Potts, who made 14 points and was high point man, Bill Stitt, the rebound artist who scored 11 points, Bill Bowser, who made 8 points and one free shot, and Lyndel Berry who scored 4 points.

On Moran's team, Walter Hoover grabbed the lead and scored 10 points. Joeddy Otero followed through making 7 points. Don Bittle made 6 points and Allen De Rochie made 4 points.

The boys made a good showing and the game ended 41-27 in favor of the Wolverines.

LOWER GRADE NEWS

Mrs. Larkin's first grade class has two new students. They welcome Jayne Weathers and Patricia Neary. They are sorry to have DeAnne Lasson leave. She moved to Boulder City. Now that the New Year is here they expect to do lots of good hard work.

Mrs. King's third grade has a new student also. Her name is Charlene Neary. Gary Kariker moved to California too; just before the holidays.

Before Christmas Mrs. Law, teacher of the fifth grade, went to visit her mother in Texas, who was ill. Mrs. Keenan and the class had a party and put on a play. It was enjoyed by several of the parents. Audrey Pefferle had her tonsils removed over the Christmas vacation and hasn't yet returned to school. They have several new students whose names were Audrey Gaspari, Bogue Jefferson, Alex Weeks, Fred Chalk and Freddie Green.

The 8-B had two new students in their room Monday morning, January 10. They were Louisa Stout and Ben Marshall. Louise is 13 years old and the last school she atended was Horace Mann Jr. High in Salt Lake City, Utah. Ben Marshall is 13 years old, also. His father is one of the men helping to reactivate the Las Vegas Army Air Field. Ben came from Phoenix, Arizona, and the last school he attended was St. Mathews School.

There are also new students in 7-A. There are three of them and their names are Jerald Yates, Marritta Croft, and Dorothea Mc-Murtrey. They are all nice and friendly. They are good students and all the other pupils like them.

In the 7-C there are two new pupils, they are Ted Wolfe and Laroy Waite. Ted Wolfe came from Reading, California, which is in the northern tip of Central Valley and Laroy Waite came from Chattanooga, Tennessee. He attended McCalbe School there. They are very nice and friendly.

6-C has two new pupils also. They are Sandra Lee Smith and Clifford Stafford. They both come from California. Sandra came from Yermo. She is a brunette and has brown eyes. They are each eleven years old. Clifford attended this school last year.

We are very happy to have these new pupils enrolled in our school.

The March of Dimes is here. The cards, which are for contributions will soon be issued to all the Henderson Elementary school students. They will have specific slots for five dimes, however, if a student wishes to contribute more he may enclose it in an envelope or take it to either office. The school will accept any amount of money from one penny on up.

The March of Dimes is a very worthy cause which was started by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The money, which is gathered through conributions all over the United States of America, is used to help fight infantile paralysis. Remember, one of these days you may get polio yourself, so give to the March of Dimes and help fight polio!

Orchids

Mr. Ben Church, superintendent of the Henderson Schools, wishes to express his congratulations to Mrs. Wright's 6th grade, for their noteworthy effort in raising sufficient funds to purchase one of the Xmas baskets.

Mr. Church also wishes to commend the boys and girls of the grammar school for their good citizenship during the recent snow fall, in that most of the snowballing was confined to off the school grounds. It was quite likely that unrestricted snowballing in the more congested school ground areas would have resulted in minor and possible serious injuries.

Personalities

Hi there, guys and gals, here are some more Elementary School personalities.

First of all we have Mary Hall from 7-A. She has blond hair and blue eyes. She takes an interest in all sports, especially baseball.

8-B boasts of Allen Derochie. Allen is 5 feet 7 inches tall and has brown hair and blue eyes. He is class treasurer and is a guard on the Henderson Sheriff's basketball team.

Cast your eyes this way "men"! We have a swell personality this week in 8-A. Her name is Phylis Ware. She has brown hair, blue eyes, and is five feet six inches tall. She is treasurer for the 8-A English Club.

Nancy Weber of 7-B has blond hair, blue eyes and is five feet 3 and one-half inches tall. She wants to become a beautician.

Well that's it. Watch for our next issue.

The Curtis Publishing company returned this year with more subscriptions for the Henderson Elementary students to sell. The students entered the spirit of the thing with their usual enthusiasm and sold quite a few subscriptions. The Athletic Club cleared about $62 in all after the premiums were paid. The room which took in the most money was Miss Klings' seventh grade. They collected $121. In return for selling the most subscriptions, the Curtis Co. will send them a check so they can have a party. The highest salesman is Ramona Church of 7-A. Other highest salesmen were Sharon Jefferies from Miss Morris's seventh grade, Nellie Johnson from Mrs. McMillan's eighth grade, Gerald Clements from Miss Leers eighth grade, and from Mr. Athis' seventh grade.

Contest

The annual "America The Beautiful" contest sponsored by the Milton Bradley Crayon Co. is now in progress in the Henderson Elementary School. This contest is designed to bring out any artistic talents in the students. The drawings must be done completely in crayon. There will be district. state and national prizes awarded. Anyone can enter the contest who has not advanced beyond the 8th grade. The contest is divided into nine divisions and children compete with children their own age. Any child may submit as many entries as he or she wishes. The winning entries will be displayed at leading art galleries, museums, and teachers colleges throughout the nation. This is the third contest of this kind they have sponsored.
