

MORRY'S STORY

After she has been with you for a couple of weeks, you decide you will make no more contributions to the USO, for the obvious reason that they can't have anything to do down there. This babe of yours has more soldiers, sailors and marines calling up for her than participated in the Italian campaign.

She has taken over your telephone extension and you make all of your calls from the utility telephone downstairs. You have had two nasty memos from the comptroller in re excessive outgoing calls on your line. It seems the switchboard is complaining and asking for another operator and three more trunk lines.

It's got so now that every time you pick up the phone you expect a military voice to say, "Hi, Mac! Let me talk to Miss O'Shaughnessy, like a good guy, will ya?"

THE PAUSE THAT REFRESHES OR THE HUNGRY TYPE
If you yourself happen to be carrying a bit more poundage than the insurance companies will hold still for, it is a moral certainty that you will draw this cute little trick. She weighs in at about 98 pounds, full of Coca Cola, but nevertheless she puts away, at intervals during the day, enough assorted food to sustain Man Mountain Dean.

Where she puts it, and why it doesn't bulge out on her in the wrong places is something you'll never figure out. Just as surely as you go on a diet featuring nothing but various weeds and grasses garnished with mineral oil, she will help herself drink the day to three or four candy bars, half dozen cokes, a malted milk imported from outside, and a mid-afternoon club sandwich.

She isn't selfish either. Always offers some of it to you. You decline, of course, but in your condition you can't always whirl around quickly enough to keep her from seeing you drool.

Or you might find yourself the type known as the:

'REST ROOM REFEREE'

At first, being a hypochondriac and interested in medicine and the like yourself, this girl's protracted absences in the rest room have excited your scientific interest.

Very quickly, however, you decide that the first or primary deduction to be drawn from such repeated visits is physiologically impossible. Nature is marvelous indeed, but not that good.

So you discover that you have on your hands what is a true example of the Bathroom Blackstone, or lavatory lawyer. Combined of course with the Washroom Winchell. In short, your little helper is the Queen of the Ladies' Room. No argument too short for a quick trip by her to settle it—no discussion too involved for her to shove her way into the middle of it and take it over—no company policy too obscure for her to throw light upon it.

Some sixth sense tells her when all h--- has broken loose in that sector from which you cannot summon her and where she spends so much of her time.

If she wasn't such a good gal otherwise, the solution would be simple, but she happens to be a too-flight secretary. Furthermore, no matter how well you get to know them (and you get to know some of them pretty well), this is a department which brooks no discussion. You just can't talk about that kind of stuff—it's indelicate. It's so indelicate, in fact, that I am a bit disturbed to note that I have even treated it here.

Most of us, if we have led good lives, will draw for ourselves what, for want of a better designation, had better be known as:

'THE AVERAGE SECRETARY'

This gal came to Washington when she might easily have stayed in Indiana and married a swell guy she was half-engaged to all through high school. Instead she let Lila Washburn have him and she will wonder all the rest of her life what made her do it. Perhaps it was those movies about Washington but more likely it was that strange streak in her old man's family.

Anyway, here she is, and here are some pertinent facts about her:

She spends most of her time making you look good, although God knows it is a difficult and thankless task. She devotes herself to:

Writing your office memos for you;

Calling up people you forgot to call back and lying her head off about your not getting back to the office yesterday afternoon;

Calling the Press Club to tell you that the Big Boss has been inquiring for you three times this afternoon, the last time very pointedly;

Keeping your sloppy desk in order;

Writing personal checks for your signature so the stores don't garnish your paycheck and your kids don't get kicked out of their flossy private schools for non-payment of tuition;

Taking those awful Gay Ninety expressions such as "Yours of the twentieth received and contents noted" out of your dictation and correcting your horrible grammar and syntax;

Acting as your business memory and judgment and your social conscience;

Keeping herself looking and acting like the kind of girl that boys in the service dream of coming home to; and

Doing it all on just about one-fifth of the take-home pay received by the big lug to whom she gives the best years of her life. In return for which, he remembers her at Christmas with a pair of the wrong-size hosiery and a box of candy, for which he expects a melting look of gratitude and a hearty smack under the mistletoe at the Christmas party.

Franklin and Malone Justify Hiring of County Engineer; 'Fur May Fly' When He Starts Digging

The County Commission at a meeting last week appointed L. E. Tytson as county engineer at a salary of $450 per month, plus vehicle expenses of 10 cents per mile. The mileage is the same paid other county executives.

At that meeting, at which a representative of the NEWS was present, Chairman George Franklin Jr. and Clem Malone made it plain and pointed that they were urging this appointment, in the face of their making cuts in other departments, only because they feel the county highways and roads, airports, construction and building projects could turn up considerable savings if all projects were supervised by an experienced licensed engineer.

They added that if the new post didn't bring about more efficiency, enough savings to more than warrant the appointment, they would put a fast and immediate axe to Tytson's job.

When the third commissioner, Rodney Colton, objected, on the basis of it not sounding plausible that cuts be made in other departments, yet an addition to the overburdened budget be made now, both Franklin and Malone explained, in Tytson's presence, that the appointment would have to pay its way by applying proper supervision as is done in most other counties of the county.

When the vote for the appointment was made, Colton voted "yes," to make it unanimous. Wednesday the Review-Journal story of Colton's objection to the appointment and demand that it be revoked omitted the above facts about Franklin and Malone's condition of hiring, under which Tytson has a complete understanding.

Meanwhile, insiders of county affairs are complimenting the new commissioners for again stepping into a crucial setup and seeking to dig from within and underneath all the faults that have been committed in years gone by by former "civic-minded" "civic-leaders."

Tytson may come up with some fireworks, the insiders report, that may pay his salary a hundred times over as well as make opposing forces not only have red faces but lighter pocket books.

Legion Jrs. Beat Caliente, 18-2

The Henderson Legion Juniors trounced the Caliente Juniors, 18 to 2, Sunday, May 23, before a record breaking turnout at Basic Field. From the first to the seventh inning it was a real bang-up game.

It was a double-header for the visitors as earlier in the day they had taken on the Legion Juniors at Boulder City, and undoubtedly they were feeling a little tired, but they still got in there and pitched, and brought the fans to their feet on numerous occasions.

Saturday, June 4, the Henderson Juniors play at Caliente, and then Sunday, June 5, they play at Pioche. These boys are plenty good and will deserve watching.

Home Towners vs. Dorothy Dorothy Says -- About Whitney

Charmion and Jim Harford, were dropper-inners to see, not me, but Dale, and talk as per arranged schedule over short wave to an old schoolmate, George Dixon (CN8EQ) in French Morocco, South Africa. The transmission was clear which enabled those two chums to catch up on ten years of intervening happenings. Jim is chief engineer at KENO. George is in the navy. He informed Jim, and all listening in on the band, that he is coming home in the near future and will be looking up his friends around here.

Another interesting schedule was with Don Mathews and Ted Couch (W4ODR) well known local boys who made good on the football field as well as in the navy, transmitting from Memphis.

Dory Hart, former owner of what is now our Silver City Hotel-Motel, was a dropper-inner from Palm Springs over the weekend. An aeroplane revved the motor over the place, circled and did it again which meant someone was dropping in to see us. It turned out to be our ex-mortgage holder and his son coming in the Stinson, owned and piloted by Jim Story of Indio, California. Jim was one of the gang who flew in last summer with the 14 other Desert Bats and their planes.

Happy birthday to little Susie Sheffer on her second birthday.

Mom is walking on clouds with Dad on the cumulus puffs beside her after hearing the voice of daughter, Ruth Blanchard, over long distance telling them to put another plate on the table as she would be here this week. Ruth and Dottie live in Anchorage, Alaska, and are flying down for a vacation at the Silver City Hotel with her poor relations, the Dorothys. Mom spent last summer in Alaska with Ruth.
