

MORRY'S STORY

By MORRY ZENOFF

Two pieces of writing which have stood out in my mind for a long time, both on different subjects, yet both so close to my own feelings on the matters, warrant their reproduction here. I urge that you read both:

THE JOURNALIST'S CREED

- I believe in the profession of journalism.
- I believe that the public journal is a public trust; that all connected with it are, to the full measure of their responsibility, trustees for the public; that acceptance of lesser service than the public service is betrayal of this trust.
- I believe that clear thinking and clear statement, accuracy and fairness, are fundamental to good journalism.
- I believe that a journalist should write only what he holds in his heart to be true.
- I believe that suppression of the news, for any consideration other than the welfare of society, is undefensible.
- I believe that no one should write as a journalist what he would not say as a gentleman; that bribery by one's own pocketbook is as much to be avoided as bribery by the pocketbook of another; that individual responsibility may not be escaped by pelating another's instructions or another's dividends.
- I believe that advertising, news and editorial columns should alike serve the best interest of readers; that a single standard of helpful truth and cleanness should prevail for all; that the supreme test of good journalism is the measure of its public service.
- I believe that the journalism which succeeds best—and best deserves success—fears God and honors man; is stoutly independent, unmoved by pride of opinion or greed of power, constructive, tolerant but never careless, self-controlled, patient, always respectful of its readers but always unafraid; is quickly indignant at injustice; is unswayed by the appeal of privilege or the clamor of the mob; seeks to give every man a chance and, as far as law and honest wage and recognition of human brotherhood can make it so, an equal chance; is profoundly patriotic while sincerely promoting international good will and cementing world-comradship; is a journalism of humanity, of and for today's world.

WHAT IS A BOY?

"Boys come in assorted sizes, weights and colors. They are found everywhere—on top of, underneath, inside of, climbing on, swinging from, running around or jumping to. Mothers love them, little girls hate them, older sisters and brothers tolerate them, adults ignore them and Heaven protects them. A boy is Truth with dirt on its face. Wisdom with bubble gum in its hair and the Hope of the future with a frog in its pocket.

"A boy has the appetite of a horse, the digestion of a sword-swallower, the energy of a pocket-size atomic bomb, the curiosity of a cat, the lungs of a dictator, the imagination of a Paul Bunyan, the strength of a violet, the audacity of a steel trap, the enthusiasm of a firecracker, and when he makes something he has five thumbs on each hand.

"He likes ice cream, knives, saws, Christmas, comic books, the boy across the street, woods, water (in its natural habitat), large animals, Dad, trains, Saturday mornings and fire engines. He is not much for Sunday school, company, schools, books without pictures, music lessons, neckties, barbers, girls, overcoats, adults or bedtime.

"Nobody else is so early to rise or so late to supper. Nobody else can cram into one pocket a rusty knife, a half-eaten apple, three feet of string, an empty Bull Durham sack, two gumdrops, 6 cents, a slingshot, a chunk of unknown substance and a genuine supersonic code ring with a secret compartment.

"A boy is a magical creature—you can lock him out of your workshop, but you can't lock him out of your heart. You can get him out of your study, but you can't get him out of your mind. Night as well give up—he is your captor, your jailer, your boss and your master—a freckle-faced, pint-sized bundle of noise. But when you come home at night with only the shattered pieces of your hopes and dreams, he can mend them with two magic words—"Hi Dad!"—From January 1950, Reader's Digest; reprinted from article by Alan Beck in New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. house magazine. Sports in and Around Basic

By JOHNNY ELLIOTT

Spring sports are going full swing around Basic with approximately 18 fellows out for baseball and four circling the field every night in hopes of collecting a few track medals here and there. This sounds like a pretty small turnout, considering there were around 40 fellows out for football and basketball, but considering time comes around in baseball and only 16 are allowed on a team, it ought to work out all right.

The entire first nine of last year's team are back except for the second base position and catcher. From the looks of things so far, little Teddy Blue looking might fine around the key-stone position, and if anybody can handle the job, Teddy can.

One of our all-zone basketball players, Franklin Hamiter, is working out every night in the catching slot and looks like real top notch material. Here's hoping that the boys stick that tri-state championship in their back pockets again; and they get their first crack at it Friday afternoon when they tangle with a scrappy Kingman, Arizona, outfit at the local diamond. Everybody be sure and turn out and give their support.

Our track team was small last year but from the looks of things it's going to be scantier than ever this year. But as the old saying goes, "big things come in small packages," and the boys have got just the stuff to make this come true. I might mention the fellows that are out so far, they are: "Red" Hunter, Allen Cureton, Bob Black, and Bill Heese. The best of luck, fellows!

Seeing as how I've got a great weakness for guys with big noses, since he's one of my best friends, and because he's one of the best athletes to ever come out of the Basic High, I'm going to put in a small plug for Charlie "The Nose" Galloway. Charlie's got a collection of letters at home that I believe would choke a horse; three years for football, two basketball, and will more than likely make it two for baseball. Chuck, in many people's opinions, is the best quarter-back in the history of the school, and the definitely backed their opinion up with some might fine passing, running and defensive play. He placed on tri-state for two years and was an all-state selection this year. A good power hitter in baseball and a better than average pitcher, he is one of the big and much needed spark plugs of the team. As for basketball he was one of the scrappiest guards on any court until he forgot he was off the football field — but "tails," it's an easy way to break training. As for a sense of humor, none better is had by anyone, and the same goes for an appetite, but as I said before, details!

SELF-SERVICE

DALLAS, Ore.—Edna M. Pitzer, who has issued hundreds of marriage licenses in her 22 years as Polk County clerk and assistant, recently wrote out a marriage license for herself. But, as Mrs. Bruce Allen, she may round out a quarter century and issue many more marriage licenses. Her term does not expire for three years and she made no definite decision to resign the clerk post.

Magnetic Airport Recorder Meets CAC Approval; Should Prevent Mishaps

CLEVELAND — For the first time in aviation history it is now possible to keep an exact record of all reports and communications between pilots and control tower operators.

The need and importance of such records was dramatized a short time ago when a P-38 and an airliner collided in mid-air killing 55 passengers. Investigation of the Washington, D. C. air disaster produced contradictory testimony and confusion.

A record of tower instructions to the P-38 pilot was available. But none had been made of his receipt or acknowledgment of the information.

Had one been made, investigators, point out, it would have ruled out hear-say evidence and explained how the accident occurred. Such knowledge could prevent recurrences of similar mishaps.

Since then a multi-channel magnetic airport recorder has been installed at Cleveland's municipal airport. It records 28 voices on a single magnetic paper tape less than three-quarters of an inch wide.

and manufactured by the Brush Development Co., was shown to American aviation leaders for the first time at the National Airways Communications Conference held recently in Cleveland.

During a live demonstration of the unit six incoming microphones were in constant use while three control tower men at the Cleveland airport gave instructions to pilots of the 2240th Air Force Reserve Unit over three outgoing microphones.

Then the multi-channel recorder, which is capable of making simultaneous recordings of 14 channels for a continuous period of four hours, was played back one channel at a time.

The complete Brush Airport Recorder has been designed to mount on three 7½-foot standard relay racks. The first includes the master recorder control panel and two complete transport mechanisms, which make it possible to operate the recorder continuous-four hours and automat-ly for eight hours.

Each reel runs for more than four hours and automatically a second reel before the first runs out. Thus, all messages called in by pilots during the eight-hour period are recorded.

The second rack contains a third tape transport mechanism and the complete electronic set-up for the entire recorder. The third rack contains the play back and speaker unit.

Because the 7/16" wide paper tape is only two mil thick, a total of 56 hours of recording can be stored in a space approximately 75 cubic inches.

The tape moves from a supply reel to a takeup reel over a series of recording heads with a speed of 3.75" per second. There are as many recording heads as there are messages to be recorded.

Other Uses
It is believed that 90 tape reels would be adequate for each installation at most airports because records probably wouldn't be needed for more than 15 days, after which period the recording can be erased and the tape can be used again.

Although the recorder was engineered primarily for monitoring ground to air communications, it may be used extensively for other purposes. It could be used, for example, to record lengthy conferences, such as those held in the United Nations, where it is necessary to keep a record of the same speech in various languages.

The Chief Aeronautics Commission has approved the Brush Recorder and it is being installed by both the Canadian and United States air forces.

NEVADA'S HEALTH

If knowledge and interest count, the rising generation is going to stay slimmer than preceding generations have been able to manage.

True, our young athletes still eat like horses, but they consume this fuel as fast as they devour it, and when their strenuous athletic years are over they are well aware that the thing to do is to cut down on the food intake.

A lot easier said than done, in many cases. Big meals become a habit before you know it, and the fact that so many calories are no longer needed doesn't seem to set off any internal alarms.

Soon, though, the waistline proclaims the problem in unmistakable terms. Overweight occurs so gradually that it seems to excuse itself as it gains its way. But it is estimated that, after the age of 35, expectation of life decreases one per cent for every pound of overweight, and another estimate is that for every five pounds of overweight three extra miles of tiny blood-vessels have to be formed—under protest.

Here are the results of another study of this sort:
Averages show that, in a group of five fat men 30 years of age, three will reach 60 years and only one will reach 70, while, in a group of 30-year-old lean men, four will reach 60 and three will reach 70 years of age.

The convenient alibi that glands are to blame for overweight holds good in but a very small percentage of cases. Mostly it is habitual self-indulgence, and a losing game it is.

Crack Eighth Fighter Group Arrives to Battle It Out for Honors in Gunnery Meet

The Eighth fighter group from Itazuke air force base in Kyushu, Japan, arrived in Las Vegas the past week, to become the first team to arrive here for the second annual fighter gunnery meet, scheduled for the local air base beginning March 29.

The arrival of the Eighth marked another "first" in the record of the group which is known in the air force as "famous for being first".

The Thirty-Third squadron went to Iceland in July, 1941, to become the first American fighter outfit to go overseas in World War II. Almost a year later, with war actuality, the group was the first organization of fighter aircraft to operate out of New Guinea.

In February, 1944, it was the first fighter group to fly missions out of New Britain, and in December of the same year, it sent out the first fighters to fly out of Mindoro island.

The eighth fighter group was born on June 1932, as the eighth Pursuit Group, which was activated at Langley air force base, Virginia. It was the third pursuit group to be formed in the United States and has remained on active service continuously to this day.

In the pre-war years the group participated in the cross-country flights that proved the air force's effectiveness. Trained pilots and crew chiefs tested planes and aerial tactics, and flew the mails when the airline contracts were suspended.

With the initiation in 1939-40 of the air force expansion program, the eighth went through a phase of rapid changes, and furnished the cadres for four new groups.

The group's summer and fall maneuvers in 1941 were hardly completed when the attack on Pearl Harbor, was launched, and within three months the eighth was at Brisbane, Australia — launched on its battle-marked route to Japan.

The group was in action at Port Moresby, Buna, Nadzab, the Philippines, and Okinawa, and by war's end was credited with 44 enemy aircraft destroyed.

With the signing of the Japanese surrender, the eighth group moved to Kyushu to become a part of the Fifth air forces' aerial occupation of Japan.

Washington Team Will Fly F-32s

The 325th fighter group from Moses Lake air force base, Moses Lake, Washington, arrived in Las Vegas late yesterday to prepare for the forthcoming fighter gunnery meet.

The team representatives from the 325th fighter group will be the only team to fly the F-32 Twin Mustangs in this year's meet.

"Lost Mine" a Fact ---No Fiction! Accidents Cost County $6,906 Last Month

Eighty-six years of searching by untold numbers of prospectors has failed to result in the re-discovery of a lost gold mine in Nevada. In the April issue of Holiday magazine, Donald Wayne tells the story of Jacob Breyfogle's discovery in 1864 of a vast, gold-filled ledge, and his subsequent inability to find his way back to it.

The legend about Breyfogle takes many forms, but the existence of the mine is firmly established, and its "loss" is attributed to many factors. One explanation is that a geological change in the earth may have buried the fabulous mother lode under tons of rubble.

Whatever the explanation, the search for the mine has never stopped, though those who fanatically look for it are politely indulged by those who shrug their shoulders and are sure "someone will find it someday."

Author Donald Wayne tells in the article of his stay at the luxurious Death Valley resort, and his own futile efforts to discover the treasure that has eluded men for nearly a century.

Industrial Commission Chairman George W. Friedhoff reported that 488 on-job accidents occurred in the state during February which will cost the state fund an estimated $89,975.45 to provide for the necessary benefits to the injured workmen and their dependents. Include in those figures is the claim arising from the fatal injuries sustained during the month by one man in the course of his employment.

Of the total accidents in that period, 118 occurred in Clark County and will cost the fund an estimated $6,906, when settled, Friedhoff said.

In addition to the injury liability, $8,830.00 was incurred for workers throughout the state under the Occupational Diseases Act also administered by the Commission.

FUTURE LEADERS OF 7-3

Litagay Bracken is 5 feet 3 3/4 inches tall, has blonde hair, blue eyes, and her weight is 110 pounds. She wants to be a secretary.
Jimmy Miller is 5 feet 8 1/4 inches tall; he has brown hair and brown eyes, and his weight is 127 pounds. He says he wants to be a Bum when he's older.
By Joan Donnelly.

PLAY ON NAMES

Let's go for a swim in the (Patsy) Pool? But it's a terribly hard climb up the Virginia hill. We don't care as long as we can swim there. Jimmy Lee and behold me, we made it. Let's go in? Ohhh no, we can't swim, the (Jan Lee) Pipes are broken. What can we do? Let me think. Oh, I know. Why don't we go down to the (Jeanette) Barnes and ask if we can have a square dance. A little old (Ronald) White faced man comes out and says, "If you can move all this (Norman) Craft cheese out of the way, you can have it."
"Oh good. Can we put decorations on the walls?"
"Yes, and chop down the (Litagay) Bracken."

"Yes, if you will fix everything the way it was when you came through here."
"Shall we invite the (Jimmy) Millers and the (Joan) Lopemans, the (Billy) Forshees, and (Roland) Huhns?"
"OK."
By Joan Donnelly.

WHAT DO YOU WANT

Ruth Domina: A girdle.
Florence Prince: A 1950 Cadillac convertible with a handsome man at the wheel.
Trudy Fisher: A Chartreuse bathing suit, a '50 Cadillac, a "Baby Ruth" candy bar and a new boy friend.
Kent McBeath: A blue Cadillac with a chauffeur.
Sue Leming: Just anything, as long as he is good looking.
Ramona Church: A ride on a flying saucer, and my Chartreuse, '50, metallic, Cadillac convertible.
Shirley Cannon: I'd better not say, but she wants a letter from Johnnie.
Dennis Shearin: "A nice two-headed girl with four legs and arms, from Mars."
June Edmonson: Crosley convertible.
Mary Jo Inness: To be a millionaire.

Donald Reck: The school cremated.
Delores Glass: A 1950 Cadillac convertible, and Mickey to come home.
Glenda Clepper: Mr. Athis with a BUTCH.
Betty Jo Byer: More love letters from Las Vegas. What happened to Kingman, Joe?
Gail Mann: I want to know what happened to Billy Pickard. (Never mind).
Betty Hostettlar: "I'm a no-gonna say."
By Ramona Church.

CHEMISTRY

Mr. Athis is conducting experiments again. If you happen to see a cloud of smoke in the direction of the Henderson Elementary School, it's just Mr. Athis' fault, because he probably mixed the wrong chemicals, and cause a chain reaction of explosions. "He, and his experiments."
But really they aren't so bad, he shows you what he wants you to know, like taking zinc (ZZN) and Sulphuric Acid (H2 S04) and making Zinc Sulphate (ZNS04). The acid moves in and takes the place of the Hydrogen to form a new compound. But there is really no danger in this process.
Franklin Heatley.

Free Lessons In Square Dancing Starting Saturday Night

Aerie No. 2972 of the Henderson Eagles will hold a dance at the BMI Cafeteria Saturday evening, March 18th.
Numerous requests for instruction in square dancing have been received by the Eagles, so it has been decided to provide free lessons in that art from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on the evening of the dance. Both square and round dancing will be featured at the affair which commences at 8 p.m.
If there is a sufficient response to the lessons on Saturday evening, the committee plans to hold an instruction class once a month for square dancing.
Mr. Roy Hughes, entertainment chairman, announces that this dance is for adults only, and that plenty of refreshments will be available to keep anyone from being thirsty.

The public is cordially invited to attend this affair and there will be no charge for the dance or instruction.
Mather Air Force Base in Sacramento, California, has entered an 11-man boxing team in the Annual American Legion AAU tournament which gets under way at the Empire Motors building, 817 South Main street, Mar. 15, according to Lieutenant Cliff Crabtree, special service officer at the California base.
