The Harvey Machinery deal for Henderson today was still in the hands of the General Services agency of the treasury department.

But, something new has been added! The Harvey people have gram for the young people of the taken their case directly to Washington. This week they appeared before that group and presented their plans, their financial setup, their probler

Whether or not their story will be convincing enough to allow them to go ahead and build an aluminum plant here and hire and volunteers will be instructed some 00 men and invest several of the authorities.

> Meanwhile, Henderson people who besieged Senator Pat Mc-Carren to help convince the General Services agency that action is wanted NOW - these people got the answer through the columns of the Review-Journal from McCarren that he stands ready and able to help. Yet, any evidences of his help just hasn't shown yet. The Colorado River Commission has informed the senator that when the issue reaches the "national" level, they will seek his aid.

Many people, including this writer, wonder what the sena-tor is there for if it isn't to help setup an industry such as this that not only is "national" in lev-el, but could be international, in view of present war talk.

Even if it were of the local evel, it is our opinion that the senator should be in there fighting. He always seems to manage to inject his name and weight in other matters of local level-such as the air port, roads, mines, cot-ton, cattle, local housing, the installation of a 24 hour air weather station. Then, too, with the General ervices agency headquartered in Washington, the senator could be the man of the hour by dropping his dignity clothes to the point where he could camp on the door-step of General Services and use his efforts to get action now. Instead, it is my opinion that the Nevadan, whom Time Magazine brands as one of the 10 men in the senate whose absence would not be felt, again I say it is my opinion that he rests in his rock ing chair and waits for people to come to him-with those in best
