Pittman Hails WECO Expansion

The planned expansion of the Western Electro Chemical Co. facilities at Henderson is one of the state's most important economic developments in the past years. Gov. Vail Pittman said.

Governor Pittman, said WECO as asked the Colorado River Commission for permission to quadruple its facilities at the huge Basic Magnesium plant.

He said that the commission will meet in Carson City August 1 to discuss the request. The governor said the chemical company's application for increased facilities is expected to be presented to a full membership of the commission. Officials of the firm had said they plan to spend $5,000,000 for new equipment and expansion work at Henderson. Plans call for employment of from 500 to 700 additional workers.

Pittman said the commission officials will discuss the possibility of re-allocating power to WECO should the General Services Administration reject a pending contract with Harvey Machine Co., of Torrance, Calif. Since all of Nevada's power allocation from Hoover and Davis dams have already been distributed to users, the governor said this source of energy offered the only opportunity for Western Electric Chemical Co., to receive sufficient power to carry out proposed expansion plans.

Rink for Kids? ... Asks Bill

Several weeks ago, an article appeared in this column concerning the possibility of laying a block of cement to be used by youngsters as a skating rink. Since then, many people have confronted me, stating that they believe that it probably would be a good idea and that they would be willing to contribute something towards its construction. Some have even stated that it possibly could be used for outdoor dancing during the evenings, and ever so many other uses for it have been suggested. The idea seems to have caught on, but, as it has been expressed by many, the project should possibly be sponsored by some organization and the possibilities of its becoming a reality investigated before any steps are taken. Inquiries should be made as to the possible site and whether land would be made available for the rink.

Of course, the project should have popular approval and subscription, and in accordance with this I (as many people have asked me to do) am asking at this time how many of your townspeople would like to see this become a reality. If you would like to see this come about and are interested in the project let me know by dropping me a card or calling, and we'll see if we can't get the ball rolling. The box number is 876 and the telephone number is 1126-W.

Gov. Pittman Goes All Out in Joining National "Stitch in Time" Mobilization Against Invasion

Nevada joined with other western states today in planning instant mobilization of its defenses in the event of a possible air or land attack.

Gov. Vail Pittman disclosed that specific plans have been issued to all key state departments for expansion of their activities in the event of a national crisis. The plans were drawn up by the governor's civilian defense and disaster committee after months of extensive study.

Named by Pittman to head the overall program is Adj. Gen. James E. May, commandant of the state national guard and director of selective service.

May said that while Boulder dam is the only possible military objective in Nevada, a real emergency would arise if California were attacked.

He pointed out that thousands of Californians would pour into the state for safety, seriously overcrowding highways and accommodations. To insure at least some assistance to west coast "refugees," May said plans are being mapped for emergency accommodations and other services.

The highway department has been entrusted with the job of directing traffic over Nevada highways and giving assistance to persons on their way east, while county sheriffs are responsible for maintaining air raid committees.

City governments have been instructed to survey their areas for emergency aid from the Red Cross, American Legion, the national guard and other groups. In addition, they were asked to enlist the aid of volunteers in forming standby disaster crews.

The disaster plans also called for a central air raid warning system to be maintained constantly at the state capitol fire station.

At the same time, May revealed the existence of a special, nation-wide telephone hookup here, which could flash and receive news of air raids in this or any other state.

The children attending the party were: Carol Hemington, John Ray Malcolm, George Ulom, Charlie Ware, Paul Weir, Francis Campbell, Judy Ann Sloan, Stubby Duvruac, Frankie Shreck, and the young host, Johnny Pitts.

Fluoride Discussion by Dr. Chandler At Open Meeting on Monday Night

Emphasizing that prevention of decay by sodium fluoride treatments is a proven fact and not an experiment, Dr. C. C. Chandler talked to a group of interested mothers on Monday night, at an open meeting sponsored by the Boulder City Mothers' Club. However, he stated, "This is not a cure all, but it is to be used in conjunction with other known dental remedies."

The four treatments should be given not more than a week apart, for maximum results. The first treatment gives five per cent protection, the second 10 per cent, the third 21 per cent, and the fourth treatment completes the full 40 per cent benefit. Treatments should be given according to the eruption pattern of the child's mouth, preferably at the ages of 3, 7, 10 and 13 years.

During the question period, Dr. Chandler replied to a query that the sodium fluoride treatments works on the outer surface of the teeth. An excess of Fluorine causes a permanent stain on the enamel, but that the correct low proportion of fluorine in drinking water would undoubtedly penetrate a child's teeth and be of great benefit. At the present time, experiments are being made on the teeth of a group of college students, to see if adults may be helped by fluoride treatments.

Dr. Chandler gave a brief history of the discovery, and explained the method used for best results. He said that examinations showed that 75 per cent of the school children in Nevada need dental care, today, and that if further decay is lessened in the future it will give the dental profession a chance to catch up on a back log of work.

Dr. Chandler urged that Clark County parents support a permanent program in the future, and said that one operator could handle about 1500 children a year.

Clem Malone Up For Governor

Clark County's ambassador of public service, Clem Malone, last week became a candidate for the governorship of Nevada.

In offering himself for more public service, Malone stepped into the higher level of politics in the same fashion as did George Franklin, Jr., who filed to fight the Pat McCarran machine in the race for the U. S. Senate.

Malone and Franklin set in the wiser politics of this county rolling two years ago when they entered the race for county commissioners. Both men, beating veteran opponents.

Once in office, they cleaned the county of all questionable practices and also instituted several innovations that have put the area on a paying basis. They favored no one faction and proved to be the majority of people.

Basic Post 40 Elects Officers

In an election of officers for the American Legion auxiliary, Basic Post 40, the following candidates were reelected: Mrs. James Booth, first vice-president.

Mrs. Jack Muldoon second vice president; Mrs. LeRoy Waggoner, historian; Mrs. W. A. Hansen, sergeant at arms, and Mrs. Harry Ulrey, chaplain. Chosen to serve on the executive board were: Mrs. James Forshee, Mrs. Frank Heber, and Mrs. J. Muldoon. Delegates who were selected to attend the state convention at Ely in August are Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Waggoner, Mrs. Heber, and Mrs. Stewart. Alternates selected are Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Muldoon, Mrs. Lindesmith, and Lucy Compton. Mrs. Waggoner, retiring president, announced that filling the office of president will be discussed at the next meeting.

Cub Scouts Will Tour Dam Saturday

The Henderson Cub Scouts, troop 80, and their parents will enjoy a free tour of Boulder Dam this coming Saturday. Those who plan on going are asked to assemble at the high school auditorium between 8:45 and 9 a.m. on Saturday. Parents are asked to furnish their own transportation and notify their particular den mother so that they may have an idea of the approximate number planning on going on the tour. The groups will leave from the high school at 9 a.m. and will proceed to the flagpole in front of the exhibit at the dam. The tours through the dam will be in groups, with the first group leaving at 10 a.m.

The two local men were: Francis R. Heber, who has been Faithful Navigator and has been advanced to Faithful Admiral, and E. M. Joyce was elected to serve as Faithful Captain. Other officers are: Joseph J. Malner, Faithful Pilot, Joseph D. Hooghe, Faithful Comptroller, Dr. George P. Rasqui, Inner Sentinel, and Victor Giasson, Outer Sentinel. A committee on admissions was named with Francis R. Heber, Francis M. Fennell, Thomas J. McLaughlin, and J. Victor Giasson as member. Plans are being formulated for a state wide exemplification of the Fourth Degree, this coming winter.

THE PERSONAL SIDE OF OUR TOWN

By BILL ATHIS

Edyth—"Bill".
Bill—"Yeah".
Edyth—"Don't you think it's time to go to bed?"
Bill—"Yeah, I guess so. I want to get up early to mow the lawn. What time is it?"
Edyth—"Ten o'clock."
Bill—"Well, we'll go to bed in a few minutes. I want to get up at five so I can mow the lawn when it's cool."
Edyth—"O. K., let's have a snack first, then we'll turn in."
Bill—"I've got an idea. Let's have some grilled cheese sandwiches, dill pickles, and some coffee."
Edyth—"Sounds good to me, but I think I'll have some milk instead of coffee. Coffee seems to keep me awake."
Bill—"O.K., but let's get started. I want to turn in very soon."
A Few Minutes Later
Edyth—"There, they are all done. How about a hand of canasta, while we are eating them."
Bill—"Suits me. I want to get even for that lucky streak that you had the other evening."
A Few Minutes Later
Edyth—"I have 900 basic, and 355 meld. That brings me up to 3850. Your total score 1150."
Bill—"Boy, how can anyone person have all the luck all the time. Well, things will be different this time. While I am dealing, how about making a couple more sandwiches?"
Edyth—"O.K., but don't forget, I am watching you, so don't try anything funny with the deal."
Bill—"Oh, don't worry. I don't depend on cheating or luck to beat you. All I ever use is my skill, but heck, you can't beat luck like yours. Brother, if I had your luck, I would make a living at cards."

Quite a Few Minutes Later
Edyth—"Well, that's 3 games in a row that you have been beaten. An this last hand, you didn't get past a thousand."
Bill—"Oh nuts! I would like to play you a game that requires some skill sometime. Then I'd show you. Any idiot can play canasta."
Edyth—"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"
Bill—"Oh, be quiet. You act as if it was your ability that beat me. Oh, my gosh—look! It's one-thirty. Let's go to bed."
A Few Minutes Later
Edyth—"Do you want me to set the clock for five?"
Bill—"Are you kidding? For Gosh sakes, I want at least a little rest! Set it for seven."
Many, Many Minutes Later
Edyth—"Bill! Wake up! It's nine-thirty."
Bill—"Oh, for gosh sakes, why didn't you wake me up earlier. I bet you forgot to turn on the alarm. Doggone it! You know that I have quite a few things to do. Make some coffee while I shave."
Edyth—"O. K. Are you going to mow the lawn this morning. If you don't do it soon, it will be so high that we won't be able to find Billy if he plays in it."
Bill—"Why don't you be sensible. I told you that I have many things to do, besides it's much too hot to cut it now. I'll do it this evening, after dinner when it is cool. If you hadn't kept me up so late playing that silly canasta last night, I would have gotten up early enough to do it."
Edyth—"Well! I like that! I didn't force you."
Bill—"Well, you suggested it. Have you got my egg ready yet? Don't forget, I want both salt and

Congress Should Stay on Job and Tackle Statehood Bills

Notwithstanding the Korean war, congress is planning to go home on Aug. 1. This being an election year the intention is understandable; but it is hardly wise or practical.

With every passing day it becomes clearer that the war in Korea is not to be a brief affair. Already President Truman is seeking more money to wake it. Even if the fighting doesn't spread to other areas, he may want to come in at any time with requests for still more money, controls on the civilian economy, more extensive manpower mobilization. Moreover, the new demands thus far submitted are causing the congressional leaders to condense their schedule and squeeze out legislation that deserves attention at this session.

A prime example is afforded by the House-approved bills providing statehood for Hawaii and Alaska. Recently these measures were endorsed by the Senate interior affairs committee. The chances of ultimate enactment are strong right now.

Much congressional time and taxpayers' money already has been spent in advancing the statehood proposals this far. They've been kicking around Capitol Hill for years and this is the closest they have ever come to final adoption.

It would be not only a foolish waste but a tying with the country's security to let this legislation die at this point. Both Hawaii and Alaska are vital defense outposts in the Pacific, the area most immediately threatened by the Korean war. Were the two territories wrenched more tightly into the national fabric, the likelihood is they'd get better protection.

General Eisenhower and many others have called attention to the weakness of Alaskan defenses. Hawaii is better off, but hardly in ideal shape.

Senators don't want to take the bills up because they're controversial and debate would be long. What this really means is that congress is taking a politics-as-usual approach to the Korean war, and simply doesn't wish to spoil its plans for getting back home to begin campaign.

Naturally nobody likes to have his plans upset. Our armed forces fighting in Korea undoubtedly were happier living the relatively soft life of occupation troops in Japan. But they had no choice. And if congress wants to measure up in this emergency, its course of duty is also plain.

Let the lawmakers recess for several weeks in September and October when that hot campaigning develops. But otherwise they ought to stick by their posts.

Buddy Fisher Conducts Tour Of Beauty Through Las Vegas Park

If you think you've seen the last word in fabulous beauty and western architecture when you've toured through the five strip hotels in Vegas—you've got another think coming.

I went on a pictorial tour with my old friend, Buddy Fisher, this week—a tour through Las Vegas Park, the now-being-built race track.

Whether it will be successful or not, whether the horses will run or walk, whether the show runs on schedule or not—I do not know or cannot claim knowledge enough to write about—but for beauty and layout—I'm a solid guy, hook, line and sinker.

A few salient facts embellished the pictorial tour which shows a colorful grandstand, turf club, cocktail lounge, dining room, — facts such as these:

The grandstand will accommodate 6,000 persons while the racing strip will accommodate another 20,000 standing room. The race course will be elevated 18 inches to 3½ feet so that spectators will have a full view of the competing thoroughbreds; the desert soil intermixed with a rich deposit of clay will make for one of the world's fastest tracks; racing meets will be held twice yearly, in 30 day stretches, and will attract the finest horses in the finest stables; already, stall reservations have been made for nearly 1,000 horses for the first meet, scheduled for either October or next spring.

The current war problems will not affect the building of this super-duper luxurious layout because the materials were long ago contracted for and most of it is either on the grounds or en route. You can stop in and see for yourself, the popular Fisher man explained, because a road goes right to the construction area located just off the Paradise Road, about a half mile from Highway 91. The racing people this week are moving their headquarters to Highway 91 at the new road turnout to the park.

And more and more it looks like this racing plant will belong to the people in this area, as well as the many investors throughout

Air Beacons to Undergo Change

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A revision of its standards for intermediate fields and airways beacons in the interests of economy and efficiency has been announced by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Currently, it is believed, safety needs can be met if enough intermediate landing fields 200 miles apart in flat terrain, and 100 miles in rough, if beacon lights marking airports and hazards are in operation.

Surplus fields and beacons will be made available to state, county and municipal governments for aeronautical use.

National Security Board Explains Damage Expectancy of Atom Bomb

Much of the follows is taken from official documents already issued by the National Security Resources Board. It won't be exciting reading but it's barely possible it will save your life.

The Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombs caused total destruction and serious damage to buildings—death and injury to people—for two miles from the place on the earth above which the bomb was set off. The extreme limit of minor damage was about four miles (we don't need to worry, for a time, about superhydrogen bombs). It would be necessary to double the power of an A-bomb to increase the radius of severe damage and injury by one-fourth, or from two to two and one-half miles.

where the bomb exploded, on the depth of water, the type of bottom, and direction and force of the wind. At Bikini, the underwater test caused a 300-foot high cloud of mist which changed to a rain cloud and precipitated radioactive materials over the area. Underwater explosions, however, cause little damage on land, aside from radioactive contamination.

Like Effects of TNT
Speaking generally, the effects upon people by A-bombs are similar to those produced by TNT but with certain added factors. There is a great increase in the amount of heat and light radiated. Also, body-penetrating X-rays and particles blasted from the hearts of atoms are released.

Injuries to people from an A-bomb can be divided into four types. Those caused by blast pressure waves directly; those caused indirectly when buildings are wrecked; those caused by burns either in wreckage or from radiant heat (like super sunburn); those caused by penetrating rays and particles, either directly or through contact with contaminated materials (this was no factor in Japan).

Building Collapse Peril
In the case of a high-altitude explosion, some 15 per cent of the deaths probably will be caused by penetrating nuclear particles. The remaining 85 per cent of deaths will be caused by collapse of buildings and various types of burns.

Direct injury from radiant heat occurs instantaneously with the explosion of the bomb. Japanese people in the open suffered serious burns up to 4500 feet from ground zero (the point below the explosion), and moderate burns up to a maximum distance of 7500 feet over a mile and a third.

People also suffered injuries from penetrating nuclear radiation, but beyond a mile and a quarter injuries of this type were relatively unimportant. The danger from this direct injury by particles lasts for about one minute. Half of these injuries, it is said, actually occurred during the first second following the blast.

Shock Wave Speed
The shock wave from the blast sweeps outward from ground zero at about the speed of sound. Following the flash of light, it would take up to 10 seconds for the shock wave to reach you if you were two miles away. As indicated, a four-mile-diameter circle contained the areas of major damage and injury in Japan.

Nothing is more calculated to increase the likelihood of panic than the exaggeration and even intentional falsification of potential horrors. Thus, if someone tells you Los Angeles can be wiped out by a single bomb tell him he's a potential saboteur. Confront him with the following additional data concerning injury zones in any likely Russian bomb blasts:

State Fair Prizes Announced

FALLON, Nevada — Twenty-four cash prizes and two trophies will be awarded to the winners of thirteen classifications in the 1950 Nevada State Fair parade, which will be held in Fallon on Labor day.

This year's prizes are being awarded by five resort hotels of Las Vegas: El Rancho Vegas, Thunderbird, The Last Frontier, The Desert Inn and Flamingo, according to an announcement made last week by Lt. Governor Clifford A. Jones of Las Vegas, chairman of the Premium Award Sponsor's committee.

Two awards will be made in each of the following classifications: Fraternal, business, religious, civic, junior, rural, individual mounted group, mounted woman, mounted man, mounted junior, individual junior, and community or county unit.

In Boulder City entry blanks may be secured from: J. R. McQuilkin, manager Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce, John H. Wittwer and J. Hazel Zimmerman, County and home extension agents, M. M. Zenoff, Boulder City News, Neil Stewart, Vocal Agriculture Instruction, Overton.

First Graders' Fluoride Chart

Sodium Fluoride treatment of prospective first grader's teeth will be administered today and tomorrow at the high school field house by Dr. Chandler of the United States Health Service. Children who attended kindergarten in this area last year, and who will enter first grade this coming fall will be treated today. Those who attended morning classes, will have their teeth treated this morning, beginning at 9 a.m. Those who attended the afternoon classes, will have their teeth treated this afternoon, Friday, all youngsters who are prospective first graders, and are newcomers to the area, will have their teeth treated. As this treatment, which is a preventive measure for cavities, must be administered in a series, children will be advised as to the next date for further treatment, at the time that they receive their first treatment.

Nevada, Harley E. Harmon, Premium Award Committee, Clark County, Rodney Colton, Clark County Commissioner.

4 MONTHS SENTENCE
Edwin W. Kormsmyer, local resident, was sentenced by Justice of the Peace Charles Dohrenwend to serve four months in the county jail for car theft. The four months sentence was pronounced upon the recommendation of John Mowbray, deputy district attorney, who represented the state in the case. Jerry King, the owner of the stolen vehicle, signed the complaint.

Kormsmyer stole King's auto from in front of his home on the 23rd, and shortly after he had taken the car, he was involved in an accident. Kormsmyer was arraigned before Dohrenwend's court last Tuesday, where he pleaded guilty to the charges brought against him. Dohrenwend pronounced the sentence and gave the defendant a severe reprimand.

High Altitude Burst
A high burst in the air (2000 feet altitude) such as those in Japan, leave no dangerous amount of radioactivity on the ground. If, however, the explosion occurs close to the ground level radioactive contamination will be serious over a small area. Since maximum damage is caused by a 2,000-foot-altitude bomb, the enemy might favor that rather than a ground-level explosion. Effects of the latter tend to be decreased by hills and intervening structures.

An underwater explosion, under certain circumstances, can cause serious contamination. The area affected would depend on pepper on it; and please haste it this time so that the white isn't runny."

Edyth—"It's all ready your majesty. If you don't hurry, it will be cold."
Bill—"For gosh sakes, do you want me to cut myself? Brother, you have no gripe coming. If it took me as long to get ready as it takes you, then you would have something to talk about."

After Breakfast
Bill—"I've got to go now. See you at noon."

Edyth—"Bye. Bring home some stuff for lunch and dinner." Don't forget you promised to cut the grass tonight."

Bill—"O.K., don't heckle me."
After Lunch

Edyth—"Get home early this afternoon, so we can have an early dinner, and you can have plenty of time to mow the lawn."

Bill—"As I told you before, don't heckle me. You act as if I don't intend to do it. When I say that I am going to do something, I do it."
Edyth—"Yeah, I know you."

This has been pending for about three weeks now. I don't know which is worse; trying to get you to get a haircut or mow the lawn."
Bill—"Oh Edyth, you know that isn't true."
Edyth—"O.K., but don't forget the last time when it got so high that you could hardly push the lawn mower through the grass."

Bill—"I did that on purpose. I let it grow long just to see how it would be when I cut it. I thought it might improve the lawn. Boy, I'll be glad when the kids are old enough to do it."
After Dinner

Bill—"Boy that was a good meal. I feel like relaxing. Let's have our coffee in the living room."
Edyth—"Swell, but don't forget the lawn."

Bill—"Don't worry about it. It's still hot out. Wait until it cools off."
Edyth—"O.K., but don't forget, it has to be done tonight!"

Two Cups of Coffee Later
Bill—"I am going out to mow the lawn now."
Edyth—"O.K., I'll wash the dishes, and if you are through in time, we'll take a short ride, before we put the kids to bed."

Bill—"If we're going to go for a ride, I think that I'd better get the car checked, and get some gas put in it."

Edyth—"Can't you have that done when we get ready to go? You may not be back in time to mow the lawn."
Bill—"Don't worry, I'll be back in time. Besides, I operate and I have heard doctors say that you are not supposed to do strenuous exercise after a heavy meal. You are supposed to relax for a short while after every meal."

Edyth—"Ha! Relax! You don't let yourself get up enough steam to move your finger, let alone enough to overdo yourself. Well, if you insist on gassing up now, there is no sense in trying to talk you out of it. But, hurry back so you can cut the grass before we leave."
Bill—"Don't worry."
Many, Many Minutes Later

Edyth—"What did you do? Have a complete overhaul done on the car?"

Bill—"Oh now don't start that. They were busy at the gas station, and I saw Jack and he gave me some news items. Then I went to the post office, and Chuck stopped me about something, and I couldn't get away."

Edyth—"Well, it's too dark to mow the lawn now. Let's go for our ride."

Out Riding
Bill—"Say, Hon, do you think that you can get hold of that guy who has the power mower and have him cut our grass tomorrow?"
Edyth—"I guess so, but I don't think that we can afford it right now."

Bill—"I know, but it's so long, that I doubt if I can really cut it so that it looks presentable. You get hold of that guy and have him do it. Next time I won't let it get so long, and it will be pretty easy to do. I've been thinking about getting an electric motor and putting it on the mower. Then even you can cut it. OUCH Why did you kick me?"
