A Message From Lyal Burkholder

It is with considerable pride and pleasure that we welcome you to the Eleventh Annual Henderson Industrial Days celebration.

The Henderson Chamber of Commerce has long recognized Industrial Days as a community expression of real and meaningful value. Our recognition of the self-respect and esteem the Henderson citizen holds for our community makes it a gratifying experience for us to sponsor this celebration. Industrial Days also is a time to acknowledge the significant economic contribution that Henderson Industry is making to Henderson and Southern Nevada.

Individuals and community groups enter into the celebration of Industrial Days with such a cooperative spirit, we feel considerable progress is being made in making Henderson a better town in which to live.

We hope you will enjoy the many events being presented in this Eleventh Annual Henderson Industrial Days.

LYAL BURKHOLDER,

General Chairman

A COMMUNITY PROJECT - INDUSTRIAL DAYS

In 1952 a spirited group of Hendersonians got together and planned the first annual Industrial Days celebration. As it still is today, the first Industrial Days was a community expression of appreciation for the mammoth contribution Henderson's industry has made to the economy of this area.

That first group of citizens, consisting of such names as Lyal Burkholder, Lou LaPorta, Grace Byrne, Bob Woodruff, Nathan Van Wagenen, W. O. Haynes and Emmett Sullivan, probably had no idea that Industrial Days would eventually grow to its present proportions.

The 1962 Industrial Days Celebration features a huge parade with nearly 100 separate entries, a world's record drag race and sports car race on the new T-Bird Speedway, Junior Horse Show, the largest fireworks display ever presented in Henderson, a large array of professional and excellent amateur entertainment, square dancing, a beauty contest, numerous exhibits, a clean carnival offering something for every age. A new attraction this year is the City Fast Draw Championship.

From the original group of less than a dozen interested citizens, Industrial Days now requires the services of over a hundred people, contrivuting thousands of manhours to the planning and presenting of the many Industrial Days events.

It's a good sign when once each year an entire community can lay aside professional, political, and personal differences and work shoulder to shoulder to present an annual celebration that is second to none.

Industrial Days is truly a community project that behooves every Hendersonian to take part.
