Bob KENNARD and Helen SMITH are requesting that CCNGS members join them in publishing The Prospector. Helen has been working as the Editor, while Bob works as the Publisher.

Articles for The Prospector are ferreted out by Bob and Helen and also by CCNGS members who find or write articles on various topics about or relating to genealogy.

The Prospector is produced four times a year: January, April, July and October. We are hoping that those who are interested in helping to continue the publication will step up and learn what the process is so that they would be able to step into positions in the future.

If you like journalism, editing, and publishing (software) and would like to join us, speak with Bob KENNARD (522-0073) or Helen SMITH (458-5540) or notify someone on the Board of CCNGS of your interest. We would love to have you become a member of the team.

CCNGS FALL FAMILY HISTORY SEMINAR

The date for the Fall Family History Seminar is 22 October 2011, Place and Speaker(s) TBA.

BE PREPARED

By Helen SMITH (CCNGS)

Another New Year – 2011! Fast approaching will be the 1940 census. As genealogists, we can hardly wait. NOW is the time for you to prepare for your 1940 census research.

You need to analyze your data and look to see what families were “living” in 1940. You don’t need to waste your time for searching for Grandpa George if Grandpa George died in 1938.

Begin to define each family and who in that family was living in 1940. Write down the each person’s name. Record each individual who lived in this time period with their birth and death information/dates. Also, was this person married at that time; if so (or not), what was the surname of this person in 1940? If the person was a minor, who was the parent or guardian of this individual?

Where was each person living in 1940? Record this information with the name of each individual so that you don’t have to waste time looking back into your records to see if the person you found could be the right person; you have the information at your finger tips. If you are using a data base like Ancestry and you find a Tom JONES living in California and your Tom JONES never moved or left Ohio, you need to know that Tom JONES in California is NOT your Tom JONES.

For those who might be looking at the actual census film, record what individuals lived in the same community so that you can look for each of these individuals while looking at the film of this area/community and you won’t need to return to that film again and again with the names of additional family members.

The main idea is to define for whom you will be searching and where were living in 1940. Make your census research a fun and rewarding experience where you will be successful. Prepare in advance.

WAS GRANDPA A LUMBERJACK?

If your ancestor was making his living by logging, you might want to know these terms.

SWAMPER: cleared the road out/cut the trail – you “swamp the road out”; they also limb the trees;

SAWYER: cut the trees out – but they don’t limb the trees;

SKIDDER: skid the logs into the lake or river to move the logs.

(terms used in the upper mid-west)

Cousin Calculator

Genealogy is an interesting hobby, although tracing some of those family lines can get a bit confusing. Cousin Calculator helps you figure out what your relationship is to others in your family, or how other members of the clan are related to one another. This is a great site:

TIPS FROM READERS: Plausibility Factor

Ancient Mothers: Possible, but not Likely

By Gregg BONNER, Michigan

I have noticed that many people who publish genealogical material do not bother to test whether the information is plausible. This is usually due to a lack of event-date association. When precise dates are not known, people often neglect to enter any date information at all.

However, if the author had entered even the broadest of possible date ranges for the events in question, then he would recognize that the sequence as a whole is not plausible for ANY set of particular dates he might pose as a possibility. Once the date ranges were given, it would become clear that to make the line possible, one person would have to live to be well over 100, or else another person would have to be a grandfather at age 25, or else some other equally unlikely occasion would need to occur.

The problem with many such pedigrees is that they are maintained under the argument that they are possible, and no effort is made to see that they are also plausible. One of the greatest classes of offenders is the “ancient mother” syndrome.

Women really do not give birth to children in their 50s, except in extraordinarily rare instances. To illustrate my point, I take data from the United States Department of Health and Human Services, Center for Disease Control and Prevention, National Center for Health Statistics, 1998 Natality Statistics. These figures show that among the nearly four million live births in the United States in 1998, only about 160 of them were to women aged 50 and above. This represents approximately 0.004% of live child births.

The oldest age category given is age 54, for which there were six live births. To make the point more vivid, compare the five live births to mothers aged 10. Continuing the theme, there were 19 live child births to mothers aged 53, compared to 23 born to mothers aged 11. In sum, the total of live births to mothers aged 50 or more is LESS than the number of live births to mothers aged 12 or younger. Please note also that these data include all manner of modern fertility treatments that would not have been available to our ancestors.

I have had many people tell me that it is relatively common for women to have children in their mid-50s, only to proceed to point out several cases from their own database. These, however, are not cases of bona fide live child births to women aged 50 and greater – these are rather simply errors. In a database of 25,000 persons, you can expect a grand total of approximately ONE person to have been born to a mother aged 50 or more.

CIVIL WAR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS SYSTEM

The Civil War Soldiers and Sailors System is a computerized database. It contains basic facts about service servicemen who served on both sides during the Civil War.

The initial focus of the CWSS is the Names Index Project, a project

Interesting History

Where did Piss Poor come from?

They used to use urine to tan animal skins, so families used to all pee in a pot and then once a day it was taken and sold to the tannery.....if you had to do this to survive you were "Piss Poor"

But worse than that were the really poor folk who couldn't even afford to buy a pot.....they "didn't have a pot to piss in" and were the lowest of the low

The next time you are washing your hands and complain because the water temperature isn't just how you like it, think about how things used to be. Here are some facts about the 1500s:

Most people got married in June because they took their yearly bath in May, and they still smelled pretty good by June. However, since they were starting to smell Brides carried a bouquet of flowers to hide the body odor. Hence the custom today of carrying a bouquet when getting married.

Baths consisted of a big tub filled with hot water. The man of the house had the privilege of the nice clean water, then all the other sons and men, then the women and finally the children. Last of all the babies. By then the water was so dirty you could actually lose someone in it.. Hence the saying, "Don't throw the baby out with the bath water!"

Houses had thatched roofs-thick straw-piled high, with no wood underneath. It was the only place for animals to get warm, so all the cats and other small animals (mice, bugs) lived in the roof. When it rained it became slippery and sometimes the animals would slip and fall off the roof... Hence the saying "It's raining cats and dogs."

There was nothing to stop things from falling into the house. This posed a real problem in the bedroom where bugs and other droppings could mess up your nice clean bed. Hence, a bed with big posts and a sheet hung over the top afforded some protection. That's how canopy beds came into existence.

The floor was dirt. Only the wealthy had something other than dirt. Hence the saying, "Dirt poor." The wealthy had slate floors that would get slippery in the winter when wet, so they spread thresh (straw) on floor to help keep their footing. As the winter wore on, they added more thresh until, when you opened the door, it would all start slipping outside. A piece of wood was placed in the entrance-way. Hence: a threshold.

(Getting quite an education, aren't you?)

In those old days, they cooked in the kitchen with a big kettle that always hung over the fire.. Every day they lit the fire and added things to enter names and other basic information from 6.3 million soldier records in the National Archives. The facts about the soldiers were entered from records that are indexed to many millions of other documents about Union and Confederate Civil War soldiers maintained by the National Archives and Records Administration.

Other information includes: histories of regiments in both the Union and Confederate Armies, links to descriptions of 384 significant battles of the war, and other historical information to the pot. They ate mostly vegetables and did not get much meat. They would eat the stew for dinner, leaving leftovers in the pot to get cold overnight and then start over the next day. Sometimes stew had food in it that had been there for quite a while. Hence the rhyme: Peas porridge hot, peas porridge cold, peas porridge in the pot nine days old. Sometimes they could obtain pork, which made them feel quite special. When visitors came over, they would hang up their bacon to show off. It was a sign of wealth that a man could, "bring home the bacon." They would cut off a little to share with guests and would all sit around and chew the fat.

Those with money had plates made of pewter. Food with high acid content caused some of the lead to leach onto the food, causing lead poisoning death. This happened most often with tomatoes, so for the next 400 years or so, tomatoes were considered poisonous.

Bread was divided according to status. Workers got the burnt bottom of the loaf, the family got the middle, and guests got the top, or the upper crust.

Lead cups were used to drink ale or whiskey. The combination would sometimes knock the imbibers out for a couple of days. Someone walking along the road would take them for dead and prepare them for burial. They were laid out on the kitchen table for a couple of days and the family would gather around and eat and drink and wait and see if they would wake up. Hence the custom of holding a wake.

England is old and small and the local folks started running out of places to bury people. So they would dig up coffins and would take the bones to a bone-house, and reuse the grave. When reopening these coffins, 1 out of 25 coffins were found to have scratch marks on the inside and they realized they had been burying people alive. So they would tie a string on the wrist of the corpse, lead it through the coffin and up through the ground and tie it to a bell. Someone would have to sit out in the graveyard all night (the graveyard shift.) to listen for the bell; thus, someone could be, saved by the bell or was considered a dead ringer.

And that's the truth....Now, whoever said History was boring!!!

So...get out there and educate someone! ~~~ Share these facts with a friend.

Tip #11:

Book Indexes Make Selecting the Right Research Resource Easier

Books are a wonderful way to share information. Even with all of the amazing technology available today to help us with family history research, there's nothing like a good book cradled in your searching hands.

There are so very many books available today. How can you find the right history, data or informational text to take you where you need to go?

Step into the wonderful world of book indexing. Take a look at the Digital Book Index <<http://www.digitalbookindex.com/>>. Electronic technological resources are even improving the use of traditional methods of research!

There are many thousands of books online, but unless you know which book you're looking for, you may feel overwhelmed. Try using a book index to narrow your search.

FamilySearch Staff frequently teaches family history students to use a comprehensive book index right at our own Family History Expos. Take a look at the great indexing site at the Brigham Young University Library <<http://www.lib.byu.edu/fhc/index.php>>.

Another very popular index is GoogleBooks at <http://books.google.com>. This site breaks book titles down into manageable categories you can wrap your mind around!

Let book indexing work for you.

THE MANY FACETS OF THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES WEBSITE

This presentation focuses on the question,

"What Records Do They Have in the National Archives?"

Mr. BARTELS will demonstrate how genealogists can utilize the various descriptive tools on the National Archives website to determine for themselves records that may be useful in their particular family history research. He will also discuss the National Archives itself and how the billions of documents in its holdings are organized.

The session will concentrate on locating descriptions of records in the National Archives that are valuable to genealogists but are little known and little used. Handouts illustrating each of the search examples will be provided to participants.

RESEARCHING WOMEN THOSE ELUSIVE WOMEN

- Why are they so hard to identify?
- Where are their identities hiding?
- Using clues. Creative searching.
- New accesses to records.
- Can we break through the brickwall?
